When Ford shot Bigelow, Jesse immediately rushed into the room and changed guns and other marks of identification with the slain man, and escaped into the hiding that was destined to outdo Rip Van Winkle. During his seclusion, James earned a quiet living as a dealer in cattle and race horses, spending most of the time in Colorado, and passing under the name of "Jim Williams."

When he decided to return to public life, Jesse James obtained assurances in Washington that charges once in effect against him were no longer in force because there were no living vitnesses. Accompanied by a delegation of early settlers who had identified him, James also paid a visit to the Governor of Missouri and was told that when the $10,000 reward was paid to Bob Ford, the case was officially closed as far as the state of Missouri was concerned.

In his appearances at the Martin Theater, James will recount the highights of his most interesting experiences and will describe his escape in detail.

In addition to Jesse James in peron, the Martin Theater will present Hank Farris and Ann Alexander, cowboy entertainers, in their famous Australian whip-cracking and fancy roping act.

The screen attraction will be "Gun Smoke Trail," with Jack Randall. Shows at 3:30, at 6, at 8, and 10 'clock and Johns Creek road. 3. Completion of all Farm-to-Market roads, by W. P. A. labor if possible, maintenance of these routes by the state rural road fund.

4. A trade-at-home policy followed by merchants and customers alike. 5. Full co-operation with all county and city officials, insisting that lawmakers and enforcement officers themselves obey the law to the letter. 6. Continuance of the Floyd county health department and county agricultural agent work.

WHY NOT HELP THE FARMERS?

It is already well-known that The TIMES has never been critical of the WPA. This newspaper has always taken the position that, faced with a relief and unemployment problem nationwide, the WPA cannot but fail to do justice in some individual cases.

Yet we cannot but wonder why Floyd county farmers are not given at least an iota of consideration for WPA employment. The TIMES is told by the Certifying Agent that Floyd county is classed as an industrial county and that, as a consequence, only those previously engaged in labor on "public works"-mining, railroading, such like-may be placed at work by the WPA in Floyd county.

This is a rank injustice, but The TIMES does not point the accusing finger at any particular person or department. It does say most emphatically, however, that this status must be changed if all those in need of work, those direly in need of help in affording themselves and their families a subsistence, are to be given the service to which the WPA is dedicated, theoretically or otherwise.

The hillside farmers dot Floyd county. Most of them are good citizens, handicapped by environment and the resources of their land. Most of them have large families, and the income from their farms, is insufficient to support them. They cannot clothe and feed themselves and their wives and children during the spring and summer while their crops are being tilled and are growing. They, at the same time, must pay taxes on their farms-taxes which go, in part, toward making this WPA program possible.

There also is no argument against the unemployed miner, or any other man deprived of work, being given employment. It all swings back to who needs work-and any man to whom private employment has been denied, who cannot afford to remain idle, needs this sort of help which enables him to help himself.

In short, there is no argument against the farmer receiving WPA employment.

What must be made evident to the "powers that be" are the cold facts. The TIMES believes all this can be adjusted to the end that justice will be done. Floyd county is not merely an industrial county; it is both industrial and agricultural---a fact which must be recognized without delay.

TALKING SPEEDOMETER

N. W. Dendy of the Eastern Kentucky Automobile Club informs me that there now exists a device referred to as an oral speedometer which operates with a phonograph attachment. As you drive, Mr. Dendy reports, it talks to you for the good of your soul and the happiness of your loved ones as well as others you meet or overtake on the highway.

At 25 miles it remarks: "The city speed limit has been passed. Is there a motorcycle policeman behind you?"

At 35 miles: "Too fast for city driving. We hope you are now in the country.

At 45 miles: "Your car is still under control, but watch the car behind you and ahead of you."

At 50 miles: "Your responsibility is increasing. Keep your eyes on the road.'

At 60 miles: "Are your insurance premiums paid to date ?"

able to wade out.

fishing with William Larkin at the time of the accident and was trying to catch a pole thrown to him from the bank. The canoe went one way and Mr. Knox the other, to his dismay, and he found himself up to the chin in wahter that was not as warm as it could have been. It is alleged that he took the necessary precautions to escape catching pneumonia and his fishing activities were suspended during the day.

At 70 miles: "You drive-this attachment will do the praying."

At 80 miles: "Probably some one will have this car repaired. If so, we thank you for the sale of another speedometer to replace this one which, in a few minutes, is going to hell along with you."

(Editor's note-You're in the ditch now, and the talking speedometer might be able to croak out its final abjuration:

"Sure, Old Pal, you were not to blame for the cow in the middle of the road; cows should not be allowed on the road and neither should you. You won't be again, except when the ambulance arrives to whisk your remains back to your sorrowing family; then once more when the very, very careful driver hauls you out and away over the hills and the hurrying, speed-mad world will soon forget you. There are plenty more fools to take your place. OUCH! getting pretty hot now! One last word to the boys and girls back home from the old talking speedome-ter: "If you MUST drive, don't drink! If you MUST drink, don't drive! Well, here we are and the gates are wide open. Gimme your hand, Old Pal, let's go in together.")

THANKS

In frequent editorials The TIMES has asked that a park or playground be established in Prestonsburg to care for children.

This week Mrs. Grace Burke, area supervisor of the W. P. A. department of recreation, announces the opening of a playground for Prestonburg, that will undoubtedly be appreciated not only by the children who use the supervised playground, but by their parents who know they are safe, not loafing in places where they should not.

Too, sports are not all that the playground provides. Classes in handcrafts and "handart" will be taught; a kindergarten is provided for tots under special supervision---provision has even been made whereby adults may engage in the activities offered.

Such a playground has long been needed in Prestonsburg, and, as The TIMES congratulates Mrs. Burke for her part in its establishment, it knows that the playground will also be appreciated by every thinking citizen.

"UNK" RULED OUT

no difficulty in finding me, for my three older brothers' garments were three older brothers' garments were known far and wide, by size and NEWS OF BIG SANDY cut and color.

When there were so many children to be clad, and so little to clothe them with, it took magic to provide enough clothing. Fortunately cottonade and jeans are pretty tough and can stand several seasons, making due allowance for tears and scratches such as any boy's garments are subject to. Hickory shirts never wear out and can help raise a whole family of boys. All of these things shrink, though, and help in the natural process of growth to make clothes too small for the big boy. Now, I know that some defining is necessary at this point. "Hickory" is strong shirt material, thick and tough; "jeans" is heavy woolen cloth to make pants (and warm quilts from the scraps); "cottonade" is heavy cotton pants cloth (denim is it or something like it).

The small brother is waiting in suspense for the garments to become too small for the one up the line, waiting with wicked desires in his heart that earthquakes or floods or death may remove the cause of his humiliation. If there is still a younger brother, though, he can have his reward by feeling superior when the much-worn garment passes on down to the unfortunate little rascal. It is hard on a boy that does not grow rather fast, for then cast-off garments pile up on him. I was slow of growth and had my humiliation increased year by year. I had my share of garments, so far as numbers were concerned, but such numbers!

If a boy lives long enough, however, he comes to the day when he can have a suit or an overcoat or a pair of pants all his own. Never again can I feel as big as I did in my first overcoat, one bought just for me and not already a family relic. Some of us may have forgotten how deep was our sense of disgrace when we had to wear out a pair of Sister's shoes, but I suspect that we have never forgotten the sense of triumph when we could sail under our own colors, without being twitted by the big boys because of our museum of inherited clothing.

IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE

Pikeville-The Kentucky Public Service Commission Tuesday granted permission to the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company to change their service in Pikeville from the obsolete magneto system now in use to the modern common. battery type of instruments.

This change, according to E. E. Boardman, local manager, will make it necessary to rewire the home, office or store of practically every patron in Pikeville and already engineers of the company are making surveys for the work which is expected to get started within the next 60 days. It is estimated that six to eight months will be required to make the change, bringing the new service into use about January 1. This new type of telephone will speed up service as a light flashes on the central switchboard when the receiver is lifted from the phone hook, and it will not be necessary to ring central when a connection is desired as at present.

A large amount of money will be expended in making the improvement here and a new central office and complete new equipment will be necessary under the battery system.

One of the most important features provides that the council of the Kenutcky State Medical Association can protect the personnel and administrative officials from political interference. The outstanding features of the bill provides securing of qualified specialists in montal diseases for the state hospital staffs. The establishment of a system of mental hygiene, in cooperation with the public health service, making possible early treatment and cure of mental disaeses. Professional qualifications are required for technical members of the staffs of the state hospitals. The director of the division of hospitals and mental hygiene is to be appointed by the Commissioner of Welfare, from a list recommended by the Council of the State Medical Association. The director is to be in complete charge of the division and cannot be removed, except upon written charges sustained by a committee composed of the Governor, the Commissioner of Welfare, and a member named by the Council of the Medical Association.

Under the bill, the staff of each state hospital must include besides the superintendents, a business manager, clinical director, occupational theaphy director, supervisor of nurses, field liaison officer, dentist, senior and junior physicians. The authorized personnel is one physician to every 150 patients with a minimum of one to every 300, and one attendant to every eight patients with a minimum of one to every 12. The ratio of personnel to inmates in the Institution for Feeble-Minded Children is optional; but a director of education is provided.

The director of the division will have supervision of other institutions receiving aid from the state and give service to the prisons. He may utilize public health and welfare department social workers"in the general field of mental hygiene.

The bill requires psychiatric examination of all persons indicted cost of this treatment except in the case of pauper patients.

An important feature of this bill takes the personnel of the institution out of the political patronage class and will allow a permanent staff of experienced and qualified field specialists to treat and care for the mentally ill.

The bill contains humanitarian features that provide for systematic treatment and attempted cure of all mentally ill patients, in state institutions, not merely for confinement in state asylums. The division in cooperation with the state department of health will develop a statewide mental hygiene program looking toward the prevention of mental disease.

RANDOM SHOTS: The special session Chandler-Wallis bill threw into the limelight Commissioner of Welfare, Frederick A. Wallis, as a shining candidate in the next governor's race. The election in Pennsylvania brought glad tidings to Governor Chandler here in Frankfort. The Farley-backed candidate for Governor was defeated by a large majority. Senator Alben W. If he campaigns much in Kentucky, his opponent will charge him with neglect of his public duty in the Senate. If he doesn't, he leaves the field free to his opponent. ### GROUND HOG WEARS PLUG HAT

John Dawson, of the Frankfort Road, has a ground hog on his place that wears a plug hat. Possibly it would be more nearly correct to say that Mr. Dawson has a ground hog on his place that wore a plug hat, because John got after the gentleman and the ground hog is no more.

Anyway, John was out on the farm last week and saw something that made his eyes pop. Previously he had thrown away a tall tin can that had contained some kind of foodstuff, and there was enough in it to attract the adventurous hog. So Brother Groundhog stuck his snoot deep into the can to get what was at the bottom, then he went to pull his head out and it was no go. The can stuck tight, and all the antics of the animal could not get it off.

When John first saw it, it was on its hind legs, staggering like some gay Lothario who was feeling high. The "hat" was down over its eyes so that it could not see, and its capture was therefore made easy.

Mr. Dawson says from now on he will place cans at strategic points over the farm and in this way rid the place of the ground hogs-if it works .- Anderson News.

The ruling was made by Umpire Millis when an unidentified man appeared at his office to secure a marriage license to wed his niece, a pretty young girl of approximately 18 years of age. She was a daughter of his sister.

After reading from the rules book of the League of the State of Kentucky that such a marriage was prohibitive, the prospective goom, after much grumbling, took his departure with his bride-elect.

CUTTING DOWN CLOTHES

f you have worn made-over clothing of your parents or of older brothers or sisters, you will understand the title of this article. If you were an older child or else lived in more modern times, you may not know enough to sympathize with us younger brothers and sisters. We youngsters of a generation ago felt, quite often, our greatest humiliation when we appeared in public clad entirely in well-recognizable garments, in spite of their having been cut down to fit us. Worse still, we often had to wear cast-off cloth-ing just as it was, regardless of our size or shape. As I am very short of legs, I have had to suffer agonies by wearing pants that had to be rolled up, and the bag at the knee made the lower part of my leg look like Alley Oop's ample ankles. # Paid Only $16 . . . . Estate Received $1,000.00

Kenis Elswick, Praise, Pike county, Ky., shortly after midnight on April 1, was killed in an auto accident. "Sudden and unexpected" death was his lot. But---

Just a year before, he had applied for a Business Men's Income Special Accilent policy.

He was killed after paying only one premium of $16---his estate was paid--ut let the facsimile of the check received tell the remainder of the story.

The hills of Kentucky furnishes some of the best statesmen and soldiers, and now is the time for us to have something in return for our loyalty.

High Quality-First choice rubber and selected cotton that conform to Firestone's high standards and rigid specifications.

Long Mileage - Safe, silent tread design made of tough, slow wearing rubber that assures long mileage. Sturdy bars and rugged notches give protection against skidding.

Blowout Protection-Nine extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. Every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber which counteracts internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Puncture Protection - Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread protects against punctures.

New Low Prices - Never before have all these safety and economy features been combined in a tire priced so low.

Don't take chances on your holiday trip. Come in today. Let us put a set of these large size, rugged, long wearing tires on your car - remember, you save 25%.

It is believed that through the cooperation all local men have given the movement and by the spirit manifested by the leaders in Washington, the project will be accomplished in the near future.

As soon as the land can be purchased the forestry department will begin the work of clearing away underbrush, preparing roads and complete the Breaks of the Sandy into the finest forest in the state with thousands of tourists being attracted here each year. This will be a great benefit to this section, not only scenic but also financial as the annual stream of tourists increases the popularity of this great spot of beauty.

between EAST and WEST"

IN the State of Virginia of 1847, east was east and west was west, with the Blue Ridge mountains looming between. But the means to union were already taking form.

Q That was a great year in Chesapeake and Ohio history, for its predecessor company-the little 49 mile Louisa Railroad-made two important decisions: to tunnel the Blue Ridge at Rockfish Gap and to undertake all operations on its line. This second decision involved the purchase of equipment, and it was a proud day for the Louisa's owners when they inspected their first locomotives. Of The stockholders were told by the president, Colonel Edmund Fontaine:

"... a contract was made for three engines, two of which have arrived ... the third is on the way ... We trust the day is not far distant when this noble machine shall become the mediator between the East and the West . break down the wall of partition between eastern and western interests, and proclaim eternal union between the mountains and the lowlands."

O No one gazing at the 141/2-ton locomotive on that June day of 1847 could imagine how successfully the dream would be realized ... by the truly "noble machines" of today-the powerful 400-ton Chesapeake and Ohio engines that speed passengers and freight across two mountain ranges from the Atlantic seaboard to the Middle West, thus helping daily to maintain "the eternal union between the mountains and the lowlands."
