

SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

THURSDAY

This Town— That World

The crawfish are beginning to throw up higher mounds of fresh clay as they dig deeper. We wouldn't presume to forecast the weather, what with our reputation for being wrong most of the time, but dry weather is indicated.

Anyway, there have already been in August as many rainless days as we had in all July.

Did you ever stop to think that a lot of us might be guilty of the perfect crime? You know, do so little we leave not a fingerprint or footprint behind after we're gone.

MIGHT SECEDE

You, whoever you are that adds the stars to the flag, sew one in for Alaska and leave room for two more.

One of these other two stars will represent Hawaii. The other may stand for the Free and Independent State of East Kentucky!

The Mountain Eagle, published at Whitesburg, tells how this idea for a new state carved out of these hills was born. A Whitesburg group put heads together over several cups of coffee, the other morning. Out of that potpourri came the idea for the new state of East Kentucky—"unless state officials and the rest of Kentucky do something more than pay lip service to problems here."

As a consequence, a mass meeting will be held at the Letcher county courthouse tomorrow evening (Friday) at 8 o'clock.

COURT ORDER VALID, CLAIM

Fiscal Court's Answer To Appeal Avers Action Legal and Not Arbitrary

"The fiscal court is the governing body of the county and when its acts are legal and not arbitrary, then it is the duty of the County Attorney to abide by its order," Hollie Conley, attorney representing the court, argued last week in his answer to the appeal filed by County Attorney Robert S. Wellman seeking to void the court's action toward contesting the lawyer's fee of about $12,000 allowed Jesse K. Lewis, of Lexington.

For that reason, it was argued, the County Attorney had no appeal from the court's order, Conley argues.

The Wellman appeal was filed after he had refused to represent the fiscal court in fighting the fee allowed Lewis in a suit against W. W. Burchett. The court then employed Commonwealth's Attorney Conley to represent it, and Wellman appealed that action of the court was unanimous and that it was the opinion, and still is, of every member that the fee allowed Lewis by Special Judge Lawrence F. Speckman was unreasonable and excessive. The answer contends that if County Attorney Wellman had proceeded as directed by the court the only expense to the county would have been the court costs.

PLANNING COMMISSION STUDIES AREA ROADS

TOP PRIORITY GIVEN ROUTE FOR VALLEY

Access to Blue Grass Top Need, Oates Told; Dam, Park Are Talked

Jenny Wiley State Park and Dewey Lake, the Fishtrap dam and roads to serve Eastern Kentucky—all came in for study and discussion at the meeting here Monday of the Eastern Kentucky Planning Commission.

Called on by Highway Commissioner Ward J. Oates for a decision as to the one "big" highway most needed by the area, the Commission gave top priority to a high-speed, heavy-load route from the Pikeville section of the Big Sandy downriver via Prestonsburg, thence to Salyersville to Campton, Winchester and the growing industrial area in and around Lexington.

First of all, the Commission recommended improvement of the road from Slade to Winchester and new work from Slade back into Big Sandy.

Such a route, it was explained would prepare the way for the establishing of small plants in the Big Sandy and elsewhere along the route to make parts for the larger plants located in the Central Kentucky area.

Other routes urged are immediate improvement of U. S. 25-E from Corbin through Barbourville and making U. S. 119 a priority road to facilitate access to Southeast Kentucky from Pineville to the West Virginia line and Pikeville, with first consideration on the latter road to be given to the Page-to-Harlan sector.

In a discussion of improvements at Jenny Wiley State Park it was said that plans for the cottages proposed will be submitted to the Commission before a final decision is made at Frankfort. It has been suggested to Governor Chandler and Conservation Department officials that inside plumbing be provided for the cabins. Harry LaViers, of Paintsville, a member of the Commission, was emphatic in his contention that it is a mistake to build the type of cabin heretofore suggested. Actual work on the improvements may be some time distant.

Attention of the Commission was called to the difficulties that may arise in procuring property rights behind the proposed Fishtrap impoundment where the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad has a spur line leading to coal properties. Relocation or abandonment of the line will be necessary if the dam is to serve adequately

Pikeville Church Calls Stratton

Rev. William Lowell Stratton was recently assigned as assistant pastor of the Pikeville Methodist church and has assumed duties there. He is a son of W. N. Stratton, of Ashland, and a grandson of Rev. Isaac Stratton, of Banner.

Rev. Stratton is a graduate of Ashland Senior high school, the University of Kentucky College of Arts and Sciences and received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Chandler School of Theology, Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., with the June class this year.

Rev. Stratton, who was appointed to the Pikeville church by Bishop T. Watkins, of Louisville, was director of the choir of the Wesley Foundation at the University of Kentucky and at Emory was minister of music at Mary Branham Memorial Methodist church in Silvan Hills, Atlanta.

He is married to the former Miss Ann Wise, of Somerset, a 1955 graduate of the University of Kentucky.

DRIVER FACES DEATH CHARGE

Newsome Bond, $6,000 After Boy, 11, Is Killed Near Grethel Last Week

Adrian Newsome, 32 years old, was held under $6,000 bond to answer to the September grand jury after he had been given examining trial here Saturday on a voluntary manslaughter charge growing out of the death of 11-year-old Kermit Evans when struck by Newsome's auto near Grethel late last Thursday afternoon.

The boy stood beside his tricycle at the roadside when struck. He died almost instantly. The shattered tricycle was kept this week at County Judge Henry Stumbo's office as a possible exhibit at Newsome's trial.

One Commonwealth witness testified she was standing in the doorway of her home when she saw Newsome pass, driving fast, saw the car leave the surfaced portion of the road and hit the boy who was standing off the blacktop.

Newsome testified an approaching car forced him off the road, that he was within 20 feet of the child before he saw him and that he made every effort to prevent the tragedy. State Trooper Leach, testifying for the Commonwealth, said, however, he saw no skid marks on the highway to indicate an effort to stop, that Newsome drove for some distance with the wheels on one side of his car off the blacktop and that he smelled alcohol on Newsome.

Newsome was held also under $500 bond to appear later in quarterly court for trial on a drunk driving charge.

The victim was a son of Bill and Fanny Evans, of Grethel. The parents, two sisters, Darlene and Varlene, and a brother, Randall, survive. Funeral rites were conducted Sunday from the residence by the Revs. Jack Hall, Johnny Hall, Butler Howell and E. V. Hamilton. Burial in the family cemetery was directed by the J. J. Brothers Funeral Home.

WOMAN TELLS MURDER PLOT

Defendant Sane, Verdict Of Jury after She Tells Story of Lackey Murders

Battling to prevent her commitment to a mental institution, a Floyd county woman Monday not only convinced a jury that she is sane but also told a story that had officials wondering if the information she has may not unravel the mystery surrounding two slayings in the vicinity of Lackey upwards of a quarter-century ago.

Claiming that she was here, accused of a mental disorder simply because she knew about the murders and was talking too much, the woman, 46-year-old Martha Bradley Taylor, of Lackey, told judge, jury and all assembled in the courtroom that she knew the details of the fatal shooting of Lacey Triplett and Bill Wicker at or near Lackey years ago.

She named three men, two of whom are yet living, as having been accomplices, two as plotting and paying the gunman and the third as driving the gunman to the scenes of the crimes. Mrs. Taylor said the actual slayer may now be in a Tennessee prison. She named the man.

Wicker and Triplett were shot to death in Knott county, a short distance across the Floyd-Knott line, officials here said. If the slayings are reopened for investigation, they said, it will be done by Knott county authorities.

The separate slayings have remained clouded by mystery over the years, and nobody was ever convicted of the crimes.

Two physicians who examined Mrs. Taylor said "something is wrong with her," and suggested 30-day treatment for her. So did her husband, Corbett Taylor. But the all-male jury, after listening to her story, decided otherwise.

Abshire Buys Interest Of Partner In Theatre

Announcement has been made of the purchase by Jack Abshire of the one-half interest of his partner, George Hereford, in the Prestonsburg Drive-In Theatre. Amount involved in the transaction was not disclosed.

Hereford and Abshire established the theatre here in June, 1949. Mr. and Mrs. Hereford have moved to Ft. Pierce, Fla., their winter residence for years, to reside permanently.

German Youth Floyd Visitor

Albert M. Becker, of Germany, an International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE), will arrive in Floyd county this week to spend the next three weeks in the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Martin, of Langley.

This is the second time this summer that Floyd countians have welcomed a foreign visitor, Police

Fair Board Schedules Meet At Library Bldg.

A meeting of the Floyd County Fair Board is scheduled for this evening (Thursday) at the Regional library building here. The meet will start at 7:30. Jesse Elliott, chairman said.

The main purpose of the meeting is to turn in all advertisements sold and other information needed for completion of the fair catalog.

"If you are in charge of either selling advertisements or committee chairman responsible for material to be printed in catalog plan to be prepared at this meeting to turn it in as the catalog will go to print August 11," Elliott said.

"Progress is being made toward a successful fair this year but full cooperation of each member is needed to carry out a county fair," he added.

SCHOOL BUDGET SETS $100 YEAR PAY RAISE

The budget approved by the Floyd County Board of Education at its July meeting has already provided for a raise in pay for all Floyd county teachers of approximately $100 a year, County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner said this week.

Mr. Turner pointed out this raise when quizzed about the possibility of reaching the $200-a-year raise requested in a resolution recently adopted by a committee of the Floyd County Teachers Association.

He pointed out that this raise was made possible as a result of increased property assessment and not from the so-called "Lee-way Fund", which under the Minimum Foundation program provisions is already earmarked for a variety of purposes such as payment of sick leave, extra transportation costs, liability insurance and others.

Mr. Turner added that teacher salaries paid by Floyd county are the highest paid in any Eastern Kentucky school district.

The Board of Education at its Tuesday meeting awarded to the Eastern Construction Company, Paintsville, contracts for building of additions to the Allen and Martin schools on the firm's low bid of $73,978.90. The work at Allen will include one classroom and a luncheon while that at Martin will add two classrooms, a lunchroom and toilets.

The Board was highly pleased with the contract. Some bids offered ranged far higher, one being offered at $140,800. The work is to be completed in 150 days.

The Board approved future construction of an eight-classroom building on the present grounds of the McDowell consolidated school. The structure, estimated to cost $70,000, will be ready for use next year. Bonds will be floated to finance the cost.

The Statewide Insurance Agency was awarded the school bus insurance for the entire fleet on its bid of $2,067.79.

Forty-eight teachers were employed at this week's Board meeting. Names of those hired and the

Cook Procures Warrants For Three Dog Owners In Dewey Lake Region

Roy Cook, Floyd county dog warden, procured warrants for three dog owners in the Dewey Lake section of Johns Creek last week following the biting of six children, four of them Girl Scouts, near Camp Chatterawha July 24. Warrants were procured for John P. Clifton, Maryland Goble and Goodwin Clark. The three were charged with owning six unlicensed dogs.

It was said by Cook that Clark's dog fought with the rabid dog after biting the Girl Scouts and others. All three refused to have their dogs vaccinated, Cook said.

The dog warden destroyed 70 strays last month. He found one hollow on Beaver Creek where five families owned 27 unlicensed and unvaccinated dogs. Cook pointed out that the owners assisted him in killing all but five of the animals.

OAK DISEASE IS SPREADING

Forestry Personnel Make Complete Aerial Survey Of Six Eastern Counties

Forestry personnel are of the opinion that oak wilt, a fungus disease that destroys oak species, is on the increase here to some extent. Results of a 100 per cent aerial survey discovered 27 trees suspected of infection and reports to date of 20 of them show positive diagnoses.

The aerial survey of all the counties of Floyd, Pike, Knott, Lawrence, Magoffin and Martin counties comprising the Eastern district, was completed recently. Only a part of the ground survey remains to be completed. Last year only a 25 per cent survey was attempted and only two trees in the county were found to be infected.

Bill Music, district forester here, in commenting on the survey results, says that possibly the greater number of infected trees found could be attributed to the complete survey. However, he is inclined to think the infestation is growing. No new infestation was found where eradication was made last year by poisoning the infected oaks.

Glendon E. Keaton, of the U. S. Forestry Service, was here recently from West Virginia to inspect the results of the oak wilt survey. He commended the personnel of the Eastern District of Kentucky for its efficient and well-organized survey. It was the best he had seen, he said.

Making the survey in this and other counties were District Forester Music; Oliver Hall, forest guard; and forestry students from the University of Kentucky. The plane was made available by Freddy Blackburn, of Wheelwright, who operates Freddy's Flying Service.

Roe Turner, forest ranger, and District Forester Music observed that once oak wilt attacks a tree there is no known remedy and that control measures consist of cutting and poisoning it. The disease is spread by root graft and by insects.

PETITION ASKS NEW ELECTION

Advocates of New Vote Say Voting Not Secret In REA Co-Op Election

A petition was being circulated this week among members of the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative asking that a new election be held to elect a board of directors of the cooperative.

Bill Wells, Prestonsburg, who received 615 votes at the annual meeting at Paintsville, July 12, was adjudged ineligible to become a director on the grounds he was not a bona fide resident of a section served by the cooperative.

Wells, who was opposed by Elzie Calhoun, of Cliff, charges that he received 615 votes to 567 for Calhoun and that the secrecy of ballot required by the by-laws was destroyed when voters were required to register and upon being given a ticket with their name on it, the ticket was then attached to the ballot.

Woodrow Branham, William Hicks and Calhoun were named directors of the board at the last meet. Wells says he received as many votes as William Hicks and a majority of 48 votes over Calhoun. Votes as tabulated in the election were: William Hicks, 615; Woodrow Branham, 592; Virgil Smith, 597, and Ellis Sexton, 529.

AUXILIARY HEARS REPORT

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church heard the report given by the women of the Pikeville Church at their meeting Tuesday evening at the church. Miss Daisy Miller, Auxiliary president, presided. All business was dispensed with in order for the program to be presented. Representing the Pikeville church women were Mrs. A. A. Page, Mrs. Hoover and Miss Francis Pierce. Mrs. Page, the moderator of the group, gave many interesting facts about the National Council of Presbyterian Women who met at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana last April. The next meeting will be held in the spring of 1961. Five thousand women from every state of the union and all foreign countries having Presbyterian churches attended this meeting for Presbyterian Churchwomen. The theme for the Council meeting was, "He is Lord of All."

The outstanding feature of the Council was the huge, stained glass window designed by a Presbyterian woman portraying the symbols of the church and all its meanings and activities. A replica of this window was exhibited at the meeting here, with lights behind it showing its beauty. Mrs. Hoover, the narrator, explained each symbol pointing out the worth of it to all churches. Miss Pierce, representing the youth group of the church, gave a report of the council meeting of five days. Mrs. Page filled in the report gaps. Mrs. Rex Osborne and Miss Alma Collins were hostesses to the Auxiliary, serving punch, cake and nuts to Mrs. Page, Mrs. Hoover, Miss Francis Pierce, of Pikeville, Mesdames Frank H. Layne, Marvin Music, Ernest Osborne, Ray Howard, Tom Allen, David Leslie, Rainey White, W. V. Bunting, Fred James, Everett Sowards, F. L. A reception followed at the Green Meadows Country Club, Route 1, Pikeville. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will make their home in Kingston, N. Y.

Child Service Discusses Adoptive Program Here; Parents' Home Best, Said

The Division of Children's Services adoption program was discussed by Mrs. Irene Campbell and Mrs. Eva Horne, County child welfare workers at the Floyd County Social Service Advisory Committee meeting held here last Thursday.

Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Horne recounted that, as was stated at an earlier meeting of the Committee, the first emphasis of the Department of Economic Security is to keep children in their own homes with their own parents or relatives when possible. For children who cannot return to their parents, the Department strives toward permanent placement in an adoptive home. This is done only after the Circuit Court has been properly advised that permanent separation of child and parents is in the child's best interest. After all rights of the parents have been legally terminated, the Department, through its professional staff, gives careful and individual attention to the needs of each child when selecting his adoptive parents.

They informed the Committee that the Division of Children's Services is now in the process of developing additional ways and means of increasing its adoptive resources for older children, Negro children and family groups. It is comparatively easy to maintain an adequate resource for white infants, they stated.

Members of the local Social Service Advisory Committee are: Judge Henry Stumbo, Mrs. Regina Mayo, Mrs. Avenelle Cooley Wells, Mrs. Buena R. Howell, H. B. Ranier, Clive Akers, J. B. Clark and Rev. Carl Senters.

Arts, Crafts Workshop Plans Year's Program

The Arts and Crafts committee of the Prestonsburg Senior Woman's Club met recently with Mrs. H. L. Ley, director of the Arts and Crafts Workshop. Plans for workshop activities for the coming club year were made.

The following women were chosen to direct the various phases of the workshop program: Mrs. H. L. Ley, director and enrollment; Miss Fannie Mae Howell, material and equipment; Mrs. Hobart Frazier, properties; Mrs. W. W. Allen, telephone; Mrs. Wm. E. Hunt, housing.

The committee plans two workshop groups this fall. Mrs. Marvin Music will instruct the class in dry flower arrangement in September. Since interested members should start at once to gather the dry flowers, seed pods and weeds for this class, Mrs. Music suggests they get in touch with her for mimeographed copies of instructions for preserving and drying suitable materials.

Mrs. E. R. Burke, will hold a series of October classes in shell craft. Women's handbags and various novelties will be decorated. Both workshop activities will be night classes.

Many interesting work groups will be scheduled for the coming year, and members of the Prestonsburg Senior and Junior Woman's Clubs and the David Woman's Club are eligible and invited to use facilities of the Arts and Crafts Workshop.

Miss May, Mr. Williams Wed In Church Ceremony, Aug. 2nd

The marriage of Miss Barbara Jean May, daughter of Mrs. Andrew Jackson May, Jr., and the late Mr. May, to Mr. James Lewis Williams was solemnized at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church Saturday, August 2 at 3:30 p.m. Mr. Williams is the son of Mrs. Marjorie Williams, of Maysville, Kentucky.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ira McMillen. The bridal music was presented by Mrs. Marguerite M. Sharp, cousin of the bride, at the organ, and Miss Laura Virginia Roberts was vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, James Andrew May, wore a gown of silk mist taffeta and Alencon lace fashioned with lace yoke, short shirred sleeves and a lace applied waistline was scalloped over a full, gathered skirt which was accented across the back with a wide lace insertion and a brush train. Her headress was a matching lace and tulle Juliet cap scattered with seed pearls with a finger-tip veil of French illusion. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of bride's roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Barbara Ann Mandt, of New York City, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Jack Hyden, of Prestonsburg, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Both attendants wore floor-length ballet blue chiffon dress with draped bodice ending in floating panels in the back. Their garden hats were of ballet blue horsehair braid trimmed in matching velvet, and they carried arm bouquets of mixed garden flowers.

Mr. Gene Oliver, of Williamson, West Virginia, served as best man. Ushers were Clifford B. Latta, cousin of the bride, of Prestonsburg, David Van Horn, Lexington, Ky., and James Miniard, also of Lexington.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. May wore a pale blue embroidered organza dress with a matching blue organza hat. Her accessories were white and her corsage was a natural orchid. Mrs. Williams chose an aqua embossed dress with matching hat and her corsage was a natural orchid.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of Mr. Andrew Jackson May, Sr., grandfather of the bride.

These Statements Fail To Convince

Economic Security Commissioner Vego E. Barnes was quoted this week as saying he is highly pleased with the nineteen "informational meetings" held for public-assistance recipients in the state.

"We," Barnes was quoted as saying, "have learned a great deal about the needs of the thousands of needy people and we shall be able to make recommendations to the Governor and General Assembly calculated to give more relief to them."

This statement smacks strongly of insincerity. Unless these five or six representatives of the Department of Economic Security who are making the rounds have clairvoyant powers, we cannot see how they learn "a great deal" in the few minutes they spend in a milling gathering of several hundred persons such as showed up for the meeting here last month.

The last we had heretofore heard from the Department was a statement to the effect that these meetings were being held to acquaint the aged, the crippled, the blind with the workings of the public-assistance program. Now it appears that the purpose of calling these people together—sometimes from long distances and at an expense they cannot afford to bear—is for state workers to learn something about them.

Either excuse fails to convince. A mimeographed letter and a three-cent stamp would have given the recipients far more detailed information than could possibly be given by word of mouth in a few minutes at meetings such as are being held.

And as for learning more about the needs of the unfortunate—why were all those case histories so painstakingly compiled, all those home visits so faithfully made if these were not for the purpose of acquainting the Department with the condition and the needs of the recipients?

HEALTH NOTES

By Floyd County Health Department

Precautions to avoid food poisoning should be taken in food preparation for a picnic, urges Mrs. Sarah Vance Dugan, director, Division of Foods and Drugs, Kentucky State Department of Health.

Families on an outdoor expedition are interested in appetizing foods but these should be clean, nutritious and free from food poisoning.

The first rule of any food preparation is to wash your hands thoroughly. If there is a cut or injury on your hand, it probably contains germs that cause food poisoning, so be extra careful. It is wise not to touch food with your hands if a fork or spoon can be used.

Picnicking combined with warm weather increases the possibility of good poisoning. Germs can be transferred to food from the cook's hands, or kitchen utensils.

These germs require warmth and moisture to grow, so food should be refrigerated for your protection. Without refrigeration these germs multiply quickly, says Mrs. Dugan. Sandwiches made with perishable fillings (such as sliced ham or ham salad, creamed cheese, egg or chicken salad, salad dressing) should be refrigerated up to the time of serving if possible. Never leave such foods out of the refrigerator except during serving time.

Stop by your Floyd County Health Department for the pamphlet, "Foods for a Picnic," which will give you additional tips.

CORRECTION

Editor, The Times:
In last week's Floyd County Times there was an item about a birthday party listing the little boy's name as "Butch Bradley." This is not true. His name is Val F. Strahan III, as the birth records show. I want this corrected. He has not been adopted, as court record shows. Please see that this is made public in your next issue.

Thank you.

FARM NOTES

By Robert M. Jones
County Agent

FOREST TREE SEEDLINGS

Now would be a good time to check those young forest trees set out last year. The extra amount of rainfall has caused excessive brush growth. These bushes will smother out many of the young seedlings, unless they are held in check. This can be done by cutting off bushes. Where pine seedlings were set, it would be a good idea to paint the stump to prevent sprouting. Every farmer who set trees should protect his investment by controlling the brush growth.

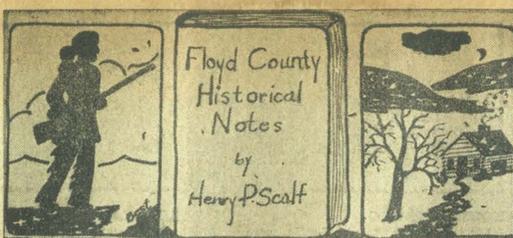

Think of these young trees as any other crop, that has to be cared for to reap a profitable harvest. If they are not properly tended, the harvest will be light, if they are treated properly, the harvest can be very profitable.

FALL GARDENS

This year spring and summer gardens have been exceptionally good. Why not carry this through to a good fall garden. It will be much easier to prepare garden land for fall gardens this year than it has for several years. The rains have kept the soil loose, and easy to work. Instead of thinking of the rains as a problem, think of the advantage you can make of them. As summer vegetables mature pull them up and make a compost pile, to be used next year. This area should then be used for fall crop.

A heavy application of fertilizer will need to be applied before sowing new crop. The spring garden probably removed all the plant food supplied in the spring fertilization. On the leafy fall vegetables use a fertilizer high in nitrogen such as 10-10-10 or 12-12-12.

Vegetables that can be sown in August are kale, Bibb head and leaf lettuce, mustard, radishes, and turnips. These vegetables will supply fresh, green vegetables until hard freezes.

LOONEY FAMILY

The Looney family, little known in the Big Sandy Valley because it is chiefly situated in Virginia and West Virginia, is descended from Robert Looney who built a home before the Revolution on the James River. Years afterward he established a ferry, and a marker erected by the Virginia Historical Society, now has the legend:

"Looney's Ferry, Established in 1742, Was The First Crossing Over The James River in This Section. On The Opposite Side of The River Was Cherry Tree Bottom, Home of Col. John Buchanan, and Above the Mouth of This Creek Stood Ft. Faquier, 1758-1763."

Robert Looney's sons were wanderers with an urge to reach and explore the unknown places. One son was Absalom who gave his name to Ab's Valley in Southwest Virginia. It was this valley in which Thomas and Jenny Wiley lived when Mrs. Wiley was carried into captivity into Kentucky by the Indians. It still retains the name of its first settler.

Absalom Looney was one of the first white men, some say the first, to enter Southwest Virginia. He lived in a cave in Ab's Valley, which is now in Tazewell county but was killed by the Indians and lies buried in an unmarked grave.

Absalom's brother, John, died leaving two sons, Joseph and Jackson, fatherless. The mother of these two sons married again and the stepfather disliked the two boys. Another brother, Robert, Jr., settled in what is now Buchanan county on the banks of Levisa Fork of Big Sandy. One day the two fatherless boys decided that they would try to find their uncle, Robert, Jr., and in 1823 they found the cabin where he was living. Joseph went to work and established a home at the mouth of Big Prater. Jackson went on down the river to the mouth of what is now known as Looney's Creek and built a home. Joseph married Polly, one of Robert's daughters. In 1839 Robert became dissatisfied and cut down a large poplar tree and dug out a canoe, that legend says, was forty feet long, put his belongings into this canoe and when a tide came, he and his family took off down the river.

They drifted to the Ohio where they enlisted the aid of a steamboat that towed them up stream to Point Pleasant, then up the Kanawha to mouth of Poca Creek where they pushed their canoe about 12 miles. At this spot they spent one year. Next year they got wagons and pushed their way up Poca Creek twenty miles where they spent another year. From there they went on another twenty miles to what is now Looneyville, W. Va.

In 1941 the Looney's in Buchanan county Va., decided to have a reunion. They invited their friends and more than three thousand people came. John W. Looney of Spencer, W. Va., came and said he remembered his father telling about the trip in the canoe.

On August 10 Looneys from all parts of the nation will gather at the Forks of Prater to commemorate the 135th anniversary of the coming of the Looney brothers and join with the citizens of Buchanan county in celebrating their years in America.

A large per cent of the population of Buchanan county is connected with the Looney family and plans are being made to take care of one of the largest reunions in the history of the county.

Today many of the Looney clan are established in Pike county, a few in Floyd and a sizeable portion of the family in the Tug River valley.

MUSICK REUNION

The Musick family of Southwest Virginia will have its annual reunion on Weaver's Creek, Russell county, Virginia, August, 24, according to Rev. G. G. Musick, pastor of the Anthony Baptist church, Anthony, W. Va.

"Weaver's Creek, where the reunion is to be held," Rev. Musick writes, "is about six miles from Cleveland, Va. The reunion will be held at the Elbert F. Musick place. As president of the reunion, I invite members and relatives of the family from everywhere to come."

Capitol Notebook

Frankfort, Aug.—Ronnie Rhody's Kentucky Fishing Forecast may be the first network radio program of its kind in the nation.

Modest Ronnie, of the State Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, gives a good deal of the credit to the two oil companies which are footing the bill for the statewide broadcasts.

The Forecast is aired live from Frankfort over 23 stations each Thursday afternoon. It provides complete and up-to-the-minute information on statewide fishing prospects, an extended weather forecast and a rundown on road and travel conditions by courtesy of Kentucky State Police.

MORE SCHOOL KIDS

THE NUMBER of school-age children in Kentucky April 1 had increased by 9,357 over the previous year.

The Department of Education reported that school census figures for the past school term show 727,515 school-age children. The figure includes all children 6-18 years of age who live in the Commonwealth's 216 school districts.

GOVERNOR'S DAY

HAZARD JAYCEES and the city will join hands Aug. 9 to sponsor a Governor Chandler Day in Perry county. Purpose of the festival will be to show the governor the "new Hazard" built since the flood and to breathe new life into the Kentucky Highway 15 Association.

NEW MEMBER

MRS. FRANCELE Armstrong, Henderson, has been appointed by Governor Chandler to the State Board of Education to succeed Mrs. J. E. Hernandez, Lexington, whose term expired. Mrs. Armstrong is editor and publisher of The Henderson Gleaner and Journal. The newspaper has won for the second consecutive year the Kentucky Education Association's award for service to education.

ALCOHOLIC CENTER

MENTAL HEALTH Commissioner Harold McPheeters has designated Western State Hospital, Hopkinsville, as the State's treatment center for alcoholics, the first such center in Kentucky. Dr. McPheeters' action was taken under a new law which states that alcoholics be committed by courts to a state hospital designated for the purpose.

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

When my son gave me one of these new-fangled shirts that do not require ironing, it set me to thinking of the long, hard tasks that such an invention will save present and future housewives. In Fidelity the calendar ran just as it does elsewhere, so far as the patent-medicine calendar on the wall ran; in reality, there were far different names for some of the days. Monday was Washday. Apparently the pioneers had got up on Monday and started to clean up for another week. It was as natural for the women folks to start washing clothes as it was for the men to begin plowing or whatever other work was interrupted by Sunday. The next day of the week was Ironing Day. Tuesday, Mardi, Dienstag, Dies Martis—Who cares what it is or was called? It was predestined, our Old-school Presbyterian friends might have said, as Ironing Day, by anybody's calendar. And Ironing Day it was.

When I could first remember, the only irons we had were those that were heated by setting them in front of the open fire or by putting them on top of the kitchen stove. We broke a small cedar limb for Mother to clean off the iron with and give it, I suppose, a sort of waxy surface. When I hear the word ironing, I seem to smell cedar, just as nearly every other word brings an olfactory sensation. Such stacks of clothes had to be ironed! In a big family it takes clothes and lots of them. Mothers and sisters felt that it was positively disgraceful not to iron everything, from sheets to the rough towels that we had made by cutting a two-bushel mealsack in two. No matter how quickly the towel would lose its smoothness and ironed look, it had to be ironed. One swipe of wet hands and face after we had cleaned up with home-made soap would make one of those mealsack towels look like a scrub rag. But no one must accuse our mothers or sisters of being lazy or slovenly. And such tired feet as those women of that day must have had! But washing and ironing were two of the penalties women paid for being born as women.

Not long before I left Fidelity, we got a new iron, one that was a small furnace, heated with charcoal. It was hot, but it did not heat up the whole house as did the fire in the fireplace or in the kitchen stove on Ironing Day. Some years ago, while roaming through Henry Ford's museum at Dearborn, Michigan, I stood for a long time before the exhibits of irons, seeing all the kinds I had known at Fidelity and many more. I could have sworn that the furnace type was the very one that Mother and my sisters used. There they were, all arranged according to their ages, showing how long and how hard humanity has worked to reduce necessary labor to the minimum to preserve decency and one's social standing.

At long last the electric iron made its appearance and lightened some of the soul-killing labor of Tuesday. And every kind of gadget has been added to it until today it is one of the necessities that were formerly only luxuries. I recall that once a colored woman who was working for us when my wife was sick was afraid to use the "lecturous" iron for fear she would get shocked. I had to search around in a store-room and find some old-fashioned ones, for our clothes were badly in need of ironing, and no modern notion had yet grown up that ironing was not necessary for many of the things that used to be smoothed out as if they were precious linens.

And now comes a kind of cloth, maybe more than one, that does not need ironing. Isn't that a boon? Of course, some people began a few years ago to put away some of the clothes unironed, probably feeling pretty sheepish about it. Actually some towels have gone unironed in some advanced households, towels ever so much more ritzy than the mealsack at Fidelity. Maybe it will be possible to think of Tuesday as something else besides Ironing Day.

Upon his return to his homeland, he will share his experiences with neighbors and friends in this international people-to-people program, sponsored by the National 4-H Foundation and the Agricultural Extension Service.

Giannini, of Italy, having been in the Arnold Lowe home at Eastern, says Robert M. Jones, county agent.

Becker is a farm assistant on his father's farm of 152-acres, where grains, potatoes and sugar beets are the principal crops. There are also several head of livestock.

He is particularly interested in farm management, field cash crops and learning more of the activities of young farmers' clubs.

WHAT IS CITY PLANNING?

The following, written by a member of the Department of Economic Development staff, is printed here to explain what the city planning program, now under way here, may accomplish in Prestonsburg and other communities.—Editor—

City planning is a means by which citizens of a community such as Prestonsburg, through their planning commission and city council, set forth ideas and proposals for guiding the future growth of the community. In its simplest terms, it can be defined as intelligent forethought applied to the development of a community. The first requirement of a city planning program is the desire of the citizens and their officials to make the community a better place in which to live and work. The people of Prestonsburg are fortunate in that their city officials have expressed that desire and have taken steps to realize it by setting up a city planning commission. The city planning commission is getting technical advice from the state planning agency set up under the Department of Economic Development at Frankfort.

All citizens are affected by what goes on in their home town, and in this area of growth of businesses and population, it often becomes necessary to look ahead to be sure the town develops in an orderly manner. This is done with the purpose of preserving the community as a desirable place in which to live and work. An individual, a business, or a community will be healthier, wealthier and wiser if prepared to meet the future.

Houses and businesses which are poorly constructed or badly located affect the physical well-being of a community in much the same way as cancer affects the human body. They waste city money and diminish the feeling of pride which every citizen should have in his community.

Fortunately, there are legal methods, or tools, enacted in the laws of Kentucky which make it possible to work toward a better community. Some of these tools are zoning, subdivision control, capital improvements programming and urban renewal. The city planning commission of Prestonsburg has been set up to carry on a long-range planning program using these tools to guide community development. Its status is that of an adviser to the city council. Generally, its proposals must be approved by the city council in order to be effective. This is done at public hearings of the commission and council which every citizen has an opportunity to attend and to voice his opinion. It is hoped that citizens will keep themselves informed as to what their planning commission, as well as their city council, is doing for the future development of the city.

In order to have a successful planning program, it is necessary to have the support of everyone in the community. While it is true that some individual may feel that he is being unduly restricted, the fact is that he is restricted only from infringing on the rights of his neighbors and fellow citizens. A planning program concerns itself with the best interests of the community as a whole and not with the private interest of any individual.

The planning commission is made up, according to Kentucky law, of four citizens appointed by the mayor and three city officials including the mayor and a council member. The commission holds regular monthly meetings which interested citizens may attend. The planning commission of Prestonsburg at present is working on a new zoning ordinance. Zoning designates the areas of the city which are best suited for each use and reserves these areas for that use. It does not change the use of property as it exists at present but it helps to insure that all future building and use of land will improve rather than detract from the community. It is a method of increasing the assets and decreasing the liabilities of the community in order to help business prosper, attract desirable industry and protect property values in residential and other areas. A zoning ordinance is a tool with which the city, through the planning commission, and the city council, may plan some order for its future growth. It is one of the most important means of carrying out a long-range general plan.

A plan is necessary for coordinated and efficient growth of a city. This reason in itself would be sufficient to justify the work of the commission. There is, however, a more basic and challenging idea implicit in the planning process. It is that, within their geographic and economic limits, the citizens can make of their community whatever they wish. Even in the face of adverse pressure from outside, such as the heavy industrialization of nearby cities, the community may maintain itself as an attractive, pleasant place in which to live. Its comfortable homes and tree-lined streets might provide just the setting in which company executives and their families would like to live and shop. These people would shoulder their part of the tax burden in addition to increasing the patronage of stores and businesses.

There is a pitfall in any type of growth which may be noted in many parts of the state. Newcomers, both industrial and residential, who come into an area because they are attracted by a dignified or leisurely way of life, often, by their mere presence, destroy what they are seeking. As an imaginary example, a plant which we may call the Mythical Manufacturing Company locates in a small town because there is available land, plenty of downtown parking, no traffic congestion, or other such advantages. However, in the process of turning out their products, the Mythical Manufacturing Company may ruin the surrounding land for other use. Its trucks and employees' automobiles may hopelessly snarl traffic and create a downtown parking problem. Thus, the advantages of the community no longer exist either for established residents or newcomers. Residents may resent the Mythical Manufacturing Company in spite of the fact that taxes from the plant may pay a great deal of the city's operating expenses. This situation might easily happen in a community which has no planning or zoning program. Industries like to be well received and to fit into the pattern of community life. They, therefore, prefer to locate in communities whose citizens, through their planning commission, have looked to the future and set up means to protect their way of life. Many forward looking communities in Kentucky are working on general plans and have already set up the tools which are available by law.

In order to plan effectively, a community must answer the following questions:

WHAT do we have?
WHERE do we want to go?
HOW do we get there?

The tools for getting there are available but they must be used for a purpose and used wisely. Sounding out community goals and making proposals for means to attain them is a major responsibility of the planning commission. It is a part of a continuing process of guiding the growth of the community according to a flexible long-range plan. The ideal community has never existed and probably never will, but the continued efforts of the planning commission in the community will greatly improve conditions now and in years to come.

The city planning commission of Prestonsburg is at present receiving technical assistance from the Planning and Zoning Division of the Department of Economic Development in Frankfort. Mr. Gail E. Godsey, a professional city planner employed by the Division, is now working with the commission on a series of planning studies.

The Planning and Zoning Division of the Department of Economic Development was established to furnish a continuing planning service to Kentucky cities. The Department recognizes that industries are most interested in locating in those cities that are planning for the future. At the same time, it is realized that many cities cannot afford to employ trained city planning technicians to guide the planning for the city's future growth and development.

The Planning and Zoning Division provides cities with the following technical planning services:

- I. A continuing assistance to local planning commissions to aid the community in accomplishing coordinated, physical and financial development.
- II. Acts as the official state agency through which federal funds are available for local planning assistance to cities of your size.
- III. Continuous technical assistance in the preparation of the following:
 - a. City base maps.
 - b. Land-use surveys.
 - c. Zoning ordinance.
 - d. Major street plan.
 - e. Subdivision regulations.
 - f. Future land-use plans; including locations of schools, parks and other public facilities.
 - g. Long-range financial studies and budgets for public improvements.
 - h. Other planning studies.

Both the Federal government and the State have recognized the fact that better communities mean better citizens. Communities which plan for the future do not have to depend on State and Federal agencies for services and aid. A community which provides adequate government and public facilities for its own citizens lessens the load which all the taxpayers have to bear.

In order to assist communities with their programs for self-improvement, Congress has made funds available for planning purposes for cities of under 25,000 population. The funds are made available to State governments to administer on a matching basis to communities which request planning service. Every local dollar is matched by a Federal dollar. These programs of local planning assistance are the concern of the Planning and Zoning Division. The service is offered with the purpose of helping communities to help themselves.

WHAT ARE OUR GOALS?

Any city that wishes to develop in an orderly way over the years to be a better place to live must have:

1. A goal, and
 2. Guides or plans for reaching that goal.
- A western city adopted a general plan for future development several years ago in which some goals were set up to guide all future decisions as to residential, commercial and industrial growth. Along with the goals they adopted legal tools to work toward them. The goals are as follows:
1. To preserve the unique character of the city which has grown out of its unparalleled physical setting and its generally harmonious development.
 2. To reach a balance between the number of families in the city and the space we live in.
 3. To establish a pattern of land uses which will promote the highest degree of health, safety, efficiency, and well-being for all segments of the community.
 4. To develop a circulation system—both highways and mass transit—which will provide for the safe and convenient movement of people and goods in the city area and other parts of the region.
 5. To secure for the city her rightful place in the long-range development of the (surrounding) area.
- These may seem like obvious and generalized assertions that one might take for granted. However, when they are set down in writing and adopted as official policies of the city council and other public bodies, they go a long way toward the betterment of the community. When such goals are adopted by the city council together with some principles and standards pertaining to land use and circulation, they become guidelines for all development plans and provide a solid base for making decisions concerning the use of land in the city. They help to maintain and increase the desirability of a community as a place to live, to shop and to work.

for flood control and particularly if it is to store sufficient water to maintain a flow in the Big Sandy during dry months of the year.

C. & O. has proposed to start below the dam, upgrading the spur line to the dam, cutting through the dam about 20 feet from the top and from there grading down to the present level of the line that will be in the reservoir area. That, it is contended by O. S. Batten, Pikeville engineer, will cost the reservoir 100,000 acre-feet of storage capacity.

Col. George Derby, retired chief of the Huntington district, U. S. Army Engineers, now representing the Ashland Oil & Refining Company, pointed out that Fishtrap is the key dam in the proposed three-dam chain in the headwaters of the Big Sandy for flood control and for maintenance of a flow of water in the river in periods of drouth.

"If you want flood control," he said, "there must be no reduction in the capacity of the dam. If you want industrial water, you will need a still higher dam."

He saw no advantage in power plant at Fishtrap but pointed out that there is a possibility of power at the Pound reservoir—only, the federal government would first have to waive the requirement that such a plant must earn back the government's investment or would earn as much as a private plant.

A tour of the 32-county Eastern Kentucky area represented by the Commission will be made, Oct. 13-15, under sponsorship of the Commission and in cooperation with the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and upwards of a dozen private industries. Industrialists and other visitors will be brought into the area from outside Kentucky as well as from within the state.

Highway Commissioner Oates pointed out that there are two kinds of road that are needed: one, to bring people into the section and to use the natural resources it has; another, to get the people up the hollows out of the mud.

"If we attempt to do the latter on sound engineering standards needed, nobody here will ever see them built," Oates declared. He added that he has consequently adopted a plan which would use existing right-of-way and get a modest type of highway for those who now have none or only a dry-weather road. "I've taken the bull by the horns on one road in Pike county, for instance," the highway commissioner said. The route had been designed by federal engineers, but it can't be built to such standards for lack of money. So the roadbed that is being built is 12 feet wide but of service to the people.

"I need the support of you men here," Mr. Oates said in discussing the road program. He asked the group for their ideas on what is needed first. "We can't build everything at the same time," he said, recounting the recent incident when a visitor to his office wanted to talk about five roads in one county. "I told him, 'Let's talk about one,'" the commissioner said.

Forrest Johnson, planning engineer, Department of Highways, sketched for members of the Commission a long-range highway-building plan for the region. This network of inter-linking highways would be routes that are in the "big" category and would involve:

1. Ky. 80, London to Dwarf, branching west to Campton and Stanton and on toward Winchester, east of 119 near Jenkins.
2. A road from Jellico, Tenn., east via to Whitesburg to Ky. 119, near Jenkins.
3. Pikeville over Ky. 80 to Virginia.
4. Pikeville over Ky. 119 to Williamson.
5. Pikeville to Prestonsburg, then to Salyersville, branching to Campton on the way to Stanton and Winchester, the other branch going northwest via West Liberty to Morehead and the new U. S. east-west trunk highway from Lexington to Huntington.
6. U. S. 23 as now under construction, Prestonsburg to Ashland, South Portsmouth and following the Ohio river to Maysville.

The new Pikeville-Prestonsburg-Campton-Winchester route talked at the meeting might be built on the west side of the Big Sandy from Prestonsburg to Pikeville.

When Mr. Oates asked for the group's choice of the top priority road for this area, B. F. Reed, of Drift, chairman of the Commission, quickly suggested that the No. 1 road would link the Big Sandy with the Lexington area. The sentiment was unanimous.

Mr. LaViers pointed out that small or "satellite" factories may be located in this section, if such highway transportation is supplied, to produce component parts needed by larger Lexington and Central Kentucky plants. He pointed out that only recently, a General Electric plant was shut down because of a strike which prevented mass production of timers. Small plants in this area can produce such items as this

W. V. Bunting and J. H. Howard, Prestonsburg barbers have barbered for five generations in Prestonsburg. They were cutting the hair of the fifth generation last Friday when this photo was taken. Mr. Howard is shown, left, cutting the hair of Jerri Collins, 5, and her sister, Margaret Elizabeth, 4, in the chair operated by Mr. Bunting at right. Preceding them in the Bunting and Howard chairs were their great-great-grandfather, the late William Dingus; their great-grandfather, W. A. Dingus; their grandparents, Ray and Margaret Dingus Collins, and their father, Bill Ray Collins. The barber shop was owned by Mr. Bunting until a few months ago when he sold it to Paul J. Branham. Bunting and Howard had worked together for 33 years—and still do when Mr. Bunting works.

North Carolina Men Arrested Wednesday On Extortion Count

Two North Carolinians were arrested Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Jarvis Allen and jailed here on a warrant charging them with extortion and breach of the peace after they allegedly had offered for sale photographs of victims in the Feb. 28 school bus disaster near here.

The two, booked as Owen Peele and Harold Prentiss O'Tuel, Jr., are in jail pending execution of $1,000 bond each.

A John Doe warrant for their arrest was made on complaint of Ed Hunt, of Cow Creek, father of one of the bus victims. It was said here that $50 was asked per picture. Hunt said the photo of his daughter was used without his consent and that appearance of the men at his home made his wife nervous.

THE TRACES REMAIN

Our office historian, Henry P. Scalf, reminds us that "way back in 1784 one Arthur Campbell, a prominent resident of Abingdon, Va., submitted a memorial to the Congress then operating under the Articles of Confederation. He suggested that the mountainous regions of what was to become several states be lumped off into a single state. This mountain state Campbell would have had beginning at the mouth of the Kanawha River, including all that section west to the forks of Big Sandy, east to the Blue Ridge and including eastern Tennessee and western North Carolina. He argued that mountainous areas never fare as well as more level sections when the state scatters its largesse; hence, the mountains should be set apart as a single state.

At that time our mountaineer forebears had a gripe that was a lulu. They were not getting enough protection from the Indians.

Well, the Injuns are gone but some of their trails remain almost unchanged.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

In Memory of Brother Sherman K. Kozee Who Died March 21, 1958

Once again a Brother Mason, having completed the designs written for him on life's trestle board, has passed through the portals of Eternity and entered the Grand Lodge of the New Jerusalem and hath received as his reward, the white stone with the new name written thereon.

And Whereas, The all-wise and merciful Master of the universe has called from labor to refreshments our beloved and respected brother.

And Whereas, He having been a true and faithful brother of our Order, therefore be it

Resolved, That Zebulon Lodge No. 273 F. & A. M., Prestonsburg, Kentucky, in testimony of her loss, be draped in mourning for thirty days and that we tender to the family of our deceased brother our sincere condolence in their deep affliction, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

said the grade-and-drain work is 77 per cent complete and that the state thus far has spent $17,556 on the project.

When Hailey informed Oates last Friday of the cost, the commissioner directed him to order the work stopped immediately and to submit a thorough report on force-account projects now under way.

Under a new law passed by the 1958 Legislature, the cost of such projects are limited to $12,000. That amount was pared down from a $25,000 limit originally proposed.

The force-account bill, supported by the state administration, squeaked through the House and passed finally in the midst of heated opposition.

Opponents argued the Administration was seeking to set up a vast patronage system with roads as the political plums. Proponents contended the law would not be misused, that it would save the state money on smaller projects.

Rural Highways Commissioner J. B. Wells, Jr., authorized the Dewey Lake-Copperas Creek road construction last October, according to Hailey. Work started the following month. The estimated completion date is August 15.

In the case of the Dewey Lake road, Oates asked Hailey to ascertain who it will serve, how far it has advanced, what the costs are likely to be, and whether it be worthwhile to continue construction.

Hailey said the 2.2 miles under construction extend from an eight-tenths-of-a-mile stretch built by the federal government. The eight-tenths was constructed after that much of the original road was inundated by Dewey Lake, he said.

Hailey also said 70 per cent of the 2.2 miles is within the Jennie Wiley State Park area and 30 per cent follows an old county road.

Informed of County Clerk Moore's comments, Oates said he knew nothing about the road at Dewey Lake, but added:

"We are not going to build private roads as long as Ward Oates is highway commissioner. That is the Governor's policy, too."

Oates said there is no prescribed program for force-account work.

"We don't go out hunting for force-account projects," he added. "We'll build them only where they are needed and if they cost less than $12,000."

The first test for such a project, he added, is: Is it cheaper to use our own personnel, or is it cheaper to advertise?

"I am not going to engage in personalities about this matter," Senator Howell told The Times. "But I think the public should know the background of the road, how it started and why."

Last year, while Governor Chandler was in Europe, at the request of Marvin Music, of Prestonsburg, and perhaps Burl Spurlock, I arranged a meeting with Lieutenant Governor Waterfield on the development of Dewey Lake. In that meeting all heads of departments involved in the lake development met with the Acting Governor and our group from four counties. And this was the highway program agreed to then:

"A road from the Middle Fork of Rockcastle in Martin county to the lake; a road down main Johns Creek from Pike county to the lake; and the Cow Creek road."

"When we got to the Cow Creek road we requested blacktopping, and we used the Boy Scout camp as one reason for such a road. Rural Highway Commissioner J. B. Wells suggested widening of the road from the present blacktop to the end of the state property line, which is on Copperas Creek."

Work was begun last October, and at that time, Howell pointed out, the state did jobs on force account without restriction as to the cost. After it was begun the Attorney General ruled that force account work was illegal but he agreed that projects already under way could be completed. "That," explained Howell, "is how the work continued on force account, even though the new law restricts force account expenditures to $12,000."

He added that a special crew was put to work this summer by Dr. Martin who resigned the post of highway commissioner several weeks ago.

The Middle Fork of Rockcastle road would connect with the disputed road at Copperas Creek when and if built, it is claimed.

Senator Howell is a known friend of the present State Administration. Critics of the Administration point out that nobody lives on the road, claim that the project is designed only for his benefit. On the other hand, his friends claim it gives wider access to the lake and to camping and picnic sites in the Copperas Creek area as well as being a part of a planned Floyd-to-Martin county route.

Rescue Squad Schedules Meeting At B & W Cafe

Directors and other interested persons connected with the Prestonsburg Emergency and Rescue Squad will meet at the B & W Cafe, North Lake Drive, Friday evening, it was said this week by Graham Burchett, Business to be discussed is a fund raising campaign for the purpose of buying necessary equipment.

Gov. A. B. Chandler was approached recently to make available $5,000 in state funds for the newly-organized rescue squad. If the governor provides the amount it will be used to either start construction on a building or make the down payment on headquarters at some location here.

The Princess Elkhorn Coal Company, of David, gave the squad a resuscitator recently and the R. V. May Company here donated oxygen to be used with it. Much equipment has already been purchased through the Federal government's surplus stores, it was noted.

PROFOUND THANKS

GOVERNOR CHANDLER has received from Floyd County School Superintendent Virgil Turner a letter of appreciation for Chandler's efforts to help recover the bodies of more than 20 children who died when a school bus plunged into a river near Prestonsburg. Writes Turner: "It is heartening to feel that our public officials are ready and willing to help local people in their extraordinary troubles. . . . Without your help, we could not have recovered our children's bodies. The fact that you, as governor, stood with us with every resource at your command, heartened us immeasurably."

Aged Martin Resident Heart Attack Victim; Funeral Slated Friday

Mrs. Della Osborne, 81, of Martin, died Tuesday at 4 p.m. at home. A heart attack was given as the cause of death. She had returned home Friday from the hospital where she had submitted to a hip operation.

Mrs. Osborne, the wife of Lee Osborne, was the daughter of W. B. (Bee) and Helen Martin. Surviving besides the husband, is a sister, Hattie Martin, of Martin. Two sons preceded her in death a few years ago. She was a member of the Methodist church.

Funeral rites were conducted Friday at 1 p.m. at the Martin Methodist church, the Rev. John P. Carr officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

FARM NOTES
By Robert M. Jones
County Agent

FIELD DAY
Field Day this year will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Martin on Turkey Creek. Located three miles from Maytown.

There will be many things to see this year. They have sheep, strawberries, raspberries, laying flocks, family garden, hay, pasture, corn and forest tree plantation.

A corn variety demonstration was established, comparing several varieties of corn. You will also be able to see plastic being used as a mulch and row covering in the garden.

The program is being planned for all the family.

JOHNSON GRASS
The wet growing season we are experiencing this summer is very favorable for Johnson Grass. Each year this weed is becoming worse. Unless each individual take some effort to control Johnson Grass it will become a major problem in the county.

During the summer and fall it should be kept clipped to prevent seed development. Turn the ground in winter to expose the roots to freezing. This method will help keep this weed under control.

To control individual plant, or small clumps, first cut the grass and spray with a chemical called TCA on the stubble. This treatment sterilizes the soil for at least 90 days.

For further information obtain leaflet 157 "Controlling Johnson Grass" from our office.

STRAWBERRIES
Strawberry plants set this spring are putting out new runner growth. These runners will have the berries next year. As a plant puts out runners they should be spaced first along the row between the plant then fan out toward the middles. Don't let the runners run across the middles.

As runners develop, be careful that they are not plowed loose. Keep the plow far enough away from the plant to keep them from loosening soil around new plants.

Getting your child ready for school this fall, especially if it's his first year, is not something to put off until a couple of weeks before the school bell rings, says the State Department of Health.

By taking your child to the family physician for a check up right away, you will have plenty of time to correct any existing defects and to obtain a tuberculosis skin test and whatever immunizations are needed.

Keeping the child in good health will enable him to withstand the contact with sore throats, coughs and sneezes that he will meet in school, the agency advises. The healthy child is more alert and better able to learn.

CLOSE SHAVE
Governor Chandler had a brush with "Brothers of the Brush" at Irvine the other day and almost landed in the hoosegow.

He visited the city as Estill county was celebrating its sesquicentennial and was seized by a bewhiskered Keystone Cop. It seems there was an ordinance that all males must sport whiskers during the celebration or be lodged in a log lockup.

The clean-shaven governor, with quick presence of mind, turned back his lapel and displayed a shave permit, issued by the Estill County Sesquicentennial Committee.

CAPITAL PLANNING
The Department of Economic Development announces that Geoffrey P. Stormson has been employed as director of a federally approved plan to prepare Frankfort for orderly municipal growth.

Formerly with the California State Planning Commission at Sacramento, he will work with the Capital City Planning and Zoning Commission and a consulting firm in developing the $62,000 two-year program.

QUITE AN EFFORT
Inmates at Kentucky State Reformatory, La Grange, donated $41.10 to the Prestonsburg School Disaster Fund. This is quite an effort and noteworthy endeavor, when you consider these men are paid only eight cents a day for prison labor.

TRADITION PRESERVED
A check with highway and street engineers assures us there is no statewide plan to convert the shape of manhole covers from round to square. This would have been a radical innovation and we are glad to see the old ways survive. Engineers say the round shape is the only one that will prevent the lid from accidentally dropping into the manhole.

NOT ILLEGAL
A policeman in a dry county was thunderstruck to see a state vehicle loaded with beer cases. In another dry county, a State Highway Department employee was amazed to see beer cases being unloaded from a State station wagon into a boat on a lake. The explanation? Biologist Mayo Martin says the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is carrying walleye fry in beer cases. Plastic bags containing the fish are placed in the well-insulated cases, which keep water at about the right temperature for long hauls.

Accidents are the leading cause of death to persons 1 to 36 years of age, according to the National Safety Council.

Telephone Talk

by
H. D. HAYES
Your Telephone Manager

HAD YOUR "TALKIE" BREAK this morning? It's mighty good with that second cup of coffee. A leisurely phone call, and you can catch up on the news . . . swap recipes . . . enjoy the kind of friendly, unhurried visit that makes phoning the fun-time of the morning. And anytime you need it, your telephone is there. It helps with your errands . . . keeps you in touch . . . assures you of immediate help when emergencies arise. So when it's time for a few minutes of leisure, enjoy them with a friend. Have a "talkie" break—by phone!

VACATION TIP: Be sure you have a place to stay! Camping out in the car is no way to start a vacation. Smart travelers phone ahead for reservations. Just another way that your telephone can help make your vacation a happy one. And while you're away, remember to keep in touch with the folks at home. A Long Distance call can reassure them . . . add peace of mind to your trip. Costs so little, too. For bargain rates call after six and all day Sunday. Save even more by calling Station-to-Station.

GOOD NEWS AHEAD: In spite of a general economic downturn of business beginning about the middle of 1957, Southern Bell is going ahead in 1958 with a big construction program—about $250 million. The entire Bell System is spending $2 billion 200 million on new construction in '58. The modernization plans under way will continue at a normal rate . . . research and development will be stepped up . . . more engineers will be trained in new arts of communications. This is good news for all of us. For, by going ahead with "business as usual" your Telephone Company will have a share in bolstering the well-being of our nation's economy, and each of us will benefit from the progress constantly being made in the operation of Southern Bell's extensive program.

THE SINGING STATUES

Amenhotep III was one of the four pharaohs by this name who reigned in the Eighteenth Dynasty. During his reign 1411-1375 B. C. the Egyptian empire reached its height. He is given credit for erecting the great temples of Thebes, capital of Upper Egypt, of which only the ruins of the temples of Luxor and the colossal statues of himself, that are shown here, remain.

On the way to the tomb of the kings, just over the Nile from Old Thebes, one may see these unique statues. They are made from large stone blocks and arranged in a sitting position. While, as stated above, they are monuments to Pharaoh Amenhotep III, the Greeks hold that they represent the legendary hero, Memnon.

As the desert winds in the early mornings pass through the pores of the stones in these statues, a harp-like sound emits from them. This is why they are called The Singing Statues. Foreign travelers in modern times have heard these sounds and have verified their reality. This is not phenomenal but is caused by the sudden expansion of the stones when they are affected by the hot rays of the early morning sun.

The ancient Egyptian kingship was believed to be divine. To them life itself was mystical and filled with allegorical symbolism. One does not wonder at their superstition which they attached to the things of life. Their instinct and religious background enabled them to associate divine significance to these sounds and thereby immortalize the statues of Amenhotep. The Greeks rationalized on life, accepting things at face value, while the Egyptians accepted life as a kind of mysticism.

CIRCUS MORTGAGED
Among records in the Hancock county clerk's office, Hawesville, is a mortgage lien filed in November, 1855, against the Barnum and Bailey circus, by Madame Flouris; a mortgage lien dated Nov. 11, 1873, attaching the steamboat Big Sam Flower, which was built at Lewisport; a lien filed against a Negro church for a debt of $43.15 due the pastor, and numerous mortgages on slaves.

MILK PRODUCTION RECORD
Another new record for milk production per dairy cow was set in 1957, when the average cow produced 6,162 pounds of milk during the year, or nearly 3 percent more than the 1956 yield per cow, says the National Dairy Council.

Miss Hall Is Bride Of Mr. Gene Davis

Casey Jones Was Kentucky Railroad Hero

Casey Jones, hero of the folk ballad which is memorial to railroad men, was born March 14, 1864, at Jordan in west Kentucky, the son of a schoolteacher.

At 17, Casey, or John Luther (his given name), grew restless, and walked the ties to Cayce, where he got his nickname and first job.

Before he was 30, Jones had passed from the job of helper to a Mobile & Ohio telegraph operator through all the steps to passenger engineer on the Illinois Central, an important job in that railroad era. He settled in Jackson, Tenn., while still with the Mobile & Ohio.

His proud boast was that he always got his train through on time. This quality drew him a crack engineering assignment: Old 382, the "Cannon Ball."

In the early morning of April 30, 1900, while rolling through a thick fog near Vaughn, Mississippi, he saw a freight train a few feet ahead on his track. He ordered his Negro fireman to jump.

Casey stuck to his cab. Although he was unable to prevent a crash, he kept his load on the rails and saved the lives of the passengers in 12 coaches. His scalded body was removed from the tangled wreckage and buried at Jackson, Tenn.

As other engineers drove their trains by the cemetery, they saluted Casey with a blast on the whistle and soon this became a custom. Before long, doggerel celebrating the engineer was being recited and sung. A Negro worker in Memphis, it is believed, first gave the ballad wide popularity.

Soon every singer felt free to add a verse or two, some which were not too complimentary to Casey's widow. She at length appealed to law to restrain public performers from singing the slanderous additions.

Strict Enforcement Of Egg Law Ahead
Frankfort, Aug. (Spl.)—Egg handlers and dealers may expect rigid enforcement of the Kentucky egg candling and grading laws, Director C. Harold Bray of the Agriculture Department's markets division states. The division has the responsibility for licensing and controlling egg marketings within the state.
Bray emphasized that he is not commencing a "crackdown" on the egg marketing industry, but "an orderly movement into the strict enforcement phase" following what he termed "the education and service phase", a period in which the industry was familiarized with the provisions of the Kentucky egg marketing law.
"The law has been in effect 18 months now, and every egg handler in Kentucky has been contacted and had the law explained in detail," Bray said. "I feel that ample time has been given for everyone interested to fully understand the intent of the law."
He said, "Our first step will be to place suspected violators on probation for a period of approximately 10 days. During this probationary period the charges will be investigated and appropriate action recommended to the commissioner of agriculture. Based upon the facts developed, it may be necessary to suspend or revoke violator's license."
The law passed by the 1956 General Assembly requires that all egg handlers, with the exception of owners of farm flocks, be licensed and that all eggs they offer for sale be candled.
The law does not require grading but specified that if eggs are sold according to U. S. grade they must be the grade indicated on the carton.

You Gotta Eat To Live ...
COUNTY'S FOOD BILL $4 1/2 MILLION IN '57

Special to The Times
New York, July 14 — Food was given top billing last year by residents of Floyd county. More of the money they spent went for food and beverages than for any other commodity.
The facts and figures are revealed in a nationwide survey, made by the Standard Rate and Data Service, to determine the spending habits of people in all parts of the country.
Each community was examined, in this connections, as to its purchases of cars and other automotive equipment, of general merchandise, of apparel and of drugs, as well as food.
In Floyd county, last year, most local earnings found their way into the cash registers of the retail stores.
The chief emphasis, it was found, was on food, which took 25 cents of every dollar spent in the stores. This was more than allotted for the purpose by families in most parts of the United States, 24 cents of the dollar. In the East South Central States the average was also 24 cents.
The actual size of the local food market is indicated by the total amount spent. Food purchases in the year, in the meat markets, grocery stores, bakeries, delicatessens and such hit $4,576,000.
This was equivalent to $470 per household, if spread equally among the local population.

All Employment Classifications Have Alcoholics

The rather common answer by management is: "We have no problem. If we find an alcoholic in our employ we fire him."
H. Davis Archibald, director of Alcoholism Research Foundation, Toronto, reported on a project in one county which was representative of the population of the entire state in terms of occupational classification. This study comprised 2,000 alcoholics and revealed that seven out of 10 had held jobs which required special skills or responsibilities.
Nearly 60 percent were known to have had steady employment in one job for at least three years, 25 percent at least 10 years. This group comprised an unselected group of alcoholics who had not reached the stage of seeking treatment or joining Alcoholics Anonymous. Only 7 percent had ever sought treatment of any kind.
This study was particularly important because it gave a picture of alcoholics as they appear in a community, not a particular group who have sought treatment, joined A. A., or landed in jail.
The following shows the occupational classifications of the group as revealed by the survey:
Professional, managerial, proprietary (Includes physicians, lawyers, engineers, business owners, teachers, persons in supervisory positions, etc.) 5.5 percent; White collar (Includes office clerks, salesmen, stenographers etc.) 4.4; Skilled and semi-skilled (Includes bakers, mechanics, machine operators, electricians etc.) 48.0; Unskilled (Includes janitors, laborers, waitresses, cleaners, etc.) 29.3; Transient or casual (Includes all types casual labor, employment one day at a time) 6.3; Retired 3.5.
These alcoholics were not bums. They were employed though their record of absenteeism was high, their performance record below par. It is significant that every strata of society is represented, convincing evidence that this illness can affect anybody.

Highway Deaths Under Last Year By More Than 50

Frankfort, Aug. 4 (Spl.)—Kentucky's road deaths stood at more than 50 under the comparative period last year, and Commissioner of Public Safety Don Sturgill viewed the remainder of 1958 with a combination of optimism and caution.

The road death toll in Kentucky to July 29 was 405, compared with 456 last year. In 1954 393 had died on the state's highways through this portion of the year.

Sturgill said here is a good possibility fatalities may be less than in 1954, one of the lowest years in recent history. He added that this is especially significant when related to the fact that traffic volume has doubled in the past four years, and the grim fact that the Prestonsburg bus tragedy alone took 27 lives.

"Whether this record will be achieved depends on the individual behind the wheel of the family car," Sturgill warned. "The Department of Public Safety will do everything in its power to protect you," he added "but the final decision is up to you."

He emphasized that the department's truck safety drive, and mobile roadblock policy, plus the all out safety education movement will be continued.

HOSPITALS DURING '57 CARED FOR 22,993,000

Chicago, August 1 — Hospitals in the continental United States cared for 22,993,000 patients in 1957, more than in any previous year and an increase of more than 900,000 from the 1956 total of 22,089,000, the American Hospital Association reported today.

A total of 3,739,259 babies were born in United States hospitals last year, a rise of 248,118 over the 1956 total of 3,491,141 hospital births. On any given day in 1957, an average of 1,320,000 patients and 48,775 newborn infants were hospitalized.

Hospital admissions have risen steadily each year since 1946, when the American Hospital Association began its statistical series. The 1957 statistics were published today in Part II of the annual Guide Issue of HOSPITALS, Journal of the American Hospital Association. The information was compiled from questionnaires sent to 6,818 hospitals in the continental United States.

The voluntary hospitals which care for the great majority of the acute short-term cases in the nation spent an average of $26.81 a day for the care of each patient, an increase of $1.82 over 1956. In these hospitals, the average expenditure on each patient in 1957 was $198.39 compared with $181.43 in 1956. The average patient stay in the voluntary hospitals was 7.4 days a slight decrease from 7.5 days in 1956.

Patients in voluntary hospitals paid an average of $1.52 a day less in 1957 than it cost to care for them. Total income from patients in all voluntary hospitals in 1957 was $2,878,254,000, while expenses came up 94.3 per cent of the total income of all these hospitals in 1957, as compared with 96.1 per cent in 1956. The balance came from contributions, grants and income from such sources as endowments.

The average expenditure per day in 1957 for each patient in the nation's federal psychiatric hospitals was $9.73. In the voluntary psychiatric hospitals, $14.70, and in the state and local government psychiatric hospitals, $3.66.

The 6,381 non-federal hospitals in the continental United States reported total expenses of $5,483,096,000, of which 62 per cent, $3,402,172,000, was for payroll. These hospitals employed 1,215,388 of the 1,401,232 personnel in all hospitals.

In 1957, an average of 107 personnel per 100 patients were employed in all hospitals, as compared with 101 in 1956. Within this average was a range from 218 personnel per 100 patients in voluntary short-term hospitals to 32 per 100 patients in nonfederal psychiatric hospitals.

Other facts released by the Association were:

More than 260,000 professional nurses worked full-time in hospitals in 1957. This included nearly 230,000 nurses as hospital employees and more than 30,000 private duty nurses. In addition, almost 58,000 professional nurses served in hospitals on a part-time basis.

More than half of all United States hospitals were voluntary. Sixteen per cent were proprietary, and 32 per cent were operated by agencies of federal, state or local government.

Ninety-five per cent of all hospital admissions last year were to general hospitals. However, psychiatric hospitals cared for 51 per cent of the total number of patients hospitalized on any one day.

The general hospitals and the psychiatric hospitals each had 45.5 per cent of the total of 1,558,691 hospital beds in the continental United States. The remaining nine per cent of beds were divided almost evenly between tuberculosis hospitals and other special hospitals.

Thirty-six per cent of all U. S. hospitals had less than 50 beds, 23 per cent had from 50 to 99 beds, 27 per cent had between 100 and 299 beds, and 14 per cent had 300 beds or more.

The 437 federal hospitals, representing 6.4 per cent of all U. S. hospitals, had a bed complement of 183,002. The 173 Veterans Administration hospitals had 120,824 beds, or 66 per cent of the total hospital beds operated by the Federal Government.

County 4-H Champion Attend Forestry Camp

How many board feet of lumber can a sawmill get from a sound and straight log 28 inches in diameter and 12 feet long?

This problem and many others relating to woodland management, protection and utilization will be tackled this week as Frank Bush, Jr., of Wheelwright, and 28 other boys and girls attend the 4th Annual 4-H Forestry Camp at the University of Kentucky's Robinson Forest in Breathitt County.

Frank and the others are county champions in 4-H forestry projects and as champions won their trips to the camp over all the other 4-H club members who completed a forestry project last year. They are studying forestry subjects such as tree identification, planting, measurement of both logs and standing timber, fire protection, harvesting and sawmilling.

Camp Director James A. Newman, State Extension Forester, has called on the University of Kentucky, the U. S. Forest Service, the Kentucky Division of Forestry and a number of wood-industries for the camping and teaching staff.

The 4-H Forestry Camp is financed by wood-using industries of the state through the Kentucky Forest Industries Committee to promote interest in forest conservation by 4-H club boys and girls. (Incidentally, Frank found that a sound and straight log 28 inches in diameter and 12 feet long will produce about 440 board feet of lumber.)

SUDAN GRASS

Don't let Sudan grass go to seed; for maximum forage yields, top-dress at proper time with about 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre; the best time generally is after the first grazing or clipping.

If Sudan is to be used for silage, cut it in the early dough stage for best palatability; the Sudan tends to get woody and less palatable if cut later than that.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of Billy Risner (son of Bill and Maxine Risner, formerly of West Prestonsburg).

For him the trials of life are done—

His task is over now
And we will say a pray'r for him
And touch his manly brow,

But we will follow where he goes
And meet him over there
And clasp his hand by God's command
Where skies are always fair.

So though we shed a tear for him
Who'll sleep beneath the sod
We'll not forget that he is now
Within the arms of God.

SPORTS AFIELD
By TED KESTING

Today's family outboard boat, with its modern powerful motor, its wider beam and surprising performance, is both so new and so much fun to drive that its uses for all sorts of boating sports have hardly yet been realized, reports Willard Crandall, Boating Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. But just running around the lake is not enough. The potential of one of these craft is more than even the most enthusiastic dealers realize. Summer is the time to try something new; to discover the new twists that can lead to a dozen other sorts of boating pleasures previously unthought of.

Take fishing first. Though the old, narrow, family utilities were well suited to many forms of angling and could be handled with oars, the fast craft of today have their points, too. And not only the obvious ones of added seaworthiness in open and rough water, and increased stability of easier casting and boating large fish.

For instance, here's one trick liked and recommended by many anglers for use in sheltered water. Stand in the stern and cast, motor in reverse. The speed should be just enough to keep the boat from drifting. The foot or knee can control steering.

Fishing or not, one of the best sources of new outboard fun lies in the long trip. Never has it been so practical to see new waters and new scenes, and with so little work, nuisance or worry. Also, don't forget water skiing, one of today's most popular water sports. This isn't just for professionals; it's easier than you think. And, saving the newest sport for last, there's skin diving with its many exciting possibilities including spear fishing.

Add it all up—well you can't really, for there's no limit to new things you can do with your boat. And summertime is the time to do it.

There had been no sheep on the Western Kentucky Substation farm prior to 1951 when the sheep project was started. Starting with clean ground, free from parasites, we had no parasite problem. Drenching with phenothiazine-lead arsenate in the early spring and phenothiazine in the fall, along with year-round feeding of a phenothiazine salt mixture, was enough to keep our flock relatively free of parasites.

University of Kentucky Awards 435 Degrees At Lexington, Friday

The University of Kentucky awarded 435 degrees — almost half of them on the graduate level — at its final summer commencement program Friday, in Memorial Coliseum.

Students in the summer class are from 74 of Kentucky's 120 counties, 17 other states, and one foreign country, according to Dr. Charles F. Elton, dean of admissions and registrar at the University.

Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, vice-president of the University, delivered the commencement address. His subject was "Mind Thine Own Aim."

Honorary doctor of laws degrees awarded to Bishop William T. Mulloy, of the Covington Diocese of the Catholic Church, the Rev. Bishop William T. Watkins, of the Louisville area of the Methodist Church, and Dr. Walter Pearson Kelly, of the University of California College of Agriculture.

In the future, all degrees will be awarded in ceremonies at the end of the second semester.

Floyd graduates are:
Master of Arts in Education—Walter Honshell, Wayland; Goldia Short, Allen.
Bachelor of Arts—Marsella Bradley, Garrett; Robert Crisp, Martin; Jesse Wright, West Prestonsburg; William Spradlin, Prestonsburg.

Little League Grads Continue In Baseball Without Sponsorship

Activities of a group of Prestonsburg boys toward continuing baseball play after leaving the Little League program are beginning to attract attention locally, since the youths are playing without sponsorship, often hitch rides to the scene of play and, except for the help of one or two individuals have received no aid whatsoever.

The group represent Babe Ruth baseball for youths, ages 14 through 18. Babe Ruth baseball is widely sponsored elsewhere in the country to develop young athletes beyond the years of Little League play. This is done because baseball men hold that to end baseball play with the Little League neither develops the young players toward his full potential nor provides the recreational activities so badly needed by teen-age youths.

Last week, the Prestonsburg team defeated Martin, 5-4. The game was halted by rain after four innings and another game with Martin was incomplete. Completion of these two games and a tilt with Emma are in the teams' plans this week.

ALL-STAR GAMES
The next two weeks will provide Kentucky high school football and basketball fans the opportunity to see their favorite prep stars in action before moving onto college or other fields of endeavor.

Saturday night in Lexington, the annual East-West All-Star series sponsored by the Kentucky High School Coaches Association, will climax the University of Kentucky's yearly coaching clinic.

The basketball game will begin at 7 p.m. in Memorial Coliseum and the football game will start approximately two hours later across the street on Stoll Field.

Saturday, August 16, The Kentucky-West Virginia Kiwanis Football Bowl game will be played at 8:30 in Williamson, West Virginia. This affair features play between 1958 high school graduates of Eastern Kentucky and Southwestern West Virginia.

The 10-team Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference will have a strong interest in both affairs, with coaches and players from the loop participating in both.

Nick Diachenko, Jenkins' highly successful football mentor, will assist Homer Rice at Highlands as the East's football coaches, and Goble Ritter, Hazard cage chief, will assist Clark County's Letcher Norton in guiding the East's basketball fortunes.

John Griggs, Prestonsburg football coach, will tutor the Kentucky all-stars in the Williamson game, and his assistant will be Belfry coach Irvin Wilson.

Several players from Eastern Kentucky high schools will play in both Lexington and Williamson. James "Red" Hill, Fleming's all-state fullback; Wayne Dixon, Prestonsburg center; Gary Harrison, Jenkins; Bill Elkins, Jenkins, and Junior Thomas, Fleming, are some of the standouts from the area that will play in both games. Griggs issued his first call for practice this week in prepping for the Williamson game.

Utah, where Branham was twice named an all-Skyline Conference back.

Bobby Daniels, ex-Oil Springs and Western Kentucky State College cage ace, is the hottest pitcher in the Appalachian League with a perfect 5-0 record with Salem, Virginia. His 71 strikeouts in six starts is the best in the league. Steve Hamilton, Morehead's three-time all-O.V.C. forward, has a 10-8 hurling record with Burlington, North Carolina, in the class B Carolina League.

Hazard and Perry county will honor two of its most promising athletic greats with a gala banquet in Memorial gymnasium, Wednesday, August 13. Recipients of several awards and honors will be Bob Lindon and Johnny Cox, who will captain the football and basketball forces of the University of Kentucky this coming season. Veteran football mentor Jim Caudill tutored Lindon at Hazard high and Goble Ritter guided Cox to statewide fame.

Needs Can Be Met By Bituminous Coal Of Oil Cut Off, Said

Special to The Times
Man, W. Va., July 24—The bituminous coal industry has told government planners it again stands ready to meet the free world's increased fuel demands if Middle East oil is cut off, but it needs a continuing market after the crisis, a spokesman said today.

Tom Pickett, executive vice-president of the National Coal Association, said he telegraphed Secretary of Interior Fred A. Seaton that coal could be relied on if the current international crisis results in the loss of Middle East crude oil which supplies 90 per cent of Western Europe's need and 24 per cent of United States' crude oil imports. Mr. Pickett said in a speech prepared for the Man Rotary Club that he reported to Secretary Seaton before the July 23 meeting of the Secretary and the Foreign Petroleum Supply Committee in Washington.

But he urged the Secretary to adopt a long-term fuel policy "that will consistently sustain a healthy coal industry, thus assuring energy supplies for the United States and the Free world and placing less dependence on vulnerable foreign oil sources".

Mr. Pickett said that twice in 20 years the coal industry has filled tremendously increased wartime energy demands as "other fuels were diverted to uses for which they were best suited". But after each of these emergencies, coal's normal markets were again flooded by imported crude and residual oil, he said.

If Middle East oil is cut off, Mr. Pickett said, "Western Hemisphere sources of oil could meet the requirements of the U. S. and Western Europe with great difficulty, if at all." He said the coal industry "has the reserves and the productive know-how to meet the challenge."

"However, to maintain an expanded production base, it should be assured of a continuing market after an emergency ends rather than again being cast in the role of a standby energy source and, like the police and fire departments, be called into action only when the emergency arises".

Secretary Seaton and representatives of 16 oil companies with overseas interests met yesterday for an "initial study" of the international oil situation in the Middle East crisis.

Floyd Minister's Kin Injured In Car Wreck In Letcher, Saturday

Willis Martin, 47, brother of the Rev. Robert Martin, of Martin, was seriously injured in the wreck of a jeep carrying U. S. mail near Democrat, Letcher county, Saturday.

At the same time his daughter, Jo Ella, 17, and his wife were injured.

Mr. Martin had taken the mail to Millstone and his daughter was said to have been driving back toward Democrat when, less than two miles from Democrat, the jeep failed to negotiate a sharp turn and shot over an 80-foot cliff into Rockcastle Creek.

Martin suffered a severe head injury, an almost severed ear, chest, leg and arm injuries. His daughter has a broken collarbone and a brain concussion. Mrs. Martin was saved from drowning when an onlooker pulled her from the jeep which had plunged into the rain-swollen stream.

POLIO VACCINE DISCOVERER ENVISIONS CURE FOR CANCER

Pittsburgh, July 29 — The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph reported Tuesday that Dr. Jonas Salk, developer of the successful anti-polio vaccine, is treating a 5-year-old cancer victim with a test series of injections.

Dr. Salk was not immediately available for comment. The newspaper quoted him as saying: "I have nothing of importance to say. When the time comes that we have something of consequence to report, we will do so."

The Sun-Telegraph identified the cancer patient as Mary Ann Paul of Cecil, Pa., near Pittsburgh. The newspaper quoted the child's mother as saying the treatments began in May. The story did not discuss what substance is being injected into the child.

The Sun-Telegraph quoted Dr. Salk as saying the child is suffering from "Ewing's sarcoma, a tumor affecting the soft of the long bones." The newspaper did not elaborate on the diagnosis. The mother said the child had undergone three operations before the injections were started. She said Mary Ann goes to Children's Hospital from her home each Tuesday for an injection.

At first, the mother said, the injections were given only every other week.

"The first time we went (for treatment) Dr. Salk explained the treatment to us. He said that the important thing to him is to learn the amount and intervals to give the shots, just as he did with polio vaccine.

"It is entirely an experiment, of course."

The mother, according to the newspaper, said Dr. Salk also is giving the test injections to three other children. The injections were given to the children, the newspaper said, after Dr. Salk had been experimenting with adults for a year.

The Sun-Telegraph story said the little girl is looking forward eagerly to celebrating her sixth birthday Saturday and that she has no idea of the seriousness of her condition.

HEALTH NOTES

Monkey Business
One hundred and fifty monkeys—all sick with tuberculosis. That was Dr. Leon H. Schmidt's problem.

In his laboratory at the Christ Institute of Medical Research in Cincinnati, Ohio, he was doing research on malaria. He had been using rhesus monkeys from India to test various anti-malaria drugs. But monkeys are highly susceptible to T. B. One spring morning in 1952 Dr. Schmidt was faced with the fact that he had 150 monkeys sick and dying from T.B. They were, of course, useless for malaria research. So he made the most of the situation and began research on tuberculosis.

At that time a new anti-TB drug, isoniazid, had just been announced. Experiments were immediately set up to use the monkeys to test the new drug. Today the major part of the Institute's work is devoted to TB.

Right now with the aid of a Christmas Seal research grant from the National Tuberculosis Association the staff is trying to develop in monkeys a type of TB similar to that found in man. Ordinarily tuberculosis in monkeys is acute and swift, unlike the chronic human disease. By vaccinating his animals with BCG, Dr. Schmidt hopes to be able to study new anti-tuberculosis drugs under conditions as nearly as possible like those in man.

Valuable information on new and old anti-tuberculosis drugs has already been obtained. Special X-ray equipment patterned for work with monkeys was obtained. In learning how to manage the rhesus monkey Dr. Schmidt and his associates have become masters of an invaluable tool for the advancement of scientific knowledge.

Recently an epidemic of TB struck valuable animals in the Chicago zoo. TB specialists in the Windy City urged zoo authorities to call in Dr. Schmidt. With massive doses of isoniazid he saved the lives of many animals dear to the hearts of Chicago children.

This story is typical of medical research—usually a slow and painstaking search for knowledge. Only occasionally dramatic, but always working toward better ways to protect your health.

ADKINS RETURNS
NORFOLK, Va.—Asher A. Adkins, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Adkins, of Ligon, Ky., and husband of the former Miss Decles Orsborn of Hi-Hat, Ky., returned to Norfolk, Va., July 2 aboard the destroyer USS Allen M. POULTRY JUDGING

The 4-H poultry judging team will begin training soon for competition at the State Fair in September. If any of you club members are interested in trying out for the team get in contact with the extension office. The requirements are that you be a member of a 4-H club this year and over 14 years old.

RURAL CLUBS

Re-organization will begin soon in the rural clubs. Any teacher or leader in a rural school that is interested in beginning a new club this year can do so by contacting the extension office.

FIELD DAY

The annual Floyd county Farm Family Field Day will be held August 8, on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Martin, Langley, Kentucky. The Martin farm is located on Turkey Creek about three miles from Maytown. The program will begin at 9:30 a.m. and should be over by 3:00 p.m.

Four-H displays of clothing, camp crafts and woodwork will be part of the events of the day. All club members are urged to attend field day and to bring clothing, woodwork, camp crafts for the display.

RECORD BOOKS

All club members should be working on their record books. Keeping records is an important part of the 4-H program. The record book will need to be in by the middle of September so they can be judged and county champions picked.

MAIL GOES THROUGH

Miles City, Mont. — General Manager Robert J. Scanlan of the Miles City Daily Star recently accepted a letter which was delayed en route a little — it was postmarked April 19, 1927. A school teacher writing on behalf of her classroom charges requested some maps.

Postal officials explained that the letter was found in an old saddle bag near Arvada, Wyo.

Youth of Six Churches Effect Organization

Organization of a young people's group was effected Monday evening at the First Church of God here as youths from the Prestonsburg, Lowmansville, Big Mud Lick, Paintsville, Little Paint and Lick Creek Churches met. The event had been originally scheduled as a campfire meeting at Dewey Lake but threatening weather caused a change to the church building.

The Rev. Denver Sammons was the speaker and three conversions resulted from the meeting. Gloria Jean Adams presided. Vocal music was rendered by the Crum family, the Bays sisters, the Lowmansville group, the Prestonsburg youth group and by Jean Carol and Katherine Hale.

Robert Kitchen was named president of the new youth organization which will hold its next meeting Aug. 18 at Paintsville. Other officers will be elected at that meeting. Jean Carol Hale and Russell Rice were named counselors of the groups at the meeting here. Present were 96 persons—58 youths and 38 adults.

SMELLED A RAT

Columbus, Ohio — Detective Jim Frost, called to investigate a $170 theft from a laundromat, thought he smelled a rat.

Tearing up a portion of the floor, Frost found two one dollar bills, a hole, a four-foot tunnel, then a rat's nest and $166.

Room Temperature Is Best

Tomatoes with a greenish cast will ripen better when held at room temperature than when placed in direct sunlight; unripe tomatoes that are refrigerated will not ripen properly, and will become watery.

To the man who says, "I'm from Missouri"...

Frankly, we don't expect you to take our word for it when we say the Swept-Wing 58 Dodge is unlike any car you have ever driven. We don't expect you to believe it rides smoother, corners better and handles easier just because we say so. You want more than claims. You want proof. You want to be shown, to be convinced. That's why we invite you to come in and Take the Wheel . . . Get the Swept-Wing feel. Take a '58 Dodge out on the road and compare it with any other car you have ever owned or driven. Is it everything we say it is? Does it actually ride smoother? Corner better? Handle easier? We'll leave the answers up to you. You be the judge. Just see and drive and compare the Swept-Wing 58 Dodge. That's all we ask.
