Second Man Is Accused In Slaying Wright Is Charged

As Accomplice; New Hearing Date Set

Examining trial of Herbert Gene Salisbury, Jr., of Hunter, who is charged with the murder last Tuesday at his home of Crit Butler, 25, was postponed Tuesday morning by County Judge Henry Stumbo till 10 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday). The order continuing the hearing gave the absence of Salisbury's attorney, Jim Hammond, as the reason for the post-

A warrant sworn out last Thursday by Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo named Edward Wright, Jr. as an accessory after the fact in the Butler slaying. The warrant alleged that Wright "committed the offense of being an accessory . . . after aiding or attempting to conceal or dispose of the body . . ."

The warrant for Wright's arrest had not been served Tuesday morning by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis. A duplicate warrant was issued and given a state

Sheriff Lewis was critical of the investigation of the slaying. He said Butler was shot in the forehead by a bullet fired from a .38-calibre revolver and twice by a .22-calibre weapon. The smaller weapon, he said, was Butler's, and he said he later found it about 60 feet from being referred to County Judge Henry the house. The .38 and a .25-calibre Stumbo for hearing. weapon were given officers when they arrived at the home.

Explosion-Fire At Louisa Kills Driver of Truck

The Prestonsburg fire department last Friday afternoon joined firefighters from half a dozen other Eastern Kentucky and West Virginia towns in battling a blaze which claimed the life of one man at Louisa and destroyed three buildings there, including the railway station. The fire began with an explosion resulting from a collision of a freight train with a gasoline tanker at the railroad crossing in downtown Louisa. Alton Brown, 32, of Paintsville, driver of a Pepsi-Cola truck, burned to death in his truck when flaming gasoline spurted from the tanker onto him as he apparently sat eating his lunch. The tanktruck driver, Robert Colvin, 37, escaped from the truck with a minor burn.

Reported destroyed, in addition to the rail station, were the McClure building, Walker's Market, a barber shop and an empty store building. The damage is estimated at $200,000. Four trucks and automobiles also were destroyed.

Ed Blankenship, an employee of Pack's Service Station, which is located at the crossing, said he saw the collision. He was quoted as saying: "I could hear the train but I couldn't tell you if it whistled or if the light was burning at the crossing. The boy (Colvin, driver of the gasoline truck) pulled up there, put his brakes on and came to a stop, and his load pushed him on a little, and he changed gears and went right on." The truck was sliced almost in half by the locomotive.

New Gas Raise To Affect Floyd

Residents of several Floyd communities will be affected by the rate increase allowed Monday by the Public Service Commission on natural gas supplied by the Columbia Gas Company. The increase is 11 cents per 1000 cubic feet and will average $1.72 a month for residential customers, it was said.

The PSC granted a total "flowthrough" raise of $3.5 million to three gas companies serving Eastern and Central Kentucky because of a rise in wholesale rates of the Columbia Transmission Corporation. The rate increase applies to Columbia Gas Company, the Wiser Gas Co. and the London Gas Co., with Columbia getting all of the increase except $100,000.

The increase is effective No. 1 and will be applied to meter readings made by the company after Nov. 16.

Among Floyd areas affected are Lancer, Harold, Betsy Layne, and Drift. Other communities served by companies which buy gas from Columbia may also be affected.

New Facility for McDowell School

This is the architect's concept of the physical education-lunchroom complex to be built at Mc-Dowell at an estimated cost of $664,714.60. Final plans are being drafted by Forrest G. McCloskey and Associates, Lexington architects, and it was said this week construction bids will be asked next month. Financing will be by bond sale. The structure will have an area of approximately 15,500 square feet, with an air-conditioned lunchroom.

Highway Office Says Short Cut Being Studied

Although KY 80, the 45-mile stretch of narrow, twisting highway from Hazard through Knott county into Floyd, now connects with US 23 at Allen, there is a possibility that when it is redesigned and rebuilt it could join US 23 at or near Water Gap.

This is not a certainty, but the office of the district highway engineer at Pikeville said Tuesday that the new terminus is being considered.

The change from a junction at Allen to Water Gap would not only link KY 80 with US 23 but also connect there with KY 3 (the Lancer-Water Gap road) and reduce the length of KY 80, planners say.

If the connection is made at Water Gap, the route which KY 80 would perhaps follow, it was said, would be up the Jarrell Fork of Bull Creek, across the mountain to connect with the present KY 80 location in the vicinity of Martin.

District Engineer Gail B. Mullins this week published a public notice in The Times, pointing to the KY 80 project and inviting citizens to contact the office for information. Hearings on route changes may be held later. The engineering work ordered two weeks ago by Governor Ford and Transportation Secretary Paxton listed the second phase of the engineering job as the relocation of the highway between Water Gap and Lackey. The first phase is to determine a corridor location for KY 80 between Hazard and Lackey

School Recess Follows Blast Near Maytown

Vandalism against strike-bound Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company's property and equipment continued last Thursday night as an explosion ripped out a portion of a 20-inch pipeline on the Turner farm hill, near Maytown.

The explosion at 9:30 p.m. disrupted gas delivery to the Ohio-Kentucky Utilities Gas Company serving Garrett and the surrounding community, including the Garrett Elementary School, the Golden Years Rest Home, near Lackey, many individual residential consumers and the Kentucky Hydrocarbon Company.

Gas service was restored to some homes about 2 a.m. Friday but at 7:00 a.m. some 400 families were still without natural gas for heating, according to John Allen, owner of Ohio-Kentucky Utilities Gas Company.

Burnis Gearheart, principal at the Garrett Elementary School, informed the company that approximately 380 school children were sent home and the school closed when the gas supply to the school was cut off by the explosion.

According to Mrs. Ollie Mae Grim, owner of the Golden Years Rest Home, that facility was also without gas service for about two hours, causing some inconvenience for 87 elderly patients who reside there.

In telegrams to Governor Wendell H. Ford and other top officials, the company asked for assistance in bringing the vandalism to a halt.

The company has posted cash rewards totaling $50,000 for information leading to

Rest Home Patients Evacuated as Blaze Discovered Monday

The Golden Years Rest Home at Lackey evacuated its 80 to 90 elderly patients Monday afternoon when fire broke out in a building across KY 80 from the main rest home structure. Less than two hours later, all were back in their rooms, and none was injured.

The building damaged by fire houses clinic X-ray equipment. Dr. Ira Potter said the blaze apparently originated in the furnace. It burned into the roof but none of the X-ray equipment was damaged, he said.

The fire was discovered around 1 p.m. Staff members and others used fire extinguishers and water hose to bring the flames under control before arrival of the Hindman fire department.

Forest Industries Grant Is Awarded To Floyd Student

Chris Shepherd, of West Prestonsburg, was recently awarded a scholarship by the Kentucky Forest Industries Association. He is a student at the Forest and Wood Technician School of the University of Kentucky at Quicksand.

The school is administered by the Department of Forestry at the University and is a part of the Community College System. Its 13,000-acre forest is an outdoor laboratory in forest management, fire protection, elementary surveying, and other subjects relating to the care and development of the forest resource.

When Shepherd receives his associate degree in the spring, he will seek a forestry job with some wildlife oriented responsibility. He has indicated he would be interested in locating in Eastern Kentucky or some other mountainous area such as eastern Tennessee or western North Carolina.

In awarding the scholarship, the Kentucky Forest Industries Association praised the type of training being provided at the Quicksand school and cited Shepherd as an example of the type of student who should become a valuable employee in the wood industry or some related field. KFIA is composed of more than 160 member firms throughout Kentucky who believe in wood as a basic raw material.

Shepherd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Shepherd, of West Prestonsburg. He is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School, and has attended both Prestonsburg Community College and Eastern Kentucky State University at Richmond.

Days Now... Later—What?

dern Kentucky, a land which in the past has traditionally ed behind the nation as a whole, has reversed the pattern. he economic recession affects almost every other part of the lited States, Eastern Kentucky, thanks to the coal boom, is burishing.

And if those who should know are correct in their assessment of the situation, the coal business has a bright future that is in no danger of ending soon. Secretary of the Interior Morton told coal industry representatives last week that, regardless of the availability of oil and despite all the research on more "exotic" fuels, coal is no mere interim answer—that is, not merely a solution of the problem while other fuels are sought-but will continue to play a key role in this country. Nuclear energy, solar energy, tidal energy, oil from shale and tar sands-all, Mr. Morton said, are at least ten years away, and none can compete with coal in price.

Nuclear reactors, which could provide the quickest and perhaps the most effective competition with coal, are fed on Uranium 235, and that's dangerous material. Cited are various instances of such danger. There was the Windscale Works No. 1 Pile, a breeder reactor in England which seven years ago suddenly spewed fission products over so much territory that authorities seized all milk and growing foodstuffs in a 400square-mile area around the plant. Also reported-and not all such accidents have been reported—was the malfunctioning of a reactor at the Enrico Fermi power plant, 30 miles from Detroit, which required "scramming" in order to prevent a potential runaway reaction. One report says evacuation of Detroit's 1.5 million population was considered.

On the other hand, coal, dirty as it is, is safe and plentiful. And Eastern Kentucky has all grades, including the finest on the continent.

For all this we are thankful.

There are many situations created by this coal boom that we do not like, but it becomes obvious that the country must have this fuel and that coal is going to be dug and hauled and sold to meet that need.

We insist that atomic fuel production should not be undertaken on a wide scale until it can be safely done. We also maintain that coal should not be mined without consideration of the land and its owners or tenants. The market price of coal runs high. The most scientific means of removing it from mountainsides, the most meticulous measures to prevent erosion, flooding, damage to water quality and marring the beauty of the hills-all this is not beyond operators' pocketbooks. This is not $7-a-ton coal, these days.

Much of "economically deprived Appalachia" is boom country now, and it's about time. These hills are looking much more attractive to a lot of people than ever before, and it's not for their great natural beauty.

So the cycle runs: Once a prosperous America, a depressed Eastern Kentucky; and now a prosperous Eastern Kentucky, most other parts of the nation in recession. But danger lies ahead. The moving finger continues to write, and the wheel continues to spin, and, one day, when all the coal is gone-what will be our plight?

This is why we have insisted that government should insist on conservation of the land, on protection of the environment and of people. Please, let us all join now in working and planning for the day when Eastern Kentucky and other coal-producing areas will need to be more than a region of denuded hillsides, choked streams and sad memories of days that were.

Asks Board Candidates Plans for 'Special' Child

Editor, The Times:

I took care to read in the last issue of the Floyd County Times what each candidate for School Board member believed and did not believe in-what each felt was necessary in the education of our children.

In all articles I failed to find any statement or suggestion for the emotionally disturbed child or retarded

I am very interested in what these gentlemen might have to offer in these fields. I realize a small amount has and is being done in Floyd county, that we now have two speech therapists serving the whole of Floyd county. We do have some special education classes, some classes for the trainable-but not nearly enough and not nearly enough qualified teachers. We have some teachers qualified for special education living in Floyd county and teaching in regular classrooms in Johnson county. I'm interested in knowing to what degree these candidates would go to see that these children receive what they deserve—a full-day program suited for them according to their handicaps, providing them with extras such as music and art under qualified direction.

I think each one of us must be concerned with the form of transportation our children have in getting to school, the condition the buildings are in when they get there, and, once in the school room, that each teacher is qualified and providing our children with as much training and education as possible and with the best equipment available. And this must include all children, the special child as well as the normal.

Ten Years Ago

(November 5, 1964)

Floyd county gave President Lyndon B. Johnson a majority of 9,292 votes over his Republican opponent Barry Goldwater, and set a new voting record Tuesday, again making a strong bid for the title of "banner Democratic county" of Kentucky . . . Winners by large majorities in Tuesday's election were Congressman Carl D. Perkins in his race for re-election and Edward P. Hill, candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals . . . The dropout rate for students at the Prestonsburg Community College has been much lower than college officials had anticipated, it was said this week, as only 10 fulltime students have withdrawn from 324 students originally enrolled . . . Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Craig Walker, of Louisville, a son, Robert Steven, September 16 at St. Anthony hospital, Louisville; to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Chaffins, of Wayland, a son, Steven Glen, October 26 at McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Kermit D. Castle, of Hueysville, a son, Lowell Dean, October 26 at McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital . . . There died: Roy Weems, 60, manager of Scott's Store, here, Tuesday at the Prestonsburg General hospital; Mrs. Violet Cooper, 56, of Estill, last Wednesday at McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; Mrs. Minnie Blankenship, 93, of Minnie, last Wednesday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; Baker Vicars, 58, of Melvin, Friday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; Mrs. Mildred Kidd, 37, of Harold, Saturday at Pikeville Appalachian Regional hospital.

Twenty Years Ago

(November 4, 1954)

The big news in Kentucky coming out of Tuesday's election was the capture in easy fashion of Republican John Sherman Cooper's seat in the U.S. Senate by the "Veep," Alben W. Barkley. In the Congressional race in this district Congressman Carl D. Perkins, Democrat, was reported 15,000 votes ahead of hs Republican opponent, Curtis Clark, Prestonsburg mayor . . . Coal production has picked up materially in the Eastern Kentucky field the last four weeks, it was noted recently from several sources . . . The Floyd county corn derby trophy will be awarded Lewis Burchett, of Cow Creek, it appeared ths week when his yield was computed by the University of Kentucky's Extension Service to be 120.7 bushels to the acre . . . Oldtimers of the section belabored their memories this week, attempting to recall a previous October that had had two snowfalls, and while they were about this task a real snow fell on election day . . . Decision of Prestonsburg high school's football team to play out the remainder of its schedule, despite the blow suffered in the deaths of two of its members, was reached at a meeting of players with Doc Ferrell, school officials and three Prestonsburg ministers last Friday morning . . . Married: Miss Dorothy H. Thomas, of Marcy, New York, and A-1C Taylor Reffett, of Prestonsburg, September 4 in New York . .

There died: Russell G. (Gus) Osborne, 59, native Floyd countian, last Wednesday at his home in Richmond, Ky.; N. P. Holbrook, 77, of Abbott Creek, Tuesday at his home; Everett Keathley, 44, of Amba, last Friday.

often heard years ago, Back this letter for me?"

Sure, I'm familiar with the saying; in fact, I've "backed" a few for folks, in my time. But search me, I have not the slighest idea how-come such an expression to ask somebody to address an envelope.

Now, I'll ask a question of my own" Why "back a letter" on the front of an envelope?

The Big Sandian Who Wasn't

Far From Being President Recent news-stories telling of the receipt by the University of Kentucky of the complete manuscript collection of the late Fred M. Vinson recalls personal recollections of the life and times of the Louisa native who helped make history and reflected great credit and honor on Eastern Kentucky.

I recall the big man whose nigged face might have been carved out of Mt. Rushmore standing on a Louisa street corner on the Fourth of July or other occasion when most of Lawrence county's population was in the county-seat, and calling by first-name almost every person who passed . . . and the genuineness of his greeting to each.

I remember the November night in 1924 when Fred Vinson was first elected to Congress. My father and I left the train (No. 38) in Louisa to call next day on M. F. Conley, owner of The Big Sandy News, about my first newspaper job. The streets were lighted with gas lamps, a cold rain was falling, and we made our first stop in a little restaurant across the tracks from the railway station.

We were not seated yet when an old man, one who was so old that his laugh was something of cackle, announced that "Freddy Vinson has jest been 'lected to Congress, and that ain't far from bein' President."

Wise beyond my years (if not above my ears), I had to laugh. Outside, I remarked to my father that the old gent was getting Mr. vinson along rather fast. On several occasions since I have been reminded that the old fellow was something of a prophet as Fred Vinson in a period of nine years held nine top posts in U. S. government, including those of Treasury and Chief Justice of the paid by Kopport and Day in September. Supreme Court. During World War II only FDR himself exercised more control of the situation than the "Freddy Vinson" the old guy had 20 years earlier put pretty near the Presidency, to the amusement of a country boy turned smart-aleck.

This was the giant of a youngster whom many remember as a baseball player of such ability that he might have made the Big Leagues, had he not become more interested in the mental than the physical. Several years ago when he was county judge of this county, the late Alex L. Davidson was in Washington and he decided to stop by and visit for a spell with his old baseball-playing friend, Fred Vinson. It was Chief Justice Vinson at that time. And was the Chief Justice mulling a brief or consulting a tome relating to the abstrusities of the law when Davidson entered his office?

He was not, Judge Davidson told me. He was seated at his desk, all right, but one foot was resting on the top thereof, and the Chief Justice was "r'ared back, reading The Sporting News."

"And that was the subject of our conversation, all the time I was there," Judge Davidson told me. "Baseball, mostly Big Sandy baseball."

To this day, I'm not certain Fred Vinson did not on occasion regret that he didn't stick to baseball. In any event, he never was far in spirit from the Big Sandy. Of that I am certain.

Harkins Mineral Associates, a limited partnership, Iley B. Browning, Jr. and Josephine H. Browning, successors to the Harkins Mineral Corporation. Defendants are the Daniels Creek Coal Co., the Colonial Coal Co. and Max E. Kofford, of Johnson county, and Sam Day, of Denver, Colo., doing business as Daniels Creek Partners.

The 15 tracts of land were originally leased to Colonial Coal Co., which in turn sub-leased it to Daniels Creek Coal Company. The latter, according to the petition, began mining and marketing coal from the lease in December, 1973 and continued to do so till August 12, this year. After that, the Daniels Creek Partners began operation-without, the plaintiffs allege, color of title.

Cancellation of the lease is asked on the grounds that, although Daniels Creek Coal Co. was twice notified in writing that it was in default of payment of the minimum royalty, this royalty was not paid in accordance with the lease agreement.

Asking an accounting of coal mined, plaintiffs point out that a first report last June by Daniels Creek showed 7,615.5 tons of coal were mined in May, this year, and that it was sold for $19,291. In September a revised production and sales statement for the month of May showed the same tonnage but set the sales price at $31.33 a ton for a total of $238,621.39. Another report filed Sept. 10 by Daniels Creek, plaintiffs claim, showed that 36,479 tons were mined from Dec. 1, 1973 through July 31 this year, and that it sold for $1,280,304.17. Harkins' royalties on the basis of 6 per cent of this total would have been $76,818,25, the petition says.

Plantiffs accepted a payment of $22,029.52 from Daniels Creek but says it did so with the stipulation that such payment did not satisfy their demand for a full accounting.

The Day-Kopport section of the suit says they entered upon the land and began mining lest August and since have strip-mined not less than 2784 tons of coal. Harkins Associates ask an accounting as to quality, market value and gross sales of coal and a judgment for double the market price of the coal if it is director of Economic Stabilization, determined that defendants are without director of the Office of War Mobilization title authorizing mining of the lease, less and Reconversion, Secretary of the a credit of $5,469.64 listed as voluntarily

The sheriff quoted Wright as saying Salisbury shot Butler with the .38-calibre gun, then picked up Butler's gun and shot him twice after he had fallen to the floor.

He quoted Salisbury's common-law wife as saying she heard Wright say, "Gene, go down and get my car and we'll take him up on the mountain," or words to that effect, after the shooting. The shooting, officers said, took place in the dining room where the three men sat at a table playing poker. Butler's body was in a small room at the rear of the house, and blood on the floor indicated his body had been dragged from the dining room to Sheriff Lewis said there are questions which should be answered. Among them, he said, are these:

EK Power Co-Op Loan Approved

A $25.2 million loan has been approved for improving and expanding the East Kentucky Power Cooperative, Inc., which serves this county and 67 others, according to Senator Marlow Cook.

Cook said the loan was approved by the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington Oct. 23.

Among the improvements the Senator said would be financed by the loan were construction of 20 new substations and an increase in the capacity and general condition of transmission facilities.

In addition, Cook said the money would help pay for putting up 176 miles of transmission line, for building facilities for substation maintenance and for generally improving and adding to existing generating facilities.

The loan was approved at a 5 per cent interest rate.

The Blackcats rolled over Johnson Central by a score of 26 to 0, and Wheelwright spoiled Jenkins' homecoming as the Trojans romped to a 42 to 20 win.

In the Prestonsburg game, durable Danny Layne sparked the Cats to their sixth win of the season as he scored three touchdowns—one on a two-yard run, one of three yards and the third on a 31-yard sprint. He also kicked two extra points. Layne's 20 points in the game now brings his season total to 111 points.

Mike Calhoun was on the receiving end of several passes by Greg Dixon, and on a spectacular catch in the third quarter scampered 21 yards for a touchdown. The Blackcats didn't get rolling until the second half in fact, neither team scored in the first two quarters. Harry Lee Burchett kept the ball rolling for the Cats in the half with several fine runs. Again Greg Dixon, the sophomore quarterback, filled in for Del Jaggers and had a fine night. The Blackcat defense had another outstanding night as they contained the running and scoring of Rick Adams, who came into the game with a total of 80 points. This was the fourth shut-out for the Blackcat defense.

The Blackcats will face Raceland this Friday night. Raceland will come into the game with an impressive 8-2 record. Last week, the Ramblers whipped East Carter by a score of 44-0. Another outstanding back, Terry Howell, is in the line-up for Raceland. He has a season total of 130 points after scoring 42 points against East Carter.

The Wheelwright Trojans closed out their 1974 schedule with a romp over Jenkins. Coach Don Daniels' charges ended seaseson play with a record of 3-7-1. This was the first losing season for Coach Daniels; however, the Trojans lost three games by only 6 points and one by 4 points. Again, Mike Armour stole the show as he scored four touchdowns and four extra points. Armour ended the season with a total of 124 points on 18 touchdowns and 12 extra points. Darren Little also scored a touchdown and an extra point. David Little scored one touchdown as he recovered a fumble and romped to the end zone.

Aside from milk of magnesia, no laxatives manufactured for humans should be given to pets, advise the United Mine Workers of America Welfare and Retirement Fund's health experts. Some laxatives contain strychnine in amounts harmless for dogs but it is a possible killer of cats. Even baby aspirin should not be given to cats unless at the direction of a veterinarian. Human cold remedies should never be given to pets and all tranquilizers and antibiotics should only be given by a veterinarian.

Episcopal Church Meet Held at State Park Here

The Diocese of Lexington of the Episcopal Church held its 79th Annual Diocesan Convention at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Friday and Saturday, October 25 and 26. The convention was hosted by St. James' Episcopal Church, of Prestonsburg, and St. David's Episcopal Church, of Pikeville. Convention activities began Friday afternoon with registration and an orientation for first-year delegates. An evening prayer service was held at 4 p.m. and Rt. Rev. Addison Hosea, Bishop of Lexington, made his address during the service. A banquet for 270 clergy, delegates, and guests followed the prayer service. John B. Wells, III, of Paintsville, was master of ceremonies. A number of guests from other denominations were present. The Rev. Dr. James Shepherd represented the Methodist Church; the Rev. Carl Flock was present for the Disciples of Christ, Msgr. Hellman represented the Roman Catholic Diocese of Covington, and the Rev. John Bush, Executive Director of Kentucky Council of churches, was present. The Rt. Rev. Wilburn C. Campbell, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of West Virginia, was the principal speaker for the banquet. On Saturday morning, the day started with a celebration of Holy Communion and then breakfast. The final business session was held Saturday morning.

Continuing Education Seminar for Pharmacists Scheduled Here Nov. 5

Management of hypertension, diuresis, vasodilation and sympathoplegia will be the topic for pharmacists in this area during the continuing education program conducted by the U. K. College of Pharmacy at Prestonsburg Community College. The seminar will be held November 5 from 8 till 11 p.m. in Room 149 of the Johnson Building. Two lectures with question-and-answer periods will be given by Profs. Samuel Shelton and David Love.

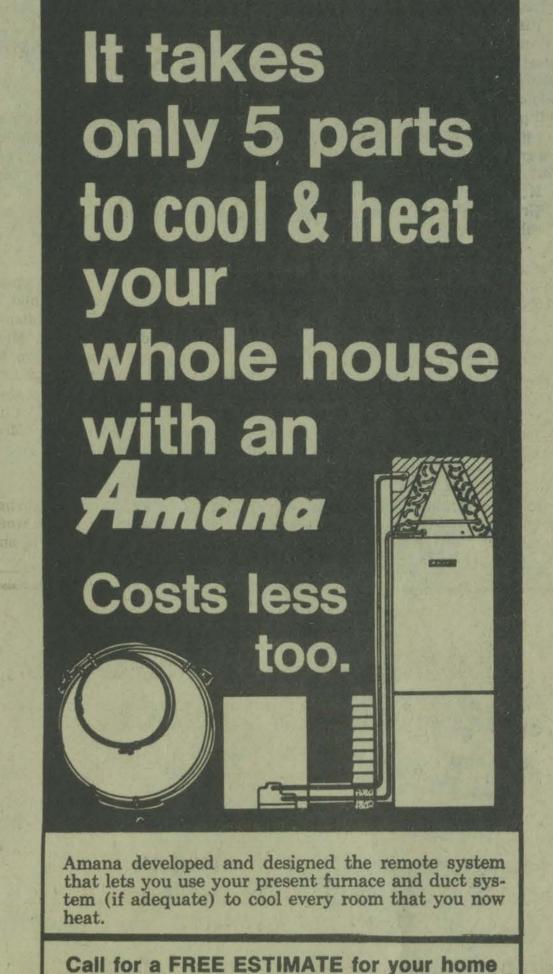

The seminar is being sponsored by the U. K. College of Pharmacy and the Floyd County Pharmaceutical Association in cooperation with Prestonsburg Community College.

GUARD CENTER DEDICATED

The $1.5 million emergency operations building at the Boone National Guard Center in Frankfort formally was dedicated by Gov. Wendell H. Ford on Oct. 17. The building will serve as the communications hub of the National Guard Center and will provide statewide communications for state agencies via a microwave system.

Floyd-Made Gourd Fiddle On Display in Capital Exhibit

primitive instrument is a valued part of the collection of the Festival of American D. C. Folklife.

A few years ago, "Fiddlin" Dewey Shepherd, of David, made for the Festival a gourd fiddle which was taken on tours of America and to foreigh countries. In its travels it was smashed. and for four years, Shepherd says, a replacement has been sought from him.

Shepherd says he was four years finding the kind of gourd needed, one that is long enough and has a neck of the proper size. This summer he found one, hollowed

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Lewis Edward Hall who was killed three years ago, October 30, 1971:

Our hearts are sad, but this we know When God called, you had to go. God needed you in heaven above To teach his angels how to love. Your gentle face and loving smile With sadness I recall. You had a kindly word for each and everyone,

And was loved by all. Oh, bitter was the trial to part From one so good as you. You are not forgotten, our love, Now will you ever be. As long as life and memory last, We will remember thee. We miss you now, Our hearts are sore, As time goes by We miss you more.

Sadly missed by Mommy and Daddy Sisters and Brothers

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: This is to notify you that by a vote of the Fellowship Church of God Conference the Town Branch Church and Ted Nelson have been expelled from said conference. REV. TROY SHEPHERD

Many of the state's top-notch bass fishermen will agree that fall is one of the most productive seasons of the year for harvesting fine strings of black bass.

Generally, the weather is far more stable than during the spring when heavy rains can keep the lake elevations jumping up and down like a yo-yo and when muddy waters can hamper most anglers' efforts.

But during the fall it is not uncommon for a fisherman to head to one of Kentucky's major lakes of a 1,000 acres or larger and find ideal water conditions and during the course of a weekday, he may never see another fisherman or even another boat.

With the unseasonal early frosts and cool weather, the surface temperatures of these lakes are fast getting to the ideal water temperatures in the mid 60s. It is during this period that black bass move in closer to the shoreline and go on a heavy feeding foray before the cold bleak winter months.

When the bass come into these shallow areas, they make themselves more available to the average fisherman. And the bass will feed over a longer period of time during the fall, which also enables a fisherman to harvest more fish.

Fall fishing, however, is like any other season in that the fisherman must find out what banks the bass are on and what type of lure they will strike.

Usually this is done by casting a given type of bank for 30 minutes to an hour with various types of lures using different types of retrieving techniques.

After a while, change the type of banks and lures until the right combination of bank, lure and retrieve has been established. Some of the other benefits of fall fishing may be when jumps occur and both white bass and black bass are found gorging themselves on schools of shad.

When the fish are feeding on the surfacing shad, it is not too difficult to fill a stringer or live box.

Fall fishing has many other exciting moments and one of these occurs in the head waters of the large tributaries when small shad congregate in the warmer water of the "run-ins." By trolling small spinners and lures through the upper sections of the tributary, the fisherman will discover that large white bass also frequent these areas and may be harvested by trolling or casting.

Still, there are other hot-spots to fish in the fall, such as below the dams of those impoundments where trout have been stocked by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. During the periods of low flow, many large rainbows are taken. Possibly the rainbow hot-spot of the state will be below the dam at Lake Cumberland. This tailwater affords outstanding fishing opportunities for more than 30 miles, from the dam to below

Still other tailwaters such as Kentucky and Barkley will offer sauger, crappie and white bass fishing right up in to the winter months.

If you have not tried late season fishing, then this year may be just the time to discover for yourself just how wonderful fall fishing can be for those who

Meeting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, last Wednesday, school board members and administrators from six area school districts elected Paul D, Hinkle chairman of the Kentucky School Boards Association's Eastern Kentucky (South) Region for 1975. Mr. Hinkle, chairman of the Pikeville Independent Board of Education, will also serve on the statewide governing board of the KSBA.

Wendell Knight, member of the Paintsville Independent Board of Education and retiring chairman of the Eastern Kentucky Region, presided at the meeting. The group was welcomed by Charles F. Clark, superintendent of the Floyd county schools. Those attending the meeting also heard presentations on personnel services, school insurance, legal issues, and other matters of interest and concern to the school boards of the Eastern Kentucky Region.

Carl Billiter, of the Pike County Board of Education, was elected vice-chairman of the region to succeed John M. Stumbo, chairman of the Floyd County Board of Education, Chalres E. Spears, Pikeville Independent School superintendent, was elected to succeed Oran Teater, superintendent of the Paintsville Independent Schools, as secretary.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, in fiscal year 1973 nearly 353,000 apprentices received training and more than 50,000 completed their apprenticeships in registered programs during the year.

Liquid Storage Tanks Produced

As Floyd countians have attempted to diversify industry and provide employment outside coal mining, the most marked successes have come in the manufacture of steel products. Notable among the successes in this area are the Elkhorn Industrial Products Corp. at Warco, with coal-mining machinery, and the R & S Truck Body Company, of Allen, which specializes in coal truck bodies.

A new venture in working with steel is the Kentucky Tank Company which began production recently at "Hillsdale" in a building formerly occupied by a portion of the Inland Gas Company's compressor station near here. The owner, Donald L. "Dootney" Horn, said his plant is producing about five tanks a week and that these, to date, have ranged from 2,000 to 10,000 gallons in capacity. Tanks manufactured to date are for liquid storage, mainly for diesel fuel and gasoline. Horn said he is equipped to make tanks up to 100,000gallon capacity.

The plant, which currently employs up to 15 men, is housed in the largest of the former gas company buildings, which Mr. Horn purchased. It is equipped to bend heavy sheet steel, weld, paint and test the tanks. Stands for the tanks are also made by the company.

Horn's venture into tank manufacturing began with the making of a sixfoot pipe for a Pond Creek church. Since then, he hwas been busy filling orders for large liquid storage tanks.

Leroy Nesbitt, a Washington D. C. attorney, claims that the Supreme Court can now justify about any intrusion it wishes to make on policymaking of any local school boards by simply declaring that public education is in the national interest. According to Nesbitt, "Education is about to go completely federal. The Federal Government has gone all the way from complete lack of concern about public education as the case was in the later 1800's to the place where it almost completely controls it."

Questions U.S. Control

Of Local Board Policy

Speaking at the June meeting of the NSBA Council, Mr. Nesbitt further stated that "School board members are the most powerful people in the country on this particular field of battle, and should address themselves to two basic questions: (1) Is it actually in the interest of this country that public education go federal? (2) Can there be a reversal of the trend with the seat of policy vested in local school boards?"

Gov. Wendell H. Ford has appointed two men to the Madisonville Community College Advisory Board. They are Edward M. Nicoletta and James C. Simmerman. Ford also appointed Delbert J. # DONALD C. NUNNERY Candidate for CITY COUNCIL

Even though I am unopposed, I would still appreciate your vote.

(Pol. adv.)

To Whom It DOES Concern

Well, a lot has been said in the "Times" in the recent weeks of the School Board race. I AND MY SUPPORTERS HAVE SAID IT! The time has come for the people to bring in the verdict.

The truth is, as all "Times" readers know by now, that I AM A DIFFERENT KIND OF CANDIDATE and I'm proud of it!

I cannot promise you HARMONY on the School Board after I am elected. As a matter of fact, in the first School Board meeting after I'm sworn in, I WILL MOVE TO FIRE CHARLES CLARK. Whether or not I get a second to the motion will be the choice of the other four board members. I do not blame Mr. Clark for all the trouble in our school system. As I have said before, A TYRANT CAN ONLY RULE AS LONG AS HIS SUBJECTS ARE DIVIDED AGAINST THEMSELVES. I urge that all we subjects unite.

My campaign is not a personal vendetta against Mr. Clark. Perhaps he has executed his office as did his predecessors and we are both victims of the times in which we live, he the last of the breed of Superintendents who unquestionably CONTROL Floyd County's schools, and I one of the first to be totally committed to opposing a school system PREDICATED ON FEAR AND DEDICATED TO POLITICAL EXPEDIENCY.

As a School Board member I would strongly oppose any new school Superintendent who came to the position as a result of a "Political Deal". Such a Superintendent would have political favors to repay and the cycle would begin anew with education again running a poor second to the politicians.

We CAN upgrade our school system. It does not have to be as it is because "it has always been this way". There is no reason for HOPE to be dead. If hope were dead, I would not be a candidate. You would have no one "telling it like it is", and you would make your choice on November 5 between the pupper candidates SELECTED BY THE POLITICIANS AND FOR THE POLITICIANS.

Diversity is not my objective, but I will never hesitate to stand alone if necessary when I believe the quality of education our children receive is being compromised and diminished as it has been in the past.

I feel honored in my candidacy for having served the many members of the silent majority who have come to me and expressed their support, and especially proud to have stood with the growing number of the outspoken minority in their effort to gain a better school system for Floyd County. Exercising my God-given right as an American to "freedom of speech" in a cause as good as our children and their tomorrows is a gratifying experience.

Vote for me Tuesday, November 5 if you are ready to have your school Board Member WORK FOR A BIG CHANGE. Vote to give our school children a chance to gain what they should already have, EQUALITY and QUALITY in education.

In time, with EQUALITY and QUALITY in education, ignorance would become a disease of the past, poverty would be reduced, politicians could no longer control large blocks of votes, and, last but not least, our children could raise their children in Floyd county without the grave concern we have felt for their education.

Mine IS an effort worth making and I ask you to authorize me to continue the effort now as your School Board Member. It will be four more years before you have another opportunity to make a choice.

I was born in Allen, Sept. 25, 1933. My dad was Bill (Dink) Lafferty, who died in the mines in 1944. My mother is Goldia Lafferty who now lives in Allen. I attended and graduated from Allen Elementary and Martin High School. I voluntarily served 7 years during the Korean War and am a partially disabled veteran. After my honorable discharge I married Emogene Hayes from Maytown. I have a daughter, 14, attending Allen Central High School, and three sons, 11, 9, 7, attending Martin Elementary School. After my marriage, I resided a Hunter 4 years and have now made my home in Martin for 10 years. I have made my living by selling milk for 14 years. I am the people's candidate from School Board Dist. 2.

Simon Kenton, Biological and Historical Giant

By Roger Cline
Simon Kenton was born in Fauquier county, Virginia, on April 3, 1755. His parents, Mary and Mark Kenton, had six other children. They were named William, Mary, Jane, Frances, Mark and

John. Simon was the youngest.

As Simon grew up, his favorite pastimes were hunting, cockfighting, horse racing, gambling and carousing. Simon's house was a one room home with a great stone fireplace downstairs, a loft and huge chimney upstairs. The outside was made of wide, rough, weatherbeaten boards, including the roof held down by its long weight poles. The dimensions were 16 feet long, 20 feet deep. Eleven people lived in this home.

The family was rather poor. They raised corn, garden vegetables, staple grain and tobacco. Simon disliked farming even as a young boy. By the time he was 12 or 13, he had become so good with his gun and bow and arrow that he was the hunter for the family. He provided fresh meat for supper very often. When the tobacco was harvested, they would put it inside a huge hogshead and hitch the horse to it and would "roll" the tobacco to Dumfries. Mr. Kenton would exchange it for ammunition and other needs of the family.

When Simon was about 17 years old, he fought a man over a girl. He thought he had killed the man and fled to the mountains. During this time he roamed around in parts of Kentucky and Ohio. He made lean-to's in the forest which were shelters made of branches and leaves with a fire in front to keep the animals away. While Simon still was roaming the wilderness, he met a family by the name of Butler. They befriended him. To show his gratitude and because he felt it was safer, he took Butler for his last name. He made his first trip to Kentucky with George Yeager and John Strode. The three met in a tavern at Fort Pitt. They made a canoe trip down the Ohio River made a canoe trip down the Ohio River looking for caneland that George had heard about. They went all the way to the mouth of the Kentucky River, but they found absolutely nothing. As they were making their way back to Fort Pitt, they stopped for the night. As Simon and George were returning to camp with meat and firewood, they noticed a band of Indians on top of the hill. Simon and John escaped, but George was tomahawked.

While Simon was staying at Boonesborough, he became a good friend to Daniel Boone. The fort had been attacked by Indians off and on while Simon was there. During one attack Simon saved Daniel Boone's life. When the Indians attacked Boonesborough, the defenders were outnumbered by a very large margin. While some of the warriors were in ambush, others were killing or stealing livestock and destroying crops. Once during the first attack, a small band of warriors tricked a few members of the fort into pursuing them outside the walls of the fort. When they were totally outside, warriors closed in behind them, cutting off their retreat. There was fierce fighting and a bullet broke one of Daniel Boone's legs. As he fell almost helpless, an Indian decided to finish him off once and for good. He raised his tomahawk for the finishing blow. Simon, who was close at hand, saw what was about to happen. He pressed the muzzle of his gun up against the Indian's back and fired before the Indian could strike Daniel. Simon's great size and strength paid off as he picked Boone up, put him over his shoulders and ran back to the safety of

When Simon went back to Fort Pitt, he served as a scout. He made a new friend, a tall, red-haired surveyor named George Rogers Clark. Simon liked George at once. George was from Virginia also, and was a wilderness man, too. That night Simon went with all the other scouts of the fort to George's cabin to discuss the coming war with the Indians. Some of the other scouts were Will Harrod, Leonard Helm, John Bowman the fort with all the other defenders.

and Simon Girty. Simon noticed that Girty stayed back in the shadows and didn't say much. When the meeting was over, Simon walked home with Will Harrod. They discussed Simon Girty. Simon found out that Simon Girty had been kidnapped when he was just a child by the Indians and was more Indian in thought and action than white. The next meeting Simon went to was with Simon Girty, not Clark. It happened that the two Simons were with Governor Dunmore and some troops at Fort Pitt. Dunmore had ordered Andrew Lewis to take his men to the mouth of the Kanawha River. Dunmore planned to meet Lewis there with his men. When Lewis arrived at the river, he promptly was surprised and surrounded by Indians. Meanwhile, Dunmore was going down the north bank of the Ohio River without stopping to meet Lewis. Dunmore sent the two Simons back to Lewis with a message. The message said that Lewis should move downstream. Lewis frowned and said, "There are Indians all around us, and you go back and tell Dunmore that I am not about to move!" The two Simons slipped back through the lines and reached Dunmore safely, delivering the message from Lewis. The next morning the Indians attacked Lewis's army. They were ready and drove the Indians back across the Ohio River. When Simon was visiting Harrodsburg, he was sent with two other daring men to recover some horses the Indians had stolen. They headed for Chillicothe. At night they slipped into the corral and harnessed a few horses. The Indians almost caught them, but they slipped away. They soon reached the Ohio River, but the horses refused to go into the water. They decided to go down the river to Corn Island, where they could cross the river easier. Suddenly Indians jumped out all around them. One man escaped, one was tomahawked and Simon was captured. The Indians began a journey to Chillicothe where they planned to burn Simon at the stake. That night they stretched Simon on the ground and tied him to stakes. In the morning they tied him, on his back, to a wild horse that bucked and went through briars and thorns. Simon thought they would never get to Chillicothe. Finally they arrived and the chief made Simon run the gauntlet. The gauntlet is a punishment where a prisoner runs through a double line of Indians who have clubs and knives. As the prisoner runs, the Indians try to hit and cut him as often as they can. After Simon ran the gauntlet, almost being killed, the Indians decided to take him to other villages and show him off before burning him at the stake. At several villages Simon was made to run the gauntlet. Once he tried to escape and would have made it if another tribe had not arrived. One night a small war party arrived and when Simon saw who the leader was, he gasped. It was Simon Girty. Girty gave no sign of recognizing Simon until one night when he was questioning Simon. Simon told Girty who he was and Girty talked the Indians into giving Simon to him. Girty gave him to some Detroit officials and they took him to Detroit as a prisoner of the British. He learned all he could about the area and in the spring escaped with another man. They made their way back to Kentucky. Simon soon changed his name back to Simon Kenton.

On February 15, 1787, Simon married Martha Dowdan and settled at Kenton Station, Kentucky. They had one child, a girl, naming her Nancy. Simon built the first brick house in Mason county. He still went on explorations, but finally stopped because of his age.

Simon had very little schooling. During the years he explored Kentucky, he claimed a great deal of land, but not with the proper authorities. When others came and made official claims for their land, Simon eventually lost all the land he originally had claimed. Years later at the capitol building the senator from Mason County said, "I beg you to consider what I have asked. If there had been no Simon Kenton, there might have been no Kentucky. He saved more lives than ever will be known. For years he lived in danger night and day in order to guard Kentucky's borders. Shall his reward be an old age of poverty?" In walked a tall, broad-shouldered, slightly stooped man leaning on a cane. Applause burst forth. The senators nodded to one another and promised Simon he would get his land back. This was a very happy time in his life.

On the day of his death, Simon said to his wife, "I have fought my last battle, and it has been the hardest of them all." Throughout the rest of the day, he lay in his bed quietly dying, but recognizing the friends and neighbors who had come to see him. On the evening of April 29, 1836, he died.

Those visiting were Rev. and Mrs. Lorie Vannucci, Dr. and Mrs. Martin Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller, Rebecca and Virginia Skeans, Mrs. Frona Rowe, Mrs. Penny Stumbo, Mrs. Alva Davis, Mrs. Nora Belle Martin, Mrs. Ethel Tangye, Phillip Spencer, and Mrs. Naomi Reid, council president.

Some 1,600 delegates are expected to attend the 53rd National 4-H Congress, Dec. 1-5, in Chicago. The 4-H delegates representing all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Distroct of Columbia, will be accompanied by some 250 4-H leaders and greeted by some 300 representatives of 4-H donor organizations and nearly 200 members of the press. Total Congress attendance is expected to top 2,400.

ACCOUNTABILITY

At last count, 27 states are working with mandated accountability legislation. Loud proclamations of success are not the order of the day, but the push for more accountability is evident in nearly all states, according to a report in the Education Commission of the States Legislative Review.

More than 5.3 million boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 19 are participants in 4-H programs and activities. Supporting their efforts are half a million volunteer adult and teen leaders, the men and women of the Cooperative Extension Service, the National 4-H Service Committee, the National 4-H Foundation and numerous private sector donors.

W'wright Accepted To National Flood Insurance Program

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development announced today that effective October 15, 1974, the City of Wheelwright has been accepted into the National Flood Insurance Program.

This means, said Federal Insurance Administrator George Bernstein, that individual property owners within Wheelwright are now eligible to buy flood insurance protection at affordable federally subsidized rates, offering more extensive coverage under the expanded program authorized by the 1973 Flood Disaster Protection Act.

"We think the new, expanded Flood Insurance Program offers a better way of protecting property owners from the ravages of floods, while easing the burden on the general public," Bernstein said.

"Since flood insurance is now available," he added, "the law requires that it must be purchased by owners of property in areas identified as flood prone, such as Wheelwright, in order to be eligible for virtually all forms of federal or federally related financial assistance for building purposes in such areas. This would include FHA or VA mortgages, loans from the Small Business Administration, or loans from any federally regulated or supervised banks and savings and loan institutions."

While flood insurance is available to all residents of the community, federal economic sanctions against building assistance will not apply to property outside the designated danger zones.

Policies are effective immediately during the first 30 days the insurance benefits become available. After the first 30 days, there is a 15 day waiting period. Flood Insurance policies can be purchased from any licensed local property and casualty agent or broker. The CNA Insurance Company of 111 East 4th Street, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202 has been designated as the flood insurance servicing company, for this area. Agents and brokers may obtain policy forms, rates, flood insurance manuals, and other necessary information from this

Board of Trustees Chairman Elmer Ferguson stated that, "This is something we've been working toward for quite a while. And, we have virtually no choice since Wheelwright has been designated as a flood-prone area. This is something Terry Feathers has been working on since he got here, almost a year ago, and I'm glad to see that we've finally made

According to Feathers "This is a big step for the community. It was something we had to to. It took a long time and a lot of work, but we've finally done it and gotten it all out of the way. I just hope that the citizens will now take advantage of this program. It would certainly be for their benefit."

The Obscure Origin of Barbed Wire

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD UK College of Agriculture

The origins of barbed wire that supplanted the split-rail worm fence of Kentucky and other places is obscure, but folk historians appear to agree that Joseph Glidden, a DeKalb, Ill., farmer was the first successful manufacturer. Leastwise, Glidden, a New Hampshire native, patented this wire in 1784 and inspired historian Walter Prescott Webb to call it the Industrial Revolution's "greatest contribution to the economic conquest of the Great Plains."

With typical Yankee ingenuity and an old coffee grinder, as the story goes. Glidden fashioned the barbs and adapted a grindstone to twist the strands. This new-fangled fencing material, however, met with considerable apathy until that financier known as John W. "Bet-a-Million" Gates took the wire to Texas.

In Texas, Gates laid the foundation for his legendary career as a plunger and speculator. Although Texans doubted that a little old wire fence could contain an ornery longhorn, Gates proved

Constructing a demonstration corral in the heart of "Old San Antone," he told the cowhands to bring on their wildest, meanest steers. "This is the finest fence in the world," he told the crowd on hand to watch the fun. "All steel, lighter than air, stronger than whiskey, and cheaper than dirt, the longhorn ain't been born that can get through it."

And he was right. Twenty-five of the toughest-hided and contrary steers to be found on the range exhausted themselves trying to break out of the barbed wire corral. Before nightfall, Gates had sold hundreds of miles of "bob wire."

In 1874, Glidden made and sold 10,000 pounds of barbed wire. Within a halfdozen years, the output had soared to 80,500,000 pounds a year. Farmers accepted this new kind of fencing more quickly than cattlemen, who complained

JUNIOR WOMAN'S CLUB INITIATES NEW MEMBERS

The membership of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club, GFWC, initiated new members at the club's regular meeting on October 17, at the Floyd county library here. Mrs. Kenneth Brown conducted the initiation service.

The club's colors of Red and white were used in the candlelight program. Mrs. Brown began the program by presenting each new member, with her sponsor's name, to the membership. She then began the program by lighting a candle representing the General Federation of Women's Clubs. New members lighted red tapers which were attached to this large candle representing GFWC. The program included a unison response of the Junior Pledge.

Four subcommittees of the Interim Legislative Committee on Labor and Industry have announced meeting schedules that call for several sessions away from the capitol. Rep. Thomas Burch of Louisville said he hopes the subcommittees will get better attendance by meeting in outlying areas.

that this "devil's rope" strangled their Meets at Paintsville traditional open range.

As a consequence of rancher attitude toward barbed wire, fence cutting wars broke out in Texas, Wyoming, and New Mexico as stockmen snipped fences to allow their cattle to wander over the range. Happily, though, the strife soon ended when cattlemen realized it was to their advantage to fence animals in isolation and introduce superior blooded

As it turned out, barbed wire was also the answer to a farmer's prayer-a plea for material that could be made into a fence "pig tight, horse high, and bull strong.

According to some authorities on antiques, collecting this old-time, sharppointed fencing wire has become quite a hobby. "Barb-arians," as the collectors call themselves, willingly pay high prices and swap 18-inch segments of Lazy Plat, Sunderland Kink, Ross's Four-Point, Ellwood Ribbon, and other choice samples of the "fence that tamed the West." Today, Kentucky farmers protect their crops and confine their livestock with miles and miles of barbed wire. Erected on steel posts, a barbed wire fence will usually give many years of trouble-free service. Practically impervious to any creature that cannot crawl under or fly over, barbed wire fences not only tamed the West, but they also made farm and ranch life everywhere much less dif-

Parents and teachers of Our Lady of the Mountains School met at the school in Paintsville last Thursday evening. Father Shockey opened the meeting with a prayer, and Sister Alma Marie, director of the school, acted as moderator in the absence of Pat Sheridan.

Parents and teachers have scheduled a film, "Parent to Child About Sex" for their November 14 meeting. They will meet with Father Shockey for the showing and discussion afterward. All parents agreed to a $2.00 fee for refreshments. A report on the magazine drive showed a profit of nearly $500 for the

After the meeting, parents viewed the classroom work of their children. Refreshments were served to a large turnout of parents from the Prestonsburg, Langley, Paintsville area.

William E. Burnett, executive director of the Governor's Council on Agriculture. has announced that the council will hold a series of hearings around the state in hopes of aiding farmers in producing and marketing their products. The hearings will be at the county courthouses at Mt. Sterling, Oct. 17; Burlington, Oct 18; Madisonville, Oct. 24; Mayfield, Oct. 25; Somerset, Nov. 14; and Franklin, Nov. 15. The meeting will be from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., with a noon-hour break.

Tho Prayers Decrease, Religion Courses Increase

While there has been a steady decline in formal prayers and Bible reading in public schools, a growing movement toward the academic study of religion has been noted in a survey conducted last year by Dr. R. B. Dierenfield, a professor of education at Macalaster College in St. Paul, Minnesota. The survey indicates that 45 percent of the school systems surveyed had such programs as Bible as literature, American religious heritage, and comparative religion, while 55 per cent of the systems had special units on religious studies intergrated into English or social studies programs.

The survey further shows that religious baccalaureate services were held in about half of the school systems, while Christmas observances were found in 85 per cent. The report revealed that 77 percent of he responding school systems indicated that no policy statements concerning religion in the schools had been formulated.

LEARNERS SHOW EARNING GAINS A study conducted by the U.S. Office of Education indicates that federally funded adult education programs are helping to raise both the educational level and the earning power of adults. Two-thirds of these students between the ages of 18 and 44 showed some gains in reading or math. Average monthly earnings were shown to increase 13 pct. in a year's time. Gains were also registered in percentages of those employed and a lower welfare rate for those in the programs.

Hopper Supply Increase Seen By Rep. Perkins

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has announced that several of the major rail lines serving the Eastern Kentucky coalfields have large coal hopper construction programs under way.

"We should start seeing these coal cars in operation in January, and they will help relieve the shortage of transportation we are now experiencing,"

Perkins said. He has taken an extensive interest in the problem of rail transportation for coal for some time, and has been urging that a massive construction and rehabilitation program get under way. Rep. Perkins related the shortage of coal hopper cars to the shortage of mine technologists, mine engineers and other mine personnel.

"We need right now to be training the people this industry will need for many, many years ahead," Rep. Perkins said.

The C&O and B&O (Chessie System) have a 7,000 car order on the way, with the first 100-ton cars scheduled for delivery in January, he said. About 80 to 100 cars will be coming into operation each week, augmenting the 67,000 coal cars the Chessie system now operates.

The L&N will receive 1,500 new coal hopper cars between January and June, capable of carrying 80 tons of coal, and 1,500 cars capable of carrying 100 tons.

The Norfolk and Western will start receiving the first of 2,000 new coal hopper cars capable of carrying 100 tons on December 1 of this year, and will receive them at a rate of about five a day, Perkins said.

The Congressman has been urging that much of the construction be done in Eastern Kentucky, including the facilities in Greenup county. He also pointed out that part of the problem involves delay at seaports. When no ships are available to carry coal overseas, it remains in the rail cars, and thus prevents them from being returned to the coal fields for additional loads.

Tuberculosis, while not receiving the publicity it once did, is still a persistent killer, according to the United Mine Workers of America Welfare and Retirement Fund's health experts. The hardy TB germ can lie dormant in the body for many years, then become active when resistance is low, leading to some 33,000 new cases a year in the U.S. The disease can now be treated, in most cases, on an outpatient basis at any general hospital. If you have lost weight without apparent reason and-or have a persistent cough, visit your doctor and have the necessary examinations for tuberculosis.

Archeologist Says Red River, Paint Creek Dams Would 'Rip Out History'

(From the Lexington Herald)

Construction of dams on the Red River and Paint Creek would mean "losing a page from Kentucky's pre-history" a Lila F. DeRossett, of Allen. Attending the University of Kentucky archeologist

> "You can't measure it in dollars and cents, but it would be like taking a page from the history book and ripping it out," Dr. Lathel Duffield said in an interview.

> The two dams, still in the planning stages by the U.S. Corps of Engineers, would flood sites where Indians lived thousands of years before Christ was born, Duffield said.

> Also lost would be the remains of villages where Indians camped during the 1000 B.C.-900 A.D. period, when agriculture spread to this part of the country, he added.

> Because of lack of funds, excavation can't be hurried at the sites that have been found, Duffield said, and many more in the same areas might be still undiscovered.

> The National Park Service provides funds for archeological surveys of proposed reservoir areas, Duffield explained, but the grants are so small that they sharply limit such surveys.

> "We only worked in the flatlands at Paint Creek. There were over three miles of cliffs that we could just stand in the road and look at," he said.

> In addition, the federal funds are to be used only for surveying that land that will be covered by water if and when the proposed dam is built.

But even with such limited research, it has been found that at least four different Eight hundred members of the cultures of Indians, dating back to 6,000 years before Christ, lived in the Red River and Paint Creek areas.

> "I'd rather not be too precise about the location of the sites we've discovered because they might be looted before we get to them," Duffield said.

> But one stratified site, "extremely rare in Kentucky," was found near Sky Bridge in the Red River Gorge that amounts to thousands of years of history stacked in

"It could put the whole story together,"

In Morgan County, the site of an Adena Indian Village has been found in an area that would be flooded by the proposed Paint Creek Reservoir, Duffield said.

The importance of this discovery, he said, is that most knowledge of the Adenas, who lived here about 800 years before and after Christ, comes from their burial mounds.

"Apparently, only the elite were buried in the mounds. The remains of a village could tell us what the common people did and how they lived," Duffield said.

"You need to know the complete picture of a society to understand it" he added.

To excavate these sites is a very tedious job, Duffield said. "One student spent a whole summer, with eight people helping him, just excavating a four-foot square in western Kentucky, for example," he said.

Before 1000 B. C., Duffield said, Indians in Kentucky didn't grow crops, but lived solely by hunting and fishing. That means they constantly were on the move.

The Paint Creek area, in particular, might contain some of the cliff dwellings they used to seek shelter from winter's cold, Duffield said.

"Each of these sites in unique," he said. "We have evidence of large villages in some areas, but we suspect that other Indians lived away from them, just as people do today.

"What we'd like to know is what the people were doing in the rock shelters in the rural lands of that period," he said. Beside the lack of funds, further research on the Kentucky sites that have been discovered is slowed by the lack of a research archeologist. "Some universities have people who do nothing but research," Duffield said, "But I've got to teach classes and can only do the work in the summer. "I guess if the funds were available, we'd have to hire someone to do the work," he said. "But right now, there just aren't any funds available."

Retired Teachers To Get Bonus

Frankfort, Ky.-For the third consecutive year, Kentucky's retired initiated in 1972 to provide relief to teachers will receive special cost of living bonuses, according to Ted L. Crosthwait, executive secretary of the retired teachers are not covered by Kentucky Retired Teachers System.

On Oct. 31, $3 million will be distributed to approximately 10,000 retired teachers and an additional $3.5 million is scheduled for distribution in October, Funds to provide these special payments were included in Gov. Wendell H. Ford's executive budget for 1974-76 which was approved by the 1974 General Assembly.

Date of Retirement
July 1, 1970 or before
Aug. 1, 1970 to July 1, 1971
Aug. 1, 1971 to July 1, 1972
Aug. 1, 1972 to July 1, 1973
Aug. 1, 1973 to July 1, 1974

The payment arrangement was Kentucky's retired teachers in meeting the rising costs of living. In Kentucky, social security benefits.

Retired teachers received bonus payments equal to five per cent of their annual benefit in 1972 and 1973. The amounts payable to retirants in 1974 will depend upon the length of time the teacher has been retired. Every teacher who retired prior to July 2, 1973 will qualify for the special payment.

October, 1974 schedule of payments:

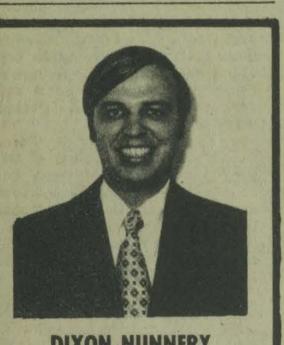

Bonus Percent of Annual Benefit	Minimum Payment	Maximum Payment
11 pct.	$300	$600
9 pct.	250	500
7 pct.	200	400
5 pct.	150	300
not eligible for bon	us until Oc	tober, 1975.

from the office of Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock were the following.

Mrs. Paul Holtman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., asked the Attorney General if her son, who has a learner's permit from Indiana, may take a driver's training course at St. Xavier High School in Louisville. The office of the Attorney General replied that a permit from Indiana is valid in Kentucky. According to state law. Kentucky usually refuses to recognize a driver's license from another state only when that state refuses to recognize a Kentucky driver's license. Since Kentucky and Indiana have an reciprocal agreement, the young man can take the class in Kentucky.

Complete Real Estate Service. JOE D. WEDDINGTON REAL ESTATE

Among opinions released last week Service, requested an opinion on the status of a "prescriptive right" road. These are county dirt roads which are unpaved and unmaintained, but used by the public. The office of the Attorney General says that a prescriptive right exists when there has been open use of a passageway by a person other than the owner for 15 years. The passageway must cross a property line, however. An owner can close the road if the road is entirely within the boundaries of his property. However, the roads which Mr. Wengert describes were reserved in the deed when the land was purchased by the United States and, therefore, the term "prescriptive rights" doesn't apply. Neither deeded rights nor prescriptive rights expire after a certain period of non-use. Likewise, the county cannot maintain such a road without putting it on the county road system officially, because they would be maintaining a private road.

Ken Downing, of Maysville, asked the Attorney General if the Mason County Board of Education may charge $5 per parking permit to allow students to park on school property. The Attorney General's office said that the proposal would be acceptable because state law gives the school board power to manage school property and make rules and regulations governing the operation of the school system. The only restriction is that the rule or regulations must be

The U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Outlook Handbook says the number of professional and technical jobs will grow at the fastest rate through the mid-1980's due to more research in the natural and social sciences.

New UK Board Chairman Began Education Work as Student

By PAUL OWENS

Long before he became a member of the University of Kentucky Board of Trustees and now its present chairman, William B. Sturgill was promoting education—elementary, secondary and higher education—and his alma mater.

As a student—B. S. degree, 1946; president, Student Government his senior year; member of the Wildcat basketball squad (No. 42) that played in Madison Square Garden in 1946, bringing UK its first national championship ("biggest place I'd ever seen")—he represented the student body before the state legislature, seeking money for the building of the Coliseum.

While a student—Lances and ODK, Sigma Chi, YMCA advisory council—he began working with then UK President Herman L. Donovan in setting up a scholarship program in engineering. He later helped organize programs in association with the coal industry.

By the late 1950's he had organized and was president of the Hazard Independent College Foundation, which helped make possible the establishment by UK of Hazard Community College (HCC). The Foundation bought the land for the new campus, built a scholarship fund for area students to HCC, and formed a contingency fund which is still active and just recently constructed three tennis courts on the Hazard campus.

Also, he had been instrumental in the language and wording of the legislative act that set up the Community College System under the administration of UK.

He was the first—and still is chairman of the HCC Advisory Board (he also has served on the board of Lees Junior College at Jackson).

In fact, during all his adult life Sturgill has been interested in education at all levels. He worked for the enactment of the Minimum Foundation program and has seen its results, especially in his native Eastern Kentucky: the elimination of one-room schools, better teacher's salaries, consolidation of many of the high schools, and massive installation of lab equipment and the introduction of new education techniques.

He has been a member of the UK Board since May of 1972 and this year became chairman, succeeding Albert Clay, who was the first lay chairman in history (prior to 1972 the chairman had been the governor). Clay was elected vice-chairman; Mrs. Lucile Blazer, secretary; Dr. Paul Sears, assistant secretary. Two new members on the board are Thomas Kessinger, Lexington, and Dr. Michael Adelstein, one of the two faculty representatives on the Board.

All this energy expended on behalf of education and the University does not mean he has neglected his business career. He began as a salesman for Atlas Powder Co., working out of his native Prestonsburg, then to Hazard in 1950 as executive secretary of the Hazard Coal Operator's Association.

After four years it was Columbus Mining Sales Co. and a move to Northern Kentucky. In 1950 he had married Eloise Williams, a home-town girl ("She lived right around the corner") and by the time of the move to Northern Kentucky there were two children: Mary Bertram, born in 1951; Paul Jennings, 1952; Richard Allen was to come later, in 1962.

The Sturgills soon returned to Hazard and in 1957 purchased the Oak Branch Mining Co. at Allais. "The first day I loaded just one-fourth of one car with coal." he said.

In 1970, the year he sold out to Falcon Seaboard Corp. of Houston, he loaded 3,375,000 tons, which roughly represents 67,500 railroad cars. By then he was in partnership with Dick Kelly (as Kentucky Oak Mining Co. and Kentucky River Sales Co.).

After the sale to Falcon in 1970, the family moved to Lexington (he remained briefly as Falcon's president and was named to the parent firm's board in Houston) where Sturgill has the Golden Oak Mining Co. and the East Kentucky Investment Co.

His business interests in Eastern Kentucky are only a plane-flight away and he uses the five-seater regularly. Among his activities is membership on the Mined-Land Conservation Congress and the advisory board of the Kentucky Reclamation Commission of the Department of Natural Resources.

He has been and is a member of the board of directors of Spindletop Research, the executive committee of the UK Alumni Association, the Kentucky, Coal Association board (past chairman), and in Hazard he was an elder in the Christian Church. He long has been active in Red Cross fund drives.

Through his efforts with these groups and the UK Board, he feels he is making a contribution to society, "...to pay a little something back for the space I've occupied ... and for the success I've had."

The new UK board chairman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy B. Sturgill, of Prestonsburg.

Ward Tells Why He Backs Ford

Hindman, Ky.—Speaking at a Sunday afternoon rally at the Knott County courthouse here, State Senator Tom Ward (D-Versailles) called for the election of Governor Wendell Ford as U. S. senator, and presented some of his own platform for Eastern Kentucky. Ward is a candidate for lieutenant governor in the May Democratic primary.

Senator Ward said Ford should be elected because he has kept in touch with the people and because Ford will listen to the people. Ward said he worked with Governor Ford for the passage of the Broad Form Deed Bill. "I know how much the people of this area wanted the broad form deed bill, because I heard from so many of you, and many of you came to Frankfort to support it. I want you to remember that this bill would not have been passed without the strong support of one man. That man is Wendell Ford. Representative Ray Overstreet, the sponsor of the bill, I and other supporters of the bill met at least twice with the Governor in the Governor's office. Governor Ford gave you the Broad Form Deed Bill."

In restating that Ford is a man who will listen to the people, Senator Ward cited his own meetings with Ford on the controversial Cumberland Falls Chair Lift. "I had strongly criticized the construction of the Chair Lift," Ward recounted, "and some of those around the Governor were upset with me because of that; but I went directly to the Governor. We talked for thirty or forty minutes. We had a cordial meeting. He listened. Then when he learned that the Chair Lift violated the Wild Rivers bill, he canceled it. That's the kind of Governor I want; that's the kind of United States Senator I want. That's why I'm voting for Wendell Ford."

Speaking of his own candidacy for Lieutenant Governor, Ward said he supports the aims of the Mountain Caucus and would go even further in supporting economic development for Eastern Kentucky. Ward said he is for strict but fair reclamation laws on strip mining, and that strip mining should not be allowed where people's homes, farms, or streams or roads would be damaged. Ward said he supports the responsible members of the coal industry. "We must have the coal, but we must also be able to live with the results of coal mining," Ward concluded.

VERY ILL IN HOSPITAL

Amos Dotson continues quite ill in Highlands Regional Hospital. His daughter, Mrs. Henry C. Greene, and Mr. Greene, of West Palm Beach, Fla., are here to visit him.

STRATTON SELECTED

A nominating committee of the Kentucky Bar Association has selected Henry Stratton, of Pikeville, as its president-elect for the coming year. John T. Ballantine, of Louisville, has been nominated vice-president. Stratton is presently vice-president and a member of the Board of Governors of the Bar Association representing the 7th Appellate Court District.

Gov. Wendell H. Ford has named James O. King Secretary of the Cabinet and Commissioner for Finance and Administration. King has been serving as "acting" commissioner since mid-August when Charles Pryor resigned. The governor also appointed James O. Hall to the position of director of the state Office for Policy and Management. That office was vacated by King's appointment.

Bologna—a Most Unusual Dog

By GEO. . MOORE

The name of the most unusual dog I have known was Sport but they called him Bologna. He was a mongrel of uncertain ancestry but if a dog could have taken an intelligence test, I feel quite sure he would have rated a genius. His owner was an elderly man well in his 80's. He had a meager income and could ill afford to purchase enough food for the dog and himself. In his struggle to survive, he had to make every penny count. He would buy a long, curved roll of bologna and hang it on a nail on the kitchen wall. This was sufficient for his meat supply for the week.

One day when he returned from the store, he forgot to hang the bologna in the usual place but left it lying on the kitchen table. He left the house and came down to the cap board mill at the mine to get wood for his stove. Just as soon as the coast was clear, Bologna emerged from his hiding place thrust his paw through a hole in the screen door and gave a quick jerk. When the door flew open, he jumped inside before it could slam shut. Needless to say, he consumed the entire roll of bologna. When he came down to the mines he created a sensation. He looked very much like an oversized stuffed sausage mounted on legs.

There were some 150 miners employed on the day shift at the mine; they all had known Sport since he was a small pup. The day shift was now emerging from the driftmouth of the mine. You began to hear all kinds of remarks from them "Hey, look at Sport," "Just look at him; he is bursting open." "What on earth has happened to Sport?'

Meanwhile, the angry owner had returned from his house after making an investigation. He returned with a club in his hand. He said, "I'm going to kill that onery rascal; he et my whole meat supply for the week."

Sport had too many friends among the miners for any harm to come to him. A collection was taken on the spot to pay the owner for his precious bologna. From that day on the dog was always called around Elk Horn Coal Company's mine No. 3. He was seldom idle for a moment. Just as soon as the tipple began operation in the morning, he would arrive on the scene. He made his rounds much as a general foreman would do; he would go to all the places that a dog was not supposed to go. He took if upon himself to take part in the operation of the mine. He would climb the winding steel steps to the interior of the tipple where the "bonepickers" were at work. When they saw him coming some one would say, "There comes the assistant superintendent." He would stand tall on his hind feet to get a better view of the work.

them on conveyors. These impurities were referred to by the miners as bone; hence, the term, bone-pickers. After Bologna was satisfied that all was going well with the bone pickers, he would continue his climb to the top floor where the coal dumpers were at work. From here he would walk over to the drift mouth of the mine and wait patiently for the motor tram of coal to emerge from under the mountain. As the coal-laden flat cars passed by, he would leap on top of one and ride to the dumping point.

His next stop was the repair shop. He had two staunch friends here, John Eskew and Mart Moore. He liked to watch the blacksmith sharpen the bits for the coal cutting machine. He never failed to extinguish any spark that happened to fall in the sawdust. From the repair shop he would go under the tipple where the workers were dropping freight cars. He would maneuver to get back of the car. As the car started to move, he would leap into the air and seize the rubber hose coupling in his mouth. Holding his hind feet a foot or so off of the ground, he would ride a hundred feet or so. Just before the car stopped, he would make a perfect two-point landing on his hind feet.

After he had made his rounds at the mines, he would go down to Stone Coal Creek and fish. As he waded in the shallow water, he kept a sharp lookout for minnows. When there were several close together, he would give a resounding whack with his paw and blast the minnows upon the bank. Sometimes he would eat them; sometimes he did this just to amuse himself.

When the night shift began work, the first thing to be done was to haul the timbers back into the mines. Bologna thought he had to help with this work. He never failed to help load the cap boards in the mine cars. A cap board is a wedgeshaped piece of timber about a foot long, five inches wide and about an inch thick at the big end. They are used to tighten the props that hold up the roof. He would make numerous trips carrying these boards. When they were loading mine ties, he would often carry a two by four.

When I left my summer work at the mines, Bologna went home with me. He was an unwanted and unwelcomed guest as far as my Boston Terrier was concerned. We moved to another community and Bologna had several adjustments to make. He liked to go to the post office with me and watch the passenger trains come in. In a very short time he graduated from freight trains to passenger trains. Just as soon as the passenger train arrived, he would trot to the rear end and wait patiently. When the train began to move he would leap into the air and grasp the coupling hose in his He was the best known personality mouth, hold on this manner for a hundred yards or so and when he let go he never failed to make that perfect two-point landing.

> There was only one time in his life that he had to have help. Some men were repairing the sloping metal roof on the gym. Bologna climbed a short ladder and emerged on the slick tin roof.

As he attempted to climb upward he could get no traction and began to slide toward the lower edge of the roof. He stopped the slide by sprawling flat with his nails not touching the slick metal. He remained very quiet in this position until he was rescued.

Bologna loved people but he hated These men removed the slate and other dogs, all kinds of dogs. It was his hate for impurities from the coal as it passed by others of his kind that brought about his downfall. The hate was mutual as far as other dogs were concerned. He left the lot one night to investigate a gang of barking dogs near our house. They immediately ganged up on him and literally tore him apart. He had just enough strength left to make it to the back door and for the first time in his life he was unable to open the door by himself. When I turned on the light, he looked up at me as if to say," I lost, but I went down fighting."

> According to economists in the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, finding a good job doesn't just happen; it must be planned for.

Black Lung Checks To Show Increase

Black lung payments to coal miners and their families will increase, beginning with checks mailed in early November, according to Jim Kelly, social security acting manager here.

Black lung benefits are pegged to the pay of federal government employees who received a pay increase in October. The monthly payment in November to a coal miner disabled by black lung, or to his survivor, will be $187.40-up from $177.60, Kelly said. The maximum black lung benefit payable when there are three or more dependents will be $374.80 a month, increased from $355,20. A miner or survivor with one dependent will get $281.10 a month beginning in November; and with two dependents, $328.00 monthly.

Payment of most black lung benefits under the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act, is administered by the Social Security Administration. The U.S. Department of Labor, however, began on July 1, 1973 to administer new claims filed by miners.

We're frustrated, mad and sad about your electric bill.

Your electric bills have gone up -and if you're upset about them, we can understand because we are, too.

We have a history of lowering the cost of electricity. Over the years we've had loads of rate decreases. In more than 50 years of serving you, we've never had a rate increase.

We're proud of that.

We don't know how much longer we can continue. Because now there are some things going on which are entirely beyond our control.

And you ought to know about them.

1. The same inflation that is devastating your budget at every turn is doing the same to us.

Every item we go to buy, from pliers to power poles, has bounced in cost up to 150%. And we shop like a housewife in a supermarket.

2. Fuel- which represents the biggest single part of your electric bill-has catapulted. Over 600%. A nice windfall for someone but not for you or us.

3. If you've tried to get a mortgage-or borrow a little money to put an extra room on your house-you've probably been shocked by the preposterous financing costs.

You can decide not to build. We can't.

We must build ahead to be ready to meet your needs. And no lender will give us a shortterm loan for a cost less than 12 to 15%.

4. Your air and your waterways are as precious to us as they are to you. We live here, too.

So we gladly equip our plants with the most reliable pollution controls available.

But their cost mounts frighteningly.

The numbers are so big they're hard to comprehend in terms of one man's pay day. But suffice it to say we're talking about millions upon millions of dollars.

Dollars for environmental hardware which doesn't produce a jolt of your electricity.

Well, now you know some of our frustrations. Just as you get mad at things that are beyond your control...we do, too.

And the skyrocketing cost of coal is one of those things beyond our control. And the reason your electric bill has gone up.

It's also the reason we're frustrated, mad and sad about your electric bill.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Sam B. Arnett:

We wanted so much to keep you, We watched you day by day. Until at last with breaking hearts,

We saw you slip away.

You wore a crown of patience, As you struggled on and on. And the hands that rest forever, Are hands that were so strong. God watched you while you suffered,

And knew you had your share. He tenderly closed your weary eyes, And took you in his care. Dear God, please take this message, To our loved one up above, 10-30-2t-pd.

Tell him how much we miss him And give him all our love. Sadly missed by Wife, Children and Grandchildren.

Conducting Label Collection Drive

The Prestonsburg Elementary PTA is in the midst of a special collection drive aimed at obtaining greatly needed audiovisual equipment. The program, Labels for Education, is sponsored by Campbell Soup Company and offered to elementary schools.

"Between now and December 31, 1974 we hope to collect enough Campbell Soup labels to earn a Viewlex Filmstrip Cassette Sound Superviewer which takes 17,100 labels" Ella Jane Howard, Prestonsburg Elementary PTA president, said. "The students are saving their labels and they would appreciate it if friends of the school would do the same. Without the help of the community this will be a fruitless undertaking, so take time-clip that label and deposit it in the containers that are displayed in the local groceries or take them to the grade school." Any Campbell's soup or beans label counts in the drive.

The U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Outlook Handbook says college graduates are likely to face stiff competition against workers with Surviving, besides her husband, are vocational training for paraprofessional and technical jobs.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Perry County SP 97-227-1L; Knott County SP 60-668-1L; Floyd County SP 36-61-1L

Kentucky Department of Transportation, Bureau of Highways, has initiated an Engineer's study to determine feasibility of constructing an improved highway from a junction with KY. No. 15 near Hazard to a junction with US No. 23 near Water Gap.

The engineering study will consider various alignment possibilities, within a broad corridor between these points, from which a preferred alternate will be selected for advanced design.

The Department of Transportation will evaluate each alignment alternate in terms of its social, economical, and environmental impact upon the area, the state and nation, to assure that the interest of the people are held foremost. During these evaluations the Department of Transportation will endeavor to enlist the participation of local officials, organizations, and individuals, directly into the planning and design process.

This coordination effort will be achieved by means of Public Meetings, and Public Hearings and through the daily availability of Department of Transportation Officials, at the District Offices in Pikeville, in Jackson and Frankfort.

The general public may contact the Bureau of Highways at any time to request information concerning the proposal to make suggestions or ask questions about any phase of the proposed development. Inquiries about the proposed highway project should be directed to Mr. Gail B. Mullins, District Engineer, Kentucky Bureau of Highways, P. O. Box 2468, Pikeville, Kentucky, or to Mr. James A. Stidham, District Engineer, Kentucky Bureau of Highways, P. O. Box 621, Jackson, Kentucky.

Floyd County Health Notes

Venereal diseases are America's No. 1 enemies among reported communicable diseases. Only the common cold is more common than V.D. Venereal disease is a disease that anybody can get. It is not limited to any age group or type or class of people. However, teenagers and young adults account for more than half of all cases of V.D.

Statistics show that more than 2,200,000 Americans catch gonorrhea each year and 500,000 Americans are now infected with syphilis. Since these diseases are so contagious and present such a health problem, the state of Kentucky allows treatment of minors for V.D. without their parents' knowledge or consent.

If you think you now have V.D. or that you have recently been exposed to it, visit your doctor or go to the Floyd County Health Department immediately. Onlh you can take this important step.

On Monday, November 4, a public health nurse from the Floyd County Health Department will hold an outpost clinic at Dr. Claude Allen's office in Martin. This clinic will last from 10 a.m. to 12 and from 1 to 2 p.m.

The following services will be available, free of charge: TB skin tests, immunizations, diabetes screening and blood pressures. All persons in the Martin area are welcome to attend this

On Thursday, November 7, the Floyd County Health Department will hold a Pap Smear clinic from 9 to 11:30 p.m. and 1 to 2 p.m. Patients for this clinic will be seen by appointment only. If you need an appointment call the Floyd County Health Department at 886-2788, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The health department reminds all women that deaths caused by cervical cancer could be completely eliminated if all women had a yearly Pap Smear. This clinic is free and open to all women.

Awards Banquet Slated Nov. 9

The 10th annual Governor's Conservation Achievement Awards banquet will be held Nov. 9 at the Executive Inn in Louisville.

The awards program, sponsored by the League of Kentucky Sportsmen and the Kentucky Wildlife Federation Foundation, is designed to encourage and recognize the efforts of individuals and organizations in the field of conservation.

Gov. Wendell H. Ford will deliver the principal address at the banquet and will present plaques to the winners in 10 different categories, according to League President Roy Haddix, of Lexington. Reservations for the banquet must be made by Nov. 5 by letter to Clyde Hubbard, Awards Chairman, 2216 Talbott Avenue, Louisville, Ky. 40205. Tickets will be picked up at the door. The intent of the awards program is to further the proper utilization and management of the natural resources of Kentucky-soils, waters, minerals, forests, fisheries and wildlife.

The league solicits nominations for the awards each year from community leaders, school administrators and its more than 300 affiliate clubs. The finals selections are made by a committee of league and wildlife federation foundation officials.

In addition to Conservationist of the Year, awards will be presented in the following categories: wildlife conservation, forest conservation, soil conservation, water conservation, high school student conservationist, college student conservationist, conservation education, conservation communications and conservation organization

The hospital is on Highway 644, two miles south of the Louisa business

Humana Inc., the Louisville, Ky., based hospital company, is the builder and operator of Community Hospital. Louisa General Hospital will close when the new hospital starts taking patients.

CARD OF THANKS

The children and grandchildren of Minnie Stephens would like to thank all the people who attended the funeral and sent flowers. We wish to thank the Rev. Andy Rose and Rev. Ted Nelson for their consoling words. We would also like to thank the singers for the beautiful songs they sang, and Floyd Funeral Home for their courteous service.

PRAYERS CHALLENGED

A recent ruling by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court declared that invocation and benediction prayers at high school graduation ceremonies are not in violation of the First Amendment of the U. S. Constituion or the Pennsylvania Constitution. In reply to a complaint by a group of parents in that state, the court ruled otherwise on both counts. The ruling stated that the prayers are not in violation of the establishment clause or the free exercise clause.

- (1) Do not believe in political pressure being applied to any school employee.
- (2) Do believe in a plan to redistrict educational divisions to allow a man to vote for a Board Member who lives in the district where his child attends school. This would remove the political gerrymander which presently exists in our county.
- (3) Do believe in a plan for vocational education at the high school level. This is necessary before your high school can be approved by the Southern Association of Secondary Schools.
- (4) Do believe in preservation of the neighborhood elementary school and regionalization for school districts.

An Open Letter to Judge Stumbo

25 Oct. 74

Hon. Henry Stumbo, Judge Hon. James Allen, County Atty. Prestonsburg, Kentucky

IN RE: Otis Lee Wallen, Oct. 5, 1974-Drunken driving and resisting arrest, test reading 23 points; arresting officer, Trooper Tucker

Dear Gentlemen:

The above cases are set for trial Nov. 14, 1974 in your court, the affidavits be attested to by myself, since I am interested in getting this habitual drunken driver off the road wherein my wife and children, myself and other citizens and their families must use the public highways daily to go to the store, postoffices, school, to work and many other purposes.

In the above case, about 3 p.m. in broad daylight, with five eye-witnesses as close as twenty feet and when there were no other cars or traffic traveling this road and when this driver had the whole width of both sides of the public highway, he sideswiped a vehicle parked on the side of the road and dragged and pushed it approximately fifty feet in the middle of the road, blocking all traffic.

Less than a month before and on Aug. 19, 1974, this same driver's drunken driving case was reduced to reckless driving with a test reading of 24 points, with Trooper Williams the arresting officer, and a fine of $50.00

Here are some of his convictions in your court: Case No. 17,308 Drunkness; 16,942, Drunkness; 15,311, Drunkness; 15,838, Drunkness; 22,983, Drunkness; 20,371, Drunkness; 25,216, Drunkness; 23,856, Drunk and Disorderly; 28,828, Drunken Driving reduced.

I am not criticising and I do not mean this as criticism, and I hesitate to even call this to your attention, but I felt you would welcome it and accept it in the right spirit and assist me and other citizens to get this drunken driver off our road and also off your road and the many citizens who must use the public highway to send their children to school, go to their work, the store and to church.

I will be there on this day, Nov. 14th, to testify if needed, and to assist in any way possible toward the above endeavor.

> Very respectfully, BURNIS MARTIN

P.S. I talked briefly with the County Attorney

(Adv.)

To The Voters In Educational District No. 2 Which Includes The Following Precincts: (New) Allen-Dwale, Arkansas, Cow Creek, Drift, Halbert, Martin, Maytown, (Old Allen) Mouth of Beaver, and Prater Creek.

GENE D. DAVIS

Do You Really Care About The Education of Your Children, Future Children, and Grandchildren? Think About This Question!

The private and personal decision that you make when you go behind the curtain of your voting machine November 5, 1974, could be one of the most important decisions that you will ever make concerning our children's education for the future. Your right to vote a secret ballot on the voting machine is one of the most important freedoms that we have left in our country support as School Board Member because I am truly interested in serving you and our children. I have had experience as a teacher at Betsy Layne High School and Lebanon High School, Lebanon, Ohio. I was Assistant Principal at Prestonsburg Grade School and Prestonsburg High School and served as Athletic Director. I was Principal at the following schools: Harold Grade School, Pikeville High School and Betsy Layne High School and Grade School.

I make this final appeal to all the voters in Educational District No. 2 and ask for your

I think Floyd County Needs an Educator on the Board of Education to serve as the people's representative. I am completely for any new buildings that we can afford to build but I say to you that the most important thing in education is the teacher in the classroom. Our children only get one chance to go through grade school and high school and if they do not get the proper training in the classroom their future will not be very bright for them. I believe that if a man or woman wants to be a candidate for school board member that he or she should run their own race and not have to depend on our county and state officials and local school personnel to carry the load for him. So I make this promise to all teachers, principals, maintenance workers, central office personnel, janitors, cooks, and any other employee of the Floyd County School System that if I am elected to the Board of Education you will never be asked to work for me in an election. I respect your positions of work and think it is a disgrace to you to be asked to work in school board elections.

School board elections are supposed to be non-partisan so I welcome Democrats, Republicans, Independents, and any other qualified voter that is interested in education in Floyd County. My wife and I have three children and two of them are presently in school and the third child will be in school in two more years. I am not seeking revenge toward anyone and I promise you that I will be my own man on all matters of decision making as your school board member. I will attend your P.T.A. meetings and listen to the problems that each school has and take your recommendations back to the superintendent and other board members.

I believe that I can win this election if all my friends and neighbors will pitch in and help me in this effort because I realize that I cannot do it alone. So if you know me, I ask for your help in this important matter. I have always taken pride in my work and you may feel free to check on my personal background. The question that you as a voter need to ask yourself is who is the best qualified of the three candidates running for school board member in Educational District No. 2? This is serious business where honesty plays an important part in a five million ($5,000,000.00) dollar taxpayer supported budget. This is your tax money voters! Support me as your school board member and I will see to it that the job is done right.

(Paid for by the candidate. 10-9-4t.)

History Coming Here on Wheels

The Kentucky Historymobile will be at the Municipal parking lot here, Friday through Tuesday, and each afternoon the public may view an authentic replica of an early log cabin, a slide presentation of a pioneer settlement at work and play, as well as a series of panels on historic personages, movements and events of the first decade of Kentucky's conquest and settlement. The Historymobile's appearance here is through arrangement with the Prestonsburg Woman's Club as part of the club's interest in the Bi-Centennial celebration.

Tours of the unit will be conducted by Dan Zwyer, historian-driver in the role of no less a personage than Squire Boone, brother of Daniel, who will answer questions of visitors to the exhibit.

Consumer Comments

By ED W. HANCOCK

(Attorney General) It doesn't always pay to do that homework! Consumers should be wary of work-at-home schemes promising hundreds of dollars of weekly income in return for a few hours of cutting, pasting or sewing in their own living rooms. Homemakers, the elderly or those physically unable to leave home often are attracted by ads offering $100 per week for part-time work done at home, with no training or experience necessary.

The schemes usually require the consumer to send money for instructions or materials. Sometimes the scheme ends right there, with the consumer losing his fee. If instructions or materials are received, the consumer may find they are incomplete.

Basic Truths in Old Textbooks— They Never Go Out of Style

By HELEN PRICE STACY

In homes of the southern mountains, dog-eared copies of McGuffey's Eclectic Readers may be found even yet, stored in attic trunks or basement boxes. These books were used both in the log school with split log benches and in the more sophisticated buildings in urban surroundings. Wherever they were, the poems and stories gained them love and

Some of the stories and poems were sad. Mothers were weak and pale from overwork; children labored long hours into darkness; parents had hard choices to make among their offspring; and youngsters, by their deeds, showed who loved mother best

In the poem "Which Loves Best" by Joy Allison in McGuffey's Third Reader, little John said he loved best, then donned his cap to run and play; rosy Nell expressed her love, but pouted all day; little Fan said, "I love you, mother," and since school was out that day, she rocked the baby to sleep, then swept and dusted. Hearing such a poem read, what child would not be inspired to follow Fan's example?

Still more hopeless would be the plight of a sixth grader of today who was asked to tackle his grandfather's copy of McGuffey's Sixth Reader . . ."

The Sixth Reader included writings by such writers as Disraeli, Johnson, Shakespeare, Dryden, Dickens, Gray, Scott, Holmes, Bryant, Webster, Bacon, Tennyson, Poe, Longfellow, Emerson, Pope and Coleridge.

These early-day textbooks are not the answer to education in the 1970's, but they could present social lessons with deep abiding morals of courtesy, respect, patriotism, honesty, thrift, compassion and other graces that seem to have waned in recent decades.

Not all lessons in the readers compiled by William Holmes McGuffey were pointed toward children. A couple was offered a house and land in return for one of their seven children.

The parents, hard working but poor, Louisville Courier-Journal: "The stories went from child to child. "Not her," they said at one; "He's but a baby," they said at another; "No, not for a thousand crowns, not him," they said at a third. After looking over all seven chilren, they made their decision. ### Hall Chronicles World History

By GEORGE WOLFFORD (In the Ashland Daily Independent)

PAINTSVILLE-C. Mitchel Hall, who in 1928 chronicled Johnson County and two years ago brought that register up to date in a pair of volumes totaling 10 inches in thickness, has tackled a much broader goal-the world.

His latest book, "Chronicles In World History," is a 709-page volume of Hall's capsule chronicles covering history all the way back through Biblical and related works through peace, inflation and the energy crisis.

He terms his work "a synopsis of important events in ancient, medieval, and modern history, chronologically arranged . . . so a reader can see what was happening in all parts of the world at the same time."

In putting together this work . . . he has relied not only on existing authorities, but upon his own experiences and research. Though the book covers all world and all time, Mr. Hall says, "I have limited these chronological events to those deemed important and necessary to provide, in order, a continuous chain of world events. Only in exceptional instances, where I deemed it necessary to avoid distorting the relative importance have the arts and sciences been included.

somewhat like an encyclopedia for quick reference, arranged in sequence by year or years."

The chronicle, written in generally terse paragraphs, contains the year date in a wide margin. Hall includes, with reference, quotations from other writers, books, and periodicals. Brief asides relates to the lives and deaths of presidents and other rulers.

History forms something of a pyramid with the largest base of knowledge at the modern end, and that is obvious from the space devoted to the years. For instance, at the beginning, the period 4246 B.C. to 2000 B.C. takes a single page. The 14th century covers three pages, 1936 four pages, and 1972 takes up 14 pages. Civil War notes, which reach into cause and post-war activity, cover 30 pages.

"While still a boy living in Kentucky, it was my privilege to listen to life-time arguments of elderly surviving members of a family who fought on opposite sides in the war," he says in explaining his belief some chroniclers of the War Between the States wilfully distorted history. "From these arguments, sometimes bitter, we were able to reach our own conclusins, which caused us later to question, in our own minds at least, much of the detail we read in school texts or were taught by the teachers. I feel I can record these events on that war from a neutral viewpoint . . . "

Interspersed among the pages are maps and photos, most relating to the main theme of inclusion, which is the social-political-military activity which wrought and reworked our lands into nations.

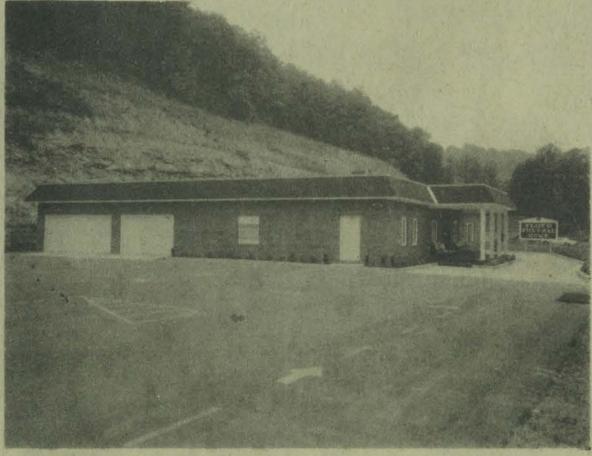

A pre-publication announcement from Gateway Press of Baltimore notes the book may be purchased from Hall at his Washington address (3401 Bangor St. SE) 20020, from $12. Price after publication will be $14.50.

If you have excess energy, a spring in your stride that doesn't weaken after half a block, or are a jogger, the third annual March of Dimes Walkathon is the place "In summary, these chronicles are to do your thing. At the same time, those participating in the Walkathon which will begin with registration at the Jenny Wiley boat dock at 8:30 Saturday morning, November 2, will be helping in the fight against birth defects which claim thousands of lives each year. Proceeds will go toward purchasing a mobile isolette for use in Floyd county.

The Walkathon covers a 15-mile route with refreshments served at rest stations along the way, and a bonus of hot dogs served at the finish line.

A ten-speed bicycle will be given to the walker with the most sponsors pledging at least 10 cents for each mile.

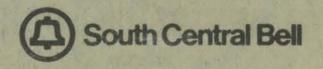

While the walkers are usually predominantly students, anyone may register from any part of the county. Further information may be obtained from Hershell Joseph, chairman, Dell Jaggers or David Flanery, co-ordinators of the walkathon.
