The bicycle from which a 13-year-old boy was knocked by the impact is visible near the right rear wheels. The car struck the bus on new KY 80 at the mouth of Turkey Creek, near Maytown, around 3:15 p.m. The bus was carrying no passengers. (Photo by Ken Peters)

Three Floyd Men Killed As Auto Hits School Bus

Three Floyd County men are dead as the result of a collision of their auto with a Floyd county school bus last Friday afternoon at the intersection of KY 80 and KY 777, the approach route to near-by Maytown.

The victims are:

—Donald Ray Terry, 23, of Estill, owner of the 1969 model Pontiac Grand Prix two-door in which the three were riding. He died of his injuries at the Morgan County Appalachian Regional Hospital, West Liberty. An ambulance apparently was transporting him to a Lexington hospital when it stopped at West Liberty.

—Jackie Bentley, 27, of Estill, who was dead at the scene of the crash.

—Worley Craft, 60, of Lackey, who died at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, several hours after the accident.

Slightly injured were Kedrick Blevins, Maytown Elementary School teacher and driver of the bus, and Clarence Robinson, Jr., 13, one of two boys who were on bicycles at the crash site. Young Robinson was hurt, it was said, when the impact of the crash caused the school bus to slide into him.

State Troopers Wendell Scott and Greg Roberts had not completed their investigation of the tragedy, Tuesday noon, and little of their findings is known.

Blevins, driver of the empty bus, said he had driven out of Turkey Creek and was crossing KY 80 to go to the school at Maytown when the bus was hit. The auto, travelling east, in the direction of Martin, struck the rear end of the bus on its left side with such force that it was driven half its length beneath the bus. The bus itself, though directly crossing KY 80, came to a stop lengthwise on the four-lane highway.

Authorities had not determined Tuesday morning which of its three occupants was driving the car. Coroner Roger Nelson said this may not be known until the results of laboratory tests are announced.

Terry, a native of Michigan, was the son of Mrs. Zelda Thornsberry Hamilton, of Martin, and the late Raymond Terry. He is survived by his mother, his step-father, Vernas Hamilton, of Martin, and three brothers, Ronnie Darrell Terry, Rome City, Ind., Jackie Terry, Memphis, Tenn., and LeRoy Terry, of Lackey. His funeral was held today (Wednesday) at the Upper Quicksand Community Church. Burial was made in the family cemetery on Quicksand.

Bentley was born at Wayland, the son of George and Rosie Isaacs Bentley. In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, Lisa Ward Bentley, of California; a daughter, Mindy Bentley, also of California; three brothers and two sisters, Herman Bentley, Jr., of Lackey, Willie and Ross Bentley, both of Wayland, Miss Sandra Rose Bentley and Mrs. Pamela Ross, both of Detroit, Michigan. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at 11 a.m. from the Martin Branch Free Will Baptist Church, the Revs. Buddy Jones and Green Boyd officiating. Burial was in the Isaacs cemetery at Topmost.

Despite Broad Form Deed Law...

State Grants Permit On Contested Tracts

A lawsuit filed by a Floyd family has prompted the administration of Gov. Martha Layne Collins to declare its hand, the state siding with the coal industry in a dispute over whether surface mining officials should issue a permit where a landowner is challenging a coal operator's right to stripmine.

The question has much to do with how easy or hard it will be for a property owner to block stripmining under Kentucky's new broadform deed law.

The issue was pressed in Franklin Circuit Court recently when Maggie Taylor, her son, Marion Taylor, and daughter, Elizabeth Stone, sued the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet in an attempt to void a permit issued to Triple Elkhorn Mining Co. to strip their property in Stumbo Hollow near Martin.

The day after the suit was filed an attorney indicated the governor would support the Cabinet in its contention that it should issue permits even in cases where property rights are in dispute.

Prestonsburg attorney J. Logan Griffith, who represents the Taylors in their suit against the Cabinet, said landowners will have trouble stopping stripmining in cases of disputed broadform deeds. That's because the onus will now be on the landowner to seek a court injunction against the coal operator—and chances are the judge will require the landowner to post a substantial bond.

The Taylors have sought, so far unsuccessfully, to have a court affirm their rights over the coal company by virtue of an 83-year-old broadform deed. Even before the passage this year of a state law saying that broadform deeds permit only those mining methods in use at the time the deeds were signed, the Taylors argued that their deed forbade stripmining because of a handwritten clause on the bottom of the deed requiring that large trees not be cut.

As long as the point is in dispute, say the landowners, the coal company should not be given a stripmining permit. But the Cabinet contends that to hold up a permit would be tantamount to adjudicating the dispute, which is the role of the courts.

Members of the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, a group that lobbied for the law restricting broadform deeds, said last week that Gov. Collins had violated her oath of office by failing to enforce the law. "They're enforcing the drunk-driving law and ignoring the broadform deed law," said Chalmer Hicks, of Perry county, who noted that the broadform deed bill took effect on the same day as another statute that strengthened penalties against drunk drivers. "What's the difference?" he asked.

Library Offers Large-print Books

The Floyd County Public Library is taking part in a program to receive a large-print book collection from the state. The library will receive a new collection of about 50 books for a three month period. Anyone who has trouble seeing regular-size print will find the large print books a delight to read, said Librarian Carolyn Traum.

This Town...That World

Please...give us a holiday from Monday holidays.

But look what they've already scheduled for us this year: Columbus Day, moved back from the historical Oct. 12, a Friday, to Monday the 8th, and Veterans' Day, edged up from Sunday, Nov. 11, to the 12th—and all this to make long, whoop-de-doo week-ends.

CROP REPORT

Hot, dry weather and a lawnmower have ruined what started out to be one of the finest dandelion crops I've ever raised.

THE PORTERS

Floyd county's Dr. Henry G. Martin is retired from his years with Eastern Kentucky State University at Richmond but apparently is still working. The former resident of Eastern, on Right Beaver Creek, has published a book, "Pickin' Up the Porters," which begins with the life of Patrick Porter (1737-1805), one of the pioneers who settled the present Scott county, Va., and who was Martin's great-great-grandfather as well as the progenitor of thousands of other Big Sandians. The book is a new addition to the Floyd County Library here.

Haven't read Henry's book but have learned that it records the fact that Samuel Porter, one of Patrick's sons, was an Indian fighter and companion of Daniel Boone in his travels and that another son, John Walker Porter (later a resident of Johns Creek), was a Revolutionary War veteran.

BOATING MISERIES

Highlands Plaza Adds 7 Stores

SEVEN STORES have been added to the Highland Plaza shopping center, part of a $350,000 expansion. The investment reflects a bid by developers to take advantage of the market opened up by Floyd county's steadily growing population and improvements in highways serving this area, said Dick Davis, Highland Plaza manager.

It is not quite coincidental, Richard S. Davis concedes, that the current expansion and facelift at the Highlands Plaza shopping center on University Drive comes at a time when two new shopping malls are under construction on the outskirts of Prestonsburg.

Davis, of Atlanta, is one of three partners in Highland Plaza Associates, owners of the shopping complex. He manages the center here and is overseeing an expansion which has recently added a gas station and seven new stores.

The expansion, which increased commercial space at Highlands Plaza from 84,000 to 94,000 square feet, represents a $350,000 investment, Davis said.

In addition to the new stores, drainage of the parking lot has been improved and a landscaping project on University Drive is designed to upgrade the general appearance of the center, the developer said.

While business has been good at Highlands Plaza since it opened—Hecks, the largest store there, opened in 1976, the other stores in 1979—the planned opening next year of two malls near the intersection of U.S. 23 and the Mountain Parkway has provided an incentive for the new investment, Davis acknowledged. "We want to meet the competition," he said.

Scheduled for opening in the new year are Prestonsburg Village, a $10 million mall being constructed by Commonwealth Development Corporation behind Western Sizzlin' restaurant on U.S. 23 and Glyn View Plaza, a $3 million project being developed by James Arthur Hughes on the Middle Creek road nearby.

Highlands Music Festival Begins Friday at Park Here

They'll be making merry and a lot more—music and apple butter, for instance—at the 10th annual Kentucky Highlands Music Festival this week-end at Jenny Wiley State Park.

The festival will begin Friday noon with an Arts and Crafts Fair, an attraction which will be held from noon till 6 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday in the Amphitheatre parking lot. But its official opening will be Friday night, with Mayor Harold W. Cooley and Park Supt. Leon Russell greeting participants and guests preceding that night's program devoted to a country dance festival. Square dancing, both hillbilly and western, clogging and other forms of the terpsichore and traditional music, both vocal and instrumental, will be enjoyed at both the Friday and Saturday night sessions.

Although most of the festival will center on the Amphitheatre, a program of art, literature, music and dancing at May Lodge will be an attraction on Saturday.

At the parking lot the East Point Community Development Club will make apple butter, all day Saturday.

The festival has been dedicated, "with warmth and appreciation," to the Festival Band, a group of local musicians who will participate throughout the three-day event, and who play for the love of music and mountain tradition. Its members include Dave Sizemore, Eugene Blackburn, Clifford Branham, Ollie Wallen, Elmer Fields, L.B. Fairchild, Gheard Martin and others who may join them.

The festival will close Sunday with a program of mountain religious music. This program traces the evolution of church music from its early beginnings

Jenny Wiley's Grave Sparks New Interest

How come the sudden interest in Jenny Wiley's grave? Mrs. Dorothy Meade wanted to know last week.

For years no one had paid much attention to the last resting place of eastern Kentucky's most celebrated pioneer woman—in the hilltop cemetery above Mrs. Meade's Johnson county home—when, all in the space of a few days, she was "hounded" by callers seeking information about the grave.

Blame Connie Schooler. She wrote a letter to the Lexington Herald-Leader, published last Tuesday, confessing her shame at the sorry state of the graveyard, which lies off KY 581, near the Johnson county community of River, six miles north of Paintsville.

An acquaintance of hers, a teacher of Appalachian literature at a West Virginia college, told her the cemetery is almost impossible to find, coffins are coming up out of the ground, and debris had been bulldozed against the fence enclosing Jenny Wiley's grave.

The historic grave is "sadly, disgracefully neglected," the teacher reported.

Another letter writer followed Sunday with a practical solution to the problem. "The Department of Parks should move the grave to Jenny Wiley State Park," wrote Elsie Kennedy, of Frankfort, who recommended a postcard-campaign to that end.

Not likely. Jenny Wiley's burial place may have generated only limited excitement over the years but nothing is calculated to prick the sensibilities of some Johnson county residents like a suggestion that the grave be moved to Floyd county.

COMPLAINTS that the grave of Jenny Wiley was being neglected drew officials from Jenny Wiley State Park to check out the reports for themselves, Friday. State park officials have no jurisdiction over the gravesite—it lies on private property in the Johnson county community of River—but said they would be happy to provide a home for the historic grave at Jenny Wiley State Park "if anybody wants to give it to us."

Inspecting the grave last week were Larry Totten, left, business manager at Jenny Wiley State Park, Judy Goble, a secretary there, and Leon Russell, park superintendent.

Murder Charge Against Woman Dismissed Here

The murder charge against a 43-year-old Dana woman has been dismissed in Floyd Circuit Court.

The charge against Geraldine Jarrell was struck from the docket by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley Aug. 22 at the request of Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen. In moving to halt prosecution of the case, Allen called it "a perfect case of spousal abuse."

A grand jury alleged Mrs. Jarrell shot her husband, Jackie Lee Jarrell, four times with a semi-automatic pistol on March 17. Jarrell was 48. He died in the couple's Prater Creek home.

Mrs. Jarrell was said to have admitted killing her husband, but claimed it was in self-defense. Police said the two were quarreling at the time of the shooting.

In support of his motion for dismissal, Allen presented evidence that Mrs. Jarrell was beaten by her husband over a period of 25 years. The Jarrells' two children, Belinda Davis, 26, and Jackie Dwayne Jarrell, 21, said they had often seen their father punch their mother in the course of an argument.

Young Jarrell expressed surprise that his mother knew how to use the alleged murder weapon, a .22-caliber Luger belonging to his father. Jarrell usually kept the weapon hidden and stored the cartridge clip separately for safety reasons, his son said.

Dr. Robert P. Granacher, Jr., a Lexington psychiatrist who treated Mrs. Jarrell for depression after the shooting, said he believed she was "a victim of prolonged and extensive spouse abuse" and that she was probably afraid for her life on numerous occasions, including the time her husband was shot.

—"Vogel-Day Kids," a group of 5-11 year-old Sunday School pupils who are presently taking their latest musical, "Singsational Servants," to several churches in the area, will sing three songs from their play.

—"Little Miracles," 12-year-old Misty Daniels and Sabrina West, who have been performing together for several summers at the Jenny Wiley Theatre will sing two of Sandi Patti's hit gospel songs.

—Melanie and Melita Cooke, of the Immanuel Baptist Church of the Mullins Addition, will sing two gospel songs. These girls are 1984 graduates of Pikeville High School.

The public is cordially invited.

Bicycles, or "swift walkers," were first imported to the U.S. in 1819. The New York City Common Council passed a law that year preventing their use in public places and on sidewalks.

Artist Gives Painting To Church

Mrs. Mary Webb Martin, formerly of Estill, and presently of Ocala, Florida, stands beside a painting of the original Hueysville Church of Christ, of which she was a long-time member. This church burned in December, 1980, and has been replaced by a new building on the original site. Mrs. Martin's grandson, Mack Webb Martin, a Floyd county artist and muralist, and a teacher at Allen Central High School, produced the painting from which prints, titled "Yesterday," have been made are being sold, with half the selling price being donated to the church building fund.

The painting is being given to the church in memory of the artist's great-grandmother, Mrs. Arminta Allen Webb, who was an early member of the old church, and to honor his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Webb, Martin, who will celebrate her 93rd birthday on September 10 in Ocala.

Ronald McDonald Joins Gingerbread Festival

Ronald McDonald, the world famous clown, will be coming to Knott county for the 100th anniversary celebration and will be riding in the Gingerbread Festival parade, September 8, in Hindman.

Ronald was invited by the Knott County Jaycees, who have committed themselves to raise money for the Ronald McDonald House soon to be opened in Lexington, according to Dr. Lee Mayer, a local dentist and vice president of Community Affairs.

Ronald McDonald will be riding on the Ronald McDonald House float, which is a miniature house built with the purpose of increasing awareness of the Ronald McDonald House, and the service it will provide to the residents of Eastern Kentucky and the need for donations.

Ronald McDonald will also be at the Jaycees booth after the parade to meet and greet kids young and old. Ronald McDonald House brochures, balloons and buttons will be distributed at the booth while supplies last.

The Ronald McDonald House of the Bluegrass, located on Stadium Drive in Lexington, is currently scheduled to open in late fall of this year, but donations of time and money are still needed.

The Ronald McDonald House will be a "home away from home" for Kentucky families whose chronically ill children are receiving extended treatment at any of the five hospitals in Lexington.

The house will provide patients' families with a place to sleep, eat and receive comfort and emotional support. The house will have 17 guest rooms with baths, a community kitchen, lounge, laundry facilities and play areas. Each family staying at the house will be charged a nominal fee, if they can afford it. Otherwise, there is no charge.

The drive to establish the Ronald McDonald House was begun in 1980 by a non-profit organization called the Children's Oncology Services of the Bluegrass, Inc. Members of this group include parents, doctors and their wives, owners of McDonald's restaurants in Central Kentucky, and other residents of Central and Eastern Kentucky.

A total of three-quarters of a million dollars is needed to open and maintain the Ronald McDonald House.

The C.O.S. is $250,000 short of its goal, and financial donations are still needed, along with volunteers, home furnishings, products and services.

If you can help in any way, call (606) 268-0936 or write: Ronald McDonald House of the Bluegrass, P.O. Box 22414, Lexington, Kentucky 40522.

HRMC Expansion 87% Completed

Over 87% of the 68,000 square foot addition to Highlands Regional Medical Center has been completed, according to hospital construction management officials. The project remains on schedule, with completion anticipated by Thanksgiving.

Several hospital departments have already relocated in the basement of the HRMC addition. Billing, Credit and Collections, Nursing Education, and Finance offices moved to their new quarters in July. Also opened in the hospital basement is the "Learning Center." This area consists of four classrooms for employee and community educational activities.

The next section of the HRMC expansion to be completed is the Emergency Department which will open by October 1. The new Emergency Department will be double the size of the current one. Specialized treatment areas for fractures, cardiac, obstetric, and trauma cases will add superior emergency treatment capabilities at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Other departments to be expanded in the addition at the Medical Center are the Intensive/Coronary Care Unit, Surgery, Radiology, Laboratory, Physical Therapy, and Medical Records. Forty-seven new patient beds will also be opened on the second floor of the addition.

"We are proud of how smoothly the construction has progressed and have high praise for the local workers and contractors," said Clarence C. Traum, administrator. "Due to everyone's hard work and the cooperation of our employees and patients, we will soon be able to better serve the residents of the Big Sandy."

Let's Take Care of Our Own

Publication of a Lexington woman's letter describing the sad condition of the grave of Jenny Wiley, pioneer heroine, has awakened many of us to a belated sense of guilt.

It serves no purpose for us now to point the accusing finger at any individual or group for this shameful neglect. We are all guilty—some more guilty than others, because they were more aware of the situation than others, but in greater or lesser degree we all share the shame.

Now that the condition of the grave has become public knowledge, there may be heard the claim that the state should be responsible. But this is a plain case of begging the issue. Jenny Wiley is our heroine, not the state's. Whatever respect is due her, now long dead, is to be paid by us, the people of the Big Sandy Valley, the place where her dramatic exploit took place and where she lived and died and now rests.

The Big Sandy Historical Society, or some other respected group, should now assume responsibility for the care of the grave, and the people of Johnson, Floyd and other Big Sandy counties should provide the cost of continuing care.

Whatever we do will, of course, mean nothing to Jenny Wiley, but it will do much for our collective self-respect and give us the right to say again, truthfully and proudly, that Eastern Kentucky would prefer to take care of its own.

Craft was a son of the late Zola Gibson Craft and was a native of Estill. His wife, Lillian Boyd Craft, preceded him in death. He is survived by one son, Andy Craft, of Estill; a daughter, Mrs. Priscilla Hunter, of Georgia; two brothers, Tommy Craft, of Garrett, and James Craft, of Wayland, and by four sisters, Pearlne Slone, Kendallville, O.; Patty Coburn, of Garrett, Lorraine Whilser and Dorothy Cummings, both of Shelby, Ohio. He also leaves three grandchildren. His funeral was held at 3 p.m. Monday at the Martin Branch Free Will Baptist Church, and burial was in the Glo cemetery.

Funerals of the three victims were directed by the Hall Funeral Home.

I had a boat which sank at the dock last year. At some expense the ill-fated vessel was salvaged, repaired and returned to the lake.

A few weeks later, the boat sank again. Same place, same cause. Again it was made seaworthy and returned to the lake.

This year, after one fishing trip, this same boat (sometimes known as The Albatross) contrived to get itself uncoupled from its tow vehicle while en route home from Cherokee Lake. That "totaled" it.

But did I throw up my hands and quit, as most sensible people would? I did not. I invested in another boat.

As of inst. date, the new craft is fine, though not exactly trouble-free. The battery got into the act, a few days ago, and went dead on us when we were several miles uplake and as darkness was threatening to do its daily falling act.

Have I quit? No. The battery and motor are now getting first-aid, and I, as they say, can hardly wait, even if I do sometimes feel like the boy who stood on the burning deck.

and European influences to more modern forms.

Examples of music in worship to be presented include a rhythmic choir and handbell choir from the First United Methodist Church; the Gregorian Chant; an old footwashing song sung by Edith James, the festival founder; lining of hymns by the Rev. and Mrs. Jack DeRossett; a hymn from the four-note system by the Jenny Wiley Singers, and shaped-note singing led by Paris Goble. Mrs. Curtis Vickers, Dave Sizemore, and Sam Leslie will share fireside hymns, accompanied by mountain instruments. The trio from the Community United Methodist Church and Mike and Dannelle Flannery, of Langley, will sing more modern forms.

The program of religious music will be presented Sunday, Sept. 9, at 5 p.m. in the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre.

(A detailed program of festival events appears elsewhere in this edition of The Times.)

Story-Hour Is Open To Three-, Four-Year-Olds

Story hour will begin again on Wednesday, Sept. 19, at the Floyd county library with an organizational meeting for parents and a story for three- and four-year-olds.

The series will continue on Monday, Sept. 24, at 10:30 a.m. for three-year-olds, and on Wednesday, Sept. 26, at 10:30 a.m. for four-year-olds. Each group is limited to 12 children. Parents should call the library before Sept. 19 to reserve a place for their children.

The story hour, which will be under the direction of Dr. Dorothy Carlson, early childhood education specialist, and Mrs. Sharon Sparr, is designed to foster self-confidence, listening and other skills, and an interest in books.

Kentucky Crops Remain Mostly In Good Condition But Need Rain

Kentucky crops remain in mostly good condition despite inadequate rainfall.

"The crop condition remains good thanks to moderate temperatures during the past week," says Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

Rainfall amounts last week (Aug. 20-25) varied from 2.28 inches at the Quicksand reporting station in Breathitt county to none at four other reporting stations. Twenty-eight of the 35 reporting stations have recorded below-average rainfall for the past four weeks.

Statewide, soil moisture is reported 67 percent short and 33 percent adequate. "Corn and pastures are suffering most," Boswell said. "Corn is advancing toward maturity in mostly good condition, but it is under some dry weather stress. Pastures in many areas are beginning to fade due to the dry conditions."

Corn silage harvest should be under way this week, and a few early planted fields could also be harvested for grain this week.

Soybeans are continuing to develop in fair to mostly good condition.

"Reporters also rate the tobacco crop in mostly good condition," Boswell said. "Burley acreage is now 84 percent topped as compared to 43 percent last year."

All Kentucky crops are ahead of last year's development, but they are still behind the average.

"Basically, the rains we have had have enabled the crops to hold on, but we aren't guaranteed a good harvest yet. We still need more rain before farmers can relax," Boswell said.

Opinions differ as to how bad conditions are at the gravesite and there is an even wider divergence over who is responsible for its upkeep.

Although it has been temporarily removed during highway construction, a sign to the grave usually stands at the mouth of Wiley Branch, on U.S. 23 about a mile south of the Johnson-Lawrence county line. Another approach, from Paintsville by way of Tom's Creek, is also marked clearly, as is the entrance itself, on property owned by the River community club and volunteer fire department.

Tracing the path to the old family cemetery on top of the hill is trickier but no great feat. A rusty turnstile suggests tourist traffic was once heavier but even now, neighbors said, the site attracts a steady trickle of visitors in the warmer months.

Someone has taken potshots at several signs along the trail and the path itself is badly eroded. But the grave of Kentucky's illustrious pioneer, lying under the shelter of a fine oak, is clearly marked by a tall granite headstone and enclosed by a chain-link fence.

"Jenny Wiley, 1760-1831," the legend reads, and a bronze plaque affixed to the stone outlines the story of her life, including her capture by Indians—called "savages" here—and subsequent escape.

A bronze plaque was mounted on the headstone marking Jenny Wiley's grave in 1965. An inscription on it reads:

"Heroic pioneer mother. Captured by Indians, October 1, 1789 at Walker's Creek, Va. Witnessed the slaying of her brother and five children by savages. Was held captive for several months on Little Mud Lick Creek in the present Johnson County. She escaped from the Indians to Harmon Station at Block House Bottom and was later united with her husband, Thomas Wiley, in Virginia.

"Mrs. Wiley returned to Johnson County with her husband and a cabin was built near this site about the year 1800, where they reared a family of five children. Jenny Wiley died in 1831."

That is the monument erected in 1955 at the urging of the Big Sandy Historical Society. Behind it, protected by an in-elegant steel cage, is the original sandstone marker, now weathered to a fraction of its original bulk.

The site is unkempt. A small American flag planted in the ground in front of the grave marker is faded almost beyond recognition. Someone has discarded a styrofoam cup nearby. And, as the Lexington letter-writer noted in disgust, dead brush is piled thick against the fence enclosing the monument.

"I wouldn't call it an absolute disgrace or anything," commented Leon Russell, superintendent of Jenny Wiley State park, who made an informal inspection of the gravesite Friday, "though it's bad enough."

Disgrace or not, it is by no means clear who is responsible for it. Mrs. Meade insists that when her late father, Joe Stambaugh, gave to the state a six-foot easement to provide public access to the site, it was on condition the state maintain it.

Bob Bender, a state Department of Parks official, said the legislature in 1960 authorized the parks department to spend up to $1000 to mark the grave and the transportation department up to $500 to put a fence around it. But he said there is no record on file of the state's agreeing to maintain the site.

Guy B. Meade, Dorothy Meade's son, owns the property now. A Paintsville landscaping contractor, he insists the state has reneged on a commitment to keep the place up. "As far as I know they've never set foot on that hill," he complained. Over the years, Meade says, it has fallen to him to clean up after visitors who have littered the area, trespassed on private property, and sometimes partied all night.

Although the situation has improved since the neighboring community club put up a gate two years ago, Meade said he was "tired of the motorcycle riders, drunks and heathens" who used to congregate at the site. In the course of clearing a house seat on the property last year, he re-routed the path leading to the cemetery and pushed the cleared debris up against its perimeter. Both measures were designed to give his family some privacy, he explained.

Meade said he would have no objections to the grave being moved—for a price. "It's not going to leave for under $25,000, I can tell you that now," he said.

It is not going to leave under any circumstances, if Ed Hazelett has his way. "We were totally opposed to that 19 years ago and we're totally opposed to it today," said Hazelett, a former president of the Big Sandy Historical Society and a prime mover in the group that had the River site more permanently marked in 1965.

There were 500 to 600 people at the dedication ceremony, Hazelett said. "The Floyd county people had wanted it moved there then and we cranked up a big campaign to keep it here."

Dorothy Meade, who would herself shed no tears if the historic grave were moved, acknowledged that the idea would not sit well with some of her neighbors. "You know how it is," she said. "Floyd county has always been a rival."

The Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) targets three groups most in need—economically disadvantaged youths, welfare recipients and dislocated workers, according to the 71st annual report of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Couple Cleared Of Arson Count In Store Blaze

A circuit court jury took only five minutes to decide last Wednesday that Millis and Verdie Hamilton were not guilty of setting fire to their liquor store.

The couple were owners of V. and H. Carryout at Beaver until it caught fire during the night last Sept. 19, was put out by the Mud Creek Volunteer Fire Department, caught fire again around 4 a.m. the same night, and burned to the ground.

They were charged with arson, the prosecutor alleging they set the second fire themselves with a view to receiving a substantial insurance settlement.

An insurance company later paid them $21,000 for their loss—a fact that may have helped convince the jury that they were not to blame for it, said their attorney, Gary Johnson. "Who has ever heard of an insurance company paying a claim there's any doubt about?" he asked.

Other defense witnesses supported the Hamiltons' claim that they had nothing to do with the blaze.

William "Running Bear" Ray, of Grethel, said he was hunting squirrels when he noticed the fire and alerted the Hamiltons, who lived next door to their store. They were in night attire and appeared to have been sleeping, he testified.

Shirley Newsome, of Mink Branch, who said he was a former bootlegger who tried to turn to legitimate liquor sales when the county went wet, said Millis Hamilton had refused his offer to buy the store. That indicated the store was prospering and the Hamiltons had no motive to burn it, the defense argued.

In an unrelated case, David Hamilton, 20, of Galveston, was granted shock probation Monday, after serving a month of a one-year sentence for burglary.

Hamilton and another, Billy D. Hamilton, 23, were accused of breaking into the home of Davis Evans at Grethel last Sept. 9. The older man pleaded guilty to a charge of criminal trespass and was sentenced to 60 days in jail.

David Hamilton, who was said to have stolen two watches and two rings from the house, was charged with second degree burglary. He pleaded guilty to third degree burglary, a lesser charge, and received the one-year sentence on a recommendation of the Commonwealth.

(Shock probation is sometimes given first-time offenders, on the theory that the shock of imprisonment may be enough to deter them from further crime.)

Board Member Has Opposition

Only one of three incumbent Floyd school board members will face a challenge in November. Henry Douglas (Doug) Bailey, of McDowell, will be running against McDowell physician and three-term board member Dr. Mary Hall in the fourth educational division.

In the third division, Fred Newsome, operator of a television antenna company, is unopposed, as is James Arville Duff, Hueysville grocery, in the fifth division.

The deadline for filing was August 28. Bailey, 44, a switchman for South Central Bell, is married with four children. His two oldest children are graduates of McDowell high school; the two younger children attend Mountain Christian Academy, a private school near Martin.

Dr. Hall, a board member since 1972, shook off a challenge by Carson Akers four years ago, winning that race by 1658 votes to 1271.

In District Court

Sentenced in district court, following guilty pleas or verdicts, were:

Sherman Rogers, Grethel, drunk driving, $137.50 in fine and court costs, alcoholic driver education (ADE); Gary Tackett, Beaver, no driver's license, disorderly conduct, 30 days; Paul Roberts, Grethel, drunk driving, $137.50; Bill Tom Shepherd, David, criminal mischief, 30 days, $157.50; Douglas Webb, Ligon, drunk driving, amended to public drunk at request of prosecutor, no license, $50; Donald Adams, Weeksburg, drunk driving, no license, two days, $224.50; Kenny R. Allen, Martin, drunk, possession of marijuana, one month probation, $77.50; Jeffery B. Rister, Garrett, drunk driving, two days public service in lieu of $200 fine; Woodrow Lewis, Prestonsburg, drunk driving, no license, two days public service in lieu of $200 fine; Johnny R. Crisp, Martin, drunk driving, no tail lights, two days public service in lieu of $200 fine.

New DAV Nat'l Commander Is Inspiration To Members

Merely surviving after a Viet Cong land mine ripped both legs and an arm from his body just wasn't enough for Chad Colley.

He wanted a full life. Handicapping war wounds, no matter how severe, weren't going to stand in the way of this Arkansas businessman, who was recently elected national commander of the 900,000-member Disabled American Veterans (DAV).

The determination that sets off life's winners was obvious in a letter Colley wrote to his wife, Betty Ann, just three days after he was nearly killed.

"Even though I'm banged up pretty bad, I'm still me," he wrote from a hospital bed in Vietnam. "I can put my loss of limbs into an asset. I have a big challenge to undertake now. I'll need your help—not your sympathy... By all means, don't start feeling sorry for me. I'm feeling sorry for those who didn't make it."

A surprisingly up-beat tone for a man who'd just lost three limbs, a man who still faced the danger of death! But, speaking of the Viet Cong, he joked, "It's funny that these people didn't realize how tough I am."

Colley will need that good-humored optimism and that winning determination as he leads the DAV, America's third largest veterans' organization, during the coming year.

"The heat's on to cut veterans' programs," he explained. "With powerful members of both political parties demanding cuts in federal spending, including programs for disabled vets, we're going to have a battle on our hands no matter who wins or loses in the November elections."

"I'm determined to make sure the Disabled American Veteran wins that battle. The plan is to build our membership strength, passing the million-member mark as soon as possible. And we're going to make the DAV's service and legislative programs even more effective than they've already proven to be."

While studying math at North Georgia College, he quickly became a campus leader, listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities. As a senior, he received the coveted All Sports Award. And when he left the college, he was honored as a Distinguished Military Graduate, and received a commission in 1966.

July 21, 1968, found Colley leading a company of 101st Airborne Division men on a mission 45 miles northwest of Saigon when a land mine explosion threw the young lieutenant into the air. He remembers that he felt no shock or horror after falling back into the crater left by the blast; he was only glad he was still alive.

A year later, Colley was working as a real estate broker. Since then, his career has taken him to the positions of sales manager for the largest home builder in western Arkansas and loan department manager for a federal savings & loan association.

Today, he owns and operates a mobile home and land development company near Fort Smith, Ark., doing business throughout the northern part of the state. But he plans to live in Washington, D.C. during his one-year term at the helm of the nonprofit DAV.

Religious, civic, social and political involvements have always characterized Colley's active life. Recognition of his contributions in these areas are numerous. The Daughters of the American Revolution awarded him their Honor Medal. The U.S. Jaycees recognized him as a finalist in their national oratorical contest. And he's just completing his fourth year as a board director on the governing body of his hometown, Barling, Ark.

But, perhaps the most meaningful recognition came in 1970 when the DAV honored Colley as the national Outstanding Disabled Veteran of the Year.

With his election as DAV national commander, Colley replaces Dennis A. Joyner, who also lost three limbs in the Vietnam War.

Laurel, Wayne Counties Sites Of ABC Raids

Agents from the Kentucky Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control recently raided 11 alleged bootlegging operations in Laurel county and destroyed more than $300,000 worth of marijuana in Wayne county, according to ABC Commissioner Edward A. Farris.

Fifteen ABC agents seized more than 4,000 cans of beer, 108 bottles of liquor and eight $20 bags of marijuana, said Les Cole, ABC supervisor of field agents.

ABC agents, assisted by Kentucky State Police, arrested 13 persons in the London area as a result of the raids. Those arrested were charged with possession of alcoholic beverages in dry territory and with possession of marijuana. They were taken to the Laurel county jail and arraigned in district court. The effort completed a four-month investigation by Department officials.

In another raid, state ABC agent Russell Stockton and Wayne county sheriff Joe Conn destroyed more than 200 marijuana plants valued at more than a quarter-million dollars in the South Central Kentucky area. The plants, already bagged for sale, were found in a residential area near Monticello.

Theatre Announces
Fall Rummage Sale

The Jenny Wiley Theatre will hold its annual fall rummage sale Monday, Sept. 10 through Wednesday, Sept. 12 at the old Super Dollar Store in downtown Prestonsburg.

"This promises to be one of the best rummage sales we've ever had, due to the variety of items available," said Keith Stevens, managing director of the theatre. Among the things to be sold are a number of mattresses and bed frames, a sofa, household items, toys, clothing, small appliances, and costumes from past Jenny Wiley Theatre productions.

"We are also looking for items to sell at the sale," Stevens added. "If anyone would like to make a tax-deductible contribution of merchandise, they should call the Theatre at 886-9274.

"The two greatest stimulants in the world are youth and debt."
Benjamin Disraeli

"LAST resting place" of pioneer heroine Jenny Wiley, a hilltop cemetery about six miles north of Paintsville, would be her next-to-last resting place if some had their way. Some, critical of the neglected condition of the historic grave, have revived a suggestion that it be moved to Jenny Wiley State Park. But some Johnson county residents are known to be adamantly opposed to the idea.

Dulcimer Convention
Slated at Pineville

Wooden bagpipe and hogfiddle are two names for it in the mountains of eastern Kentucky. Its European ancestors go by names like Langspiel and Hummel. It is a lap, plucked or mountain dulcimer and it, along with the hammered dulcimer, is the reason for the Great American Dulcimer Convention at Pine Mountain State Park, Pineville, September 27-28.

"The convention came about just as people started re-discovering the dulcimer," says Dick Albin, co-founder of the event. He and his partner, Anne, started the Dulcimer Convention seven years ago. "When we first began playing dulcimers," Albin explains, "people would ask if they were some sort of lap guitar."

The instrument was brought to the mountains by the early settlers in that part of Kentucky and like them trace its roots to the British Isles. Today dulcimers are being made all over the country. Models are even exported back to Kentucky from factories in Korea. Featured this year at Pine Mountain are Jean Ritchie, Fred Meyer, Nancy and Blake Barker, Dick and Anne Albin, and Jay Round who are returning to the festival. Newcomers Just Friends, Bob Hutchison and Holly King, and In The Woods have been added this year.

The Parks Department and the Kentucky Arts Council are expanding this year's convention to include four school concerts in the Bell county schools and to host a noon concert by Celtic band, In The Woods, in Pineville. Jean Ritchie will perform at the Pineville library at 3:30 p.m. All of this is scheduled Friday, September 28. Librarian, Ron Day, of Pineville, coordinated these concerts.

Jean Ritchie is this year's recipient of the Milner Award given each year by the Kentucky Arts Council to the "outstanding Kentucky artist of the year." "Jean has done more than anyone I can think of to bring the dulcimer out of Appalachia and make it known to the rest of America," said Anne Albin.

The Dulcimer Convention is more than a festival. Although the emphasis is on the evening concerts, the convention offers lessons for those interested in lap and hammered dulcimer and workshops as varied as spoon playing and a dulcimer building to basic jigs and reels. There will be a square dance for beginners and experts conducted by State Park Naturalist, Ed Henson, Saturday afternoon.

Nancy and Blake Barker, musicians from Balltown, Kentucky, and Bob and Holly King, of Lexington, will tour area schools doing concerts and will perform in the convention. The Barkers specialize in children's concerts. They also build hammered dulcimers, host the Kentucky Music Weekend and do community concerts. They will be featured on the Friday evening concert.

The music of the dulcimer is as varied as the people who play them. Fred Meyer is an innovator on the dulcimer and plays styles which range from folk to bluesy bottle neck. He will lead a workshop on percussion featuring spoons and bone playing. Holly King will assist him.

Jay Round and Just Friends play Michigan style hammered dulcimer where the instrument is called the "lumberjack's piano." Jay has performed all over the country and worked for awhile as bass player for Grandpa Jones. His records range from traditional songs to an album of big band swing music.

Just Friends is a quartet of women from Pontiac, Michigan, who play guitar, two hammered dulcimers, bass, harp, banjo, mandolin and sing. Cecelia Horodko of Just Friends is the first fulltime dulcimer player at Greenfield Village in Dearborn since Edwin Baxter who was hired by Henry Ford in the 20's.

Just Friends has performed extensively in the Detroit area and in festivals in Ohio. They were featured at the Detroit Institute of Arts "Brunch with Bach." The Dulcimer Convention encourages people who are just starting to perform with an "open stage" concert on Thursday evening. Bob Hutchison played on that stage last year and will perform and do dulcimer lessons as part of the convention this year.

Naturalist Barry Howard directs the events at the park. The weekend includes crafts displays and sales and tours of the park conducted by Howard.

First Birthday

Human Resources Offers Help With Checking Day Care Centers

Amber Brittany Roberts, daughter of Larry and Sandra Roberts, of Banner, celebrated her first birthday with a party at home, Sunday, August 5. Guests included her sister, Ashley Brooke, and grandparents, Junior and Loretta Conn, of Banner, and Lurline Roberts, of Harold, also Herman, Debbie, Scott and Stacey Tackett, Russell and Pacilla Conn, Glenna Childers, Thelma Spears, Valerie and Morgan Clark, Lydia Steele, Patricia Layne, Jeff and Scarlet Stumbo, Diana Robinette, Belinda Newsome, J.D. and Dora Roberts.

Recent reports of sexual abuse in day care centers in several states, including Kentucky, have raised public concerns about child safety in such facilities. According to officials of the Cabinet for Human Resources, Kentucky parents of preschool age children can get help in checking the services and service records of such programs.

Inspector General William Gardner said there are about 1,000 licensed day care centers in Kentucky as well as a substantial number of unreported centers operating without a license. "The first thing a parent should check in selecting a day care program is the license and the inspection reports on file at the facility," he said. "These reports are open to the public and specify what areas, if any, the day care center has fallen short in during past inspections as well as what the operators did to correct any problems."

State regulations on day care centers are enforced by the cabinet's Division of Licensing and Regulation. Director Sara Pratt said, "Our inspections cover such areas as the number of staff per child, the dietary programs, health and sanitation, activity and child development programs and the safety of the physical facility to children. In licensed day care centers these regulations are in effect strictly for the protection of the children. However, an unlicensed facility usually has no outside monitoring, so there is no assurance that these standards are being met."

The Division for Licensing and Regulation has offices in Frankfort, Hopkinsville, Lexington, London and Louisville where records are kept on all licensed day care centers in Kentucky. Records are also kept on unlicensed operations which have been reported to state officials and are under investigation. Pratt said, "We have a directory available from which we can provide parents with the names of the approved day care centers in their community. We don't recommend one program over another, but we can provide parents with some background on centers they are interested in using."

Pratt offered the following tips to parents considering day care placement for their children:

—Visit several programs to compare the services offered and to determine which center may best meet the needs of your child.

—Talk with the teachers and other non-administrative personnel about their feelings on what is important for children to receive from a day care program.

—Talk with some children already enrolled at the center and with their parents about the services offered at the center.

—Look at items such as meal preparation, activities which the children take part in and the relationships between the children and the center staff.

—Ask yourself how you would feel if you had to spend several hours each day in this particular program.

Gardner said the public can be of great assistance to his staff in its work to inspect licensed day care centers and bring unlicensed centers into compliance with state requirements. "We are constantly on the lookout for new day care programs opening as well as for those in operation we don't already know about," he said. "In most cases, people who operate unlicensed day care centers are unaware of both the license requirements and the standards of care which must be met. Normally when we contact these center operators they will seek a license."

In Kentucky, any day care program serving four or more children must have a license and meet the standards of care.

Gift Boosts Car Seat Program

"If you love your kids, buckle them up." That's the thinking behind a program launched here recently by the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association and designed to get new parents into the habit of using car seats for their children's safety.

Under the program, parents of newborn babies will be able to rent an infant car seat before they leave the hospital. The seats will be available at Highlands Regional Medical Center, Our Lady of the Way Hospital, and the Mud Creek Clinic. Rental will cost $10 for nine months or until the baby weighs 17 pounds.

After that, the baby will be ready for a bigger seat and, organizers hope, parents and child will be in the habit of buckling up before they take to the highway.

Joyceettes, including the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club and the Jayceettes, have supported the program and it got a big boost last week when the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club donated $667 toward the purchase of the car seats.

LAXATIVE ABUSE

Laxatives should be used only to relieve constipation not to speed up elimination after a binge. For occasional constipation, caused by poor diet, inactivity, stress or travel, a few days is ample time for a mild laxative to work. Do not use a laxative any longer unless specifically prescribed by a physician. The best cure for constipation is to increase the intake of fluids and fiber and by regular exercise. Prolonged use or abuse of laxatives can lead to dependency. It will then be difficult to do without one. Laxative abuse can lead to damaged bowel function. Many laxatives will also irritate the lining of the bowel while others will impair its normal contractions. Most lead to dehydration, imbalances in body minerals and faulty absorption of nutrients.

Over the years COOLEY APOTHECARY has played a major role in maintaining and promoting the health of families in the area and we look forward to doing the same for your and yours. Not only will you find a complete selection of over the counter remedies for various ailments but we are very proud of our full service prescription department. Complete patient profiles are maintained for income tax and insurance purposes. You'll find us located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments.

HANDY HINT: Laxative abuse is often coupled with an eating disorder.

Campaign Quilt Show Slated in Frankfort

The Kentucky Heritage Quilt Society, in conjunction with the Kentucky Historical Society, is sponsoring a quilt show entitled "The Political and Campaign Quilt" at the Old State Capitol in Frankfort, October 1-November 11. This exhibit, which coincides with the final weeks of the presidential campaign, will feature 24 quilts from across the country and from a variety of political perspectives.

Among the quilts displayed in the exhibition will be the "Political Ribbon Flag Quilt" from the Indiana State Museum and an "Underground Railroad" pattern quilt found in the Lexington area and now in a private St. Louis collection. A catalogue will picture all of the quilts and be for sale at the show.

On October 4, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., the Kentucky Historical Society will host a lecture in the Old Capitol featuring Barbara Brackman, of Lawrence, Kansas, noted quilt historian and author of the eight-volume, An Encyclopedia of Pieced Quilt Patterns, and numerous articles on the history of American quilts. The lecture is open to the public, free of charge.

The Old Capitol is located on the corner of Lewis and Broadway in downtown Frankfort. It is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday-Saturday, and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge to the exhibit.

For more information, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Political Show, KHQS, P.O. Box 23392, Lexington, Ky. 40503.

Cats Claw Tigers In Rough Contest

Paintsville's Tigers were badly outclassed in their annual football encounter with the Prestonsburg Black Cats last Friday night but were not outfought—and you may take that word, "outfought," quite literally.

It was a rough fistball game, and almost as many punches were thrown as there were footballs passed. One Prestonsburg player was ejected from the game, though the Cats contend they were not the aggressors.

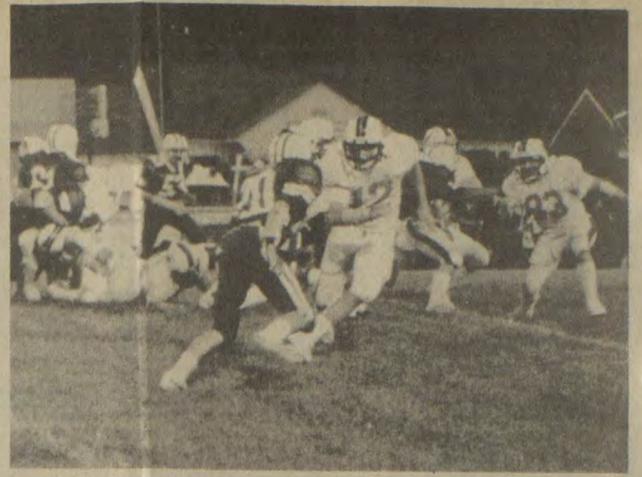

Prestonsburg outscored Paintsville, 25 to 6, jumped off to a two-touchdown lead in the first half, and was never threatened. Paintsville's only marker came in the third quarter on a three-yard plunge by Joey Crouch.

Mike Gunter opened the Black Cat scoring in the first quarter on a 34-yard pass play from John Goble, and in the same quarter B.D. Nunnery ran 45 yards for a second marker. Both conversion attempts failed.

In the third quarter James Little raced 65 yards for the Cats' third score of the evening, and Goble's kick was good. Pete Green ended the scoring when he took a Goble pass good for 18 yards.

The game was the second win in as many starts for the team under new coach, Charles Wheeler. The Cats will meet Betsy Layne's Bobcats here Friday evening.

Prestonsburg's Blackcats tamed the Paintsville Tigers to the tune of 25-6 at Paintsville last Friday night. Gordie Ratliff, No. 12, is shown leading the blocking on a Blackcat run in the first quarter.

Softball Tournament Begins September 14 At Archer Park Field

Even though the regular softball season has ended at Archer Park with the recent regional tournaments, a good deal of slow-pitch play remains ahead as independent tourneys highlight the late season.

The Tom's Chips Tournament, which has been held for the past five seasons, is set for September 14-16 at Archer Park, according to Carl Hall, tournament organizer.

Deadline for all teams to enter will be September 12. The tournament will be held at Archer Park. An entry fee will be charged.

For further information contact Carl Hall at 886-9461, or 874-9117, or any member of the Tom's Chips team.

Korean Karate Club Members

The Prestonsburg Community College Korean Karate Club whose members are pictured above, under the direction of Jeff Weddle, held its first belt promotion test, recently. The test was administered by Steve Farmer, chief instructor of the University of Kentucky Korean Karate Club.

Promoted to the yellow belt rank were Mark Vanderpool, Don Wright, Laura Weddle, Effie Marsillett, Maggie Blackburn, David Frazier, Kenneth Chapman, Corrie Goebler, Sean Goble, John B. Clark, Eric Baldrige, and Larry Leslie. Randy Burruss was promoted to the rank of purple belt and Roger DeRossett to the rank of red belt.

A new class begins September 5, and beginners will be accepted to the new class through Monday, September 17. The beginner's class will meet at 6 to 7:15 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday at the Martin Student Center, Prestonsburg Community College. For more information contact the office of Continuing Education and Community Services at 886-3863.

Panthers Defeat W'wright, 39-0

The Wheelwright Trojans are now one and one after losing to the Pikeville Panthers in a home game last Friday night, 39-0.

In their first game, the Trojans chalked up a victory over Fleming-Neon.

A 33-yard pass by Todd Case to Kelvin Mullins gave the Panthers their first t.d., and a two-point conversion run by Passidomo made the score 8-0. In the second quarter, the Panthers scored three touchdowns, and their final score was made in the third quarter.

Passidomo scored the first of the second quarter t.d.'s on a 28-yard run, and a pass from Case to Mullins gave Pikeville a 16-0 lead. Case then pitched out to Mullins for a 52-yard t.d. run, and the extra point by Case to Richard Justice was good for a 24-0 lead. Pikeville's next touchdown came on a 14-yard pass from Case to Justice. John Friend kicked the extra point.

The Panthers' final touchdown was one a three-yard run by Passidomo, with the two-point conversion made by Charlie Brown.

The win gave Pikeville 2-0 record in district play, putting them ahead of Paintsville at 1-0. They will meet Elkhorn City in a showdown, Friday.

Wheelwright, now 1-1, will face Hazard Friday night at Hazard.

Bobcats Bow To Pikeville

Betsy Layne bowed to the Virgie Eagles, 16-0, last Friday night at Cox Athletic Field, there. Virgie now stands at 1 and 1.

The Bobcats defense held the Eagles scoreless for the first quarter, but a touchdown in both the second and third quarters gave the Eagles the victory.

The Bobcats threatened to score in the second quarter when Billy Campbell led the team from Betsy Layne's 21-yard line to the Virgie 7-yard marker. The Eagle defense came back, however, to stop halfback Kenny Doerr on a fourth down attempt.

 The board of directors of the Maytown Homecoming Association met recently to finalize some plans for the 1985 event, to be held July 26-28. Chairmen for classes 1925-1972 (last year prior to consolidation) will meet with the board Friday, Sept. 7 in the school library at 7 p.m. to give their reports and update alumni address files, which contain 1300 names. Maytownites whose addresses have not been checked recently should mail them soon to M.H.A., Langley, Ky. 41645.

Invitations will soon be mailed Maytown people including former residents (here) outside the county and state and those within Floyd who do not reside within the community itself. Due to high postal rates, persons in the vicinity will be notified by word of mouth, phone, newspaper announcements, in churches, at school events. Invitations will also be left in stores and at other points for persons in Langley, Eastern, Martin, Hueysville, and Hippo, all nearby.

Maytownites are asked to send data for the 1985 newsletter to its editor, Mrs. Edgar Osborne before the deadline date of December 1. Address her at 14 Highland Heights, Prestonsburg 41653. Limit 10 lines typed or 100 words in script. Include name, address, family, job, hobbies, achievements et cetera. For more information call 886-1431, 285-3225, 285-9165, 358-4290 or 358-4231.

MU Artists Series
Slates Show Sept. 10

The Marshall University Artists Series' Forum Division will present Ed Metzger in his one-man show "Albert Einstein: The Practical Bohemian" on Monday, Sept. 10, at 8 p.m. in Old Main Auditorium.

General admission tickets will be available.

Metzger, who has appeared on the "Merv Griffin Show" and NBC's "Today Show," draws upon Einstein's writings and speeches to produce a portrait not of a scientific genius, but a man of great insight and endearing eccentricities.

Critics from California to Massachusetts have praised the show as a "lovely tour de force" full of gentle humor and sensitivity. "Metzger is immersed in the personality he plays and there are many rewarding passages as Einstein speaks about his love of music, his ineptness at arithmetic, his sailboat at Saranac and even about his theory of relativity," said the New York Times critic.

Metzger began his dramatic training at the Pasadena Playhouse and then studied for many years with Lee Strasberg. He has appeared as a guest star on many television programs including "Kojak," "Bionic Woman," and "Bonanza," and also has several movie roles to his credit.

Child Sexual Abuse: What Your Children Should Know—This pioneering series, hosted by Mike Farrell, takes a look at the harsh realities of child sexual abuse and provides clear, straightforward information about what can be done to protect children. The five programs in the series are designed to reach specific audiences: parents and other adults, young children (grades K-3), older children (grades 4-7), teens in junior and senior high, and young adults (senior high school). All programs will air at 8:00 p.m., beginning Monday, Sept. 17, with two programs to be aired on Sept. 18. The KET-produced program, "Child Sexual Abuse: A Kentucky Perspective," will be aired after the final series program on Thursday, Sept. 20, at 9:00 p.m.

The Voyage of the Mimi—This serial 13-episode adventure and documentary series about science and math for nine-through 12-year-olds begins on KET Monday, Sept. 10, at 6:00 p.m. Each program is in two segments: the first chronicles the adventures of a pair of young marine scientists aboard the ketch "Mimi," and the second is a documentary "expedition" that further explores a theme or concept introduced in the first half.

Great Performances: Live From Lincoln Center—"Bach to Bach" The Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center is joined by the Academy of Ancient Music, an original instrument ensemble from Great Britain, for an evening of music by Johann Sebastian Bach, on Wednesday, Sept. 12, at 8:00 p.m.

The Constitution: That Delicate Balance—A springboard for examining public policy and the Constitution, each program presents a hypothetical case study based on contemporary constitutional issues, with commentary provided by Fred Friendly and former Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart. The series begins Sunday, Sept. 23, at 10:00 p.m.

Opera From Arena Di Verona—The historic outdoor arena in Verona, Italy, is the spectacular setting for two Puccini operas: "Turandot," on Wednesday, Sept. 12, at 10:00 p.m., and "Tosca," on Saturday, Sept. 15, at 8:00 p.m.

Soundstage—The popular and varied music series begins a new season on KET on Saturday, Sept. 29, at 11:00 p.m., with the Canadian rock group, "Loverboy."

Late Acreage Reports Are Still Acceptable

J.P. Hill, chairman of the Floyd County ASC Committee, said last week farmers in Floyd county have not filed a crop report this year. July 15, was the final day for farmers to report their 1984 planted acres.

"Late-filed acreage reports will be accepted as long as the farmer pays the cost of verifying the acreage and there is physical evidence of production," Hill said. Late reports are subject to mandatory spot check.

He said farmers who did not plant program crops this year should submit a "zero" report to protect their base and future farm program eligibility.

Acreage reports currently on file indicate that 38 farms in Floyd county are certified and eligible for 1984 farm program benefits.

We're glad you asked!

John C. Hall
Founder
Hall Funeral Home

WOULD YOU SPEAK BEFORE OUR GROUP?
The answer is "Yes."
Educational lectures and informal question-and-answer sessions with community groups about death-and-dying are some of the contributions we are pleased to make to help prepare individuals to better handle a death in the family.
We extend this invitation not only to ministers, doctors, hospital staffs, convalescent home directors, nurses and teachers, but also to men's and ladies' social clubs and church groups.
We want our community to be well-informed on funeral service and the many aspects of death. I'll be glad to help, making use of literature for groups, and providing access to films and other discussion-provoking materials.
If you or members of your group are interested in knowing more about funeral services and procedures, grief-counseling or other pertinent subjects, please call or stop by.

HIGHLANDS REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER PHARMACIST Larry Adneregg gives new information pamphlets when filling prescriptions to help patients use their medications correctly and safely.

The proper use of prescription drugs is a complex subject, but Highlands Regional Medical Center is trying to make it simpler to understand. The HRMC Pharmacy has begun a new program to provide drug information pamphlets when prescriptions are filled. They are designed to help patients use their medications correctly and safely. There is no cost for this service.

Pharmacy Director Tim Dotson says the new pamphlets give "every patient access to standard information that they need. It's an easy way to review correct procedures with a patient."

A national pharmacy association recently developed the information pamphlets. Each pamphlet includes simply-worded information about the medicine, what should be done before its use, how to use it properly, what precautions need to be taken and what possible side effects exist. The side-effects section also specifies which are serious enough to be reported to the doctor and which will probably not require medical attention. Even pronunciation instructions are included for tougher names.

Perhaps the most innovative feature is the section explaining medication times. It displays a 24-hour clock, with numbers that are circled by the pharmacist to remind patients when to take their medication. Discussing medication times with the pharmacist prompts many patients to ask additional questions such as what to do if a dosage is missed.

There are different information pamphlets for 37 major drug categories, each one adaptable to any specific drug in its category. Dotson says the array of different drugs and the variety of instructions with each can be a problem for patients. "Many people can't remember all the information the doctor told them. These new forms are a simple but effective way to help patients do just that."

Among common drugs for which the new system will be helpful are penicillins, antibiotics, heart, and high blood pressure medications.

Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, is a unique whole-house heating system built around bricks.
Heating coils inside an ETS furnace heat the special bricks hot enough to heat your home all night. And all the next day.
Because ETS uses electricity at night, when the cost of electricity is less, ETS customers qualify for special rates. So you'll get lower electric rates for heating. And for all other electricity you use at night. What's more, the same lower rates apply all weekend.
ETS heats your water, too. And individual room heaters are available, which let you comfort control any room.

RED DAWN, (PG-13-MGM/UA) Starring Patrick Swayze, C. Thomas Howell and Lea Thompson. ★

By J.T. YURKO

The stadium scoreboard of the local high school in a town somewhere in Colorado flashes the score of last weekend's football game. The score shows that the home team has lost to the visitors, a seemingly rare event. The allusion here by director and screenwriter John Milius borrows the football metaphor from "M*A*S*H" (and a few other films) to symbolize war. Just as this local town in the USA had never lost a football contest until their last game, America had never lost a war until Vietnam. And if the United States could not win a conventional war in Vietnam, perhaps they would also lose a conventional war on their own home ground. This idea sets the stage for invasion of the United States by Russia. Even if you think the idea of a Russian invasion is ludicrous, it's a great premise for a movie. I don't know whether "Red Dawn" will change your political viewpoint, but it will provoke discussion and debate. Any film that begins with Russian and Cuban troops parachuting into a schoolyard is taking chances from the

New faces on television

By Wendy Wallace

Before the new season starts during the week of Sept. 24, many of the returning series will be adding new cast members to help boost viewership. While there are those you may recognize from former series, many are relatively new to television. Here are some of the newcomers to expect in the upcoming weeks:

AIRWOLF — Jean Bruce Scott has been added as a female pilot along with Ernest Borgnine and Jan-Michael Vincent.

CHEERS — While her romance with Sam falters, Diane finds love on the rebound with Dr. Frasier Crane, a brainy psychologist played by Kelsey Grammar.

DALLAS — Donna Reed becomes the new Miss Ellie, due to Barbara Bel Geddes's decision not to rejoin the show. Jennilee Harrison as Jamie Ewing, J.R.'s niece, and Deborah Shelton, as Mandy Winger, the new girlfriend of Cliff Barnes, will round out the cast.

DYNASTY — Billy Dee Williams makes his TV series debut as record company executive Brady Lloyd and love interest of Dominique Devereaux (Diahann Carroll), who made her entrance last season.

FALCON CREST — Gina Lollobrigida, in a role previously slated for Sophia Loren, joins the cast as Francesca Gioberti.

HILL STREET BLUES — Mimi Kuzyk joins the series as Detective Patricia Mayo, with a special eye for Capt. Furillo; regular Ken Olin plays Detective Harry Garibaldi, Miss Mayo's partner; and to help fill the shoes of the late Michael Conrad, Robert Prosky will read roll call as Sgt. Stanislaus Jablonski.

KNIGHT RIDER Patricia McPherson returns as Bonnie Barstow, ace mechanic for KITT, replacing April Curtis (Rebecca Holden).

LOVE BOAT — Joining the crew to sail the high seas is Judy McCoy (Patricia Klous) as departing cruise director Julie McCoy's sister, and Ted McGinley as Ace, the ship's photographer.

MATT HOUSTON — Buddy Ebsen adds his expertise to Matt Houston's (Lee Horsley) cases as Houston's Uncle Max.

NEWHART — Peter Scolari will play the producer of the TV talk show hosted by Dick Loudon (Bob Newhart).

NIGHT COURT — Shelley Hack as a public defender becomes a new love interest for Judge Harry I. Stone (Harry Anderson). Charlie Robinson rounds out the cast as a court clerk.

RIPTIDE — Ken Olandt joins Perry King, Joe Penny and Thom Bray as a dock boy on the marina.

TRAPPER JOHN, M.D. — Tim Busfield joins the hospital cast as J.T., the son of Trapper John (Pernell Roberts).

Working on 'Tall Order'

It's a tall order to complete the new addition at Highlands Regional Medical Center on schedule. Helping to accomplish this is Rufus Blair, of Paintsville, who applies drywall on the hospital ceilings, aided by stilts.

Floyd Students at Lees

Four Floyd countians have enrolled for classes for the 1984 fall semester at Lees College at Jackson. They are Karen Akers (nursing), daughter of Diamond and Brenda Akers, of Grethel; Pam Caldwell, daughter of Earl and Thelma Caldwell, of Weeksbury; Bobby Johnson, son of Robie and Lora Johnson, of Grethel; and Regina Messer (pre-dentistry), daughter of Billy and Betty Lou Messer, of Bypro.

Less Violence Said In Schools Today

"Although discipline continues to be cited most frequently by respondents as the top problem with which their local schools must contend, parents who now have children enrolled in the public schools mention this problem significantly less often than in 1983," George Gallup wrote in analyzing his organization's 1984 survey of Americans' attitudes toward the public schools, shortly before his death last month.

Gallup's interpretation is supported by the president of Phi Delta Kappa—the educators' fraternity that financed the survey—and by the president of the nation's largest education organization, the National Education Association.

"Discipline is not a serious problem in most public schools today," says Jerome Kopp, Phi Delta Kappa president. "I believe that administrators and teachers began putting programs in place in the late '70s to deal with violence and discipline problems. As the public took a close look at the schools during the past year due to the numerous reports on education, they found lots of improvements. The public's perception caught up to reality."

Parents with children in public schools named discipline as the schools' biggest problem 23 percent of the time in the 1984 Gallup education poll. This is a drop of about one-third, or 29 percent, from a year ago.

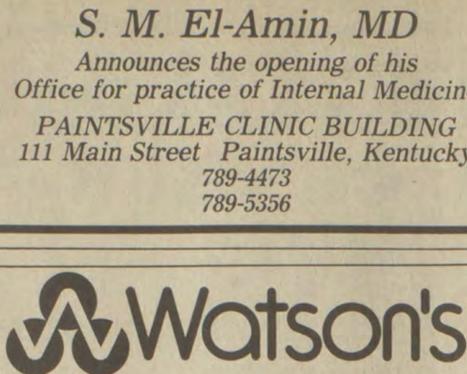

"We have maintained for some time that the public schools aren't blackboard jungles," says Mary Hatwood Futrell, president of the 1.7-million-member NEA. "We hope the public continues to take a close look at their schools."

Futrell points to a new NEA survey showing that 68 percent of teachers are satisfied with student behavior in their classes. And an even higher number, 85 percent, say their schools provide a safe and orderly environment.

NEA surveyed 2,000 classroom teachers in May on key topics that have been in the limelight during the past year's national dialogue on education. This survey found fewer instances of classroom violence than a similar poll taken four years earlier. Some 12.9 percent of the teachers surveyed last spring said their personal property had been stolen at school, while 5.5 percent reported that personal items had been intentionally damaged. In 1980, the figures were 15.4 percent for stolen personal property and 7.2 percent for damaged property.

Physical attacks on teachers are down as well. In the 1984 poll, some 3.7 percent said they had been assaulted by a student within the past year; in 1980, 5.2 percent of teachers reported attacks.

The average American pays a little over $2,000 in federal taxes each year.

Wood In Our Lives: Products from the National Forests

The Chemistry of Trees in our Everyday Lives

Chemicals in trees help give us radial tires and vanilla ice cream. Also dietetic bread and, if you're not on a diet, after-dinner mints.

Then, too, there are Vitamins A and E, menthol in shaving preparations, the fragrances of roses and lemons and an adhesive which makes sticky tape stick.

All of this is according to chemists at the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wisconsin.

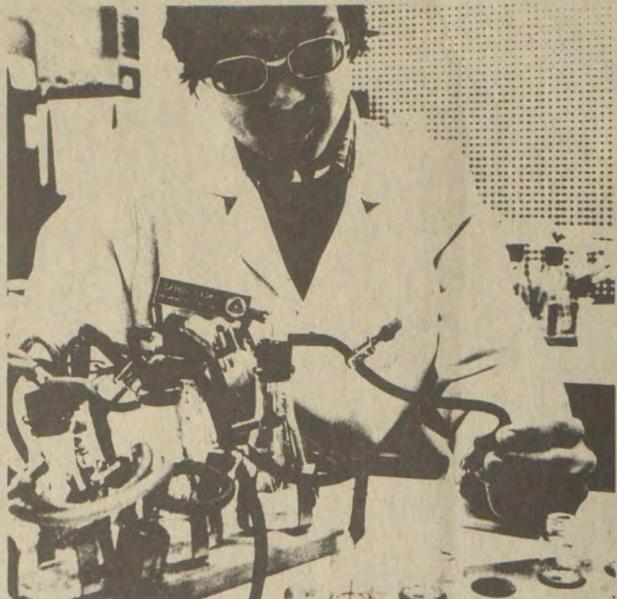

In addition, silvi-chemicals, known as wood-chemicals, give us charcoal briquets, from the carbon in trees. Rosin is used by baseball players and bowlers for ball control. And, but not at the bottom of the list, is chewing gum.

Among the products and by-products of National Forests, administered by the Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, radial tires are one of the biggest commodities using a chemical from trees.

"The most important chemical in trees is cellulose," explains Dr. John Rowe of the Forest Products Laboratory. "Cellulose is used in dissolving pulps to make rayon and it is rayon which is used in the tire cords in the sidewalls of radials.

"We cannot find a synthetic for rayon for sidewalls of radials that is superior," says Dr. Rowe.

Rayon, used in wearing apparel, too, is especially popular these days, despite competition, for use by rock groups. This is due to its silkiness, says Dr. Rowe. It's also long-lasting, he adds. "I have a rayon shirt that's 45 years old. It won't wear out!"

Another end use of cellulose is as a non-nutritive filler in some dietetic breads, says Dr. Rowe.

Lignin in trees is converted into vanilla and Dr. Rowe estimates there's enough lignin so there'll never be a shortage of vanilla flavoring for ice cream. He says approximately 90 percent of our vanilla ice cream is flavored by converted lignin.

Flavors, synthesized from turpentine, are peppermint, spearmint and chocolate mints, he says. It's also from turpentine that we derive rose and lemon fragrances.

Dr. Rowe, project leader of Chemical Utilization of Woods, says turpentine, one of the most interesting chemicals in trees, comes from pine trees located mainly in the southeastern part of the U.S.

Dr. Duane Zinkel, research chemist at the Forest Products Lab, says it's not generally well-known, but that Vitamins A, for eyesight, and Vitamin E, for general well-being, are manufactured from turpentine chemicals. From turpentine, too, we get the sticky substance for tape, pine oil for cleaning purposes and menthol. Menthol not only goes into shaving preparations but into cigarettes and cosmetics.

As for chewing gum, Dr. Zinkel says in the 1860s, it was simply a matter of taking soft gum off spruce trees and chewing it. Rosin derivatives are used in part today, along with other ingredients. Now, too, there are all those flavors.
