Billips is dismissed from suit over jobs

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

A court ruling issued Tuesday apparently has whittled the list of defendants in a federal lawsuit against the Floyd County Board of Education from six to one.

In a November 15 ruling, U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood dismissed all claims against former board member Eddie Billips in the civil suit filed in 1993 by a trio of former school administrators. The dismissal of claims against Billips leaves current board member Eddie Patton as the sole defendant in the case. The federal court had dismissed in July, allegations against former board members Hattie Owens and Robert Isaac; current member Brent Clark; and superintendent Stephen Towler.

The former administrators—Pete Grigsby Jr., Wayne Ratliff and Tommy Thompson—had alleged in their federal complaint that their First Amendment rights to free speech, and Fourteenth Amendment rights to due process of law had been violated by a central office reorganization plan adopted by the board in June, 1993.

The reorganization resulted in reassignments for Grigsby and Ratliff and put Thompson out of his job as school finance officer.

Dismissing Billips from the suit Tuesday, Judge Hood reiterated his reasoning for dropping the claims against other school officials.

The plaintiffs' charges that their First Amendment rights were violated were dismissed by Judge Hood on grounds that board members, under the provisions of the Kentucky Education Reform Act, lacked the authority to "take adverse actions against" the administrators.

The court also ruled that Billips was entitled to "qualified immunity" on the claims the plaintiffs' due process rights were violated and the administrators had "failed to establish a constitutionally protected property interest" in their claims that their Fourteenth Amendment rights had been violated.

With Billips gone, only Patton remains as a defendant in the federal suit, but that situation may just be temporary. Patton apparently has not yet asked the court for dismissal.

The federal court actions also have no bearing on a civil suit filed by the administrators in state court.

That suit, which alleges that the board's reorganizational plan should be voided because the issue was discussed in a closed board session, was dismissed in July, 1993 by special judge Stephen "Nick" Frazier. An appeal of Frazier's ruling reportedly is pending in the state Court of Appeals.

Deadline nears for applicants seeking open seat on bench

Qualified applicants seeking the appointment to a vacancy in Floyd County District Court have until Monday to submit applications to the state's Administrative Office of the Courts.

A vacancy was created in district court when Judge Danny Caudill was elected as the Division I Circuit Judge in the November 8 general election.

To qualify, an applicant must be a citizen of the United States; must have been a resident of the state in the district in which the appointment is sought for the past two years; and must be licensed to practice law in the state and a licensed attorney for at least two years.

Applications should be sent to the Judicial Nominating Commission for the 31st Judicial District, confidential, Administrative Office of the Courts, 100 Millcreek Park, Frankfort, KY 40601.

Governor Brereton Jones will make the appointment.

Judge Danny Caudill will reportedly be sworn in as Division I Circuit Judge later this month. Today is expected to be Caudill's last day as district judge.

Time and patience

Clockmaker takes time to make time

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

Paul Faulkner estimates he has made 200 to 300 clocks over the past 40 years. Clockmaking is a hobby for the semi-retired heating and air conditioning contractor, and a visit to his home at Hippo shows that over the years he has been hard at work producing a variety of functional ornamental clocks.

Faulkner, 60, has handmade wooden clocks that range from a simple early American farmer's box clock that hangs on his living room wall to an ornate dome cathedral model that stands 79 inches tall in a corner of the same room. The black walnut cathedral clock, which sits on a matching table, is the largest, and the most intricately designed, clock he has made. It also took him the longest to complete — about 600 hours and two years of handcrafting and carving. Stained glass windows that light up and small ceramic human figures decorate the clock.

The clockmaker became interested in woodcrafting when he had a wood-working class as a senior at Maytown High School in the early 1950s. "I had a very good teacher, Ray Heinsch," Faulkner said. "He got

Betsy Layne students do spruce-up on Spruce Pine

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

The old Spruce Pine School on Little Mud looks a little cheerier this week after a group of Betsy Layne High School students rolled up their sleeves and spruced it up Saturday.

The students were paint-spattered and sweaty as they painted, but they all had smiles on their faces. The 15-20 students were part of Betsy Layne High School's Jobs for Kentucky Graduates Program.

The program came into Kentucky last year, and Betsy Layne is one of the 20 Kentucky schools that offers the program, Larry Wilson, an instructor for the class, said.

The program helps students acquire job skills and personal skills through real-life experiences, Wilson said. Students are required to do so many hours of community service.

One of the students volunteering, Brent Kidd, lives in the Little Mud community. Kidd, a former fourth grade student at Spruce Pine, said he didn't mind working on the school because he plans to use it when it is turned into a community center.

Several members of the Little Mud Community Development group who helped with the painting were also former students of Spruce Pine School. Oakie Lawson, president of the community group that plans to turn the school into a center, went to school there.

Lawson said he and about 10 other members of the community have been working on the school, but he is frustrated by vandalism at the project.

"We've been putting in windows and they've been breaking them out," he said.

The group applied for a grant from the Christian Appalachian Project, but first they have to match the $2,500 amount.

With the funds, they plan to fence the property, create a walking track, and a playground. They also plan to fix up the inside of the center for meeting rooms for such groups as fish and game clubs.

The group also wants to turn one of the classrooms into a museum illustrating the history of the 60-year-old Spruce Pine School.

The school closed about five or six years ago. The Floyd County Board of Education gave the commu-

Grand jury to hear contamination case; advisory lifted :

Martin water gets clean bill of health

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A water advisory has been lifted for the City of Martin and a Floyd County Grand Jury will hear a case against two adults accused of contaminating the water supply.

Thursday afternoon the state's Division of Water lifted the water advisory after tests showed that the system was free of bacteriological contamination.

The city had been without water service since last week when city officials reported that two adults had been charged with urinating in the water tank.

In a preliminary hearing Wednesday in Floyd District Court, Judge Danny Caudill ruled that evidence in the case against the accused, John Edward Reed and Kevin Whitaker, should be heard by a grand jury. The two men have been ordered to stay out of the city limits.

Reed, 19, of Martin, Whitaker, 18, of Magoffin County, and three juveniles are charged with first degree criminal mischief and first degree criminal trespassing for allegedly breaking into the city's water tower and urinating and spitting into the water tank.

The first degree criminal mischief charge was amended to a felony charge of tampering with a water supply, water tank or water facility and endangering human life.

Martin police chief James Burke testified Wednesday that the city's water plant manager, Barry Risner, saw three juveniles coming off the hill where the water plant is located on November 8 as Risner was making a routine check on the tank.

Risner reported the incident to the chief, who discovered through an investigation that the two adults and three juveniles allegedly contaminated the water supply.

Burke testified that he had taken statements from some of the alleged participants who said that they had spit in the tank and that Reed had urinated in the tank. No debris except a hinge pin was found in the water tank when it was drained, Burke said.

The police chief added that a water meter was also broken at the site. Burke estimated that the cost to repair and flush the water system could exceed $100,000.

Reed was represented at Wednesday's hearing by attorney Jerry Patton and Whitaker was represented by John Nelson.

Also, Judge Caudill ordered that the two men stay away from any of the city's water treatment facilities located outside the city limits.

Salisbury convicted of murder charge:

Verdict mix-up caps 6-hour wait

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A mix-up Thursday in a verdict returned by a Floyd County Jury created some confusion after the jury mistakenly pronounced a murder suspect not guilty.

Jurors in the murder trial of Herbert Gene Salisbury Jr. told Floyd Circuit Judge John David Caudill that they had erred on the verdict form proclaiming Salisbury innocent in the shooting death of Meredith Conn last July.

In the initial reading of the verdict, Judge Caudill informed Salisbury that the jury had found him not guilty in the Conn shooting; guilty of first degree assault for shooting Jimmy Hall during the same incident; and not guilty of first degree wanton endangerment for allegedly shooting at Michael Bryant.

The error became apparent when Salisbury's attorney, Steve Owens, asked the judge if the verdict on the first count (the murder charge) was not guilty.

When the judge answered yes, jurors commented that that was not their verdict. The jury foreman told the judge that he had not filled out the verdict form correctly.

Judge Caudill polled jurors individually and asked them if their verdict on the first count was not guilty.

All jurors responded that it was not their verdict.

Jurors returned to the jury room and returned a short time later with the amended verdict, finding Salisbury guilty of murder. Jurors deliberated for six hours before returning the verdicts.

Salisbury showed no emotion during the first or second reading of the verdict.

Council appoints board to study golf course prospects

Prestonsburg City Council met in special session Wednesday to appoint a golf course development board to initiate planning for an 18-hole golf course in Prestonsburg.

Named to the board were Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin, Dick Clark, Danny Hamilton, Robert Allen, Estill Carter, Paul Hughes, Fred James, John M. Stumbo, John Goble, Shag Branham, Jim Kennedy, Jack McNichols, Henry O. Hackworth, Ted Nairn, and Mike Francisco, who was named as a voting proxy.

The board members will be looking at more than developing a golf course on the hilltop area behind Rebel Lanes in Prestonsburg, Fannin told the council.

"It's unlimited what we can do," Fannin said.

He explained that an athletic complex — which could include football, baseball and soccer fields as well as a running track — may also be developed on the site.

Development director visits PCC

Hilda Legg, director of The Center for Kentucky Rural Economic Development in Somerset, visited Prestonsburg Community College October 27. Legg (right) met with PCC President Deborah L. Floyd (center), Barbara W. Napier (left), chair of PCC's Division of Social Sciences and Related Technologies, and PCC Development Director Pages Estes (not shown). The women discussed the importance of economic development in Eastern Kentucky, the college's plans to foster economic development in its five-county service area, and developing a working relationship between the college and the center. Legg also toured the college campus during her visit.

Triplett chairs "Partners in Progress" Leadership Awareness Committee

Community leader Bonnie Triplett will serve as chair of the Leadership Awareness Committee for the "Partners In Progress" fund-raising campaign being conducted by Prestonsburg Community College.

The "Partners In Progress" Campaign is a fund-raising promotion designed to secure financing for four targeted projects identified by community leaders and the college as necessary to address future workforce training needs and overall health conditions in the region.

These projects include the construction of two buildings, the Regional Center for Health Education and Wellness at the Prestonsburg Campus and the Regional Classroom and Technology Center at the Pike County Campus; installation of Technology, Telecommunications and Equipment; and the creation of College Endowments.

The Leadership Awareness Committee will acquaint community leaders and citizens with the case for support for the "Partners In Progress" Campaign and will obtain the leaders' and citizens' feedback.

Leadership Awareness Committee members include Linda Francis, Patti Beatty, and Kathy Fitzpatrick, all of Prestonsburg, Velma Childers of Pike County, and Kay Booth of Paintsville.

me interested in it. I've had wood-working as a hobby ever since.

Faulkner still has an oak clock, stained cherry, that he made for his late mother 28 years ago. The traditional style ornamental grandfather clock, which stands against a wall in his living room, took about three weeks and 50 hours to make, he said.

Faulkner has given most of his creations to family and friends as gifts. With all the hours he puts into making a particular piece, he said, "to sell a clock would cost (the buyer) $1,200. I can't sell them (at that price), so I make them and give them away."

But, he added, "If someone wanted to buy one, I would sell it."

Faulkner has given one clock to each of his five children. He also gave two clocks to a Swedish exchange student who was attending Allen Central High School a few years ago. Over the years one man bought several of Faulkner's "religious" clocks, crafted in the shape of a cross, which the buyer gave to members of his church to mark special occasions. Several of Faulkner's clocks are also on display in Reed's Grocery Store at Hippo.

The craftsman gets the wood for his clocks from local sawmills. He said that allows the wood to dry and he then planes the pieces to the desired thickness. Faulkner gets his clock designs from a clockmaker's catalogue. "It's like a dress pattern," he said about the patterns he uses. "I trace the pattern on the wood and cut it out by hand." He orders the clock movements he places in his clocks.

Last September, Faulkner displayed a few of his works, including the six foot-plus dome cathedral clock, at the Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival. "I got all kinds of compliments and was asked where in the world do I get the patience to do that? It takes a lot of time and patience," he said, smiling.

"I get letters all the time to display them—from the Jenny Wiley Festival to Pikeville College," he added.

He declines most of the invitations for one simple reason: "It takes so much work to load them in the car," he said.

Despite the trouble it takes to display his works for the public to admire, Faulkner said that he will keep making clocks "probably as long as my arthritic fingers will let me."

Medisin gets reprieve from state

Medisin's incinerators, which the state had ordered to shut down this month for noncompliance with the Floyd County Solid Waste Plan, will continue to operate until the company has tested an autoclave system. On November 4, Medisin reached an agreement with the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet that will allow the company to continue to burn medical waste until a new sterilization system can be tested. The autoclave system should significantly reduce the amount of medical waste that is now being incinerated. The autoclave system is expected to take care of about 1,000 pounds of medical waste per month. The sterilization procedure allows companies to recycle glass, plastic and some metal.

Medisin should begin operation of the autoclave system early next year. The system had to be special ordered from a California company, and is expected to arrive in January. Until then, the state will not assess fines against Medisin for noncompliance with the county plan, the agreement stipulated. In the agreement, the cabinet also affirmed it would not intervene in Medisin's application for a permit with the Division of Air Quality to burn 561.6 tons of medical waste per year. The Floyd County Solid Waste Commission has placed a 100-ton limit on the amount of waste that Medisin can accept over a ten-year period. Even with the autoclave system in operation, the company will not be in compliance with the Floyd County solid waste plan's revised guidelines, Mike Vance, director of Floyd County Solid Waste, said Thursday.

Medisin officials can approach the waste board after the system is installed and ask the board to revise the limit, Vance said.

Robert Ford, vice president of Medisin, did not return phone calls from The Times Thursday.

Verdict

Jurors returned to deliberations Thursday evening to recommend a sentence for Salisbury on the murder and first degree assault charges.

Salisbury could receive the maximum of twenty years to life on the murder conviction and not more than 20 years on the assault charge.

Before jurors began deliberating on the sentence, probation and parole office Dewey Hackworth told jurors of Salisbury's prior convictions.

In 1974, Salisbury was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the shooting death of a Floyd County man. In 1973, Salisbury was convicted of common law assault for an incident in Lexington and in 1968, he was convicted of unlawful possession of a narcotic in Washington.

Salisbury wanted to make a statement on his own behalf prior to sentencing, but after a conference in the judge's chambers, Salisbury apparently changed his mind.

On Wednesday, Salisbury testified in his own defense that the victim, Meredith Conn, had put a pistol in his face the night of the shooting last July.

Salisbury said he knocked Conn's hand away and then began shooting. Conn was shot four times and Jimmy Hall was shot twice. The defendant claimed that Hall also had a weapon that night, but only one weapon, which was fully loaded, was found at the crime scene.

Salisbury claimed that Conn had threatened him in the past and he was leery of him.

During his testimony, Salisbury was argumentative with special prosecutor Anna Melvin of Johnson County, and at one point a recess was called in order for Salisbury's attorney to speak with his client.

Salisbury was also reprimanded by the judge Wednesday for an outburst in which he accused Melvin of being "hateful" with his aunt during questioning.

Salisbury's aunt, Liza Mitchell, testified that Salisbury came to her house after the shooting was in the kitchen crying and trying to contact authorities after the incident.

Fund-raiser to benefit health clinic

For the poor of Eastern Kentucky, everyday is a struggle for the things other people take for granted—things like food, shelter, and health care.

With the determination of one individual, Eula Hall, and a lot of hard work and the sacrifices she has given, there have been services provided in Floyd County and the surrounding counties that have made a positive impact on the people of this area.

Big Sandy Health Care, Inc. is honoring Eula Hall's 20 years of service with a dinner at the Wilkinson Stumbo Convention Center on November 20. A reception will be held at 1 p.m. and dinner will be served at 2 p.m. Lt. Governor Paul Patton will be the guest speaker.

The money from this fund-raising event will be used for the new dental program and in the pharmacy to buy much needed drugs for the patients.

Hall was born in rural Pike County. She quit school after eighth grade to become a hired girl. She, like many other women, suffered through an abusive marriage. Through this, Ms. Hall's caring for people led her to provide a means for many individuals and families to find help, not just medical care, but also assistance from a concerned staff in helping acquire shelter, food, clothing, and jobs for those who have nothing.

Eula Hall founded the Mud Creek Clinic, as well as the Mud Creek Water District, Food and Clothing Pantry and the Mud Creek Dental Office. These services have been featured in notable publications, and her efforts have been heralded by a feature presentation by the B.B.C., the Today Show and Good Morning America.

The choicest come from choices

by Scott Perry

The 1995 race for the Governor's mansion is spurring a lot of interest...from both parties.

That's good.

The Democratic Party has always had a pot to pick from in gubernatorial primaries, but the GOP has rarely offered more than two choices of any interest to its primary voters.

In a race so important as this, which will give us a governor who can for the first time succeed himself in office, choice is extremely important.

Besides, a party that promotes just one candidate as an heir apparent really isn't much of a party to begin with.

With choices on the political menus for both sides, perhaps we'll see some issues debated instead of the usual and customary mudslinging that has become so prevalent these days.

And, with a crowded field on each side of the ticket, it's quite possible we could see three separate elections instead of two next year in the gubernatorial contests.

A law enacted in 1992, which could see its first action next year, requires run off elections between the top two primary vote-getters if no single candidate gets at least 40 percent of the total primary vote.

That's a great law.

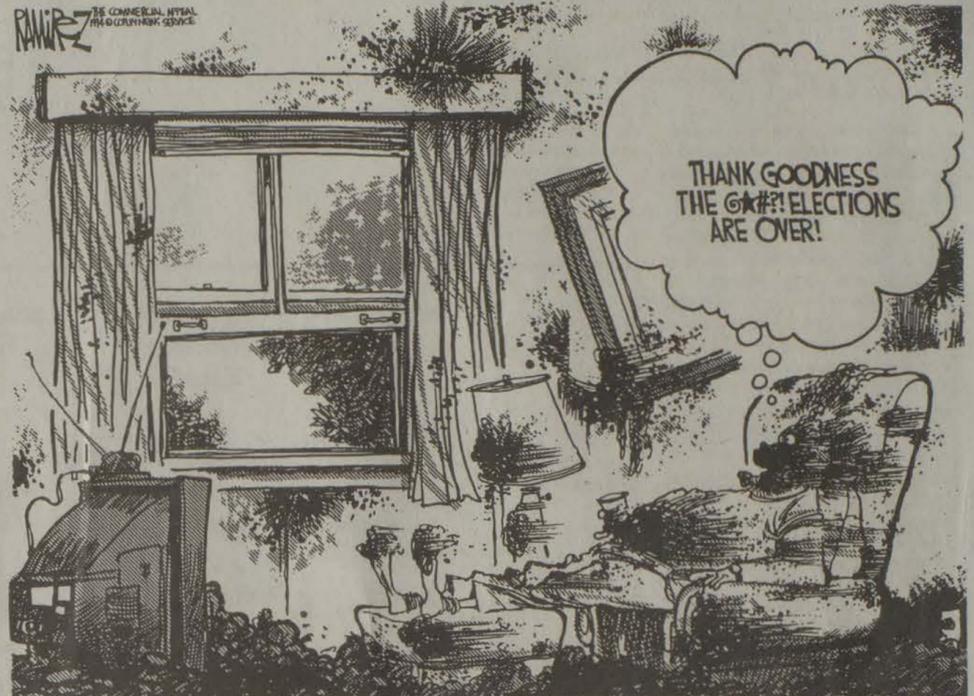

It's a move toward true majority rule and away from the chance a candidate could get his party's nomination with just a fraction of the vote.

Nowhere is that problem more obvious than it was in the last presidential election, which gave Bill Clinton the White House despite that fact that nearly 60 percent of the country's voters didn't vote for him.

So, 1995 promises to be an exciting, if not precedent-setting year for Kentucky politics.

And, in a state where politics are akin to a three-ring circus, that's saying something.

Hang onto your hats.

Writer has plans for economic development

Editor:

Thank you for your kindness. I am so proud of my 633 votes. There is a thread that runs so true through the population of Floyd County and somehow that thread is going to become cloth or a cloak to provide for everyone.

Everyone talks of economic development. I have an idea. I look around and see men making/manufacturing spurs for chickens, very high-tech killing instruments that sell for a lot of money. This ability to manufacture spurs and "mining buggies" needs to be replaced by a wheelchair plant. Little Suzanne's wheelchair came from California. We could become a major supplier of the finest disability equipment in the United States. And men seem to understand assembling things. I wish I could get something started. It would be wonderful for everyone.

I sincerely want to establish a children's hospital "Just for kids" to be connected to all schools in Eastern Kentucky (Family Resource Centers).

I don't want the kids to suffer as Suzanne has, and this hospital would help the medical school in Paintsville.

Maybe instead of asking for help—maybe we need to be the helpers.

What others are saying

The following articles are excerpts of editorials taken from Kentucky newspapers

Ethics code is something that was long needed

Lawrence County's ethics code, which passed a first reading Thursday, is a huge step in the right direction for county government.

For too long, ethics in government has been ignored everywhere and it's about time a code was mandated.

However, there are no guidelines for these codes.

Lawrence County, fortunately, has a good, strong ethics code that should serve the county well. Other counties, however, have passed codes lacking in several areas.

For instance, Rowan and Menifee counties both passed codes allowing nepotism—the hiring of relatives.

This "keep it in the family" type of government has kept too many qualified people out of jobs for too long.

One of the best requirements Lawrence County's code has is the establishment of an ethics commission to see that the code is followed.

According to Lawrence County's code, a county official may still hire one relative if they are the most qualified applicant for the position. This is determined by the ethics committee.

I have no problem with the county hiring a relative if they are the most qualified for the job, just as long as the decision is made by an unbiased commission.

Overall, the code should improve government that, in turn, will better serve the people. It is something that should have come along a long time ago. —The Big Sandy News

Opening move

Time for some light on disciplining of judges.

Kentucky Chief Justice Robert Stephens has taken the lead in changing the way Kentucky disciplines judges.

Stephens has appointed a 12-person committee—including a majority of non-lawyers—to look at the existing canons of judicial ethics and recommend changes. Among the topics the committee will consider include opening disciplinary proceedings to greater public view.

At the moment, the process is almost entirely closed to public view. That means that the public has no way of knowing what is happening to complaints about judges—even in high-profile cases such as the current one involving McCreary Circuit Judge Jerry Winchester.

It's far past time that the state opened up this process. Stephens' appointment of this committee should set that in motion. Good for him—and good luck to the committee members in their work. —Lexington Herald-Leader

Russian oil spill

Western organizations have estimated that the oil spill in the remote Russian Arctic is eight times the size of the 1989 Exxon Valdez spill, and that 26 square miles of tundra are covered in oil. Located 40 miles north of the city of Usinsk, the oil has been leaking from ruptures in underground pipes.

Technology: breaking barriers to learning

by Thomas C. Boyson
Kentucky Commissioner of Education

Living in the beautiful but isolated rural communities of Kentucky once meant accepting the reality of limitation. Barriers of distance and time blocked access to teaching and learning resources taken for granted in urban areas.

Those barriers are coming down. In Kentucky, a state in which the very foundation of education reform is equal opportunity to learn and achieve, breaking barriers may be technology's most significant role. Technology can virtually eradicate factors that once created or promoted academic inequity and it can create learning opportunities that otherwise could not exist within the confines of the clock, the calendar and the classroom.

Even now, before the Kentucky Education Technology System master plan is fully implemented, before every classroom is part of the network, appropriately selected and applied hardware and software are improving academic opportunities for Kentucky students. Here are a few examples:

The Time Barrier—A Shelby County High School senior eager to read South African President Nelson Mandela's acceptance speech located the entire text on Internet soon after the speech was delivered—no need to wait for newspapers or settle for brief excerpts provided by the media.

The Distance Barrier—Without leaving their schools, students in rural Eastern Kentucky can search libraries at major universities to find articles and magazines that deepen their understanding of academic subjects.

The Role Barrier—In Martin County, three students applied their skills, knowledge and technology (computers, presentation devices, video cameras and CD-ROM) to develop a video that explains to teachers and students how to use a scanner and a video/laser disc. Electronic bulletin board systems in Fleming and Anderson county schools were established by students. Throughout the state, students are learning to be leaders as they guide faculty, staff and other students into the world of technology.

The Expectations Barrier—As part of a push to improve their reading and writing skills, at-risk students at Holmes Junior High in Covington joined an on-line community of writers to exchange writings and responses with others. The result: At year's end the at-risk students outperformed their peers on the reading portion of the state assessment—and the school's approach was recognized by the U. S. Department of Education as one of the nation's most effective Chapter 1 approaches to meeting the special education needs of educationally disadvantaged children.

The Learning Styles Barrier—Some students learn best by listening, but many learn best by doing and producing. For those students, technology provides the active involvement necessary for learning.

Technology is breaking barriers for teachers, too. Many are already going online to collaborate and share successful teaching strategies. They are making technology their tool for planning instruction, managing their classrooms and learning new teaching skills.

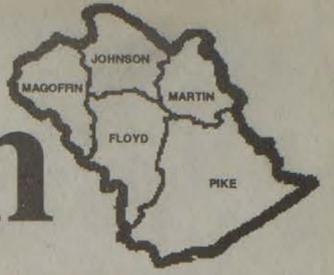

Teachers in Scott County, for example, learn to research and teach with computers by doing online assignments provided by the district's technology coordinator. They complete the assignments at a time and place most convenient to them—breaking barriers of time, distance and access in the process—and receive professional development credit for their achievement. Through video technology, teachers in Western Kentucky can earn masters degree or Rank I credit by taking college courses close to home—without driving long distances to Murray State University.

With networked computers, teachers share each others' challenges and resolutions and applaud each others' successes. Technology links them to hundreds of instructional units and lesson plans.

Technology is making a difference, and reports of successes could fill this page. Thanks to the Kentucky Education Technology System, Kentuckians will be seeing, hearing about and experiencing those successes in the months and years to come.

As we celebrate the benefits, it is important to keep this perspective: Technology is not merely a conduit for instruction, but a powerful teaching and learning tool. This tool takes its place in our public education toolbox because it helps students and teachers accomplish goals.

Magoffin official's trial postponed

The election fraud trial of Magoffin County Clerk H.B. Arnett has been postponed until January 10.

Arnett was to stand trial yesterday in Magoffin Circuit Court on two felony counts of willfully and knowingly failing to compare signatures on absentee ballot envelopes with the signatures on voter registration cards.

Assistant Attorney General Barbara Whaley said Wednesday that Judge John Robert Morgan forgot that Thursday was his regular motion day. She said that the trial is expected to last more than two days and that all parties agreed it would be better to postpone it. —Lexington Herald-Leader

National charity starts campaign to save two-month-old infant

A two-month-old infant in need of a life-saving bone marrow transplant has led to a regional campaign by a national charity to help raise money for the procedure.

Children's Organ Transplant Association, Inc. (COTA) of

Bloomington, Indiana, held an organizational meeting this week at Whitesburg to enlist volunteers in the campaign to save the life of Forest Madden, the infant son of Amanda Madden of Isom in Letcher County and Anthony King of Lexington.

Forest is the grandson of Henry F. and Janet Madden of Isom.

Forest was diagnosed at birth with Omenn's Syndrome, according to a press release from COTA. Symptoms of this disorder include the failure to thrive and being immunocompromised, a condition in which the immune system is not functioning normally.

Doctors think that his only chance for survival is to have a bone marrow transplant. The survival rate is usually five months without this procedure, according to the press release.

COTA is a federally recognized national charity dedicated to organizing and guiding families and communities with transplant needy individuals, in raising the necessary funds for transplant and/or transplant-related expenses. The press release further adds that "no individual is denied a transplant or excluded from a transplant waiting list due to a lack of funds. One hundred percent of all funds raised will be used for Forest's transplant and/or transplant-related expenses."

The cost of Forest's transplant and or related expenses is $100,000. Tax deductible donations may be mailed to: The Bank of Whitesburg, Highway 15, Isom, KY 41824, or made in person at any branch location. Make checks or money orders payable to "COTA for Forest" and write account number 173-31569-0 in the memo space. Those who would like to help with the fundraising campaign may contact Janet Madden at (606) 633-8027.

For more information about establishing a local chapter, write to: COTA, 264A Haywood Street, Prestonsburg, KY 41653.

Kentucky coal company fined $190,000 for 1993 violations

The Labor Department's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) has fined a Kentucky coal company $190,000 for violations found during an investigation of a roof fall accident that killed two miners in October 1993.

MSHA assessed the operators of the Sextet Mining Corporation's West Hopkins No. 11 mine near Nebo, Hopkins County, the $190,000 civil penalty for seven violations of federal mine safety regulations, three of which contributed directly to the fatal accident.

On October 7, 1993, a roof fall occurred on the second shift at the West Hopkins No. 11 mine which resulted in fatal injuries to Kelly Hibbs, section foreman, and Carl Anthony Brown, a shotfirer. Hibbs was loading coal in the No. 8 entry and Brown was in the immediate area when the roof fall occurred. The day shift foreman had informed the second shift foreman that the mine roof was unsafe in the No. 8 entry, yet neither of the foremen had installed any additional supports in the affected area.

Upon investigation of the accident, MSHA cited Sextet Mining Corporation for three violations that contributed to the fatal accident. Investigators cited: the failure to maintain a protective canopy over the controls of the coal loading machine; an inadequate onshift examination conducted on the day of the accident; and failure of the miners to remain under the protection of canopies, during mining operations. MSHA noted that management was aware miners were not always protected by the canopies as required. The mining company was assessed the maximum penalty of $50,000 for each of these three violations.

Over $1,300 raised for local schools during CableVision's fall promotion

CableVision raised $1,330 for local schools during their recent "You + Cable = Money For Our Schools" consumer promotion. Customers who signed up for cable or added to their service during the cable operator's fall campaign received a free installation and half of their first month's service fees were donated to the local schools. CableVision's donations will be used for computer "ingenious" interface kits and VCR's to be distributed to our local schools.

Harold Burchell, Floyd County Schools director of technology stated: "We are very grateful for the support CableVision has given to education for many years. We wish to thank all the customers who participated in the program this year. The donations will help us acquire the tools we need for classrooms today."

CableVision's general manager, Dan Perry, will officially present the donation to local schools at a special event for media and officials.

The "You + Cable = Money For Our School's" promotion is just one element of CableVision's ongoing commitment to education. Through their Cable in the Classroom program, CableVision provides free cable service and over 525 hours of commercial-free educational programming to schools in serviceable areas, an annual Teacher Award Contest provides an opportunity for educators to receive cash awards and equipment for their schools for innovative and effective use of cable programming in their curriculum.

1995 tax interest rate set at 8 percent

The 1995 tax interest rate charged by the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet (KRC) on unpaid and delinquent taxes has been set at 8 percent. When applicable, the same rate is paid on refunds issued by KRC.

The rate, effective January 1, 1995, is based on the prime interest rate charged by Kentucky banks during October 1994. A recent survey of Kentucky banks showed that the average prime interest rate in October was 8.19 percent, which was rounded to the nearest whole percent (8 percent).

The Secretary of the Revenue Cabinet is required by law to set the tax interest rate by November 15 for the year beginning January 1.

Manufacturing technology

Manufacturing is a vital part of the nation's economy, yet many educators have limited training in manufacturing principles. High school teachers, administrators, and guidance counselors from around the region will have a unique opportunity during the summer of 1995 to gain an insider's view into all aspects of the manufacturing process through the Manufacturing Opportunities through Science and Technology (MOST) program.

Applications are now being accepted for MOST, a collaborative effort between the Oak Ridge Institute for Science and Education (ORISE) and the Center for Manufacturing Technology at the Y-12 Plant in Oak Ridge, Tennessee. MOST will be held June 15-July 14 in Oak Ridge. The program is designed to expand knowledge and career awareness, enhance teaching skills, and develop teaching materials in the area of manufacturing technology.

Teachers will take part in actual manufacturing processes at the Center for Manufacturing Technology and will use computer-aided design equipment, drafting tools, and machinery to create items for use in their classrooms. The program will also feature tours of manufacturing enterprises in the Oak Ridge and Knoxville areas, as well as the Saturn automobile plant in Spring Hill, Tennessee. The teachers will take part in discussions of the various components of manufacturing, such as product development, process evaluation, applied statistics, production, marketing, and distribution.

Participants, in teams of two to five individuals, will be selected from individual schools or school systems and will include traditional science, mathematics, and technology teachers, as well as vocational education teachers, curriculum leaders, administrators, and guidance counselors. Participants will receive a stipend for the four-week-institute, and travel and lodging expenses will be provided for participants from outside the local area. Graduate credit will also be available through the University of Tennessee.

The application deadline for next summer's MOST institute is February 1, 1995. To request application materials, contact Peggy Gibson at (615) 576-6226, or write to: MOST, Science/Engineering Education Division, Oak Ridge Institute for Science and Education, P.O. Floyd teachers named to "Who's Who"

Several Floyd County teachers have been included in a select group of America's teachers honored by their toughest critics, their former students, in the third edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 1994.

Local teachers selected by their students to receive the honor were Florene Conn Harris of Allen, who works at the Floyd County Board of Education; Patricia Roberts Adkins and Nadine Keathley Blankenship, both of Betsy Layne Elementary; and Meredith Dewey Stone of Bevinsville, a teacher at Osborne Elementary.

Others were Janet L. Varney Bowling, Lowell Lloyd Martin and Pamela P. Frasure, teachers at Allen Central High School; Shiriline H. Patton, and Helen K. Howard Martin, teachers at Duff Elementary; Rosemary Tackett, Harold Elementary; Gwinetta G. Mitchell, South Floyd High School; Ruth Ann Osborne Castle, Forrest Rodrick Hughes and Patricia Ann Martin, teachers at Maytown Elementary.

Also honored were Annette Spurgeon Biery, Floyd County Technical High School; Cindy Speaks Hall, Mountain Christian Academy; Jack Allen Goodman, and Janie Lyon, teachers at Adams Middle School; Roger Harold Goodwill and William Joseph Loftus, Shirley L. Thomas and George Dennis Torok, instructors at Prestonsburg Community College; Wilma Wallen Leslie, Charles Clark Elementary; Patricia Webb Maynard, Johnny G. Stumbo, Sharon Shepherd Vaughan and Lisa A. Willis, teachers at Prestonsburg High School.

All teachers honored were selected by their former students who themselves are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Students were requested to nominate teachers who "made a difference in their lives" by helping to shape their values, inspiring interest in a particular subject and/or challenging them to strive for excellence.

Many of the students commented about the enthusiasm and knowledge their teachers demonstrated in the classroom, and many praised their teachers for their ability to relate to youngsters on a personal as well as a professional level. One student wrote about her teacher saying, "she made education something pleasurable, instead of a dreadful ordeal, by letting me spread my wings and showing me the best way to fly."

Knott County Historical Society formed

In commemoration of Knott County's 110th anniversary, the citizens of Knott have organized a historical and genealogical society and library.

According to their constitution, the mission of the society is to collect and preserve historical materials pertaining to Knott and surrounding counties; to provide a museum and library wherein the society's acquisitions can be opened for public exhibition and genealogical research; to promote awareness of the Appalachian culture by building a positive image and acting as a liaison with community agencies; and to actively develop continued interest within the Appalachian culture and to amend the negative connotation the word "hillbilly" conveys.

A specific goal of the society's library is to provide for dissemination of information pertaining to local historical topics. It will be an emphasis of the library to have files on each surname in the county. The society welcomes any contributions to the research they have begun.

The governing body of the society is a group of 24 trustees, elected to staggered terms to avoid choosing all new personnel at once. Officers were selected in an effort to balance the ratio of male-female, age differences, geographical distribution, Knott County origins and time availability.

The first publication from the Knott Society was made available at its first meeting. This is a verbatim record of Knott marriages transcribed by trustees, Ruth N. Smith and Russel Sue Smith, and alphabetized by President David R. Smith. The record includes 1884 through 1898, detailing brides and grooms, sureties, witnesses and homes with each category in alphabetical order. The cost of the publication is $10 postage-paid.

Membership dues to the non-profit organization are $15 per annum which includes a subscription to a quarterly newsletter. Smith notes that a continuing section in this newsletter will list valuable genealogical information such as marriages, births and deaths, as well as deeds, wills, court records, book reviews, family reunions and queries. These records will delve into the counties from which Knott was originally formed: Letcher, Breathitt, Perry, Clay, Floyd Fleming, Montgomery, Clark, Mason, Madison, Fayette, etc. The society will be working in conjunction with those existing historical societies in the aforementioned counties.

To join send $15 to the Knott County Historical & Genealogical Society & Library, P.O. Box 1023, Hindman, Ky. 41822 (send genealogical research, insured artifacts, Bible records, etc., to this address also). Also available for sale in commemoration of Knott's 110th anniversary is the 208 pp. Knott County Legacy by the Troublesome Creek Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Words of life

We are nearing a day set aside by men to offer thanks to God for His blessings on us, both as a nation and as individuals. Even among we professing Christians, mostly there will be the rituals of this "holiday" with only a relatively few actually directing personal thanks to a personal God for His goodness. Even then, we tend to limit our thoughts to tangibles, like food, home, possessions, or good health.

Truly these are good things from God, but thanks for these alone fail to touch upon God's greatest provision, eternal life. It is this gift of eternal life, a right relationship with God, that has changed our life today and forever. Eternal life has placed the tangible things of this world in their proper secondary place, so why is it our thanks so seldom reflect that priority? The answer is, that type of gratitude requires an honest assessment of not only God's forgiveness but our personal sin, and thus our pride often hinders us.

The Lord Jesus taught this truth, the necessary awareness of one's sin to provoke a proper love for God at Luke 7:36-50. There, the Bible tells us that a religious man named Simon had invited Jesus into his home. As a Pharisee, Simon lived a separated and disciplined life, speaking of, and offering worship to, the one true God Jesus claimed had sent Him. Simon earnestly desired to learn if Jesus was a prophet as others proclaimed Him to be.

As they ate and talked, a "woman of the city who was a sinner" (v. 37), that is, a prostitute, came into the house. This was a bold and offensive act in the eyes of Simon. His religion prohibited him from having any contact with such a sinner. Nevertheless, this woman drew near to the Lord Jesus. She apparently had heard Jesus teach earlier and now His words of the truth of sin and the grace of God had taken root in her heart. Like so many of us, she had trusted in both Christ's word and His person. Thus, she naturally sought Him out, and now in His presence, tears began to flow from her eyes and fall upon the feet of the Lord. Those tears were joined by her kisses and an anointing of oil. She wiped the soon-to-be pierced feet of the Savior with the hairs of her head. She was broken, repentant, and showing a responsible love for God due to the forgiveness of her sins.

As the religious Simon watched, the Bible reveals he was unmoved by the brokenness of the prostitute and disgusted with the Savior of the world. Because Simon could correctly state he had never sinned like the prostitute, that he had lived a much more moral life than her, he erroneously concluded he had no need for anything from Jesus. He reasoned that one who offered forgiveness to such "a sinner" (v. 39) as this woman, could not be from God. Jesus knew Simon's thoughts and his inability to understand this woman's display of love and devotion. What Simon lacked was an appreciation of his own sinfulness and need for God's grace, so Jesus told him a parable, coupled with a question.

There was a certain creditor which had two debtors: the one owed 500 pence, and the other 50. And when they had nothing to pay, he frankly forgave them both. Tell me therefore which of them will love him most? Simon answered and said, "I suppose that he to whom he forgave most." And He said unto him, you have rightly judged. (v. 40-43)

Notice from the parable that there were two men, and BOTH HAD A DEBT. True, one owed 50 and the other owed 500, yet both had a debt to be reckoned with. The Lord wanted Simon to realize the truth that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23).

In men's wisdom, we want to classify our sins, compare ourselves to others, and then decide which sins are "50 pence" or "500 pence." We strongly condemn the sins of the flesh like those of the prostitute weeping at the feet of Jesus, while we ignore the sins of the spirit, like pride and self-righteousness, both of which were raging in Simon's heart and mind as Jesus spoke. In like manner, we condemn as serious sins of commission, things we do by specific acts, while ignoring sins of omission, things which we refuse to do. "Love one another," and "forgive one another" are commands of God, and establish Simon's sin at that very moment. Likewise, we view as serious, sins that are open and known to all, but choose to minimize those that are hidden and unseen by all but God. Whether my sin is of the flesh or the spirit, of commission or omission, open or hidden, it is still sin and I will give an account. Both the woman and Simon were sinners, debtors to God.

Secondly, notice that both debtors were EQUAL IN THEIR HELPLESSNESS, for the Bible says they "had nothing with which to pay." (v. 42) Both were broke and their debt would consume all they had. The amount of their debts may be different, but they were equal in their bankruptcy. There are no degrees of bankruptcy, no such thing as being "bankrupt," "bankrupter," and "bankruptest." If you are bankrupt, you lose it all. In the same way, all of us as sinners are equal before God, for "we have nothing with which to pay." (v. 42) We will try to offer God a reformed life, new habits, good deeds, and as a last resort, a comparison of our life to someone else's we judge more sinful. But the Bible tells us, God will not receive it, for "the wages of sin is death" (Rom. 6:23), and a holy God cannot ignore His own word.

Notice condemnation is for "sin," not "sins." The measuring stick is not your comparative goodness to another, like the woman at Jesus' feet, but to the perfect holiness of God. That's why the Bible speaks of "coming short of the glory of God," not the goodness of men. If you come short, by an inch or by a mile, you still come short and the result is the same. To be guilty of one offense is to be "guilty of all." (Jas. 2:10) It doesn't matter if you view your sin debt as "50 pence" or "500 pence," you still are condemned.

Finally, notice in Jesus' parable that the creditor "frankly forgave them both." (v. 42) He "forgave," he didn't bargain for payment for they "had nothing with which to pay." Forgiveness was the only hope for both debtors. Be the debt 50 or 500, "both" needed and received it. Yet, remember, though it was free to the debtors, it cost the creditor 550 pence. So it is with us who are saved from our sins. It comes freely by faith but at great expense to the Father and Son. For whether you consider your sin debt to be a 50 or a 500 pence, the true measure is found at the cross of Calvary.

Your sin, my sin, the sin of the woman at Jesus' feet, the sin of Simon the Pharisee were individually such that God could not wish or speak them away as the creditor did in the parable. Our personal sins required a Holy God to send His Son into the world to take on flesh and bone that He might pay the only acceptable price for sin, death. So, it is in Jesus' pierced hands and feet, in His agony and humiliation, in His physical and spiritual death at the cross that we find the measure of our enormous sin debt and God's great mercy. In this light, the difference in the Bible parable of the debt of 50 pence and 500 pence is not a measure of the amount of one's sin but of the awareness of one's sin.

Those who truly calculate the reality of their personal sinfulness by the price paid at the cross of Calvary will always see themselves as a debtor of "500 pence," one who owed it all, and "had nothing with which to pay." Such believers are the ones the Lord Jesus describes at the end of the Bible text. Very naturally, having realized they have been "forgiven much," they find they "love much." (v. 43-44) Whether they be a woman of the city or a religious Simon, love and gratitude toward God marks their life. When the head is bowed to offer thanks, foremost in their mind and heart is a view of the cross, coupled with a wonderful unanswerable question, "But for Christ, where and what would I be?"

THE TRIP (PART 3)

The view was magnificent. And after what we'd been through to get to experience this vista, Melinda would not have allowed it to be anything less than breathtaking.

"Look at that sunrise!" Mother exclaimed.

"Somebody shut the draperies! The light is killing my eyes. It can't be daylight already?" Amanda moaned.

"We're here for the sun," Jenny interjected.

"I thought we were here for the Scrabble games," I said.

"You just like to throw around all those big words you know, Sara," Amanda sneered.

"Yeah," Melinda chimed in. "Like that word you used yesterday when we had to pull over and let you go to the bathroom for the millionth time. What was that word? Whoa? Was it whoa?"

"You're all so funny," I said.

"Sara, you take everything too seriously. We're just here to relax and enjoy ourselves," Mother said cajolingly.

"How can I enjoy myself when everyone's picking on me?"

"Quit complaining. No one's picking on you, Little Bladder. Let's think about something important," Melinda said. "Now what's first on our agenda?"

"Where are we going to eat?" Amanda asked.

"That's first on my agenda," Melinda agreed. "Let's get dressed."

We spent the rest of the afternoon getting ready to go out to eat which pretty well sums up our agenda for the entire trip.

"Where are we going?" I asked Melinda when we got into the car. "Seafood?"

"Probably. What about the rest of you?"

"Seafood!" they all yelled in unison.

"I never ate as much shrimp or crab meat as I've wanted," I remarked.

"That will be no more!" Melinda exclaimed as she pulled into a restaurant parking lot. "If you don't come out of this buffet with fins or the ick, it's your own fault."

Melinda was right; not that I ever doubted her for a minute. In fact, she was so right it literally made me sick. In fact, all of us ate seafood until we were sick. It was truly decadent, and Amanda said it best when she slowly raised to her feet and grunted. She then waddled out the door. We didn't see her again until we got back to the car and saw her wedged between the fender and a fence.

"This is so awful," Jenny lamented. "There are people starving to death, and we just imbibed in true gluttony."

"Yeah, it's awful," Melinda piped in, "but it's a moot point. We couldn't get that food to them anyway."

"Oh, yes we could," Amanda groaned, "because I could projectile vomit it anywhere in the world."

"Ugh," Mother replied. "How disgusting."

As we rolled ourselves into the car, Melinda asked, "Where to now?"

"I need some crabs," I offered.

"Don't mention food!" Amanda belched.

"I promised Mal and Zac I'd bring them a hermit crab."

"How are we supposed to get them home?" Amanda asked.

"What do hermit crabs eat anyway?" Jenny asked.

"I told you not to mention food!" Amanda shouted.

"We transport them home in cages. I have to buy cages."

"Seeing as how Melinda barely let us bring underclothes, where do you propose to put the cages?" Mother asked.

Before I had a chance to answer, I saw a store with a sign

THE TIMES' WEEKEND

The Nutcracker returns to Pikeville

The March of Soldiers

The holiday classic ballet, The Nutcracker, is returning to Pikeville after nearly 10 years.

Public performances are scheduled for Friday and Saturday, December 9 and 10, at 7:30 p.m. in Faith Chapel. There will also be a matinee performance on Sunday, December 11, at 2 p.m.

The production, which is presented by the Pikeville College Community Education Dance Program, is choreographed by local artist Claire Olson and will feature dancers, aged 6 through adult, from throughout the area.

Young and old alike will be mesmerized by this tale of a young girl's special Christmas gift and the dream fantasy it brings. The ballet represents holiday family entertainment at its best.

Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for children 15 and under. Group rates are also available.

There is plenty of free parking available in the Hambley Boulevard lots, with easy access to Faith Chapel by the Record Memorial Elevators.

For more information about The Nutcracker, call (606) 432-9319.

Sugar Plums and Friends

The Ashland Youth Ballet will present its annual holiday performance of The Nutcracker on Saturday, December 3, at 7 p.m. and Sunday, December 4, at 2 p.m. at the Paramount Arts Center in Ashland.

This year's performance is filled with a variety of new props and professionally-designed costuming. The newly designed "growing" tree and a mechanical sleigh in Act I head the list of new staging acquisitions. Costumes for the children and dolls in Act I, the Snow Queen and Sugar Plum Fairy have also been redesigned.

Following tradition, the opening night performance will be preceded by "An Evening with Sugar Plum and Friends," a fund-raiser sponsored by the company members' parents.

At the pre-show reception, children ages 5-10 are given the opportunity to meet and talk with the dancers. A reading of the The Nutcracker will help the children understand the story behind the ballet. The attendees will also be given a tour of the backstage area and dressing rooms as the dancers prepare for the performance. They will be allowed to touch and ask questions about the props, costumes and other areas of interest.

For ticket information, call (606) 324-3175. Anyone interested in attending "An Evening with Sugar Plum and Friends" may phone LuAnn Vance at (606) 325-7409 or Maria Whaley at (606) 324-5434.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

On the same day (Oct. 17), the federal government announced it would reduce funding, by $55 million, for food banks and other programs that feed poverty-stricken Americans, and spend $47 million in new funds to create makeshift jobs and job training for the much-reviled Haiti police force.

WELL-PUT

— Atlanta police Det. Chris Brown, commenting in July on the haplessness of a bank robber who walks with the aid of a cane and who gave himself up with no resistance immediately after the chemical dye pack in his money bag exploded outside the bank: "I don't think he had a plan."

— Mike McElroy, making an appeal to the West Lake Hills, Texas, City Council in August of the benefits of his being allowed to keep his pet donkey, Pearl, at his home despite regulations against it: "[This] is a great opportunity for our kids and other kids who come to see us to be able to recognize and identify manure, which will help them in the future. Children need, at an early age, to be able to identify manure."

— Adoption agency official Mary Graves, in a Doylestown, Pa., case in which a girl had been taken from her father after the mother passed away, testified in August that she favored keeping the girl with the adopted family. With her father, Graves said, "She would have none of the benefits but all of the disadvantages of a mother who is dead."

— A New York City Transit Authority spokesman, describing in August how his agency would handle female toplessness in subways after a state court ruled that women had the same public nudity rights as men: "If [the topless females] were violating any other rules, like sitting on a subway bench topless smoking a cigarette, then we would take action."

— In a July article, the Daily Oklahoman newspaper quoted state Sen. John Monks as once arguing, while defending the "sport" of cockfighting, "The first thing the communists do when they take over a country is to outlaw cockfighting."

— One issue on the ballot in San Francisco this year was an initiative on whether a subway station should be constructed inside the San Francisco International Airport, or just outside the airport boundary. In April, a local judge rejected a complaint about the poor taste of one ad placed by the "inside" advocates — an ad arguing, "Taking [the train] almost into the airport is like not coming."

— Columnist Emil Guillermo, writing in Filipinas magazine last fall, urging Philippine-Americans to come out of the closet regarding their appetite for dog meat: "Whether you have eaten it or not, deep down you know you'd eat it. Yet that restrictive idea of 'when in America, do as Americans do' prevents us from outright declaring, 'Mmmm, I prefer my German shepherd baked and my cocker spaniel sauteed.'"

— Christine McKatherine, 43, who staged a 24-hour civil-rights protest inside her car on a Chicago street in August after the car was immobilized with a Denver boot for having 115 unpaid parking tickets: "I'm tired of people getting harassed in Chicago."

THE WEIRDO-AMERICAN COMMUNITY

In September in Pittsburgh, Dewitt Smith, 46, received a five-to-10-year sentence for aggravated assault for a 1992 incident in which he broke away from courtroom marshals and bit his judge, Walter R. Little, on the face, sending him to the hospital for stitches. Smith said he "did not understand" what he was doing, because of "voices."

LEAST COMPETENT CRIMINALS

— According to the sheriff in Martin, Ohio, two or more burglars unsuccessfully attempted to break into the safe at W&W Custom Applicators Inc. at 4 o'clock one morning in October. They rolled the 4-foot-high, concrete-lined safe outside and used a front-end loader to smash it against the side of a building to open it. The safe crashed through the wall but did not open. Then they smashed it against the side of a utility trailer, with the same result. Then they placed it on nearby railroad tracks so that a Conrail train could plow into it, but

If you are in one of those average, two-income families that make up most of America, it might interest you to know that 40 cents out of every dollar you earn go to pay taxes.

You may be even more than interested; you might be curious, too.

Well, you oughta be. If you're paying 40 percent of your income out in taxes, you ought to know just what it is you're getting for your money.

Well, for one thing, you're getting a free public education for your kids.

It's all free, except what you have to cough up for books, paper, pens, gym shoes, lunches, instructional fees and for all the candy bars and light bulbs you can afford so that your kids can have something to play on during recess breaks from all that free education.

Your tax dollars also pay for that good feeling you get knowing that the Russians aren't going to lob a heat seeking missile down your chimney here at Christmas time and the Haitians aren't going to beat each other to death any more...or any less.

Some of your tax money goes to pay farmers not to grow certain types of crops and another chunk goes to pay farmers to grow certain kinds of crops.

A lot of tax money is spent every year to put some farmers in jail for growing certain kinds of crops.

A bunch of your tax money is spent on secret things that you'll never ever know anything about.

We could tell what those secret things are, but then we'd have to kill you.

One of the most important uses of your tax money is for the salaries of various government officials who decide, without asking you, what your money will be spent on.

It doesn't matter, see, what you think about the government spending a few hundred thousand bucks to fund research into the most efficient way to french fry potatoes.

If they didn't spend your tax money on something, why they might have to give it back to you.

Then you'd have to try and think of some way to spend it yourself.

That would never do.

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: A shocked Adam realized Gloria was not faking her labor pains. Tad and Charley rushed her to the hospital. An angry Alec decked Adam, saying his actions may have cost two lives. Edmund leveled a cruel accusation against Maria, who told him to seek an annulment. Trevor told Myrtle he's having doubts about marrying Jane (Janet) who, meanwhile, was plotting to smother Laurel. Harold was within 100 miles of home. Wait To See: Hayley's fury at Adam grows deeper.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Janice overheard Holden and Meg speak of the night he spent with Lily. Andy was worried about John's biopsy. After an argument with Lucinda, Craig asked Emily if her job offer was still open. Lily suspected (and rightly so) that Orlena's sudden solicitude meant Damian told her of the pregnancy. Craig and Emily realized Sam hadn't left town when she turned up as their waitress at The Green Dragon. Later, Craig demanded Sam explain why she's staying in Oakdale. Wait To See: Lisa acts on news about Scott.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Taylor gave Omar a list of questions for Ridge, hoping his answers would prove he would want her if he knew she were alive. While wandering through the palace, Ridge and Brooke found "Laila's" room. Taylor was upset to hear Ridge tell Omar that he hoped he would find the same happiness with Laila that he had found with Brooke. Sheila and Eric had an emotional give-and-take in James' office. James advised her to reveal her secrets to Eric as a way of saving their marriage. Wait To See: Omar makes a decision about Taylor's future.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Tony's

dark side emerged as he watched Kristen and John kissing. Celeste put drugs in Billie's tea (thinking it was for Gina). After Billie fell asleep with her face on the couch (and with her face out of Celeste's view), Celeste implanted one of Hope's memories in the sleeping woman. After realizing her mistake, Celeste rushed out, dropping the book of Hope's memories. In a trance, Marlena joined Stefano on a night of adventure and later awoke, thinking it had been a dream. Wait To See: Daniel and Peter have a confrontation.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: In Puerto Rico, Miguel and Lily reunited with his family and, later, with their son who had been adopted by another couple. In Cairo, Felicia told Frisco about her pregnancy while Tony was being charmed by a belly dancer. Ned tried to reconcile with Lois. Monica was distraught about a cancer recurrence. Wait To See: Sonny finds more than he bargained for in Puerto Rico.

GUIDING LIGHT: Jenna was stunned when Alan confided his plan included a way to destroy Roger. After hearing the truth from Eve about the night of Dylan's accident, Ed told Ross to investigate the matter, regardless of the consequences. Mindy's plan to let the Lewises help Dylan ran into a sudden, unexpected financial snag—thanks to Nick and Alexandra. Alan realized his son, Alan-Michael, was his rival for Tangie. Wait To See: Vanessa and Matt are faced with an unexpected challenge.

LOVING: Clay accused Cooper of driving the car that hit him. Later, Steffi visited Cooper in jail and realized he believed she was the driver and was covering for her. Gilbert forced Ava to write a note to Alex saying she needed time away from him. Ava prayed Alex wouldn't believe what she wrote. Gilbert then accepted Alex's offer to buy his share of Bumell's. Wait To See: A paralyzed Clay vows to take revenge.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Blair found Todd, who had been stabbed by the rapist, and rushed him to the hospital. Without telling him, Marty agreed to donate the blood that would keep him alive. Still in a weakened emotional state, Rebecca blamed herself for the attack on Todd, and asked Powell to help her run away. Dorian told David that regardless of what he might say, Victor Lord's son exists, and the only way he can inherit would be to marry Tina. Cassie told Marty she suspects Andrew is having an affair. Wait To See: David's proposal to Tina sets off an unexpected chain of events.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Although he was unhappy with Chris' decision to help Danny with his marital problems, Paul agreed to investigate the circumstances that allowed Phyllis to trap him into marriage. Ryan told Nina he loved her and wanted them to start on a family as soon as possible. Keemo realized that when Jack described his GI father, he was describing himself. After the two acknowledged each other as father and son, Jack persuaded Keemo to meet the rest of the Abbotts. Mari Jo and Blade discussed his new problems with Ashley and her problems with Jack, unaware that Blade's twin brother had just entered Gina's. Hope was hurt in an accident and taken to the hospital where she told Victor the baby might not survive. Wait To See: Paul makes some disturbing discoveries about Phyllis.

CRITIC'S CORNER

LOVE AFFAIR

Hollywood is a town that is constantly reinventing itself and redoing older, tried-and-true scripts. This latest is another example. The original "Love Affair" starred Charles Boyer and Irene Dunne as the star-crossed lovers and it was made in 1939, based on a screenplay by Leo McCarey. In 1957, a remake called "An Affair To Remember" was done. It's probably the better known of the two because of its recent lensing and it starred Cary Grant and Deborah Kerr. That version received considerable play in the recent "Sleepless in Seattle" love story. I can see why. My mother is a slave to "An Affair To Remember."

HOME TIPS

NIGHT LIGHT—When we travel, we always carry a simple little night light in the suitcase. We plug it in at a convenient spot near the bathroom or in some other location where it gives the light we need if we have to get up at night.

No more stumbling over furniture in a dark, unfamiliar room. We've found this to be a great help. Jeannie H., Vienna, Va.

COUPON TIP—When going grocery shopping, I take two envelopes that I have stapled together with the pocket sides out. In one side, I put all of the coupons I might potentially use. If I actually use the coupon, I move it to the other pocket. When I get to the cash register, all of the coupons I've used are in that pocket. I use business-size envelopes that my bills or solicitations come in. That way, I'm also recycling! Tess F., San Antonio, Texas

BREAD CRUMBS—I've found a simple way to make bread crumbs. Stack four or five slices of white bread and cut into cubes. Three cuts all the way down each way will make squares.

Place the squares on a cookie sheet and dry in the oven at 300 degrees without browning. When dry, put in a zippered plastic bag (I use the half-gallon size) and zipper shut. Roll your rolling pin over the bag until you get the desired size of crumbs. Jill T., Westville, N.J.

SPATULAS—I keep a bunch of rubber spatulas in assorted sizes on hand. I buy them on sale at discount stores. They work better than spoons to get the last bits out of tomato-paste cans, peanut-butter jars or the last of the gravy left in the pan. They're even great to scrape off dirty plates before putting them into the dishwasher. Alice V., Ft. Myers, Fla.

Whenever she watches the movie, she is reduced to tears in no time and continues to sob well after the sappy (in my view) ending.

In this newest incarnation, Warren Beatty and real-life love, Annette Bening star as the loving couple. He portrays Mike Gambil, a football announcer who's engaged to a TV producer, although he's a very reluctant bridegroom. Bening is Terry McKay, a music teacher who's engaged to a banker.

The two meet on a trip to Australia (by plane), but are forced to disembark and get on a ship when the plane runs into engine trouble. As in the '57 version, at the end of the trip, the two agree to meet one year hence on top of the Empire State Building if they still decide they love one another.

For me, the only bright spot in the film was Katharine Hepburn, who portrays Beatty's aunt. She adds a badly-needed touch of class to this washed out, pale version of the films that preceded it. It's just a pity that her performance was so limited.

All in all, judging by the dry eyes in the audience, this film fails to raise the same emotional fervor as the 1957 movie—and it fails dismally. If you have any curiosity about this one at all, I suggest you wait until it hits the Late, Late Show when you're facing a particularly sleepless night!

NATASHA'S STARS

as you'll have wonderful times together this week. Guard against an unwise use of credit resources. You'll make an important decision about a family matter.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You'll probably be cautious and conservative in the way you handle your finances this week. However, your worry is ill-founded, as the week brings new chances for monetary gain.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your attitude may be overly serious early in the week. You'll certainly benefit from relaxing pursuits as a result. However, be careful that you don't spread yourself too thinly.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) There's no need to dwell on a problem from the past. Couples will derive more enjoyment from sharing quality time with each other than socializing. Even though home life is hectic, you'll still manage some time for yourself.

Turnovers hurt Allen Eagles in 50-41 loss to Duff Bulldogs

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Duff Bulldogs went to a pressure, 2-3 zone defense that smothered the Allen Eagles' offense en route to a 50-41 win in the Right Beaver Classic Tuesday night at Maytown.

Nick Samons was all over the court making steals and causing the bigger men of Allen to become frustrated after losing the basketball.

It was a game in which the Bulldogs looked more like a high school freshman team rather than a grade school team.

The passing of Duff was nearly sensational as they played unselfish basketball.

The Duff press doubled and tripled Seth Crisp when he handled the basketball, not allowing him to penetrate to the basket -- something he does so well.

It was Rodney Bentley that took over early for the Bulldogs and he slashed through the Allen defense for easy baskets. He had five offensive put-backs against the Eagles. Bentley finished with 20 points to lead Duff.

A missing offensive player was Ryan Owens. But while he wasn't scoring points, he was controlling the backboards for 14 rebounds (unofficially).

Owens dished off some great passes, while finishing with zero points. His unselfish play led to some key baskets for the Bulldogs.

On the other end of those passes was Gary Hunter, who had several key passes as well. Hunter tossed in 16 points and had seven assists (unofficially).

Allen failed to take care of the basketball, especially in the first half. The Eagles were guilty of turning the basketball over 20 times in the first half alone and finished with 31 miscues for the game.

Samons was the third player to score in double figures for the Buldogs, totaling 14 points. But it was more than just scoring from the smallest player on the floor.

His quickness in blindsiding the taller Allen players for steals resulted in the Bulldogs rolling to a 27-9 half-time lead.

Duff led 13-6 after the first quarter as Bentley maneuvered underneath for layups. He had four offensive put backs, three straight, as the Bulldogs jumped out to a 10-0 lead.

Jason Keathley put the Eagles on the board at the 2:29 mark of the first period and Crisp's jumper made it 13-6 just ahead of the horn.

Allen turned the ball over on their first four possessions of the second quarter and the Bulldogs took advantage of the mistakes, scoring on all four to lead 21-6.

Bentley took a great pass from Owens and banked the ball through the hoop for a 23-7 lead. He then scored the next three on a layup and free throw for a 26-7 game, Duff's biggest lead.

But it was a different Allen team that returned to the court after half-time. The Eagles, led by Keathley, ran off 11 unanswered points to make it a 27-20 game.

Keathley scored nine of the 11 points and hit a three-pointer that cut the margin to seven.

Samons completed a three-point play with 36 seconds left in the third period to send the Bulldogs back in front by 10 points, 34-24. The Eagles got two baskets from Keathley and a short jumper by Crisp to cut the margin to eight, 36-28, after three quarters.

Leading by eight, 40-32, Duff ran off seven straight points to build the margin back to 15, 47-32.

The big play was a no-look pass from Hunter to Bentley, who laid the ball off the glass for two and was fouled. Bentley converted the free throw.

Samons hit Hunter with a perfect pass for an easy basket and the Bulldogs had a lot to bark about.

Keathley hit his second trey from the head of the key to cut the lead back to 12.

Some cold shooting from the free throw line by Duff allowed the Eagles to get closer. Crisp drilled a three-pointer at the buzzer for the final nine-point margin.

Keathley tied Bentley for game scoring honors as he led the Eagles with 20 points. Crisp finished with 12 and Leslie had four. Robbie Holbrook scored five points.

Keathley pulled down 10 rebounds for the Eagles with Leslie hauling in nine.

How cold were the Eagles in the first half?

They hit four of 21 shots in the opening half and then connected on 14 of 26 in the second for 18, for 47 shooting for the game.

Allen (2-2) travels to Auxier this coming Monday night.

Duff (1-1) will be at home Monday night against Melvin for their homecoming game.

Murphy's acrobatics and 28 points lead Maytown

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was all Johnny Murphy Wednesday night in the semifinals of the Right Beaver Classic at Maytown.

The fleet-footed Wildcat center poured in 28 points as Maytown defeated rival Martin 55-43 to advance to the championship game tonight.

Maytown will face the Duff Bulldogs in the second game tonight.

Not only did Murphy look like Larry Bird scoring 28 points, but he did a great imitation of Michael Jordan in a move to the basket.

In the second period, Murphy went strong toward the basket with two Martin defenders on him. He did a 360 and scored on the brilliant move, bringing the crowd to its feet.

Murphy was a constant visitor at the charity stripe where he made 10 of 14 attempts.

Overshadowed by Murphy's performance was Brandon Prater's 18-point performance. Prater has become a solid player for coach Rick Hancock's Wildcats.

Jesse Hall, another solid grade school player, led Martin with 17 points. Hall went scoreless in the first quarter as Martin trailed 13-9.

James Seward added eight for the Purple Flash. Matthew Mayo netted nine points and Larry Mullins scored seven. Mullins had the game's only three-point basket.

Brandon Hoover scored five points for Maytown with Timmy Davis and Nathan Goble tossing in two each.

Maytown led 28-19 at the half.

Auxier's defense smothers Maytown in 47-24 victory

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Dalenda Howard buried back-to-back three-point baskets with 5:15 left in the second quarter and gave her Maytown team a 15-8 lead over unbeaten Auxier.

Coach Ashland Gearheart called time-out to regroup his Lady Hornets. The result was a 20-0 run that sent the Auxier Hornets on their way to their fourth win of the year, and a 47-24 defeat of the Maytown Lady Wildcats.

Maytown just couldn't handle the quickness of Auxier and the trapping defense that left them looking for someone to pass the basketball to.

The Hornets, despite their size, controlled the backboards on both ends of the floor.

The game was tied at 2, 4, and 6 before Susan Scarberry gave Maytown a 9-6 first quarter lead with a three-point basket.

Shelly Greathouse, who led all scorers with 23 points, hit a layup to narrow the margin to one point, 9-8, before Howard connected twice from the 19' 9" circle.

After the Auxier time-out, Tonya Honeycutt, who added 16 points for Auxier, took control and made some key steals, using her quickness.

Auxier led 28-15 at the half.

Greathouse scored all six of Auxier's points in the third period with Howard hitting a three-pointer for the Lady Wildcats.

Howard connected for her fourth three-point basket in the fourth quarter to make it a 36-21 game. But Greathouse pitched in nine consecu-

Johnson's 33 gives Osborne 47-44 win over Melvin Cougars

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Osborne Eagles and Prater Cougars opened their grade school basketball schedule this past Tuesday night when the Cougars entertained the Eagles at the Allen gym.

Jarrod Johnson tossed in a game-high 25 points to lead the Eagles past Prater 59-23.

Osborne improves to 1-0 while Prater dropped to 0-1.

The Eagles played a tight man-to-man defense against the Cougars and held them to just four points in the first two quarters.

They led 23-4 at the first stop and led 29-8 at the half.

Johnson hit five of eight free throws for the Eagles. James Walker added nine points in the win, including a three-pointer.

Mike Hall had 11 points off the bench. He hit a three-point basket.

Hall is just a fifth-grader at Osborne.

David Caudill netted six points and Jeremy Reed totaled four.

Justin Hall, Billy Hall and Josh Newman had two points apiece.

James Akers led the Cougars with five points. Clyde Boyd was close with four. Adam Akers tossed in three for the Cougars.

Mike Boyd, Wes Senters, Nick Spears and Wes Meade had two each for Prater. Kenneth Webb scored one point.

"We're rebuilding here at Osborne," said Roger Johnson, coach for the Eagles. "We'll get better."

"Prater is a young team as well, and they will be okay next year," he said.

Osborne will host the McDowell Daredevils Monday night at the Wheelwright gym.

Prater travels to Betsy Layne for a matchup in the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse.

Burchett scores 16 as MCA Falcons fly past Auxier, 59-15

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Mountain Christian Academy Falcons held the Auxier Hornets to one point in the second quarter and zero points in the third to roll to a 59-15 win in the Right Beaver Classic at Maytown Monday night.

Mark Burchett led the scoring parade for MCA with 16 points, including two three-point baskets.

The Hornets stayed close to the Falcons in the first period, trailing 12-7 at the first stop.

After that, Burchett and company took control and went on a 22-1 run in the second period to lead 34-8 at the half.

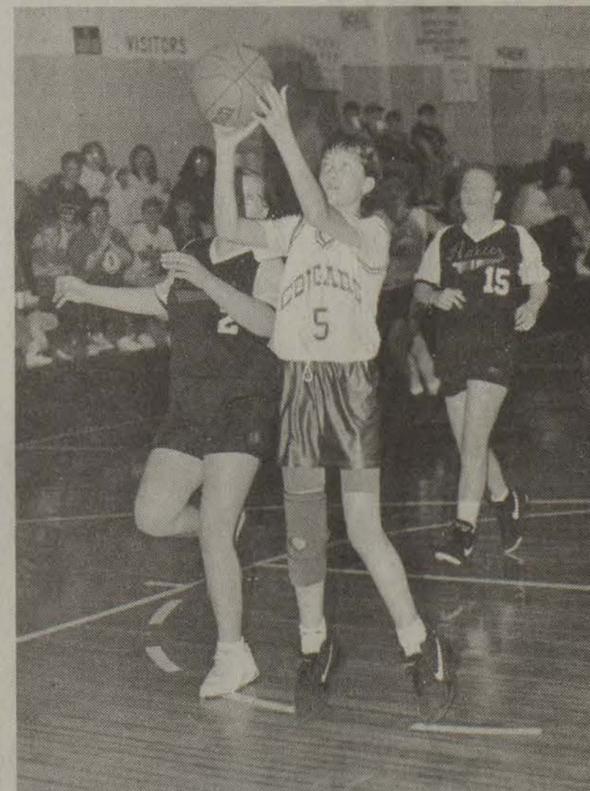

The Falcons went on a 15-0 run in the third quarter before coach Bobby Hackworth went to his bench early.

Shannon, Newsome combine for 28 points to lead McDowell, 42-35

Ryan Shannon and Darren Newsome combined for 28 points to lead the McDowell Daredevils past the John M. Stumbo Mustangs 42-35 in the Right Beaver Classic at Maytown Monday night.

The Daredevils gave first-year coach Henry Webb his first win as they opened the season at Maytown. Shannon tossed in 15 points while Newsome scored 13.

McDowell held an eight-point, 26-18, lead midway in the third period, only to see it disappear over the final minute and a half. All the scoring came from the charity stripe where the Mustangs hit six of nine attempts.

Adam Tackett hit five of six attempts as they narrowed the lead to two, 26-24, with 10 seconds left. Zack Layne stood at the free throw line with no time showing in the third period and a chance to tie the game. But he missed the front end of the bonus shot.

However, the Mustangs claimed the lead when Layne drilled a three-pointer to start the fourth quarter and gave his team a 27-26 lead.

McDowell made three consecutive trips to the free throw line where they made four of the six to go up 29-27. Consecutive field goals by Shannon and Newsome made it a seven-point, 34-27 game.

With 1:55 left to play, Adam Tackett completed a three-point play the old-fashioned way. And then, with 1:50 seconds left to play, he scored on a basket underneath to pull the Mustangs to within two points, 34-32.

Justin Paige went underneath for a layup to give McDowell a 36-32 lead before Jake Carroll was fouled with 1:26 left after scoring on a short jumper. Carroll completed the three-point play for a 36-35 McDowell lead.

Stumbo wasn't able to score over the final minute and McDowell scored the seven-point victory.

Jeremy Collins scored eight while Alvin Reed tossed in six with one three-point basket. Ryan Turner finished with three.

Usually high-scoring Luke Luster settled for just two points as he went without a field goal. He hit two of six from the charity stripe in a very unusual off night.

Matt Goins and Dustin Stumbo finished with two points each for the Falcons.

Jarrod Goble and Ricky Powers led Auxier with five points each. Chris McCown scored three and Ralph Mullett had two points.

Auxier

Dalenda Howard led Maytown with 16 points. She had four three-point baskets in the game.

Scarberry netted five with Jessica Martin and Anna Mitchell scoring two each.

five points to put the game away for Auxier.

Assistant coach Jerome Greathouse got some of what he had been hoping for after his team played their first two games—more balance scoring.

"We needed to get some scoring from someone else other than Shelly and Tonya," he said.

Candy Howard finished with six points for the Lady Hornets and Mandy Music tossed in four. Brandy Wells scored two.

Music has started to come on strong for Auxier, not only in scoring, but rebounding as well. The same is true of Wells.

Martin survives MCA score 40-38

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Mountain Christian Academy Falcons used to be the doormat for most grade school basketball teams in the county—but not this year.

Coach Bobby Hackworth's Falcons have already served notice that they are a team that must be reckoned with.

The Falcons, who have victories over Maytown and Auxier already this season, put a scare in the Martin Purple Flash this past Tuesday night in the Right Beaver Classic at Maytown.

Martin posted a 40-38 win over MCA to advance to the semifinals of the tournament.

Luke Luster hit an NBA three-point basket to tie the game at 38 with just 52 seconds left to play. Martin turned the ball over on a charging call on Matthew Mayo, giving the Falcons control of their destiny. But the Falcons couldn't handle the basketball and Martin came up with a loose ball.

Mayo found an open lane to the basket and drove the middle to lay the ball off the glass into the basket for a Martin 40-38 lead.

The Falcons, again in possession and with a chance to tie, threw the ball away on a forced pass to the middle. Jesse Hall came up with the steal and put the ball into the hands of point guard Larry Mullins.

Mullins was fouled and went to the foul line where he missed two free throws that could have put the game away.

Instead, the Falcons sent John Collins to the charity stripe with three

Collins missed the front end of the two-shot foul and hit the second. However, the officials ruled that he had violated the free throw line and the shot was nullified.

MCA took a 30-29 lead with just under five minutes left in the fourth period on a rebound basket by Collins. A free throw by Brian Jones tied the game before Mayo hit the back end of a two-shot foul to give Martin the 31-30 lead.

Hall gave Martin a four-point advantage when he completed a three-point play with 2:18 left.

Luster then hit his first three-pointer for a 34-33 game. Hall's two free throws made it 36-33 and Mark Burchett hit a long jumper to keep his team within one, 36-35.

Chris Damron, on a good move to the basket, scored and Martin led 38-35 before Luster tied it at 38.

MCA ran out to a 5-0 lead on consecutive baskets by Alvin Reed and Luster's free throw. Damron put Martin on the board with a layup before Burchett's free throw gave the Falcons the four-point, 6-2 lead.

Mayo's three-pointer made it a 6-5 game and Martin took their first lead at 7-6 on a basket by Mayo. Hall's rebound basket made it 9-6 before Burchett closed the margin to one, 9-8, on a layup.

Damron hit a three-pointer for a 12-8 first-quarter lead for Martin.

The Purple Flash took a 16-9 lead after Reed opened the second period, hitting one of two free throws. Martin then ran off the next four points.

Martin went cold from the floor as MCA tied the game at 16 on a layup by Josh Hall with 19 seconds left to play in the first half.

The game was tied at 18, 20 and 22 before Martin vaulted out to a 28-22 lead on a three-point play by Jones and a rebound basket by Jones.

Jones scored nine consecutive points for Martin in the third period for the six-point lead.

The Falcons refused to fly away and went on a 5-0 run to pull to within one, 28-27, after three quarters. Burchett hit a layup and free throw while Luster scored on a basket underneath.

Jones led Martin in scoring with 12 points. He, unofficially, had seven rebounds. Hall and Mayo finished with eight points apiece. Damron tossed in seven and James Seward added three. Larry Mullins scored two.

Duff advances to tournament finals behind Bentley

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Rodney Bentley scored eight of his game-high 20 points in the fourth quarter to help lead the Duff Bulldogs to a 52-41 win over Henry Webb's McDowell Daredevils Wednesday night in basketball action at Maytown.

The two teams met in the semifinals of the Right Beaver Classic.

Darren Newsome scored eight of his team-high 16 points in the first quarter to stake the Daredevils to a 13-8 first quarter lead.

But in the second period, Newsome was stopped with only two points as the Bulldogs' defense put the bite on the high-scoring forward.

Duff took a 25-23 lead to the locker room at halftime.

Bentley and Ryan Owens led a Duff rally in the third period as the Bulldogs built a 37-29 lead heading into the fourth quarter.

McDowell mounted a fourth quarter comeback that fell short.

Ryan Shannon added 11 points for McDowell. Justin Paige scored six and Billy Hall tossed in five. Daniel Lafferty finished with two and Chad Tuttle had one point.

Owens scored nine points for Duff with Gary Hunter tossing in 13. Corbett Howell came off the bench and contributed six points. Nick Samons finished with four.

McDowell attempted only four free throws in the game and connected on three. Duff went to the line 14 times and hit six.

Shannon and Hall had the only three point baskets in the game.

Duff will face Maytown tonight at 7:30 p.m. for the championship.

Johnson scores 33 in 47-44 win over Melvin

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Jarrod Johnson, a seventh-grader, scorched the nets for 33 points to lead the Osborne Eagles past Melvin 47-44 in a barn-burner at the Wheelwright gym.

game. But that was not surprising to Osborne's coach Roger Johnson.

"Whenever Melvin and Osborne play each other there is always a big crowd," he said. "Mr. (Paul David) Tackett came to school all smiles this morning (Thursday)."

Johnson said that although his point guard Reed did not score, he was a leader on the floor.

"He is our little general out there," he said. "He played a real good floor game for us."

Melvin led most of the first quarter until Johnson sent his team into a man-to-man defense with 1:20 left in the first period. The Eagles came out with an 11-10 lead at the end of the initial period.

Johnson stayed with the man-to-man defense in the second half in hopes of stopping the trio of Melvin.

Blaine Atkins scored 17 points in the game to lead Melvin. It was his floor play that impressed Johnson.

"He's a good guard," he said. "He can handle the basketball. He had a good game against us. But all three of those kids (Charlie Williams, Dusty Tackett and Atkins) are good ball players."

Kenneth Younce added four points for the Cougars with Steve Johnson scoring two.

Dale Elliott scored eight for Osborne. James Walker, David

Caudill and Brandon Slone scored two each. Caudill had three block shots.

Osborne will host McDowell Monday night at "The House" in Wheelwright. Melvin plays at Duff Monday night.

Lady Hornets sting hard in 41-8 win over Melvin

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Shelly Greathouse scored a game-high 14 points and the Auxier Lady Hornets won their fourth consecutive game with a 41-8 win over the Lady Cougars of Melvin.

Mandy Music played a strong inside game and finished with nine points for the Lady Hornets. Brandy Wells scored nine points, as well.

Both teams struggled in the first quarter as they missed close-in shots, as well as misfiring from the free throw line.

Auxier attempted eight charity tosses and made only one. Melvin shot six and made one. The only field goal in the first period was a lay-in by Wells.

Auxier led 3-1 after the initial period.

A free throw by Shawna Hall pulled Melvin to within two points of the Lady Hornets at 5-3. But Auxier ran off the last 11 points of the first half to lead 16-3.

Melvin couldn't handle Auxier's full court pressure defense as Auxier double and tripled the player with the basketball.

Tonya Honeycutt was just too quick for the Lady Cougars and she had several steals in the game.

Honeycutt finished with four points, as did Jodi Hall. Samantha Cross added one point.

Hall led the Lady Cougars with four points. Monica McKinney scored two, with Misty Berger and Quita Alexander tossing in one apiece.

Auxier hit only five of 20 free throw attempts. Melvin shot 19 and made four.

Auxier (4-0) will host the Allen Eagles Monday night. Melvin plays at Duff Monday evening.

Balanced attack gives Stumbo 34-30 win over Duff in semis

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The John M. Stumbo Lady Mustangs upset tournament favorite Duff in the semifinals of the Right Beaver Classic Wednesday night at Maytown.

Sheena Akers tossed in 13 points to lead a balanced scoring attack for Stumbo as they posted a 34-30 win over the Lady Bulldogs.

Game scoring honors went to Duff's Natalie Cooley, who scored 20 points.

The difference was in the way the points were spread out. After Cooley's 20 points, Beth Combs finished with four. Kari Brown, April Sexton and Kari Osborne scored two each.

Amanda Hall and Krystal Newsome each added nine points for the Lady Mustangs. Jenny Parsons had two points for Stumbo while Gigi Henson scored two.

Stumbo blew out to a 10-2 first quarter lead behind Akers who had seven points in the period.

Stumbo led 16-10 at the half. Cooley scored eight points in the third quarter as Duff came back and tied the game at 22. But Hall hit a three-pointer in the fourth quarter that help the Lady Mustangs to build a lead that held up.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Give Yourself A Treat (NAPS)—One way to give yourself a new home at the old address is to upgrade some of your old kitchen appliances.

It's not only easy to clean, but when not in use, a smoothtop range provides extra counter space.

For example, you could install double ovens so you don't have to keep one dish warm while waiting for another to heat up. Or replace your old stove with a new smoothtop range topped off with a Ceran® glass-ceramic panel. Not only will it modernize the look of your kitchen, it will give you fast heat-up and excellent cooking performance. It's also easy to clean and when it's not in use, it provides extra counter space.

Free Brochure An informative brochure, "Your Pocket Guide to Ceran Glass-Ceramic Ranges," is available free by writing to Schott Corporation, Technical Glass Division, Dept. NA 4, 3 Odell Plaza, Yonkers, NY 10701.

Get To Your Child Before The Pressure Does

Peer pressure. We've all experienced it.

Remember how hard it was to say "no" when you were a kid, even if it meant doing something you knew was wrong?

Young people today admit that pressure to use drugs is intense. As a parent, it's your job to give your child the facts about the dangers of drug abuse.

Talk to your kids. Get to them before the pressure does.
