40 UPS workers at Emma on strike

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

United Parcel Service (UPS) employees at the Floyd County branch in Emma joined in the nation-wide strike with 185,000 Teamsters early Monday morning.

Teamsters president Ron Carey walked out of contract talks with UPS late Sunday night and said the talks were a waste of time. Teamsters members began the strike at 12:01 a.m. Monday.

Approximately 40 union members at the UPS Emma branch are affected by the walkout.

"Every union brother is on strike," Charles "Chuck" Preston, who has been employed at the Emma site for 27 years, said Monday from the picket line. "We, as union people, are out for the duration."

At least four UPS employees are scheduled to be at the entrance of the parcel service office as long as the strike continues. A security guard has also been stationed at the business.

Denzil "Barney" Walker, Teamster union steward at the site, said full and part-time employment for UPS workers and the health and welfare benefits were the main issues that led to the strike.

"The company stood firm that they wanted to take pension (benefits) and make more part-time jobs," Walker said Monday.

Walker said some employees have been at the Emma branch for 13 years and they are still part-time employees. He said there are approximately 15 part-time workers at the Floyd County office.

The company's proposal indicates that the UPS contract would increase pay for employees and ensure 10,000 opportunities for part-

Fugitive from Florida is arrested here

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

A Florida fugitive, who was apparently staying at a Floyd County hotel, was arrested here Sunday morning during a routine traffic stop.

Jonathan Roberts, 19, of Titusville, was arrested by Prestonsburg Sgt. Gerald Clark on the fugitive warrant and for traffic violations.

According to court personnel, Roberts is charged with felony grand theft in the state of Florida.

Sgt. Clark also charged Roberts with operating a vehicle on a suspended license and without insurance coverage. Sgt. Clark could not be contacted Monday or Tuesday for additional information on the arrest.

Roberts waived an extradition hearing during his arraignment on the traffic charges Monday morning in Floyd District Court.

Judge James R. Allen ordered that Roberts be held until Florida authorities arrived to transport him back to the state where the alleged theft occurred.

Preliminary report says school district ended year in deficit

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Preliminary financial reports show that the Floyd County school system ended the 1996-97 school year with a $46,000 deficit.

Tom Willis, with the Kentucky Department of Education's management assistance division, said Monday that the district's annual financial report shows a budget deficit.

"We got the district's annual financial report last Friday and it shows a negative balance of $46,200 at the end of the school year," Willis said. "This is an unaudited report. The district also shows a little over $800,000 in receivables. If they don't collect that entire amount, (the deficit) goes that much farther."

Board members are not aware of the report, saying they haven't seen the document.

Board chairman Ursal Ray Wilcox said Monday the financial report was news to him.

"I haven't seen it, unless I get it (Tuesday)," Wilcox said. "There's something wrong somewhere. I can't buy that," he said of the projected deficit. Wilcox said the last report from state officials indicated the district could end the year with a budget surplus.

Gary Biliter, with the education department's financial department, told board members in June that it appeared the district would end the year about $150,000 in the red, Wilcox said. Since that report, the district has received a $230,000 windfall from unanticipated delinquent state motor vehicle taxes, which should have put the district's finances in the black. Plus, over $400,000 in unmined mineral tax bills were sent out before the end of the fiscal year, which would reflect that money is owed to the district.

"That don't make good sense," Wilcox said of the deficit.

Superintendent Gene Davis said Tuesday that he had seen a preliminary financial report Friday, which was prepared by David Johnson, a financial consultant for the education department.

Davis said the most overspending in the district occurred in personnel.

"I'm almost positive it was something like $339,000 overspent on personnel this past year," Davis said. "I guess if we hadn't received that $230,000 motor vehicle tax, that was just gift out of the sky, and then we got an insurance check for $59,500... it would have been worse than what it is."

Davis said the financial report could be put on the board's August agenda for approval.

Board members B.J. Newsome and Eddie Patton said Monday night that they have not seen the report and were unaware it had been submitted. Board members Ray Brackett and Jody Mullins could not be reached for comment.

Floyd school officials were to appear Tuesday before a committee of the Kentucky Board of Education to explain the situation in Floyd County.

State Education Commissioner Wilmer Cody has said he will oust the City will spend $47,000 to stay in ambulance business

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Prestonsburg city officials want to remain in the ambulance business and voted Friday to refurbish the city's existing emergency vehicle.

At a special city council meeting Friday at noon, council declared an emergency because its ambulance is not in working condition and accepted a $47,000 quote from the National Ambulance company in Lexington.

As part of the agreement, the company will loan the city an ambulance until the repair work is finished on the city's, which is expected to take about 75 days.

Councilman Estill Lee Carter said National was the best bid because it provided for a state of the art power board, which will aid with the city's E-911 system. Carter said that addition amounted to approximately a $2,000 advantage for the city.

Councilman Hansel Cooley asked if the ambulance service was making a profit for the city.

Carter said the service was not a money-making venture and has to date generated about $42,000. He added it was more a service to city residents.

City attorney Paul Burchett said Monday that city officials have taken a look at the operating costs, but do not have a detailed break-

Cody orders state audit of management

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

State Education Commissioner Wilmer Cody ordered a comprehensive management audit of the Floyd County School System after local officials failed to adequately explain the situation in the school system.

During committee meetings Tuesday in Frankfort at the Kentucky Board of Education meeting, state board members were not impressed with superintendent Gene Davis' explanation of a projected budget deficit.

Tom Willis, an associate commissioner with the Department of Education, told state board members that the district's deficit could exceed the projected $46,200 figure. Willis said the amount could increase because a 100 percent tax collection is not expected; that the district's federal grant fund accounts have been overspent and it has not been determined if those monies will have to come out of the general fund; ongoing litigation; and questions concerning expenses relating to construction accounts.

Superintendent Davis took issue with Willis' projected deficit, saying board members want an independent audit of the district's books. Davis said an audit is underway, but he is not satisfied with the auditor from the firm of Wallen and Cornett. He added that he did not object to the firm.

Cody told Davis he could not use that as an excuse to prolong the completion of the audit and said it must be complete by October 1, before the next state board meeting. He also ordered the Department of Education to conduct a management audit of the district by October 1.

"We need to have an audit report on or before October 1," Cody said. "I think the issue here goes beyond if there is a deficit or not. It's got to do with issues of

by Chris McDavid

A Wheelwright man, who was involved in an accident Sunday afternoon while riding an all-terrain vehicle (ATV), is listed in fair condition at the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Edgar Tackett apparently suffered a back injury from Sunday's mishap.

From his hospital room Tuesday, Tackett said he is scheduled for back surgery today (Wednesday) to have his fractured back repaired.

Tackett said he was in a lot of pain from the injuries he suffered in the accident.

School staffing issues to be resolved by week's end

Team from state education department to review contracts

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County school officials should know by Friday, two days before the 1997-98 school year begins, who will be employed for the coming school year.

State education officials will be in Floyd County on Thursday and Friday to review all staffing, and employment contracts should be finalized by Friday.

In a letter dated August 4 to superintendent Gene Davis from Tom Willis, an associate commissioner with the Kentucky Department of Education, Willis said recent employment requests by Davis have been denied.

"In the past few days you have forwarded several requests for approval of employment contracts in Floyd County," Willis' letter said. "I have decided to withhold any approval until later this week. I will have staff in Floyd County on Thursday, August 6, and Friday, August 7, to review all staffing. I expect to have all questions related to staffing resolved by the close of business on Friday. I would also expect you to be able to notify staff as to their status by the close of business on Friday."

On Tuesday, Davis said he is waiting for Willis' approval on all staffing in the district.

Last month, state officials said that no employment contracts for the 1997-98 school year had been given prior approval by the department, as required under state laws regarding school districts operating under an emergency declaration.

Floyd County is operating under an emergency declaration because of a projected budget deficit. State officials said last month that the emergency declaration would remain in effect until it is lifted by the state board of education.

School is scheduled to start August 11, with the first day for students being August 13.

Davis has said the school year will begin as scheduled.

Strike

time workers to move into full-time positions over a five-year period, plus create 1,000 new full-time jobs.

Part-time employees will qualify for company benefits, according to the company's proposal.

UPS Kentucky district spokesperson Jeff Keener said Monday that "part-time jobs are a reality."

He explained that packages come to the Floyd County site from larger areas around 4 a.m. every morning. He said part-time employees were needed to sort packages and load trucks and that is when the jobs were available.

"Customers wouldn't pay costs for part-time employees to work all day and only work three or four hours," Keener said.

Walker said Tuesday he understood that there is not a need for full-time workers if they only worked three or four hours a day. But, he said that is not the case for many part-time workers.

Walker said part-timers are only guaranteed three hours a day, but some part-time workers are working 30 to 50 hours a week.

On the pension issue, UPS wants to withdraw from the 31 multi-employer Teamster-controlled pension plans.

"The pension issue is what brought this to a head," Keener said. "Teamster leaders are going to have to look in the interest of UPS employees and stop looking at their own interests."

Walker said the union had to look at the interests of all Teamsters members.

"The advantage of a multi-company plan is if one company goes belly up, others continue to pay," he said Tuesday morning.

Keener said the UPS single plan would be created for the benefit of only UPS employees. "We want to use UPS money for UPS employees," he said.

Keener also said the company's pension plan would increase the monthly benefits an average of 50 percent.

Walker said that under the company's pension plan, part-time employees would only get a half credit for every year they work.

"With the company's plan, they would have to work 60 years for a 30-year pension," the Teamsters steward said. "If you've ever seen these guys work in some of the big hubs, think of them working 60 years. It's kindly impossible."

Keener said part-time employees will only get $50 for every year of part-time service, and full-timers will receive $100 for every year.

He said under the multi-employer pension plan, employee benefits are determined by their age and years of service.

But under the company's proposed plan, full time employees would get $3,000 per month — at any age — plus $100 a month for every year beyond the 30 years of service.

"Our interest is not in the Teamsters' leaders," Keener said. "Our interest is in rewarding UPS people."

Keener added that UPS would have to make significant contributions to the multi-company pension plan in order to pull UPS employees out.

"The key is not who controls the money, but who the money benefits," he said.

Roberts told the court that he needed to return to Prestonsburg Inn, where he had been staying, to get legal papers and medical records from his room.

Roberts pleaded guilty to the traffic charges. He was fined $600 and ordered to pay court costs.

In another arraignment, Judge Allen entered a not-guilty plea to James Kevin Rister's criminal mischief charge.

Rister, 21, of Garrett, allegedly took a baseball bat and destroyed a 1988 Chrysler New Yorker, owned by Shawn Francis.

According to an arrest warrant obtained by Francis last month, more than $1,000 in damages resulted from Rister's actions.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. August 13 to determine if there is probable cause to refer the case to a grand jury.

On other charges this week:

• Ricky Turner, 40, of Garrett, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for an alcohol intoxication charge.

Judge Allen asked Turner when was the last time he had been in jail for the same charge, and Turner told the judge it had been about two months.

Court records indicated that Turner had been arrested on July 8 for another alcohol intoxication charge.

• Judge Allen warned defendants Tuesday that he will begin setting cash bonds, or even no bonds at all, for those who fail to appear for court proceedings.

Two Floyd residents were arraigned Tuesday morning and questioned why they failed to appear for hearings.

"I'm bound to have just forgot the date," one of the defendants told the judge Tuesday.

"We're having too many cases where people don't show up for court," Judge Allen said, adding that he would start setting $5,000 cash bonds to ensure defendants appeared in court.

entire board and superintendent Gene Davis if the district ended the school year with a deficit.

Willis would not say what actions would be recommended, but he did say the department "would not back off" its earlier threat.

"I guess the question is how long it will take to finish the (1996-97) audit," Willis said.

Willis said the $800,000 in receivables is included in the final figures and includes $437,000 in unmined mineral taxes.

"We don't think they'll get all of that," Willis said.

The financial report does not include a $185,000 discrepancy in the funds spent on the May Valley Elementary project. Local school officials overspent on that project and may have to pay those costs out of the general fund.

Wilcox said Monday evening that an auditor's error was to blame for the $185,000 expenditure, which should have been reflected in site preparation costs.

"The auditor is supposed to revise the audit," Wilcox said. As for a call last week for a state police and FBI investigation into the district's finances, Wilcox said that still stands.

"We have to get to the bottom of this," he said.

Dump Hill when Tackett apparently tried to ride an ATV between two trees, according to rescue workers and a Floyd deputy who was dispatched to the scene.

"It took about an hour to get him off the hill," Floyd deputy Tommy Gearheart said Tuesday.

Paramedic Patrick Wright, with the Left Beaver Rescue Squad, said 12 to 15 rescue workers responded to the scene, which was approximately three miles from the main road.

"We had to use four-wheelers and a four-wheel drive to get him to an ambulance," Wright said.

Tackett was transported to McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital by the Left Beaver Ambulance Service. He was later taken to UK Medical Center, where he is listed in fair condition.

Floyd deputy David Gray also responded to the accident. Deputies Gray and Gearheart are continuing to investigate Sunday's mishap.

down of expenses. Burchett said when the service was started that an extra person was hired for the fire department and that the ambulance fees do not cover that person's salary.

Also Friday, council voted to contract with Geotram Corporation for removal of two fuel tanks behind city hall. Geotram bid $8,010 on the job, but if the soil around the tanks is contaminated, the price could go up.

Mayor Jerry Fannin said the tanks will be replaced with above-ground fuel tanks.

City attorney Paul Burchett said now was a good time to have the tanks removed "while they're not leaking."

In other business Friday, council voted to advertise for bids on the Route 1428 storm drain project.

Washington Youth Tour '97

Sponsored by rural electric cooperatives for over 35 years, the Washington Youth Tour provides an educational opportunity for over 1,000 high school juniors each summer. This year was no exception as 54 juniors toured our nation's capitol during the week of June 7-14. They got to see up close all the historical sites around Washington and meet some of Kentucky's congressional delegation.

Some of the sites the group toured included the Smithsonian Institute, Arlington Cemetery, Tomb of the Unknowns, National Holocaust Museum, Washington Monument, Vietnam Memorial, Iwo Jima Memorial and many more sites in and around the Washington area.

Participating this year were schools from Johnson, Martin and Floyd counties. To be eligible, the students must take a written test on the history of cooperatives and rural electrification.

The games people play

by Scott Perry

When was the last time a member of the Floyd County School System's administration or board of education called a press conference to announce a breakthrough in the delivery of quality educations to Floyd County school children?

Go ahead, we'll wait.

Care to take a guess?

No?

Neither would we.

Come to think of it, we can't recall a time when education was a priority issue among school leaders and, given the latest turn of events, we don't expect it to become a fad anytime soon.

Like you, we raised an eyebrow when superintendent Gene Davis announced last week that $200,000 was "missing" from school construction accounts. Then, when we discovered the money wasn't missing at all, but had been "overspent," we raised the other one.

The feud between some board members and Davis has clearly degenerated into a game of political one-upmanship, with troops from either side slinging innuendos and allegations at anyone foolish enough to poke their head out of the trenches.

And the collateral damage, as usual, befalls the civilian population which, in this case, amounts to about 8,000 kids and their moms and dads.

Now, there are hints of misdeeds and the FBI and Kentucky State Police have been drafted into the fray.

If you ask us, the operation of the school system has been criminal, in the figurative sense, anyway, for decades.

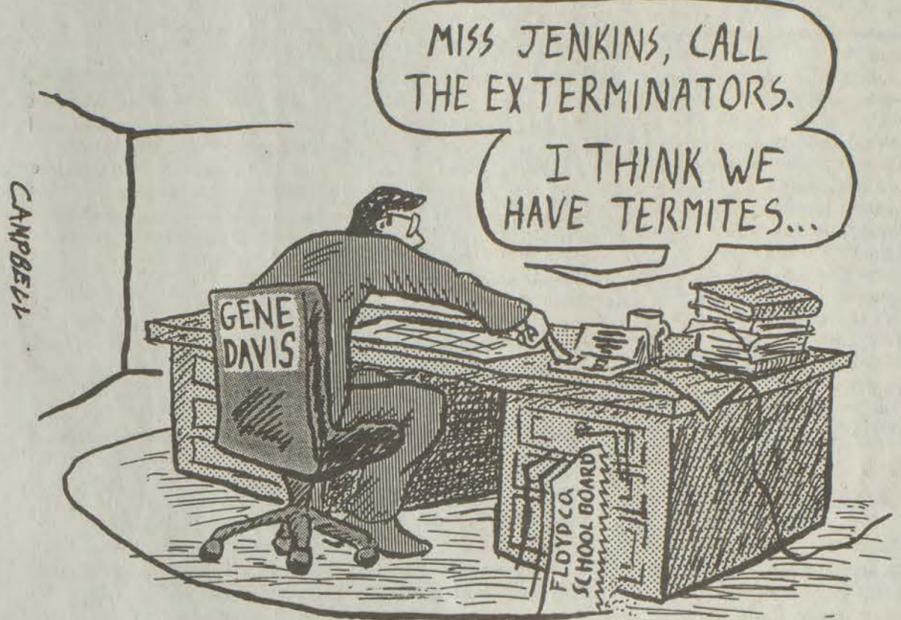

Bring in the FBI and the KSP. Hell, call in the Marines.

We need a few good men and women to lead a revolution, to stage a coup and to rebuild a school system that is not consumed with political posturing, but dedicated to educational attainment.

This game of good guy versus bad guy has run too long a course, with the players exchanging places every so often.

Let's play a new game, where someone actually wins for a change.

Like the students, maybe. Remember them?

Thanks for clean-up

Editor:
 We want to publicly say "thank-you" to the people responsible for the clean-up of our town of Wayland, the Community Action Program, the inmates from the Floyd County Detention Center and the Otter Creek facility, and the Wayland Police Department. Our town is looking better every day and we appreciate their efforts.

Writer expresses concern over forest management

Editor:
 I am a citizen of Harlan County, having lived here for twenty-two years. I have raised my children here, and hope to be here for many years to come. When I see what is happening to our forests here and in many other areas of Eastern Kentucky, I become fearful—afraid that our natural resources are suffering irreversible abuse. When it comes to our forests, I believe in the idea of sustainability—that is, giving as much weight to the future as we do the present, when we cut trees. I am convinced that the best way to ensure that kind of sustainability is to have strong enforceable legislation in place before logging operations in Eastern Kentucky are allowed to expand any further.

At this time, Kentuckians For The Commonwealth (KFTC) is giving forest and timber issues top priority, and I think their goals reflect what most of the people of Eastern Kentucky want for themselves and their children. KFTC suggests that there are three areas on which work needs to be done as soon as possible.

• Protecting the environment: This can be done by requiring commercial loggers to take a three-day training under Kentucky's Master Logger Program, and by mandating the use of Best Management Practice in logging.

• Education of landowners: This should include making sure landowners know the value of their timber and how to draw up a contract he would specify how that timber must be cut and removed from the land to protect the environment and make logging sustainable.

• Economic and job creation policies: This recognizes the fact that quality jobs are one of the greatest needs for Eastern Kentucky, and that the best job creation policies are those that provide permanent jobs which build on local resources. Kentucky should provide start-up money, loans, and tax breaks only for locally-based companies that pay a living wage, provide safe working conditions, and other benefits. It is especially important for Kentucky to help emerging companies in the wood products business, including training in small business management, working with landowners, developing co-ops, and developing markets.

If these three areas are addressed together, we can bring to life a sustainable timber industry that protects the environment and provides quality jobs today and tomorrow.

If you are interested in KFTC's work, call (606) 436-4988.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

That photo of the cute, dirty-faced two-year-old accompanying a story about how poorly Kentucky deals with poor folks was as predictable as the outcome of a UK-Tennessee football game.

Seems the media can't serve up a discussion of poverty without the customary helping of dirt, as though the phrase "dirt poor" is a physical rather than figurative characteristic.

You get the impression that to make their points, the media has to portray folks in need as unkempt ragtags, so poor they can't even afford a washcloth.

The reality is, though, that there is no direct relationship between dirt and financial standing.

As most of us parents know, that dirty face in the photo might have belonged to any of our kids.

Odd, isn't it, that you don't see those smudges and streaks in class yearbook photos?

Guess it depends on who is taking the pictures and what image they're trying to portray.

We aren't saying many of the images associated with poverty aren't real...they are, but if a solution is to be found, some recipients of public assistance could stand to do a little image polishing of their own.

We aren't going to stir many folks to action on the problem with stories of welfare recipients who complain that taxpayers aren't doing enough to help them when they admit to doing very little to help themselves.

In a story we read Monday, for instance, a mother complained that she got so little in benefits it made her "mad," but she was unable to work outside the home because of problems with "depression."

Surely that's not a typical example of the struggles associated with poverty.

If it is, we suspect we might suffer a bout of depression ourselves.

On the flip side, we're having an equal amount of difficulty mustering any support for striking United Parcel Service workers, who formed their picket lines Monday when contract negotiations broke down.

Full-time UPS employees make about twenty bucks an hour, more than three times the average hourly wage in our area, but most union members are part-timers who desire full-time status.

Can't blame them for that, but at about $8.50 per hour with health insurance benefits, even many part-timers are better off than most nine-to-fivers in our neck of the woods.

Guess during the duration of the strike, those of us who rely on UPS will have to find alternative routes for our outgoing and incoming shipments...like the good old post office.

Don't have to worry about them going on strike. If they need more money, they just raise the price of a stamp.

Nah. Forget that. The United States Postal Service isn't what you might call customer-friendly, though the local folks are pretty helpful and responsive.

We spend about $12,000 a month at the post office, which might rate us as a preferred customer anywhere else, but the USPS is using the fees we pay them to compete against us.

The postal service is promoting a campaign now to entice advertisers away from newspapers and into the USPS's direct mail service, and they'll even provide a starter kit for those who might need help.

Guess our 70-year association with the post office doesn't count for much in the eyes of postal service governors, whose primary interest in us is that we get our postage checks delivered...on time.

A recent effort in a state legislative sub-committee failed to replace controversial KIRIS tests with the once-used Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills (CTBS), but the matter is not likely to be declared dead at the scene.

As you know, the KIRIS testing process has taken a lot of heat lately, and there are serious concerns about its accuracy in judging student progress.

The CTBS is an old standard that most of us pre-KERA students remember well, but it was labeled an ineffective tool for assessing progress as education reforms took hold.

Rather than pick one over the other now, though, why not compromise and use both?

Since so much is at stake with test scores, and since there are so many questions surrounding the current testing program, a combination of KIRIS and CTBS might provide the comprehensive analysis we've been looking for.

Put it to the test, and see.

US 23 Showcase again groups great talent onstage

Nine different acts dazzled a large gathering at July's US 23 Talent Showcase, Tuesday, July first. The varied backgrounds and hometowns of the performers also kept the audience's interest throughout.

Allison Tiller of Wise, Virginia, displayed plenty of vocal confidence as she performed her first song "Who's She To You."

She is a freshman at Clinch Valley College and the 18-year-old has performed at fairs and local festivals and special celebrations, in addition to being active in her church.

Allison's second song was a smooth ballad called "Don't Worry Baby."

Next came David Adkins of Elkhorn City. His credentials in music include winning the Jim Beam National Talent Show and was once a regular performer with a bluegrass band at Dollywood. His dream is to become a country entertainer and songwriter.

His rich vocals in "I Don't Think I Will," was interrupted by applause. Adkins also displayed an excellent stage presence.

His second tune was, "Be My Baby Tonight," and carried all the energy necessary for a big round of applause. Lori Thornberry was next. She was also from Elkhorn City, and dreams of being a professional singer.

Her musical experience includes performing at the Kentucky State Fair and on WYMT-TV, and other appearances and talent contests.

Her first number was "One Way Ticket," and was an excellent rendition.

Her second time on stage she did an interpretative job on "I Can't Do That Anymore."

Lester Lemaster of Paintsville was next, and probably had the biggest entourage in the audience.

Lemaster began singing in church and had performed with the Eastern Gate Quartet, Lemaster plays guitar, piano, bass, and mandolin. He is employed by Action Petroleum of Prestonsburg.

His polished style and vocals on "Love A Little Stronger," was a real crowd pleaser.

On his second appearance, he joked with emcee Keith Caudill on a number of subjects. He was explaining he was overseeing several of the area BP Action Marts when Caudill asked, "How many people work at the stores you manage?" "I'd say about half of them," Lemaster replied to a big laugh from the audience.

His second number was done with plenty of feeling. "Good Night Sweetheart," was also well received.

Ten-year-old Lauren West of Williamson, W. Virginia, really exhibited plenty of talent as she began the song "Never Again, Again," to almost instant applause.

This young lady has performed in many large area festivals and opened for country artist Ronnie McDowell in Somerset.

Her second tune was absolutely great and wound up in thunderous applause as she sang "The Light In Your Eyes."

Collin Ditty from Jackson, performed as a clogger. Ditty attends Mars Hill College in North Carolina on an academic and clogging scholarship. His ambition is to become a commercial or graphic artist. He has performed at the Kentucky Derby, Disney World, and in Austria.

Both his performances drew several rounds of applause and demonstrated a highly refined skill.

Chris Compton of Wallingford, dreams of being a country writer and performer. He exhibited a truly great voice as she was interrupted by applause as he sang "I'm No Stranger To The Rain."

Secondly, his performance of "Can I Get Over You," an original tune, was very well received.

Rhonda Vansickle is from South Shore, across the river from Portsmouth, Ohio. She placed third on TNN's "Be A Star" talent contest and also finished third in a Renfro Valley competition.

Demonstrating excellent vocal control, Vansickle first sang a great song "Can I Get Over You?" and came back with "Slow Me Down."

The House Arrest Band performed an original song, "Take Me Back To Floyd County," and really got the crowd involved in this and other performances in the 23 Showcase.

This band has been together for one year, and has played in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. They also finished second in a recent Battle of the Bands Contest.

House Arrest Band includes Gary Moore, lead vocals; Greg Collins, rhythm guitar; Ray Harvey, bass; Rick Steward, drums; Benny Reed, lead guitarist; and Bruce Tuttle, harp and tambourine.

operation and management, and I want the board to know I have now requested the comprehensive management audit of the Floyd County School District be complete within the next 30 to 45 days on matters that involve finances and other matters, also."

Management support committee chairman Craig True told board chairman Ursal Ray Wilcox and Davis that if "mayhem and chaos were part of the deficit reduction plan, Floyd County is a smashing success."

True chided Davis and board members because the district was depending on the state's financial report and an independent audit to determine its financial status.

"I find it very discouraging when you have to depend on an independent auditor, who spends about a week and a half or two weeks to do an audit, to tell you what your numbers are, when (it) is you and your board's responsibility to know what your numbers are," True said. "You are basically putting your fingers in your ears and hoping a bomb doesn't go off when the independent auditors finish. And, that's not responsible as far as I'm concerned."

State board member Tom Gish said he was concerned about the legality of actions taken at three special meetings in April, which have been declared illegal by the attorney general's office.

"It seems that several of the meetings held were clearly illegal," Gish said. "I don't know how to weed out what was done at those special meetings and what was done that was legitimate. I don't want to approve anything done in a secret meeting. I won't."

Willis told Gish that due to the attorney general's ruling, any actions taken in those meetings are improper and that some lawsuits have resulted from those sessions. He said the ramifications of those actions could affect the budget deficit.

Davis said the meetings were not held in secret and that the meetings were open to the public.

Gish questioned Davis about board member Eddie Patton's claim that he was not notified of the meetings and did not have an opportunity to attend.

"We tried to contact him," Davis said. As for members of the public attending the meeting, the superintendent answered, "different people showed up for it. I don't know how they found out about it." Davis noted that local media were at the meetings.

True asked Wilcox to explain a situation at one of their meetings when board member Eddie Patton made a motion to reaffirm the deficit reduction plan of former superintendent Dr. John Balentine. He asked Wilcox if he would like to comment why the motion failed for lack of a second.

"No, no comment at this time,"

Wilcox responded.

True laughed and said he had never been told "no comment" before.

State board chairman Joe Kelly told Davis and chairman Wilcox that he was disappointed that neither board members nor the superintendent have mentioned the education of children in any of their public squabbles. Kelly also expressed concern about the length of time for state involvement in Floyd County.

"The frustrating thing I think, it's not you...but somebody from Floyd County has been here since 1989," Kelly said.

"It's a disgrace," Davis responded. "It has been going on since '89 and its continued right on...I feel pretty good because we have cut this down. I have made some mistakes."

Kelly said he thought board members had made it clear that no expenditures of funds could be made without state approval.

"See, the point for me is, that all the discussions, all the articles, all of the meetings that you've had...through all of this, I have not seen one word about kids. Not one word. Not one word about instructional programs. Not one word about professional development for teachers."

Not one word about what you are going to do to make the system better for kids. That's frustrating."

Davis claimed he was frustrated, too, because board members were interfering with his ability to do his job as superintendent. He said a problem with a "split board" on some issues had prevented him from functioning as superintendent.

"If there are instances where you were inhibited from doing your job, you have an obligation to make the proper people aware of that," Kelly told Davis. "And, do something about it. If you haven't done that, then you're compounding the problem or you're becoming part of the problem."

Davis said that people that knew him, understood he was "trying to do what was right."

Kelly suggested officials "refocus on kids" and if they are unwilling to do so, board members should "step down" and let someone on the board who is willing to do so. "This is really an incredible mess."

Willis also said the district's personnel records were in a shambles with most files having no updates since 1992. He said staff could not determine who was employed for the past several years by looking at those records.

The pouring rain did not stop the excitement at the groundbreaking service at Christ United Methodist, Allen.

Christ United Methodist Church broke ground for the new addition to their church on June 8, for the Christian School, Day Care and Family Life Center.

The new addition will house 75 children in the Day Care, 140

Students in the Christian School and has a regulation size Gymnasium that will seat 340 people.

The 24,000 square foot structure was designed by Randall Burchett Architect Inc. of Prestonsburg.

The completion date for the new facility will be in the early summer of 1998.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL)--A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis® is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new roll-on liquid form. Arthur Itis® is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Dedication service for nine families held at Little Paint Church of God

The Little Paint Church of God will conduct a unique dedication service on Sunday, August 3. Nine families dedicated their babies to God during the service.

Usually a baby dedication service is held for one family, but this time, the church's pastor, Wayne Burch, conducted the dedication for nine babies during one service.

Parents and their babies who are participating in the service are Steve and Leslie Stone and daughter Caroline Tolivar Stone; Greg and Lisa Hopper and son Gregory Dalton Hopper; Jack and Aimee Salyers, and son Zachary L. Salyers; Barry and Deanna Rice and son Andrew David Rice; David and Tammy Webb and daughter Catherine Alyxandria Webb; Chris and Melissa Henson and daughter Kalyn Victoria Henson; Lance and Suzanne Daniels and son Robert Luke Daniels; Randy and Stephanie Goble and daughter Emily Grace Goble; and Walter and Vickie Owens and daughter Alisha Lynn Owens.

Parents were treated to lunch at the Carriage House in Paintsville following dedication services.

Because the Church of God does not practice sprinkling or christening infants, the service is held for families who desire to formally celebrate the birth of their child and also present their child before the Lord in an act of commitment, according to Pastor Burch.

During the service, the congregation, as well as the parents, received a charge from the Holy Scripture that they provide and maintain spiritual support, and give the child opportunities for spiritual growth, Burch added.

For more information about the ceremonies, contact Burch at 886-3699 or 886-3319.

Mel-O-Dee, an educator of the Performing Arts, introduces the faculty for the Fall-Spring 1997-98 semester:

SCHOOL OF DANCE

offering Ballet, Tap and Jazz for ages 3 through high school.
Meet the instructors

Krissy Johnson began her career with the June Conn School of Dance in Ashland, studying Ballet, Pointe, Jazz and Tap. In addition to her regular studies, she has been a member of the Ashland Youth Ballet for six years where she has also danced many lead roles within the company. Krissy has traveled with the Ashland Youth Ballet to Greenville, SC, Knoxville, TN and, most recently, to Houston, TX to perform and to take classes from an internationally/nationally acclaimed faculty.

Krissy has just recently returned from Louisville's Bellarmine College where she was a participant in the Governor's School for the Arts (GSA). Krissy was one of fifteen students who was selected from the audition conducted across the state. This three week training program included a rigorous schedule of daily seminars, master classes, lectures, hands-on-workshops and performances. The members of the GSA faculty are prominent artists and teachers who are well respected by their peers.

Dawn Johnson began her career with the June Conn School of Dance in Ashland, studying Ballet, Pointe, Jazz and Tap. In addition to her regular studies, she has been a member of the Ashland Youth Ballet where she has also danced many lead roles within the company. She has attended intensive training workshops with the Lexington Ballet as well as traveling with the Ashland Youth Ballet to regional festivals and taking classes from an internationally/nationally acclaimed faculty.

In February of this year, Dawn was certified by examination by Dance Masters of America, Bluegrass Chapter 40. Dawn is continuing her studies in the artistic discipline of dance while pursuing her own career of performing dance and choreographic endeavors.

In addition to her dancing studies, Dawn is also pursuing a career in physical therapy. She is currently enrolled at Marshall University and in April of this year she was accepted into the university's physical therapy program.

Ashley Turner is an honor student at Johnson Central High School, majoring in Performing Arts & Humanities, and a student of Pikeville College Dance Studio. She is a featured singer/dancer in the Jenny Wiley Theatre production of The Sound of Music and is also a company dancer in Oliver! and The Legend of Jenny Wiley. Ashley is an accomplished actress/singer/dancer, having performed several lead roles in area musical productions such as Damn Yankees, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat and The Fantasticks, and will pursue a career in the performing arts following college where she will major in Musical Theatre/Dance.

SCHOOL OF THEATRE
offering Elements of Theatre including Drama, Communication Skills, Visual Effects, Technical Effects, Performance and Career Awareness.

Christopher Martin Bailey of Prestonsburg accepted his diploma from Alice Lloyd College President Dr. Timothy T. Siebert.

Bailey graduates from ALC

Christopher Martin Bailey, son of Neil and Mary Lou Bailey, graduated on May 17, from Alice Lloyd College with a Bachelor of Science degree in Biology.

Baccalaureate services for the Class of '97 began at 10 a.m. in the Estelle Campbell Center for the Arts on the Pippa Passes campus. Chris Bailey presented the scripture reading followed by the baccalaureate address delivered by Reverend Johnnie E. Ross of the St. James Episcopal Church of Prestonsburg, his former Boy Scout leader.

Graduation ceremonies began at 1 p.m. following a buffet luncheon. Dr. Stephen Wilson, professor of history, delivered the commencement address. Dr. Timothy T. Siebert, president of Alice Lloyd College, congratulated each graduate as he presented Bailey and the Class of '97 their diplomas and degrees.

Christopher Martin Bailey is the grandson of Clarence and Emma Lou Martin of Prestonsburg and the late George and Offie Bailey.

Morehead to conduct registration

Morehead State University will conduct registration on Thursday and Friday, August 14-15, for its 1997 fall classes to be offered at the Big Sandy Extended Campus Center and South Floyd High School.

Students may register from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., both days, at the Big Sandy ECC for classes offered at both Floyd County sites. Classes begin Monday, August 18.

More than 90 undergraduate and graduate courses will be available this fall for area residents, according to Dr. Margaret Lewis, center director. Among the areas represented are art, business, criminology, education, English, geography, government, history, health, physical education, paralegal studies, sociology and social work. Also available are courses designed for registered nurses working toward their B.S.N. degrees.

Many of the classes at the center and all of those at South Floyd High School will be taught by distance learning technology, including on the Internet. Textbooks for the courses will be available at the Big Sandy Center.

The cost per credit hour is $90 at the undergraduate level and $130 at the graduate level for students taking classes at MSU's regional sites, whether or not they are Kentucky residents.

Specific information on classes or registration may be obtained by calling Dr. Lewis locally at 886-2405 or toll-free at 800-648-5372.

Students plan to head back to class next week

Leisure activities will soon come to an end for Morehead State University students as they head back to the classroom for the start of the fall semester.

For freshmen and other new students, registration begins with an orientation program on Monday, August 11. Kicking off the information process, Dr. Will Keim, author of "The Education of Character. Lessons for Beginners" and a former college professor, will offer some advice on how to succeed on the college campus. A "Playfair" and social get-together round out the day's events.

On Tuesday, there are more opportunities for new students to learn about adapting to college life. Health educators, Dave and Jeff, will host an educational session on alcohol and other drugs. Dr. Marie Palmer, interim pastor of Morehead Christian Church, and Jerry Gore, MSU minority student affairs director, will address diversity, and Myron Doan, the university's dean of students, will provide an overview of expectations and responsibilities that will make for an easier transition to the new environment.

The new students will pay fees and buy textbooks on Wednesday, August 13, the last step in the orientation process. A more leisurely day is on tap for Thursday when, among the other programs to promote school spirit, MSU's cheerleaders, who are national champions in their division, will teach the fight song, and join music faculty and students for the "Alma Mater."

To help students become familiar with office locations and services on campus, new students will collect keys in a "Treasure Hunt," according to Susette Redwine, University Center program and special events coordinator. "During a campus scavenger hunt," information will be provided which will be beneficial for their success," she said. "When the hunt is completed, students will have an opportunity to select a key, unlock a chest and choose a prize."

For returning students, residence halls open for upperclassmen on Wednesday, with the registration process to be completed on Thursday and Friday, August 14-15, on the main campus. Students taking classes at various off-campus locations—including those enrolling in distance learning classes—also will register during designated times on these days.

With the paperwork done and registration completed, it's time for one last party before beginning one's studies. All students are invited to a street dance and ice cream fest from 8 until 11 p.m., on the lawn of the president's home and University Boulevard on Sunday, August 17.

MSU classes, including evening and off-campus, begin on Monday, August 18.

While the goal is to get an education, students may take a break from the schoolwork to enjoy a number of special programs, Redwine said. "The variety of activities should offer something for every taste," she said.

Scheduled to make campus appearances during the first weeks are: comedian Simon B. Cotter.

August 13; musician Rick Kelley, August 14; hypnotist Tom DeLuca, August 20, and the band Bricq, August 27.

The remainder of the semester will continue to offer breaks in the students' schedules: Poolshark Tom "Dr. Cue" Rossman on September 2-3; ventriloquist Dan Horn, September 26; comedians Marty Putz, October 1, and Elliott Branch, October 22, and juggler Bill Fry, November 5.

For the sports enthusiast, the MSU Eagles football team will be playing in Jayne Stadium with its first home game set for Thursday, September 4, while the Eagle volleyball team begins the fall season in Wetherby Gymnasium on Friday, September 19.

Also before the semester closes, play will get underway for MSU's Eagles and Lady Eagles basketball teams, both under the direction of new coaches this season.

Students, who would rather participate than be a spectator, may get involved in a Greek organization, Student Activities Council, Student Government Association, Residence Hall Association or a host of clubs and academic honor societies that are always looking for new members. Intramural sports also offer satisfaction for those who enjoy physical challenges.

If working on the set of performing in a play is among one's goals, a number of theatre productions will provide the outlet. During the coming year, students will present "The Madwoman of Chailiot," October 16-18; "Working," October 30-November 1; "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead," November 18-22; "The Night of the Iguana," February 24-28, and "Long Ago and Far Away," April 13-18. Other cultural experiences include guest and students recitals and art exhibits.

When the semester is in full swing, the University will host students' relatives during Family Weekend, September 26-27, and former students for Homecoming, October 11-12.

If you would like to be a part of MSU's fall schedule and have not already registered, the Office of Admissions will provide all the details. Additional information is available by calling (606) 783-2000 or 1-800-585-6781.

Tackett has original poetry published

John Walter Tackett II, has just had original poetry published in "With Flute Drum, and Pen," a treasury of today's poetry compiled by The National Library of Poetry. The poem is entitled "Lady Who Holds My Heart" and the main subject is being alone.

The National Library of Poetry seeks to discover and encourage poets like John Walter Tackett II by sponsoring contests that are open to the public and by publishing poems in widely distributed hardback volumes.

John Walter Tackett has been writing for four years and his favorite subjects and ideas are sadness and love.

Jennifer McKinney

McKinney receives Alumni Award

Morehead State University has announced that Jennifer Lynn McKinney of Melvin is among those students receiving an Alumni Award for the fall semester.

McKinney, the daughter of Rodney and Jacqueline McKinney, is a graduate of South Floyd High School. Listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students," she was a member of the National Honor Society, FBLA and the Beta and Science clubs.

To be eligible for the Alumni Award, at least one of the applicant's parents must be an MSU alumnus and an active member of the MSU Alumni Association. The student must be admitted to MSU as an entering freshman or transfer student; have an Admissions index of at least 500, while transfer students must have a 3.0 grade point average (on a 4.00 scale) for the equivalent of at least one full term.

The scholarship, valued at $750 per year, is renewable for three academic years if a 2.5 g.p.a. is maintained during each of the first two semesters and a minimum cumulative 3.00 g.p.a. for each semester thereafter.

by Beverly Carroll

Senior citizens, this week we will continue looking at the legal profession and how it might benefit you, as it has hundreds of thousands of indigent people and older Americans throughout this state and the nation.

The legal profession, of course, is composed of every lawyer who is in good standing with their state's bar association, whether the attorney is self-employed, employed by a corporation or organization, a Public Defender's office, or a Legal Services office, etc.

This week we will focus on the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky, Inc., and its' pro bono program, Volunteer Lawyers for Appalachian Kentucky (VLAK).

The Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky, Inc. is also referred to by people in Eastern and South-central Kentucky as ARDF, Appalred, Legal Service, and Legal Aid. For simplicity, I will refer to it as APPALRED. It, like several other legal services programs in Kentucky and nationwide, is under the umbrella of the Legal Services Corporation in Washington, D.C.

APPALRED'S headquarters for the thirty-seven counties it serves is in Prestonsburg. It is a not-for-profit legal organization funded by federal and state monies, the IOLTA fund of the Kentucky Bar Association, and private donations. Its purpose is to see that the deserving poor have legal representation and access to the courts without charge.

APPALRED'S Executive Director is the Honorable John Rosenberg. The eleven offices he oversees in Eastern and South-central Kentucky are: Barbourville; Columbia; Harlan; Hazard; Jackson; Manchester; Pikeville; Prestonsburg; Richmond; and Somerset. Additionally, he oversees the Mine Safety Project in Lexington, the Kentucky Migrant Legal Service Project in Richmond, and the Volunteer Lawyers For Appalachian Kentucky (VLAK) pro bono program for the thirty-seven counties served by these offices. The VLAK program is housed in the Administrative offices in the Prestonsburg office complex.

Each of the APPALRED'S satellite and project offices mentioned above have a directing attorney or a project manager in charge. This person is directly responsible to the program's executive director for the management and operations of his/her particular office.

I am project manager for the APPALRED/VLAK pro bono publico program. Pro bono publico is a legal Latin and Greek derivative which means, "For the public good." Most offices have domestic relations secretaries whose chief purpose is to assist with pro bono work in her office's service area. The Somerset and Columbia service areas have an attorney who divides her time between representing clients in the Somerset office and performing pro bono responsibilities in the eleven counties served by these two offices. All of APPALRED'S satellite offices perform their pro bono activities in coordination with the VLAK office at Prestonsburg.

VLAK's chief responsibility, both in the main office and at the satellite offices, is to work with the deserving poor and senior citizens through the willful utilization of members of the private bar. VLAK's chief priorities are: those who cannot be represented in the ARDF office serving their area, because of that office's heavy caseload; conflict cases (a case where the opposing party has been counseled or served by an APPALRED office in the past); spouse/child abuse; elder abuse in the home or a long-term care facility; harassment; benefits denials such as SSI; landlord-tenant housing problems; age discrimination; bankruptcy; civil rights; veteran's claims; divorce; property settlements/estates (excluding property line disputes); Medicare, etc. Except in certain, rare occasions APPALRED/VLAK, does not assist in preparing wills. We do not handle criminal cases as these are handled through the public defenders office. We were mandated by Congress, that as of April 26, 1996, we can no longer represent someone in prison.

Insight into what you should do when you need legal representation but you cannot afford an attorney, is to call your local APPALRED office to see if that office can help you. You must start with the local office first, unless you have been referred to this office by a judge, an abuse shelter, etc. If your local APPALRED office is unable to help you, you will be given the number for VLAK or you can call me at 886-3876, or toll-free at 1-800-678-VLAK (1-800-678-8525).

Expect a basic telephone intake to be done to see if you qualify for our Pro bono program. You will know, at the time of that call, whether or not you meet the qualifications governing our pro bono program.

If you qualify, it is oftentimes necessary to ask pertinent questions regarding your legal needs. We must have a thorough understanding of your legal situation before we attempt to find legal representation for you from private attorneys on our panel. Not all attorneys take the same kinds of cases.

After qualification determination has been established, and your legal needs have been discussed, it is VLAK's responsibility to do all that it can to obtain an attorney to handle your case, without charge, from members of the private bar. VLAK discusses your case with an attorney hoping to place your case with that attorney. Once the case is placed, you are notified of the attorney's name and telephone number. You are then required to contact that attorney's office to arrange an initial interview appointment.

Attorneys do not like "surprises" from their clients. This is why it is extremely important that questions asked of you are answered honestly at the time of the telephone intake. When I consult with an attorney on your behalf, the attorney must have a reasonable knowledge of the involvement of your case, the opposing party(ies) involved, and he/she must be able to estimate how much time will be needed to properly represent you.

Just last week, an attorney in the Big Sandy area filed a report with this office, stating he had donated 100 hours on behalf of a particular client he represented. Based on a forty-hour work week, this represents 2-1/2 weeks of free service. Based on the dollars and cents value, it represents in excess of $8,500. This figure does not include the long distance telephone calls, postage, and other out-of-pocket expenses like his travels back and forth to court in a neighboring county, etc.

This attorney is not alone in what he did for this poor person. Luckily, most cases we place with attorneys on our pro bono panel do not take this much time, but the fact remains that some do, and when they do there are attorneys—men and women—who volunteer their time just as this man did.

If you are in need of legal representation, but you cannot afford an attorney, contact your local Appalachian Research and Defense Fund office listed in the white pages of your telephone directory. If you are a senior citizen with legal needs, call Charles Slone, your Kentucky Benefits Counseling Coordinator for Senior Citizens in the Big Sandy area, at 886-3876 or at 1-800-556-3876. He can provide you with the name and the telephone number of the APPALRED office serving your area. You can also call the VLAK office direct at 886-3876 or toll-free at 1-800-678-VLAK.

Unfortunately, we are not able to place all cases. The legal needs of the poor are simply too overwhelming. But there are lawyers that are available to help whenever their busy schedules will allow them to take on another pro bono case. Thanks to the attorneys who so actively support our Volunteer Lawyers program, to date over 2,050 cases have been handled on a volunteer basis by private attorneys in our thirty-seven county service area. Believe it or not!

Retiring PCC professors honored

Eighty-four years—for some, a lifetime; for others, several lifetimes. Eighty-four years are what Dr. Carolyn Turner, Phyllis Honshell, and Hailu Bogale have given to Prestonsburg Community College and the Big Sandy region. Many teachers, doctors, nurses, engineers, attorneys, physical therapists, parents and others in the Big Sandy region who were students at PCC, received their basic training in the intricacies of written English, mathematics, literature, business English, engineering fundamentals, and Appalachian lore from these three retiring professors.

Turner, Honshell, and Bogale have been a part of PCC almost since the college's beginnings. It is their many years of service that prompted the Kentucky Community College Faculty Alliance (KCCFA), an affiliate of the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) and of the AFL-CIO, to celebrate the retirement of these three professors.

About 75 faculty, staff and friends participated in wishing them well on July 7, at a surprise party at the Pikeville home of Dr. Dorothy Carlson. Highlights of the evening included retirement gifts, cards, and congratulatory letters received from Gov. Paul Patton; KCCFA President, Mark Wilburn; and State COPE Director, Barbara Ashley.

An evening of laughter, gaiety, hugs, and tears of joy and of sorrow sped these former PCC colleagues on their way to new beginnings, where, no doubt, they will continue to distinguish themselves and to bring honor to Eastern Kentucky.

Special exhibit at state fair

The Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives (KDLA) is joining forces with the Louisville Free Public Library, the Filson Club Historical Society, and the University of Louisville, to present a special educational exhibit as part of the larger "Kentucky Communities" exhibition in the South Wing at the 1997 Kentucky State Fair, August 14-24.

Within the library area, visitors will see an exhibit devoted to KDLA's "serving Kentucky's need to know," from the historic pack-horse libraries to today's technological state-of-the-art resources which enable patrons to access holdings in libraries across the globe, through on-line databases.

There will also be sections illustrating the preservation of public records and KDLA's disaster response readiness to save public records in the face of fires, tornadoes and floods.

A literary exhibit, its contents suggested by Kentucky's public librarians from all over the state, will feature Kentucky writers, Kentucky community publications and Kentucky authors of children's books.

Patrons will also be able to view a new video history of Louisville's Western Branch Library, and LFPL's popular "LOIS" (library offsite information systems) kiosk, plus a PowerPoint overview of the collective holdings and databases in all of Kentucky's libraries.

Last year's most popular activity in the library area of the South Wing exhibition, STORYTELLING, is back by popular demand.

Six storytelling "happenings," conducted by Kentucky's public and scholl libraries, are scheduled during every day of the fair (11 a.m., noon, 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 p.m.).

GENEALOGY workshops, offering advice on how to get started on tracing your ancestors, will be offered on August 15, 20, and 21, at 10:15 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The whole South Wing exhibition, "Kentucky Communities," is a one-time-only educational event that promises unique and enjoyable experiences for the whole family—including an indoor living display called "The Kentucky Landscape," a wild game show called "Step Up To The State," storefront facades representing Main Street Kentucky, and all kinds of performances and educational programs.

KDLA is an agency of the Education, Arts & Humanities Cabinet, and will join many of its fellow cabinet agencies who are taking part in this exhibit.

Fairgoers will be able to visit "Kentucky Communities" in the South Wing the first ten days of the fair from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m. (the exhibit will close at 9 p.m. on August 24th, the final day).

Hall graduates basic training

Air Force Airman Trenda E. Hall has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training, earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Hall is the daughter of Terry D. and Deborah A. Bentley of Printer. Her husband, Gregory, is the son of Frank B. Hall and Virginia Hall, both of Langley.

organization, announced that he will be leaving Floyd County. He has resigned his position as Park Manager for Jenny Wiley State Resort Park to pursue a career opportunity with the State of Kentucky Finance and Administration Cabinet in Frankfort.

Chamber President, Greg Wilson thanked Mr. Kennedy for his dedication to the organization, and stated that his absence will leave a tremendous void for the Chamber of Commerce. Executive Director, Carla Coburn presented Mr. Kennedy with a Country At Heart photo of Dewey Lake at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. She stated that since she accepted the position of Executive Director, she has viewed Mr. Kennedy as a mentor and friend, and he will be greatly missed.

On the meeting agenda were business topics such as committee assignments for the board of direc-

A Look At Sports

Allen Central football appears to be well and on the rise

There has been much concern over the future of the Allen Central football program and I must admit I was one of those who was concerned.

Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

I mean, the school goes and hires a coach with no coaching experience (but you have to gain experience somewhere) to take over a program that appears to have hit rock bottom.

But Monday evening I visited a Rebel practice and here is what I observed: No, there were not the big numbers out. Yes, some of the players who played last year were missing. I did not hear the bad language, or see players pointing fingers at one another in blame.

I saw a group of young men who were encouraging one another. I saw a coach who had the players believing in themselves. I saw new coach Wes Halbert, even though the coaching experience may not have been there, doing something more important, helping to build some character in these young men.

I heard laughter, but at the same time, I saw determination. Determination to prove the skeptics wrong. This program is alive, well and on the upswing.

Coach Halbert has help in Bear Halbert and Jody Howard as assistants. Some of the former players at Allen Central have stopped by to lend a hand in instruction. I saw togetherness like I hadn't seen at the Rebel camp in past seasons. I saw players coming out that I never dreamed would play the game of football.

I saw Kevin Slone come out of the backfield to haul in Jesse Hall pass. I saw basketball player Edmond Slone run some patterns as he is learning how to play the game. Newcomer Jim Branham, limping, wants to please his coach and is gamed to try and run. But his coach doesn't want him to further the injury and instructs him to sit down.

There were many, many more positive things I witnessed at that practice Monday at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex.

The Rebels may not have a winning season, but the program is intact and, under Halbert, I believe it will get healthier.

I picked up a copy of last year's football tab just to see who was returning to the Rebel camp this year. I mentioned names such Paul Wallen (no longer in camp), as a possible quarterback for the Rebels. Luther Slone carrying the football; he will be at center. B.J. Caudill; he transferred to Prestonsburg. Ethan Martin; no longer in the county. Shannon Mynier, no longer with the team. Kevin Slone will definitely be carrying the football for the Rebels and Jessie Hall is going to be an excellent quarterback at Allen Central.

Monday morning I traveled to Betsy Layne to take in a Bobcat practice and shoot a few pictures. What an attitude new coach Ted George has instilled in the Bobcat players. Here is a team that believes they can go to the playoffs this year. A team that believes that losing is just a mental thing and they can have an even season.

Tyler Puckett was throwing the football with accuracy and distance. Matt Rose, Nathan Hayes, Eric Cecil and company welcomed the return of Billy Mitchell to the camp.

Mitchell returns for senior season

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

(This is the first of several player profiles to be run as football season approaches.)

The 1996 football season kicked off at Betsy Layne High School but it was minus one player that, then coach, Randall Hager was looking to be the feature back on a ball-club that was short in numbers. But Billy Mitchell had the dream of following coach John Derossett to Prestonsburg for his junior year. Only things did not pan out as expected as he was declared ineligible to play football for the Blackcats last season.

Mitchell returned to Betsy Layne this year, where he will be a senior under new head coach Ted George. Mitchell recalled last season and looked ahead to this year.

"I'm sorry that I didn't get to play last year," said Mitchell. "I really missed my teammates last year and I'm looking forward to the upcoming football season."

Mitchell is optimistic under new head coach Ted George. "I think we will have a better season than people think," he said. "We have a good senior class and we're a real team that is together. We don't have the numbers this year but we have the men to go out and get things done."

Coach George said that Mitchell will be the Bobcats' feature back this year and he wants him to carry the football as many as 30 attempts each game.

"Billy will be a key for us this year," said George. "He will be behind (Tyler) Puckett (Bobcat quarterback) and we look for good things from him."

In the 20-year history of Betsy Layne football, the Bobcats have never really had what you would consider "good numbers." This year the camp is filled with around 23 players, but Mitchell says that numbers are not all that matters.

"We've always been a team with 20-22 players," he said. "We've always done good with what we had. We've always been a team that played together."

Mitchell said some good players will return to the Bobcats this season.

"We're going to do all right," he said. "We have some good receivers, like Matt Rose. Matt is fast, real fast. We can run the football as well. Our backfield will have good blockers in front of us and we'll be all right."

"Clifton Boyd is going to have to step up on the line, he and Nathan Hayes. Eric Cecil will be in the backfield but Clifton and Nathan will have to lead our offensive line. They will have to show some senior leadership."

Mitchell admitted that while the veteran players will return, "there will be some young players on the line as well, and they will have to learn quickly."

"We will have Kenneth Webb, maybe big Tim Koger on the line as well," said Mitchell. "Tim is just a sophomore but he can hit hard. Tyler has a great arm and we have good receivers. We should have a good passing game."

After sitting out last season, Mitchell said he has tried to stay in shape so coming back this year would not be that difficult.

"There hasn't been much difficulty coming back," he said. "The physical aspect and being hit has been hard. But I have adjusted and I'm just glad to be back."

Coach George is the third coach for the Bobcats in three years, but Mitchell says he has instilled some things into this year's team that could take them a long way.

"Coach George has taught us teamwork, togetherness. He has stressed hard work. He has taught us discipline.

He is an excellent coach with a lot of discipline and everyone up here respects him. We do everything he says and we work hard in practice."

Mitchell likes the Bobcats opening game against Allen Central.

"It should be a good game," he said. "They will have some pretty good players. They always have big players. It will be a good game."

King to be inducted in KSA Hall of Fame

Bobby King's long and successful softball career began back in 1960 and spanned 35 years when he officially retired from the sport in 1995.

On October 11, at the Marriott's Griffin Gate Resort, King will be inducted into the Kentucky Softball Association Hall of Fame for his many contributions to the game as a player.

Elected to Hall of Fame

Bobby King, McDowell, will be inducted into the Kentucky Softball Association Hall of Fame on October 11 in Lexington. King has been playing softball for the past 37 years and was named to the All-World team. (photo by Ed Taylor)

King began his long and illustrious career with Carlisle Construction in 1960, a team located in Newport and around the Covington area. He later played for Gatliff Auto Sales and then the Newport Merchants, both who would claim world championships.

"The Newport Merchants were part of a traveling league," said King. "We would travel, the whole league, to different places to play. We would play one week in Cleveland and then maybe move on to Louisville and places like that."

With his talent in demand, King was wanted by almost every team in the nation. His ability to consistently hit the long ball, made him a much sought after player.

He ended up playing for the Rolling Hills Lakers after leaving Newport then moved on to the Dayton, Ohio area where he played for Wilsman Trucking and the Ohio Players. He made his way to Springfield, Ohio and was part of a team there.

"I was at a tournament one time and saw where a team from Prestonsburg was there," said King. "I asked someone if they had a Barry Hall (South Floyd basketball coach) playing for them. They said 'yeah, do you know him?'"

Turned out Hall was at King's wedding.

"He was just a little fellow then," said King, holding his hand at waist level, "and wearing a bow tie."

King wanted to return to the Floyd County area and was known for his years he played for Ken's Sport Shop teams, who gained national prominence by winning state titles, regional championships and playing in numerous national tournaments.

He was also named to an All-World team that included softball players from all over the world.

In 1979 he was named the Thoroughbred Classic Most Valuable Player, as just one of the many, many awards given to a player that made a major contribution to the game of softball.

King will be honored at a banquet where he will receive a plaque, recognizing his being inducted into the Hall of Fame.

King now resides at McDowell.

Betsy Layne cheerleaders endure long summer, hard work, long hours

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Last Monday morning was a pleasant time but you could tell the temperatures were going to start climbing and the humidity was going to make things even that much more unbearable.

Carolyn Clark had her boys varsity cheerleaders out and you could spot them jogging around the school buildings in a conditioning program.

Conditioning program? You would think that was reserved for only football, basketball or baseball players as well as track and field participants. But for the Betsy Layne cheerleaders, the summer day, spent out of school, was just another day in preparing for the long school year approaching and the upcoming football season that opens August 22 for the Bobcats.

Senior Jamie Mitchell said, it is like a year-long thing.

"We practice two and a half hours a day," she said. "During the summer we have camp like four days and it is all day long. There we practice between two and three hours per day."

Most fans who attend the sporting events around the area think that cheerleading begins when school starts. But far from that. A lot of hours and hard work go into being a good cheerleader who can compete in competition.

"We don't compete during the summer," said senior Jennifer McKinney. "Our competition is mostly during the district and regional basketball tournaments."

The Bobcat cheerleaders must

Glenn May surprises field in winning modified feature at Thunder Ridge Speedway Saturday

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

For Glenn May, it was catching his cousin out of town and taking the checkered flag for the first time this year in winning the Modified feature at Thunder Ridge

Speedway this past Saturday night. Chuckie May, who has 11 feature wins this race season, was not at the local track as he visited the Ohio Speedway and West Virginia Speedway over the past weekend.

May, in only his second season of racing, put his car in the middle of the track and drove it all the way to victory lane ahead of Jackie Everidge and Herbert Barnett of Jackson.

With the absence recently of Jackie Boggs, the Late Model feature has seen different winners over the past three weeks. Boggs, who dominated the race earlier, is making the circuit rounds at other tracks and that has opened the door for other drivers to get in the spotlight.

Davis drove his number 16 car across the finished line for his second feature win of the season at Thunder Ridge. Eddie Carrier, Sr. placed second, after winning the feature last weekend. Greg Lucas placed third in his number 32 racer.

It was almost a carbon copy finish of last weekend in the Bomber feature as Wheelwright's Jason Johnson took the checkered flag over Randall Lester for his second consecutive win. The two finished one and two last weekend but this past Saturday night Prestonsburg's Clint Shutts finished third.

Timmy Moore, who is second in the national AMRA stock car points standings, drove his number 69 car to victory in the AMRA stock car feature last Saturday night. Tandy Spurlock, fifth nationally in the points standings, placed second while bill Butcher finished third.

Larry Combs raced ahead of Brandon Isaac to win the Road Hog feature with Elza Webb taking third place.

"It was a good experience for us," said May. "I enjoyed it. I learned a lot and what I have to do the next time I run there."

It was the first attempt at the Ohio Valley Speedway oval track for May who finished third in the modified feature after qualifying ninth.

"The more laps I ran the better it got," said May. "The people were really nice to us there. Anything they could do for you, they did it."

WEST VIRGINIA SPEEDWAY

At the West Virginia Speedway, May qualified third but finished sixth in the feature race.

"That is a nice track," he said. "It is where the ARCA cars run."

Before May could race on the dirt track, he had to purchase a NASCAR license.

"I didn't know the ARCA cars ran on a dirt track," he said. "It cost me, but I really enjoyed it. I plan to go back there and run again."

Racing continues this Saturday night at Thunder Ridge with $1,500 to win going to the winner of the modified feature.

OHIO VALLEY SPEEDWAY

Chuckie May, looking for points, decided to be absent from the local track in journeying to the Ohio Valley Speedway this past Friday night. It seemed eight of the top 11 drivers nationally had the same idea as they showed up to compete against the local driver.

not only be on the floor during the basketball season, but during the 10-week football season as well. That poses no problem for the hard workers who make up Carolyn Clark's squad.

"No, it's not a problem cheering for both football and basketball," said Kim Akers. "In fact, it works out better for us. We use the same cheers for football as we do for basketball, only we change the words. Cheerleading is hard work, but I enjoy it."

Clark will enter her third year as the cheerleader sponsor at Betsy Layne and has some strict rules the squad must follow. "This year I have the boys and girls varsity cheerleaders as well as a dance team we've started," said Clark. "I'm really proud of all the girls, especially the dance team."

While there is much physical preparation, a cheerleader must also prepare mentally for the start of another season, according to junior Mindy Robinette.

"We practice really hard to get ready for the season," she said. "We try to make everything perfect. It's as much mental as it is physical. We are judged on our motions, being all together, voice, whether they are loud, our smiles. There is a lot involved."

Performing difficult stunts has become a tradition with cheerleading and for the Betsy Layne cheerleaders, some are more difficult than others.

"Most difficult stunt? The straight-up liberty," said Amanda Clark. "There is a lot of mental preparation involved because we have to remember to do so many things like smile, yell loud and have a lot of pep."

April McKinney says the mental part is needed but the physical requires a lot of hard work.

"If we are not in shape, it really takes a lot of time for us to get back in shape," she said. "To get ready, we do a lot of stretches. Run and work real hard to be at our best physically."

In the past, a standing rule at Betsy Layne High School read that freshmen could not become varsity cheerleaders, but that changed this year. Five freshmen make up part of the 16-member cheerleading squad at Betsy Layne. One of those is Monica Robinette, who had to prove she was good enough to make the squad by trying out.

"When we try out for the team, we are judged on our motions, whether they are stiff and straight," said Robinette. "Our loudness is important as well as our jumps, whether they are high enough and our toes pointed."

This year, a new requirement was put in place by Clark that each girl be able to do a back hand spring.

"It is a requirement this year," said Robinette. "It is something that our sponsor required of us."

For incoming freshman Amber McKinney, cheering for football will be totally foreign to her.

"I've never cheered for football before," she said. "When I was in grade school, it was only basketball. It is going to be new for me. I don't know if I will be used to the cold weather or not. It is as hard as grade school. But up here you feel more at ease, you don't feel like you are pressured into this stuff."

Making the squad as a freshman does not guarantee a girl will be on the squad next year.

"I will have to try out again next year," said freshman Amanda Tackett. "I'm looking forward to the school year and the upcoming season. I love to cheer and I enjoy it. It's fun. I have my friends here and we all get along together."

Tracy Johnson is a freshman this year at Betsy Layne and cheered for the elementary Bobcats last year. She said there is a difference in the grade school level and high school.

"The stunts you have to learn is the most difficult thing to learn," she said. "This year I will base (at the bottom of a stunt) whereas last year I climbed. The straight-up liberty is the most difficult to learn."

Margaritta Boyd, freshman, cheered at Allen Elementary last year and cheered for both football and basketball.

"I'm used to doing both sports," she said. "This year in high school everything is different and much harder. But because everyone is on the same level and everyone can do the same stuff, that makes it easier to work with the squad."

Brittany Blankenship is a sophomore this year, the only one, and she was a victim of the no-freshman rule last year, forcing her to sit out her first year in high school. But she said there is no problem with the rule change.

"Last year they didn't let freshmen cheer so I had to sit out," she explained. "But this year they changed that rule, but still, there is no problem with coming back my sophomore year and cheering."

Brittany said she is glad freshmen are allowed to cheer at the varsity level and not resigned just to girls basketball or junior varsity.

"If you are good enough to cheer on the varsity squad you should be allowed to do so," she said. "I'm the only sophomore here and some of my best friends are here. I've cheered all my life and it isn't difficult for me to come back after sitting out a year."

When the football season kicks off and the Betsy Layne cheerleaders are on the sidelines leading the yells, remember, they had no summer off and they have put in a lot of hard work and long hours to get to where they are.

"Tyler is really throwing the football well," said assistant coach John Campbell.

"I am really pleased with the way this group of young men has come together. Billy has been a very pleasant addition," said first year coach Ted George.

On and on, just positive talk, and that is what these young men need to hear.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats and South Floyd Raiders are on the road to different camps this week.

Scrimmage games get underway this Friday after the teams return Thursday.

The South Floyd Grid-O-Rama will be held Friday, August 15 at Brackett Field.

It sure looks like football season is here and I welcome it.

Here's another football note: former Betsy Layne lineman Brandon "Bubba" Combs was in the Betsy Layne camp helping out. Bubba will move from a guard position to center this year for the Morehead State Eagles, who open their season at home on September 4 against Austin Peay.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

Sports in Kentucky

By Bob Watkins

Heroes don't always wear swoosh symbols and hustle hamburgers

Heroes emerge on the playing fields, courts and fairways, and come to us on Sports Center in a splash of lights and jock music.

They make millions and parade swoosh symbols, and oil-slick haircuts or rainbow do's with earrings. They hustle hamburgers on television and talk in one dimension and draw ga-ga's from schmoozers named Vitale, Berman and Packer.

Heroes. Thankfully we can change channels.

Now-and-then a hero surfaces from a board room where the air still has enough oxygen so his thinking is clear. Sometimes a hero is wearing a simple business suit maybe with a loose button and he or she is armed with a kind of common sense that surprises us so, it is news.

One of these stepped into the light last week.

Morehead State University President Ronald Eaglin reviewed a decision made by his first-year men's basketball coach (and rubber-stamped by the school's financial aid committee), to revoke the athletic scholarship of student-athlete in good standing, Kyle Sherman, along with two others.

In Sherman's case, veto! President Eaglin overruled Macy. Said it was a matter of principle. Not only that, but the prez telephoned Sherman after the young man's appeal for reinstatement had been denied, and told him he still had a full ride at Morehead.

"Not playing well was not enough reason to pull a scholarship," Eaglin told the Lexington Herald-Leader about Sherman who averaged 2.5 points last season.

My. Somebody telephone Hugh Downs at 20/20, or Morley Safer at the other place. Get a film crew onto I-64 pronto, there's a man bites dog story here!

Hard to find these days, but a fellow with a principle and determination to do the right thing when it is not necessarily politically correct, lives and breathes in college sports.

I mean, can anyone imagine Dr. Charles Wethington telephoning Rick Pitino and saying, "hey coach, you can't just dump Rodrick Rhodes because you found Ron Mercer."

Sure. So, Morehead State will honor its scholarship agreement with Kyle Sherman, Eaglin ruled. And a fresh wind blew in from the east.

I have an idea: When NCAA publicity department officials begin production on those stiffly choreographed student-athlete testimonials CBS allows in among the interminable time-outs during the NCAA Tournament next spring, somebody get hold of Kyle Sherman.

The NCAA people can pull a PR coup here. Give the young man a plane ticket to Shawnee Mission for a filming. And, if Sherman is on schedule to graduate, give him a pair of tickets to the Final Four to sit with the cronies.

Heroes. From a practical standpoint, what Eaglin did last week was heroic because:

✓ Sherman aspires to be a high school teacher and basketball coach. If he reaches those goals, guess what? A coach is in place to pass along to his players a moral message made possible by this college president. Fair play and fair treatment still has a place out here.

✓ For rookie coach Kyle Macy, what a perfectly marvelous way for a university president to initiate his newest hire. With a 'learn something from this' spanking.

Something like, "Mister Macy, we recognize you're the hottest item in eastern Kentucky right now, but stop by the library after practice and bone up on the definition of student-athlete. See which word comes before the dash."

TOP SPORTS STORY IN KY. LAST WEEK?

Most important sports news story in Kentucky last week? In a move that may be coming to a college near you, Western Kentucky University's Board of Regents voted to have a full review of all Hilltopper sports programs.

To which football coach Jack

Harbaugh had a diplomatic response, telling The Bowling Green Daily News: "We welcome review ... provided it's not prejudiced from the start."

"One of the mistakes that we all make is asking if your program will be self-supporting. ... The thing we have to do is ask if the money is well spent."

Comment: The money is well spent if sports programs are at maximum efficiency to entertain and involve students and community and exclude nobody. Exclusion is what happens at the University of Kentucky.

✓ About proposed Rupp Arena renovation...

Bill Bolling, Indianapolis writes: "Your column was greatly appreciated. As a UK basketball fan since the days of Tingle, Schu and Parkinson coached by Adolph Rupp, I was disappointed by the Pitino years. Inappropriate coaching blew the famous (Final Four) Michigan game, and egregious judgment frittered away the Arizona game. (Derek) Anderson could have and should have played, that being enough to win it. Pitino's contract was to coach UK, not insure the health of players for the pro ranks. I guess we know now for sure that his loyalties were already with the NBA, not with UK.

"Athletes have become so commercially driven at all levels that 90 per cent of people in the U.S. have been priced off the market with regard to (arena) seat costs. Some of us are just smart enough to know there are better ways to spend our money

"The domino theory came into play because of the excessive remuneration to pro players in all sports. Next season MJ may receive $450,000 per game, nearly $10,000 per minute if he played all 48. What kind of reality is that?"

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS Sports In Kentucky readers ask questions.

Q. You harangue at UK basketball for its ticket distribution policy. What would you do to make it better?

A. First, consider no plan that would involve eliminating seating for fans. Second, implement a rotating lottery so that more fans who want to would have an opportunity to buy tickets to see their favorite team play. Third, take steps to eliminate or reduce the already illegal practice of ticket scalping.

Q. You've always been such a UK fan, but lately you've beaten up on C.M. Newton and UK basketball pretty good. Why?

A. Wrong. I am not a fan. As for C.M. Newton, one man's view is UK's director of athletics has become the titular head of Wildcats Inc., and primarily interested in profit from basketball and football, ostensibly to pay for more non-revenue sports. However, I think Newton is more interested in assuring his place in UK sports history, than in doing all possible to make Wildcats basketball and football dollar-available to staunch UK fans, and winning new ones.

Q. Why your harsh a criticism of UofL sports programs?

A. Everyone should be critics of those found guilty of violating rules for which they have signed agreements to abide. And 'not knowing the rules' is no defense.

Denny Crum denied violations took place, then when an NCAA found otherwise, he denied responsibility, said the rules are too complicated. And, to my knowledge, has not made a single public statement in defense of Jerry Jones, Larry Gay or Carlton McCray.

Football? So far, coach Ron Cooper has talked a good game and, to put it nicely, has made some rather peculiar sideline decisions. Also, his Cardinals have not only been less than impressive on the field, their off-field behavior has not been exactly sterling either.

Q. What do you think of UK's new coach, Hal Mumme?

A. A better question is, with all due respect to Tim Couch, what will Kentucky do when the other team has the football?

NASCAR Connection

Young lions roar being heard

Last Saturday's running of the Brickyard 400 had a surprise winner in Ricky Rudd and a couple of other surprises finishing in the top ten. Jeremy Mayfield, Johnny Benson Jr., and Mike Skinner all recorded top ten finishes in one of the most high profile of all the NASCAR races.

At a time in NASCAR when some of the big names seem to have reached the zenith of their careers, it is a welcome sight to see a young driver come into the sport and begin making some noise.

Mike Skinner driving his first full year in NASCAR for Richard Childress' second team has already claimed the pole position for both of the races at Daytona this year. He finished in ninth place at Indy and that was good enough to keep him at the top of the leader board for Winston Cup Rookie of the Year honors.

Johnny Benson Jr. recorded a seventh place finish last week and continues up the learning curve of Winston Cup. The seventh place finish should come as no surprise because in his first ever Brickyard in 1996 he led the most laps (70). Benson was the '96 Rookie of the Year and finished in 21st place in the final point standings. He also won the Busch series title in 1995 and has one pole to his credit at Atlanta in '96.

Maybe the most impressive young driver that has yet to win a race would be Jeremy Mayfield. The driver of the KMart/RC Cola Ford finished a very impressive fifth at Indy. With that finish the young driver finds himself in ninth place in the series point standings. Not bad at all for a driver that wasn't even with this team this time last year.

A very unique situation led Mayfield to Krandfuss-Haas Racing and the KMart/RC Cola Ford team. Car owner Michael Krandfuss had begun talking with Mayfield during the 1996 season about the possibilities of the driver joining his team for the 1997 season. Not long after the two had reached a tentative agreement, Krandfuss-Haas driver John Andretti began negotiating with Cale Yarborough for the new year. Both reached agreements and, in an unprecedented move, the drivers switched rides with nine races left in the season.

The swap offered Mayfield and the team a chance to get a jump on the '97 season. With those nine remaining races the team was able to establish a good communication line that is so essential to the success of any team that runs on the circuit.

With John Andretti and Jeff Burton both winning their first NASCAR race of their careers this season, it looks like Mayfield could be the next driver to break through and claim his first win!

Carter, Bentley places first in EKAA bow shoot

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

The East Kentucky Archery Association held a 30-target bow shoot competition this past Sunday with 30 targets displayed at various distances up to 50-yards.

Competition was divided among nine classes, plus the Super Shoot and Hidden Smoker, with medals going to the top three shooters in each class. Trophies were also presented to winners in the Super Shoot and Hidden Smoker.

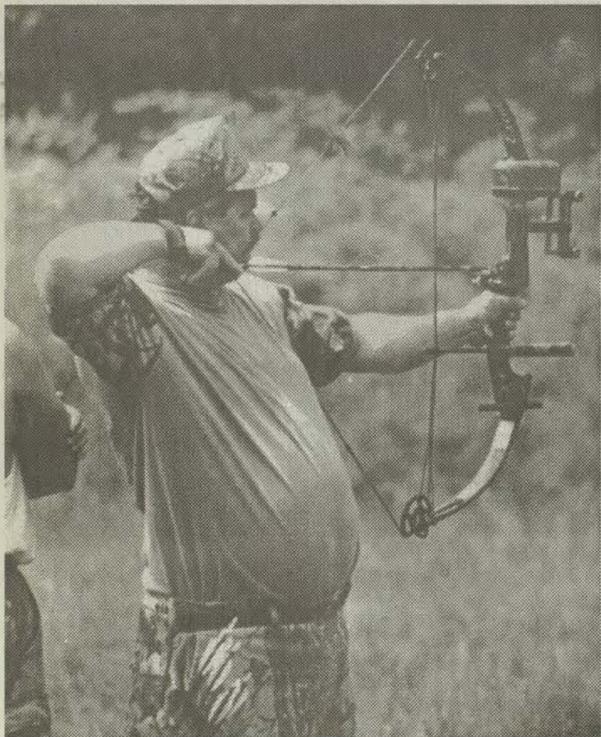

In the Open Class, Brian Carter took first place with Buzz Allen placing second. Herman Bentley took first place in the Unlimited Class while Billy Joe Hamilton finished second. Cody Hamilton took first place in the Panda Class.

Wendell Hall won both the Hidden Smoker and the Super Shot.

With deer season beginning September 20 for bow hunters, the East Kentucky Archery Association will hold an ethical shoot August 17 at the local range located between Prestonsburg and Martin off KY 80. The shoot will consist of 30 targets and scored as follows: vitals, 10, wound, 8, miss, 5 points.

For more information on the shoot or the local archery club, contact Billy Joe Hamilton at 886-8883.

Expect The Best

These two hands have delivered more than 10,000 babies.

Having delivered more than 10,000 babies, Dr. Harry E. Altman's large hands fall naturally to a cradling position. He is a board-certified obstetrician who has been delivering babies for more than 28 years and he leads the largest obstetric team in southeastern Kentucky at Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Pikeville Methodist has six board-certified obstetricians and a full-time, board-certified neonatologist. Our physicians are supported by a staff of more than 45 R.N.s, L.P.N.s, delivery technicians, ward clerks and nurses aides.

Pikeville Methodist also provides care for high-risk pregnancies as well as C-sections, and is home to the region's only licensed neonatal intensive care unit.

Expectant mothers and their families can relax in the comfort of knowing that they are being taken care of by some of the most experienced and dedicated obstetricians anywhere.

If you're expecting a new baby, expect the best care — from experienced physicians like Dr.

Altman — at The Birth Place at Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Tide man hangs them out to dry

Ricky "Tide Man" Rudd's old-fashioned common sense and driving skills overcame superior horsepower and racing technology to win the Fourth Annual Winston Cup Brickyard 400.

A capacity crowd of nearly a quarter-million fans watched from the stands, while millions more viewed the race from their televisions as Rudd brought a third or fourth place car into victory lane. It was Rudd's second win of 1997, and his 19th career Winston Cup victory — but by far, his biggest.

"The fastest car doesn't always win," said Rudd. "You've got to know when to make the best use of what you've got. We knew we only had a third or fourth place car today. But, we were going to make the best of it. Jim and I had talked (Jim Long, crew chief of Rudd's team), and we were going to go for it. We were either going to win it or finish last."

Rudd's last fuel stop was on lap 114. With 46 laps, or 115 miles to go, he would be stretching it. But two caution flags in the last 18 laps allowed Rudd to conserve the fuel needed to make it to the end of the 160 lap race, and victory lane.

Others, including Jeff Gordon and Dale Jarrett had pitted with 12 laps remaining. By the time the green flag was given and racing resumed, there were only seven laps left, and not enough time or distance to challenge either Rudd, or runner-up, Bobby Labonte.

Rudd's share of the $4.965 million purse was $571,000.

Terry Labonte and Rusty Wallace both had DNF's due to blown motors.

Dale Earnhardt, who ran as high as second during the race, wound up 29th.

Prior to the race, Robert Yates, owner of the number 28 Havoline Ford, announced that Kenny Erwin will be the replacement driver for Ernie Irvan in 1998.

TOP TWENTY FINISHERS: 1) Ricky Rudd, 2) Bobby Labonte, 3) Dale Jarrett, 4) Jeff Gordon, 5) Jeremy Mayfield, 6) Mark Martin, 7) Johnny Benson, 8) Bill Elliott, 9) Mike Skinner, 10) Ernie Irvan, 11) Ken Schrader, 12) Lake Speed, 13) Kyle Petty, 14) Darrell Waltrip, 15) Jeff Burton, 16) Ricky Craven, 17) John Andretti, 18) Geoff Bodine, 19) Ward Burton, 20) Bobby Hamilton.

TOP FIVE WINSTON POINTS LEADERS: 1) Jeff Gordon, 2,834, 2) Mark Martin, 2,755, 3) Dale Jarrett, 2,687, 4) Terry Labonte, 2,603, 5) Jeff Burton, 2,591.

LAJOIE DOMINATES IN BUSCH WIN

Randy Lajoie led 172-laps of the 200-lap Kroger 200 at Indianapolis Raceway Park for NASCAR Busch Grand National cars.

Fast-qualifier, and defending champion, Lajoie stayed out of trouble that plagued cars behind him on the .686 mile facility. He took the checkered flag, 0.420-seconds ahead of Elliott Sadler. It was Lajoie's fifth victory of the season, and the win bolstered his points lead over Todd Bodine, who had a 25th place finish because of electrical problems.

TOP TEN FINISHERS: 1) Randy Lajoie, 2) Elliott Sadler, 3) Elton Sawyer, 4) Tim Fedewa, 5) Wayne Grubb, 6) Matt Kenseth, 7) Buckshot Jones, 8) Steve Park, 9) Jeff Krogh, 10) Jason Keller.

TOP FIVE POINTS LEADERS: 1) Randy Lajoie, 3,135, 2) Todd Bodine, 2,985, 3) Phil Parsons, 2,657, 4) Steve Park, 2,643, 5) Elliott Sadler, 2,594.

FIVE STRAIGHT FOR HORNADAY

When Ron Hornaday, Jr. took the checkered flag, Thursday, July 31, in the Cummins 200 at Indianapolis Raceway Park, it marked his fifth consecutive NASCAR Craftsman Truck win of 1997. The win also moved him into fourth place in the driver points battle.

TOP TWENTY FINISHERS: 1) Ron Hornaday, 2) Jack Sprague, 3) Jimmy Hensley, 4) Joe Ruttman, 5) Mike McLaughlin, 6) Randy Tolsma, 7) Kenny Erwin, 8) Rick Carelli, 9) Dave Rezendes, 10) Rich Bickle, 11) Mark Green, 12) Chuck Brown, 13) Rick Crawford, 14) Boris Said, 15) Bryan Reffner, 16) Bob Keselowski, 17) Butch Miller, 18) Andy Houston, 19) Mike Bliss, 20) Kevin Cywinski

HARD CHARGING SKINNER OPTIMISTIC

After his career best sixth place finish at Pocono on July 20, Mike Skinner said, "That's my best finish on the Winston Cup circuit, and I'm happy for Richard Childress and this team. We've had some problems in the pits, but we're getting better and better each week."

Sixth-fastest qualifier for the Brickyard 400, Skinner finished ninth.

Driver of the Lowe's number 31 Chevrolet Monte Carlo, Mike Skinner was born in Ontario, California, but grew up near Susanville. Skinner's early racing experience was gained on tracks at Carson City, Nevada and Anderson, California. In the mid-1980s, he moved to North Carolina where he raced ARCA and Busch series cars.

While competing in the Busch series, he caught the eye of Richard Childress. His relationship with Childress eventually led to a contract for him to drive in the 1995 Craftsman Truck series. Skinner won his first race with the GM Goodwrench team, plus 10 Busch Poles, and the 1995 truck championship.

In 1996, he had eight wins, but more importantly, he took over for an injured Dale Earnhardt in the Brickyard 400, and finished 15th.

In 1997, Skinner became the driver of the Lowe's sponsored number 31, the second car in the Richard Childress racing stable. He is the current leader for Winston Cup Rookie of the Year.

"This whole Lowe's team, including driver, made a lot of rookie mistakes during the first half," Skinner said. "And we learned a lot. All of us know how good this team can be. We know if we can fulfill the potential of this team, we can have a very good second half."

"We began this year hoping to win at least one race, and that is still our goal. Our first goal is to win the Rookie of the Year deal. And that remains on our list. But we also wanted a couple of poles — which we have — and win a race. And I think we can get us one. We want to finish in the top-15. We know we've got a long way to go to get there. But like I said, I feel we are going to have a good second half. And if we can get us a bunch of top-ten's and a couple top-five's, and a win, we can do it."

Former UK soccer mentor leads training camp

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Hazard native, Sam Wooten, who coached soccer at the University of Kentucky for five seasons, headed up the first East Kentucky Youth Soccer Association's player training camp last week at the Prestonsburg Community College grounds.

Forty-five players, between the ages of five and 16, attended the four morning sessions. Each day included instruction in individual skills such as dribbling, passing, shooting and goal keeping, as well as principles of team offense and defense.

Assisting Coach Wooten were select team coaches Jim Rule and Bill Lisenbee. Wooten said that he and his staff were impressed with the attitude and enthusiasm of the players who attended the camp, and looked forward to conducting other soccer clinics here in the future.

Each player attending the camp received a T-shirt, patch, and a water bottle which was put to good use in Monday's heat. However, the weather cooperated with perfect conditions the remainder of last week. Most Valuable Player honors for the week went to Jason Magdits and Laura Barrett.

Registration for the EKYSA fall season will be held Friday, August 8 from 3-6 p.m. and again Saturday, August 9 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Magoffin (Library) Building at PCC.

Games will be played each Saturday from September 6 to

Soccer Clinic

October 26, and practices will start the third week of August. Practices and home games are held at PCC.

Teams are formed in three age groups, based on the child's age on August 1, 1997: under-9 for five through eight year olds. Under-12 for those age 9-11, and under-17 for twelve through sixteen year olds.

No experience is required, and each child will play at least half of each game. Registration fee is $20 per player, and a $10 contribution for uniforms is requested from those who did not make this contribution in the spring season.

Running the patterns

Nick West will be counted on to step in and be a big part of the Betsy Layne offense this year. The Bobcats will open their season against county rival Allen Central on Friday, August 22 at Betsy Layne (photo by Ed Taylor)

Four tradition rich teams to compete in Pike Co. Bowl

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

You talk about rich tradition in high school football. Football fans will get their money's worth on August 23 at Pikeville High School as four of tradition rich teams motor into Pike County for the 1997 Community Trust Bank's Pike County Bowl at the Hambley Complex.

In the first game, Louisville Male, the winningest high school football program in Kentucky history, with 686 victories, is pitted against perennial mountain power, the Belfry Pirates of coach Phillip Haywood.

The Male Bulldogs are the first Louisville football team to travel into the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, and it looks to be a Mountain-Metro shootout.

In the nightcap, Ashland Paul Blazer, the sixth winningest program in Kentucky High School football history, with 518 victories, faces the Pikeville Panthers, the winningest Kentucky program over the last 20 years with three state championships to their credit.

Game times are 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Potter collects first victory; Blackburn wins Super Bomber

by Chris Belcher
Track Writer

Sitka's 201 Speedway entered its final month of the racing season with a good crowd of both fans and competitors, witnessing close racing throughout seven heat races.

Keith Potter and Beadie Blackburn were top winners in last weekend's racing night. Potter took the checkered flag in winning the Claim Bomber feature while Blackburn raced to the winner's circle in the Super Bomber feature.

Potter took the inside pole position with Tim Starr sitting on the outside. On the start, both passed the flagstand side-by-side before mechanical problems sent Starr to the pits after his number 73 ride suffered a flat after the first lap.

Willard Blair entered the picture as the next challenger to Potter but Potter opened up a sizable lead over Blair as the real battle ensued between Ronald Cunagin and Wendel Wright. Wright finally gained the third spot and a mechanical problem pitted Cunagin with only three laps remaining in the 15-lap feature.

Taking the checkered flag was Potter for his first feature win of the '97 season followed by Blair and Wright.

Beadie Blackburn and Pikeville's Glenn Patton engaged in a fierce battle during the Super Bomber feature as both went past the flagstand handle to handle. Coming out of turn two, Blackburn took the lead over Patton. Patton kept the pressure on Blackburn for the first two laps until he went a little deep into turn four in an effort to move ahead of Blackburn. He disabled his number 7-A racer for the remainder of the feature and allowed Rodney Webb to move into the runner-up slot.

At first glance, it appeared that Blackburn was on his way to an easy victory, pulling away from Webb by the half-way point of the race. However, Webb would be able to narrow the gap from that point on.

Webb got to within a carlength of Blackburn as the closing laps approached and found Blackburn's bumper with only two laps remaining. Webb made his final run at Blackburn on the white flag lap, as he got right behind Blackburn, looking for the lead coming out of the final turn.

As the two came off the final corner, Webb attempted to gain the inside line, finding the burn down the frontstretch. His efforts came up short however, as Blackburn held on for the win. Webb finished a strong second followed by Timmy Hall. Blackburn took the checkered flag for the fifth time this season.

Saturday night's coney race was one of the most competitive of the race season with Louisa's Jeff Cyrus taking the point early with Bonnie Blair and Glenn Patton on his backside. Cyrus held off the charge early by Blair, although Blair was able to pull alongside Cyrus at the flagstand at the half-way point.

With the two drivers battling and trading door paint off the fourth corner, Patton was able to gain the point with only two circuits remaining, while Cryrus's machine suffered a damaged right front fender, which pitted the Louisa driver on lap 10.

It was Patton taking the checkered in front of Blair and Tracy Lucas, who actually crossed the line sideways, ending up on his top as the newest member of the 201 Speedway Rollover Club.

West Liberty's Scott Pennington got away early in the Nas Hog feature but lap traffic with the last two trips to go allowed Williamson's Darren Muncy to capture the lead down the backstretch, as Pennington, had to dodge some of the wilder hogs on the track and Muncy, amazingly threaded the needle out of turn three to gain the lead and take the victory.

The annual old-timers race will be held this coming Saturday night with the ladies invited to drive in the second Powder Puff feature.

Defending the weirdos

I guess I'm going to stop watching TV. You see, my problem is that Wilma and I watch a lot of those prime-time news magazines and I nearly always end up getting aggravated when those so-called experts tend to defend weirdos.

My latest quarrel with those who apparently have an answer for everything concerns what they call "road rage," a clever little name for something that, in my opinion, could more aptly be termed "gross ignorance."

It's a disease that's apparently approaching epidemic proportions across the country and appears to be akin to rabies, hoof and mouth disease, or some other ailment common to lower class animals. The problem is, though, it only manifests itself in higher forms of life, namely humans. More specifically, it can be found in both the male and female species once they've reached age 16. It has been diagnosed in both sexes up to age 95.

What makes "road rage" so dangerous is that there are no warning signs. People who are perfectly normal one minute are crazy as loons the next.

Victims of this disease are drivers who become irritated when another driver does something of which they do not approve, like cutting them off in traffic, tailgating them, or blowing their horns at them when they don't respond quickly enough after the traffic light turns green; common, ordinary things that occur practically everytime you drive your car.

Suddenly, these drivers, many of whom have been identified as teachers, preachers, and everyday housewives, take these infractions personally and risk life and limb to get even.

Usually the person they suddenly have a deadly vendetta against isn't even aware that the other driver is upset with his driving until he's being fired upon with a handgun or rammed from behind by the road rager's vehicle.

Many times such behavior leads to serious accidents or even death, and when confronted after the fact, those who commit such violent behavior have no idea why.

Now, according to a couple of reports I've seen on TV, those who are supposed to know about such things tell us that such bizarre behavior is excusable and the offenders are to be forgiven. They say it's merely the result of living in today's fast-paced society. They say that the highways are becoming so crowded and people are generally so stressed out that an actual darker side that dwells within us all, and over which an individual has no control, literally consumes their personality. They instantly become so angry they could kill.

Now, I'm not a scientist or anything, but that's probably the way I'd diagnose this particular problem, too. I mean, why not blame it on society? If cold-blooded killers can be excused for murder because someone kicked their dog when they were kids, why can't we do the same thing to these road ragers?

Using logic (?) like that, nobody should be held responsible for anything they do.

It makes you wonder, doesn't it? Should we try to do something to prevent road ragers, or at least force them to take responsibility for their actions? Or could our time be better spent by writing to our legislators urging laws against all those TV experts who blame society for everything?

Hannah dethrones Ashley, Austin still number one

In a surprise move, Hannah has replaced perennial favorite name Ashley as the most popular newborn girl name of 1996 among Kentucky parents. Boys' name, Austin, remained in the number one spot in the state for the third year in a row.

Hannah leaped from sixth place in 1995 to first with 448 girls being given that first name in 1996, according to Kentucky Department for Public Health's Vital Statistics records. Hannah wasn't even in the top 10 girls' names in 1994. Among boys, Austin was chosen for a first name 760 times.

The rest of the top boys' names from 1996 births were Jacob (641), James (553), William (539), Matthew (509), Christopher (506), Zachary (495), Michael (476), and Joshua and Tyler (tied with 474 each). The top three boys' names were in the same order as in 1995.

While the boys' names were mostly traditional, the girls' names were a blend of traditional and trendy. After five years at the top, Ashley fell to second (395), Emily (387), Sarah (382), Taylor (366), Kayla (364), Brittany (345), Jessica (331), Courtney (302) and Megan (281) rounded out the top 10 girls' list.

No new names entered Kentucky's top 10 boys' names in 1996. Only one girls' name, Courtney, was new to the top 10 girls' names as it replaced Samantha.

A trend of the last few years that continues to gain popularity is the use of what used to be considered last names as first names and using them for both boys and girls. Taylor also was selected for 78 boys and came in as the twelfth most popular name overall and Jordan was thirteenth overall with 303 boys and 118 girls receiving that name. Madison, Morgan, Logan and Shelby were also used interchangeably and were in the top 40 names overall.

Future parents looking for a baby name who want something uncommon but not unusual should consider names popular 30 years ago. Last year, Jill, Wendy and Brad were only chosen five times each, Rhonda and Clark three times each and Daryl four.

Most new Kentucky parents seem to be getting more creative with names. While many newborns share the same first names, others will stand out from the 52,471 Kentucky babies born in 1996. Of the birth certificates registered by July by the Vital Statistics branch, 7,453 different first names were selected for babies last year. And 5,051 were one-of-a-kind names or spellings.

Some parents used a regal flare with Royal, Noble, Princess, Dutchess, Majestica, Dynasty and the most unusual Our Little Prince. Others were more fashionable with Chanel, Armani, Dior and Nautica while Nikee, Nikke, Swift and Runner may some day be gold medalists.

Names like Daughter and Junior show some people prefer the simple route. Oddie, Silence, Kharisma, Furious, Passion and Vicious may foreshadow some personality trait.

Will Mercy be a judge, Loan a banker, Misionary a missionary, Nightie a Victoria Secret model, Ocean and Oceane fishermen? Only time will tell if Kernel, Major, Captain and General will enlist in the military. And think of the slogan possibilities if America runs for president.

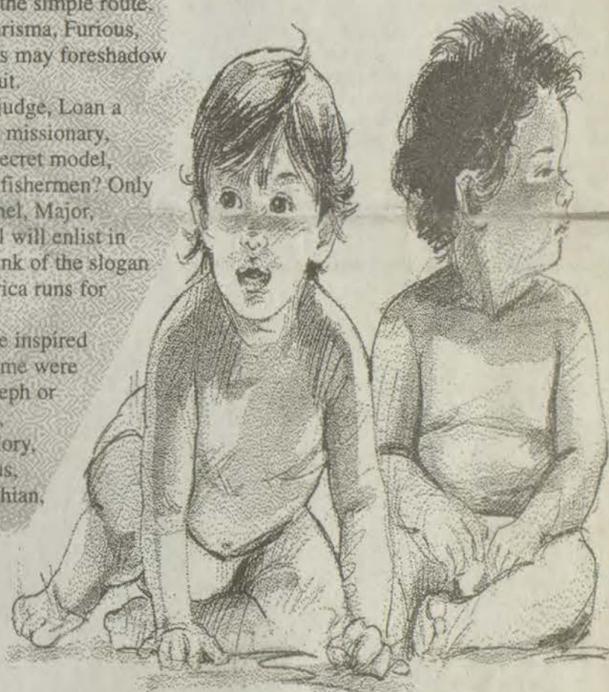

As usual the Bible inspired many parents but some were not as typical as Joseph or Elizabeth. Heavenly, Blessed, Deacon, Glory, Nazareth, Nicodemus, Israel, Judah, Corinthian, Jericho and Genesis were chosen, too.

Common names with different spellings also stand out. Airyck, Aaaron and Zakerey will probably be spelling their names for people for the rest of their lives. Haley was spelled at least 26 ways and Bailey was spelled no fewer than 15 ways.

Kimothy, Daprecious, Alaap, Snowbear, Wanna, Summerdale, Nova, Fantasia, Treasure, Adolphus, Cheetah, Island, Valentin, Epiphany, Mystical and Pryzm will probably elicit more than a few questioning looks.

Some babies seem destined to meet some day. Consider these combinations: Samson and Delilah, Mick and Jagger, Velvet and Elvis, Crystal and China, Atlanta and Georgia, Nile and River, Clinton and Little Rock, Antonio and Banderas, Waylon and Willie, Sahara and Desert, Journey and Destiny, Solomon and Owise, Julius and Ceasar, Perry and Ellis, and Aquarius and Aries. Maybe Ross, Joey, Chandler, Monica, Phebe and Rachel will become friends.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital

For 50 years, we've kept the "care" in health care.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin combines modern medical technology and a 50-year history of compassionate, Christian health care. Floyd Countians are proud to have a hospital with the best of both the modern and the traditional.

Our Emergency Room provides 24-hour, 7-day physician-supervised lifesaving responses to serious illnesses and injuries.

The Rural Health Clinic, next door to the ER, provides care in non-life-threatening situations or when you can't connect with your doctor through regular channels.

Our Transitional Care Unit is designed to meet the needs of those between full-time hospital care and independent home living.

And our Same Day Outpatient Surgery Unit uses modern techniques to reduce the pain of surgery and the length of recovery times.

We haven't yet mentioned the other departments that fit our spectrum of services perfectly to the needs of our service area.

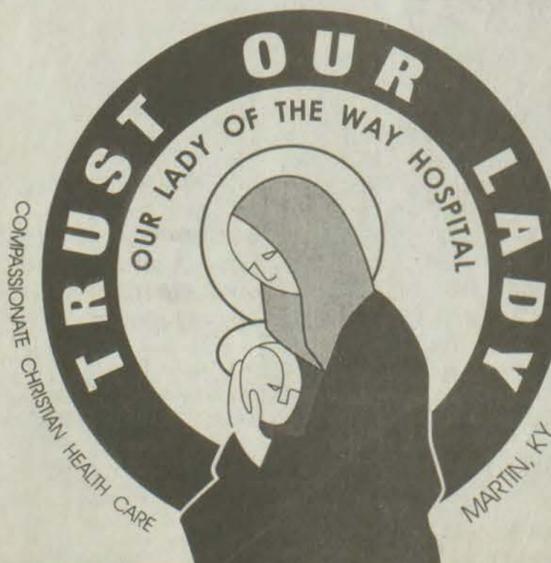

Our Lady of the Way features:

- 24-hour emergency care
- Specialty clinics
- Medical - surgical
- Community education
- Acute care services
- Same day surgery
- Respiratory care
- Gynecology
- Pharmacy
- Mammography
- Diagnostic imaging: Ultrasound, CT scan
- Laboratory facilities
- Pastoral care

Our Lady of the Way Hospital scored 97 out of a possible 100 points in our last accreditation inspection by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO). We remain committed to excellence in all aspects of our operation.

We stand for compassionate Christian health care given by your friends and neighbors. We hope you agree Our Lady of the Way Hospital is where you'd want to go.

We welcome your suggestions, comments or requests for more information. Please call 285-5181, extension 302, and let us know how we can make our next 50 years even greater.

Report shows Americans are more overweight than a few years ago Reports from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) show that Americans are more overweight and have less healthy diets than just a few years ago. This seems surprising, given our current interest in nutrition and a greater variety of foods. However, this is the news from the Third National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey reported by the Centers for Disease Control and the Third Report on Nutrition Monitoring from USDA and HHS. This news is of special concern to the citizens of Kentucky, since obesity often leads to diabetes, stroke and heart disease.

Among adults, 36 percent of women and 33 percent of men are currently overweight. This is an increase of nearly 10 percent over the last 10 years. These findings are consistent with another report from the Centers for Disease Control, and physical activity. We are eating fewer calories from fat, but more total calories. Regular exercise and routine physical activity are decreasing. It's an old and familiar story. Eating too many calories and not burning enough energy leads to weight gain.

The bad news is that despite our lower fat consumption, calorie intake has increased. Sugar consumption is up, largely in the form of soft drinks, which rose from 26 gallons per year per person in 1972 to 44 gallons in 1992. Soft drinks are consumed instead of low-fat milk, resulting in a calcium shortage. While we are eating slightly more fruits and vegetables, consumption is still short of the recommended 5-A-Day.

What can we do? Again, it's an old story. A diet of fruits, vegetables, low-fat dairy products, lean meats and whole grains will supply the nutrients we need without too many calories.

Regular physical activity, such as walking, needs to be part of our daily routine. The widespread enjoyment of computers and television is part of this information age in which we live. Learning to use this information to improve health is the next step.

which indicates a nearly one percent increase for adults for each year from 1987 to 1993.

Why is being overweight more common in our country today? To look for the answers, researchers examined trends in our food intake percent of total calories from fat. This was an improvement from the 40 percent observed in the 1960's and today, fat consumption is down to 34 percent of total calories. During this same time period, the rate of heart disease has also decreased.

Controlling bagworms

by Patricia G. Spicer
Floyd County Cooperative Extension Service
Agent for Agriculture and Natural Resources

Bagworms, caterpillars that make distinctive spindle-shaped bags, are a major pest of evergreen trees and shrubs. Bagworms (not to be confused with webworms, which build large, web-like nests in trees) can strip the leaves from juniper, arborvitae, cedar, pine, and spruce. If the feeding is severe the plants can die.

Honeylocust, maple, rose, box-elder, willow, and many other woody landscape plants can be attacked by this pest but rarely are damaged seriously. Orchards are seldom bothered because sprays used to control other pests will also control bagworms.

Bagworms are the larval or caterpillar stage of a moth that is rarely seen. In fact, only males develop into typical moths that are capable of flight. The adult female is grub-like and remains inside the bag until just before she dies.

Bagworms pass the winter in the egg stage inside the bag that contained the female. In late May or early June the eggs hatch and the small larvae crawl from the bag in search of food.

By using silk and bits of leaves, bark, or twigs, they soon build a small protective bag around their hindpart. As the larvae grow, they add onto the bag making it large enough to allow them to withdraw into the bag when disturbed.

By early September the bags reach their maximum size of 1-1/2 to 2 inches.

At this time the larvae permanently suspend their bags from twigs with bands of silk. The larvae then transform into the pupal or resting stage prior to becoming an adult.

Adults emerge from the pupal stage in late September. Males are black, furry, clear-winged moths.

The creamy white females have neither wings nor legs and appear to be no more than a grub.

The male flies to the female bag, inserts his abdomen in the hole of the bottom of the bag and mates with her.

The fertilized female begins laying her 500-1,000 eggs which fill the bag forcing her toward the bottom.

When finished, she drops from the bag and soon dies. The eggs remain in the bag until they hatch the following May, when the cycle begins all over again.

Bagworms are often kept at acceptable levels by several species of wasp parasites. Management practices should conserve the benefits of these natural controls. If your bagworm problem is limited to only a few small trees or shrubs, removal and disposal of the bags during the winter or spring may be sufficient to minimize the problem.

When many small bagworms are attacking evergreens, insecticides are needed to prevent serious damage to the trees.

The best time to apply an insecticide is when the bags are 1/4" to 1/2" long, or as soon as there is noticeable damage to the trees. This usually is late May or early June.

Do not wait for extensive damage. Insecticides recommended for bagworm control include Bt products (Dipel, Javelin, SQK-Bt), diazinon (diazinon), acephate (Orthene), carbaryl (Sevin), and cyfluthrin (Tempo). Thoroughly wet the foliage to obtain the best results.

For more information on bagworms or other landscape problems, call Pat Spicer at the Floyd County Extension Service at 606-886-2668.

Garden Philosophy

by Philip W. Case

If you're planting your garden by the phases of the moon and signs of the zodiac, here's the information you'll need for the upcoming week.

Moon in light phase

The moon is in the light phase now, the new moon—or no moon visible in the sky—having come into force early Sunday morning. Until the next full moon August 18, only those vegetables that produce above the ground should be planted.

Flowering days begin today

A series of flowering days begins today and continues through Saturday. Today the sign is in Virgo (the bowels), followed by Thursday, Friday, and Saturday under the influence of Libra (the reins). On any of these days you may plant flowers and expect them to bloom and do so abundantly.

But, according to The System, you should avoid planting vegetables unless you're planning to eat the blooms.

Great planting returns Sunday

Great planting for anything that produces above the ground returns Sunday and Monday, August 10 and 11, when the sign moves to Scorpio (the secrets), one of the four most fruitful signs.

Following these two days we enter a period of so-so planting which will extend from August 12-18. As I've said all year, these signs are neither great nor bad—just so-so.

Remember: It's time now to cast an eye toward fall and fall gardens. Many hot-weather crops still have time to be planted and produce, but there are simply some that don't, because the days will continue to get shorter and eventually, cooler.

Check the "date to maturity" for hot-weather seeds or seedlings or plan to plant those things that enjoy cooler weather and cooler soil temperatures.

Birthday

Business/Real Estate

Exploring the job market through temporary work

Which industries hold the best job opportunities for the future? Unfortunately, no one can positively predict all the changes in technology, consumer demand, the economy, and the many other factors that will affect the employment picture in the years ahead.

Current trends indicate that health care, education, travel and lodging services, accounting, and law will be among the fastest growing industries of the '90s, with good prospects for employment. Also, experts agree that almost all new jobs will be in service-producing industries as the share of jobs provided by manufacturing continues to decline.

But what do these trends mean in your local job market? You may be in an area where manufacturers are doing well and providing a steady supply of jobs. Health care may not be the best employment prospect if your local hospitals are merging and consolidating their staffs. Wherever you are, advice from the experts must be combined with first-hand knowledge of the local job market.

According to Manpower, Inc., the world's largest temporary help firm, that has a branch office in Prestonsburg, one of the best ways to find local job opportunities is by working with a temporary help firm. These firms employ and train readily available workers who are sent out on short-term job assignments at the firm's customer companies.

Because most assignments are of short duration, you can experience many different kinds of jobs and work environments as a temporary worker. You will get a look at local companies from the inside, helping you identify companies that are growing and may need additional permanent employees.

Temporary work can smooth your eventual transition to permanent employment in several ways. Your temporary work experiences will strengthen your resume and add to your skills. Those experiences may also help you make decisions about the type of permanent job you would like. You'll have access to internal job postings and the opportunity to establish contacts within the companies you are sent to on temporary assignments. And if you're as impressed with your temporary bosses as they are with you, a temporary assignment might turn into an offer of permanent work.

Temporary work can also provide income to fund a job search. The schedule flexibility of temporary work allows that time off for interviews and other commitments.

The experience of working in a variety of environments will help you develop an ability to learn on the job and be flexible—attributes prized by employers.

Many communities have a number of temporary help firms, and it's not unusual to find more than 100 firms in larger cities. Choosing one as your employer may seem a bewildering prospect. However, there are specific things you should look for when choosing a temporary help firm.

Look for a firm with a complete skills testing program. These tests should not cause you anxiety, because they're not pass or fail tests. The tests should help you understand what you do well and enjoy doing and how that will translate into the working world.

For example, Manpower has developed testing tools that diagnose applicant's skills, identifying areas of strength. With this information, Manpower can assign you to temporary jobs matching your abilities, rather than positions that require too much or too little of you.

All skill measurements used by temporary help firms should be statistically validated according to the guidelines of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Validation insures that tests are fair, accurate and non-discriminatory.

There's no doubt that workers with computer skills have an edge for many jobs in today's market.

Progressive temporary help firms offer training that will add to your skills and keep you up-to-date on the latest technology.

Through Manpower's training program, Skillware®, temporary employees have the opportunity to acquire computer skills that are hard to find even in the permanent workforce, making them very marketable. While Manpower trains on today's most popular hardware and software, the company also develops training for new systems and upgrades of existing software, sometimes even before they come on the market.

The training offered should be hands-on, utilizing the actual equipment and software you will use on the job. This means there won't be any surprises when you arrive at your assignment, just a familiar keyboard and screen.

If you plan to use temporary work as a way to get your foot in the door for a permanent job, check your firm's policy regarding temporary employees who are offered permanent positions by customers. Manpower doesn't charge a fee for temporary employees who are offered positions by customers. The company realizes that the goodwill from a happy worker and customer is more valuable in the long run.

A final note: prepare yourself for interviews, skills assessment and training with a temporary help firm as you would for any potential employer. Present yourself in a professional manner and bring along your resume or other relevant information about your education and work experience. You'll make the right impression to start a mutually beneficial relationship with your temporarily help firm that will give you insight into the permanent job market as well.

New doctor joins the Foot Care Associates

Foot Care Associates recently announced the addition of Dr. Robert R. Miller in the practice of Podiatric Medicine and Surgery (foot and ankle).

Dr. Miller graduated from the Pennsylvania College of Podiatric Medicine, in Philadelphia, in May 1993.

He recently completed four years of post-graduate training at the Presbyterian Medical Center, also in Philadelphia.

His residency training included all aspects of care relating to the foot and ankle with emphasis on reconstructive and trauma surgery. Dr. Miller is an active member of the American Podiatric Medical Association.

Dr. Miller, his wife, Sue, and their dog, Jedd, will be relocating from Havertown, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Miller is currently arranging appointments through Foot Care Associates in Paintsville at 789-1112 or in Ashland at 324-1994.

Gov. Paul Patton officially proclaims September as manufactured home month

September is officially Manufactured Home Month in Kentucky according to Governor Paul Patton. Affordable housing is a major concern for the citizens of Kentucky and manufactured housing is an important element in the equation.

The square foot construction cost of a manufactured home is often half that of a comparable site-built home making it the choice of over 520,000 Kentuckians who currently reside in manufactured and mobile homes. Today, in Kentucky, almost half of the new homes built are manufactured homes.

Morris Hylton, president of the Kentucky Manufactured Housing Institute is excited about the Governor's proclamation, "Manufactured housing is the best home value offered. Because of the quality of construction and affordability; low to moderate income families can reach the American dream of home ownership." Manufactured homes are an attractive alternative to traditional site-built homes because of the many financing options available, and the flexibility of location. A consumer can choose to move into a community or place a home on his/her own property.

In addition to the above advantages, manufactured homes are safe and energy efficient. Unlike site-built or modular homes, they must meet stringent federal construction,

New Thacker-Grigsby Telephone Company directory to be delivered

More than 7,000 copies of the new 1997 Thacker-Grigsby Telephone Company Directory, the official telephone book for Thacker-Grigsby Telephone Company, will be mailed to residences and businesses throughout the area beginning July 21.

The Thacker-Grigsby Telephone Company Directory includes updated local alphabetical telephone numbers and comprehensive Yellow Pages listings for all local residences and businesses in Hindman, Topmost, Mousie, Cody, Fisty and Pippa Passes.

The directory also contains alphabetical telephone listings for residences and businesses in Allen, Martin, McDowell, Prestonsburg and Wayland.

The 1997 Thacker-Grigsby Telephone Company Directory contains area emergency numbers on the inside back cover and includes useful information such as local and long-distance calling instructions, nation-wide area codes/time zones, directory assistance, and zip codes for Knott County.

The directory also profiles the different custom calling features available for Thacker-Grigsby Telephone Company customers such as three-way calling, call waiting, call forwarding and speed dialing.

Telephone company customers who do not receive a copy of the 1997 Thacker-Grigsby Telephone Company Directory by August 1 may call the local business office at (606) 785-9500.

AEP's Kentucky customers set summer peak on July 28

Monday afternoon, July 28, AEP's 165,400 customers in Kentucky set a new summer peak demand for electricity as they sought relief from the heat.

At 2 p.m., July 28, AEP's Kentucky customers' summer demand for electricity peaked at 1,164 megawatts. This peak represents a new record summer peak for Kentucky. The previous record summer peak was set August 15, 1995, at 1,136 megawatts.

This peak is not an all-time record for electricity usage for AEP's Kentucky customers. Kentucky customers use more electricity in the winter months than in the summer, according to Dave Lang, Kentucky Region manager. The all-time record peak for usage by AEP's Kentucky customers was set February 5, 1996, at 1,418 megawatts.

Electrical peak demand is defined as the total amount of electrical energy required by all customers at a given point in time. The record is determined by averaging instantaneous demands over a one-hour period.

AEP, a global energy company, is one of the United States' largest investor-owned utilities, providing energy to 2.9 million customers in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, West Virginia and Tennessee. AEP has holdings in the United States, the United Kingdom and China. Wholly owned subsidiaries provide power engineering, consulting and management services around the world. The company is based in Columbus, Ohio.

News releases and other information about AEP can be found on the World Wide Web at <http://www.aep.com>.

NOTICE OF BOND RELEASE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.093, notice is hereby given that Buck Coal, Inc., 413 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, KY 41653 (606-886-2330) intends to apply for Phase II Bond Releases on Increments No. 1 and 5, and Phase II and III Bond Releases on Increment No. 3 of Permit No. 436-5181 which was last issued on February 1, 1990. Increment No. 1 covers a surface area of approximately 8.85 acres, and 0.25 acres 3rd party disturbance; Increment No. 3 covers a surface area of approximately 1.68 acres; Increment No. 5 covers a surface area of approximately 7.02 acres. There is no underground area involved with these increments. The operation is located approximately 1.4 miles northeast of Garrett in Floyd County. The permit area is 0.80 miles south of Goose Creek Road's junction with Ky. 80. The latitude is 37° 29' 30" and the longitude is 82° 48' 40" and is located on the Martin 7 1/2 minute U.S.G.S. quadrangle maps.

The performance bond (Surety) currently in effect, and the original bond for the increments are as follows: Increment No. 1: Current $16,500, Original $29,600 Increment No. 3: Current, $7,300, Original $12,500; Increment No. 5: Current $17,500, Original $30,500. Of these amounts, approximately 80% of the original bond is included in this request for release on Increments No. 1 and 5, and 100% of the original bond is included in this request for release for Increment No. 3.

Reclamation work thus far performed includes: backfilling and grading, sampling and testing, liming, fertilizing, seeding and mulching, and was completed in Fall 1989. Results thus far achieved include: establishment of vegetation and the post mining land use in accordance with the approved post mining land use plan on Increment No. 3, and establishment of vegetation in accordance with the approved post mining land use for Increments No. 1 and 5.

Written comments, objections, and requests for a public hearing or informal conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Field Services, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, Frankfort, KY 40601 by September 19, 1997.

A hearing date for this bond release request has been set for September 22, 1997 at 1:00 p.m., at the Department for Surface Mining and Enforcement's Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, KY 41653. The hearing will be canceled if no request for a hearing or informal conference is received by September 19, 1997.

Editor's note: The following recipes are reprinted from Cooking with Friends, a cookbook compiled by residents of the Prestonsburg Housing Authority. The proceeds from the sale of the cookbook will be used to purchase picnic tables for the residents' use in Green Acres, Indian Hills and Dixie. The cookbook may be purchased at the Prestonsburg Housing Authority offices at a cost of $7 per cookbook. For more information about the cookbook, call 886-2717.

TUNA SALAD

1 can (6 1/2 oz.) water packed tuna, drained
1 can (8 oz.) peas, drained
1/2 c. finely chopped celery
2 tsp. pickle relish
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/4 c. mayonnaise
Mix all ingredients together and chill. Serve on lettuce leaf, if desired. Yield: 4 servings.
Audrey Mullins

CATALINA TORTILLA SALAD

1 green pepper
1 or 2 onions
1 or 2 tomatoes
1 large pkg. shredded Cheddar cheese
1 large can kidney beans, drained
1 bottle Catalina dressing
1 large bag tortilla chips
Chop the first three ingredients and then mix remaining ingredients together and serve.
Alicia Adkins

CHICKEN WALDORF SALAD

2 c. diced cooked chicken
1 large tart apple, diced
1 c. chopped celery
1/2 c. chopped walnuts
1/4 c. mayonnaise
2 tsp. lime juice
2 tsp. honey
Salt and pepper
In a medium-sized bowl, combine chicken, apple, celery, and walnuts. In a small bowl, combine mayonnaise, lime juice and honey; stir and blend well. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Spoon dressing over chicken salad and toss to coat. For an elegant luncheon serve on a bed of red leaf lettuce, with croissants.

CELERIED CHICKEN CASSEROLE

2 tbsp. vegetable oil
3 celery sticks, chopped
2 medium carrots, finely chopped
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. dried tarragon
3 c. chopped cooked chicken
1 c. sour cream
1 c. mayonnaise
1/4 c. dry white wine or water
1 c. sliced almonds, toasted
1/4 c. bread crumbs
1/4 c. grated Parmesan cheese
Preheat oven to 350°. In a medium sized frying pan, heat oil over medium heat. Add celery, carrots, onion, salt, and tarragon. Cook about 5 minutes, until carrots are crisp-tender. In a large bowl, combine chicken, sour cream, mayonnaise, wine, almonds, and sauteed vegetables. Mix well and spoon into a 2-quart buttered casserole. Combine bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese and sprinkle over top. Bake 30 minutes, until heated through and lightly browned on top.
Patricia A. McGuire

BAKED MACARONI AND CHEESE

1 box macaroni
1/2 stick butter
1/2 c. milk
1/2 lb. colby cheese or more if desired
Preheat oven to 375°. Make macaroni according to box. Drain. Mix butter and milk and put in a pan to cook in oven. Put cheese on top and bake for 10 to 20 minutes or until desired brown.
Dixie Tenant

BEEF ROAST AND VEGETABLES

1 chuck roast
1 lb. fresh carrots
6-8 potatoes
3-4 stalks celery
1 large onion
1 pkg. Adolph's stew mix
1 tsp. cooking oil
Place roast in preheated pressure cooker with cooking oil. Brown meat without lid. After browned, add stew mix and 2 cups water. Cook under pressure for 30 minutes. Clean potatoes, carrots, celery and onion and cut into large chunks. Place these in pressure cooker. Meat should be placed in small saucepan and kept warm. Cook vegetables under 15 pounds pressure for 15 minutes. Be careful when cooking under pressure. Steam must escape before lid can be removed.
Dorothy Osborne

SUPREME BURGERS

1 pound lean ground beef
1 jar Gerber beef baby food, (2nd Stage)
1/4 c. beef broth
1 small onion, diced
Mix all ingredients and let set in refrigerator for 1 hour. Mold into burgers and poke holes in patties. Place diced onions into the holes and fry until done.
Ruth Hamman

CONFETTI RICE

2 c. tomato juice
1 c. frozen mixed vegetables, broken apart
1 1/2 c. instant rice
1/8 tsp. pepper
Combine tomato juice and mixed vegetables in a medium saucepan. Bring to a boil. Stir in rice and pepper, cover. Turn off heat and allow to stand 6 minutes. Fluff with a fork. Makes 4 servings.

MOCK APPLE PIE

pastry for two crust 9-inch pie
36 Ritz Cracker, coarsely broken (about 1 3/4 c. crumbs)
2 c. water
2 c. sugar
2 tsp. cream of tartar
2 tbsp. lemon juice
Grated rind of one lemon
2 tsp. margarine
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
No Apples Needed
Roll out half the pastry and line a 9-inch pie plate. Place crackers in prepared crust. In saucepan, over high heat, heat water, sugar and cream of tartar to a boil, simmer for 15 minutes. Add lemon juice and rind; cool. Pour syrup over crackers. Dot with margarine; sprinkle with cinnamon. Roll out remaining pastry; place over pie. Trim, seal and flute edges. Slit top crust to allow steam to escape. Bake at 425° for 30 to 35 minutes or until crust is crisp and golden. Cool completely.

FRENCH TOAST STUFFED WITH BANANAS AND WALNUTS

6 eggs
1/4 cup milk
4 very ripe bananas
1/4 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1/8 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg
8 slices egg bread
4 tablespoons unsalted butter
confectioner's (icing) sugar, jam or pure maple syrup
In a large, shallow bowl, using a fork, beat the eggs until lightly frothy. Stir in the milk. Set aside. Peel the bananas into a small bowl and mash with a fork. Stir in the walnuts and nutmeg. Spread the banana-walnut mixture evenly over half the bread slices, leaving a 1/4-inch (6-mm) border uncovered on all edges. Top with the remaining bread slices and press down gently to seal.

Place 2 sandwiches in the egg mixture. Turn gently until evenly saturated on both sides. Remove from the bowl and repeat with the remaining 2 sandwiches.
In a frying pan or griddle large enough to hold all the sandwiches at once, melt 2 tablespoons of butter over medium heat. Add the sandwiches and fry until the undersides are golden brown, about 2 minutes. Add the remaining 2 tablespoons butter to the pan in several pieces, distributing evenly, then flip the sandwiches with a spatula and fry until the second sides are browned, about 2 minutes longer.

Place on warmed individual plates. Using a small fine-mesh sieve, lightly dust the tops with confectioners' sugar. Serve hot, with jam or maple syrup alongside.

Louis Armstrong

What a wonderful world. Louis Armstrong certainly thought the world was a wonderful place, and he said so in a very famous song.

Louis Armstrong was born in New Orleans on July 4, 1900. He is famous for his skill playing the trumpet and the cornet (a horn similar to the trumpet). Armstrong began playing music at the age of 13. When he was 22, he moved to Chicago, where he began to play a kind of music called jazz. Armstrong played on several records. He was one of the first black recording artists ever, and his records were very popular.

In 1925, Armstrong began his own band and recorded more jazz music. Jazz was popular all over the country, and in Chicago, where Armstrong lived, there were many jazz musicians. Armstrong traveled to Europe, and he appeared on radio, in films and on television. Eventually, he became very famous. Armstrong performed jazz until his death in 1971.

Tips for parents when children don't want to attend to school

For most children, going to school is an exciting, enjoyable experience. It's an opportunity to interact with friends, learn new skills and practice independence. But making sure your children are ready for school requires more than hitting the back-to-school sales for the latest clothes. Starting the school year can be a difficult adjustment for many children.

"The start of the school year is one of the most stressful times for kids, no matter what grade they are going into," says Debbie Thomas, R.N., child psychotherapist. "Parents need to understand this and help their children get prepared for the school year."

Some things you can do to help your child get ready for the school year include:

- Establish a school routine early. It generally takes a few weeks for kids to adjust to a different schedule, so make changes before the school year starts.

- Change bedtimes in advance. Research shows it takes two to three weeks to change children's sleeping patterns, so don't wait until the night before the first day of school. Make the change gradually.

- Ease your child's fears. If your child is starting a new school, take advantage of school tours to increase your child's comfort level with the new location.

- Review safety tips. Remind your child to follow all traffic markings, wear a helmet when riding a bike, look both ways before crossing the street, avoid strangers and stay seated on the school bus.

- Compliment your child. Prepare for the school year by acknowledging your child's growth since last year. Children look up and seek approval from their parents and a well-timed hug or word of praise can boost your child's confidence.

In many cases, however, a child's fear of going to school happens throughout the year and is not related to the school year jitters. For some children, the idea of going to school brings fear or panic that is beyond normal anxiety. The root of these problems may be more serious.

SEPARATION ANXIETY

If your child regularly "plays sick" to avoid going to school or if your child gets sick from tension about school, then it should be cause for concern. A child who frequently experiences anxiety about school may be suffering from a fear of leaving the safety of home. The child may complain of a headache, sore throat or stomachache shortly before time to leave for school or at some point during the school day. The "illness" subsides after the child is allowed to stay home or come home, only to reappear the next day.

Since the feelings of fear are caused by leaving home rather than being in school, the child usually gets better once in school. Parents should adopt a standard for school attendance, such as "no fever, no vomiting—go to school." The same standards should also be practiced for calls from school.

Refusal to go to school can begin following a period at home in which the child has had a different routine, such as a summer vacation, a holiday break or a brief illness. It also may follow a stressful occurrence, such as the death of a pet or relative, a change in schools, a move to a new neighborhood, or divorce of the child's parents.

If separation anxiety is the cause of your child's fear of school, you and your child can benefit from seeing a child or adolescent therapist. These fears can be difficult for parents to cope with, but in most cases, they can be dealt with successfully.

LEARNING DISABILITIES

During the school years, children undergo rapid growth—physically, mentally and emotionally. Difficulty in school can often be the first sign of a learning disability. Even children with normal or above normal intelligence can experience learning disabilities. Learning disabilities affect as many as 15 percent of otherwise able schoolchildren.

A child with a learning disability is often bright and initially tries very hard to follow instructions, concentrate and "be good" at both home and school. Yet despite these efforts, he or she is not mastering school tasks and falls behind. Children with undiagnosed learning disabilities frequently become angry and frustrated.

They often think or feel they are dumb and not as "good" as their peers. As a result, aggressive behavior, withdrawal or depression can occur. Many times children become the "class clown," disrupting other students and teachers at every opportunity. The acting out becomes a way of getting attention. Many children with learning disabilities would rather be "bad" than "stupid," so they misbehave to mask their weakness.

The most frequent signals of learning disabilities are:

- Difficulty understanding and following instructions
- Failing to master reading, writing, and/or math skills
- Difficulty distinguishing right from left and confusing numbers and letters, such as "b" from "d," "on" with "no," or 25 with 52
- Lack of coordination in walking, holding a pencil or tying a shoelace
- Frequently losing or misplacing homework, schoolbooks or other items
- Difficulty understanding the concept of time

The sooner a learning disability is detected the better. While there is no cure for learning disabilities, early treatment and special education can be very effective. There are no quick fixes, but children can learn to achieve and lead full lives despite their disability.

BULLIES

In some instances, a child may become uncomfortable with going to school because they are being bullied or intimidated by another child. Repeated verbal or physical abuse can make school, or the trip to and from school, a dreaded event. If you suspect bullying may be the source of your child's anxiety, talk with your child about the situation. Never just shrug it off when your child complains about being bullied. Being a victim can be damaging to a child's self-esteem.

Instead, use role playing to show your kids what they can say and how they say it when responding to a bully. It's also important for children to know its OK for them to alert an authority figure about ongoing bullying. Teachers, coaches or other parents can sometimes serve as a mediator. If a bully poses a physical danger to your children, immediately contact his or her parents and teachers to initiate appropriate intervention.

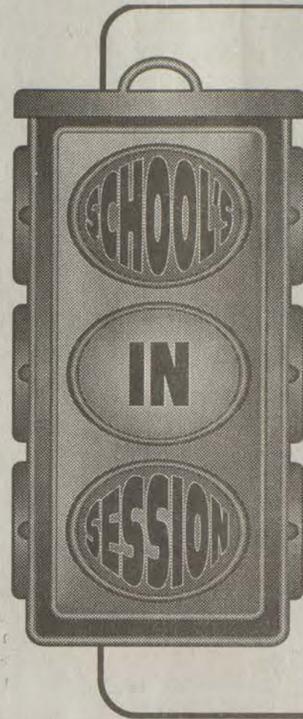

Whatever the reason your child is avoiding school, communication is the key to solving the underlying issue. Don't be afraid to ask for help from a professional. There are potential long-term effects for a child who has persistent fears about going to school. The child may develop educational or social problems if away from school and friends for an extended period. Your child's physician can refer you to a child or adolescent therapist, who will work with him or her in an effort to immediately return the child to school and other important daily activities.

For more information on keeping your child safe and healthy, contact Kosair Children's Hospital at (502) 629-KIDS or 1-800-852-1770, or write Kosair Children's Hospital, ATTN: Mailbox 59-4, P.O. Box 35070, Louisville, KY 40232-5070.

A message from the superintendent of the Floyd County Schools

The opening day of school will be August 13, 1997, for all Floyd County students. Parents, be sure to inform your children how important it is for them to get an education in this fast-changing world that we live in today. All subjects and courses are important, and they should do their very best in whatever area that their interest of work will be for the future.

PSA

GIVE SAFETY A Green Light.

School is in session, and before you can say, "red light, green light, one...two three," a child can dart out of nowhere, and get hurt.

Please be prepared to stop and exercise extra caution when driving near playgrounds and schools.

Please Drive Carefully.

Our Kids Are Depending On You.

Health, good taste go together when packing lunches

Children throughout many generations have adhered to the adage, "If it's good for me, I won't eat it!" But parents who want to pack a healthy lunch for students can conquer the naysayers and successfully combine good taste and good health.

Association. Along with a good breakfast, healthy lunches help a student learn at an optimum level.

It's a good idea for parents to understand the basics of a healthy diet for themselves as well as for their children—a diet that is low in fat, high in complex carbohydrates and full of fresh vegetables and fruits. Newspapers, magazines and countless books contain up-to-date information on nutrition. If you're unsure where to look, ask a health teacher or food service worker at your child's school.

Always pack a well balanced lunch that includes a serving from the breads and grains group, fruit and/or vegetable, and some protein. Become familiar with some of the newer low-fat versions of traditionally fat-filled foods and condiments like mayonnaise, cheese and lunch meats.

Make lunch more interesting by changing the kinds of bread you use. Try wheat one week and rye another; roll up sandwich filling in a flour tortilla; or fill a pita pocket. Stick to lower-fat sandwich fillings like turkey and chicken and tuna or egg salad with low-fat mayonnaise.

Get creative! Peanut butter with jelly is fine, but peanut butter with bananas, chopped apples or celery may be a welcome change.

Pack something crisp, something chewy and something with color.

Avoid packing too many sweets. Granola bars are not necessarily healthier than candy bars. Often, they contain just as much sugar and may be loaded with fat. Try muffins, oatmeal and raisin cookies, graham crackers and dried fruit for a change.

Instead of potato chips or a similar high-fat snack, try rice cakes, wheat crackers, plain popcorn, pretzels, trail mixes, and dry cereal mixes.

Remember that small kids have small appetites and don't eat as much as we sometimes think they should.

It's extremely important to keep cold foods cold and hot foods hot to prevent bacteria from accumulating. Use insulated bags, vacuum bottles, thermoses and blue ice packages. Freeze small boxes of juice overnight; they thaw during the day while keeping lunches cold. (Put the juice box in a plastic bag first.)

Liven up your child's lunch with surprises that aren't sweet treats. Kids love little notes of encouragement, funny drawings and short poems.

Keep in mind that children's tastes may change, especially if they are between the ages of three and seven. That's when kids begin to assert themselves. Children have more sensitive taste buds than adults and can taste off-flavors. They also may dislike a food if a friend says the food tastes bad or if they simply get bored with it. Be patient and respect your child's likes and dislikes.

Don't pack the same meal each day. If you make a turkey sandwich every day, your child may grow accustomed to it and refuse to eat anything else for lunch.

Introduce a new food a couple of days every week for a few weeks.

Don't give up if you find that your child dislikes certain food; perhaps he or she would prefer it in another form.

Kimbler receives scholarship

Morehead State University has announced that John Bradley Kimbler of Dana is among those students receiving a Regional Honors II Scholarship for the fall semester.

Kimble, the son of Larry and Sherry Kimbler, is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School. Graduating with honors, he was senior class president and a member of the National Honor Society, Beta Club and Coed-Y. He has been a volunteer at hospitals, nursing homes and senior citizen centers.

To be eligible for the Regional Honors II Scholarship, applicants must be admitted to MSU as an entering freshman or transfer student; be a high school graduate within MSU's Kentucky service region or have completed at least 60 hours at a community college in the service region; be recommended by high school or community college; be the second highest ranking academic achiever coming to MSU from that high school or community college and have a 3.50 high school grade point average (on a 4.00 scale) based on seven semesters of work, while transfer students must have a cumulative 3.50 g.p.a.

The scholarship, valued at $2,400 per year, is renewable for three academic years if a 3.00 g.p.a. is maintained during each of the first two semesters and a minimum cumulative 3.25 g.p.a. for each semester thereafter. Transfer students must maintain a cumulative 3.25 g.p.a.

Applications and information on scholarships and grant programs at MSU are available from the Office of Admissions, MSU, Morehead, KY 40351-1689. The toll-free number is 800 585-MSU1 (6781).

Good study habits can help in work

Good study habits are not just essential to help students do well in school, but can also add to their success as adults in the working world, notes the Kentucky Education Association.

"Establishing study skills early in a child's school year helps teach them discipline and dedication to task," says KEA President Janet Carrico. "Learning how to concentrate and complete their work can reap lifelong benefits."

Follow these steps to build positive study habits in your child.

Establish rules in your home that make studying mandatory. For example, designate a period early in the evening just for studying and make sure your child follows through with it.

"I don't have any homework," shouldn't be an excuse; there's always something to read, even if it's something "non-school" like the newspaper.

Give your child a quiet place to study where there is no television, music or other kinds of distractions. This helps your child concentrate on the task at hand.

Provide your child with a comfortable work place. Make sure there is plenty of desk space on which to work and enough room to place books and other study materials. Check that the work place is well lit. Poor lighting causes unnecessary squinting, which may lead to headaches and eye strain.

It may not be productive for your child to hit the books immediately after returning home from a long day of school. Allow some free time before studying.

Stimulate learning by encouraging and praising your child's good performance. Children will strive to do better when successful efforts are recognized.

Learning should be a reward in itself. Little notes of praise, hugs, smiles and even a pat on the back for small achievements motivate students to continue working hard.

Students shouldn't expect expensive rewards when they get good grades. However, don't hesitate to give rewards that enhance learning, such as a trip to the zoo, a night at the movies, or a gift certificate from a book store.

Be available to help when your child has difficulty with homework assignments. Try not to wait too late in the evening when you and your child may be tired or frustrated.

Finally, get involved in your child's learning. Sit down every evening and talk about what is going on at school.

Your child's learning experience is important and something you can share, too.

Vaccine requirement changes for children may surprise some parents

Changes in vaccine regulations for children starting day care, pre-school or school this fall may surprise some parents who haven't kept up with these requirements. Up-to-date immunization certificates, including the additional shots, and medical exams are required for children to enroll in these facilities, health officials warn.

State regulations now require that children receive measles-mumps-rubella (MMR), diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis (DTP or DTaP), polio, Haemophilus influenzae type b, and hepatitis B vaccines as recommended for their age before they attend day care, pre-school, school or other facilities that care for children in Kentucky. A statute passed by the 1996 General Assembly added mumps, Haemophilus influenzae b, and hepatitis B to the list of required immunizations. State regulations also require that children receive second dose measles vaccine before entering school.

The new requirements are in effect now, except for hepatitis B, which takes effect in 1998 and applies to children born on or after Oct. 1, 1992. Children also must have proof that they have received a tuberculosis skin test within 18 months prior to enrollment to enroll in school.

"Getting all these vaccines protects our children," said Rice Leach, M.D., commissioner of the Kentucky Department for Public Health. "They stop communicable diseases that are a nuisance to everyone and fatal to some."

By entry into sixth grade, Kentucky children must have a valid immunization certificate that shows to MMR vaccines and physical exam within one year of beginning sixth grade.

"The changes may be confusing to two parents, so if you have questions about your child's immunizations, you should talk to your doctor or your local health department," said Clarkson Palmer, M.D., communicable disease branch manager in the Department for Public Health.

"Parents needing shots, TB skin tests or physical exams for their children should contact their private physician or local health department for an appointment as soon as possible because school enrollment is just around the corner. These health professionals can also provide parents with the certificates necessary for school enrollment."

Palmer stressed that children must receive the full series of shots to be fully immunized. Most childhood immunizations should be done by a child's second birthday but school, preschool or child care enrollment is the first opportunity for state officials to enforce it.

"Parents sometimes begin the immunizations on schedule but do not complete them and that leaves children vulnerable to serious, even life-threatening diseases," he said.

Guidelines for school nutrition released

The Kentucky Department of Education recently released the 1997-1998 income and household size criteria for school lunch program eligibility. The new schedule replaces the 1996-1997 criteria. Each year the federal government revises guidelines for districts to follow when implementing free and reduced-price meal programs. Children from households whose income is at or below specific levels are eligible for free or reduced-price meals. All school districts offer free and reduced-price meals to students from eligible families.

Studies show that children who eat breakfast and lunch have better attendance rates, longer attention spans and improved academic performance.

School districts participating in the National School Lunch or School Breakfast program will send application forms to students' homes for parents or guardians to fill out and return. District officials review applications and determine eligibility. Additional forms are available at the principal's office in each school and may be submitted at any time during the year. Parents may call the superintendent's office in their district for more information and application forms.

The 1997-1998 household size and income criteria for determining eligibility are:

Household Size	Free Meals		Reduced Price Meals
	If Family Income Is		If Family Income Is
1	0 to $10,257	0 to $10,257	$10,258 to $14,597	$10,258 to $14,597
2	0 to $13,793	0 to $13,793	$13,794 to $19,629	$13,794 to $19,629
3	0 to $17,329	0 to $17,329	$17,330 to $24,661	$17,330 to $24,661
4	0 to $20,865	0 to $20,865	$20,866 to $29,693	$20,866 to $29,693
5	0 to $24,401	0 to $24,401	$24,402 to $34,725	$24,402 to $34,725
6	0 to $27,937	0 to $27,937	$27,938 to $39,757	$27,938 to $39,757
7	0 to $31,473	0 to $31,473	$31,474 to $44,789	$31,474 to $44,789
8	0 to $35,009	0 to $35,009	$35,010 to $49,821	$35,010 to $49,821

For each additional household member, add $3,536 per year to the income level for free meals and $5,032 to the income for reduced price meals.

To be considered the application must include:
 • Child's name
 • Food stamp or Kentucky Transitional Assistance Program (K-TAP) case number

• Amount of family income and number of members of household if not receiving food stamps or K-TAP
 • Signature of an adult household member verifying information

The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility and verifying data.

Details are available from Paul McElwain, Division of School and Community Nutrition, 500 Mero Street, Frankfort, KY 40601; phone (502) 573-4390.

In the operation of child nutrition programs, no child shall be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, national origin, age, religion or disability. Anyone who believes he or she has been discriminated against should write to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Is Your Child Ready For School?

State law requires all students to have certain records on file at school.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS:

Pre-School and Kindergarten (3-year-old special needs, 4-year-old special needs and income eligible)

1. Children attending kindergarten must be 5 years old by October 1, 1997.
2. Must have an official birth certificate. (Must be full-size.)
3. Valid Kentucky immunization certificate.
4. Medical examination (KDE approved form 1671-410).
5. Tuberculin Test Certificate (CH-91A).
6. NEW REQUIREMENT: All Kindergarten enrollees and 4-year-old children attending pre-school must have a second dose of MMR (Measles, Mumps and Rubella) immunization before entering school.

These items must be completed and the proper certificate for each item submitted to the school principal on the opening day of school.

6th Grade

1. A second dose of MMR (Measles, Mumps and Rubella) immunization. (Immunization certificate must list all shot dates.)
2. A physical examination.

High School

TD (tetanus and diphtheria) vaccination needed in high school when immunization certificate has expired.

The Floyd County Health Department will take walk-ins for immunization Monday thru Friday, August 11-15, 7:30-4:30 p.m. for school children only. These services may also be provided by your private doctor.

For more information, call 886-2788

Students who fail to meet these requirements cannot be allowed to enroll in school or begin classes.

Bus safety tips offered to protect student riders

Most Kentucky students will ride school buses this year. Parents can help avoid tragedies by taking these few simple steps offered by the Kentucky Education Association to educate children about bus safety rules.

Parents should teach children to stand well back from the road at the bus stop, to always remain seated while the bus is in motion, and to keep head and arms inside the bus.

If children must cross the street to board the bus, demonstrate how to stop, look and then walk across the street after the bus driver has signaled it is safe.

Create identification tags for young children to wear on carry. Include the child's full name, address, telephone number, school's name and bus stop.

If possible, meet your child at the bus stop after school.

"This is especially important for kindergartners because they get very scared when they forget which stop to get off after the first day of school," says KEA President Janet Carrico. "If they don't know their bus stop, they may get off at the wrong stop and get lost. This can be very traumatizing."

If possible, arrange to have a parent in the neighborhood meet all kids at the stop to see that they're returning home safely.

School should be top priority for students who are working

More than 70 percent of teenage students work for pay sometime during their high school years, but too many of those students work long hours that can interfere with their education.

"Work can be beneficial for students and their families," says Janet Carrico, president of the Kentucky Education Association. "It can help young people learn punctuality, reliability and job skills that will be useful during their working lives."

"Some students earn income needed to help their family or to pay for higher education."

Parents should be involved in their children's choice of a job and help them determine how much time to devote to it.

Some employers may exploit young people or push the limit of state and federal child labor laws, so it's a good idea for parents to become familiar with the basics of what the laws do and do not allow.

Visit your child's work site. Does it appear to be a safe place for young people to work?

Are the supervisors and co-workers appropriate role models?

Talk to your child about the job and encourage discussion of work-related incidents—amusing ones as well as problems.

Monitor your child's work hours. Make sure your child is getting enough sleep to perform job duties and keep up with school work. Also, be sure there is enough time for sports and recreation.

"Parents of working students should stay in close contact with their teachers to make sure the job is not having a negative effect on academic performance or classroom behavior," Carrico recommends.

"Working together, the parent and teacher can help the student balance the demands of school and job."

Finally, encourage children to ask questions and listen with interest. With a little time and effort, you can help ensure a safe school experience for your child.

Alicia Hall

Hall receives Alumni Award

Morehead State University has announced that Alicia Hall of Wheelwright, is among those receiving an Alumni Award and the Leadership Award for the fall semester.

Hall, the daughter of Jerry and Barbara Hall, graduated with honors from South Floyd High School. Listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students," she was a member of the Beta Club.

To be eligible for the Alumni Award, at least one of the applicant's parents must be an MSU alumnus and an active member of the MSU Alumni Association. The student must be admitted to MSU as an entering freshman or transfer student and have an Admission Index of at least 500; while transfer students must have a 3.00 grade point average (on a 4.00 scale) for the equivalent of at least one full term.

The scholarship, valued at $750 per year, is renewable for three academic years if a 2.75 g.p.a. is maintained during each of the first two semesters and a minimum cumulative 3.00 g.p.a. for each semester thereafter.

To be eligible for the Leadership Award, applicants must be admitted to MSU as an entering freshman; have exhibited strong leadership and achievement capabilities through school and community activities; and have a 2.50 grade point average (on a 4.00 scale) based on seven semesters of work.

The scholarship, valued at $650 per year, is renewable for three years if a 2.50 g.p.a. is maintained during the freshman year and each semester thereafter.

Lisa Little

Little is national award winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Lisa Michelle Little has been named a United States National Award winner in history and government.

Lisa, who attends Happy Valley Middle School, was nominated for this national award by Kent Wilson, a social studies teacher at the school.

She will appear in the All-American Scholar Yearbook, which is published nationally.

At the school's recent awards ceremony, Lisa received awards for maintaining an A average for the year in reading, English, social studies, math and science. She also received a student council award.

Lisa is the daughter of Michael and Serena Layne Little, Johnson City, Tennessee.

She is the granddaughter of Hubert and Hester Layne, formerly of Tram, now residing in Elizabethton, Tennessee, and the late Frank and Carolyn Little.

Greta Halbert, of Allen Central High School, received a $500 scholarship from Prestonsburg Rotary Club on June 12. Greta is the daughter of Greg and Belinda Halbert of Langley. She plans to attend Eastern Kentucky University in the fall.

Safety lessons for going back-to-school this year

With the carefree days of summer coming to an end and fall quickly approaching, many parents and children begin to have mixed feelings about the back-to-school season. Before your child goes back to school or begins for the first time, parents need to teach or review some important safety guidelines.

"Each back-to-school season, it's important for parents and children to review back-to-school safety," said Erika Kravic, R.N., of Kosair Children's Hospital Office of Child Advocacy. "Awareness is a big part of the answer. Parents need to make sure their children are prepared in every way to return to school—including knowing and following safety rules."

Kosair Children's Hospital recommends the following safety guidelines to help prevent injuries during the back-to-school season.

SCHOOL BUS SAFETY

- Plan for children to be at the bus stop at least five minutes before the bus arrives. While waiting, they should stay out of the street and avoid horseplay.
- Always pick up children on the same side of the street as the school bus loading/unloading zone.

- Teach children to cross the street at least 10 feet in front of the bus. A blind spot extends that far in front of the bus, obstructing the view of the driver.

- Children getting on or off the bus should walk single file, use the handrails and wait until the bus comes to a complete stop before exiting.

- While on the bus, children should remain seated at all times, keeping heads and arms inside the bus and aisles clear.

- Children should not distract the bus driver by throwing objects or shouting.

PEDESTRIAN SAFETY

- Make sure children look in all directions before crossing the street. Look left, right, and left again. Always cross at a corner or crosswalk.

- Choose the safest and most direct route. Require your children to take the same route each day and avoid short-cuts.

- Teach children the meaning of all traffic signals and how to safely obey them. A walk signal means the pedestrian has permission to cross, but they should stop and check for cars before proceeding.

- Teach children not to enter the street from between parked cars or

RIDING A BICYCLE TO SCHOOL

- Children riding a bike to school should wear a helmet every time they ride.

- Choose a safe cycling route with as little fast-moving traffic as possible. A safe cycling route may not be the same as a safe walking route.

- Teach children the rules of the road that apply to all vehicles, including bicycles.

- Make sure your child's school provides cyclists with safe areas for parking.

DRIVING YOUR CHILD TO SCHOOL

- Every person in the vehicle should wear a safety belt. Do not carry more passengers than there are safety belts in your car.

- Arrange to pick up children at a safe spot away from the congestion of other cars. Drop off and pick up children as close to school as possible so they don't have to cross the street. Make sure they enter and exit the car on the curb side.

- There should be no loose or heavy objects in the passenger area of the car that could slide or become airborne and injure someone if you stop suddenly.

- The driver should allow plenty of travel time in the schedule to avoid driving too fast when running late.

By following these simple safety tips, your children will have a safer and happier school year. For more information on back-to-school safety, call Kosair Children Hospital at 502-629-KIDS (5437), or write to the Office of Child Advocacy, P.O. Box 35070, Mailbox 59-4, Louisville, KY 40232-5070.

Precautions help ensure children's health and safety

A healthy mind demands a healthy body, stresses the Kentucky Education Association, which offers the following tips for ensuring children's health and safety.

Good health is essential to good learning, so be sure your child has regular, necessary care from a physician and dentist.

Follow through on eye and ear screenings and routine immunizations. Any condition of a serious nature should be reported to the school.

Emphasize personal hygiene and cleanliness. Diet—especially a nutritious breakfast to start off the day—is of prime importance.

Consult your child's physical education teacher concerning physical development and coordination and how you may assist.

See to it that your child has enough sleep each night and is dressed properly for the weather. The child should stay home from school if you notice definite signs of illness such as fever, suspicious rash or severe cough. Send a note to explain the absence when the child returns to school.

Be alert for signs of poor vision, such as squinting, frowning or red, watery eyes. Faulty hearing can be indicated by ear aches, chronic inat-ention or frequent requests that statements be repeated.

Encourage the habit of vigorous daily activity. The best way to do this is to participate yourself. Active play builds strong muscles, which are basic to good health and posture. Join your child in active games and stress good sportsmanship. Encourage participating in creative activities and individual team sports.

Teach your children their full names, address and telephone number at an early age. Select the safest, most direct walking route to school and check to see that your child uses it. Explain any traffic hazards along the way.

Teach your child to stop at the curb or at the side of the road; to look in both directions to be sure there is no traffic or that traffic has stopped before crossing; to walk across the road in the crosswalk; and to obey a student patrol or adult crossing guard. Warn your child never to get in a car or accept a ride with a stranger.

If your child rides a bicycle to school, be sure the child knows and obeys bicycle laws and wears a helmet. Check the bike frequently to be sure the brakes are working properly and that the handlebars and seat are not loose.

From the moment a newborn child is placed into a parent's arms, that child is ready and eager to learn.

"You, the parent, are your child's first and most important teacher," emphasizes Janet Carrico, president of the Kentucky Education Association. "The time you spend with your children at home, and the activities you engage in together, have a direct effect on their success in school."

Here are some tips from KEA for nurturing the learning instinct in even the very youngest children.

Begin talking to your child from infancy. Make sounds, call attention to sounds and connect them with objects and events. Explain activities as you perform them.

Play listening games. A good bedtime game is to listen quietly and identify as many sounds as possible—heartbeats, breathing, barking dogs, traffic, a ticking clock, etc. Listening attentively is essential in learning.

When your child presents you with a crayon-scribbled masterpiece, instead of asking, "What is it?" say, "This is beautiful. Tell me about it." When your child first begins to write, compliment the squiggle writing and ask your child to read it to you.

Help develop your child's listening skills by playing a game in which you say a series of words and your child has to repeat them to you in the same order.

Tara Lynn Johnson

Johnson receives Governor's Scholar Award

Morehead State University has announced that Tara Lynn Johnson of Pikeville, is among those receiving the Kentucky Governor's Scholar Award and the Presidential Scholarship for the fall semester.

Johnson, the daughter of Lynn and Carolyn Johnson, is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School. Valedictorian of her class, she was active in the National Honor Society and Beta Club. She was a volunteer at nursing homes, senior citizen centers, and hospitals.

Students who successfully complete the Kentucky Governor's Scholars Program are automatically eligible for the Governor's Scholar Award. The scholarship, which pays for the tuition costs for entering freshman, is renewable for three years if the student maintains a minimum cumulative 3.00 grade-point average during each of the first two semesters and a minimum cumulative 3.25 g.p.a. for each semester thereafter.

To be eligible for the Presidential Scholarship, applicants must be admitted to MSU as an entering freshman, have a 3.75 g.p.a. (on a 4.00 scale) based on seven semesters of work and have a composite ACT score of 28.

The award, valued at $3,600 per year, is renewable for three academic years if a 3.25 g.p.a. is maintained during each of the first two semesters and a minimum cumulative 3.50 g.p.a. for each semester thereafter.

Free educational resource on web

(NAPS)—If you are an educator looking for ways to engage your students creatively, connect with other like-minded professionals or advance your career, a unique World Wide Web site is now available. This free educator's resource and Internet search engine is called "Education World" and can be found at www.education-world.com.

Education World is designed especially for teachers, students, administrators and parents. With more than 35,000 links to education related sites, Education World is the largest education-specific search engine on the Internet.

Education World also offers forums where teachers can share ideas and information, an advice column with contributions from the country's leading education experts, links to government resource materials and reviews of other educational web sites.

At a glance, teachers can use Education World to bone-up on current events, review employment listings, check library listings and even review sample lesson plans and curriculum materials.

Education World can also be used by teachers as a tool in the classroom. From Education World students can do research, explore careers, find homework guides, play educational games and visit other students' home pages.

Libby Adams, an elementary computer teacher from Kansas City, suggests that Education World is a real "time-saver" for students and educators. "The search engine is great because you don't have to start from scratch every time you search." Libby also uses Education World to teach her students about the Internet. "Education World is a 'safe site' for students. It keeps out the things that are not appropriate for them to see in school."

Education World features an ongoing contest for "Cool School of the Week." The Education World staff receives nominations by e-mail from teachers and students and evaluates school web sites from across the country. Winning schools are presented an award and featured on a special page on the Education World site.

The site is sponsored by American Fidelity Assurance Company, whose specialty is developing benefit and retirement plans for educators. For more information on American Fidelity or Education World, please contact Dean Davison or Michelle Manuel at (816) 842-1500.

Rhiannon Hedrick

Holbrook receives MSU award

Morehead State University has announced that Rhiannon Carol Hedrick of Prestonsburg, is among those students receiving a Morehead State University award for the fall semester.

Hedrick, the daughter of Bill and Debbie Hedrick, is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School. Listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students, she earned a 4.192 grade point average and was treasurer of the National Honor Society. She was field commander for the PHS Marching Band and a member of the Honor Choir.

To be eligible for the Morehead State University Award, applicants must be admitted to MSU as an entering freshman or transfer student and have an Admissions Index of 550; transfer students must have a cumulative 3.00 grade point average (on a 4.00 scale) for the equivalent of at least one full term.

The scholarship, valued at $1,200 per year, is renewable for three academic years if a 2.75 g.p.a. is maintained during each of the first two semesters and a minimum cumulative 3.00 g.p.a. for each semester thereafter. Transfer students must maintain a cumulative 3.00 g.p.a.

Applications and information on scholarships and grant programs at MSU are available from the Office of Admissions, MSU, Morehead, KY 40351-1689. The toll-free number is 800 585-MSU1 (6781).

College can help you decide on field of study

by Jack Culross

There's nothing at all wrong, or unusual, about starting college without knowing what you want to study.

Sooner or later, students tell themselves, they'll know. It's just a matter of time.

If you are one of those undecided, to some extent you're right. There is no magic formula for choosing a field of study, and you don't have to choose a field of study your first two years. There are, however, a number of things you can do to narrow down the seemingly endless list of possibilities, and a number of resources at a college or university to help you reach a decision that matches your aptitude and abilities.

First, find out all you can about the job market. This includes projects about jobs that will be needed in the future. You can usually obtain job market information from the career services office on your campus. Magazines focusing on financial issues often contain articles about where the job market is heading as well.

Then, take some time to think about your access to that job market. Will jobs be available where you want to live after graduation? Or are you willing to relocate wherever you might be offered a desirable position?

The question of location is a question of value. There are lots of other personal values besides location, and you need to spend time deciding which ones are important to you.

Among frequently cited personal values are money, having responsibility, not having responsibility, having free time to spend with family, keeping busy, having stature in the community, helping others, having power and authority over others, traveling, having a clearly defined set of tasks to perform, constantly facing new problems, etc.

To take an obvious example, some people do not want a great deal of responsibility for things.

They want to leave the responsibility to others. Such people should probably not aim to be CEOs of major companies.

Conversely, if money and responsibility are important to you, then being a CEO might serve very well.

Another consideration, and closely related to values, is what you like and do not like to do. Some people like to work with their hands and make things. Others like working with people. Still others prefer working with data and information.

Each of these preferences suggests some appropriate and some inappropriate majors. For example, if you like making things with your hands, then a field of study leading to a desk job may not be the right one for you.

Consider your academic interests. What subjects did you like in school? Which ones didn't you care for? This kind of self-evaluation can tell you a great deal about the appropriateness of certain majors. If you really like chemistry, for example, then pharmacy might be a wise career choice.

Finally, remember to use the resources available to you at your school. If you're a high school student, talk to your school guidance counselor now. Once on campus, talk to professors about their fields, about what people in those fields do and what the job market for them is.

A campus career services office can help you select a field of study, and can assist you with the use of career guidance software.

Sample majors you think you might like by taking introductory courses in the discipline as electives or as general education. Taking the first course taken by nursing majors might help you decide if nursing might be the right profession for you.

And whatever else you do, don't just sit and wait for the inspiration.

Editor's Note: Dr. Jack Culross is the dean of undergraduate studies at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond.

Scholarship offered to 28 students nationwide

A scholarship program sponsored by JCPenney will offer students across the nation a chance to follow their educational dreams. The Original Arizona Jean Company® Scholarship Program, administered by JCPenney and Citizens' Scholarship Foundation® of America, will award 28 $5,000 scholarships to students ages 13 to 21 nationwide.

The scholarship recipients will be chosen from five geographic areas. Scholarships will be awarded to 14 young women and 14 young men from age 13 to 21.

The $140,000 in scholarship funds represents JCPenney's ongoing commitment to education, volunteerism, and community service. Scholarship to recipients will be chosen on the basis of academic potential, community service, work experience, and special talents. Citizens' Scholarship Foundation® of America is a national non-profit educational support and student aid service organization. CSFA seeks to involve and assist the private sector in expanding educational opportunities and encouraging educational achievement. Awards are granted without regard to race, color, creed, religion, disability, or national origin.

Students interested in applying for the scholarship, should go to the JCPenney store at Weddington Plaza, Pikeville, and visit the Juniors or Young Men's Department or send a request for an application to JCPenney Arizona Scholarship, P.O. Box 10001, Dallas, TX 75301-4302. Applications must be returned in person or by mail to a JCPenney store by September 30.

Financial assistance makes college affordable

by Susan Luhman

Higher education is affordable.

If you would like to continue your education beyond high school but are worried about the costs, read on. If you're an adult learner considering a return to school, but don't know how you'll reconcile that with home and family obligations, read on.

With the rising cost of education, few students can pay for everything. Financial assistance, however, can help you meet the cost of attending the college or university of your choice. And it's easier to obtain than you might think.

Financial assistance can take many forms: grants, loans, campus employment scholarships and entitlements.

Grants, which range from about $400 to approximately $2,700, are generally free monies for which a student can apply. In addition, most schools offer several attractive loan programs.

Most schools have two types of work programs — the federal work-study and institutional. Schools that offer both programs hire you to work on campus, paying minimum wages every two weeks. The wide variety of jobs ensure you can find one that fits with your class schedule.

You can also apply for a variety of scholarships. Some are based on high school grades and ACT scores. Others are awarded for a particular talent you may have—music, athletic, etc. For more information about scholarships, you should contact your school's guidance counselor or the college or university you plan to attend.

Entitlement funds come from sources such as the Vocational Rehabilitation Agency, Veterans Administration and Jobs Training Program Act, to name a few. Likewise, for more information, see your counselor or contact the school you are planning to attend.

How do you apply for these programs? To apply for grants, loans or the federal workstudy program, all you need to do is complete a Free Application for Federal Aid (FAFSA). This is the one application you must complete regardless of what type of school you plan to attend—four-year public school, a Kentucky Tech school, community college, private college, etc. Contact the school of your choice to see if they have any other forms to complete. Some schools, in addition to the Free Application for Federal Student Aid, may ask that you complete an institutional form.

How much will college cost? Well, that will vary from campus to campus. At EKV, annual tuition is about $1,900. Additional expenses include housing, textbooks, supplies and food.

Just keep in mind that there is money available to further your education. Not everyone can receive a scholarship or grant, but everyone can qualify for a low-interest educational loan. See your counselor and/or contact the school of your choice for information about application deadlines. Keep a financial aid folder for all your related papers. If you follow this advice, you CAN receive financial assistance.

Whatever route you take, at whatever the college or university, rest assured that you're making a wise investment, one that will continue to pay big dividends, both in increased earning power and quality of life.

Editor's Note: Susan Luhman is director of student financial assistance at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond.

Choosing the right college is an important decision

by Les Grigsby

Are you about to graduate from high school and wondering what to do with your life?

Should you get a job, join the armed forces, go to a vocational-technical school, or enroll in a college or university? How do you know what is the best decision for you and, if you decide to enroll in a college or university, where do you start?

In our culture, graduation from high school is considered a rite of passage. You are now an adult, no longer an adolescent. Yet you have your whole life in front of you and are now confronted with myriad choices. The first decision you have to make is what will you do with your life after you graduate from high school. Those decisions are best made by consulting your high school counselor, parents, extended family members and perhaps others who have had an impact on your life: teachers, ministers and friends.

Or maybe you're an adult learner, ready to join the growing number of non-traditional students at Kentucky's colleges or universities.

Whatever the case, if you opt to enroll in a college or university, you have more decisions to make. Can I afford college, what will I major in, and how do I begin?

People will spend months considering the purchase of a new car. They visit dealers and look at all the options and consider how they will pay for the car. The purchase of a car is an important decision, to be sure, but the college decision-making process has lifelong implications and should be considered with great care.

A college education is important, and choosing the right college or university is equally important. In Kentucky, rest assured your investment will be dollars well spent and will pay big dividends, both in increased earning power and in quality of life.

Before you begin looking at brochures and catalogues, give some thought to these factors: location of the college or university, size of the institution, program or degree offerings, and cost. Ask yourself these questions:

How far away from home do I want to go?

Do I want to attend a large university or a small college?

Does the school have the program(s) that I want?

Can I afford the cost of tuition and fees, residence halls, food and books?

Most of these questions can be answered by consulting the college(s) that interest you or your high school counselor. Counselors receive information from schools across the country or can obtain much of this information for you.

Many colleges and universities of all sizes are producing or having produced CD-ROMS, compact discs that run on desktop computers. These CD-ROM programs are almost like a movie and can depict the campus in photographs as well as video.

Colleges and universities are also using the Internet. If you have Internet access, take a look at the various Web sites. If you want to search for a particular institution, use one of the many search engines. In some cases you can interactively request information directly from the college or university in which you're interested. Many have interactive applications for admission which allow you to apply over the Internet.

However, nothing can take the place of a visit to the campus of the college or university. Do not enroll in an institution that you have not visited. Colleges and universities are like people; they have personalities and we sometimes see students and colleges where the fit is not very good. Only by visiting the campus can you have some idea of what the place is like. Pictures in a book are nice, but you need to see the place first-hand. Most schools have toll-free numbers that you can call and make an appointment. You should visit the admissions office, tour the campus and talk to some of the students about what they think about the school. If time permits, stay overnight in a residence hall. It is important to observe the campus during class hours as well as after class hours.

Above all, do not make a snap decision to decide to go where your best friend is going, or your girlfriend or boyfriend. This is a critical decision in your life. Make it a good one and make that decision based on good information. Visit as many colleges and universities as you can. By doing this, you will be acquire a better idea what sets colleges and universities apart.

Editor's Note: Les Grigsby is the director of admissions at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond.

Yeary receives Presidential Scholarship for fall semester

Morehead State University has announced that Trina Nichole Yeary of Dwale is among those students receiving a Presidential Scholarship for the fall semester.

Yeary, the daughter of H.C. Yeary and the late Jouette Yeary, is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School. Listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students," she was a member of the National Honor Society and nominated as a Governor's Scholar.

To be eligible for the Presidential Scholarship, applicants must be admitted to MSU as an entering freshman, have at least a 3.75 high school grade point average (on a 4.00 scale) based on seven semesters of work, and have a composite ACT score of 28.

The award, valued at $3,600 per year, is renewable for three academic years if a 3.25 g.p.a. is maintained during the first two semesters and a minimum cumulative 3.50 g.p.a. for each semester thereafter.

PBL Chapter attends national conference

Members of the PBL Chapter at Pikeville College recently attended the Phi Beta Lambda National Leadership Conference in Anaheim, California. Pikeville College students Vanis Bevins, Charles Epling, David Jewell, Crystal Jones, Tiffany Miller, Frankie Stacy, Melissa Williams, Jimmy Woods, and advisor Howard Roberts, joined more than 2,000 other PBL members to compete in business and career skills events, elect national officers, and attend business and leadership training workshops at the 46th annual conference.

The team of Bevins, Stacy and Williams competed in "Business Decision Making" which included a written exam and oral presentation. Other team members who competed were Epling in "Human Resource Management" and Jewell in "Finance."

On behalf of the Pikeville chapter, Miller accepted the Guy and Kitty Hollis Gold Seal Chapter Award, given to those chapters whose activities throughout the year are deemed outstanding. In appreciation of his untiring efforts, significant contributions, interest, and support of students preparing for careers in business, chapter advisor Roberts received the Adviser Service Recognition Award.

This year's conference theme, "Spotlight on the Stars," reflected the locale in Southern California and focused on the members, some of the best and brightest of today's young people. Conference highlights included Linetta Wilson, gold medallist at the 1996 Olympics; Robert Danzig, vice-president of the Hearst Corporation; and Dr. Edward Miller, the association's president/CEO and a former teacher and member himself.

In addition to attending workshops and training sessions, the Pikeville delegation had the opportunity to visit and tour several local attractions including the San Diego Bay, San Juan Capistrano, Hollywood Walk of Stars, Groman's Chinese Theater, Beverly Hills Rodeo Drive, and a brief trip to Tijuana, Mexico.

Parent and child activities offer fun ways to learn math

Introducing children to numbers and mathematics can be as easy as taking a trip to the grocery store, baking a cake or planting flowers in the garden. The Kentucky Education Association recommends these tips for turning everyday activities into fun math learning experiences between parents and children.

Bingo, dominoes, toy telephones, card games, board games, calendars, clocks with large numbers and lots of other things in your household will help familiarize your child with the world of numbers.

Put your preschooler's counting ability to work. In preparation for meals, let the child count out forks of the table, the number of vegetables you put in the salad, etc.

Mention the sizes of containers, such as half-gallons of milk and liters of soft drinks. Encourage help when you bake, lay carpet, tile or plant seeds in the garden. Allow your child to measure ingredients, areas or quantities of material. Think about using metric measurements, too.

Shopping trips are great math lessons. Have your child read newspaper ads and price the cost of items you plan to buy. Encourage comparison of prices and quantities marked on containers to determine the best buy. Allow your child to buy an item and figure out the change. Children can double check their addition on grocery tapes.

Before a trip, figure gas purchase and mileage, toll and other trip expenses.

College students learn skills for careers

by Art Harvey

High school students and adult learners alike have many reasons for pursuing a college education.

For most students, the number one reason is to prepare for a successful career. College students can greatly enhance their ability to compete for that first job by taking some important steps to ensure that they have the skills and experience that employers seek.

Students should contact their college career services office early in their freshman year. Career services professionals serve as a link between the campus and the employers who recruit students for internships and cooperative education experiences, and graduates for full-time employment. The career planning professionals know what skills employers desire in students and graduates.

Employers look for certain skills in their prospective employees. In addition to academic preparation, the college experience can prepare students for life by helping them develop the skills employers seek.

Students who take advantage of the numerous opportunities to develop these sought-after skills will make themselves more competitive in the job market throughout their careers.

What skills do an employer look for in a prospective employee?

Communications Skills. Employers stress that they need employees who can communicate effectively with co-workers, supervisors, clients, and customers. These necessary skills include writing, speaking and listening. Strong skills in these areas will not only serve students well while they are seeking employment, but also can have a very positive impact on their career. A university campus provides many opportunities to work on communication skills, including specific classes, active involvement in student organizations, and individual assistance from advisers and counselors.

Teamwork Skills. Many employers prefer the team approach to problem solving, and look for employees who have demonstrated the ability to work well as part of a team. They also look for evidence of leadership skills. College students develop these skills through student organizations, work/internship/cooperative education experience, and in many cases, through classwork. Employers also see team experience as an opportunity to develop an appreciation of diversity, an important quality to employers. They have found that employees who can appreciate the diversity of fellow employees, as well as clients or customers, are more valuable to their organization as team members and problem solvers.

Computer Literacy. Employers want to hire people who are comfortable with and can use computer technology. Students who learn to use the computer as a part of their classwork, or during a related experience, are developing skills that can help them on the job.

Experience. The student who has coupled related experiences with coursework has a definite advantage in the job market. There are many ways to gain experience while in college. Cooperative education opportunities, internships or a job that relates to their field can provide meaningful experience employers hope to find in prospective employees. Students can also find an excellent opportunity to gain experience through volunteering to help with a project that relates to their field. These experiences help students develop problem solving and time management skills, help them become adaptable and creative and teach them how to work effectively as a member of a team—all of which are seen as very valuable by employers. Related experiences also help develop references from people who will be able to give specific examples of your work and comment on your skills and work ethic. Related experiences also offer students the chance to validate their career direction decision and to gain confidence in their abilities.

The college experience offers tremendous opportunities for students to develop skills that will help them succeed in the job market and throughout their career, paying dividends far exceeding any initial investment. Colleges provide a number of resources to help guide students to these opportunities. Students who pro-actively seek these opportunities and develop the skills necessary for success enhance the value of their college degree and improve their chances for career success.

Entrance requirements

Floyd County parents need to be aware of changes in school entrance requirements this year, says Jennifer C. Martin, district health coordinator and school nurse for the Floyd County Board of Education.

Kentucky law requires that kindergarten enrollees and four-year-old children attending preschool must have a second measles, mumps and rubella (MMR) immunization before they can attend school, Martin said.

Martin and other school and health department faculty will check students' records on the first day of school to see if the state requirements for school admittance have been met. Students whose records do not meet the state requirements will not be allowed to begin classes, Martin warns.

cate, a valid immunization certificate, and a medical examination.

In order to attend kindergarten, children must be five years old by October 1, according to Martin.

She reminds sixth grade students that they must also have a second dose of MMR immunization and a physical examination from their physician.

To enter high school, students must have a tetanus and diphtheria vaccination when their immunization certificate expires.

School-age children can get immunizations at the Floyd County Health Department August 11-15 when the health department takes walk-in patients from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

For more information about school entrance requirements, contact Martin at the Floyd County School Board at 886-2354, ext. 116.

Three Floyd students receive Regional Honors II Scholarships

Morehead State University has announced that three Floyd County students are among those receiving a Regional Honors II Scholarship for the fall semester.

The students are: Amanda Cantrell of Prestonsburg, daughter of Kitty Burchett and the late Gary Burchett, is a Prestonsburg High School graduate. She was voted one of the top 10 most outstanding seniors and was listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students." Cantrell participated in Powder Puff Football and chorus and was a member of the National Honor Society.

Jason Collins of Grethel, son of Novie and Raymond Collins, is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School. Listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students," he was a member of the National Honor Society and the academic team. Collins has been a volunteer at senior citizens centers and nursing homes.

Jennifer Lynn McKinney of Melvin, daughter of Rodney and Jacqueline McKinney, is a South Floyd High School graduate. She was treasurer, reporter and a member of the Budget Committee of FBLA. Recipient of an English award, McKinney was a member of the National Honor Society and an accountant for the school bank.

To be eligible for the Regional Honors II Scholarship, applicants must be admitted to MSU as an entering freshman or transfer student; be a high school graduate within MSU's Kentucky service region or have completed at least 60 hours at a community college in the service region; be recommended by high school or community college; be the second highest ranking academic achiever coming to MSU from that high school or community college; have a 3.50 high school grade point average (on a 4.0 scale) based on seven semesters of work, while transfer students must have a cumulative 3.50 g.p.a.

The scholarship, valued at $2,400 per year, is renewable for three academic years if a 3.00 g.p.a. is maintained during each of the first two semesters and a minimum cumulative 3.25 g.p.a. for each semester thereafter. Transfer students must maintain a cumulative 3.25 g.p.a.

Applications and information on scholarships and grant programs at MSU are available from the Office of Admissions, MSU, Morehead, KY, 40351-1689. The toll-free number is 800 585-MSU1 (6781).

Five easy and inexpensive ways to make your child feel special

The Kentucky Education Association offers these five easy and inexpensive ideas to help parents give their children that "one-in-a-million" feeling of being special, important and individual.

- Write and mail postcards or letters to your child once in a while. Send an "I love you" greeting card. Personal mail makes a child feel special and grown up.

- Start a story on the family computer or on a piece of notebook paper. Ask every family member to add a sentence or paragraph to the story and keep it going for a specific period of time. You can even include extended family members by mail or modem. Read the story aloud after a meal or "publish" it in an ongoing family storybook. Give each of your children a chance to start a new story.

- Monitor the computer and video games your children are playing. Play the games together and ask your child to explain the games to you. Discuss the different roles that the computer characters take on. Allow yourself to be "taught" how to play.

- It's important to do things together as a family, but children need one-on-one time with parents as well. That helps you all to get to know each other as individuals. Every month, schedule a special outing between one parent and one child, then alternate among parents and children.

- Take your child to work with you. Conduct yourself as much as possible as you would on any ordinary business day, explaining what you do as you go along and giving

Local student named to 'B' honor roll at Georgetown College

Jennifer Clark Burchett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burchett of Prestonsburg, has been named to the "B" Honor Roll at Georgetown College for the 1997 spring semester, announced Dr. Charles N. Boehms, vice president/provost.

Students named to the "B" Honor Roll must earn 12 semester hours and have a grade point average of 3.25 to 3.74.

Located 12 miles from Lexington, in the heart of the Bluegrass, Georgetown College is a four-year, private liberal arts institution affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

The college has been named by U.S. News & World Report as one of the top 161 national liberal arts colleges for the third consecutive year.

Founded in 1829, the college is dedicated to its role as an innovative community of scholars developing scholars committed to its heritage of Christian discernment. Dr. William H. AAA advises parents to think safety when shopping

While most parents will be concerned with how much money they will be spending as they go back-to-school shopping, they also need to be concerned with their child's safety.

Eighty-three percent of young pedestrian fatalities occur at non-intersection locations. Also, 42 percent of young pedestrian fatalities occur between 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. By making children easier to see, parents can help reduce these alarming statistics. The Blue Grass Auto Club Safety Foundation is providing these tips for parents as they head to the stores for shoes, shirts, pencils and backpacks.

- Choose brightly colored clothing to make children more visible to motorists.
- Make sure that children have a backpack or book bag to carry books and loose papers.

- Avoid buying coats or backpacks that have loose strings or other parts that could easily become caught on a car door or school bus handrail.
- Use reflective stickers or a small piece of reflective tape on backpacks to make children easier to be seen by motorists.
- When buying shoes for young children, make sure that they are comfortable, fit properly and the shoelaces are not too long.

The Blue Grass Auto Club Safety Foundation is a non-profit organization that serves as an educational resource for schools and communities in Central and Eastern Kentucky interested in promoting safety awareness.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure"

Some students follow their hearts, not the crowd.

At Pikeville College, the student body numbers about 850. That may sound small—but some people like small towns and simple pleasures. One of the benefits of our small, friendly campus atmosphere is a 14:1 student/faculty ratio, which provides an unique opportunity for students to receive personal attention from their professors.

We know we're not for everyone because many people do follow the crowd. Only those who have the quiet courage it takes to follow their hearts come to Pikeville College. In a world too often too busy to care, we do.
