Beshear, Mongiardo carry Perry, surrounding counties

by TONYA AMBURGEY
HAZARD HERALD

HAZARD — With several state offices up for grabs and no local races on the ballot in Perry County, voter turnout was low for the November General Election, but nearly every Democrat was able to pull out a local victory.

On average about 30 percent of the registered voters in Perry County turned out to vote on Tuesday. Of the approximately 30 percent, 31.7 percent voted in the hotly contested governor's race while on average about 29 percent of the registered voters in the county voted in the other races, which included Secretary of State, State Auditor, State Treasurer, Attorney General, and Commissioner of Agriculture.

In the Governor's race, which pitted current Governor Ernie Fletcher and his running mate Robbie Rudolph against Steve Beshear and Hazard PRESTONSBURG — With just a mere 33 percent of Floyd County voters casting their ballots on election day, those who did vote voted Democratic.

Floyd County voters heavily favored the Democratic Party in all six races on Tuesday's ballot.

As 7,968, or 81 percent, voted in favor of Steve Beshear for Governor, only 1,912, or 19 percent, were in favor of re-electing incumbent Gov. Ernie Fletcher.

Secretary of state results show that 31 percent were in favor incumbent C.M. "Trey" Grayson, while S. Bruce Hendrickson received 69 percent of the votes.

Jack Conway led the race for attorney general, catching 83 percent of the votes, while Stan Lee trailed behind with only 17 percent.

LOUISVILLE — Democrat Steve Beshear easily defeated the scandal-plagued Republican incumbent Tuesday to become governor of Kentucky, pulling off a political comeback 20 years after he last held office.

Gov. Ernie Fletcher had won four years earlier on a campaign promise to clean up Frankfort, but was weakened by an indictment charging that he rewarded politically connected Republicans with jobs at the expense of Democrats.

A Lexington attorney who had lost his last two political races, Beshear had little problem against Fletcher. He reminded voters about Fletcher's scandal at every opportunity, whether in televised debates, political ads or stump speeches. Beshear made ethics a key issue in the gubernatorial race, saying Fletcher not only broken his promise from four years ago but had actually made a mess of his own.

With 100 percent of precincts reporting,

Democrat comes out on top as voters oust Fletcher from office

Beshear had 619,567 votes or 59 percent, to Fletcher's 435,856 votes or 41 percent.

"Tomorrow begins the hard task of governing," Beshear told jubilant Democrats at the Frankfort Civic Center. "Tomorrow begins the time when I call on every person in this state to come together with us, join hands with us, because together folks we can make Kentucky a much better place to call home."

The civic center crowd cheered loudly as former Democratic Govs. Wendell Ford, Julian Carroll, Martha Layne Collins and Brereton Jones walked on stage, revving up the crowd for Beshear, who had run unsuccessfully for the job in 1987.

Fletcher said he called Beshear and congratulated him "on a vigorous campaign." In his concession speech at a Lexington hotel, he said it was time for him to move on, and he would work for a smooth transition.

"As someone once said, high office brings distinction, but also trouble. Oh I wish I'd have seen that more clearly when I stood here flush with victory four years ago," he said, an apparent reference to the legal woes that spilled over to members of his administration.

At least 14 people were indicted, including the governor himself, who was charged with scheming to violate state hiring laws. Fletcher issued pardons to everyone but himself.

Prosecutors dropped the misdemeanor charges against Fletcher in a deal, in which he acknowledged that the evidence "strongly indicates wrongdoing" by his administration and that the actions "were inappropriate."

The governor has since maintained that the investigation and resulting indictments were politically motivated by Democrats to lessen his chances of being re-elected.

John Mason, a Lexington engineer, said he voted for Beshear even though he wasn't an enthusiastic supporter. "I'm actually voting against Fletcher," Mason said. "I've never seen a guy screw up in a governorship the way he has," Mason said as he left the polls at a small church.

Another Lexington voter, Patrick Galbin, said he voted for Fletcher.

"I think his problems have been mostly politics," Galbin said. "I think he's done a fine job. I think he's got high morals, and that's what the state needs."

Both candidates used religious themes in the campaign, Beshear emphasized his roots as the son of a western Kentucky preacher. On the eve of the election, Fletcher ordered the Ten Commandments to be displayed in the Capitol along with other framed historical documents.

Democrats take four of six statewide races

by RALPH B. DAVIS
FLOYD COUNTY TIMES

While Kentucky voters overwhelmingly voted to toss out their scandal-plagued Republican governor Tuesday, they were not quite ready to give Democrats full control of the state executive branch.

Two Republican incumbents held on to their jobs, while Democrats took control of the five remaining constitutional offices on the ballot, reversing the count from four years ago.

Incumbent Secretary of State C.M. "Trey" Grayson easily held off what was expected to be a strong challenge from Democratic Pineville Mayor S. Bruce Hendrickson, while Agriculture Commissioner Richie Farmer, a popular former University of Kentucky basketball player, defeated Democratic challenger David Lynn Williams in a landslide.

In a race that had been predicted to be too close to call in pre-election polls, Grayson won reelection comfortably. With more than 93 percent of the vote counted, Grayson was leading his challenger by more than 16 percentage points last night.

Farmer, perhaps continuing to capitalize on his popularity as a member of the Wildcats' "Unforgettables" team, coasted to reelection by nearly a 2-to-1 margin. Farmer was leading his rival by 28 percent at press time.

But overall, the night belonged squarely to the Democrats. In addition to Governor-elect Steve Beshear and Lt. Governor-elect Daniel Mongiardo capturing the top two

Beshear completes political comeback 20 years after last office

by BRUCE SCHREINER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT

Believing his political career was over long ago, Steve Beshear spent much of last year urging other prominent Democrats to run for governor. When they declined, he decided to run himself.

On Tuesday, the former lieutenant governor who had not held office in 20 years completed an unlikely political comeback by defeating Republican incumbent Ernie Fletcher, whose first term was plagued by a hiring scandal.

Beshear, 63, lost in the 1987 Democratic gubernatorial primary, then failed again in a 1996 run for the U.S. Senate. After that, he concentrated on his law practice, fading from the political spotlight.

"Quite honestly, I felt that my political career was over at that point and resigned myself to that and moved on," he said, referring to his previous gubernatorial defeat.

"I know that I will be a much better governor today," he said. "I have had more life experiences in the last 20 years. I hope I'm a little wiser, and I know I'm a little more patient."

Beshear got enough votes in the spring to win a crowded Democratic primary outright and avoid a runoff, letting him set his sights immediately on Fletcher.

Beshear was quick to remind voters of Fletcher's indictment last year on charges that he illegally rewarded political supporters with protected state jobs after he took office. The misdemeanor charges eventually were dismissed in a deal with prosecutors.

But the scandal gave Democrats an opening to reclaim the governorship they had controlled for a generation until Fletcher's election in 2003.

"Certainly being in the right place at the right time always plays a role in politics," Beshear said.

Beshear, a Lexington attorney, had climbed the political ladder in the 1970s and 1980s as a state legislator, attorney general and lieutenant governor. He seemed to hit a political ceiling with his loss in 1987 to Democratic rival Wallace Wilkinson, who won the governorship on his promise to create a state lottery.

Twenty years later, Beshear was out front on another gambling issue. Beshear, the son of a small-town preacher, supports legalizing casinos in the state. He says that putting about 10 casinos at horse tracks and a handful of towns along Kentucky's border would raise about $500 million in extra revenue that could go for such priorities as education and health care. Before that could happen, voters would have to approve it in a ballot referendum.

He also talked of providing health coverage for Kentucky's 81,000 uninsured children, expanding early childhood education and assisting seniors struggling to afford their prescription drugs.

Beshear emphasized faith and family in television commercials that touted his small-town roots in western Kentucky. His wife, Jane, took a lead role in one television commercial.

Fletcher acknowledged Beshear's comeback in his concession speech at a Lexington hotel.

"He persevered, and there's something admirable in that," Fletcher said.

Candidate for lieutenant governor and Hazard native Dr. Daniel Mongiardo cast his vote Tuesday at the Hazard Fire Department's Station 2.

Perry

native Dr. Daniel Mongiardo, all 37 precincts in Perry County voted for Beshear/Mongiardo.

Democrats fared well in the other races in the county by claiming victory in all but the race for Commissioner of Agriculture, which Republican incumbent Richie Farmer won by close to 1,600 votes. He took home all but three of the precincts in the county.

The race for Secretary of State between incumbent Trey

Grayson and challenger Bruce Hendrickson was the closest race in the county with Hendrickson winning by 927 votes, although Grayson carried the majority votes statewide.

County results for the other races included Jack Conway defeating Stan Lee by 2,824 votes for Attorney General, incumbent Crit Luallen beating Linda Greenwell by about 2,819 votes, and incumbent Todd Hollenbach defeating Melinda Wheeler by 2,522 votes.

In neighboring Leslie County, a predominantly Republican county, the Beshear/Mongiardo ticket was the only Democratic ticket to claim victory locally. Knott County and the remaining Kentucky River Development District counties, comprised of Lee, Wolfe, Owsley, Letcher and Breathitt counties, also favored the Beshear/Mongiardo ticket.

He said the timing had nothing to do with the election, though his opponent and political scientists scoffed at that notion.

An ordained Baptist minister, Fletcher tried to get the focus off the hiring scandal by criticizing Beshear on the issue of casinos. Beshear favors a referendum — not yet on the ballot — that would amend the Kentucky Constitution to allow casino gambling. Fletcher tried since early in the campaign to paint the governor's race as a referendum on casinos, saying a vote for Beshear would be the same as voting for expanded gambling.

Allowing casinos at horse racing tracks and in a handful of communities along the state's borders, Beshear contends, would generate $500 million in additional tax revenues that could be used to improve the lives of Kentuckians. But before the constitution could be changed to legalize casinos, voters would have to approve it in a ballot referendum.

Fletcher aired a series of TV ads vilifying casinos, saying, if legalized in Kentucky, they would bring a number of social ills, including divorce, suicide and prostitution. And in debates, the governor continually raised the issue, saying Beshear's support for a constitutional amendment on gambling shows he is out of touch with Kentucky voters.

Political scientist Kendra Stewart, a professor at Eastern Kentucky University, said some people will argue Beshear won because of his support for gambling. Stewart said, however, that Beshear came out on top because of Fletcher's perceived ethical lapses.

"I wouldn't say it's enough to be a referendum on gambling, but there are certainly politicians who would spin it that way," she said.

spots on the ballot, Democrats also picked up two open seats and held on one other.

Democratic Louisville attorney Jack Conway picked up the attorney general's seat vacated by Prestonsburg attorney Greg Stumbo, bested rival Republican Stan Lee by a 3-to-2 margin. In the state treasurer's race, voters rejected

Johnson County Republican Melinda Wheeler's pledge to do away with the office and instead elected Democrat L.J. "Todd" Hollenbach to replace current Treasurer Jonathan Miller, who could not seek reelection due to term limits. State Auditor and longtime Frankfort fixture Crit Luallen once again defeated Republican Linda Greenwell in a rematch of their contest four years ago. Unlike the previous race, which was decided by a less than 2 percent margin, Luallen won reelection by a 3-to-2 margin.

With only four hours left before the polls closed, the Cliff district in Prestonsburg had just barely over 200 people vote out of over 1,000 registered. The low turnout was mirrored across the state, with less than 36 percent of voters bothering to show up at the polls.

Democratic, as Crit Luallen tallied 82 percent and Linda Greenwell only 18 percent. Melinda Wheeler trailed behind L.J. "Todd" Hollenbach in the state treasurer's race. Wheeler received 21 percent of the vote, while Hollenbach won with 79 percent.

While it was a close call on Floyd County's views for commissioner of agriculture, in the end David Williams came up ahead of Richie Farmer by only 10 percent.

While Floyd County Clerk Chris Waugh said he was pleased with those who did vote, it was disappointing to know that there were so many who didn't.

"On one hand it's very disappointing that there are so many in the county that don't even care about who's going to practically run the state," said Waugh. "On the other hand though, I guess it's good that so many people trust only 33 percent to make that decision."

Despite low voting percentages, some county officials were rather pleased with not the turnout, but rather the results.

"Governor Fletcher has given Floyd County not one dime for our roads," said Floyd County Judge-Executive R.D. "Doc" Marshall. "But all that's about to change."

No major problems or complications were reported in Floyd County's 42 precincts on election day.

In neighboring counties, Pike and Magoffin counties mirrored the Floyd County results by giving clean sweeps to Democrats.

In Martin County, Republicans carried all races except in the race for governor and lieutenant governor, which the Beshear/Mongiardo ticket captured by more than 10 percent.

In Johnson County, voters were split between the two parties, giving the gubernatorial, attorney general and auditor races to Democrats and favoring Republicans in the secretary of state, treasurer and agriculture commissioner races.

Stumbo announces election fraud hotline results

FRANKFORT — Attorney General Greg Stumbo announced Tuesday night that his Election Fraud Hotline received a total of 38 calls with 41 issues on election day from voters between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Eight calls regarded voting machines; six calls regarded election officials; five callers had legal or procedural questions; three related to voter assistance; two calls each pertained to electioneering and allegations of disrupting polls. The remaining fifteen complaints were general in nature. There were an additional 18 calls in the days leading up to the election.

During the May primary, the Election Fraud Hotline received 14 complaints. Most of the voters in that election expressed concerns about the new voting machines.

Kentucky Bureau of Investigation agents worked side by side with the Kentucky State Police in the Attorney General's election fraud "war room" to monitor statewide election activities. Agents were located in Kentucky's six congressional districts providing an immediate response to allegations of voting irregularities.

Investigators will review unresolved calls to determine which calls will require an investigative follow-up. Specifics of these calls cannot be released. The Office of the Attorney General enforces Kentucky election laws in cooperation with the Kentucky State Police, the U.S. Attorneys offices, and the Secretary of State.

Suit seeks to dissolve nurse union

The Associated Press

PIKEVILLE — Amid a weekslong strike involving more than 600 nurses in Kentucky and West Virginia, a registered nurse in eastern Kentucky has filed a petition to dissolve a local union.

George Engle, a registered nurse at the Appalachian Regional Healthcare flagship in Hazard, submitted the petition to the National Labor Relations Board on behalf of at least two dozen nurses, asking the agency to disband the local branch of the Kentucky Nurses Association.

There's no specific reason for the request listed on the petition, obtained by the AP on Tuesday.

The NLRB is determining whether Engle has enough support from the Hazard nurses for the petition to be considered, said Laura Atkinson, an administrator at the agency's regional office in Cincinnati. If the NLRB certifies the petition, a vote would be taken at the Hazard local before the union could be dissolved.

Calls to Engle's residence went unanswered Tuesday.

PRESTONSBURG — A Prestonsburg woman is being held in jail on a $100,000 cash bond after allegedly shooting her boyfriend in the stomach during a domestic dispute Friday night.

According to Det. Steve Little, of the Prestonsburg Police Department, Catherine Martin, 49, placed a call to 911 at 11:03 p.m. Friday night and said she had shot someone. Upon arrival, police found that 49-year-old Kenneth Mullins had been shot in the stomach with a small handgun.

Mullins was air lifted to St. Mary's Medical Center in Huntington, W.Va., where he underwent surgery the following morning and is now said to be in fair condition.

Martin was arrested and charged with first-degree assault for using a deadly weapon and also possession of marijuana.

Ribbon-cutting held for first phase of redevelopment

by JENNIFER LAWSON

MARTIN — A ribbon cutting ceremony was held Saturday for the completion of Phase 1 of the Redevelopment Project in Martin.

It was in 1977 that Main Street in Martin underwent excessive flooding and water depths of over nine feet, devastating the city and other regional communities.

In response to the 1977 flood, Congress enacted legislation authorizing the design and construction of flood damage reduction measures for areas within the Levisa and Tug Fork Basins including the city of Martin.

Following a community based planning effort, the Martin Redevelopment Plan was approved for construction in 2001 by the Army Corps of Engineers. This plan provides opportunities for local development of new flood-safe homes, businesses and municipal buildings.

As the redevelopment will occur in four phases over several years, it is being sponsored by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Huntington District, the Commonwealth of Kentucky and the Floyd County Fiscal Court.

As the first phase of the project, which was initiated in 2004, is completed, it will provide a flood-safe location for municipal buildings, businesses and a new school.

According to Martin Mayor Thomasina Robinson, the first building project will be a new home for the Opportunities Unlimited alternative school. It is expected to be open to junior high and high school students by the beginning of the 2008 school year. Other buildings will include a post office, city hall, police station and a variety of small businesses.

To date the project has cost $14,512,708.

Despite the fact that these buildings are expected to be completed in 2008 and 2009, the total completion of the project will take at least another eight years and will cost a total of $98 million.

A large crowd gathered together Saturday morning to celebrate the completion of Phase 1 of the Martin Redevelopment Project.

Hit-and-run suspect caught after chase

by JENNIFER LAWSON
STAFF WRITER

SALYERSVILLE — After a weekend hit-and-run fatality and a 20-mile high speed chase through four counties, a Prestonsburg man is now facing a series of serious charges.

It was early Saturday morning that police say Jimmie Ward, 19, was traveling south on U.S. 23 in Catlettsburg when he hit and killed Robert Samples, who was walking across the highway to his home after going to a gas station to buy snacks.

Taking off after the accident, Ward was later spotted turning onto Route 40 from U.S. 23 by Paintsville police officers, who began pursuing him. But it would be sometime later before he was finally caught in Magoffin County.

Around 1:30 a.m. Saturday, the Magoffin County Sheriff's Department was holding a routine road check along the Mountain Parkway when they received a call regarding the hit-and-run fatality along with a description of the vehicle. At approximately 2:30 a.m. Paintsville Police contacted Magoffin County Sheriff Bob Jordan to notify him that a pursuit was in progress. As Jordan instantly headed towards Route 40, keeping in contact with Paintsville, it was about five or six miles east of Salyersville when Ward's vehicle came through with Paintsville Police in pursuit.

Taking lead of the pursuit, Jordan proceeded to follow Ward at speeds of nearly 80 miles per hour. Despite the fact that the pursuit was headed west, Jordan said that Ward was traveling in the eastbound lane.

"The first thing going through my mind was that this guy had just taken someone's life and left the scene," said Jordan. "I knew if he continued driving at this rate his luck would eventually run out. Had we met another vehicle while in pursuit, it would have probably been another fatality."

Knowing the pursuit needed to be ended before another person got hurt or killed, Jordan decided to take action. After passing through downtown Salyersville and being sure they were in a remote location, Jordan hooked the back of Ward's car with the front of his cruiser, sending Ward into a spin and wrecking him. Jordan then proceeded to place the push bar of his car up against the driver's side of Ward's car, taking precaution as it was unknown at the time whether or not Ward was

PillCam™ NEW AT HIGHLANDS

ESO CAPSULE ENDOSCOPY

NEW NON-INVASIVE PROCEDURE PillCam™ Capsule Endoscopy

Highlands Regional Medical Center is proudly offering patients PillCam™ Capsule Endoscopy – a cutting edge, non-invasive procedure to detect and diagnose small bowel disorders.

Seventy million Americans currently suffer from gastrointestinal disorders, many of which go undiagnosed due to limited diagnostic options available for this part of the body. With the revolutionary technology of the PillCam™ SB Video Capsule, physicians are able to visualize the entire small intestine and more accurately diagnose disorders such as cancer, Crohn's disease, gastrointestinal bleed, inflammatory bowel disease, and many more conditions.

The PillCam™ requires no sedation and can be administered in an outpatient setting. Patients who have undergone this procedure report a higher level of satisfaction due to the convenience, comfort during procedure, and immediate recovery.

Over 170,000 individuals around the world have benefited from the PillCam™ Endoscopy procedure. Highlands Regional Medical Center is proud to offer this state-of-the-art procedure to our patients. If you would like more information regarding the PillCam, or believe you may be a candidate for the procedure, please call (606) 886-7471.

An Open Letter to the Community from the Doctors of McDowell ARH

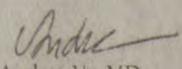

After nearly a month of the nurses' strike, we can confidently assure our patients, their families, and others in the community that the current level of nursing care at McDowell ARH is excellent.

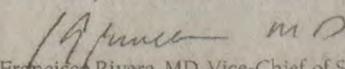

- The hospital is open and operating at pre-strike levels.
- The McDowell ARH nurses who have chosen to come to work have been supplemented with skilled agency RNs, nurse supervisors, newly hired RNs, LPNs, and certified nurse aides.
- Nursing care at the hospital is excellent.

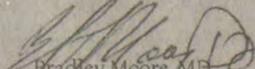

The union was wrong: patient care at McDowell ARH has never been better. That may be hard to see from the picket line, but is obvious to those of us on the units and in the operating rooms.

Taking the needed step

The Bush administration has started talking a better, if not yet good, game on climate change. But it's still a step behind on what's needed, which is action. The good news is that a proposal in Congress would finally get the United States to take that first real step.

Sens. Joseph Lieberman, I-Conn., and John Warner, R-Va., have introduced legislation that would set reasonable goals of reducing the nation's carbon emissions while putting in place measures to protect the economy. The bill is a good start toward addressing what science generally regards as the great global challenge of this century. The bill deserves to become law.

The bill sets a goal of reducing emissions from the power, industrial and transportation fuel sectors by 15 percent in 2020 and 70 percent by 2050 compared with 2005 emissions levels. Targeting those sectors is important because they account for about 75 percent of the nation's greenhouse gas emissions.

The bill achieves these goals through a cap-and-trade system that has worked well in the fight against acid rain and that would provide incentives for investment and innovation in emission-reduction technologies, according to the National Environmental Trust. The system would set a mandatory limit on carbon dioxide emissions for the targeted sectors and would provide a market-based mechanism for the buying and selling of pollution credits.

Furthermore, the system would use the money earned from the auction of pollution allowances to protect low-income consumers from higher energy costs, would help states with the transition to cleaner energy and would invest in new technologies and help workers in today's energy companies learn the skills they're going to need to meet the nation's future energy needs.

The bill - America's Climate Security Act - could probably use some tweaking, but as Sen. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., said in an article in Environment and Energy Daily, "We have the framework here. Every single issue anybody can raise about global warming has been raised and addressed on this bill, giving us a perfect place to start."

Supporters hope to move the bill through Congress quickly. Given the urgency of the issue and the do-nothing attitude that the Bush administration has held for so long, that's only reasonable.

Guest Column

House week in review

by STATE REP. HUBERT COLLINS

The political rallies, television debates and newspaper editorials spotlighting this fall's political candidates are now over. Campaign yard signs will soon disappear and TV and newspaper ads that have courted voters' attention since last spring will be replaced by other ads and notices.

The only thing that will remain are the winners of the state-level races that we will have the opportunity to vote for tomorrow.

The biggest race on the ballot in Kentucky this Tuesday is the race for Governor and Lt. Governor, which is being sought by incumbent Gov. Ernie Fletcher and former Kentucky Lt. Gov. Steve Beshear. National attention will be on the race as political watchers look to see which party will control the state's highest office for the next four years. I hope that you have had a little time to learn about where the candidates stand on issues of importance to you and are close to deciding, if you haven't already, who you want in the Governor's Office for the next four years.

Whoever is elected our next governor will have a great deal of sway over how major public policy issues—from health care to education to the state economy—are addressed in cooperation with state lawmakers. Yet that fact alone has not been enough to spur voters to the polls in past gubernatorial election years. Judging from state turnout statistics, it appears many of us would in fact rather vote in national elections than those that only determine who our state and local leaders will be.

Look at turnout for the last two presidential election years and last fall's congressional midterm election and you will see what I mean. Overall turnout in Kentucky was above 61 percent in both the 2000 and 2004 presidential general election, and hit 49.5 percent in the 2006 congressional midterm election. But the best turnout the state has seen in a governor's race in the last three gubernatorial election cycles was 44 percent in 1995. (Turnout in the 1999 governor's race was a much more dismal 20.4 percent, followed by a less than stellar 40 percent turnout in 2003.)

Certainly there are valid reasons why turnout is high in a presidential election year and some midterm election years, like 2006. Presidential elections allure us by allowing us to help decide who will be the most powerful leader on Earth for the next four years. Every one wants to have a say in who holds the nation's most prestigious—and glamorous—office. And as far as the 2006 midterm election goes, what could be more alluring in a presidential election off-year than helping to change the balance of power in Congress?

Yet there are also good reasons to turn out in large number and vote in state and local races. State and local leaders can readily address local needs, down to the very neighborhoods we live in and schools our children attend, which most federal leaders are unable to do. Who would be the first person you would call with news of a sewage problem on your street or a washed-out culvert on a state road in your county? Your congressman, or state or local official?

By voting for the best persons to fill Kentucky's state and local offices, you can assure that the right help is there when you need it.

Some Kentuckians choose not to vote in any election, and that is their right. But to those individuals who say, "Oh, my vote doesn't count," I say the only vote that doesn't count is the vote that is not cast. A penny is not worth much these days, but 1 million pennies make a tidy sum!

Other statewide constitutional offices up for election tomorrow are Secretary of State, Attorney General, State Auditor, State Treasurer and Commissioner of Agriculture. Some counties will also take part in judges' races, and some local referenda and races for unexpired terms of local offices may be on the ballot in some counties. Please cast your vote tomorrow in the governor's race and these other races, and do your part to keep democracy alive.

Legendary Eastern Ky. radio personality, columnist dies

The Associated Press

PIKEVILLE — Lucille S. Smith, a legendary radio personality and columnist in eastern Kentucky, died Tuesday. She was 90.

The Pikeville native held several public offices, including chief deputy county court clerk and county tax commissioner, before taking to the airwaves in 1964 with her "The Personal Touch" radio show at East Kentucky Broadcasting. Smith received the Kentucky Mike Award, a high honor for personal contributions to broadcasting, from the Kentucky Broadcasters Association in 2005.

Smith also contributed a society column that ran in the Appalachian News-Express for more than 20 years, and she served on the boards of several charity and service organizations.

"She was the finest woman I ever knew, I always told her that when I grew up, I wanted to be Lucille Smith," said Sara George, a spokeswoman for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet and a close friend to Smith who was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Smith, who had battled cancer and other serious illnesses for years, died at the Pikeville Medical Center, county officials said.

"A county she deeply loved and who loved her deeply will sorely miss this irreplaceable lady," Pike County Judge-Executive Wayne T. Rutherford said.

Smith is survived by a son, a granddaughter and a great-granddaughter.

Shooting

When she was arraigned in Floyd County District Court Monday morning, the fact that the incident is a felony case prevented a plea to be entered. However, she was declared eligible to be appointed a public defender for representation.

A preliminary hearing will soon be held to determine whether there is enough evidence to present the case to a grand jury.

The couple had been living at their home on South Lake Drive for only three weeks, according to Little, but they had been together for about a year.

Martin was lodged and remains in the Floyd County Detention Center on a $100,000 cash bond.

associations, said Engle's petition was merely "a distraction."

"But we will verify the numbers," she said, referring to the number of nurses in support of the strike.

ARH is one of the region's largest health care providers and owns seven hospitals in Kentucky and two in West Virginia. About 630 nurses in both states walked off the job following the expiration of their contract Sept. 30.

ARH officials said they were aware of the petition.

"ARH is deeply concerned about the future of all of its registered nurses and will carefully monitor events related to this matter as they unfold," said Rick King, ARH Vice President of Legal Affairs and Chief Legal Officer, in a statement Tuesday.

Convicted drug dealer offered FBI information on Stumbo, Thompson

The Associated Press

A convicted drug dealer offered the FBI information that two elected officials allegedly committed vote fraud, but couldn't produce proof to back up the assertions, court records show.

Pamela Justice, who once served as a campaign manager to Attorney General Greg Stumbo, told the FBI that Stumbo and former Floyd County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson paid people with campaign funds for work not done, according to a transcript filed in federal court in Justice's drug case.

An attorney for Thompson and an assistant attorney general working for Stumbo both said the allegations were baseless and no charges were filed.

"They did absolutely nothing wrong," said Gerald Derossett, an attorney for Thompson. "It would appear that Miss Justice was looking to get herself out of trouble but didn't have anything to do it with."

Justice, 50, served as a campaign treasurer for Stumbo when he ran for state representative in 2002, a year before he won election as attorney general. Justice told FBI Special Agent Donnie Kidd in a recorded phone call in November 2006 that Stumbo and Thompson paid people to give out campaign materials, but never purchased literature or signs.

Justice turned over records and memos to the FBI, but Kidd said in the transcript that the documents did not prove Stumbo or Thompson did anything illegal.

Justice was one of 11 people charged with operating a $1 million cocaine ring between January 2001 and last November. Justice and five others have since pleaded guilty in the case.

Deputy Attorney General Pierce Whites, speaking on behalf of Stumbo, said he couldn't understand why the FBI took a major cocaine trafficking case and tried "to turn it into a petty political game of 'gotcha'."

U.S. Attorney Amul Thapar, who prosecutes cases in the Eastern District of Kentucky, did not return a call to the Herald-Leader on Friday. A call to Thapar's office by The Associated Press on Saturday were not immediately returned.

Chase

armed. With the assistance of Magoffin County officers Darvin Marsillett and Matthew Bailey, Ward was removed from the vehicle and, despite being very combative, was finally arrested.

It was during the arrest that Jordan noticed bloody residue and human remains smeared along the driver's side of Ward's vehicle.

After contacting the Boyd County Sheriff's Department, who remained busy controlling both traffic and an investigation in Catlettsburg, a local wrecker service was used to transport Ward's vehicle to Boyd County for investigation.

Despite being in law enforcement for over 14 years, Jordan said this is the third hit maneuver he's had to do to take someone's car out of commission and end a chase.

"I'm just glad we caught him and got the vehicle," said Jordan.

It is not known why Ward chose to go towards Salyersville, but Jordan said that due to the fact that he is from Prestonsburg, he may have just known the roads better.

The only question Jordan asked Ward at the scene was why he was running from the law, to which Ward only responded that it was because he was driving on suspended license.

During a video arraignment in Johnson County Monday morning, Ward entered a not guilty plea on the charges of resisting arrest, evading police and operating on a suspended license. He is scheduled for a preliminary hearing today.

Ward also faces more serious charges that are pending in Boyd County.

Lawson is wanted for theft by unlawful taking over $300 and forgery. She is described to be a white female who is 5 feet, 5 inches tall and 160 pounds, with blonde hair and hazel eyes.

Due to the ongoing investigation, details of the case have not been released, though she is believed to still be in this area.

"We have reason to believe that she is still hiding around Floyd County," said Kentucky State Police Det. John Hunt. "The last two times that we've asked the public for their help in finding wanted persons, we've started getting phone calls the next day and have been able to find them. So far we're 2-for-2."

Anyone with information regarding Lawson's whereabouts is asked to contact KSP at (606) 433-7711 or toll-free at (800) 222-5555.

Local residents participate in EKU honors program

RICHMOND — Eastern Kentucky University's nationally prominent Honors Program includes four students from Floyd County.

Floyd Countians in the program are Alanna Cline, of Allen; Trista Tackett and Adam Roberts, of Betsy Layne; and Megan Goble, of Prestonsburg.

The program, designed for intellectually promising students who seek a strong grounding in the liberal arts along with their more specialized major, is celebrating its 20th year on the EKU campus. The 28-credit-hour program includes coursework in the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences, with emphasis on effective communication, development of critical thinking skills and integration of knowledge across all academic disciplines.

But it's not all work and no play. Honors Program students also enjoy numerous educational field trips and other extracurricular activities and participate in numerous state, regional and national conferences. In fact, according to Dr. Bonnie Gray, the only director in the program's history, Eastern routinely sends more Honors Program students to conferences than any other institution.

This year, 21 proposals were submitted for panels at the National Honors Conference, and 17 were accepted. "That's phenomenal," Gray said.

Often, colleagues will approach Gray at conferences and inquire how EKU can afford to field so many panels. The high level of participation has been made possible, in large part, by a generous endowment established by Jane and Charles Boyer, of Prospect. Mrs. Boyer is a former EKU Regent, and the couple has been actively involved with the program for many years, even hosting dinners for Honors students at the Kentucky Center for the Arts in Louisville.

Eastern's Honors Program also enjoys strong support from the University's faculty. Approximately 40 faculty members teach in the program and about 30 more assist with senior thesis projects.

"We couldn't have this success without the faculty's support," Gray said. "Our students get a lot of one-on-one mentoring."

Students who successfully complete the program are designated "Honors Scholars" upon graduation, and the designation appears on their diplomas and official University transcripts.

Gray said graduates of the program are particularly attractive to prospective employers and graduate schools.

"Our Honors Program requires a senior thesis and strong thinking, writing and speaking skills," Gray noted. "By the time these students graduate, they are very poised and have the ability to speak in front of people."

Students with excellent academic backgrounds are invited to apply for the program. National Merit finalists and semifinalists are automatically accepted. Beyond that, students with high school grade point averages of 3.5 or better on a 4.0 scale and with at least a score of 26 on the American College Test (ACT) will be given a priority. Other students demonstrating the potential for outstanding academic performance will also be considered.

For more information, contact Gray at 859-622-1403 or bonnie.gray@eku.edu, or visit the Honors Program website at www.honors.eku.edu.

Task force calls for more funding for preschools

The Associated Press

FRANKFORT — Stressing the importance of preschool, a state task force says Kentucky should spend $30 million a year to expand a voluntary program for low-income families.

The task force, made up of 50 state educators, child care providers and policy administrators, is part of the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, an education-based nonprofit organization.

"Investing in a child's early years is the smartest way Kentucky can improve education for all and head off problems in the future," said Bob Sexton, executive director of the Prichard Committee.

The task force's report, part of its Strong Start Kentucky campaign, doesn't specify how the state might pay for the additional expense.

Kentucky's public preschool program is currently open only to 4-year-olds whose family incomes do not exceed 150 percent of the federal poverty level — or about $31,000 for a family of four — and 3- and 4-year

THE FIRST YEAR WITHOUT YOU

A year without you,
We've done that now.
How we got through it,
Only God knows how.

Not a day goes by,
That we don't think of you.
Always wondering,
Why God took you.

We trust the Lord,
For He knows best.
While we had you,
We were blessed.

We still mourn,
And we still cry.
Holding onto memories,
That keep passing by.

Sometimes we ache,
And we still grieve.
Sometimes it hurts,
To even breathe.

We all miss you,
More than words can say.
Longing to see you,
With each passing day.

Your laugh, your smile,
So much we miss.
To hear your voice,
I long for this.

There is nothing for you,
That we wouldn't give.
We'd give our life,
So that you could live.

This year without you has been hard to bear,
I cry and I scream, that life's not fair.
I feel so weak, and my strength is gone.
It's then I'm reminded,
That I'm not alone.

In the arms of Jesus,
You take care.
Then I'll hold you,
When I get there.

Our love for you,
Will always remain.
For the loss of our son,
Was truly Heaven's gain.

We love and miss you always,
Mom, Dad,
and all the Family

Pikeville College celebrates Religious Emphasis Week

PIKEVILLE — "Faith leads us beyond ourselves." The words of the late Pope John Paul II may well describe Donna Murphy, an educator, mentor and athlete whose special gifts have been an inspiration to others.

A featured speaker during Pikeville College's Religious Emphasis Week Nov. 5-8, Murphy will share her experiences and how her love of basketball has shaped her life. The program will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday in Booth Auditorium. The campus and community are cordially invited.

An icon in girls' basketball, Murphy was named Kentucky's first "Miss Basketball" in 1976 and later as one of the state's 50 Most Significant Sports Figures of the 20th Century. The Newport High School standout averaged 35 points and 20 rebounds as a senior and went on to attend Morehead State University, where she was named the Ohio Valley Conference Player of the Year and Woman Athlete of the Year. Her talent on the basketball court also earned her a place in the Kentucky High School Athletic Association Hall of Fame.

"Donna Murphy is one of the most recognized and respected female athletes in Kentucky," said Pikeville College President Hal Smith. "She has a real passion for her work and both commitment and compassion for her students. We look forward to her visit to our campus and hearing her positive message."

A professor and counselor at Bluegrass Community & Technical College in Lexington, Murphy's special focus has been on helping students with life skills development, career planning, counseling, and the academic and athletic development of student-athletes. She earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in Communications/Journalism and a Master of Health Education degree in Counseling from MSU.

Murphy has more than two decades of coaching experience, including as an assistant at MSU and the universities of Cincinnati, Memphis, Florida and Kentucky. She was head women's basketball coach at Asbury College for 11 years and also coached at the high school level at Lexington Christian Academy.

The Religious Emphasis Week celebration at Pikeville College began Monday with a free Christian rock concert featuring Live Fish and 7eventh Time Down sponsored by Pikeville College Campus Ministries and July Jam.

On Tuesday, the weekly chapel service featured guest speaker James Browning, assistant professor of religion at the College.

For more information about Religious Emphasis Week events at Pikeville College, contact the public affairs office at 218-5270.

Beshear campaign combats mysterious phone calls

The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE — Democrat Steve Beshear's campaign began making automated phone calls late Monday telling people that he opposes gay marriage, that he comes from a family of Baptist preachers and that voters should not believe "lies" being spread about him.

The campaign for Beshear, the challenger to Republican Gov. Ernie Fletcher in Tuesday's election, began the calls in response to automated calls made to Kentucky households purporting to be an endorsement of Beshear by the "homosexual lobby."

Those calls didn't identify who paid for the message, a potential violation of state election laws. Sarah Jackson, executive director of the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance, said state regulation precludes her from acknowledging if any complaints have been filed regarding the automated calls. Corey Bellamy, spokesman for the attorney general's office, said Tuesday the office has received no complaints.

The anonymous calls, which do not mention Fletcher, directed people to visit the Web site of the Fairness Campaign, an advocacy group for gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgendered people.

Although the Fairness Campaign's political action committee has endorsed Beshear, the group said in a statement that it had nothing to do with the calls.

"For the first time in 20 years the homosexual lobby proudly endorses a candidate for governor, Steve Beshear," the male voice on the calls says. "Beshear is receiving major support from out-of-state gay activists."

Fletcher, during a campaign stop in Louisville on Monday, told reporters he wasn't aware of any such calls but added, "I can't say what all the local folks are doing."

Fletcher questioned whether voters pay much attention to automated calls.

"I'm not sure how effective 'robo' calls are now because they're getting so many calls," he said.

The attempt to link Beshear with gay-rights groups has intensified since the weekend, when the Republican Party of Kentucky made automated phone calls with singer Pat Boone warning that if Beshear is elected Kentucky could become "another San Francisco."

The anonymous message, meanwhile, said Beshear is "publicly committed to same-gender relationships; employment of more homosexuals in state government, including teachers; and support for homosexual adoption of children."

"If you believe these rights are fair, vote for Steve Beshear for governor," says the ad.

Beshear's campaign said it welcomes support from all Kentuckians and said the calls were a sign of desperation by the Fletcher campaign.

Beshear said he made no promises to the Fairness Campaign's political action committee.

"I told them like I've told everybody in Kentucky, that my faith teaches me that marriage is between a man and a woman," he said.

Funding

olds who have a disability.

According to the Prichard report, about 37 percent of the state's 3- and 4-year-old children (roughly 41,000) were enrolled in preschool and Head Start programs last year.

But another 10,000 children are in families with slightly higher incomes that don't have access to high-quality preschool, Sexton said.

Kim Townley, an early childhood education professor at UK who worked on that report, said the importance of preschool is clear.

"The current research tells us that 95 percent of the architectural structure of the brain is developed between birth and age 5," she said. "It can either be built on a solid foundation or on a shaky foundation, and if it is built on a shaky foundation, those children will enter the formal school system without the skills and knowledge they will

Raquel Ritschel, director of a private preschool, The Learning Garden, that opened last week in La Grange, agreed.

"In Oldham County alone, everyone talks about how wonderful the school district is, but it starts earlier than kindergarten," she said of the learning process. "The more ready we have these kids for kindergarten, the more ready they will be for a quality education."

The chairmen of the House and Senate Education committees said last week that they support the report's main recommendations and would push for more funding for preschool.

Two (2) Outstanding Support Programs

We recognize and thank Opportunities Unlimited and Floyd County Technical School for their supporting programs that add to student success.

Prestonsburg High School KYAHED Program

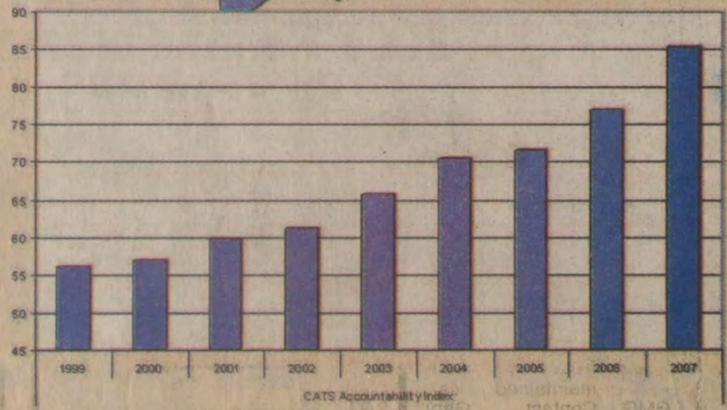

Osborne Elementary School Scores reflect 2nd largest gains in the district.

Allen Central High School students enjoy library books.

Principal Sis Hall shared, "The most important announcement about test results at ACHS is that we came OUT of Tier status. This means that we had to meet our goals for two years in a row... and we did it!"

Floyd County's District progress is reflected in this chart. All school districts receive a score based on CATS state tests. We have moved from 55.2 in 1999 to 85.2 in 2007.

"District Surpasses State Average"

Floyd County School District moved from 167th in 2000 to a Ranking of 83rd out of 175 Kentucky Schools this year.

Community Recognition of School Successes

"Congratulations to Floyd County! I think that it is a wonderful accomplishment on your scores, knowing you have been working on this for a long time. Dr. Fanning I think helped to bring that emphasis to Floyd County, not that it wasn't already there, but helped as a catalyst to bring that about. I am just tickled to death for the county. This has so much of a positive effect on economic development in attracting people to live in your community. I can't over emphasize that it is just so important to attracting people to want to live and go to school there and be proud of the community.

Congratulations!"

Dennis Dorton, President & CEO
Citizens National Bank

"The amount of progress that Floyd County schools have made over just the last few years is nothing short of amazing. Everyone involved in this educational renaissance - from the students and parents, to the faculty, staff and administrators - deserves the highest accolades for helping to build a school system that has become the pride of our community."

Ralph B. Davis, Managing Editor,
Floyd County Times

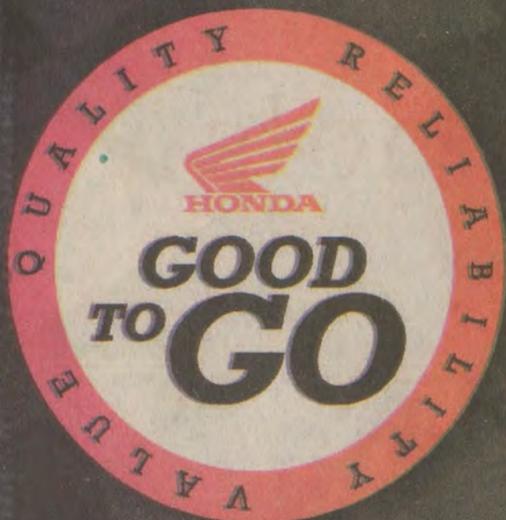

Dr. George D. Edwards, President of Big Sandy Community and Technical College said, "I want to take this opportunity to congratulate all of the students in the Floyd County Public Schools on their "outstanding CATS scores" this year. I am proud to work in a county where the students in every school made significant progress and one placed second in the state. I look forward to enrolling many of these students in Big Sandy Community and Technical College."

"Congratulations on your success"

from the members of the
Floyd County Board of Education: Jeff Stumbo,
Dr. Chandra Varia, Carol Stumbo,
Sherry Robinson, Linda Gearheart

We thank the students, parents, staff and the community for your efforts and contributions in achieving this impressive growth! Ronald "Sonny" Fentress, Superintendent

Prestonsburg, Kentucky, (behind the new Floyd County Justice Center), to the highest bidder, at public auction, on Thursday, the 8th day of November, 2007, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., the following described real estate, lying in Floyd County, Kentucky, and more particularly described as follows:

That certain tract or parcel of land, lying in Floyd County, Kentucky, on Mare Creek of Big Sandy River, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning with the edge of driveway running in a westerly direction to the power pole and running up hill to top and running east to the edge of the said driveway.

Being the same property conveyed to Gary R. Bevins and Linda G. Johnson Bevins, his wife, by deed dated April 14, 1987, and recorded in Deed Book 309, Page 559, and by deed dated May 31, 1982, and recorded in Deed Book 306, Page 771, of the Floyd County Clerk's Office.

Also: A certain tract or parcel of land, lying in Floyd County, Kentucky: Being a portion of the John L. Layne tract described as Tract No. Two in a prior deed in the chain of title for this property and more particularly bounded and described as follows:

Beginning with Willis Adkins line on south side of Mare Creek at a sycamore tree; thence running up the hill, a straight line to the top of ridge to an iron stake; thence running east with ridge to corner of said Tom Crum fence; thence leaving ridge and down the point with Tom Crum line to a sycamore to a corner; thence down creek and with creek on south side in a westerly direction to the beginning at a sycamore tree.

Being the same property conveyed to Gary Bevins and Linda G. Johnson Bevins, his wife, by deed dated September 26, 1983, and recorded in Deed Book 279, Page 247, in the Floyd County Court Clerk's Office.

TERMS OF SALE:

(a) At the time of sale, the successful bidder, if the other than the Plaintiff, shall either pay cash or 10% of purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days.

(b) The successful bidder shall be required to execute a bond with good surety thereon for the unpaid purchase price of said property, if any, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum, from the date of sale until paid, having the force and effect of a Judgment.

(c) The property shall be sold subject to any easements and restrictions of record in the Floyd County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption as may exist in favor of the United States of America and/or the record owners thereof, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 2410 or KRS 426.530.

(d) The purchaser shall be required to assume and pay all city and county ad valorem taxes for the year 2007, and all subsequent years which are not yet due and payable. Any and all delinquent city and county ad valorem taxes will be paid from the sale proceeds.

(e) In the event the Plaintiff is the purchaser of the above described property, for an amount equal to, or less than, its first lien, it shall take a credit against said lien for the amount of the bid, and no bond shall be required of the Plaintiff, and it shall only be obligated to pay court costs, the fees and costs of the Master Commissioner, and any real estate taxes assessed against the real estate.

Any announcements made on date of sale take precedence over printed matter contained herein.

NOTICE TO PRESTONSBURG CITY'S UTILITIES NATURAL GAS CUSTOMERS

NATURAL GAS FACTS

Natural gas is lighter than air, non-toxic and contains no poisonous ingredients. Breathing natural gas is not harmful as long as there is adequate air to breath along with it. Natural gas will not burn by itself. Combustion can occur only when there is a mixture of gas and air containing between 5 percent and 15 percent natural gas and between 95 percent and 85 percent air. Because of its unique qualities of being lighter than air with a narrow band of combustion, natural gas is one of the safest energy sources available. It is also one of the most economical sources. Understanding and following safety procedures will make natural gas an even safer choice.

THE POTENTIAL HAZARDS OF NATURAL GAS

Gas accidents can be avoided if you understand the potential hazards.

(1) FIRE

Natural gas can be a fire hazard, if you let it. Don't let it. A very hot stove, open flame or pilot light can ignite any combustible materials that happen to be near. Keep paper, curtains, paints, solvents, etc., away from gas appliances.

(2) EXPLOSION

Natural gas can be ignited by open flames or sparks. That's why unburned natural gas should never be allowed to escape into a room. A spark, flame, lit match or cigarette, even the flick of a light switch may be enough to cause an explosion.

(3) CARBON MONOXIDE POISONING

Even though natural gas itself isn't poisonous, gas burners that aren't adjusted properly can produce deadly carbon monoxide. You can't see or smell carbon monoxide, but it's a killer. To avoid its dangers, always make sure that any natural gas appliances in your home are properly adjusted and vented to the outside..so they'll burn safely and efficiently.

(4) SUFFOCATION

Natural gas can cause suffocation if it replaces air containing oxygen. (Only air that has oxygen can sustain life.) This is another reason why natural gas should never be allowed to leak from appliances or build up in an enclosed area or room.

FOLLOW THESE COMMON SENSE SAFETY RULES... IT'S UP TO YOU TO USE SAFE GAS APPLIANCES AND TO USE GAS APPLIANCES SAFELY!!!

- (1) KEEP COMBUSTIBLES such as papers, fluids, paints, curtains and rags away from furnaces, water heaters and gas ranges and dryers.
- (2) TEACH CHILDREN never to light or play with the controls of any gas appliances.
- (3) KEEP PILOT LIGHTS of your gas range lit. If you put them out to save energy, a dangerous gas build-up can occur if someone accidentally turns on the range.
- (4) KEEP GAS RANGE CLEAN — make sure burner bowls are free of used matches, grease, paper, etc.
- (5) AND, NEVER USE YOUR GAS RANGE to heat your home or apartment. This practice creates a serious fire hazard and puts you and your family at risk from dangerous carbon monoxide fumes.
- (6) MAKE SURE APPLIANCES ARE VENTED — Natural gas needs air containing oxygen to burn safely and efficiently. Without enough air, dangerous carbon monoxide is produced. For this reason, always make sure that your gas furnace and water heater are vented to the outside of the building. If you're not sure your appliances are vented properly, have them checked by a qualified heating contractor or plumber.
- (7) KEEP FLUES AND CHIMNEYS CLEAR — Have your fluepipe and chimney checked to make sure they're not blocked with debris such as nests, branches, or ivy. (Your heating contractor can inspect and clean fluepipes for you.)
- (8) SIGNS OF POOR FLUE VENTILATION — Indoor wetness (condensation); unusual smell in your home that doesn't go away; sick houseplants; yellow or wavering appliance flames; soot in your home; pilot light that keeps going out.

CERTAIN OLDER GAS CONNECTORS MAY BE DANGEROUS!

Gas connectors are corrugated metal tubes used to connect gas appliances in your home to fuel gas supply pipes. Some older brass connectors have come apart, causing fires and explosions resulting in deaths and injuries.

These older brass connectors have a serious flaw in the process used to join their tubing to their end pieces. Over time, the end pieces can separate from the tubing, and cause a serious gas leak, explosion, or fire. To our knowledge, these dangerous uncoated brass connectors have not been made for more than 20 years, but many of them are still in use. The older these connectors get, the greater the possibility of failure.

Although not all uncoated connectors have this flaw, it is very difficult to tell which ones do. Therefore, any uncoated brass connector should be replaced immediately with either a new plastic-coated brass or a new stainless steel connector. Connectors can wear out from too much moving, bending, or corrosion. Connectors should always be replaced whenever the appliance is replaced or moved from its location.

WARNING: Only a qualified professional should check your connector and replace it if needed. Don't try to do this yourself! Moving the appliance, even slightly, whether to clean behind it or to inspect its gas connector, can cause the complete failure of one of these older weakened connectors, possibly resulting in a deadly fire or explosion.

DO NOT MOVE YOUR APPLIANCE TO CHECK THE CONNECTOR!

HOW DO I KNOW IF A GAS HAZARD EXISTS??? — YOUR SENSE OF SMELL SHOULD TELL YOU

(1) A GAS LEAK IS POTENTIALLY VERY DANGEROUS! — Gas may leak from faulty appliances, broken pipes or broken mains. Make sure all members of your family know what to do if they smell gas.

(A) IF THE ODOR IS STRONG:

- 1) Do not light matches.
- 2) Do not turn lights on or off.
- 3) Do not operate any controls or pull any plugs from outlets.
- 4) Do not use the telephone.
- 5) Notify everyone in the building or house to leave immediately, and leave the door open.
- 6) If possible, ventilate the building by opening doors and windows, starting where the odor is strongest. Do not re-enter the building for this purpose.
- 7) Call the utility company or fire department from a nearby building or house. Do not use the telephone in your house.
- 8) Do not re-enter your home until the utility company or fire department has released you to do so.
- 9) Never take chances! If your safety is threatened, get out quickly.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A GAS LEAK OUTSIDE HOUSE OR BUILDING — Gas leaks outside are uncommon, but it is a good idea to know how to recognize them. Common signs include:

- 1) A gas odor.
- 2) A blowing or hissing sound.
- 3) Dirt being blown or thrown into the air.
- 4) Water bubbling or being blown into the air at a pond.
- 5) Fire coming from the ground or burning above the ground.
- 6) Brown patches in vegetation on or near gas pipeline.

If you detect any signs of a gas leak outside, call Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission immediately.

NOTICE TO PRESTONSBURG CITY'S UTILITIES COMMISSION NATURAL GAS CUSTOMERS ABOUT CUSTOMER SERVICE LINES

- 1. Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission does not maintain customers' service lines beyond the gas meter setting. Customers are responsible for properly maintaining and repairing their service lines.
- 2. If customers' buried piping is not maintained, it may be subject to the potential hazards of corrosion and leakage.
- 3. Buried gas piping should be:
 - I. Periodically inspected for leakage.
 - II. Periodically inspected for corrosion if piping is metallic.
 - III. Repaired if any unsafe conditions are discovered.
 - IV. Repaired, located, inspected and maintained by plumbers or heating contractors.
- 4. When excavating near buried gas piping, the piping should be located in advance, and the excavation done by hand. Safety comes first with Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission. Below are some of the steps taken by Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission to insure the safety of our employees and customers.

- 1. Continuous patrolling of gas system.
 - 2. Monitoring pressures at various points in gas system.
 - 3. Annual/ semi-annual leak surveys.
 - 4. Immediate response to any reported problem
 - 5. Proper operation and maintenance of system
 - 6. Continuing education of gas pipe line employees, including emergency response to gas emergencies/ accidents.
- Together with the help of our customers we can maintain a safe and reliable gas system.

NOTICE TO ALL CONSTRUCTION AND EXCAVATION COMPANIES

In accordance with federal and state regulations governing natural gas pipeline safety, Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission is pursuing a damage prevention program to minimize accidents and/or disruptions that could involve its underground pipeline facilities. If you observe any type of construction or excavation, or if you plan to do any work requiring digging near a company pipeline, please call the Prestonsburg City's Utilities Commission so that we can send qualified personnel to locate and properly mark the exact location of the pipeline. Knowing the exact location of the underground pipeline will reduce the possibility of property and/or personal and financial loss to both parties.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that Mr. Frank Fitzpatrick has filed an application with the Environmental and Public Protection Cabinet to stabilize and enhance 662 linear feet of stream along the Right Fork of Middle Creek, near the intersection of US 114 and KY 404. The reach of Right Fork of Middle Creek that is proposed to be stabilized is located in a rural area of Floyd County, near Prestonsburg, with a watershed size of 26 square miles. Currently, the targeted reach of the Right Fork of Middle Creek has tall eroded bank sections and is adding large amounts of sediment to the stream. Right Fork of Middle Creek is proposed to be improved with a combination of flood plain excavation, stability and habitat structures, and vegetative stabilization methods. Any comments concerning this application shall be directed to: Kentucky Division of Water, Water Resources Branch, 14 Reilly Road, Frankfort Office Park, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. Odds & Ends

■ SPRINGFIELD, Ore. — A number of gnomes and other creatures have taken sanctuary at the Springfield police station.

As part of a prank, somebody stole 75 lawn ornaments from around town and placed them meticulously on and around the lawn of one house on Oct. 17, police said.

Among the figurines are plastic and porcelain geese, deer, frogs are gnomes.

Police took them back to the station to help find the rightful owners.

"We need to get them out of here," Capt. Richard Harrison said. "Every time I leave my office they're sitting in my chair, working on my computer. I can't seem to get rid of the darn things."

The figurines will be put out for public viewing on Tuesday.

"If they come here and they can identify it we're more than happy to let the gnome go home," Harrison said.

Figurines that aren't claimed will be sold at auction.

■ MANSON, Wash. — Charles and Linda Everson were driving back to their hotel when their minivan was struck by a falling object — a 600-pound cow.

The Eversons were unhurt but the cow, which had fallen off a cliff, had to be euthanized.

The year-old cow fell about 200 feet from the cliff and landed on the hood of the couple's minivan, causing heavy damage.

A Chelan County fire chief, Arnold Baker, said the couple missed being killed by a matter of inches in the accident Sunday on a highway near Manson.

The Eversons, visiting the area from their home in Westland, Mich., to celebrate their first wedding anniversary, were checked at Lake Chelan Community Hospital as a precaution.

Everson, 49, said he didn't see the cow falling and didn't know what happened until afterward.

He said he kept repeating: "I don't believe this. I don't believe this."

■ HELL, Mich. — Life in Hell just got a little easier for John and Sue Wilson.

The couple, who live in the unincorporated town 45 miles west of Detroit, were blessed with a $115,001 windfall from the Michigan Lottery.

They won the big prize in the Fantasy 5 drawing held Wednesday — that is, Halloween.

"How cool is that?" said Sue Wilson, 43, a teacher's aide. Her husband is an electrician.

The couple said they plan to use their winnings to pay off bills, make some home improvements, buy a video game system for their 13-year-old son and possibly visit relatives in Georgia.

■ GRASS LAKE TOWNSHIP, Mich. — This township lived up to its name when authorities reported finding about 1,200 pounds of marijuana in a tractor-trailer.

The driver, a 43-year-old man from Tucson, Ariz., was jailed after Sunday's bust at a weigh station along Interstate 94 in Grass Lake Township, about 75 miles west of Detroit.

The trucker had been stopped for what state police called an equipment violation. An inspection turned up 48 bales of marijuana hidden among a shipment of sports drinks.

■ MURFREESBORO, Ark. — Chad Johnson has found about 80 diamonds at Crater of Diamonds State Park, but on Monday he nearly threw away his largest find yet.

A cube-shaped rock plucked out of his sifters turned out to be a 4.38-carat, tea-colored diamond.

Johnson, 36, made the dig Saturday at the park and left his equipment in a locker. When he came back Monday morning, he made the discovery.

Crater of Diamonds State Park, which opened in 1972, is the world's only diamond-producing site open to the public, and visitors can keep the gems they unearth. The largest diamond found at the park was the 16.37-carat Amarillo Starlight, a white diamond found in 1975.

Johnson's find is the second-largest diamond uncovered at the park this year. In June, a Louisiana man found a 4.8-carat stone. More than 700 diamonds have been found there this year.

Since moving to Arkansas from Iowa in February, Johnson said, he was living off money made by selling diamonds. He only recently took a job at a convenience store, partly because he "got tired of selling diamonds to make ends meet."

Park officials declined to speculate how much money Johnson could get for the diamond. Johnson suggested he expects much more than what he is used to getting.

"If someone offers me that much money, it's theirs," Johnson said.

■ DUBLIN, Texas — Another day, another bizarre world record for Jackie Bibby, the "Texas Snake Man."

Bibby spent about 45 minutes in a see-through bathtub with 87 rattlesnakes Monday, fully clothed, shattering his own record by 12 snakes just in time for Guinness World Records Day, which is Thursday. A Guinness official certified the record.

The snakes crawled under his arms, between his legs and anywhere else they could slither, Bibby said. None bit him.

"They can go wherever they want as long as they don't start biting," Bibby said. "The key to not biting is for me to stay still. Rapid movement scares a rattlesnake. If you move real slow and gentle, that doesn't seem to bother them."

Bibby sat in the dry tub with a pillow behind him, wearing regular clothing. The snakes were not defanged and still contained their venom, he said.

The clear bathtub was specially made several years ago for Bibby by the Guinness folks for a televised segment. He has used it for subsequent attempts at the record for sitting in a tub with snakes.

"I have set several world records in that bathtub," Bibby said.

The record was Bibby's latest grab at glory. Last year he set a Guinness-certified record by holding 10 rattlesnakes by their tails in his mouth at once. He said he hopes to break that record Tuesday by squeezing in an 11th.

The Texas Snake Man also claims to hold non-sanctioned records for climbing into a sleeping bag head first with 20 rattlesnakes and going in feet first with 112.

Dublin is about 120 miles southwest of Dallas.

■ LA CROSSE, Wis. — Gary Kidd had a pretty good idea that what his 3-year-old grandson had found was no rock, but the tooth of a woolly mammoth. That's because he had found one himself nine years ago.

Kaleb Kidd was chasing squirrels Monday at a family friend's property near La Crosse when he spotted what looked like an unusual rock.

"Grandpa, what's that?" Kaleb asked.

He told his grandson it looked like the tooth of the extinct woolly mammoth.

Next stop was the Mississippi Valley Archaeology Center at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse, which confirmed that it was, indeed, the tooth of a mammoth.

Connie Arzigian, the center's lab director, said it could be 10,000 to 30,000 years old. It weighs 2 pounds and measures 6 inches long and 3 inches wide.

The latest find is in better shape than the one Gary Kidd brought up from the bottom of the Mississippi River while clamming in 1998. That tooth was water-soaked and had fallen apart, he was told when he took it to the center.

The center already has a woolly mammoth tooth in its collection, but it's always fun to see someone discover another one, Arzigian said.

"It's wonderful to get an idea of what was here in the past," she said.

Gary Kidd, 46, said it would be up to Kaleb's father, Travis, to decide what to do with the tooth. For now it is on display at Satori Arts Gallery, much to Kaleb's dismay.

"When we dropped it down at the art gallery, he was crying. He didn't want to let it go," his granddad said. "At first he thought it was just a rock. Now he's all excited."

Raiders pull away, rout East Ridge

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

HI HAT – South Floyd closed out the regular-season on a winning note Friday night, defeating visiting East Ridge 46-18. The Raiders outscored East Ridge 16-0 in the opening quarter and never trailed en route to the win. South Floyd pulled away in the second half after leading 22-6 at the break. The Raiders owned a 28-18 advantage at the conclusion of the third quarter.

South Floyd rolled past East Ridge on the ground, rushing for 484 yards.

Kyle Howell led South Floyd in rushing with 179 yards and two touchdowns on 13 carries. Tyler Mitchell also did his part for the South Floyd offensive unit, rushing for 176 yards and three touchdowns via eight carries.

Mitchell put forth a great effort for the Raiders, returning a kickoff 72 yards for a touchdown.

Bobby Meade had 81 yards rushing on 12 carries for the Raiders.

David Slone added 48 yards rushing on two carries for host South Floyd.

South Floyd quarterback Chad Patrick completed five-of-nine passes for 46 yards. Mitchell was South Floyd's leading receiver, hauling in three passes for 29 yards. Raymond Jones and Austin Johnson each had one catch for the Raiders.

East Ridge finished its first season under Bobby Branham winless at 0-10.

The Raiders ended the regular-season 5-5. South Floyd will travel to Paintsville Friday night for an opening round playoff game versus Paintsville.

"My kids played hard Friday night against East Ridge," commented South Floyd Coach Donny Daniels. "The effort has been there throughout the season. We're looking forward to traveling to Paintsville for the first round of the playoffs."

South Floyd owned a first half lead over Paintsville when the two teams met during the regular-season. The Raiders, however, fell short in the second half of the district game.

Kickoff for the South Floyd-Paintsville game is set for 7:30 p.m.

The Class A, Region 6 Cross Country Meet was held Saturday Nov. 3 at Riverside Christian School. Participants were from Riverside, June Buchanan, Wolfe County, Lee County, Piarist, Phelps, Jenkins, Cordia, Paintsville, Buckhorn and Pikeville, which placed first. Taylor Moak, a junior at Piarist, finished ninth overall in the girls' competition and qualified as an individual to run at the state cross country meet to be held Nov. 10 at the Kentucky Horse Park.

Tigers handle Bears, 45-7

TIMES STAFF REPORT

GEORGETOWN – No. 17 Georgetown College scored 31 unanswered first-half points and routed to a 45-7 win over Pikeville College on Saturday afternoon at Toyota Stadium.

Georgetown (6-3, 3-1 in the Mid-South Conference East Division) got three touchdown passes from senior quarterback Andy Ahrens, all coming in the first half. The senior was 25-of-41 for 277 with three touchdowns in the win. He did throw three interceptions.

Pikeville (4-6, 2-2 MSC East) had no answer, finishing the first half with only 66 yards of total offense. The second half was better offensively, but by that point it was too little, too late.

The one bright spot for the Bears came from true freshman Kelin Morris, as the Gaffney, S.C. product had all three Pikeville interceptions to tie the school record. The mark was set by Shawn Woodard in Pikeville's first varsity game ever on Sept. 1, 2001, in an overtime loss to Stillman (Ala.) College.

Georgetown got on the scoreboard first when Dempsey Schlueter hit a 31-yard field goal less than three minutes in to the game. That was followed late in the quarter when Ahrens threw his first touchdown pass, this one a four-yarder to Nik Blair, to make it 9-0 after a failed PAT.

The Tigers blew it open with three second-quarter touchdowns. The first came on a 15-yard run by T.J. Kramer, followed by a pair of Ahrens passes, the first a four-yarder to Brian Piper followed by a 37-yarder to Kyle Howe.

John Keene ran for the conversion on the first and Schlueter hit the PATs on the final two to make it 31-0 at the half.

Later in the first half Chip English replaced starting quarterback Dan Wideman, and early in the third period it resulted in the only points of the day for the Bears. English hit junior Antwan Surratt over the middle for a 52-yard touchdown, ending a five-play, 66-yard drive. Sophomore Kyle Chilton's PAT made it 31-7.

Georgetown tacked on a pair of late scores, with James Brown carrying from 20 yards out and James Storts from 10 to make the final score.

Perry Central edges P'burg, 21-20

by JAMIE HOWELL

HAZARD – After seeing his team hold Shelby Valley scoreless in Week 10, Prestonsburg Coach John DeRossett was already looking ahead to his team's matchup with a much-improved Perry County Central team to close out the regular-season. The Commodores were coming off of five straight wins, while scoring over 40 points in each game. Prestonsburg entered the matchup fresh off of clinching the regular season number one seed in the district. What figured to be a shootout, turned into quite a defensive struggle Friday night. And in the end, host Perry County Central managed to slip past Prestonsburg, defeating the Blackcats in dramatic fashion, 21-20.

Perry Central got on the board first after a 40-yard pass completion took the football to the Blackcat one yard-line, Ryan Miller hit paydirt on the next play to give the Commodores an early 7-0 lead.

Prestonsburg then countered with a score of its own. Sophomore quarterback Michael Burchett found junior wideout Austin Gearheart with a 45-yard strike, which took the Blackcats to the Perry Central 8-yard-line. Two plays later, junior tailback Allen Craynon rumbled in for a six-yard touchdown, allowing the Blackcats to cut the lead to 7-6. Junior kicker Clay Jamerson had his extra-point attempt partially blocked and Perry Central held a 7-6 lead after one quarter.

Prestonsburg took the lead midway through the second quarter on a 16-yard touchdown pass from Burchett to Matt Sword. A two-point conversion run from Craynon gave Prestonsburg a 14-7 lead.

Perry Central evened the score at 14-14 before the break.

Both defenses came to play in the second half as the teams exchanged punts throughout most of the half.

Prestonsburg seemed to take command of the game with less than four minutes remaining when Craynon raced 80 yards for a touchdown giving Prestonsburg a 20-14 lead, but Jamerson's extra point attempt sailed wide left and the cats led by only six.

Perry Central faced a 4th and 8 from its own 35 with 1:18 left on the clock but the Blackcat defense could not make the stop and Amis scampered 65 yards for the touchdown. Perry Central's extra point attempt was good and the Commodores led 21-20 with 1:12 remaining. Prestonsburg would get to the Perry Central 14 yard line with 1.2 second left, but Jamerson's 31 yard field-goal attempt again sailed wide left as the clock expired. Perry Central managed to escape with a hard-fought 21-20 win.

Perry Central improved to 7-3. Prestonsburg fell to 7-3 after suffering the loss.

The Blackcats will open the Class 2A State Playoffs this Friday at home against the Morgan County Cougars. Kickoff for the playoff game is set for 7:30 p.m. at Blackcat Stadium.

Tennessee Tech tops Bears in preseason game

TIMES STAFF REPORT

COOKEVILLE, Tenn. – Tennessee Tech University got 17 points from All-OVC player Anthony Fisher and a double-double off the bench from Charles Moore to knock off Pikeville College 82-67 Sunday afternoon in an exhibition game played in the Eblen Center.

The Bears stayed close early and outscored the Golden Eagles by four in the second half, but in the latter stages of the first half, TTU pull away and put the game on ice.

The game is the second of three contests against NCAA Div. I competition this season for the Bears. Coming off last Wednesday game against Kentucky, the Bears played today and will play the last of these on Nov. 13 when they visit Marshall University in the debut of new Herd coach and Pikeville College Hall of Fame member Donnie Jones.

Senior Jeff Ferguson had 20 points and five rebounds to lead the Bears. He was 8-of-17 from the field. Ewan Linton, a junior from Kingston, Jamaica, followed with 15 points and seven rebounds. Junior William Harris added 10, all late in the second half.

Fisher, a 6-2 senior from Alpharetta, Ga., averaged 17.2 points and 4.3 assists a year ago and was named preseason all-conference for Coach Mike Sutton's Golden Eagles, who were picked to finish third in the OVC. Fisher was 6-of-9 from the floor and made all four free throws to lead his team.

Coming off knee surgery that has slowed him to a degree, Fisher, also had four assists and a pair of rebounds.

Moore, a 6-7 junior from St. Louis, came off the bench to had 14 points and 11 rebounds in only 19 minutes of action. Daniel Northern, a 6-9 junior from Warner-Robins, Ga., had 14 points and seven rebounds for the Golden Eagles, who dominated the glass 44-30.

Pikeville shot only 41.8 percent for the game and 31.6 percent from the arc, while Tech finished 45.2 percent overall and made 25 percent of its threes.

Miners open inaugural training camp

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIKEVILLE – Training camp got underway late last week for East Kentucky's professional basketball team. The East Kentucky Miners opened their first training camp on Friday, Nov. 2 at the East Kentucky Exposition Center. East Kentucky had a pair of practices at the Expo Center on Friday before moving camp over to neighboring Pike County Central High School. The Miners are one of four expansion teams in the Continental Basketball Association (CBA).

"Overall, the work ethic has been great," said East Kentucky Miners Coach Kevin Keathley. "Each of the guys that we have in camp are giving 110-percent. I couldn't be any more excited about the sessions we've had thus far."

The East Kentucky professional basketball team will take its show on the road during the upcoming week with the

Meet the Miners Tour. As part of the Meet the Miners Tour, practice sessions will be held at the Knott County Sportsplex (Nov. 8), Johnson Central High School (Nov. 10) and Belfry High School (Nov. 12). The Meet the Miners Tour will afford the East Kentucky team stops in three different area counties.

Conditioning has been the focus of the East Kentucky pro basketball team's early practice sessions. Keathley is a coach known for his passion and one who favors an uptempo style of play.

"We've got two weeks of two-a-days to get this team ready," said Keathley. "We're building a team concept. We want to build throughout the year and become one cohesive unit."

The East Kentucky Expo Center will host Miner Madness on Tuesday, Nov. 13 from 7-9 p.m. Miner Madness will include a "Name the Mascot" contest. Everyone in attendance during Miner Madness will have the opportunity to vote on the mascot's name by dropping a ballot in a designated box as they exit the event. The Miners organization will select the winner one day later on Nov. 14. The winner of the contest will receive two season tickets, an autographed team ball, a picture with the mascot and recognition before tip-off of the home opener.

The Miners will make their debut on Friday, Nov. 16 in a road game versus the Pittsburgh Xplosion. The East Kentucky professional basketball team will host Pittsburgh on Sunday, Nov. 18 in its first home game.

Smith acquiring New Hampshire track for $340 million

by STEPHEN HAWKINS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FORT WORTH, Texas — New Hampshire International Speedway will have a new owner, and still has both of its NASCAR Nextel Cup dates — for now.

Speedway Motorsports chairman Bruton Smith confirmed Friday that he has agreed to buy the New Hampshire track for $340 million from 80-year-old independent owner Bob Bahre in a deal that should be completed early next year.

Smith was much less direct about how the purchase could affect his long-standing desire to add a second Cup race at Las Vegas, one of the other six tracks Smith already owns.

"We don't plan to make any changes at this time," Smith said. "We're new in this. We've just done this. It's going to take us some time to develop all of our plans that concern the speedway there."

There is widespread speculation that Smith will move one of the races from New Hampshire, possibly the Chase for the Nextel Cup race, to Las Vegas as early as 2009.

Asked numerous times and different ways about that possibility Friday, Smith maintained that it was too early to know.

"We've only been here a week, and have not had time to develop some of the answers to some of your questions," Smith said from Texas, one of his tracks and where the NASCAR Nextel Cup, Busch and Trucks series run this weekend.

Bahre said he was hopeful that Smith wouldn't move one of New Hampshire's races, but acknowledged that there is nothing in the deal that would prevent that from happening.

"I told him I didn't want any dates going out of there, but I can't stop him," Bahre said. "I told him, 'Bruton, I hope you'll keep them here.' I got the feeling he would."

Smith said at least four other entities, including Boston Red Sox owner John Henry, also were trying to buy New England's largest sports venue. Smith said at least one potential buyer offered more money than he did.

But Smith said his friendship with Bahre was likely a "big factor" in getting the deal done. Bahre will remain involved with the track as a consultant to Smith.

"We look forward to working closely with Bruton Smith and his team during the upcoming transition and for years to come," Bahre said.

Other potential buyers were George Gillett, a Canadian billionaire who is part owner of Gillett-Evernham Motorsports and also owns the NHL's Montreal Canadiens; Kentucky Speedway owner Jerry Carroll; and Roger Penske.

NASCAR said there would be no changes to the 2008 season schedule released last month.

"While we don't have any details about SMI's plans for NHIS, all sanctions for 2008 have been signed and finalized," NASCAR chairman Brian France said. "As a result, there will be no location changes to the 2008 schedule."

France said, however, that NASCAR would consider requests by any track operator about relocating future race dates.

Las Vegas general manager Chris Powell said NASCAR has made it clear in the past that the way to get another date at his track would be through Speedway Motorsports, which has 10 Cup races at its tracks before adding the New Hampshire dates.

"I think there's more of an opening now than we've ever had," said Powell, who attended Smith's news conference. "Now that our company is expanding somewhat, Bruton seemed to me to leave the door open a little bit for the future."

Bahre purchased his motorsports park in 1989 and turned it into a mile superspeedway the next year.

There were 101,000 fans at New Hampshire on Sept. 16, which was the track's 26th consecutive sellout. That race came on the same day the Red Sox played the New York Yankees at Fenway Park and the New England Patriots were at home against San Diego.

Bahre and Smith purchased North Wilkesboro Speedway in North Carolina for $14 million in the mid-1990s, then moved the two NASCAR cup dates that were run there to their tracks, including the first Texas date. The deal for New Hampshire gave Smith full ownership of Wilkesboro.

Beside Texas and Las Vegas, Smith also owns Atlanta Motor Speedway, Bristol Motor Speedway, Infineon Raceway in California and Lowe's Motor Speedway in North Carolina.

Smith said buying New Hampshire won't have any affect on his thoughts about replacing Lowe's with a new track somewhere in the Charlotte area.

Bears

English was 16-of-32 for 188 yards in relief, throwing a touchdown and two interceptions. He is the school's alltime leader in all five categories. Lamb caught five for 73 yards while Surratt finished with 80 on three catches.

But on the ground, the numbers were horrid for the guests, finishing with minus 3 yards on 21 carries. Wideman had eight yards on seven carries before leaving, and he led the team.

Brown led Georgetown with 94 yards on 17 carries as the Tigers had 240 yards on 45 tries to give them 530 yards of total yards.

Defensively, Pikeville got 10 tackles from sophomore linebacker Kenny Harris. Freshman Anson Cunningham followed with eight, with sophomore John Brown adding seven.

The Bears will close out the season next Saturday when they host the University of the Cumberlands. The Senior Day contest is set for a 1:30 p.m. kick-off.

Kentucky due back in action versus Vanderbilt

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON — Coming off back-to-back losses and an open date, the University of Kentucky football team will hope to bounce back on Saturday when it travels to Nashville to face Vanderbilt.

The Wildcats are vying to notch their fourth consecutive win against the Commodores, including their second consecutive in Nashville. Kentucky is the Southeastern Conference's leader in pass offense, averaging 273.9 yards per game through the air behind senior signal-caller André Woodson, who is averaging a league-best 270.1 yards per game.

The Wildcats are seeking to post their seventh win of the season in back-to-back years for the first time since 1976-77. Kentucky is bowl-eligible in consecutive years for the first time since the 1998-99 campaigns.

Vanderbilt is coming off a 49-22 loss at Florida last Saturday in Gainesville, Fla., but has won two of its last three games, including an upset victory on the road against South Carolina on Oct. 20. The Commodores need one win to become bowl-eligible for the first time since 1982.

Kentucky hasn't been on the field in a game since dropping a Homecoming contest to longtime rival Mississippi State.

Some college gigs now more about preference than prestige

by JEFFREY McMURRAY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON — How green are the coaching pastures of the Bluegrass? That all depends on perspective.

Billy Gillispie left a Texas A&M program he built from the ground up to take over the reins at Kentucky, Division I's winningest school and the type of job he says basketball junkies like him always dream of landing.

"What an honor," Gillispie said at a pep rally when he took the job. "It's a great honor for me to be here standing at the place where they basically invented basketball. You talk about one of the best positions in all of sports, not just college basketball, but all of sports — the head basketball coach at Kentucky."

To some coaches, Kentucky may be a dream job. To others, it's the college basketball equivalent of the New York Yankees, complete with a fan base considered knowledgeable, spirited and demanding — some argue excessively so.

Before Gillispie accepted the high-profile post, incumbent Tubby Smith surprisingly left it for the colder climate and lower expectations at Minnesota, which was coming off a 9-22 season.

Shortly after taking over at Minnesota, Smith set some expectation ground rules with the local media.

"I don't care about you guys' expectation," Smith said. "I'm worried about the team's expectations or my expectations, because we see them every day. We're the experts."

Gophers center Spencer Tollackson said Smith's resume — 10 straight NCAA tournament appearances and a national championship at Kentucky — provides just the sort of jolt the program needs.

"He's a proven winner, man, and that's why we're really excited that he came here," Tollackson said.

Kentucky's players are satisfied with their new guy, too.

"What don't I like about him? That's the question," senior guard Ramel Bradley said of Gillispie. "I just love how intense he is as a coach and the fact that he wants us to get better as players. He wants to show us that he loves us and cares about us."

After Smith left, Kentucky courted Florida's Billy Donovan, who once served there as an assistant under Rick Pitino. Donovan told the Wildcats he wasn't interested, briefly accepted a job with the Orlando Magic, then backed out, opting to stay with the two-time national champions.

The hierarchy of college coaches used to be far more defined. There were the traditional jobs everybody wanted — Kentucky, North Carolina, Kansas, Indiana — and others fell into place below them.

Now what lures coaches to one job over another is murkier. Often, the biggest coaching names do end up at the basketball powerhouses but, depending on circumstances, they also head elsewhere.

Bob Huggins, who earned his stripes at Cincinnati, recruited one of the top classes in the country after one year at Kansas State. But when John Beilein left for Michigan and an opening popped up at West Virginia, his alma mater, Huggins was quick to take it.

South Alabama's John Pelphrey, Donovan's former assistant, had been rumored headed to Florida to take the top coaching spot if Donovan left. Instead, he signed with Arkansas after Stan Heath was fired. Heath did end up in Florida, as South Florida's new coach.

Rick Majerus coached Utah to the national championship game in 1998, losing to Smith's Kentucky team. He left the Utes in 2004 because of his health, accepted a job at Southern California shortly thereafter, then changed his mind a few days later. Now Majerus is back in the coaching circles hoping to turn around the fortunes at Saint Louis.

With the coaching carousel more unpredictable this off-season than it had been in years, Gillispie says he understands how up-and-coming coaching prospects can be torn between staying at a once-fledgling program they helped build or hopping to one with more history.

Gillispie says it was tough to leave Texas A&M, long a football school that had begun to develop a basketball passion with a round of 16 appearance last year and nationally recognized star in Acie Law.

"That's a great place where I just left, and this is a great place too," Gillispie said. "One is gaining basketball tradition and one has had it for years and years."

Mark Turgeon, who led Wichita State to the round of 16 in 2006, replaced Gillispie in College Station. He said the only way he would have "moved up" in the profession was to accept a job in the Big 12, the conference that generates most of the attention in Kansas and the surrounding area.

Huggins left Kansas State for a West Virginia team that returns eight players, including three starters, from the one that won the NIT last season. Still, the Mountaineers are picked to finish 10th in the Big East.

Meanwhile, the team he left behind in Manhattan might challenge in the Big 12 under their new coach, former Huggins assistant Frank Martin.

"The hardest thing about starting in your first year — and I think all coaches would say this — is that you have to teach everybody," Huggins said. "A year from now we're not going to have to teach everybody and we'll have guys helping the new guys and the younger guys because they know what they are doing."

Beilein says the barometer for future success for a new coach — big program or small — has little to do with the coach's resume or the school's past laurels. Rather, it's all about adjustments.

"The only way we can be successful in the process is if we learn from our failures," Beilein said. "Failures are fertilizer for growth."

Local woman chosen for Kentucky basketball clinic

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PRESTONSBURG — What

began as a joke became a dream come true for a local Prestonsburg woman. Kitty R. Holbrook, on a dare, registered for the first annual University of Kentucky's Basketball Clinic 101 for Women held in September. Miraculously, she was chosen. The clinic proved to be one of the best five hours a basketball fanatic could ever spend.

University of Kentucky Coach Billy Gillispie hosted the event, along with assistant coaches, players, longtime equipment manager Bill Keightley and other UK basketball personnel. Highlights of the event were dinner, tours of the Wildcat Lounge, the new state-of-the-art Joe Craft practice facility, including study areas for players, tech rooms, locker rooms and Gillispie, himself, led some of the tours and stayed with the group the entire time.

Concluding the clinic was an extensive question/answer autograph and photo session with all UK basketball personnel and players.

"Well, I could have died happy," said Holbrook. "However, having had this experience most definitely solidifies the fact. Seriously, I continue to be amazed at how we were treated. The fact that we had unlimited conversation time with everyone was just unbelievable — and the coach was like talking to an old friend. Go Big Blue!"

offices. Joe Craft was also in attendance at the clinic. The women in attendance at the clinic also participated in drills for new plays for the team that will be implemented this year.

Patterson dominates as Wildcats beat Seattle in exhibition

by JEFFREY McMURRAY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON — Freshman Patrick Patterson scored 17 points and had a perfect shooting night to help No. 20 Kentucky tune up with an 82-63 exhibition victory over Seattle on Saturday night.

The highly touted power forward out of West Virginia started for new coach Billy Gillispie and carried the team on both ends of the court.

He was 6-of-6 from the field, made all five free throws, then added seven defensive rebounds and three blocked shots.

"He's a dominant force," Gillispie said. "I don't think that we did a good enough job getting him the ball. We have to understand where our bread is going to be buttered. That was a lot of buttering right there."

Kentucky, 2-0 in exhibition games, opens Tuesday against Central Arkansas in the first round of the 2K Sports College Hoops Classic.

Within a span of just 4 seconds early in the second half. Patterson showed how he can take over a game, as he did numerous times leading Huntington High to three straight state titles.

First he dunked home an alley-oop pass from Jodie Meeks, picking up a foul in the process to turn it into a 3-point play. Then, returning to defense, he swatted away a shot in the paint as the Wildcats regained possession.

"He's a great inside presence," senior guard Joe Crawford said. "He makes big plays, then hustles back."

The Rupp Arena crowd roared after Patterson's dunk and block combo, but Patterson pumped up the volume further by waving his arms in the air.

"You've got to know your role on the team, when to step in and when to step up," Patterson said.

The Wildcats trailed 6-3 early in the first half when Patterson banked in his first basket, then Perry Stevenson made two free throws to give Kentucky the lead for good.

Those points started a 12-0 run, and Kentucky added a 16-0 run later in the half to put the game out of reach.

Kentucky, which overwhelmed Pikeville in its first exhibition game Thursday with Meeks' shooting, held Seattle to just 34 percent of their shots, including just 27 percent in the first half.

Joe Crawford had 14 points for the Wildcats before fouling out. The teams combined for 53 personal fouls.

Ryan Coldren led the Redhawks with 21 points.

The exhibition commemorated Kentucky's victory over Seattle in the 1958 national championship game at Louisville's Freedom Hall. Members of both teams were recognized at halftime.

The news wasn't all good for Kentucky. Sophomore forward Ramon Harris left the game with an injury to his left foot. He will have an MRI Sunday to determine if there is a fracture.

Johnson wins third straight race, takes Cup points lead

by MIKE HARRIS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FORT WORTH, Texas — Jimmie Johnson was caught between his competitive urge to win and the big-picture reality that a mistake could cost him a shot at another NASCAR Nextel Cup championship.

The urge to win won — and so did Johnson.

The reigning Cup champion came out on top after a dramatic side-by-side duel with Matt Kenseth, grabbing his third straight victory and, more important, wresting the series points lead from Jeff Gordon on Sunday at Texas Motor Speedway.

The race with Kenseth was breathtaking at times, with both cars wiggling dangerously as they came off the corners nearly touching.

"That was tough racing," Johnson said. "Matt was crowding me and I was trying to move him up a little bit and we were doing all that at 190 miles an hour. It was pretty intense."

The entire time Johnson was well aware a crash would have taken him right out of the championship battle.

"I feel like I was doing a good job balancing those emotions in the car," he said. "When I got inside of Matt and tried for a lap or two to get by him and he was crowding me, I actually backed off and let him go. So I just checked those feelings and regrouped and then went back after him."

"But, after seeing the video when I was doing the Victory Lane interview, I was more sideways than I felt like I was," Johnson added, laughing. "I think I was too focused on the prize and I was pretty crossed up a couple of times."

Even team owner Rick Hendrick was unnerved by the side-by-side racing.

"We've got an awful lot at stake here," Hendrick said. "You know Jeff was running seventh and I thought, 'We don't need to do this.' But I felt like Jimmie was under control. I was nervous and I was wanting to hit the (radio) button, but I didn't."

Johnson, who began the day nine points behind Hendrick Motorsports teammate Gordon, moved out to a 30-point lead with two races remaining in the Chase for the championship.

Gordon, a four-time champion, led early in the race, but was no factor in the late going, struggling with handling before managing to squeeze out a hard-earned seventh-place finish that kept the points battle close heading to Phoenix next week.

Johnson, who took the points lead for good at Texas last year on the way to his first and only title, said, "I do know we're racing for the championship and now we have control of it, I guess."

Kenseth was one of four drivers who moved to the front on the final pit stops by the leaders on lap 301, taking only two tires. Chad Knaus, Johnson's crew chief, decided to change all four on the No. 48 Chevrolet and his driver came out fifth for the restart on lap 306 of the 334-lap race.

"I felt like four tires would be better than two with that many laps left, but I also knew that we needed to be the first car that changed four tires to get out of the pits," Knaus said. "The guys did a great job getting us out there where we needed to be."

Kenseth took the lead from Ryan Newman on the restart and it took Johnson until lap 313 to move to second. He then began closing quickly on the No. 17 Ford of Kenseth, who had a lead of just over one second.

Once Johnson caught him, the two battled lap after lap, bumping at least once.

"We raced a long time, but he was probably pretty confident I wasn't going to wreck him," said Kenseth, who also finished second in Texas in April when he was passed on the last lap by Jeff Burton. "I didn't get him much extra room at all."

"I felt like I was sideways the whole time. One time, (I) just about spun out. That would have been bad. I'm glad I was able to gather that up and keep going."

They crossed the finish line exactly even — the timing showing the difference as 0.000 seconds — on lap 328 and lap 332 as Kenseth, the 2003 Cup champion, tried desperately to hold off Johnson.

But the determined Johnson, who was shown as the leader on lap 332, finally got some space on Kenseth with two laps to go and raced away to his nine victory of the season, winning by 0.944 seconds — about 10 car-lengths.

It was Johnson's 32nd career victory and first on the 1.5-mile Texas oval. He led four times Sunday for a total of nine laps.

A disappointed Kenseth said, "He ran me down from a long way back. I don't know how fast he was, but I was steadily losing grip. Four tires is just too much."

Third-place Clint Bowyer, the surprise of the Chase, saw his chances for a championship all but end when he had to make two green-flag stops because of a tire vibration, losing two laps and finishing 19th. That left him a daunting 181 points behind Johnson.

The results also mathematically eliminated six of the 12 drivers in the Chase, including 10th-place Kenseth. Busch, Carl Edwards and two-time champion Tony Stewart remain alive in the Chase — barely.

Kyle Busch is 339 points behind Johnson, with Edwards 357 back and Stewart 373 behind.

Pole-winner Martin Truex Jr. finished third, followed by Busch, who led a race-high 143 laps but fell from first to seventh on the final pit stop. Newman finished fifth and Burton held off Gordon for sixth.

Bills turn back visiting Bengals, 33-21

by JOHN WAWROW
ASSOCIATED PRESS

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Who needs to debate the Bills' revolving door at quarterback when Marshawn Lynch showed he can effectively fill two positions?

The rookie running back threw a touchdown pass and ran for another on consecutive fourth-quarter possessions, sparking Buffalo's popgun attack in a 33-21 win over the Cincinnati Bengals on Sunday.

No big deal, said Lynch, the first-round pick who has now helped produce six of the Bills' nine offensive touchdowns this season.

"Aw, man, it was high school. Pitch and catch with Robert Royal," Lynch said, referring to his 8-yard pass to the tight end that put the Bills up for good, 26-21 with 5:51 remaining. "I just wanted to make sure I got that tight spiral on the ball."

He was as effective as J.P. Losman, who put up big numbers but lacked finish in attempting to win back his starting job.

Losman went 24-of-34 for 295 yards with a touchdown and interception in making his first start in five weeks. He was filling in for rookie Trent Edwards, who sprained his right hand in a 13-3 win at the New York Jets last week.

Losman's problem is the same that plagued Edwards so far this season. Against Cincinnati, after Lee Evans caught an 8-yard touchdown pass on the opening possession, the Bills settled for four field goals on four trips inside the Bengals 20 before Lynch took over.

Lynch finished with a career-best 153 yards rushing, capped by a splendid 56-yard touchdown run with 2:22 left. He helped the Bills produce 479 yards offense, matching their most since a 49-31 loss to Oakland on Oct. 6, 2002.

The Bills (4-4) have won three straight and four of five to overcome an 0-3 start.

"It's real big. It's big for everybody in this locker room," said Evans, who had a season-best 165 yards receiving. "The mistakes we made early in the season, we're not making now. We just have to keep it rolling."

The Bengals (2-6) not only lost for the sixth time in seven games, they also might have lost Chad Johnson. The colorful wide receiver was carted off the field on a stretcher with 2 minutes left and then transported to a Buffalo-area hospital as a precaution after complaining of neck pain.

Johnson rejoined the team in time for his flight home to Cincinnati after tests came back normal, Bengals spokesman Jack Brennan said.

Coach Marvin Lewis said Johnson never lost consciousness and had movement in all extremities.

Johnson was hurt when he was sandwiched by Bills defenders Donte Whitner and Coy Wire while attempting a diving catch over the middle. The game was delayed for about 10 minutes as Johnson was attended to by team trainers.

The Bengals continue to be undone by a porous and injury-depleted defense, which entered the game allowing 385 yards offense and 30 points.

"I'm not happy about it and there's nothing I can change about it," Lewis said. "We're disappointed."

The Bengals squandered two leads and failed to take advantage of Glenn Holt's 100-yard kickoff return that put them up 14-10 in late in the second quarter.

Cincinnati's offense sputtered down the stretch, managing 22 yards and one first down on its first three possessions of the fourth quarter.

"We're just not a very good football team," quarterback Carson Palmer said. "I don't have words for the way we feel in this locker room about this game, about this season. And it's frustrating."

T.J. Houshmandzadeh, with a 15-yard catch, and Jeremi Johnson, with a 12-yard catch, also scored for the Bengals.

For Houshmandzadeh, it was his 10th touchdown reception to set a career high. He also extended his scoring streak to eight games, the longest to start a season since Elroy Hirsch scored in 10 straight games with the Los Angeles Rams in 1961.

The Bengals, however, were stymied by the Bills' no-name defense that limited the Bengals to 28 yards rushing. That included Rudi Johnson managing 11 yards on nine carries; he missed three of the past four games with a hamstring injury.

"It's about earning respect," linebacker Angelo Crowell said after leading the Bills with 14 tackles. "Going out there and beating Cincinnati ... and doing those types of things eventually gains respect."

The incredible edible

Every once in a while I run across an ad on TV, or a gadget used for frying eggs; one of those "not $50, not $40, not $30...but only $19.95" types of gadgets.

Clyde Pack

"Are you tired of your eggs looking like this?"

His words imply that this is not what eggs are supposed to look like, but what I saw was exactly the way my mom's eggs looked, and brought back memories to the point I could almost smell them frying. They also look the way mine look today, when I fry eggs, which I'll admit is not very often.

When I was a coal-camp kid, eggs were an important part of my diet. Since I never left for school a day in my life that Mom hadn't fixed breakfast, and since those were the days before chocolate sugar-laden cereals and a dozen varieties of pop tarts, eggs were a breakfast staple at our house.

I figure I ate at least one egg every day for the first 15 or 16 years of my life. In my teen years, I most always had a couple each morning, and often ate egg sandwiches for lunch. About the only time Mom boiled them was when she fixed deviled eggs for Sunday dinner. Those were very good too, and seldom did we ever have any of them left over.

Anyway, what brought up the subject of eggs in the first place, other

Don't give up on your dreams

It's probably clearly evident by now that Joel Osteen is one of many of my favorite Pastors. His messages are so full of encouragement and love it is easy to be uplifted and encouraged.

This past Sunday his message was AGAIN awesome.

In this hurry up, full of trials and tribulations world of ours and daily lives we lead it is sometimes too easy for us to get discouraged and not see any possible way our dreams could come to reality.

We get hurt, we deal with conflict, strained relationships and during it all try hard to take on the "I don't care anymore attitude," things aren't going to change and it doesn't look like things will ever get better.

But, God keeps His promises and we have to be bold and stay in Faith that our hearts desires will come to manifestation in His time.

God is a God of restoration!

And He will restore the years we have lost. We just have to keep His promises on the forefront of our thinking. Speak positive, think positive,

The Great Mountain Slide

A true, short story from the Molly's Cabin series, 'The Adventures of Locus Krumb'

by LANCE GREENLAY

About 1948, we were running low on sweet treats for the coming winter months. Candy, as much as Granny made of it, didn't last too long around our place. So, with the shortage of sweets around, Pap decided it was as good a time as any for us to keep a sharp lookout for honeybees. When we found a wild hive, he would get someone to come smoke them out and then rob their honey.

All through the summer, while the wild flowers were in bloom, we were told again and again to watch for bees going in a straight line up the hill from the locust flowers. "Locus, you and Arlie keep a good eye out now," Pap would say. "We're going to need a lot of honey, especially for breakfast in the winter time."

Arlie and me were bad to steal grapes off the vines as they were getting ripe. "Don't bother them grapes," Granny would say every morning, "we need them for jelly and preserves." Nonetheless, we would eat all we could while picking them to give to Granny for cooking and canning. None seemed to show up missing.

Next came the chore of churning so that we could have butter, cream, and drinking milk from our cow, "Ol' Bessie." Arlie would help me churn and we would raise the lid and never miss a stroke while he took a cup and got us some fresh butter off the top. "Don't stop, Locus, don't stop," my brother would whisper to me as he scooped that treat for us while keeping an eye and an ear out for Granny. "Don't raise that churn lid," Granny would call out now and then, "don't raise that churn lid till I tell you to stop!" We were, needless to say, very good at churning, or at least, should I say, we were never caught stealing a taste.

As we were looking for some adventure to get into one afternoon, I spotted several bees going up the hill. It was going to be a job that would take several hours, so I took my time and picked one and followed it until it flew out of sight. So, I waited for another one to come my way. I never moved. And sure enough, I saw my next bee coming up fast. I followed several bees that evening until it started to get dark. I marked my spot with some rocks and hurried back down the hill to the house and told Arlie about my bee trail. We went to sleep that night thinking about all the honey and comb we were going to sneak and eat. We drifted off to sleep in a sweet dream.

Up before daylight, we ate breakfast and went to the garden to do some last season hoeing. After this last trip, Pap said the garden would be "laid by." That meant no more hoeing for this year, and lots more time to play.

After we finished, Arlie and me went up to my marked place to try to catch sight of those bees. After only a short time, we saw some flying "heavily loaded on their legs," with nectar they had gotten from the locust flowers they were still working. We were almost to the top of the hill when Arlie yelled, "I see the bee tree! I see the bee tree!" Sure enough, there it was! We could see honey running out of that big slit high up on a big Black Gum tree over halfway up. We marked our spot where we could find the tree again and hurried home. We told Pap and he said he wanted us to take him to the tree to see if it was worth the trouble to rob. My bare feet were beginning to get sore!

When we got back to our bee tree, Pap sure was satisfied. "I don't think I've ever seen a hive that big in all my years," he told us. "Locus, you and Arlie have done a great job finding this hive. I'm proud of you both. It sure looks like a great big haul. We'll go home and get everything we need to carry the honey. We'll be ready early in the morning. I'll get ol' Fred to climb the tree and smoke them bees away."

Up early once again, Ol' Fred was at the front door the next morning. He was, as he would say, "the best smoker of bees round these parts." So, bright and early, up that high hill we all went. When we got to the tree, Ol' Fred said, "We can't climb this big Gum. We need a good sharp doubled bit axe to chop her down."

I told Pap I'd run home and get the axe. I hurried as fast as I could down that hill. I stumbled and stumped my long toe on my right foot, the toe next to my big toe. The hide was torn off it and I fell down and grabbed my foot and squalled out pretty loud. I got back up and was almost to the house when I fell and stumped the same toe all over again. "Lord, Lord!" I cried. "Help me make it to the house."

I finally made it and found the big axe and took off again up the hillside, but this time I took great care. That axe had been honed to a razor's edge. I made it okay to the Gum tree, but I was sure out of breath and my toe hurting so didn't help matters much, either.

Ol' Fred and Pap took turns cutting the tree. When it was almost ready to fall, Ol' Fred put bee clothes on, lit his smoker, and chopped a few more licks as we got safely out of the way. That big Gum came down hard against the ground. After the bees were smoked away, we started filling everything we had full of honey and combs. Arlie and I sneaked a big chunk each to enjoy on our way down the hill.

We went around the side of the hill a few yards from the tree. "Go home, boys!" Pap yelled at us. "Go home now!" We started eating our prize and I suddenly felt a burning on my bottomside plumb through my overalls. I started yelling and grabbing at my behind and, all of a sudden, Arlie was going at it, too! "Bees!" we yelled, "Honeybees!" We ran, then dropped down and started scooting our behinds as hard as we could on the ground. We picked up speed pretty quickly. We were moving faster than we could have ever run downhill.

Suddenly, right in front of us, Ol' Fred and Pap were taking their sweet time down the hill. I plowed right into Ol' Fred and Arlie hit Pap pretty hard with both feet. All four of us knocked down several small saplings and rocks as we slid all the way down the hill.

At the bottom, where we finally came to a stop, all of us had raw, sore bottoms and all the honey we had been carrying was spread out from the big Black Gum tree to our landing spot. All the honey was ruined. "I've never seen a mountain slide like this," Ol' Fred laughed, "not ever." "A great mountain slide," Pap said, "a great mountain slide. Only these boys could cause one like this."

"I guess we're in bad trouble," Pap. We're both sorry," I said. Pap just looked at us straight in the eye and said, "It was your first tree and honey. You found it, but just this time, we'll go back up and get the rest of the honey, just me and Ol' Fred. Get yourselves cleaned up and put some yellow sulfur and lard on your bee stings and stay out of anymore trouble."

Pap and Ol' Fred started off back up the hill to the Black Gum tree then, laughing at me and Arlie along the way.

Watch for 'deer in the headlights' during peak mating season

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) is once again joining the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and law enforcement agencies across the Commonwealth in a campaign urging motorists to focus on defensive driving during the upcoming deer mating season.

Close encounters of the wrong kind with deer pose several problems which are a matter of concern to Transportation Cabinet Secretary Bill Nighbert. "Obviously we are concerned for the safety of motorists. Deer-related crashes can result in serious injuries and, in some cases, death," said Nighbert. "We are also very much aware of the financial burdens these collisions cause. For those reasons, we can not overstate the importance of drivers being more cautious and on the lookout for deer this time of year."

Nationally, an estimated 500,000 vehicle collisions with deer occur on U.S. roadways each year, causing an average of $2,000 in damage per vehicle.

Despite the popular misconception that hunters are flushing the deer out into the roadways in greater numbers this time of year due to hunting season (Kentucky's Modern Gun Season for deer begins November 10), the most influential stimulus is the decrease in daylight which triggers the mating urge in deer.

"Simply stated, this is the time of year that deer breed," said David Yancy, senior wildlife biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife. "All of the activity associated with the whitetail mating

Ten Years Ago (November 19 and November 21, 1997)

One of three people who discovered Billy Jo Mitchell's body, says he saw a man, whom he believes was Andy Mitchell, leave Ms. Mitchell's home, uninjured, within seconds after hearing five gunshots, ring out from the residence.

A draft of the state's six-year road plan proposes numerous projects in Floyd County, including the replacement of Town Branch Bridge and the relocation of Meade Hill in Left Beaver.

Lance Daniels, 1st Lt. JAG officer with the 9th LSO (legal support organization) of the U.S. Army Reserves, prompted the donation of an all-weather flag at the courthouse, Daniels said he procured the flag, after noticing the "torn and faded" flag that was flying in honor of the county's veterans.

Ervin Printice Ginther, 35, of Auxier, was arrested by Prestonsburg patrolman Patrick Conley, in January, during an intense standoff, after Ginther allegedly kidnapped a Floyd County man, robbed him at gunpoint; stole his vehicle and then robbed Prestonsburg's Winn-Dixie grocery store in the Prestonsburg Village Shopping Center.

With Floyd County's Board of Education lacking enough members to constitute a quorum, the Kentucky Board of Education is now responsible for conducting the district's business. The board's regular monthly meeting was set for Tuesday, but interim superintendent Martin Carr sent notices out Monday, that the meeting has been cancelled.

One applicant for the vacancy on Floyd County's Board of Education in District One, has removed his name from consideration. Ned Pillersdorf, Prestonsburg Attorney, informed Education Commissioner Wilmer Cody in a letter dated November 12, that he no longer was seeking the position.

State education officials have reopened the application period for persons seeking to serve on the Floyd County Board of Education in District Two.

Criminal Court Judge James E. Beckner ruled Tuesday, that all six defendants in the Lillelid murder case will be tried together in one trial. The decision came after Judge Beckner heard oral arguments for separate trials, from attorneys representing the defendants.

Leo Moore, 40, of Wayland, was fatally injured Wednesday, after he was thrown from his vehicle during an accident on Route 80 near Martin.

It may be old news to area residents that the magisterial form of government in Floyd County will soon become "no more than a relic of olden days," but the question of how the commission form of government will affect constables may be an issue that has not been considered. What was once hailed as a public/private venture that would produce 300 good-paying jobs in Floyd County is going on the auction block next month. RND, a lighting manufacturing company, located at Warco, filed for bankruptcy, and went out of business.

Marlow Tackett and Larry Ferguson sorted gifts donated by area merchants and residents, which will be given to needy families during Marlow's Christmas celebration in December.

Forty Years Ago (November 16, 1967)

A contract for the construction of a bridge and approach over Mud Creek, on the Banner-Prater Creek-Harold road, has been awarded by the Highway Department, it was announced.

The Floyd County Community Development Committee elected Cutis Clark, of Prestonsburg, its chairman for the next year, here, last Thursday.

The Floyd County Board of Education has approved the 1967-'68 salary schedule for teachers, and it reflects raises, ranging from a minimum of $250 to $550 a year.

Formation of an organization with the specific purpose of assisting toward the development of Big Sandy River communities, in the southern end of the county, will be affected, Nov. 28, at a meeting scheduled at Betsy Layne.

There died: Mrs. Sarah Osley, 58, Friday, at her home at West Prestonsburg; Miss Lena Johnson, 65, Tuesday, at her home at Melvin; Mrs. Corda Harless, 85, formerly of Floyd County, Saturday; Alex DeLong, 91, of Lancer, Wednesday, at Paintsville; Vernon Martin, 50, Nov. 3, at his home at Martin.

Fifty Years Ago (November 14, 1957)

Two explosions rent pipelines of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company over the week-end, and the strike which has brought operations to a standstill appeared no nearer settlement, this week, than when it began, Oct. 19.

The losing Beehive ticket in the Martin City Council election, plans a contest suit, it was said here this week.

Two a.w.o.l. Floyd County soldiers picked Armistice Day as the occasion to end, here, their private skirmish with military authorities and the law.

Acceptance by the Floyd County Board of Education, at its meeting last week, of an option from Fred and Lora Conn, of approximately half an acre of land, was a step toward enlargement of the head of Prater Creek school and its grounds.

Confronted Sunday night, with the problem of shooting a rabid fox, without killing his dog, with which the fox was fighting, 11-year-old Bill

Frank Caldwell, of Cow Creek, successfully "pulled off" the task in the best eastern Kentucky tradition of marksmanship.

There died: Mrs. Dollie Kidd, 70, Friday, at her home at Honaker; Earl G. Case, 15, Friday, at the home of his parents, at Drift; Ellis Tackett, 68, of Hi Hat, Friday, at McDowell Memorial Hospital; Gus Little, 78, of Bypro, former police chief at Wheelwright, last Wednesday, at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville; Mrs. Ollie Hall Layne, 65, of Harold, Oct. 6, at the Paintsville Hospital; Kendall Crager, 65, Monday, at his home at Hueysville; Mrs. Nora Anice Clark, 65, of Amba, Sunday, at the Paintsville Hospital.

Sixty Years Ago (November 13, 1947)

Reward of $100 was offered, this week, by Sheriff Troy B. Sturgill for the arrest, or for information leading to the arrest, of the gunman who late last Thursday, shot and wounded Deputy Sheriffs Ed Craft and Scott Compton on Buck's Branch, near Martin.

Recount of the Wayland city election vote in Haymond and Wayland precincts and subsequent judgment, this week, of Circuit Judge E. P. Hill, changed the election results from a sweep by the Pick and Shovel ticket to three Councilmen elected by that ticket, to two by the Broom ticket.

Five defeated City Council candidates, in the town of Martin election filed suit in circuit court, Wednesday, for a recount of the vote in John Possum and New Martin precincts.

Mrs. Sally Goble, of Lancer, administratrix of the estate of her six-year-old daughter, Edna Jane, who was fatally injured, Oct. 6, when struck by a truck of Champion Stores Inc., has filed suit in circuit court against the company, and the driver of the truck, seeking damages of $40,000.

To raise funds for a public library, the Prestonsburg Woman's Club will present, at the grade school auditorium, here, Monday and Tuesday, the comedy, "Cornzapoppin," with Mrs. Ethel Logan Moore directing.

On the outcome of Friday night's encounter between the Prestonsburg Blackcats and the Paintsville Tigers hinged the grid championship of the Big Sandy Conference, and the right to represent the conference in the Flood Bowl game at Pineville.

Dr. Earl T. Arnett was slightly injured, last Thursday night, when his auto was forced from the Salyersville-Paintsville road, and rolled over an embankment.

Married: Mrs. Barbara Reynolds Slone, 81, and Garfield Wright, 85, both of Allen, Nov. 4, here; Miss Jean Pulley, of Richmond, Va., and Cpl. Nicholas Lalich, formerly of Wheelwright, Oct. 25, at Fort Lewis, Washington; Miss Hattie Mae Abney, of Winchester, and Mr. Archer Patrick, formerly of Wheelwright, Nov. 3, at Clarinda, Iowa; Miss Leslie Fay Comstock of Allen, and Mr. Joe Burke of Prestonsburg, at the Methodist Church, Paintsville.

There died: James Fitzpatrick, 52, Hunter miner, Sunday, at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin; Mrs. Shered Robinson, 63, of Whitaker, Wednesday, at the Paintsville Hospital.

Seventy Years Ago (November 18, 1937)

Two persons were killed, as the result of auto wrecks, occurring on successive days of the past week-end at Hueysville. Charlie Howard, 14, of Salt Lick Creek, died Sunday morning, at the Stumbo Memorial Hospital, Lackey, of injuries sustained, Saturday afternoon, when he was struck by a hit-run driver as he stood at the roadside near the junction of the Salt Lick Beaver Creek roads; almost exactly 24 hours later, seven-months-old Orlena Kilburn, was fatally injured, when her mother, Mrs. Flora Kilburn, backed an auto over an embankment.

Virgil Fields, 28, was shot and killed, Sunday night, at his home at Wheelwright.

Twenty-four murder cases are slated for trial at the January term of the Floyd Circuit Court, the docket, released by Circuit Clerk Troy B. Sturgill, shows.

State Senator Joe P. Tackett was seriously injured, Friday night, when his auto rammied into a telephone pole near Ironton, Ohio.

This, in The Times this week, is noteworthy. When radiators were turned on in the capitol early this week, bedbugs, enlivened by the heat, crawled forth to dispatch Kentucky's highest jurists, who vacated their meeting place in search of other quarters.

F. M. Akers, brother of Mrs. W. B. Boyd, of Prestonsburg, sustained back injuries, Saturday, when caught beneath a rock which fell from the roof of a country "coal bank" on Prater Creek.

There died: Mrs. M. C. Sexton, of Estill, Nov. 6, at the Paintsville Hospital; Miss Dollie Hammond, 20, of Northern, last Wednesday, at the Stumbo Memorial Hospital, Lackey.

than the TV ad, was something I stumbled across on the internet: a site featuring egg recipes. That in itself would have been a strange idea for my mother. I mean, who needs a recipe in order to fry, scramble or boil an egg? "Take out the skillet. Put in the lard. Heat the skillet. Break the egg. Fry. Put in plate. Eat."

As I read the recipes, I could just imagine what she'd have thought if I'd told her that instead of the typical bacon and eggs, I'd prefer a cauliflower rose for breakfast. Or maybe brioche with curdled berries. Or how about a quick egg molee? That's a concoction that contains garlic cloves, turmeric, coriander and coconut milk.

But, if I'd had this recipe list then, instead of an egg sandwich with mayonnaise and a home-made dill pickle, washed down with a big glass of cold Kool-Aid, I could have had her fix me up with a mess of egg prockets, scotch eggs, festa frittate, or made me some bizzocito with showy sauce.

Although I'll admit that I've never tried any of the new-fangled recipes mentioned above, I'll bet there's not a one of them as tasty as the breakfasts that Mom used to fix.

It seems as though every Pastor I have heard preach lately has spoké this is the season of harvest. This is the season of God's favor. This is the season for Your increase and thank the good Lord above, I receive it!

I am so ready for my dream to become reality. I am so ready for God's favor to pour into our lives and I am so ready for increase for my loved ones I just want to jump for joy and shout Thank You Jesus bring it on!

Joel Osteen shared last

Sunday that we must speak faith, speak God's promises, keep believing, stay focused and stay on the high road.

We must be strong and stand in faith that God is about to propel us to new levels. The chains of wrong and negative thinking will be broken and this is the time for our hearts desires to come to manifestation. Thank You, Jesus!

Don't whisper your desires any longer shout them to the rooftops. Put a smile on your face, and keep God's promises on the forefront of your thinking.

Sow those seeds of encouragement, sow those seeds of faith, and sow those seeds of favor.

And here's praying all our harvests will reap our hearts desires this year - 2007.

Thank You, Jesus, for Your Word and Your Promise for I am standing in faith and being bold to claim my hearts desire will come soon!

And may You receive yours as well.

Til Next Week..
God Bless

season, which we refer to as the 'rut,' causes deer to cross our roads more frequently. In general, the entire deer population is very unsettled this time of year and they are on the move everywhere." Yancy also pointed out that without the effects of hunting, there would be even more deer crossing the roads.

The typical whitetail deer mating season ranges from late October to late January, with the peak mating season from mid to late November. "That time frame matches up exactly with the increase in the number of deer/auto collisions in Kentucky," noted Tim Hazlette, Commissioner of the Transportation Cabinet's Department of Transportation Safety. "November is by far the most dangerous month in Kentucky for deer/auto accidents. Too many of us have learned the hard way that it only takes a deer a second or two to dart out of the woods and into your path, leaving you almost no time to react. My advice is to be alert and be buckled up. Most serious injuries resulting from collisions with deer have been suffered by those who were not wearing their safety belts."

A quick glance at data compared by Kentucky State Police reveals that one region of the state stands out with an unusually high number of reported auto/deer collisions. That is the northern tier of Kentucky counties in the rapidly growing Greater Cincinnati area, which includes Boone, Kenton and Campbell Counties. All three counties rank among the top five counties in the state for average annual deer/auto collisions. Boone County leads the state with an annual average total of 134 deer vs. auto collisions.

"This area has seen an explosion of industrial, retail and residential growth in recent years," Yancy noted. "This is becoming more of an urbanized area, where white-tails have become accustomed to a lot of human activity and traffic, and all the sounds that go with such activity. Deer in these areas are not as afraid as they might otherwise be."

While even the most cautious drivers do not have any guarantees that they will be able to avoid a collision with a deer, the Department of Transportation Safety offers the following suggestions for avoiding a collision, or minimizing the damage if the collision is unavoidable:

Always wear your seatbelt. Be especially attentive from sunset to midnight and during the hours just before and after sunrise. These are the highest risk times for deer-vehicle collisions.

Drive defensively, constantly scanning the roadside.

If you spot a deer on the edge of the road, blow your horn. Use a long steady blast to get the deer's attention.

Always use high beam headlights when there is no oncoming traffic. The high beams will better illuminate the deer from a greater distance.

If a deer freezes in your headlights, flick the beams on and off to break the deer's concentration. That may cause the deer to move.

Slow down immediately. Proceed slowly until you are past the point where the deer have crossed.

Don't swerve. Stay in your lane. Most fatalities stemming from deer-related accidents involve drivers swerving, in an effort to miss the deer, and hitting a stationary object.

If the worst happens, keep both hands on the wheel and brake down steadily.

Report any deer collision, even if the damage is minor.

Turtle Trot winners

The 25th annual Turtle Trots were held on Friday, October 5, on the grounds of Our Lady of the Mountains School. Nearly 400 local businesses and individuals supported the event by sponsoring a turtle in the race. Monetary prizes and trophies were awarded to the top three finishers, and every sponsor received a hand-decorated poster. Winners this year were: 1st place - "Roady," sponsored by Attorneys Pillersdorf, DeRossett, and Lane of Prestonsburg; 2nd place - "Honest John," sponsored by John Gray Pontiac-Buick-GMC of Paintsville; and, 3rd place - "Fred," sponsored by Francis, Kendrick, & Francis, Attorneys at Law from Prestonsburg.

Amanda Lee Prater

Prater receives white coat

Amanda Lee Prater, a Johnson County resident, entered into a rite of passage in her journey toward a career in pharmacy on September 7, 2007, at the University of Charleston School of Pharmacy. At that time she joined her classmates - the Class of 2011 - in the annual White Coat Ceremony. This ceremony officially welcomes entering pharmacy students into the profession of pharmacy and marks the transition from the study of preclinical to clinical health sciences. This involves a formal "robing" or "cloaking" of students in white coats, which physicians have traditionally worn for over 100 years and which other health professions have adopted.

Amanda is the wife of Jason Prater, of Floyd County, and the daughter of Mike and Bonnie Howell, of Staffordsville. She is the granddaughter of Floyd County resident, Nina Howell, of Grethel.
