TERRY DANIELS KILLED IN MINE

Slated at Boldman Fatal; Victim Buried at West Prestonsburg

Death of Terry Daniels, 29 years old, was killed Tuesday, July 7, by a sheaf in the Boldman mine of the United States Coal Company, was made Sunday afternoon in West Prestonsburg.

Daniels met death when operating a coal-cutting machine in the mine. He was caught beneath a fall of slate. His head was crushed and his neck broken. Death was instantaneous.

His assistant who was first struck by the same piece of slate, escaped unhurt.

Mr. Daniels was the son of W. M. Daniels, who for a number of years was employed by the Parley Elkton Coal Company at Abbott Creek, and was well known in this section. He is survived by his parents, by his wife, Mrs. Olga Dorothy Daniels of West Prestonsburg, and adopted son, Tom Daniels, five years old.

The funeral will take place at the home of Mrs. Daniels, West Prestonsburg, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in the cemetery of the Methodist church, West Prestonsburg.

PLANS TO OPEN UPPER BRIDGE IN FEW DAYS

County Judge W. L. Stumbo said this week that the approach on the Town Branch side to the upper bridge across the Big Sandy river would be opened within the next few days.

Work was to begin this week, it was said, and it is planned to use prison labor on the project. Those who are in the county jail here on liquor charges will be put to work on the approach.

MOTORCADE FROM TENNESSEE HERE

Celebrate Road Opening; In- clude Kentukians to Attend Appalachian Way Opening

Celebrating the completion of U. S. Route 23 through Tennessee and the opening Wednesday of the May's Trail which is one of the most important sections of the route between Knoxville and Asheville, a motorcade of 40 persons from Johnson City, Tenn., passed through Pikeville, Prestonsburg and other Big Sandy towns Wednesday en route to Ashland.

After spending Wednesday night in Ashland, the itinerary of the motorcade includes stops today (Thursday) in Louisa, Paintsville, Pikeville, Prestonsburg during the morning, Letchworth at Pikeville and a stop at Jenkins before continuing the trip on to Kingsport and Johnson City. A number of motorists from this section planned to join the party on the tour, which is the first interstate motorcade to visit the Big Sandy country.

With the opening of the May's Trail between Prestonsburg and Pikeville Wednesday, the route is paved from Pikeville to Johnson City, a 200-mile stretch of the strip between Prestonsburg and Ashland, between Paintsville and Louisa, the Ashland-Prestonsburg strip will be paved next year, it is said on road authorities here.

Pikeville, Ky., July 7.—Arthur Lamb, 27 years old, cheated the reformatory out of a two-year prison sentence imposed on him in circuit court here a few days ago, at 7 o'clock this morning when he drove a Fiat automobile out of the jail just as a guard strived to take him to Frankfort to teach upon the sentence and died on a bench beside the courthouse a few minutes later. He was given medical attention by Dr. S. R. Crockett.

A warrant was later issued for his widow, formerly Lou Brooks, charging her with murder by County Judge H. H. Patten. The warrant was issued after it was reported that the widow had bought strychnine at Hatcher's drug store, this city, June 4, claiming she wanted to kill ground squirrels. His wife was present when he died and later joined other mourners at the undertaker's.

Ray Lamb, 74, father of the victim, said he saw his son drink poison at the window of the jail, and that his son exclaimed: "This is the last I see of me." He was released from prison on parole a few months ago, he said. Judge Patten said he understood Lamb served his time. Lamb was under two life-term sentences for housebreaking. One of these was for breaking into the store of Mrs. J. B. Buckley near here, and the other for breaking into a dwelling. Besides his widow he is survived by five children, and by his father and mother and two brothers and three sisters.

Later today the widow was arrested by Deputy Sheriff T. M. Stratton and taken to jail. Mr. Stratton, who has arrested Lamb and several other prisoners ready to be taken away, said that in his opinion Lamb drank the poison after he came out of the jail.

"If You Want to Know What Real Suffering Is, Listen to What I Went Through"

If you want to see a man who really suffered from indigestion and stomach troubles, I wish you could have seen me before I took KAMAK. Why it just seemed like all food was poison to me. "Well, sir, that was my condition when I started taking Kamak, and it is the gospel truth, the very first dose of this medicine made me feel better. Now, I haven't a touch of stomach trouble and I haven't felt better in my life. I never felt the slightest ache or pain since I started taking Kamak. My kidneys are working fine and my circulation that caused my arms and legs to go to sleep is in perfect order. I have gotten back my old time strength and energy. And eat - why, my wife has had to double my lunch. I enjoy everything and it seems like I lost no weight. I have already gained seven pounds. No more doctor bills. I've claimed enough for Kamak."

Every Variety of Song in the Lives of Russians

In Russian music has always been closely connected with the lives of the people. From the time of birth through all the events of life until death claims them, they move in a musical accompaniment. The return of spring is celebrated by a sort of choral dance, termed the khorod; marriage, being a most important time, brings forth many songs, such as "The Birchwood Splinter" ("Lotoshins"), "Glorification" ("The Matchmaker" "Great music"). There are lullaby songs, lullaby songs, lullabies and dance songs. Most of the dance tunes are in the major mode, the slow tunes, and these are best liked in the minor. Cesar Cui, in his book "La Musique en Russie," divided the Russian composers into three groups: First, the old (Czarist) school, Glinka, Dargomizsky and Scriabin; second, the New-Russian, Rimsky-Korsakov, Mussorgsky, Tchaikovsky, and lastly Rimsky-Starkovitch and Tchaikowski in a class by themselves as being less distinctly national - Washington Star.

Paw-Paw Tree Products Put to Various Uses

Pawpaw, or paw-paw tree, which grows in the tropical jungles of South America, are put to various uses. They are versatile in that they furnish food, medicine and soap. The Field Museum of Natural History, in Chicago, which has one of these trees in its botanical exhibit, states emphatically that the tree is not to be regarded as a link between the animal and vegetable kingdoms. The tropical pawpaw tree is described as an odd-looking affair, branching from the base of the stem to a height of about 20 feet. It exudes a peculiar juice which, when rubbed on meat, will make the toughest beefsteak as tender as venison, according to a popular Science Monthly. The natives living in the districts where the pawpaw tree abounds use the juice for its purpose. The juice is an acid, but only a substance of low medicinal value. The seeds are used as an effective vermifuge or worm destroyer. Further, the tree has a delicious fruit. It is large, pulpy, oblong in shape, and has a heavy rind.

Ruby Rates Above Diamond

A ruby is harder than any stone except the diamond. Great quantities of the first quality are rare and consequently more valuable than diamonds of a corresponding grade. No other stone increases as rapidly in value in proportion to increase in weight as this. One peculiar property of the ruby is that it becomes green upon exposure to high temperature, but reverts its original color on cooling. Dark red rubies are found in Siam and the pink ones in Ceylon, but Burma alone may claim the wonderful pigeon's blood ruby. A cloudy variety exists also which, when cut with a convex surface, exhibits a luminous star, giving it its name of star-ruby.

Odd Methods of Fishing

Natives of some sections of India have several methods of catching fish. Popular Mechanics Magazine says, in Assam, fishermen crouch on the bank, hold a line and emit a shell whistle which attracts a species of mountain fish. Lured by the sound, this fish darts into the open water of the whistle and is caught. In other places the dark rays of the sun force mountain fish to seek shelter beneath or beside rocks along the banks of streams. The cunning hillman crawls to a boulder behind which a fish is hiding, strikes the rock a heavy blow with his steel club, and catches the fish, stunned by the sound vibrations.

His Move

In the wee hours of a recent morning a group of 20 camp kids emerged from a restaurant, went into a huddle on a prominent corner at the direction of a kid whose legs were laid out in the breeze from the broken pieces of a crushed derby, and began to harmonize. Soon the deserted city streets were ringing with the strains of "Here we are together."

Eagle as a Symbol

The eagle stood for two things to ancient symbolism. The Greek name for the bird was "aetos," and the word meaning "rapid motion." The deeply mystic Hebrews, after watching the great bird sitting motionless, contemplating the sun, gave it a name which meant "meditation." In early Christian art the eagle became the symbol of spiritual power, because it was said to soar tirelessly through the highest places. The lion was the symbol of human pride and temporal power.

Engraving in Ancient Art

Engraving dates back to the ancients, but the first authentic engraving of which there is any record was that of St. Christopher, 1423. Baron de Reiffenberg claims to have found another one, dated 1300, and a manuscript discovered in the middle of the eighteenth century gives reason for believing that the art was known as early as 1300 in Italy and elsewhere by reason of two metal cutters, concerning those prior to St. Christopher to ascertain the earlier ones.

1,500 AMERICAN BOYS INVADE CAMP KNOX

Fifteen hundred boys from the states of Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio and Indiana have filled up the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Camp Knox, Ky. It is estimated by the officers in charge that the boys will be in the camp for a period of three months, with bond limiting interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from day of sale and having the force and effect of a revenue bond. Witness my hand this 6th day of July, 1931.

The athletic and social life of the boys is being elaborated and the boys are being trained in the art of playing sports. The boys are being trained in the art of playing sports. The boys are being trained in the art of playing sports.

The business house, conducted by Miss Mildred Holman and several young ladies from Louisville, is the scene of the social activities of the camp. These ladies are instructing in making the camp more like home and in many cases have been a source of help to the boys.

Brigadier General G. H. Jamerson, who is in charge of the entire camp, has expressed complete satisfaction with the functioning of the camp so far and predicts another fine year brought about by the staff placed in charge, and the immediate co-operation of the youths enrolled.

THEIR BISCUITS WON THEM HONORS

Heretofore biscuits won the highest 4-4-4 home demonstration team honors for Louise Tucker and Viola Crave, of Paraville, Boyle county, at Junior Week at the University of Kentucky. They showed how Kentucky girls can make the best biscuits in the world, and won championship honors in cooperation with 29 county teams demonstrating various arts in home-making.

C. & O. ASKS DELAY IN BUILDING OF ROAD

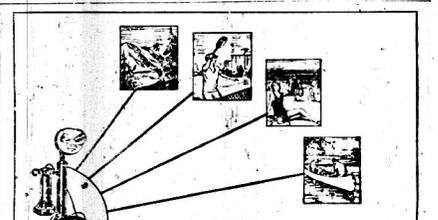

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company has made application to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to delay construction of about 11 miles of railroad in Kentucky and West Virginia. General business depression was the reason given.

One of the lines for which delay is asked is the Louisville River Road, running from Milltown to the Kentucky-Virginia state line.

FOR SALE: The best of first-class dairy cows, including a cow from two to five years of age, which have been selected and bred by J. C. Harlowe. Interested, write to him.

Go Where You Please On your Vacation...

Mother likes the mountains - so many want to go to camp and so does little sister - dad must work most of the summer - but they may go where they please and still keep together by telephone. Mother and the children may arrange to call dad regularly at a certain time, at office or home. It makes vacations more enjoyable and dispels anxiety to hear the voices of loved ones, telling of the day's happenings.

Calling at a prearranged time enables you to use the cheaper station-to-station service with no risk of missing the person wanted. If you call by number at night there is a still further reduction in cost. In using station-to-station service, ask for the distant telephone by number or location instead of asking for a particular person. When the distant telephone answers you may ask for whomever you want.

Wherever each member of the family goes this summer, the local telephone office will gladly give the cost of calling back home. Just ask for "Long Distance."

Judge Cochran Completes 30 Years of Service on U. S. Court Bench June 30

Frankfort, Ky., June 30. Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran today will complete 30 years of service on the federal court bench in this district. The jurist will observe the day with his regular court duties, hearing testimony on composition cases in Lexington.

Seventy-seven years old last February 4, Judge Cochran was appointed United States district judge for the Eastern district of Kentucky July 1, 1901, and has served the 30 years since that time "without having been sick one moment."

Traveling through the district administering justice in the face of all kinds of weather, Judge Cochran has, as he describes it, "seen it all." He has not, however, traveled out every week-day in the 30-year period of his district during that entire time except on other judicial business within the Sixth circuit, which is the state of Kentucky.

Despite his strict adherence to duty in the court, Judge Cochran has ex-

AUTO ACCIDENT CLAIMS 2 LIVES

Prominent Boyd County Residents Die in Crash Monday Morning

An automobile accident early Monday morning took the lives of Johnson S. Hager, 22 years old of Ashland, and Miss Maxine McCall, 22, Cynthiana, both of whom were prominent residents of Boyd county. The accident occurred at Sycamoreville, three miles north of Ashland, Monday.

Mr. Hager died from a fractured skull five minutes after he was taken to the hospital, while Miss McCall died at 10:30 from internal injuries.

Two witnesses to the tragedy said the car, a Buick roadster, was traveling west on Lexington avenue at a high rate of speed. When it reached the intersection of Sycamoreville street, it swerved and struck the cars, turning over and sending the occupants of the car beneath.

Lexington avenue, at that point, was stopped at the time from a red light and had just after water had started flowing, following the heavy rain of Friday night. It is believed that this fact contributed to the accident.

Miss McCall was the only daughter of Col. and Mrs. John E. McCall, of Cynthiana. She was 22 years old and a graduate of Cynthiana high school in the class of 1929. She attended Carlisle Academy at Georgetown, Ky., and later Marshall College in Huntington.

She had taught in the rural school at Laurel, Boyd county, for two years. She is survived by her parents and three brothers, Rupert, John E. Jr., and Robert McCall.

Mr. Hager was the only son of John S. Hager, and was employed at the time of his death by the American Rolling Mill Company in Ashland. He attended school at Ashland high and at the Greenback Military Institute in Maryland. He was married to Miss Dorothy McCann, who with their little daughter, Virginia, two and a half years old, survive. He is also survived by his father, John S. Hager, and two sisters, Mrs. Wilbur K. Miller, of Owensboro, and Miss Madeline Hager, at home.

He was a widely-known member of one of Eastern Kentucky's prominent families.

NATHAN HALE WAS ONLY 21 WHEN EXECUTED BY BRITISH

He was conveyed to the guard ship and thence to New York where he was hanged on the 21st day of September the day of the great fire. He was taken to General Howe's headquarters and, after a brief hearing, was ordered to be executed the next morning at daylight. The sentence was carried out by the brutal and infamous Provost Marshal Cunningham, who refused Hale's request for a Bible, and destroyed a letter he had addressed to his mother, for the reason afterwards given by him that "the rebels should never know they had a man who could die with such firmness."

Nathan Hale's patriotic spirit shone forth in his dying words—"I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country." Disguised as a Dutch school-master, he crossed the sound at night from New York to Huntington, Long Island. He visited the British encampments, unsuspected, made drawings of the sentries in Latin of the information he gathered, and then retraced his steps to Huntington, where a boat was to meet him and convey him back to the Connecticut shore. Unfortunately, a British guard ship was at that time anchored out of view in the sound, and had seen a boat on shore for water. Hale mistook it for the expected boat, and did not discover his mistake until he found himself in the hands of his enemies. He was stripped and searched; the plans and memoranda which were found concealed in the soles of his shoes proved him to be a spy.
