TWO ARE GIVEN LIFE SENTENCES IN CIRCUIT COURT HERE

17 Felonies; 75 True Bills Returned In One Day's session by Floyd Grand Jury

OCTOBER JURY LIST OUT

Murder indictments returned against E. G. Collins for slaying his brother, Orbin, and Wilbur Minix; Hilliard Akers for the murder of A. G. Turner, and John "Casper" Hall was indicted within two hours after the crime was committed for fatally wounding his son at Wheelwright.

Monday was held today for the grand jury which heard 70 indictments, including 17 felonies. The grand jury will probably adjourn Thursday afternoon after an exceptionally busy session, which was indicated by Monday's activities.

Since last week in circuit court, two have received life terms in the state reformatory among five sentenced. Elias Hall, 18 years old, was given life Monday for the slaying of James Mullins, 18 years old, at Jack's Creek; Leonard "Doc" Hamey, 26, received a life sentence for killing Ambrose Compton at Dinwood in May; Edgar Blackburn, two years in the penitentiary on a charge of chicken stealing; Ray Hamilton and T. J. Taylor received a sentence of one year each at the state institution for stealing a typewriter.

Bob Campbell was allowed Monday at Raleigh to be tried for the September 30 homicide. Candill, charged with murder, will be tried the first of October, and Fred and Bill Hill are to be tried January 1st.

used in the state prison at Lake land after trial here six years ago for the slaying of his brother, appeared in court Tuesday and was declared sane.

Jury commissioners appointed for the ensuing year are Rev. Alex Stephens, Charles Hall and Wiley Warren, and they presently took the following names from the jury wheel to serve as petit jurors for the October term of court. They are:

Boe Green, West Frostonsburg; Charles Hall, Banner; Mrs. Mollie Miller, Frostonsburg; Mrs. Mollie Stephens, Dock; Mrs. Cora Clark, Banner; Mrs. Belle Warrick, Cliff; Tommie Taylor, Jr., Oiler; Marlon Akers, Dana; Mrs. Nell Warrick, Auxier; Mrs. Annie Dugan, Dock; Jerry Hall, Banner; Mrs. Thomas Miller, West Frostonsburg; Wash Miller, (White) West Frostonsburg; Grant Weddington, Ivel; Dennis Warrick, Auxier; Mrs. Angeline Brown, Bays Branch; John Hurd, Lancer; Mrs. Melinda, Banner; Mrs. Rebecca McGinnis, Bull Creek; Abe Hall, Dwaile; Mrs. Pearl Crum, Frostonsburg; Earl Wright, Dock; L. C. Lealla, Emma; Joyce Osborne, Cliff; Mrs. Belle Hyden, West Frostonsburg; Leo Lapan, Tom; Jim Raw Banks, Frostonsburg; Bill Farrett, Oiler; George W. Allen, Jack Miller (Lone) Cliff; Banks Wallen, West Frostonsburg; Ernest Robinson, East Point; Monroe Patton, Bonanza; Woe Music, Bonanza; Jim Miller, Goble, Emma; Frank Short, Cliff.

RED CROSS REGIONAL CONFERENCE OCTOBER 8

A Red Cross regional conference will be held Oct. 8 at the M. E. Church, South. All persons interested in Red Cross work are invited. Mr. Charles W. Carr, director of Red Cross Disaster Relief Service, will be the principal speaker of the day.

Mr. Carr's association with the Red Cross dates back to 1920 when he served as supply officer during the Florida hurricane of 1920. Because of his work in this capacity he was given a responsible post at the time of the Mississippi valley flood of 1927.

Later the same year he became permanently identified with the Red Cross disaster relief service and has served in this capacity ever since.

At the time of the recent spring flood, which swept 14 states, Mr. Carr directed relief operations at Wheeling, W. Va., where thousands of people were displaced.

Mr. Carr received special training in telegraphy and electrical engineering with the Western Union American Bell Telephone Company.

TUBERCULOSIS, X-RAY CLINIC TO BE HELD IN P'BURG

Sponsored by Floyd County Health Department

A tuberculosis X-ray clinic to be held in the city limits of Frostonsburg, Ky., on October 7 and 8, sponsored by the Floyd County health department and the Frostonsburg Women's Club. The clinic will be held in the offices of the health department.

On October 1 skin tests will be made for lay people, and for the teacher, on October 2. Any one known to have been exposed to those that give positive skin tests.

Hours of the clinic will be from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Dr. J. B. Floyd, Director of Floyd Tuberculosis Unit, will be in charge, assisted by Miss G. V. Salvoena, nurse, and Miss staff of the Floyd county health department.

TROLL-BURCHETT

Announcement was made this week of the marriage of Mrs. Mar Thersa Troll of Louisville, Ky., and Mr. Cottrell Burchett of this city.

The marriage was performed in Louisville Saturday, Sept. 19, at St. Stephen Church, the Rev. H. Campbell officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thersa Troll of Memphis, Tenn. She is at present employed in the capacity of nurse with the Floyd county health department and has a host of friends.

Mr. Burchett is the son of Mrs. Lou Burchett and the late Roland Burchett, and is well and favorably known in this section. He is employed by the East Kentucky Gasoline Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Burchett will be at home to their many friends at their residence in the Harlowe property on Second avenue.

RETURN HOME

Mrs. Tot Allen Mann, who arrived Saturday, is at her home on Second avenue recovering from her recent illness. Her many friends will be glad to know of her return.

TRIO ESCAPE FROM FLOYD COUNTY JAIL

Break by Hicks, Under Life Sentence for Murder; Turner and Stapleton, Companions

Miss Hicks, who has a life sentence hanging over her head for the slaying of Bethel Boggs at Drift, this county, early last year, with two companions, John Turner and William Stapleton, managed to escape from the Floyd county jail here on Thursday afternoon in the broad daylight of 2 o'clock.

This is Turner's and Stapleton's first attempt. By Hicks successfully negotiated a try for freedom here last July, a year ago and was apprehended until recently in Steele's Creek by deputy sheriff. Stapleton was brought here for safekeeping for Johnson county officials, and Turner had a sentence of five years.

CHARLES G. HALL, SON AUTO VICTIMS

News was received here this week of the tragic death of Mr. Charles G. Hall and his 17-year-old son Jack, of Terre Haute, Ind.

Mr. Hall was well known here among the coal operators, being executive vice president and general manager of Redrose Coal Company of Terre Haute. The American Coal Company also owns this county.

Mr. Hall and his son were returning from the Hill summer home at Lakeside, Mich., when a blow-out caused his automobile to overturn. The death was attributed to a fractured skull, while his son suffered a spinal injury. Mr. C. J. Landon, McDowell, attended the funeral at Terre Haute.

MARTIN SEWING CENTER THANKS MATERIAL DONORS

The Martin Sewing and Sewing Center of Martin, Ky., under the direction of Mr. William E. J. Jones, desires through the medium of the newspapers to extend to all of the churches and organizations of this county their hearty thanks for their response to a request for materials such as buttons, trimming, patterns and accessories, so kindly donated to the cause.

The progress and success of this organization by far surpasses the most vivid imagination. The Francis Cash Store donated several patterns, many ladies of the town gave buttons, buckles, braids, laces and other fabrics, so necessary to the work. The ladies receiving this valuable material not only derive a livelihood from the work, but are enabled by their own efforts, but are receiving an education in finer arts that will be handed down to future generations.

TWO SHOOTINGS WITHIN FOUR DAYS AT WHEELWRIGHT

Father Shoots Son Wednesday; Mine Foreman Slain by Deputy Constable

It is a grim record that has been set in the family shooting kept on the wall to go hunting and John "Casper" Hall of Wheelwright Junction, who is crippled, reached for the gun, stumbled with it in his grasp and dropped it. The gun accidentally discharged and the full force of the lead entered the abdomen of Willie, an older son, who was sitting on the bed in the same room.

This happened at the home of Johnny Hall on Wednesday at about 12 o'clock noon. As Hall bent over his son to aid him, his wife reported to have rushed into the room and struck him. He left home and gave himself up to Deputy Constable John Lawson after another son said to have threatened to kill him. This was learned from his attorney, and others.

There is another version to the effect that Hall and his wife were having domestic difficulties and the son was shot in the course of the fracas. No details of this are available.

Beauty Johnson, arrested in Frostonsburg with Hall in custody and the prisoner was indicted within two hours after the alleged accident, before the grand jury here, for wilful murder, although it was reported later that the youth had not yet succeeded, but was in a dying condition.

What will win S. Cobb Thinks about

U. S. Lags Behind. HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — "What I saw at the national air races in Los Angeles set me to thinking. It's a dangerous thing—thinking—nearly as dangerous as anything else that is going on in this world."

"I'm thinking that no longer is the navy our first line of defense nor the army the second line. I'm thinking that the chief peril—and the chief security—from that peril is in the air now."

And of all the great powers, we are the most woefully behind in the matter of airplane protection. It would take us two years to make our air force as strong as it was four years ago. It would take us five years longer to make it as strong as the present footing of any country which conceivably might attack us."

Well, we could always look the stable after the horse was gone—if the stable hadn't been blown flat."

Rules for Long Life. A JAPANESE doctor has landed with the word that the average life is to be 240 years old. He didn't say, but I figure this applies only to those who never go mourning."

The principal rules are to sleep on hard mattresses with a pillow and learn to wriggle like a goldfish. Whether, in time, the beginner grows gills and a dorsal fin is not stated, but it sounds plausible."

I've already spoken to a tinsmith about a pillow and, on awakening this morning, made a few experimental wriggles. My intentions might fool some people, but I don't believe they'd fool a goldfish, unless he'd been drinking or something. Besides, I didn't do it too dignified—greeting the dewy dawn by behaving goldfishishly."

War Names Confusing. NOT content with coining eighty or ninety separate different and confusing names for the opposing forces in Spain, the correspondents have gone and thunk up a dum brain not to mention a number of persons over the sum of names shown a tendency to verge toward the extreme."

And picking out the various parts mixed up in the French political mess—that's another tough job. Only today I read of a "democratic" center. It sort of suggests Ty Cobb in his palmy days, covering the outfield. But—no—no—no—because the French don't go in for baseball. They prefer dueling as being just as exciting."

I must say it's a surprising just when, by following the news from Paris, I'm beginning to get the Reds unscrambled from the Helios and the Mauves from the Heliotropes, and the Holy Rollers from the Merry Widows from the added complication but right in my face. Looks as though I'll have to start it all over again."

How to Reduce. EVER since the day when I was known around the big leagues as Tyrone Deficiency Irvy, the human defect, I've fought the losing fight against overweight."

I tried dieting and became the best friend the American spinach industry ever knew, yet had only to turn my head to brag and I regained, practically instantaneously, what I lost. I exercised until I had the jitters, but when I'd taken off half a pound, it bounced right back while the doctors were reviving me."

But now I've found the absolute little cure for reduction. It's working in a moving picture with little Jane Withers. When she sets the pace you can track yourself back home by your own perspiration. Another engagement with Janie and I could be rented out as my own living skeleton."

Has Memories of Valencia. IT'S hard to concentrate on pen-nant fights in the big leagues when we read of war-racked Spain, with 100,000 already dead."

I hope the lowest of the low in Valencia has escaped the common fate. In seven years ago I was traveling around and about over three continents, and at every stop had listened morning, noon and night, to the song "Valencia."

So a friend and me a pilgrimage to the town in which presumably, the thing originated, and Valencia turned out to be the one spot on the map where nobody had ever played that tune or sung it or hummed it or whistled it, or even heard of it."

It was indeed a relief. So we stayed a week. The sherry-and-egg before luncheon was also quite good—all but the egg! KEVIN S. COBB. —WVU Service.

Tipoff on Series Hard to Find, for Even Yanks Hedge

OF COURSE, it is true that certain things still could happen in St. Louis. But taking it for granted that a "divine providence" will reward the deserving (and how a Memphis vestryman named Bill Avery probably wishes he had the same sublime faith), I recently have been trying to find out who will win when the Yankees and Giants swap closets for the gold and silver."

Strangely enough—aside from gaining support for a firm belted in that it is a classic example of under-statement to call a million-dollar sports festival a nickel series—I have been able to obtain very little inside information. While countless millions are out upon the street—countless the cents most intimately concerned retake their five pennies' worth, no matter how diligently they are pretty pleased to knock over."

So it seems that I'll have to be the sucker again and get a manager's neck out on another limb far ahead of time."

During these early months when their hearts were light and gay and they had not yet been driven into the precarious business of defending a 16½-game lead with only 27 games left to play, the Yankees did for living all the other things in the house town yard—now is a lightweight champion of the world. He deserves the honor. Even now, he is waiting for another prize. He had to give him his of the prize money. He has the title which was won from Tony Canzoneri's wild fits at the Garden."

Lou Ambers—who hopes some day to be a band leader and whose only objection to his manager is that Al Casey can't be counted on for a proper tenor when a bit of harmonizing would break the monotony of the long automobile ride down from Hickory—did not fight a great fight. He fought a sound, strong one."

Well beaten and baffled by Tony a year ago he seemed to have little recollection of that disaster. When necessary, he was in and mixed with the hairy-chested man, who still can punch with the best of lightweight. But the time was sliding along with Canzoneri's steady wins and he was getting a clear opening for it, moving the veteran off the present platform with left hook with right lead or counter he would be piling up the points."

Canzoneri also was far from being the man who won the crown a year ago. What happened to that great little guy, who in the short space of four months whipped Jimmy McLarrin, became a "bridegroom and was beautifully tossed around by the state athletic commission and the Hearst A. C., probably will be a matter of discussion for some days to come."

One of the more interesting features of the coming fight will be the new brother act at Princeton. Young Dick White, lightweight but faster edition of his more famous brother Jack, is being touted as a sure Tiger backfield star even though a mere Soph. . . Irresponsible parties who keep shouting about the quick and easy profits to be made from night baseball should take to heart Horace Stoneham's words in the minds of the fans: "You are trying to substitute night baseball for the fact that can't be done. Or, at least, we're not going to fall for it here at the Polo Grounds. We'll have to get off any phones on the baseball public and we're not going to start doing it now. We like to win." Which attitude is hereby endorsed as a very good reason why the Giants are winning the big money and the wide support. The far richer owners of the faltering, second-division Giants might give it a thought. . . If the Cards are ever to be paid for a much-needed pitcher, they can have Van Mungo for Joe Hadwick this winter. . . That the Cardinals are all wrong Willie Maney, for years the very efficient secretary of the league, will be elected president of the International League."

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE: It is just as well that Bill Terry is not in the box score of the most important game of the year. Being that way he is probably doing little better than the new paper game he has been playing recently as he did with new-found admirers were leveling on with brass knuckles in training. . . Colonel E. R. Bradley, the celebrated Derby winner, is a south-

Yale's long-remembered athletic alumni still are feverish about what happened to Albie Booth in 1930. So one New Haven faction is determined that Army, of the Yale schedule this fall for the first time in years will not give the other set keeps pointing out that the contest always has been one of the big money affairs. . . and even the Elts can use such handsome coconuts. . . It is true that the Hearst A. C. will do the main promoting for a former Hearst publisher's October auto races and for the new pro football league."

Rival managers are putting the ring on Charley Dresser because they say Reds would pay him $100,000 to come to New York and they too much time throwing at opposing batters. . . The Cubs are sure that they can't be beaten sold at Wrigley Field this season were stashed and to end in a special square, they would form a lower level twice as high as the Empire State building. . . Leslie Aarons, who settled for Van der Meer and they came to this country in 1910 and who has been teaching the game ever since, gets a new job. . . The new wrestling champion, now is assistant bookmaker for a thriving business. . . Forty-nine of the best fighters in the world are now in the ring during his 11 fight years were champions. The Owls have been knocked out in 13 seconds, Villanova doing it three times."

Ambers Rates Title Won From Canzoneri

A chubby boy—who became a professional fighter because he couldn't find the dough after being drafted for living all the other things in the house town yard—now is a lightweight champion of the world. He deserves the honor. Even now, he is waiting for another prize. He had to give him his of the prize money. He has the title which was won from Tony Canzoneri's wild fits at the Garden."

Wrap-Around Apron Frock

1931-B. Here's the style of apron-frock you've been wanting, a wrap-around that affords unhampered freedom of movement whether you're scrubbing the floor, or hanging drapes.

The wide contrasting ruff collar is feminine and trim while three bright buttons do their duty for the bodice closing. Short puffed sleeves are cleverly styled, simple and comfortable and they're a conveniently large pocket to hold what notes. A narrow adjustable belt supplies that refinement and known as "centric" points and helps "coverall." Truly it fits like the proverbial glove."

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1941-B is available for sizes 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 24-36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 36-inch material plus 1/2 yard of contrast. Send 10 cents for the pattern. Send for the Barbara Bell Fall Pattern Book containing 100 well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Exclusive fashions for children, young women, and matrons. CURIOS DEVICES USED FOR SEERING AFTER DARKNESS

It is presumed that man originally toiled or played only during hours of sunlight. That when darkness came and the eyes could no longer see—he lay himself down to rest. Yet all the while, Nature, through volcanic and meteoric disturbances through flashes of lightning, was trying to demonstrate to man its power to create light in the midst of darkness."

Fire was discovered, and man found he could prolong the day with the aid of firebrands, camp fires, torches. The earliest lamps of which we have record were saucer shaped objects with a shallow projecting spout which held the wick. A hole in the center of this disc-like lamp held a small quantity of oil. So far as is known, there was no radical development toward better lighting until 1789 A. D., when Leger of Paris devised a flat ribbon wick and burner. Not long after, Ami Argand of Paris, perfected a glass chimney which, together with his new improved type of circular wick and burner, produced illumination far superior to anything ever before seen."

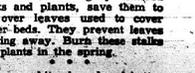

Then in 1859, August von Welsbach, a German, developed a "burner" in which the combination of a mixture of air and gas or vapor, heated to incandescence by a tiny jet of pure white light which is so easily and economically provided in modern pressure mantle lamps using gasoline and kerosene for fuel.

OF THE HOUSEWIFE

Lemon slices served with tea are more attractive when sprinkled with paprika or chopped parsley. . . . If you have no individual molds, jellies may be molded in muffin tins. Turn the pan upside-down, place hot, wet towel over pan and jellies will slip out easily. Refrigerator cookies may be wrapped in waxed paper and kept in refrigerator for several days. Make into a roll and slice when ready to bake. . . . Instead of burning up withered stalks and plants, save them to lay over leaves used to cover flower-beds. They prevent leaves blowing away. Burn these stalks and plants in the spring. When making bread and butter pudding, sprinkle the slices of bread and butter with desiccated coconut instead of currants, and steam some in the top. This will make a change from the ordinary pudding and will be found very tasty. © Associated Newspapers—WVU Service.

Planets of Gas
What kind of creature could live on an island of ammonia in a sea of gasoline and breathe air made up of methane or "marsh gas"? He would certainly have to be a lot different from earthly beings.

Astronomers at Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., reported not long ago that the atmospheres of the four planets Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune are composed chiefly of marsh gas, and suggested that the large spot on the planet Jupiter is an island of ammonia adjacent to a hydrocarbon sea.—Washington Post.

"That's what we got caught—right there," cried the barber. "We got back to the ponies and had to cut across a place of burned timber to get out. I got back from one of the trees full on me. I went down with the pony. When I kicked loose, the pony bolted, and when I tried to get up, my leg was broke."

"There was Doc. Panama's pony couldn't carry double. The fire was crawling up on two sides of us. It was terrible. Doc—that's all a man can say, just terrible. We couldn't hardly hear each other. Panama picked me up to get me on his pony. 'No! I yell. 'I won't do, Panama, see you know it. I'm done. Panama let me go. You ain't got a minute to lose. Get back on your horse and run for it.'"

"I don't know, Panama yells. 'Get up on that pony! I tried to get it out with him—but I was crazy with pain.' He couldn't handle myself, neither. He fell on his side and he couldn't get up on his hands. 'Beat it,' she yelled. 'What'll you do?' says I. 'I've got good legs. I'll run.'"

"A melancholy procession took the desert road that night for Sleepy Cat. In town, next day, the boys tried vainly to figure out some sort of a detailed burial service for Panama. The best coffin to be had in Medicine Bend was ordered by telegraph to reach Sleepy Cat on the morrow.

"I've got it," exclaimed Jeff Sellers, who was sitting near Carry. "He snipped the doctor's nose. 'You'll have the old Doc himself make a few remarks over Panama.'"

"Yes," he said. "I'll do it." growled Carry. "But he won't do it." growled Carry. "But he won't do it." growled Carry. "But he won't do it." growled Carry.

"But he won't do it," Panama didn't belong to his church. "That doesn't make a—d—d bit of difference, boys. The padre knew me. He knows me. He will do it. If we're lucky, we'll catch him at home and not away fifty miles on a sick call. I've done a few things for Padre Cataldo. I know the map inside and out."

Dr. Carry called up the padre and was lucky. At least the padre was willing to go. He was coming—that was something else again. Carry held him long on the wire; he pleaded earnestly, but he agreed to come.

"At eight o'clock the motor in front of the dilapidated engine was heard outside. The padre, a Gunnock buck, and the doctor, and the Indian boy, the ten or twelve dismounted men, the regimental musicians welcomed the guest of honor to the hotel office—long well filled. And headed by the clergyman and the little fellow, the growing crowd struggled down the street to Padre Cataldo, where poor Panama lay in state on the rear-most of the pool tables.

Padre Cataldo, laying aside his hat and his overcoat of many patches, made the sign of the cross, knelt a moment in silent prayer, and, standing behind the pool table on which Panama lay in his coffin, spoke clearly and firmly.

"Boys," said the old priest, "this looks like a queer piece for a padre; perhaps a queer job. But I've known Bill Hayes a good many years. And I know him in his widest days. And I've known him for the last three years, since he turned over a new leaf."

"Bill used to visit me and talk with me. It was something I said to him once, so he told me that started him thinking. 'What's all this about—this greedy, rotten old world?' He asked him. 'That doesn't make a damned bit of all to talk about?'" prached a deathless sermon, for he took his text from the lips of God himself. And wherever you bury him, boys, let the words of that text be given on his tomb: "Greater love than this no man hath, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

The bull in the fire threat issued in fresh dangers to the hill ranches. A blaze starting up anew on the reservation cut-over lands crept north on the very night that Panama was buried.

"With what ail could bring, Jane rode next morning over to her neighbor's only to find the situation critical. By noon the fire fighters were being driven back all along the line. But loath to abandon hope of saving the ranch buildings, the men fought till dusk, riding among them, warned them to look first to their own safety. Riding then fast to the ranch house, he found Jane consulting with Quong in the kitchen.

"I must think of your safety, Jane," he said. "It is getting too close to danger here. You and Quong must go home."

"Bill, is it that bad?" "We might as well face the truth. It's not safe here for you. You must go, and quickly. Are your ponies and sleds?"

"They are. Quong and me went up. Jane's eyes softened. They fell before his. "I just hate to go, Bill," she looked sadly. "It seems like deserting a friend."

"It isn't, Jane. You may imagine, girl, how I hate to send you away. But you know who I'm thinking of, don't you?"

"You mustn't think too much of anybody but yourself just now, Bill," she murmured. "I do some thing myself these days."

Quong had been correct. Always fore-seeing, without any words he was winking and blinking in his saddle. Denison handed Jane her lines. She leaned toward him, and spoke low:

"What must do some more running ourselves, Jane."

"Bill, will you promise me, solemnly, one thing?" "Promise me anything, girl."

"Solemnly, Bill?" "Solemnly. What is it?" "That you'll think first for your own safety. Now promise!"

"For my sake, Bill?" "Do you mean that?" "I do mean it."

"God bless you. If the buildings go, I'll ride over to report tomorrow."

"I'll ride over to report tomorrow." "I'll ride over to report tomorrow." "I'll ride over to report tomorrow."

Knob, she saw below her a fire sweeping across the trail she was following. She was that the fire was spluttering through the brush, up the mountain, in front of her. The pony balked, she jumped frightened, Jane turned him up the narrow trail and headed for the summit.

Even the few moments she had been away from the top had changed the scene. Overwhelmed by consternation, she began to think anew of her own safety. She urged the pony swiftly down the trail again, hoping finally to find some hidden by-pass. Her path was blocked. The hot air of the fire below was catching at her throat; gusts of smoke burned into her eyes. She reined about to return, despairing.

Once again the level rock afforded her temporary refuge. She dismounted. The pony was growing unmanageable. He snorted, stamped, flung his head up and down and chewed frantically at his bit. Hope deserted her. She sank to her face with her arms.

"For a moment her mind was a blank. She heard nothing of a frantic calling from above, and of a single rider who edged horse spurred and lashed his pony toward her, sprang from the saddle below, and fell forward into her arms."

"Jane! he cried, as he looked into her face and shook her in his effort to restore consciousness. 'Jane! Open your eyes! Speak to me! Speak to me! Jane, Bill! Can't you hear me? Speak! Her eyes opened; she looked in a daze at the man who had saved her."

"She threw her arms convulsively around his neck. "Oh, Bill, Bill! What have you done? Must we die, Bill, in this horror?"

"No!" he exclaimed. "We can get through. But we mustn't lose a minute. Speak to me, I must hear you. He half carried her to an edge of the summit, where a rock crevice gave a little breathing space for her. "But the horse, Bill!" she cried. "Leave the horse. He's called back. They may escape. Speak fast, or you'll be horsed where we're going. Quick, Jane!"

"He caught her in his arms, and showed her, through her hair, to secure herself on the precarious footing, and lowered himself to another slender ledge to brace himself, back her spring, and caught her again in his arms."

Her heart beat so violently, he scarcely knew how to breathe. He held her close to his chest, and she hugged close to him. There was barely room for the two to stand. "Keep cool, Jane. Don't make it, but be very, very careful of your footing, darling Jane. The fire hasn't touched this side of the mountain yet, but if you fell it would be a certain death."

"I'll bet I can run faster than you, Bill," the laughing tone of her words filled a checked face. "He oversteered, he was sure. It was not long before he was alone, and he was never more until I tell you."

"Never more to superhuman effort, Denison, we must run through that gauntlet of quaking sap, and try to get away from the Knob. This will all be burning in a few minutes. Are you sure?"

"I'll bet I can run faster than you, Bill," the laughing tone of her words filled a checked face. "He oversteered, he was sure. It was not long before he was alone, and he was never more until I tell you."

MADE WITH WATCH-LIKE PRECISION

Without question, the Conklin Pen is the world's finest precision writing instrument. In the Conklin, you find all modern features that result in matchless pen performance. And many of these features you find only in the Conklin. . . . Now Conklin presents the revolutionary Cushman Point—an entirely new and different pen point construction that makes writing far easier, far smoother than ever before. . . . Conklin offers the only positive mechanical self-filling action—the device that "winds like a watch." This patented device is simple in design, efficient in operation. Note the Patented Stripe styling. Outstanding among many other Conklin advantages are the new controlled feed, insuring a uniform flow of ink; the visible ink supply and the exclusive Conklin Word Guide. Before you buy any pen, be sure to see the Conklin. You will find Conklin Pens, Pencils and Sets on display at leading stores everywhere. . . . The Conklin Pen Company, Toledo, Ohio.
