WAYLAND BANK SOLD FOR $15,000 HERE TO THOMAS S. HAYMOND

Stockholders Paying Total Assessments Get 50 Per Cent.

HOWARD IS AGENT

Stockholders who have paid in their full assessments for the liquidated Bank of Wayland, sold at public auction for $15,000 at the courthouse, Monday, will receive slightly better than 50 per cent of the amount they paid in, it has been announced. The bank was purchased by Thomas S. Haymond, Fleming, of the National Bituminous Coal commission, formerly connected with the Elk River Coal corporation, and others. J. W. Howard, Prestonsburg, was the purchasing agent.

Mr. Howard announced Wednesday that all depositors and all claims against the Bank of Wayland have been paid, and that all business connected with the bank is practically completed.

Closed in 1931, the Bank of Wayland was taken over by the Banking commission for liquidation. H. D. Fitzpatrick, Prestonsburg, was appointed special deputy banking commissioner, but was later succeeded by Henry Stephens, Jr., of the local First National Bank, who has been in charge the past few years.

STREET LIGHT COST LOWERED BY KY. AND WEST VA. POWER CO.

Hodges and Carter Confer To Effect Saving For Taxpayers

Striving to reduce the debt of the city as fast as possible, Mayor A. C. Carter announced Monday that the result of a conference with R. E. Hodges, district manager of the Kentucky-West Virginia Power Company, at Pikeville, a drastic reduction was made in the cost of electricity for Prestonsburg's street lights.

All 80 candle power lamps are reduced from the present price of $1.75 to $1.30, saving taxpayers a monthly saving of about $45.00 on the city's approximately 100 street lamps.

Mayor Carter also announced that in addition to the hearing to be had before the Kentucky Public Service commission at Frankfort for a reduction of city water rates, a hearing would also be asked to effect the reduction of gas rates.

Meningitis Quarantine Follows As Malady Hits Chester Dagnan

Due to the efficiency of the Floyd county health department, a possible outbreak of meningitis on Right Beaver creek has been averted with the quarantining of 10 families on Stamper branch near Wayland. Members of the 10 families were exposed to Chester Dagnan, 31, the only person stricken with the disease, who is reported to be recovering by attaches of the Painville hospital, where he now is. Dagnan was taken to the hospital Thursday.

Officials of the health department state that no outbreak is anticipated as the prevailing weather is unfavorable to this disease. The quarantine placed upon the 10 families will be lifted Sunday, provided none of those quarantined are stricken.

FLOYD CO. CAN HAVE ONLY 2 ENROLLEES IN C. C. C. FOR JULY

New Department of Labor Edict Cuts Floyd's Quota

According to information received from the Department of Labor in Washington, Green R. Allen, Floyd county certifying agent for the Citizens Conservation Corps, announces that only two enrollees for the C. C. C. will be accepted in July, from Floyd county.

The new Department of Labor edict states that the national quota strength of the C. C. C. has been lowered from 350,000 to 300,000 enrollees in an average reduction of approximately 1,000 in each state.

The basic quota for Kentucky is 2,500 enrollees. On July 1, however, Kentucky had 9,800 enrollees. Mr. Allen explained that this means Kentucky has approximately 4,000 enrollees in excess of her total.

According to the above facts Kentucky is not entitled to enroll a single man in the C. C. C. in July, but Mr. Allen explains that due to a special ruling the Department of Labor will accept 300 from the state of Kentucky. As Kentucky has 120 counties these 300 enrollees will have to be distributed among the state's various counties.

In view of this, Mr. Allen states that Floyd county may have only two enrollees, although he requisitioned 180, through learning of the new ruling. He expects a larger quota for the county in September or October.

FRANK MEADOWS SHOT TWICE; DEATH OCCURRED AT HOSPITAL; JUNE 30

Shot twice with a pistol once through the mouth and again through the shoulder, Frank Meadows, son of Matthew Meadows, Edgar, died at the Beaver Valley hospital at Martin, Wednesday. Meadows was brought to the hospital Sunday, living only three days after being shot.

Marton Thompson and Phil Thompson are lodged in the county jail here charged with the slaying. They were brought in by Officer Elson Kendrick. Jail records show that Marton Thompson was "trussed earlier in the week, charged with shooting and wounding. He was later legally released.

Upon the death of Meadows will be held in Prestonsburg today at 1 p. m., with the Rev. Isaac Stratton officiating. Burial will follow on May's Branch.

What's In A Name Explained In Narrative Told Will Boggs

By Will Boggs
Hueysville, Ky., June 30—Why does the name "Hall" almost instantly suggest a dangerous character to thousands of Kentucky hill-folk? Certainly the hill-country cannot boast nicer people than the Halls of today.

The following narrative, told by "Uncle" William Huff who died here at the age of 85 in 1930, may in part at least account for this imaginary toughness associated with the Halls of today.

During the early days of the Civil War many roving bands of savage robbers began to operate here in the hills. Numbers of honest citizens suffered at their hands, often losing practically all they possessed. This state of affairs lasted throughout the war and even afterwards.

Highest in cruelty and activity in these bands was one led by John Hall, Marshall Hall and Mayl Quillen. Certain it is that four other men had the lots with the Hall-Quillen clan, but their

SHIRLEY A. PATRICK, OF MAYTOWN, DIES

Prominent Woman Succumbs Following Birth of a Daughter

Leaving a newborn babe and a newly built home, Mrs. Thomas Patrick, 26, nee Miss Shirley Allen, died at her father's home in Maytown Tuesday evening following the birth of a daughter the previous day. Mrs. Patrick, a former teacher in the Maytown school, was one of Maytown's best community workers being interested in all civic enterprises.

Mrs. Patrick was the daughter of George Allen and Dora Allen, who preceded her in death. She became the bride of Thomas Patrick, formerly of Salyersville in 1934. The young couple had just completed the building of a new home at Maytown when death occurred.

Mrs. Patrick was a graduate of the Maytown high school, later attending Pikeville College and Morehead Teachers' College. She served as principal of the C. G. grade school and as a teacher in the Maytown school. She was a member of the Christian Church of Pikeville.

Funeral services were conducted from the Methodist Church at Maytown, Wednesday with the Rev. Potter of Prestonsburg officiating. Burial was made under the direction of the Arnold Funeral Home of Prestonsburg. Many beautiful floral tributes were sent to the bereaved which Mrs. Patrick was held by Maytown residents.

Dean-Frick Battle Says:

Dean-Frick Battle Has Made Cardinals More Serious Outfit

N O DOUBT the real facts in the case are merely that Dizzy Dean has recently had to have some of his best white hit-luck been continuing its overdue catching up with Carl Hubbell.

During the training period Frankie Frisch's young men were more concerned with the lighter aspects of life than with the business of baseball. Having read in the newspapers that they were due to win a pennant they let it go at that and devoted their more diligent attention to going out on street corners. Once the National league season had started there was no greater concern with winning or losing. Somewhat the athletes seemed to believe that such rebuffs could not happen to them in real life and that they would wake up almost any morning to find they merely had been victims of bad weather.

Captain Leo Durocher, having played with a Yankee team or two that similarly misplaced its confidence over a portion of the season, was one of the few who had a correct line on the situation.

"Yeah, we've got a good team but it's a young one," he explained when the Cards were moving blithely and none too adeptly through their early season exercises. "I'm a team like that can win a pennant and it also can finish away down with the Dodgers. It's all life and breaks fall or rather, how things click. Something's got to wake us up and start us going."

"Remember that time in Cleveland when Mike Garcia, just a substitute, practically broke out a Yankee team into snapping out of it to him to do it. It just happened to touch off the spark when too many great players were feeling low or acting careless. Something similar can happen to us. Then watch."

Viewing the Cards in the dugout before a game recently, I remembered that conversation. The collection of babbling, care-free young men who were more concerned with carrying on feuds among themselves than with doing serious damage to the opposition in a position a month ago had changed. The Cards were not hard bitten Dizzy Dean House Gangsters of two or three seasons ago but neither were they jolly larks.

More than anything else it was the Giants who sat in the dugout across from them. Serious athletes, that is. Young men not given to too much carryings on but intent upon giving the fans who crowded the stands a fair break for their attention lavished upon them.

Even Dean, ordinarily a gentleman who could give a ten-mile start to Tompkins's famed brook in any babbling contest, was as silent as Hubbell across the way. Only once in the 30 minutes immediately preceding game time was there anything like the celebrated Dean wit and humor. Then some stranger intruded to ask for the classic Dean signature on a baseball.

"Snacks," was the reply then, "get away from me in any way I'll sign anything with that guy's name on it is with a bat."

Since the name of Ford Frick, president of the National league and the recent spanker of Mr. Dean, is prettily written on all the league baseballs before they leave the factory, there seemed no doubt about who "that guy" was. Also the checked and amended Frick's fervent announcement seem now to indicate what has converted the Cards into a team.

Definitely, the St. Louis representatives continue to chafe under the reprimand of the league president who was only doing his duty. Frick revealed to them that they were not quite the objects of popular adoration that some of them had conceived themselves to be. Since the truth hurts worse than anything else the young men were bound to get even.

Dean pitched as he can pitch when he remembers that he is no longer a barbed-wired kid in an Arkansas cotton patch. The Cards played the ball of which they are capable.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

BILL STEWART, baseball umpire and former chief of referees in the National Hockey league, plans to dress the Chicago Cubs in Balloon silk pants and gaudy jerseys when he starts managing them next season. Says it will have the more crowd appeal.

One of the most eminent metropolitan bookmakers, inside and outside the tracks, is getting away with a new gag. Each day one of the bookie's representatives noses around the jockey's room and secretary's office seeking red hot information.

Owners of New York's three major league baseball clubs are busy with agreement to ban radio broadcasts from the parks. It seems that the bank will handle everything so nicely for the Dodgers and pays two managers to keep them in the second division while he breaks the agreement for 25 G's.

The U. S. G. A., which has managed to ball up most of its tournaments in recent years, should have sent a representative to the P. G. A. tournament in Philadelphia.

Those tots who expected to reap harvests of new dollars in the track near Wilmington are scared of only one thing—the Delaware lynching laws.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Now Follow the Horses

Now that he has retired from prizefighting Tony Canzoneri and the pretty Mrs. Tony get their thrills out of watching horse races.

Paul Mellon, incidentally, has a pet that comes in the group of lion members in the United Huns.

Even Dean, ordinarily a gentleman who could give a ten-mile start to Tompkins's famed brook in any babbling contest, was as silent as Hubbell across the way.

Since the name of Ford Frick, president of the National league and the recent spanker of Mr. Dean, is prettily written on all the league baseballs before they leave the factory, there seemed no doubt about who "that guy" was.

A Message to Farmers WHO WANT TO MAKE MORE MONEY

33 FORT CHISWELL FARMS parcels of 30 to 300 acres to be sold separately

IN order to liquidate property owned by the late George L. Carter, I have been ordered by Mr. James Walter Carter to sell at auction the famous FORT CHISWELL FARMS—located in the finest part of the Blue Grass section near Wytheville, in south western Virginia. I shall do so with the greatest pleasure; for this is some of the best land—whether for farming or for grazing—that I have seen in all my 40 years' experience.

FORT CHISWELL FARMS have everything demanded by the farmer who wants to make the most money from his efforts—unusually rich soil, a fine clay, well-watered fields, easily accessible markets.

So, if you are not farming "for your health", read carefully every word in this announcement. Then send for a free illustrated book which gives complete facts about FORT CHISWELL FARMS and the money-making opportunities offered to those who attend the auction on July 3rd, '33.

Joseph A. Day

LEADING AUTHORITIES AGREE: Fort Chiswell Farms are among the finest in south western Virginia.

COMMERCIAL OPPORTUNITIES: In addition to the opportunities that the auction will offer to farmers, there are a number of other money-making openings of unusual interest—such as excellent sites for gas stations, stores, etc.

LIBERAL TERMS

Write or phone for full particulars and FREE ILLUSTRATED BOOKLET, P. O. Box 188, Wytheville, Virginia. Telephone Max Meadows 615, local office on property, Executive Offices: 67 Liberty St., New York City

Within a few miles of Fort Chiswell Farms are grade schools, high schools and churches of various denominations.

Sunday School Lesson

GOD HEARS A PEOPLE'S CRY

International Sunday School For July 4, 1937

Golden Text: "Before they call, I will answer, and while they are yet speaking, I will hear."—Isaiah 65:24.

With this lesson, we begin a new quarter and, a new series of studies, the theme of which is "God in the making of a nation." As the next eight lessons will be taken from the Book of Exodus, it might be well to know something about the book.

The Book of Genesis closes with the death of Joseph and many years intervene between that time and the events recorded in the first chapter of Exodus. The children of Israel have continued to live in Egypt, have prospered and have greatly multiplied. So great has they become that the Egyptians who became afraid that these people would become so powerful that they would take over the government, and to prevent this, steps were begun to persecute and oppress the Hebrew people.

Before proceeding with the further study of this lesson, it might be well for us to consider why it was that God not only allowed, but commanded the Egyptians at that time were the most highly civilized and cultured people in the world. Their laws were moderate and wise; the manners of the people simple and domestic, and they were prosperous and cultured. Science, literature and the arts flourished, and the children of Israel were a wandering, unorganized band of people, mostly shepherds.

When these plans to literalize the world, the Israelites to death failed, the king then turned to another plan to exterminate the race. He ordered the midwives to put to death, as soon as born, the male children of the Hebrew people. However, the midwives, through fear of God, refused to do this, and because of their refusal to do this, God blessed them. However, Pharaoh was determined in his plan to get rid of these hated people, so he ordered the Hebrews to kill all the male Hebrew children. If this plan had succeeded, the race would have absolutely been brought to an end, but this also utterly failed.

Is it a matter of wonder to you that God—a God of love—could allow his chosen people to undergo such persecution when he could have, if he had wanted to, delivered them? The same question form when we see the apparatus of persecution today of those who love and serve God as best they can. History has proven that God had a purpose in allowing all of these things to happen to the Jews during the trial and tribulations of the wilderness journey. Their lives of ease in Egypt had made them "soft" and it was necessary for them to be "hardened" before they could be led out. They had begun to depend on themselves and their material possessions and it was necessary for them to learn to reach up and depend on God alone.

In describing the remarkable numerical growth of the Israelites we read in Exodus 1:1, "And the children of Israel were fruitful, and increased abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceedingly mighty; and the land was filled with them." It is not difficult to imagine the feelings of the Egyptians when they witnessed this extraordinary growth and their alarm was only natural when one realized that these Israelites were people of another race. A number of generations had passed and they arose in Egypt a king who "knew not Joseph" and the wonderful things he had done for Egypt during his lifetime. Just who this king was, we have no way of knowing as no name and no date is given in the biblical reference. However, as soon as he came to the throne, he began to make plans to oppress and suppress the Hebrews and to take steps to drive them out of the land of Egypt. Tasks and masters were set over them and tasks were assigned that were almost impossible of execution. However, the king set to their tasks and built cities for the king. The king found that the more he afflicted these people the more they multiplied and the more they spread abroad. So he devised other precautions, commanding them to make brick to serve in the fields, and to do menial tasks that were usually reserved for slaves, slaves and captives of war.

When these plans to literalize the world, the Israelites to death failed, the king then turned to another plan to exterminate the race. He ordered the midwives to put to death, as soon as born, the male children of the Hebrew people. However, the midwives, through fear of God, refused to do this, and because of their refusal to do this, God blessed them. However, Pharaoh was determined in his plan to get rid of these hated people, so he ordered the Hebrews to kill all the male Hebrew children. If this plan had succeeded, the race would have absolutely been brought to an end, but this also utterly failed.

Is it a matter of wonder to you that God—a God of love—could allow his chosen people to undergo such persecution when he could have, if he had wanted to, delivered them? The same question form when we see the apparatus of persecution today of those who love and serve God as best they can. History has proven that God had a purpose in allowing all of these things to happen to the Jews during the trial and tribulations of the wilderness journey. Their lives of ease in Egypt had made them "soft" and it was necessary for them to be "hardened" before they could be led out. They had begun to depend on themselves and their material possessions and it was necessary for them to learn to reach up and depend on God alone.

Therefore, we can see the hand of God leading them into a land in which they would see and be influenced by the culture of their adopted neighbors. They acquired unto themselves much of the best of that which was offered. Being strangers in a strange land, they naturally clung together more closely and we find themselves into the beginning of a great nation. Alfred Adlerheim says that "Hence, as a nation was born of God, redeemed by God, banded by God, and separated for the service of God. And this God was to be known to them as Jehovah, the living and true God. The ideas they had gained, the knowledge they had acquired, and the life they had learned, even the truths they had heard in Egypt, might be taken up with them, but, as they were to be baptized in the Red Sea, and consecrated at the foot of Sinai."

The ideas they had gained, the knowledge they had acquired, and the life they had learned, even the truths they had heard in Egypt, might be taken up with them, but, as they were to be baptized in the Red Sea, and consecrated at the foot of Sinai."

Think of the variety of ices and sherbets and if you are as hot as I am this minute, you'll be glad to be reminded of them. Keep on hand the ingredients to make sherbet and serve it often during the summer months.

- Orange Ice
  - 2 cups water
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1 cup orange juice
  - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
  - Grated rind of one orange
  - Make a syrup by boiling together the sugar and water for 10 minutes. Add fruit juice and grated rind of orange. Cool and freeze.
- Grape Juice Ice
  - 1 pint grape juice
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1-3 cup orange juice
  - 2 cups boiling water
  - 4 tablespoons lemon juice
  - Make syrup of sugar and boiling water and boil 10 minutes. Cool and add fruit juice. Freeze.
- Lemon Mint Ice
  - Bruiise a good handful of fresh mint leaves—about as much as can be grasped in the hand—place in a bowl and pour over them 1 cup of boiling water. Let them steep while the other ingredients are being prepared. Beat stiff and sweetened 2 teaspoons of gelatin and

Human Eye is the Most Susceptible to Injury

The human eye is one of nature's finest instruments, and one of the most delicate organs. Normally, states a writer in the Chicago Tribune, it is used from the moment of birth until the hour of death, except when its owner is sleeping. It is not so keen as similar organs in certain other forms of life, particularly in high flying birds, but it performs, when in normal condition, adequately for all of man's purposes.

Chief factors involved in seeing, however, are the optic nerve and the center in the brain for vision; the retina, which is the part of the eye that conveys images through the optic nerve; the lens, which is the focusing tissue; the muscles, which control the lens; the iris, which forms the outline of the pupil, regulates its size, and controls the amount of light entering the eye, and the fluids which are necessary to the correct working of the mechanism.

The eyes are subject to many ailments and conditions that may affect vision. Among adults over the age of forty farightedness is very common. The eyes may function properly to about that age, then the individual begins to have trouble reading, although he sees objects clearly at a distance.

No organ of the body is so susceptible to injury as the eye. A particle of dust or a cruder may set up infection which, if not treated immediately, may imperil the sight. Any foreign body lodging in the eye can cause extreme discomfort.

SUMMER PERILS

Now that summer has arrived the waters of the land invite swimmers and boating lures the land-lubber. It might not be amiss to utter a few words of warning in regard to the dangers that lurk in these delightful pastimes.

Every year the newspapers carry stories of inexperienced swimmers, taking risks, and going under for the third time before somebody pulls them from a watery grave. Similar incidents are chronicled about boats turning over and letting the occupants struggling to get to shore, if they can.

Floyd County, we hope, will be spared such sorrowful developments this summer. However, it is up to all of us to exercise proper care in our water sports if we expect to live through the summer months.

EDUCATION

There are many people in Floyd County and elsewhere who have become convinced that the solution of our social, economic and political problems can be solved by what they term, 'education.'

These people might be right if their conception of education is broad enough to include not only the acquisition of information that passes for intelligence but also the physical, social and cultural development of the boys and girls who will make our next generation.

We purposely omit the ethical and religious training that must be included in any individual life because this should come from the home and the church primarily instead of the public school.

AN ECHO: "WHY?"

"Why does anybody write editorials?"

In reply, let us ask, "why does anybody read them?" We have no idea of the right answer to either question but we have a few thoughts on the subject, which might be worth filling out this space in these columns.

Human beings exist as individuals. Human progress is based upon individual improvement. The race makes its mark upon the average of its existing members, not on the superior few or the inferior pack.

If this is correct, then newspaper editorials ought to include any interest that attracts mankind and should serve no other purpose than the promotion of individual improvement.

The same observation applies to business activity, school teaching, preaching and governmental affairs. While there may be many opinions as to what will accomplish the end in view the underlying purpose should be dominant in all human activity.

And, so what? Ask us another!

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD RECORD AT BEREA'S SCHOOL

Harmon Hale, son of Mrs. Daisy Hale, of Prestonsburg, after graduating from the local graded school, has made a worthwhile record in Berea academy and Berea College, where he has just been graduated. Mr. Hale has been hired as a teacher in the Auxier graded school for the coming school year.

While a college student, Hale was a member of the basketball, track teams; was chairman of the Floyd county group at Berea, and was elected to membership in Phi Alpha, a scientific honorary society. He was graduated with the bachelor of arts degree with the class of '37.

While a student at Berea academy, Hale was a member of the mythical All-Regional basketball five. Graduating from the academy's class of 100, his scholastic standing was the second highest in his class. He was salutatorian. Charles Hale, Harmon's younger brother, is also a student at Berea, where he was just graduated at the academy. He will return to Berea College in September as a freshman.

Patrick, Salyersville; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allen, Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hatcher, Lacey; Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, Cincinnati; and Mr. Corbett Arnett, Salyersville.

Funeralbearers were: Roger Stewart, Claude Aiken, Jack Turner, Wayne Allen and Claude May. Flower girls were from the senior class of the Methodist Sunday School.

NEW POLICY FOR SS APPLICANTS BEGUN

Sworn Statement to Become Part of Application in July

A new policy that will require all applicants for old age assistance to submit a sworn statement as a part of their applications becomes effective July 1, according to an announcement made this week by Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, director of public assistance at Frankfort.

"An entirely new and different application blank has been prepared," the director's statement says, "it could not be used in the beginning of the Old Age Assistance program in Kentucky due to the vast number of aged persons who desired to file applications for aid, but now, with upwards of 40,000 applications reviewed and approved and many others investigated and rejected because they do not meet the requirements of the present law, the new type application form can be introduced."

This new feature is connected with Old Age Assistance administration in Kentucky is expected to add materially in cutting down the number of applications filed by ineligible persons. It will also enable the public assistance division to enforce penalties provided for false statements in connection with applications for Old Age Assistance. Besides containing a sworn statement, the new application form also includes several additional features not found in the old form in use since the beginning of the program in Kentucky. It will require information pertaining to age and residence, and an agreement to reimburse the Commonwealth of Kentucky for assistance given.

Another feature of the new policy is that each applicant must fill out his application blank in the presence of a notary public, a field worker of the division of public assistance, or some other person authorized by law to acknowledge oaths. The applicant, after answering all of the questions required on the application form, must make a sworn statement that his answers are true and correct to the best of his knowledge and belief, and he then must sign his application in person, using his signature or his mark as it will appear on checks or other legal papers.

MEDICAL DIRECTOR WARNS SWIMMERS

Doctor States Three Rules All Swimmers Must Obey

Predicting that there will probably be more swimmers in the water on the Fourth of July than on any other day of the summer, Dr. Robert A. Fraser, chief medical director of the New York Life Insurance Company offers three simple rules which should go far in preventing the large number of swimming accidents which occur every year during the summer months.

Dr. Fraser has been making a special study of hot weather accidents and disabilities. "If everyone," he says, "will remember the following three rules many lives will be spared and much sorrow avoided. First, never go swimming alone second, keep out of the water for at least one full hour after a meal; third never dive into water until you are sure of its depth.

They are just common sense rules," Dr. Fraser said, "yet failure to observe them probably accounted for the great majority of the 5,500 swimming fatalities estimated by the national Safety Council for the year 1936, the latest figures that are available."

BRUSH BURNING IS CHIEF CAUSE OF FOREST FIRES

Farmers' brush burning has been the chief cause of forest fires, accounting for 87 per cent of 282 or nearly 31 per cent of the fires since July 1, 1936, in the five protective associations - Gallit, Kentonia, Red Bird, Big Sandy and Pike county - according to the District Forester's office, Pike county. Approximately 7,405 acres or 37 per cent of the total acreage burned over is attributable to these 87 fires. The number of fires, 25, was largest in the Red Bird Association while the acreage burned over, 2,376, was greatest in the Pike County association.

Following closely in number and acreage burned over are fires of incendiary origin, 65 fires enveloping an acreage of 2,020. The Red Bird Association, Leslie and Clay counties, was accountable for the most fires, 28, from this cause and the largest average, 2,307.

Hunters' camp fires was the third leading cause of fires, there being 30 or about 11 per cent charged from this cause which started an acreage of 1,454. The Red Bird ciation again led in number with 12 fires, but the acreage burned over amounted to only 563; whereas the Big Sandy Association produced a total of 691 acres burned over from only nine fires. Other causes in order of frequency are: children's camp fires, smokers, unknown, miners, railroaders, miscellaneous, logging, and sawmills.

Right Out Of The Air

Eighty-five pounds of singing dynamite is what the radio control engineers call the torch-worshiping July Starr. That is what she weighs, but her throaty voice is so powerful that they have to use the microphone an extra foot away when she sings. She's heard on the air Thursdays over NBC.

***Perfectionist is the word used by her manager, Janssen, in now directing a radio orchestra for the first time although he is world famous as a symphonic conductor. Janssen won't even allow dancers to whisper while it is rehearsing his orchestra.

***Three full hours of network broadcasting each week in Horace Held and are heard via the Mutual network Saturdays in a full-hour dance concert. During the week, the band is picked up twice by the networks for national airing.

Featured with the Bragarders are Larry Cotton, tenor; the Four King Sisters, Art Thorsen and Jerry Horne.

***Singing of Jane Pickens over NBC on Sunday nights resulted in a unique break for a popular singer, for she was also invited to sing with the Philadelphia orchestra in one of the Roth-Hood Dell concerts.

***Lucille Manners, comely soprano star who is heard on NBC Friday nights has had her contract renewed. Three years ago she was a stenographer and she has stepped from a type writer to front rank as a radio star in that period of time.

She will be heard on the air for many months to come.

***Wilbur Hatch, who has directed as musical director of Columbia west coast key station, KLLL for seven years, has added the category of top-notch radio artist. He is Francis White, for Hatch served as accompanist when he entered radio.

***Top comedy thinker-upper of the moment is Edgar Bergen who puts all the funny answers in the mouth of his now famous dummy, Charlie McCarthy. It was Charlie who uttered the classic line to Carol Lombard - "Beh, M. I. S. Lombard," he said, "what would you think of a lemonade beginning of a comedy from the life and loves of Charlie McCarthy, a dummy."

***Morton Rowe, the popular network tenor, has launched a mad among air artists which is proving exceedingly popular. It is whistling and the studio jantors are hoping that the lad dies a fast death.

***Harry Salter, creator of "Group music," is again being heard on the Hit Parade programs. Salter ranks as one of radio's most versatile masters, and experts say the outstanding quality of his music is charm. He is also the leading exponent of "mood music" on the airways.

***Margaret Dittus, a Metropolitan Opera soprano, made a special appearance on "Your Screen Friends" before she left for the St. Louis Civic Opera series.

***Lucille Manners, comely soprano star who is heard on NBC Friday nights has had her contract renewed. Three years ago she was a stenographer and she has stepped from a type writer to front rank as a radio star in that period of time.

In accordance with the Public Health Service Milk Ordinance and Code of grades of all dairies delivering milk into Floyd county have been determined by the local health department and are herewith being announced. Every milk consumer should buy grade "A" milk. With this grade there is an assurance that it is being produced according to rules and regulations laid down by the State Board of Health for the production of the safest milk possible. Observe the name of the dairy and grade of the milk on every bottle can.

Beys Branch Dairy, Grade A Raw; Beaver Valley Dairy, Grade A Raw; Branham's Dairy, Grade D Raw; Leake's Dairy, Grade A Raw; Lynden Dairy, Grade A Raw; Music Dairy, Grade A Raw.

The above listed dairies are under the constant supervision of the local health department. The public will be notified of any change in grades.

River, vice-chairman; Malcolm Hubbard, Dock, regular member; and Dave Goehant, Prestonsburg, alternate. James Hale was the election's temporary presiding officer.

Following the elections, County Agent S. L. Isbell announced that farmers who had signed work sheets would have their farms inspected, beginning about July 15, to be given grades for all soil-building practices carried out on their farms this year. Farmers have until October 31, to complete the sowing of grasses and legumes, with the exception of korean lespedeza. Farmers may until the above date, apply ground limestone and phosphate.

Flivway Series of Pools
A flivway is a series of pools so arranged that the fish may climb over a waterfall by leaping from one pool to the one above it. The arrangement is similar to a circular staircase. A fish elevator is similar to an ordinary elevator. The fish swim into it, the door closes, the elevator is filled with water and lifted to the top door of the elevator is on a level with the top of the dam, the door then opens and the grating at the bottom of the elevator is lifted, crowding the fish out.

Trinidad Asphalt Lake
Trinidad Asphalt lake is really a dried up swamp covering slightly more than 100 acres. It is a semi-solid; one can walk on its surface anywhere. It is quarried out in blocks and the mud from which it is taken soon levels off like a plate of jelly. The level of this lake remains about the same regardless of the amount that is removed. What this Trinidad asphalt really is, is only a conjecture. Some claim it to be a compound of oil and volcanic ash, while others have different theories as to its origin.

Meaning of "In Trust"
"In trust" is a phrase used in deeds or wills wherein funds are placed in the hands of a person called a "trustee" to hold them in trust for others. The purpose of this is usually that the trustee is to pay to one person or a number of persons the income from the funds or life estate in the property. If a trust being terminated, the money need not be put in trust again unless those taking it so desire.

When Opal Lost Favor
The susceptibility of the mass mind to superstition is typically illustrated by its attitude toward the opal. Up to 1829 this gem stone was believed to bring luck to its owner. Ever since, says Collier's Weekly, it has been considered a magnet of misfortune merely because a character in Sir Walter Scott's novel, "Anne of Gelestein," happened to express this belief.

FLOYD RESERVOIR IS IN WATERSHED PLAN

Engineers Plan to Dam Three Big Sandy Creeks Near Here

Three reservoirs in the Big Sandy watershed, one of them on Johns Creek in Floyd and Pike counties, one on Big Blaine Lawrence county, and one on the Russell Fork of Levisa in Pike county are contained in the system of reservoirs and dykes proposed by the U. S. Army engineers as a means of preventing recurrence of disastrous floods in the Ohio valley.

A major of the army engineer's program, now before Congress shows three reservoirs to store water in the Big Sandy valley. The one in Lawrence county is on Big Blaine creek and the dam would be constructed near Yatesville and during the flood would store water in the reservoir a distance of several miles up Blaine creek. The reservoir is created by a huge dam at Pishtrop and the one on Russell Fork by a dam at Dewey.

Cost of the three reservoirs in the Big Sandy valley would be $13,400,000 according to the estimate drafted by the army engineers.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR MRS. SARAH HUNT

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Maynard Hunt, of Germantown, who died at the Beaver Valley hospital of a ruptured appendix June 24, were held at the R. T. Hunt home at Germantown June 26 at 2 p. m. with the Rev. Isaac Stratton and the Rev. Henry Crider officiating. Burial was made in the direction of the Arnold Funeral Home of Prestonsburg.

Mrs. Maynard was one of Floyd county's best mothers and had many friends. She had been a member of the Baptist Church for 19 years and was a devoted Christian. She was the daughter of Elijah and Susan Maynard of Germantown, who preceded her in death several years ago. She is survived by her husband, R. T. Hunt whom she married in 1907. The four children born to this union are: Bill, Flora, Darwin and Elmer, all of whom are survivors. She is also survived by one brother, Taulbee Maynard of Germantown, and one sister, Mrs. Laura Collinsworth of Louisa, Ky.

marked effectiveness. Mr. Warren has given much attention to preaching as well as singing. He is also a writer. Gospel songs of his composition including: "He's a Wonderful Savior to Me," "Back to Mother's Knees," "Resting in His Love," and "Sing, and Smile, and Pray." He has also served as promotional director of assemblies and church building programs. There will probably be a street service Saturday afternoon of this week as Mr. Warren brings broadcasting equipment for the meeting. Regular services will be held at the several churches at the morning hour, with Mr. Warren in the pulpit at the Methodist church; and the first ten meeting is to be held Sunday night, July 4.

The Service that adds Comfort to Your Home

During these hot summer days, the time you save with a telephone to add in settling daily problems may be the difference between a day that worries your nerves into a frazzle, and a day that includes the time you need for relaxation.

There are so many details in running a household. An extra loaf of bread from the grocer—a six o'clock order of ice-cream from the drugstore—and so on. And with a telephone to run your errands, many concerns of the day are easily disposed of.

Of course, most everyone is familiar with the value of telephone service, but if you are trying to get along without a telephone you may be surprised, and pleased, to know how little it costs to have a telephone in your home.

All you need to do is to ask any telephone employe, or get in touch with the telephone Business Office. Order your telephone today, and add comfort to your home.

STEREOTYPED HABITS
One of the distinctive things about civilization is its tendency to find new ways of saying and doing things.

for a certain bow, a certain intonation, a certain facial expression. When we used to speak pieces in the country school we started such a speech and ended it with a bow. The bow at the end is now "I thank you" meaning little more or less than the stiff bow we used to give.

The stereotyped order of doing things became habitual with most of us so habitual that I still am conscious of it when I try to peel an orange or an apple differently from the way I learned as a child. Oranges were cut around from stem to bloom and in six places, not five or four or seven. The peeling was removed by beginning at the stem end and peeling down. Then the sections were removed one at a time and eaten thus. I can recall how strange it seemed the first time I saw an orange cut crosswise: there seemed to be something radically wrong about the proceeding in peeling an apple we were taught to start at the bloom end and peel around not lengthwise. When I tried to peel an apple otherwise, I was reminded that canned fruit did not look good unless it had been peeled around rather than from end to end. A canned apple as everyone knows cannot keep its appearance anyway, without some treatment given in canning. Why it was wicked to peel fruit otherwise I never learned. I strongly suspect that there was a superstition about a right and a wrong way of doing it. So common is this style of peeling apples and so unusual is it to cut an apple crosswise that I wonder than not 10 percent of the people who read this column could be sure how many cells there are in an apple core: guess and then see how accurate you have been.

In other ways beside language, we formerly had definite ways of doing things so definite that one hardly dared take any liberties with them. A certain thing called

CLIFTON STARS

James Clifton, Prestonsburg youth ace pitcher of Camp Pass Creek's baseball team assured himself of a permanent niche in baseball's hall of fame when he hung up a no hit and no run performance against a highly touted outfit from Camp Clayton. In so doing he said, with exactly the same tone and the same bow: "Good morning, gentlemen."

While Clifton was fireballing and curving the opposition, he struck out 16, his mates hit for an even dozen safeties and converted these into four tallies. Clifton walked a man in the fourth and an overthrow allowed him to start for home: this was shut off at home when a neat relay Johnson to Cecil to Belleville tagged the man out. Clifton gave the fans better exhibition of his prowess when he issued two consecutive passes. A passed ball allowed the runners to advance. Jones, pinch hitting for Crabtree, struck out swinging. Number two batter went out the same way to be followed by the third strike out thus retiring the side.

Lutheran Church Much Older Than Methodist

The Lutheran church is about two centuries older than the Methodist, notes a writer in the Detroit News. As its name indicates, it was founded by Martin Luther, whose opposition to certain doctrines and practices of the Catholic church led to his excommunication in 1520. The organization of his church began soon after and in 1530 the Augsburg Confession was adopted as its fundamental creed. From Wittenberg in Saxony Lutheranism spread throughout Germany, Sweden, Denmark, Netherlands, Poland, Hungary, etc. The first Lutheran came to America as early as 1643 and established a congregation in 1648. The Methodist church was an offshoot of the Church of England and was at first a reform movement within that church. John and Charles Wesley had in 1729 formed at Oxford university a club for the promotion of personal religion and their careful observance of rather strict rules of conduct led to the term "Methodists." Briefly, the open-air preaching of the Wesleys and of George Whitefield and the opposition of the Church of England gradually developed the Methodist system into a church, from 1738 onward. The first Methodist arrived in America from Ireland in 1760 and six years later, their leader, Philip Embury, founded the first Methodist society in America.

CASTLE IN MAINE MOURNFUL RELIC OF MINING BOOM

Two Aging Sisters and 20 Cats Dwoll in Unfinished Manor of 1870s.

Franklin, Me. — Strangest and most mournful relic of Maine's mining boom of the late Eighteenth century is a forty-room mansion set in a 6,000-acre tract of woodland in this town, a mansion never finished, not ever likely to be, and inhabited today, as for sixty years, by two women, twenty cats and a swarm of rats.

This is the "Castle in Maine" of Theodore P. Austin, a New York jeweler, who invested heavily in Hancock county gold and copper mines and dreamed of vast riches to be extracted from those once-celebrated holes in the ground.

Austin had one other dream. He had plenty of money, expected to make more, and longed for a country house big and grand enough for entertaining on a large scale, like those he had seen or read about in England.

Errected Big House. In pursuit of this ambition, he bought 6,000 acres in Franklin close to the mines of Hancock, Sullivan and Blue Hill, and on it erected a big house with a stone observatory tower, to cost $200,000, a $25,000 stable and other buildings.

He died before the house was finished, his wife soon followed him, the mining boom blew up and what was left of his fortune, together with the big house, fell to his two daughters, Neva and Alta, young children then, who, with a few servants and their twenty cats, have occupied the place ever since.

Neva is sixty-three today, Alta well over seventy. They have considerable money and a lot of old jewelry, but not the means to make their father's dream come true, and the big house remains just as the plasterers left it sixty years ago, without interior finish.

They hand is never the worse for doing their own work.

She leaned him to look over the side of the vessel. "They're coming in, a stream now—hundreds of them," she said returning.

"I'll miss you, too." "Yes," she mused, "men seem content if they have that business."

He heard the deep blast of a whistle, and a good-sized vessel, brightly lighted, went down-stream. "Some sort of passenger boat. Too small for a regular liner."

"Sailing at eleven," repeated Ellen. "It seemed a century away this morning, yet here it is almost upon us. Did you ever have an hour—half afraid it would not come—because it means something definite? Yet it comes and it goes so quickly."

He nodded. Numbly he felt that there was something he wanted to say. "It's a long time since I've seen you. How are you?"

She came to the station, and when the bell rang for visitors ashore, Fluvanna's face, fearless, held a soft radiance. Hugh kissed her forehead. He stretched out his hand to Ellen. Good-by—don't forget to write occasionally."

"I won't forget," she promised. "I'll promise to send three lines." "Now get off or they'll be pulling up the gangplank." She patted, kissed him again, and pushed him up at the pier, his limbs oddly shaky, watching them at the rail, Fluvanna and Ellen. His mother did not look excited; she was gently smiling. Mother was—mystical looking; that was the word! Ellen was trying to say something to him; her lips formed words he could not hear. He shook his head. She tried again. The ship was moving. . . sliding almost imperceptibly. Ellen resorted to gestures. "You," she motioned, "over there!" She meant he would be coming for them. He nodded his head in assent.

Over there. . . But they were leaving him! It came upon him with a pang of desolation. There would be an ocean between. Ellen had kissed him. . . Ellen! Why hadn't he seen it before? Not momentary impulse, but love directing him. Ellen—their destinies intermingling. He saw it as clearly as if a directing finger pointed. And she did—she would love him. Her kiss had told him. Wait! . . . Stop the ship! They mustn't go!

Unexpectedly She Kissed Him With Clinging Warmth.

They watched him intently. He forgot the words "I love you" to Ellen. She looked puzzled, shook her head, put her hand behind her ear. He tried again, "I love you." Joy broke over her face and he could see the color sweep clear to her forehead. She turned to his mother. He could see her say, "He says he loves me!"

Fluvanna nodded at him delightedly. Why, Mother wanted this too! Ellen's eyes were on him; he could see her mouth tremble. She stretched out her arms. The boat was moving faster. Once more she gestured, this time more timidly. "You—over there." She threw him a kiss.

He watched until the deck became a dark blur of figures as the boat moved away from the lights of the pier, swinging into the river. He would follow—no, he couldn't. But he would go in a few weeks. Things were better. Go home; get things in order; perhaps the last of May—June. He stumbled along the wharf. At the street a pleading derelict asked him for a dime. He put a dollar in his hand. While he waited for a taxicab, he looked up at the heavens. In the powdered sky, one star shone more brightly than any of the others. Bright star—steadfast and enduring.

THE END

New National Park on Charming Isle Royale

America's newest national park will be ready for visitors next summer on Isle Royale, in Lake Superior, according to a recent announcement by the National Park Service, Washington, D. C. The island, fifty miles long and five to ten miles wide, is a remarkable freak of nature, absolutely primeval in aspect, with one of the few remaining virgin forests in America. Composed of lava layers spit from some unknown and long-extinct volcano, the rocks have disintegrated to an extent permitting the growth of aboriginal hardwood and other forests which have never felt the bite of an ax.

In these forests roam the nation's largest moose herd, numbering nearly 1,000 animals which when full grown are larger than the buffaloes of the western plains. They are harmless and fairly tame, and are often seen in the neighborhood of the five island boteles.

A feature of uncommon interest is the presence of some 2,000 prehistoric mining pits, from which thousands of tons of pure native copper have been wrested by some unknown race. Isle Royale copper, easily distinguishable by reason of its unusual purity, has been found in burial mounds as far away as Mexico.
