WHEELWRIGHT MINES RESUME OPERATIONS AFTER SHUT-DOWN

1,300 Inland Steel Workers Return to Work July 6
Price Announces

FULL-TIME BASIS

The 1,300 employees of the Inland Steel Company's mine at Wheelwright returned to work when operations were reopened Tuesday for an expected full-time basis. The miners have not been on strike, but the mine has been closed for the past few weeks due to the C. I. O. strikes which tied up Inland Steel's operations. The Wheelwright mine sends practically all of its output to Inland Steel. E. R. Price, general superintendent of the mines said: "We are happy to announce the mine will resume operations July 6. So much has been published by various newspapers considering the terms under which our plants in the Chicago district resumed work that are not in accordance with the facts the purpose of this statement is to acquaint you briefly with the true circumstances. "I am therefore posting a letter signed by Mr. Wilfred Sykes assistant general president of the United Mine Workers of America, which has been placed in the hands of each employee in the Chicago district. "In addition I want to quote

Overtime Workers Speed Registration of Floyd Voters

With the deadline for registering as a voter less than 24 hours away, registration at the office of County Clerk A. B. Meade became brisk this week as extra registration clerks worked overtime to care for voters. Remaining open during the celebration here July 3 and 5, the clerk's office registered close to a thousand voters. County Clerk A. B. Meade stated that numerous trips were made to the office Sunday also, to allow incoming voters to register. He added that in order to aid all voters who failed to register last year, he had helped in the sending of cars and trucks through the county to bring citizens who desired to register to Prestonsburg. Registration officials said that the daily average for the past week was well above 200, with close to 700 persons registering July 5. The regular office hours from 8 to 5 have

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR FRANK BURCHETT AT HIS DWALE HOME

Frank Burchett, 50, died at his home last week after years of bad health. Funeral and burial services were conducted at Dwaile June 28. Mr. Burchett is survived by the widow, Mrs. Ada Clark Burchett, and one step daughter, Mrs. Neil Carey, Allen. The good esteem in which Mr. Burchett was held was attested by the number of Odd Fellows which attended the funeral and with the assistance of the Arnold Funeral Home of Prestonsburg, took charge of the burial rites in the Dwaile cemetery. A delegation from the Odd Fellows lodge of Prestonsburg was present, with Judge John Caudill and William Dingus in charge of the lodge ritual at the grave. The Rev. Isaac Stratton and James Ross officiated at the funeral at the home of the deceased.

FORMER LEGISLATOR OF ALABAMA MAKES SPEECH TO FARMERS

Patterson, Agriculture Administration Officer, Talks July 5
Explaining how farmers might win economic freedom under a national agricultural policy, former Congressman Lafayette Patterson of Alabama, director of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, addressed the farmers at the courthouse here Monday. His address was one of the features of the local American Legion celebration of Independence Day. Congressman Patterson said: "The old AAA is declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court served its purpose and gave us lots of experience. It was not perfect as no other farm bill or legislation has been up to now. Congressman Patterson informed that experience with the abolition of AAA was used in the formation of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, which today forms the basis of the agricultural program. "This act has five provisions," the Congressman added, "and probably the purpose of it is to help the farmer."

TWO MEN ARE KILLED ACCIDENTALLY WHEN SHOTGUNS ARE FIRED

Tackett, 36, and Moore, 17 Killed at Same Hour, Six Miles Apart

Shotguns, accidentally discharged Monday within the same hour and less than six miles apart, took the lives of a man and a youth on left Beaver. The victims are Marvin Tackett, 36, McDowell; and Levi Moore, 17, Clear Creek. Both victims were shot in the stomach, accidentally self-inflicted and each victim was accompanied by another person when death occurred Monday at 1:30 and 2:30 p. m. Death came to Tackett while he and his oldest son, Donnie, were inspecting the Tackett cornfield. Tackett set the shotgun he was carrying against a log and then leaned the gun to rest. The weapon discharged the full contents of a shell entering Tackett's stomach and bringing death instantly. Tackett's 13-year-old son says that prior to the accident his father had said while pointing "where as good a piece of corn as I've seen." He did not speak after the shooting. The other victim, Levi Moore of Clear Creek was similarly killed when the trigger of the shotgun he was using in groundhog hunting became caught in brush and discharged the gun. Levi Moore's brother, who was with him stated that the death gun was hammer-fired and had already been fired. The safety was left off from the previous firing. The accident occurred about 5 miles apart.

Floyd's 241 Candidates May Be Largest Number In Ky.

Although Floyd county's total register of candidates for the August primary, 241 is expected to be one of the greatest in the state's 120 counties, no Floyd county member of his party, John Aiken, Democrat, Prestonsburg, registered in the closing hours, however, to make a two man race. Only one Republican, Fred Gearheart, Northern, has registered for tax commissioner. No Republican registered for magistrate in District No. 8. Of Floyd's 241 candidates, there are women Mrs. Anna Stumbo, Democrat, Martin, running for county judge; Claudia Ooms, Republican, and Evelyn Corey, Democrat, Prestonsburg, are making races for magistrate. The total number of candidates running for other offices are: sheriff, 14; county judge, 13; representative, 10; county court clerk, 7; coroner, 6; the Republican tax commissioner, 6; county attorney, 4.

What Irvin Cobb Thinks about

Comfort in Traveling.
LATELY, on a cross-country crawl, two of us invaded one of the remotest corners of the desert.

Until our car broke down we crawled along some of the roughest backways in creation, then escaped on what by quaint irony was called an accommodation train over a side-spur of a prehistoric railway line.

When we hit concrete high roads and a 1 r conditioned flier, I caught myself saying our forefathers put up with plenty of misery in order to move about. And then I realized that what we had endured did not date back to former generations. So soon have we grown accustomed to luxury with speed we forget that most of America, fifteen years ago, lacked what we now accept as common traveling comfort.

Why, less than two decades ago, for my sins, I rode on a certain jerk-water railroad in the deep South. The last work done on its tracks was in 1894 by General Sherman—the tore 'em up.

I made the mistake of trying to shave while en route. When I got through, I looked like one of those German student duellists.

But, nowadays, even those who use homestead trailers seem almost happy at times.

Diplomatic Busybodies.
WHOLE is the next member of our diplomatic corps to open his mouth and his foot in it clear up to his hip-joint!

It has been nearly two months now since our ambassador to Germany had a bad dream and before nurse could quiet him was proclaiming that a certain billionaire was willing to put up one of his loose billions to buy a dictatorship for this country. He failed to furnish the name and address. Maybe they got left out of the nightmare.

Hardly had pargoric wined this distinguished senator back to husband-land when our new representative in the Philippines began demanding that, when it came to drinking official toasts, his name must come higher up on the wine list or he wouldn't be responsible for the consequences. However, the excitement subsided before he could surmount the Pacific fleet to bombard Manila. There's a rumor that Washington sent him word he needn't worry about being appropriately saluted—he'd be a nationwide Bronx cheer awaiting him on his return home.

Since then there's been a hull and an especially when it's amateur night.

Hard-Bitten Females.
TOUTING about over certain Western states where open gambling either is by law permitted, or by custom winked at, I noticed this: Generally speaking, the feminine patrons are the steadiest drinkers, the most persistent gamblers, the most reckless bettors of all. And frequently their manners are the rudest and their faces the grimiest—determined seemingly by the theory that their sex is the gentler sex.

On the other hand, the men patrons—descended from many of them from old gun-fighters, old proscribers, old path-finders—grow increasingly docile and absorbing, less, than their share of the hard liquor—maybe because they fear there won't be enough left for mama and the girls—and risking their dimes where the gallant ladies plunge with dollars.

Sometimes a fellow, watching the modern professional from the protection of the sidelines, gets to longing for the bygone days when, as Kipling might have put it and, in fact, almost did, a woman was only a woman, but a good cigar was ten cents.

These Candid Cameras.
ONCE a citizen had a right to object to the publication of a flashlight view showing him beating his wife or exhibiting his appendicitis scar or taking out his upper or something.

That was before they began printing magazines for those who've abandoned the old-fashioned habit of reading and writing. And it's done a damn good job of it. It's no real good when these betraying close-ups prove that maybe the glamor is only paint-deep.

Thus the last strongholds of our one-time personal liberty crumble. I used to think the passport picture was about the frankest thing we had in the line of intimate likenesses, excepting, of course, the way.

But this candid camera business which catches you unawares—and often without your underwear either—is the most fiendish attack of all against our practically vanished privacy.

Judge Often Handed Down Humor "From the Bench"

Late Lord Darling Lived Drab Scenes With Pleasantries.

Many are the stories told about Lord Darling—better known as Mr. Justice Darling, "England's wittiest judge"—who died recently. He was a poet, with several published volumes to his credit. But it was his humor "from the bench" that made his name almost a household word.

On one occasion, a taleman claimed exemption from jury duty on the ground that he was completely deaf in the left ear.

"You can go," said Judge Darling, gravely; "I cannot have anyone in the jury box who cannot hear both sides."

A lawyer who had the misfortune never to have acquired the ability to use the letter "h" (relates Silvan Mayer in his "legal reminiscences"), was engaged before Justice Darling in a case which had relation to a horse. For some time the lawyer kept referring to the animal as "an orse. After a while, Darling looked down and said: "Was the animal a large horse or a little one?"

"Oh, a little one."

"Then," said the judge, "may we, for the remainder of the case, call it a pony?"

In another case before Justice Darling—in which a Cockney caterer was suing to recover the cost of a picnic luncheon he had provided for a large number of people—the plaintiff waxed highly indignant, under cross-examination, when it was suggested that his sandwiches were mostly "bread and bread," with the ham conspicuous only by its absence.

"I'm amazed; I'm amazed," he sputtered. "That will do!" interrupted Darling. "I suggest that had you been more generous with your hams on another occasion and a little less liberal with them here, you might not have found yourself in this situation!"—Kansas City Star.

Identifying Houses
Before houses were numbered, London's business streets were lined on both sides by a succession of gay signboards exhibiting an almost infinite variety of blue boards, black swans, red lions, flying pigs and the like. Even with these signs it was often hard to find one's destination, for the signs were often so badly painted that it would have puzzled a naturalist to make out the animal meant.

Dignity is one thing that can't be preserved in alcohol.

Epitaph: He walked on the suicide of the road.

Many have made up their minds what they are going to do if temptation comes their way. They are going to fall.

When one is unimportant, he can attract attention in many noisy ways.

Mongols! Madam, Barked Sir Howorth

Sir Henry Howorth was taken aback one day when introduced to a gushing lady who declared that she was so charmed to meet him because she wished to talk to him about her little dog.

"But I know nothing about dogs," he protested.

"Oh, how can you say so?" she said, "when you have written books about them?"

"Never, madam, never!"

"But surely," she persisted, "you have written a history of the mongrels?"

"Mongols, madam, mongols!" he barked. "Not mongrels."—London Answers.

HERE'S WHY FIRESTONE ALWAYS GIVES YOU SO MUCH

More for your Money

Higher Quality Raw Materials! More Efficient Manufacturing! Lower Distribution Cost!

These All Combine to Give You Extra Values at No Extra Cost

FROM the day of its introduction, the Firestone Standard Tire has more than lived up to its name by setting a new high standard of tire values. Hundreds of thousands of car owners have already bought it because they saw in it more value for their money.

"How does Firestone do it? How can they build so many extra value features into Firestone Standard Tires and yet sell them at such low prices?" The answer is simple—Firestone controls better-quality rubber and cotton supplies at their source, keeps manufacturing costs low by efficient factory methods and sells in such huge volume that distribution costs are held to a minimum. That is why Firestone has been able to give you such extra value features as Gum-Dipping and two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread.

Make no mistake about this! The Firestone Standard Tire gives you the blowout protection of Firestone's patented Gum-Dipping process. Its scientifically designed tread gives greater road and traction and longer wear. And those two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread guard against punctures.

Before you buy ANY tire at ANY price, see today's top tire value—the Firestone Standard Tire. Don't risk your life with thin, worn tires on your Fourth of July trip. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today. Let your Firestone Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply & Service Store equip your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires.

PARENTS AND CHILDREN

It takes no wisdom to tell us that children have called their parents by many names within the lifetime of the half a century ago. Pa and Ma, or Paw and Maw probably would have had most votes. Father and mother have had a steady group of adherents throughout the generations but in general they have probably suggested more dignity than most children liked. The desire to be Frenchified brought Papa and Mama, accented at first on Americans quickly changed the accent and developed the time honored Pappy and Mammy. What hundreds of my generation called their parents in the infancy of democracy has come a companionship between parents and children that is reflected in the term Daddy. No suitable opposite for this has been found as yet. Many children who say Daddy say Mother; others say Mamma. There is needed a word that suggests a pal such as Daddy.

Each of these words has or has had a series of connotations so that hearing a person call his parents' names is usually sufficient to place him in time if not otherwise. For instance one could hardly expect Papa to have any "Papa chevs tobacco" would be shocking. Now it would be different with Papp. The Old Man is not degraded, but he is the parent, fond or otherwise of a son who he supports. The child's daily ration should include at least a pint of milk and preferably quart; butter at every meal; cereal bread or potato at every meal; at least two vegetables other than potatoes; fruit, eggs or meat or both, and a little sweets at end of meal.

BUS LINE LEASES SPARKS TERMINAL IN PAINTSVILLE

Paintsville, Ky., July 1. (From the Herald News) - Sparks Bus Lines, Inc., has just leased spacious quarters for a bus station for 10 years on the Sparks building on Main street here at a total rental of $16,000. It has been announced. The bus station is to be known as the Union Bus terminal.

The old bus terminal was not large enough to accommodate the growing traffic. John C. Long, manager, announced additional space was necessary. Now instead of loading and unloading on the street, passengers will get on and off buses inside the terminal. A large waiting room has been arranged, as well as modern rest rooms. Recently a new bus terminal was opened in Pikeville. One was opened last year at Prestonsburg.

Household Questions

To Keep-ting on Cake - Sift a little flour over the top of the cake before icing it and the icing will not run off.

For Scratched Furniture - Furniture scratches may be hidden by painting with iodine and then rubbing with furniture polish.

Washing Flannels - Next time you are washing flannels or woolens put about a teaspoonful of olive oil in the water. It will keep them beautifully soft.

Sealing Fish - Dipping fish in boiling water will aid in sealing them.

Double Duty for Soap - When I buy toilet soap I put it away among the sheets and pillow cases, to which it gives an attractive fresh fragrance and, of course, the soap is all the better for keeping.

A Warm Meal - Instead of putting food into the oven to keep hot for late-comers, cover it closely with the top lid, and set it over a saucpan of hot water. It will keep hot without drying.

Brighter Pudding - Two teaspoons of marmalade stirred into a ground rice pudding just before it is cooked gives it the delightful flavour of fresh orange, without the bother of grating peel. The kiddies will love it.

Cleaning Silverware - When your silverware becomes tarnished, place it in an aluminum saucpan and cover with hot water in which potatoes have been boiled. Leave for an hour, then rinse and it will look like new, without the usual cleaning.

Pineapple Sherbet - Two and one-half cups crushed pineapple, one and one-third cups sweetened condensed milk, one cup water, four tablespoons lemon juice, orange juice, combine in a pitcher. Stir well and freeze in a shallow pan. Let stand to ripen packed in the ice and salt for an hour after it is frozen and the dasher removed. Makes a quart and will freeze flavor always brings out pineapple, and half a cup of orange juice will hold a cup of water will prove delicious.

Arch-Foe of Deception Not long ago a foreign agent, who had a fancy pair of socks tattooed on his feet and ankles, was shot in the right foot during a skirmish with African natives. When he arrived home some months later, his tattooist wanted to cover the white scar with more "sock." But the colonel would not hear of it. He insisted upon having the tattooist "tear in his hose" mended with a tattooed patch. Collier's Weekly.

CHAPTER I - "This room might be a man's office, stripped like this," said Anne Vincent from the flat desk where she was ostentatiously busy with a pile of bills and a check-book.

Both women had spoken louder than was necessary and there was the tension of a topic avoided in their voices. The living room of the cottage was bare except for the furniture, even the bookshelves had been emptied and the pictures taken down.

Anne twisted about to look at Rachel's packing. "You put in the whole two boxes? That'll surely be enough. It was Mrs. Kreef's fault."

"Poisonous woman!" said Rachel and banged down the lid of the window shades. "Every time I see her and that squabby little of hers work with I want to run out and beat them with my tennis racket!"

"If suppose we could. He has such fun writing for samples and making all the contacts. It's pathetic." "Do let's do it, mother."

"All right, my dear, the electricity won't cost much. And if the weather's very cold he can build a fire. I'll give him written permission."

"They had reached the beach, a half-circle of sand scooped in between points of rock which went far enough out on each side to break the sweep and drag of the waves. The Vincent bathing house lay on the shore, a little building of white wood with a porch and a gable roof.

"It Must Have Been Tragic," Anne pulled her white sweater down and adjusted her belt. She watched Anne from the corners of her eyes.

"There are ever so many more." "Are you checking every item?" "Yes, of course. Why don't you take a last swim? Where's Bob? I thought he asked you to go out in his boat?"

"Rachel swung her feet obstinately. "You're stalling, mother. You want to get away without telling me a thing. It's no use. Bob's gone out alone and I'm not having a swim. You can just about get a mess of eggs and potatoes and cords of wood and talk."

"Rachel I've always told you that when you were twenty-one, if you wanted to hear—before, if there was good reason for it."

"You're going abroad and Great-aunt Helene may hang on to you for ages!" "If I stay more than six months you can join me. You know that."

"Don't evade. It's only another year till I'm twenty-one and I'm just as mature and sensible now as I will be then. The way you act I'm beginning to feel as if there was something perfectly rotten."

Anne Vincent's protesting hand stopped her. "Darling, no! Don't say such things. There's nothing rotten or foul or poisonous or any other of your favorite bad adjectives about it—really. Give you my word."

"Then why do you want to hold out on me?" "Because I'm a little jealous." "Mother, darling! I'm not! It's not as if I were jealous of you. I'm just a little jealous of what's in your real mother, Rachel. I'd like you not to think of her."

"But I don't think of her as my mother. I don't. She's never thought of me as her child, that's evident enough. She was glad to get rid of me. Wasn't she?"

"I can't answer yes or no; it's not an simple question. Anne considered the sea a moment, frowning, wondering, doubting, uncertain. If she could only understand Rachel's mind, she would understand her. I'll have to then say things, I don't want you to be getting strange notions. Let's go down to the beach; it's so dreary here with everything packed."

"They linked arms as they stepped off the terrace before the low single house which had been their home for ten summers. It was the last but one of the straggling village street, there was only the roadway between it and the dunes. The single house beyond the terrace was an ugly shell-bordered walls, and a gypsy kettie, on a tripod painted a flaming red and filled with clashing mementos, beside the front door. As Anne and Rachel crossed the road this front door opened swiftly and a little anxious man hailed them.

"Very fair skin, very dark hair, very blue eyes. Everything in her appearance was accented and distinct and yet there was a complete fusion so that her beauty stood clear and perfect. She's only—let's see—she's only thirty-eight years old, Rachel, now, nine years younger than I. And she's still beautiful, but in a different way."

"How do you know? I thought you said you'd only seen her once, for—"

"Her pictures come out in the newspapers now and then, the society columns."

"They do? Oh, mother, who is she? Have I seen her pictures?" "She's Mrs. Peter Holbrook Cayne."

"She's married someone else?" "Rachel, darling, I want to get through this as quickly as I can and afterward I'll answer your questions. You must try to understand about her. Your grandfather—her father—died and left your grandmother with very little money and this child to take care of and life was very hard—and meager—for both of them. Uncertain, too, insecure. Mrs. Rhodes."

"But who's Mrs. Rhodes?" "That was Mrs. Rhodes, Elinor's mother. Did I forget to say her name? I'm mixing this up dreadfully."

"No, no, I've got it straight. My mother was Elinor Rhodes and she married Edwin Malloy."

"Yes, that's right. Mrs. Rhodes did fine sewing and embroidery for her friends to help along, monogramming on table linens and that sort of thing, it didn't amount to much and she must have been very busy. I have been no one who took any interest, or perhaps she was proud—and she kept her daughter—"

"And one day Elinor came in with Edwin Malloy—he was a young clerk in the corner drug store. Every one of us, even so, I can understand what shocked this marriage was for her. If she'd never met Mrs. Rhodes, she would have had it annulled, because Elinor had lied about her age. But she could do nothing, so she took them into their cramped apartment to live with her. And from the start they weren't happy, nothing went right. Your father was apparently just a good-natured, good-looking boy with almost no education and no family, he made very little money, he wasn't ambitious, he wasn't clever. Mrs. Rhodes detested him. Your father was a pliable nature—you can see them, can't you?"

"Yes, it must have been tragic. For all of them."

"Oh, Rachel, darling, have you been thinking about her? I'm much surprised to tell me that."

"I caught her emotion, took an easier tone: "Rachel, your mother's name was Elinor, Elinor Malloy. She was only about eighteen when you were born, she wasn't through high school when she was married. And your father's name was Edwin Malloy. They were just a couple of youngsters who ran off and got married without knowing one another, without thinking about it—"

"A sort of joke, I suppose." "Don't be bitter. They were so young, they had no idea, they didn't realize—but I'll have to go back and begin properly. I never saw your father, but your mother was one of the loveliest creatures I ever laid my eyes on. She didn't seem quite real, she was so lovely."

"Was she light or dark?"

"I'm not apologizing, but I want you to understand her. I'll go now. They were married in June, 1915, and they stuck it out through the summer. Then Elinor discovered that you were coming and she was so frightened and her mother so angry that your father—you see, he was young too and not the sort to face anything hard and difficult, go—"

"Deserted her! But that was foul!"

"I don't think it was the best thing he could have done, he wasn't their kind, there was no way to work it out and—well, anyway he went. Like a good many other unsettled young men he went over to France—this was before America went into the war, remember—but he found a wife in order in one of the hospitals and in January he came down with pneumonia. Edwin Malloy died so France and you weren't yet born. So there was poor little scared Elinor and her mother struggling along with hardly any money, anxious and not knowing what in the world they'd do with a child to bring up—it was desperate for them all."

"I can see why I wasn't welcome."

Anne disregarded this. "And when at last—no, I must put in a little here about Harry and me. I had gone to the hospital a few weeks before Elinor did, of course I knew nothing about her then, I'd never heard of her. My baby died as soon as it was born, Rachel, and one of my nurses inadvertently let me know that I could never have another. So I—well, very ill, I don't think I'd have tried to get well except for Harry, he was so wonderful to me, he put aside all he was feeling and just took care of me. When Elinor was brought in I didn't see her, she was put into a ward and I was in a private room, but we both had Dr. Ayres; he'd known Mrs. Rhodes in her prosperous days and she had gone to him and begged him to take care of Elinor and poured out her troubles, so then, do you see, with my disappointment and grief for my baby and this lovely healthy child—you—"

Find American Flag With 38 Stars; Old Banner Is Presented to a History Class

An American flag which proudly boasted a Union of 38 states was recently discovered by Boy Scouts in an abandoned building on the bluffs near the Merrimack river, near Fern Glenn, states a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When the 38-starred flag was our national emblem Colorado had just been admitted to the Union, and North and South Dakota, Montana, Washington, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona, were still territories, not yet admitted to the right to statehood. That was in 1876, about 100 years after the birth of the Union had been accomplished through the Declaration of Independence. The flag, however, may have been anywhere from 48 to 61 years old, for the thirty-ninth star came into the Union with North Dakota, in 1889. The prospect upon which the old flag was found was once owned by Captain Schaaf, who died at an advanced age several years ago. He was a noted shot and was associated with the police department as a coach in its target practice. The buildings have long since fallen into disuse and ruin. The discovery was made while the Scouts were using one of them as temporary headquarters for a day of patrol activity.

The union of the flag is in perfect condition. The stripes, however, have been faded and worn at the ends. Troop 332 has offered to place the flag in the custody of the history class of Maplewood high school, to become the property of the high school unless the rightful owner is found.

Tragic and pitiful. You must remember this of your mother, Rachel; she was very young and had married where she had no chance of being happy, not even ordinarily contented.

"Mother, you're apologizing for her!"

"I'm not apologizing, but I want you to understand her. I'll go now. They were married in June, 1915, and they stuck it out through the summer. Then Elinor discovered that you were coming and she was so frightened and her mother so angry that your father—you see, he was young too and not the sort to face anything hard and difficult, go—"

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Red Raspberry and Strawberry Jelly.

4 cups 12 lbs. juice 7 1/2 cups 10 lbs. sugar 1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 1 1/2 quarts each fully ripe raspberries and strawberries. Combine fruits; squeeze out juice. Measure sugar and juice into large saucpan and mix. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire and boil hard 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Then add bottled fruit pectin, bring again to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 glasses (8 fluid ounces each).
