SHIKE'S POKES

(Views expressed in this column are those of the writer and not necessarily those of The Times.)

I guess everyone is aware of the fact that the United Mine Workers will have a new president after Nov. 5. He staked his future on Willie and attempted to bestow the kiss of Judas on the brow of our organization but we had more sense than to be sold down the river to satisfy the Weirs, the Ordairs, the Purds, the Lindberghs and the John L. Lewises. John L. Lewis has turned out to be the Judas Iscariot of the CIO. District 30 of the United Mine Workers has bolted from his leadership. We intend to ride on Main Street with FDR, not walk on Wall Street with Willie—and just to go a little farther, "We will not be loafing with Lewis."

You know, it's hard for us miners to believe that John L. has deserted us for Wall Street and Big Business and we had to hear him to believe it. The only people in this section that J. L. Lewis' speech appealed to were the "Ex-Hoover soup kitchen operators" and they had cussed him for the past 10 years.

That Mr. Dawson who is running for Governor of West Virginia is always in a hell of a fix. First, he said that 75 per cent of the people of his state wanted Taft and that the other 25 per cent didn't want Willie. Then Willie got the nomination—Dawson got off that one somehow—and I have heard Mr. Dawson make two speeches in the past two weeks and all he could yell about was that if the Democratic ticket was elected John L. Lewis would take over the state of West Virginia. Now, what in the hell will he talk about?—John L. is in HIS bed now.

We fought John L. Lewis' battles in Harlan county and ELKSVEN of our Union brothers lost their lives because we believed in his leadership. We finally succeeded in organizing that county through the help of the federal government and right now in Harlan county every miner makes it known that he will support FDR—his card is removed from the poll books so that he will be unable to vote. John L. Lewis by his endorsement wants us to condone this and the men responsible for it—we will not follow Lewis into the camp of our worst enemies.

Boy, if a miracle should happen it would be one of a parade down Pennsylvania Avenue—Willkie, Lindbergh, Sheriff Middleton, Girdler, John L. Lewis, Ford, Weir, Holt and other enemies of organized labor. Now I'm asking you—would that be a place for a coal miner? Any one with half sense knows that it wouldn't.

John L. Lewis' signing up with his and our enemies reminds me of a story I heard a while back about two brothers—one real brilliant and one not so smart. The one not so smart owned a pet goat with shaggy eyebrows and a bull neck and a roaring "haw". The goat was named John and the boy loved it with an almost undying devotion. The father died and left the two boys 90 sheep to be divided equally among them. The smart boy hit upon a plan to get the best sheep—he picked out 50 of the best ones and put them in a pen, then he put the 49 scrub and the pet goat in another pen. Then he told his pick to the two lads. The boy noticed his pet among the scrubs and culls and then, eyeing the 50 good sheep, he busted out crying and pointing his finger at "Johnny", he said, "I loved you like a brother, there was nothing a would do for you, but now you have got in bad company and oh-oh-Johnny—now you can go to hell!"

John L. Lewis cannot give one reason why a coal miner should vote for a union executive. The United Mine Workers, a great organization whose officers in District 30 are commendable, did not go out on a limb, so when the limb broke on Nov. 5, it will not be the UMW of A that will fall but John L. Lewis.

Since John L. Lewis' speech, the mining camp of Drift will turn out the largest majority in its history for FDR—wanna bet?

In the UMW of A meeting in Ashland on Saturday, October 26, of District 30 the delegates and officers in this district left no doubt of where John L. Lewis stood with them. I heard a reporter for the Ashland Daily remark in the lobby of the Henry Clay Hotel that "Boy, I wouldn't have believed it if I hadn't seen and heard it, but 90 per cent of that crowd upstairs is for FDR against JLL."

Hedgie Daniels, now known as the "Bible Stocking Boy" and I just wonder where he got the name.

The recent Floyd County Fair in my estimation was a huge success and the best ever. More power, next year.

Well, the "Better Hair" finally figured out a name for the Twin Shik-pokes. Their handles will be Charles Dale and Jenny Gail.

Time for the history for the draft—and those dumb dictators feel bad, they have missed the boat—again—the hawk will light, even if they even act like they want to be taught with us.

One thing about the present campaign—it has helped get rid of all the "Ancient Eggs" and "State Fruit."

If John L. Lewis should come to Beaver Creek to speak now—no miner would have any eggs for breakfast.

Auxier High Netters Swamp Betsy Layne And Royaltion

Auxier, Ky. (Sp.)—After losing their first two starts of the new basketball season to Inez and Meade Memorial, Coach Chalmers Prister's Auxier Hornets staged a comeback last week to swamp Royaltion, 34-17, and Betsy Layne, 29-11.

Against Royaltion Tuesday night at Auxier, the Hornets, with Evans and Patton doing most of the scoring, led by the score of 18-12 at the half, and during the second half the visitors were held to a pair of field goals and one free shot.

A first-half barrage of field goals Friday night enabled the Hornets to build up a 14-4 lead over Betsy Layne at the end of the first half. Each Auxier player had a hand in the scoring, while the losers' four points were made on field goals by Blankenship and Patton.

Evans, Auxier guard, was high scorer against Betsy Layne, with ten points, and Patton, at forward, was runner-up with six. Their scoring line reversed against Royaltion, with Patton collecting 16 and Evans 11.

Wednesday night, Nov. 6, the Hornets will entertain Coach Vincent's Martin Purple Flash.

Maytown School News

The most successful Halloween carnival ever conducted by the Maytown school was held here Friday night under the management of Miss Harriet Allen and Oliver Radliff, and sponsored by the P.-T. A.

A large crowd was in attendance and fun for every one, children and adults, was provided for by fish pond, fortune telling, crazy dance, etc. Careful planning and practicing of economy resulted in a record return financially. Most money turned in from any one held here Friday night, which bingo was played under the direction of George E. Allen and Roger Stewart.

Second largest return was from the fish pond, with Mrs. Opal May and Carl Ferguson in charge. The dance receipts exceeded those of all others.

Barren dance and round dance records were loaned the school by Arnold Cooley and Okia Branham. Junior and Clyde Patton operated the phonograph and amplifier of the sound system.

All teachers and many parents donated their services or made contributions of candy, sandwiches, or novelties.

Mayo Vocational School Sponsors Meetings At Martin

The Distributive Education Department of the Mayo State Vocational School, Paintsville, is holding at Martin on Tuesday evenings a series of merchant conferences which are being well attended. Much interest is being shown in a retail trade survey to be conducted by questionnaire to determine the trading habits of Floyd county people so merchants can better serve their communities.

The series is sponsored by the Martin-Beaver Co-Operative Business Association and is conducted by Charles Milby, teacher-coordinator of the survey. Mr. Milby also conducts a class in practical salesmanship at the Garrett high school on Monday evenings. At the last meeting the following officers were elected: Enoch Murray, president; Mrs. Flora Salisbury, vice-president; and Miss Louise Murray, secretary.

Another class in the same course is proposed for Wayland.

Squirrel Season Ends Today

An unusually good squirrel hunting season ends today (Thursday). The 78-day season which opened on August 15 has been proclaimed by many squirrel hunters as the best in many a moon because of the plentiful supply of the bushy-tailed animals that were found in practically every section of the state during the open season. Many hunters were successful in getting the limit (six per day) respectively while the great majority of nimrods rarely came back home empty-handed. Floyd county hunting was not so good, however.

The hunter's attention is also called to the fact that the dove hunting season closes also on October 31.

With the squirrel and dove hunting seasons closing on October 31, the wild ducks and geese can still be hunted through the month of November and the open season on these two particular species of the migratory waterfowl family will be augmented on November 24 when the hunting season will open on the Bob White quail and the rabbit.

Reports and indications point to a good quail season, while the outlook for rabbit shooting is the best in years with an abundance of that particular wild animal in practically every rabbit-producing county.

KIDNEY STAGNATION IS WORSE THAN CONSTIPATION!

Because We Treat Constipation of The Onset, While We Neglect Our Kidneys Indefinitely

No other organ in your body is so important as your kidneys. They are the filters of your blood, and if they become clogged, the waste products of your metabolism will build up in your system, and you will suffer from kidney trouble. This is the worst of all ailments, and it is often the cause of death.

It is no wonder that that Nature has provided a way for the body to get rid of its waste products. This is the way of the kidneys, and it is the most natural and healthful way. If you neglect your kidneys, you will suffer from kidney trouble, and this is the worst of all ailments.

BETTER ANSWERS BRIAR BUCK

Berlin, Germany, October 28, 1940
Mr. Briar B. Scratches
Care Floyd County Times
Prestonsburg, Kentucky

My Dear Briar Buck:
Your letter of October 16 was a complete shock to me. I had counted on you as one of my main snipers in your section. The Fatherland could have been very proud of such a child of calamity as you seem to be; and it grieves my whole being to think that you have such a violent attitude towards us.
However, if you fight! Floyd Countians have some queer notion that you would like to make another journey "over here," it is well within reason to expect a warm reception on your arrival. We will treat you as we always treat special guests, even though our accommodations are somewhat crowded.

As for your brazen intentions in regard to the hickory switch I have only this to say: ya, ya—you can't catch me!

I remain, Protectively yours,
(Signed) ADOLPH "Hell" HITLER

THERE'S A LAW AG'IN IT!

Everybody picks on Brad Boyd—especially around election time! Now his "friends" around town are telling that he picked up a hitch-hiker the other day and, on finding that the fellow was against Willie, brought the luckless chap straight to jail.
Of course, I don't believe such rubbish, but the "boys" keep warning me that it ain't safe for a Roosevelt man to ask Brad for a ride!

TO SPORTSMEN

Wonder if the sawdust being dumped into Johns Creek has anything to do with the lack of fish in that stream this year?

CIVIC MOVEMENT

About the best civic movement I know of locally is that being staged by a few progressive citizens in making the Big Sandy Rural Electric Co-Op more than a mere name.

These citizens are scrapping the powerful and well-heeled Power Company, fighting government red-tape, and putting up lots of persuasive arguments to their neighbors in order that the rural sections, too, may enjoy the most complete and convenient which are made possible by the use of electricity.

BETTER PAPER NOW!

So The Courier-Journal is "stealing" my stuff, eh? Well, S. D. Osborne told me that a subscription salesman once promised to have the C-J made into a better newspaper if he'd take it for a year. Mr. Osborne didn't subscribe, but I see they have improved it, anyway.

POP & STUFF

Kentucky leads all other states in the breeding and training of purebred sex horses. "Scrubs" Calhoun is worried about this Army business. . . he's afraid they will put the shortest ones up front where they can see better. . . Betcha Johns Creek has more bee gums per capita than any other section in the state. . . Secretary of State Cordell Hull. . . Say, that Hitler guy is going to keep on till he gets me mad!

Mrs. George was assisted in her duties as hostess by Mrs. Will Hoves, Mrs. Shade Hunley, Mrs. Alex Davis, Mrs. Betcha Johns, and Mrs. W. S. Williams. . . During the social hours games and contests provided the entertainment, with prizes being won by Mrs. James Johnston, Wendell Willie, and Mrs. T. K. Johnston, second prize for best mask. The potato-rolling contest was won by Mrs. T. K. Johnston. Delicious refreshments were served at a late hour to the following:

- Mr. and Mrs. Charles George, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Davis, Mrs. Belle Brown, Miami, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Hoves, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hoves, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Floyd Countian Charged With Embezzlement

On complaint of Big Sandy Dry Cleaners, of Pikeville, Basil Coburn, 25, of Floyd county, was arrested Tuesday last week, charged with embezzlement of approximately $500 of the firm's funds.

Coburn, employed as a driver by the company, was released on $2,500 bond pending a preliminary hearing before County Judge Ester Hopkins on October 30.
According to county authorities, the complaint alleges Coburn converted about $500 of the company's money and property into his own use.

School Bus Ruling Given By Blanton

Noting that school buses must be used exclusively for transporting school children and school teachers to and from school has been sent to all county school superintendents and school bus drivers by State Motor Transportation Director Wm. Blanton.

He pointed out that under the law school buses used for other purposes, must qualify as passenger buses and pay the regular fees. These run as high as $500 a year for large buses.
The notice stated the law covered buses owned by school boards as well as those owned by individuals and operated under contracts with the boards.

THE FARM AND HOME

In December, 1920, Kentucky farmers sold eggs for 65 cents a dozen, the highest price paid in the last 30 years. The lowest price in that time was 7 cents, paid farmers in June, 1933. Prices averaged 40 cents a dozen in 1920 and 15 cents in 1939.

Nelson county farmers have observed demonstrations of electric lights in grading tobacco.

In Magoffin county after heavy storms, farmers report that hybrid corn remained upright when "native" corn was blown down.

Good farm butchers keep hogs off feed 24 hours before killing, but give them all the water they want. Avoid chasing or exciting the hog, as this will cause it to become heated, and when killed in this condition it will not bleed well.

'YOU'RE BIG ENOUGH--COME ON!' THAT'S HOW BOYS IN '61 WERE 'REGISTERED'

"Boy, you're big enough, come on," a Confederate recruiting officer said one day in September, 1862, to Calvin Jones, 22-year-old Virginian who had just about made up his mind to join the Union army. "I've no notion of going to the army," Jones replied. "But the officer wouldn't take no. "Boy, I said for you to come on," he cracked back.

And that's the story of how Calvin Jones, a former Floyd county boy, became a member of the Confederate Army, to serve later under General Robert E. Lee and take part in the Battle of Gettysburg. Wednesday, October 16, Calvin Jones was 100 years old in making plans to go to the polls on November 5 and cast his vote for President Roosevelt. "Some of them new-fangled New Deal laws just ain't right, but what Roosevelt has done for the poor man," Jones said with a twinkle in his eyes which he "saves now for Bible reading. "A bit weak in the legs," according to his own description, Jones' physique belies his advanced years. "I could ease easy for 75," he chuckles. Although born in Virginia, Jones has spent the greater part of his life in Eastern Kentucky, with occasional migrations into West Virginia and as far as Texas. His livelihood came from the farm, the raising of cattle, and sometimes the manufacture of whiskey under short period government permits. With two exceptions he has never taken more whiskey than "a toddy now and then," or a dram. The occasions of the exceptions were "back in the Virginia days" before he was ever married and "was just a young buck going to a party. "Jones served two years and eight months in the Confederate Army. He

THE YOUNG MEN BUILD

With all due respect to our elders, THE TIMES hails the young men of Prestonsburg and Floyd county as the builders of town and county. They have the support and quiet encouragement of their elders, generation, but their young enthusiasm and zeal to be up and doing are the forces that build. Their elders have built in their day, and now, after a fashion, sit back and watch "the boys" go to it. The older business men and citizens help out with their substance, but they furnish the materials—it is their sons who work and build. The Floyd County Fair which attracted several thousands of persons to Prestonsburg recently is a concrete example of what youthful ideas that are young, achieves. Those of the county's business and professional men who jumped into the thick of things, who transmuted the Fair from dream-stuff into reality, who worked at the thing like beings possessed—their average age was around 30. This newspaper congratulates Floyd county and Prestonsburg upon such youthful, vital, forces for good. Their ideas and made a necessary way have made mistakes. But they have been a-building, they are anxious to learn, to change the plans here and there, to form a more perfect structure. And, thank goodness, they are still a-building.

and for a week now hasn't been able to sit on his broomstick for laughing at the good burrows having been staring distrustfully at each other. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR CALLING ALL AMERICANS! In these times of magnificent national defense preparations, there periodically, among certain groups of American citizens, a fatalistic viewpoint regarding this nation's future is easily understood and said, smiling, "Boy, you had better hurry up."

It is in this cradle of democracy where speech is free, these persons give expression to their views which may be, in part, a carry-over from disarmament days, when the junking of our navy dealt a mighty blow to the nation's credit, all but obliterating it. It is not the wish of Americans that totalitarian practices be adopted in any form. That is not the American way. But fire must be fought with fire. In those places unfortunately dominated by such a spirit where the Gestapo is operating, fatalities and death. Highest honors are accorded to those who, in these blackest of nations, who report to the authorities defeatist remarks which they over-hear their parents make. It would be well for every American, reading the benefits of this glorious nation, to guard his speech jealously and order his thoughts religiously, leaving all trace of defeatism out of both.

Today, within the United States, agents of the dictators and fore-runners of that terrific organization, the Gestapo, are seeking to make roads into the American population and the American mind. Those grasping foreigners who come to this country seeking assistance for enslaved Europeans are really agents of our national enemies. They and their contemporaries are the ones who betrayed their own nation by being the emissaries of dictatorship, and it is the duty of every American to urge and demand that they be sent back from whence they came. It behooves every American to apprehend these subversive activities. No community is so remote as to be immune from this danger. No community is so relatively unimportant as to escape the attention of the enemy. Throughout the land, all our young men of draft age are registered for the call for military training. This important step is only one of many which must be made to insure future peace and tranquility. As our young men train to defend this land their fathers defended, let the citizenry remember that it is upon men, women and children—that is the real fate of the country devolves. Without the exercise of that loyalty and patriotism that has inspired Americans from the nation's beginning, while the true-hearted fervor that accepts no compromise and asks no reward, we as Americans fail the duty of every American to urge and demand that they be sent back from whence they came. It behooves every American to apprehend these subversive activities. No community is so remote as to be immune from this danger. No community is so relatively unimportant as to escape the attention of the enemy. Throughout the land, all our young men of draft age are registered for the call for military training. This important step is only one of many which must be made to insure future peace and tranquility.

First: A policeman is on duty here all night long I a. m. Therefore, the "crime" was committed in the west's hours as the city sleeps. (O-o-o, this is getting cr-r-reppp!) Second: Examination of the fastenings of the barrel on either side of the street revealed that the sign had not been lowered for further decoration. So the unseen hand must have been at the end of a mighty long arm if the exterior decorator stood in the street, 15 feet below the sign, to do his work. Third: Persons sleeping nearby were not disturbed by noises such as might be expected to attend such a feat. No body admitted seeing the mysterious sign worker-over. (At this point our Fullerton decided the "criminal" was a combination of the Phantom and the Invisible Man.) And thereupon the solution to the mystery came to our search in a blinding flash (he probably had a stroke of genius). In case you can't bear the suspense any longer, here's his astounding discovery: A restless Halloween spirit of Republican faith and in need of practice for Tick-Tack operations silently conducted his private "smear" campaign.

Kentucky to Entertain Alabama Gridlers in Homecoming

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 26 (Sp.)—The student body of the University of Kentucky, Southeastern Conference teams, Coach Ab Kirwan's Kentucky Wildcats and the Red Elephants of Alabama, will be the guests of the University of Kentucky homecoming, to be held Saturday, November 2, at Stoll Field on the University of Kentucky campus. Last year the visit of the engagement between the two eleven was Birmingham, and there the Wildcats, not given a chance to win, stemmed the Tide, tying them 7 to 7, as Noah Mullins, fiery junior halfback, drove over a Kentucky score in the last quarter. It was the first time the Wildcats had ever tied the Alabama team. They have won from them but once in the 23-year history of the rivalry, that was in 1922 by the score of 7 to 0. This year members of the Kentucky squad will be the guests of the intentions of "breaking the jinx." Extended for two men, Bill McCubbin at end and Joe Shepherd at quarterback, has so far far this season confined his team's activities to infantry movements.

It would be a feat of memory to recall all the hokum we were fed that night. For one thing, the room was darkened, not a hard thing to do with the meager lamps we had. Then he lit some dim little lamps that would cast the stage into my big brother's eyes. I was not sure the man was honest. (I still am not). He might be allied with evil spirits or something, but sitting next my big brother, though, I managed to keep brave. Kentucky's line, despite the fact that it will be outweighed, is manned by men of great strength in every game. Weaker on pass defense than on line play, the Kentuckians will have an excellent chance to defeat the Tide, which scores according to Wildcat coaches, their wards will not be greatly troubled by riffs from the air. After the game, some of the players confined his team's activities to infantry movements.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

HOKUM AT OLD FIDELITY All the world loves to be taken in; it has become one of our national characteristics to enjoy deceptions and to pay handsomely those who can fool us best. Fidelity probably did not know this literally, but it did know it figuratively. One day at the country school a former citizen who had been away into foreign parts (several miles and one county away) returned and announced that he would give an exposure of black art at the union church on the following night. The children wanted to go, especially after he did a little "suggestioning," as he called it, and had a few of the worst boys of the school doing stunts that they presented the school for such a time. Some scratching places he would touch and declare that he had a burning stick in his hand. He would then tell his parents, most of whom said "humbug" but gave us the necessary nickels and dimes to go see the show. Some of the oldest inhabitants, who had not experienced a thrill since Lee's surrender, dug up the admission fee also, so that our returned native had a good crowd of spectators. The average Sunday School could show at the union church itself. I still recall that the crowd was so large that the school for I was not sure the man was honest. (I still am not). He might be allied with evil spirits or something, but sitting next my big brother, though, I managed to keep brave. It would be a feat of memory to recall all the hokum we were fed that night. For one thing, the room was darkened, not a hard thing to do with the meager lamps we had. Then he lit some dim little lamps that would cast the stage into my big brother's eyes. I was not sure the man was honest. (I still am not). He might be allied with evil spirits or something, but sitting next my big brother, though, I managed to keep brave. Kentucky's line, despite the fact that it will be outweighed, is manned by men of great strength in every game. over, we had so soft patience with the man, his helper, and the bad village boys that we were not even afraid to go down among the fields and woods. "Think my memory of going to the photograph, this memory is still un-faded, and I want my dime back. I wanted to be fooled, and I want; I wanted to see some magic demonstration, and I didn't; I wanted to see some of the mysterious strengthened, and I came back disgusted with the whole show. The natives who had returned somehow failed to be convincing."

(Continued from page one) munity from which he comes may be more readily appreciated when it is realized that the Navy is accepting for enlistment only those young men who are physically, mentally and morally above reproach. These one hundred and forty recruits in his company are representatives of practically every state west of the Mississippi river. Young Meade is a grandson of the late J. F. (John Printer) Meade, veteran of the Union Army in the War Between the States.

Election Law Violators

(Continued from page one) stamp out vote-buying, vote-selling, and dishonest tabulations. I think it is a horrible crime for any man or woman to sell his or her liberty for money. Let's get behind our men are fighting for on this very free in foreign lands. Let's get behind a movement to stamp out this infamous "I propose during my term to see that every candidate for office gets a square deal. Many elections are won before the people and stolen in the courthouse. Therefore, watch closely in the next few days. The grand jury will be requested to investigate this high-handed work, which has been going on for several years, and if possible, those guilty will be indicted, prosecuted, given trial, and if convicted, will forever be disbanded for holding any office, or voting. "We have these election laws and they have been upon the statute books of this Commonwealth for many years. If these are only partially enforced, wonderful good will be brought about. This law enforced a man or woman may become a candidate and make an honest, decent race, and at the end will not be bankrupt, his home, property and everything he possesses gone with the wind. "Remember, each precinct will be investigated and the courthouse closely observed. And those caught stealing will be punished. You know, it is an old gag to tabulate the vote many times correctly, but in the carrying out of the correct total at the end of the tally sheet, figures are made which do not agree with the tally. "Take warning: Prosecutions may be had in both circuit court and federal court, and you may be weighed in the balance and found wanting at both courts. We have had a New Deal in everything, it seems, for many years except for the fake performer. The evening elections, so let the New Deal extend went on, getting a little more freakish all the time. By the time it was "

Vote The Straight Democratic Ticket November 5

Re-Elect A. J. MAY To CONGRESS

Congressman May, as Chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, made certain our boys would not be sent to foreign shores. At his insistence the following provision was placed in the bill to strengthen our National Defense:

PROVIDED, That the members and units of the reserve components of the Army of the United States ordered into active Federal service under this authority shall not be employed beyond the limits of the Western Hemisphere except in the territories and possessions of the United States, including the Philippine Islands.

(POLITICAL ADV.)

BILL HENRY SAYS:

(The "flow herein" expressed are those of the writer and not necessarily those of The Times.)

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS are Wendell L. Willkie and John L. Lewis, two men who just a few months ago were at each other's throats. Today, "L" says John "W" is a fine upright citizen and John "L" says "ins. too to you, Wendell 'L'." Added as good measure are Herbert Hoover, Hamilton Fish, Charles McNary, Arthur Vandenberg and Charles Lindbergh, all appeasers of the highest order and all on record against President Roosevelt's program of National Defense.

From the time that Wendell Willkie decided to get even with Franklin D. Roosevelt for daring to move in on what he considered the private preserves of the power industry as represented by the Commonwealth and Southern, he has endeavored to create the impression that he has made a complete about-face. He would have the people believe that he, Wendell Willkie, always a champion of large interests, is now interested in the common man. He asks this same common man to forget that just a few months ago he was responsible for a campaign plan on by the power interests against his government making it possible for him to have the benefit of cheap electric power.

John L. Lewis, the man who attained fame and fortune because of the loyalty of millions of workers and because we had a President who was wholeheartedly for the working man, is now ready to take a walk because, he, John L., could not have his cake and eat it, too. During the last two years he has been invited to visit the White House, time after time. In fact, the door has been open at all times during the Roosevelt administration, for the purpose of improving the living and working conditions of the common people. The way has been open for the man John L. Lewis to repay the working man and he has flatly refused to do so. He has grown too big for his breeches. His price for co-operation with the Roosevelt administration to bring peace to the ranks of labor was to give him unlimited power and he has not yet got this his interest in labor became secondary to his interest in John L. Lewis.

No one really knows just how Mr. Willkie would like to stand. He claims he is destined to be the saviour of the "American people" says he is not. His followers will argue he is because Mr. Willkie says so. The argument will go on for months . . . until November 3 it will be "if he is elected" and after November 5 it will be "had he been elected." We will just have to take Mr. Willkie's word for the moment, that he feels friendly to the people and after he is defeated give him about six months to recuperate and return to his first love, the power industry.

Giving Mr. Willkie the benefit of all doubts as to his real feeling, he cannot escape the responsibility and company and so long as he accepts the Hoovers, Lindberghs and their like he stands convicted of believing in their policies. The heaviest blow yet to fall on the Willkie shoulders was the headlines in Monday morning's paper, with a picture of Harry Bridges, West Coast labor agitator, announcing his intention to make a trip East to confer with John L. Lewis on the Presidential campaign.

Herbert Hoover, Charles McNary, Hamilton Fish, Arthur Vandenberg and Charles Lindbergh have all been active in an effort to get America to ship food into all the countries overrun by the Nazis. Public opinion was so strong against the idea they were forced to give up their plans. These same men who yelled "bloody murder" when it was suggested American ships be used to bring English children to safety insisted our ships run the blockade with food that would have helped Germany carry on her war of total destruction.

In the July 11 issue of THE TIMES I stated I thought President Roosevelt would run for a third term and that he would be elected by a vote close to his 1936 total. I haven't changed my opinion. I believe the American people, though they are good gamblers, have too much at stake to take any chance on November 5.

Draft Lottery

2489 - Junior Stephens, Harold.
Draft officials estimated that the first 25 numbers drawn would cover the first call to the training camps, scheduled for later this month.

ABIGAIL THEATRE PRESTONSBURG, KY.

FRIDAY - "When the Daltons Rode" Randolph Scott, Kay Francis.

SATURDAY, 3 AND 10 P. M. - "Diamond Frontiers" Victor McLaglen, Anne Nagel.
SUNDAY AND MONDAY - "Rhythm on the River" Bing Crosby, Mary Martin.
TUESDAY-WEDNESDAY - "City for Conquest" James Cagney, Anne Sheridan.

PATTY THEATRE (Next Door to Abigail)

TUESDAY-WEDNESDAY - DOUBLE FEATURE - "Who Is Guilty?" and "Laddie" month. The numbers were in order: 158, 192, 8,238, 6,650, 6,685, 4,779, 5,848, 6,262, 6,139, 5,892, 5,837, 5,485, 6,604, 6,946, 5,375, 7,674, 4,880, 4,928, 124, 6,582, 6,729, 7,508, 7,857, 5,995, and 4,861.

(It was pointed out, however, that this statement of the officials was only a rough estimate and that variations from it could be expected in some areas. Among the first 25 numbers were a relatively large proportion of comparatively high numbers. Since some local draft boards do not have such high numbers on their lists, they may have to call on some men whose numbers did not appear among the first 25 drawn.)

After all, it has been pointed out, Kentucky may not supply any men in the first draft call, since each volunteer is credited against the state's quota. The number of volunteers from the state, this section in particular, is high, it is said.

Kentucky-whose sons have enlisted in large numbers-will be called upon to supply only 172 of the 30,000 men to be called into military training in the first quota November 18.

W. A. Stewart Claimed

(Continued from page one) Eastern Kentucky minister, and of Mrs. Nancy Stewart Martin, who survives, he was a member of one of the section's oldest and best-known families. He was formerly a teacher, was elected to the Kentucky Legislature in 1920, and for 11 years was postmaster at Langley. He first entered the mercantile business at Lem, and for several years had owned the Langley Supply Company at Maytown.

An outstanding trait of Mr. Stewart was his generosity. No man of his community did more in behalf of the poor.

Mr. Stewart was married on December 28, 1913 to Miss Viola May, a daughter of the late Felix May and of Mrs. Susan May, of Langley. Seven children of this union survive; Roger Stewart, Maytown; Carl Stewart, Malone, Ky.; Ogden Stewart, Berea College; Miss Erna Stewart, Maytown; Edward Stewart, Morehead State Teachers' College; Joyce and Beryl Stewart, at home. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Kennel Martin, Langley, and Mrs. F. P. Hays, Hillsboro, Ohio, one brother, Joseph Stewart, Maytown, and one half-brother, Dewey Martin, Wechsburg.

Funeral rites will be conducted Friday morning from the Maytown Methodist Church, the Rev. A. L. Allen, of the Regular Baptist Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. C. C. Newsome, of the Methodist Church.

Kiwanis Club Names

(Continued from page one) In reply to an inquiry as to whether electrical appliances would be purchased by the co-operative, Mr. Nivison stated that all farm homes in the program would be canvassed and the first orders grouped under one bid to the various local dealers. He said he hoped the majority of the farmers would take advantage of this, since it would mean big savings to them and since it would be impossible for the co-operative to handle future individual orders.

Improvements for Schools

(Continued from page one) necessary, we feel that we could have brought our fight to a successful conclusion in the face of strong opposition, on the platform of "Better Schools for Prestonsburg Boys and Girls."

We have in mind a number of projects that we intend to start on immediately for next year's program. We propose to build an addition to our present high school, such addition taking the form of a new gymnasium and new class rooms. We propose to add a full-time manual training department. We propose to employ a full-time band instructor. These are a few of the projects. It shall be our aim to employ the best teachers obtainable and as far as possible, those living in or near Prestonsburg. We do not propose to keep certain teachers employed indefinitely and we feel safe in saying that some changes may be expected to take place in the near future in our present faculty.

What the present school board desires, most of all, is the friendly help and cooperation of all the parents
