Well, the Big Sandy baseball series is now history, with Drift winning the fifth and deciding game...

Negus sez that women certainly have funny ideas. He sez that Georgia and Edna went to Prestonburg and made a down payment on a pocketbook.

You know—we don't mind these sweetest days or meatless days—but, say! wouldn't it help if we could have a Fluh-less Congress.

We're just wondering why some of our former residents lose that under-souled appearance when they leave Drift.

In this corner is the champ, Joe Louis. In the other corner is the challenger, Billy Conn, and in the center of the ring is Secretary of War Stimson—winner by a knockout.

Foot, old Larry McPhail, of the Burns, takes a run-out pill when the going got rough.

The Lord gave us two ends to use—one to think with, one to go with. The war depends on which we choose—heads, we win; tails, we lose!

The Kathryn Ekhorn safety team didn't win the first aid contest. But they were first by a big margin when a d--sorehead doubted their patriotism.

Yep, we know summer is past. We don't see any winter underwear on the clothes line. Yep, it's on the other line.

The army was right in stopping the heavyweight fight. Why should a sergeant and a private get $54,000 for fighting when the army only pays the rest $60 per month to fight the Axis?

A man—any man—absenting himself from work during these critical times, without a good reason, is just as bad as a fifth columnist. He's sabotaging production, and machinery has been set up in this section to stop the practice.

The Washington MERRY GO ROUND

Washington, D. C.

LITTLE BUSINESS CRUSADER Donald Nelson's "get tough" policy gets increasingly unfortunate repercussions. Part of this is because Donald, nice as he is, and well liked as he is, just doesn't seem to have a knack for feeling the public pulse.

For instance, he should have known that the most popular man in Washington, as far as little business is concerned, is Guy Holcomb, head of the Justice department's small business bureau.

Nelson had the opportunity of the justice department, and it is unusual for one executive to reach into the affairs of an outside office. However, Holcomb has been consistently critical of WPB's failure to award war contracts to little business; his cracks got on Nelson's nerves, and he demanded that the attorney general fire him.

Actually, Holcomb was a hustling young business man from Atlanta, Ga., who knew nothing about red tape, spurred bureaucracy and went around saying exactly what he thought of people who seemed to be lying down on the job.

For instance, he discovered that only three companies in the entire United States got all the contracts for putting boilers in merchant ships.

ALASKAN ATTACKS The senate military affairs committee got some encouraging news when it met behind closed doors to hear the report of a subcommittee which has returned from an inspection tour of our Alaskan fortifications.

For military reasons, the greater part of the report cannot be revealed. However, this much can be said: The subcommittee, composed of Senators Happy Chandler of Kentucky, Mon Wallgren of Washington and Rufus H. Phillips of Oregon, was unanimous in declaring that our aerial defenses in Alaska were strong enough to repel any attempted Jap invasion.

Remarkable progress has been made since Pearl Harbor in establishing new land and sea defenses in the Alaskan area. The three senators also paid high tribute to the morale and skill of U. S. airmen, who are forced to fly in the worst kinds of weather conditions.

Though refusing to predict on how soon we can expect an all-out offensive to drive the Japs from their footholds in the Aleutians, the subcommittee reported that one obstacle which has been holding up such an offensive has now been licked.

Hilberts we have been unable to send protective convoys of fighting planes with bombers raiding Jap positions in the Aleutians, because our fighters do not have the flying range for the 1,000-mile round trip from the army base at Unalakleet, nearest outpost to the Japs. However, this problem has been solved by the installation of "belly" gas tanks on fighters. They carry several hundred gallons of fuel and can be dropped after they are emptied.

The subcommittee also reported that interference with army and navy radio communications in the Alaskan area, caused by bad weather, was being largely circumvented by compass flying.

UNFOUNDED RUMOR DEPARTMENT

The Rumor: One of the Freuhauf brothers in Detroit, who manufacture trailers, gave his yacht to the navy, but before doing so said he wanted to take it on a farewell cruise. He had no sooner got a few hours offshore, however, when he received a peremptory demand from the navy to return, after which Harry Hopkins and his new boat took over the yacht and sailed away on their honeymoon.

The Truth: Harry Hopkins doesn't like yachting, gets seasick easily, spent his vacation in Connecticut. Harry Freuhauf, interviewed by this columnist on the telephone, said: "My brother did turn his yacht over to the navy, but the arrangements were amiable, and Harry Hopkins never was on it any time or place. We have heard all sorts of rumors about this, but there is absolutely nothing to them."

POLITICAL ECONOMY

Hard-working Representative John H. Folger of North Carolina will go to the limit for a constituent, but a recent request from a job-seeker in his district almost got him down. "I have filed an application with the Civil Service commission for a position as an economist. I am a farmer of many years' experience and believe I am eminently qualified for the job I'm after. I have practiced economy all my life."

War Story: Two Men and a Dog

(Business Week) Late in August Donald M. Nelson wrote this letter:

I am instructing Production Drive Headquarters to enter your names at the top of the lists of all plants formally enlisted in the War Production Drive. In recognition of your achievements I am sending you the largest American poster of outstanding inscription, "Give It Your Best, You have."

Not to a company high in corporate rank did that letter go. It found its way to the weather-beaten door of a 30-by-75-foot frame building at Bay City, Mich., where Jake and the Old Gent are setting a new example in American resourcefulness and productivity for the nation.

Jake is J. L. Sparling, 60-year-old owner of an obscure machine shop. The Old Gent is Percy Fogel, Advisory Commission. Knudsen suggested that Sparling talk to the Michigan Pipe Company, maker of wooden pipe for power-mills, chemical plants, other war shops.

Sparling was given some work—rougher, until a year or so back a 78-year-old wanderer, now Jake's assistant.

In 1922 Sparling had a flourishing contracting business. A mismanaged municipal contract was wrecked, his prosperous business and all his assets, defeated. He opened the little shop to make beta and julleys occasionally needed by factories in the Bay City area.

He eked out a living for 18 years. In 1940 he read in the papers about the defense program, and he wrote the White House and asked what he could do. Back came a letter from William S. Knudsen, then head of the defense program, and he wrote the White House and asked what he could do.

Every morning a truck comes around from the pipe company, laden with castings weighing up to 500 pounds apiece. It unloads, then takes away the finished work done the day before. Jake and the Old Gent work 15 hours a day, seven days a week on their job; they turn out 1,000 firsty machined pieces a month.

West Named Chief Scout After 31 Years' Service

Following unanimous action of the national executive board of the Boy Scouts of America, Walter W. West, president of the organization, announced recently the election of Dr. James E. West as Chief Scout of the Boy Scouts of America, effective on or before June 1, 1943, following the necessary action by the National Council in amending the constitution. Dr. West has served the organization as Chief Scout Executive for 31 years. The vacancy to be created by Dr. West's relinquishment of this office with its executive and administrative responsibilities, was filled by the election of Dr. Robert K. Pretwell, professor of Education, Teachers' College, Columbia University, who will serve the movement as Chief Scout Executive.

THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY ARE WAKING UP FAST

At least 65 of the state's 120 counties already have voted dry. Elections are being held in several other counties on the Local Option question.

In each of these campaigns, the leaders have enjoyed the support of the ministers, the good women and the good citizens in all walks of life.

We have the Liquor Gang on the run in Kentucky. Let's keep 'em running.

I took it on myself to start the ball rolling in Floyd county against alcoholic liquors. I have had enough volunteer workers on the petitions to have completed the required number of names, if they will only rush them to me so we can get ready as soon as possible to have a referendum on the question. I deeply appreciate the effort that every one has put forth in securing the petitions, and will ask everybody to continue to work until whiskey is forever barred from this county.

When we realize that Floyd county is one, we can unite as one, working for the great cause we must accomplish.

We must win this cause for the sake of our boys and girls who are to have completed the required number of names, if they will only rush them to me so we can get ready as soon as possible to have a referendum on the question. I deeply appreciate the effort that every one has put forth in securing the petitions, and will ask everybody to continue to work until whiskey is forever barred from this county.

I hope every preacher, Christian worker, and everyone else who is deeply interested will preach it in the pulpits, will talk it and pray for it, until we have won.

We don't know how we will get out on the question this year, but we can feel proud that we made a start, and that we will not give up until we win.

Interested in this move are urged to attend the organization meeting to be held in the Floyd county courtroom at 1 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 10.

MISS STEPHENS CHOSEN CENTRE CHEER LEADER

Miss Sara Clay Stephens, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. O. T. Stephens, Prestonsburg, has been named cheer leader for the famed Fraylin Johnsons of Centre College, where she is a sophomore. Miss Stephens was graduated from Prestonsburg high school with the class of '40 and was a cheer leader for the Prestonsburg Black Cats.

ENTERTAIN TO BREAKFAST
Honoring Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Allen who left Tuesday for the army and Frankfort and Bert T. Combs, who left for Point Thomas, Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Howard entertained at a lovely breakfast at 9:30. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Combs, Mr. and Mrs. N. M. White, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spurlin, Miss Zena Danick.

NOTICE
The tentative assessment of Floyd county is almost complete. There are a few companies and property owners who have not filed their lists with the Tax Commissioner.

To accommodate those few, I am extending the time limit for filing their lists until October 19. After that date, I will take other steps to get these lists.

CLIVE AKERS, Tax Commissioner, Floyd County, Ky.

... and WAR

When you hear that bombing planes cost $335,000, tanks $75,000, anti-aircraft guns $50,000—And when you hear, too, that America needs 60,000 planes, 45,000 tanks, and 20,000 anti-aircraft guns at once—

It doesn't take much figuring to see that winning this war calls for every dollar all of us can scrape together. With our freedom at stake—with our farms, families, even our very lives depending upon the outcome, we'd gladly give the money.

But we aren't asked to do that. Our Government asks us only to lend the money—to put our increased earnings into War Bonds—month after month—until this war is won. In doing so, we save for our own security as well. For we get back $4 for every $3 we invest, when the Bonds are held 10 years. And if we need the money, we can get it all back any time after 60 days from issue date. This is the American way—the volunteer way—to raise the billions needed for Victory. And the money can... will... must be raised.

So let's show them that the farmers of America are helping to win this war in two vitally important ways—by producing more Food for Freedom and by saving more in War Bonds. Make Every Market Day "Boad Day"—Invest At Least 10%.

40,000 Leaders Help Tell Farmers About Their Part in War

Approximately 40,000 men and women are helping the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics tell rural families how they can best serve their country in war. They are acting as volunteer leaders in a system of neighborhood organizations where by more than 300,000 families are being reached in all towns and villages are kept informed on war activities on the home front.

The neighborhood leadership system was developed early in the spring to further food production. Then it was used in an anti-inflation program to tell rural families about the evils of inflation and what they might do to help prevent inflation. It also was used to recruit every farm in the various village zones.

Rites for Miss Pruitt Conducted Wednesday On Abbott Creek

Funeral rites for Miss Burella Pruitt, 25 years old, who died Wednesday, last week, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Pruitt, at Pollard, Boyd county, were conducted Friday afternoon by the Rev. G. R. Fannin, pastor of the West Frettonburg Assembly of God Church, from the home of Miss Pruitt's grandmother on Abbott Creek.

Miss Pruitt was born July 10, 1919 in Pike county whither her parents had moved from this county. Besides her parents, she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mildred Mae Bell, of Ashland, and Miss Lois Virginia Pruitt, at home; two brothers, Pvt. John W. Pruitt, Hamers Field, Calif., and Sgt. James A. Pruitt, Patterson Field, Ohio.

READING and WRITING

About six years ago newspaper headlines announced the spectacular trans-Atlantic flight of a young woman aviator named Beryl Markham from the British Empire to North America. Miss Markham was the first woman to make this flight to the United States, the first person to fly from England to the United States, the first person who had made a similar flight was Jim Morrison, who had flown from Ireland to America.

Yet this excursion was by no means Miss Markham's most hazardous undertaking. In fact, she's always been rather inclined to be ashamed of it and consider it merely as a stunt, we learned from her autobiography, "West With The Night."

Miss Markham was born in East Africa, the daughter of an English gentleman farmer. At the age of seventeen she was earning her living training thoroughbred horses. She later learned flying and became the first professional woman air pilot in Africa. She flew thousands of miles over deserts and jungles, where emergency landing fields were marked by old tin cans full of lighted kerosene and landed in—last a plane trip on a lion.

"I resent being treated like a corpse," he said. "It's insulting. Have you anything to eat?" She took him back to headquarters. It was all in a day's work.

One of Beryl Markham's earliest memories has to do with a lion—supposedly a domesticated lion who inhabited the farm of a friend of her father's. When they were visiting, she trotted out to see if she could catch a glimpse of this famous animal. She saw him all right and walked past him slowly, singing, because she had been taught that one must not show fear. But the sight of the little girl was too much for the lion. He roared to life and stalked her. She was saved only by the intervention of a native servant who had felt it his duty to keep an eye on her. The native, "youly" informed her father of what had happened. "My daughter," he said, "has been moderately eaten by a large lion."

"West With The Night" is the story of an unusual woman, and it is also an unusual book—told with humor, with compassion, and a rare sensitivity to the wonders of life and nature. Gertrude Diamant, author of one of the September Book-of-the-Month Club selections, "The Days of Oshesha," (the other is Robert Trumbull's "The Raft"), says that her favorite type of humor is too much for the lion. It seems that a man once saw a parrot climb a tree, so he started to climb after it. After they had climbed for a while, the parrot turned around, looked at him, and said, "Why are you following me?" The man paused and took off his hat, "beg your pardon," he said. "I thought you were a bird."

The Magic Lantern: The both-overs are breaking new records in the major temples, which makes the Magic Lantern. The Wretches: The strut has gone out of the Jan radio. Its spindles are preparing the gears for tough times. The earlier assurances were that heating the Christians was a breeze. The pastor they write for M. Gross wouldn't be funny if he fell on the back of the even other word. The V for Victory series improves with every performance. It has acquired a new character and gives it plenty. Charlie McCann returned to the airwaves feeling fatter than ever. Said it was so good in making the world a better place to live some place else. Roy Shield's crew, wearing the ditty, "I Get Kick Out of It" (with velvet violins) formed a music rowdy. Victor Borge, awarded the Comic of the Year prize last season, isn't to be renewed by his sponsor.

The Story Teller: The most direct charge against the Nazis is now being offered by the krauts themselves. In acts, not words. "The Black Book of Poland," a record of the atrocities in that land, sounds like a report on the behavior of savage beasts. Rex Shickler compiled the pre-Pearl Harbor book of some of the kraut's in congress, which will make a book called "The Hysterical Dunderberg." Frank S. Brown, who introduced, and Gropner's captures will make the squirming complete. A nice bit of fiction is "The Story of the Every Day" by Mary Elizabeth Plummer in Atlantic Monthly. Incidentally, that month-end on the hustle nowadays, the most beautiful headline in the world, according to Harry Thompson in Esquire, hails from Sioux City. She is Constance Moore.

The Front Pages: Proof that Vichy has accepted the brute philosophy of its Nazi masters was confirmed in the poignant headline in one of our papers: "Vichy to Jail Priests Aiding Jewish Children." The Mirror's breezy interview with Special P. P. Presentor. Olin Ewing the sent Prelley to prison for 15 years) revealed that his storm-troops cost Prelley $10 a month (700 of them) during one month before the trial. After his conviction they sent him about $150 daily. The most interesting news item before the trial, after his conviction they sent him about $150 daily. The most interesting news item before the trial, after his conviction they sent him about $150 daily.

Edward G. Robinson, the star, was coming out of "Dinky Moore's 40th Street rendezvous when someone pointed out Detective Johnny Broderick passing by. "Oh," cried the famed film hero, "I once played the role of a detective. I'd like to meet him. I've heard so much about him."

A pal introduced them. "This is a real thrill," said the movie star. "But another thrill I'd enjoy more to go with you when you and your colleagues are shooting it out with gangsters!" "I don't think you'd enjoy that," Mr. Robinson, said Broderick. "When I was in the cops they don't use blanks."

One of the more amusing Washington stories unquestionably of the year concerns Halifax and FDR. "Mr. President," the British ambassador is supposed to have said, "when I was viceroy of India, I felt that all of India would have understood me overnight had I wrapped myself in a shawl and sat on the floor with Gandhi." "Then why didn't you?" asked the President. "Because," blandly bellowed the Britisher, "India would have understood—but Britain—never!"

GASOLINE RATIONING TO COME AS RUBBER-SAVING MEASURE

National rationing of gasoline, as recommended by the Baruch Committee, is not proposed because there is a shortage of motor oil. On the contrary, there is an abundance of gasoline of all ordinary grades, and in the production areas the oil companies are hard-put for storage facilities. Gasoline rationing is to be imposed, instead, to save rubber—and to save rail and water transportation for other uses.

At the present time, gasoline is rationed in 17 Eastern states. According to Leon Henderson, it will be extended to the balance of the country on practically the same basis. That means that the average motorist will be entitled to four gallons weekly—enough to average about 60 miles. Supplemental allowances are given to "essential" drivers. Practically all pleasure car driving will be eliminated for the duration.

The effects of this will be felt most severely in the West. In the East, with great cities and heavily concentrated population, the motor car has not been nearly so necessary as it is in the West, where distances are vast and cities are few and far between. Furthermore, public transportation has naturally attained a higher state of development in the big-populated areas. The street car and bus systems, outside of the big cities, are simply not adequate to handle the load that has long been carried by private automobiles.

Drastic restrictions on automobile use will work a veritable revolution in this nation. West of the Mississippi, where distances are great and interurban transportation limited, no one can estimate the effect of the slow-down that will occur. The motor car dominated our fashion of living ever since the first World War. To millions of people, the family car is practically as necessary as food and shelter. During the twenties and thirties, there was an ever-increasing migration away from towns and cities into the suburbs. Men and women lived 10 or 20 miles or more from their places of business. Just how these people will get back and forth now that car operation is to be cut to the bone, is an unanswered question. It is impossible for them to move closer to their jobs, for the reason that there are severe housing shortages in all areas which have war industries of any kind.

The drastic solution to this problem is to produce enough artificial rubber to cover our motor vehicles. It seems impossible to find out just how well or how badly the synthetic rubber program is doing. The oil industry is making progress in the manufacture of rubber from oil derivatives. The tire companies say they can produce tires from reclaimed rubber which will give fair service if driven slowly. A start is being made to produce another kind of synthetic rubber from grain alcohol. However, there seems little question but what the program in general is still moving too slowly—and that is largely the fault of our government. No two high public officials have been able to agree on just what should be done. As a result, it will probably be a long time before anything resembling even an emergency supply of rubber is available for civilians.

Within the next year, without rubber, transportation problems will become acute. Tires are really beginning to wear out in volume now, and more and more cars are going into dead storage for lack of rubber. This is going to hit farm production in a critical manner. Street cars and bus companies are doing the best job possible, for the most part, but they simply haven't enough rolling stock to meet the need. Interurban transportation is abandoned long ago in many parts of the country, and the tracks were torn up. We in America depend almost entirely on the motor car for short-haul transport. So the lack of rubber remains our Number One domestic problem.

Floyd Scrap Pile

(Continued from page one) 170 pounds of scrap weighed, but it's scrap heap contains approximately 25,000 more pounds that yet is unweighed. Auxier school officials estimated their school children had accumulated 25,000 pounds. McDowell had 33,000 pounds of scrap Wednesday when the job of weighing was completed. Other schools reporting: Allen, 9,830 pounds; West Prestonsburg, 1,530; Cliff, 200. Prestonsburg's earlier collection which will be credited to the county's total weighed 44,717 pounds, while Betsy Layne's weighed 24,688. Martin's rubber accumulation last Wednesday was the county's highest with 4,022 pounds. Wheelersburg was next with 2,888 pounds. Allen collected 705 pounds; West Prestonsburg, 250 pounds; and Cliff, 40. Floyd county industry meanwhile was contributing heavily to the scrap pile, as well as aiding hard-working school boys and girls. One gas company here will within the next few days ship a 50-ton car of scrap, and the same thing is the rule rather than the exception with other gas and mining firms over the county.

To co-operate with salvage leaders and workers, a woman's organization has been effected in the county, with Mrs. R. V. May, Prestonsburg, county chairman. Community women leaders named by Mrs. May are: Mrs. James George, Betsy Layne; Mrs. C. L. Pritchard, Harold; Mrs. P. D. Short, Allen; Mrs. L. C. Leslie, Emma; Mrs. Missouri Johnson, Auxier; Mrs. George Fox, Wayland; Mrs. E. R. Price, Wheelersburg; Mrs. F. P. Hall, Weeksville; Mrs. R. H. Messer, Garrett; Mrs. W. T. Hatcher, Lecky; Mrs. Ed Sutton, Langley; Miss Stella Martin, McDowell; Mrs. Mary B. Goodell, Mine; Mrs. Horton D. Hewlett, Drift; Mrs. T. J. Allen, Martin; Mrs. J. S. Kelly, Prestonsburg.

Any piece of scrap metal "that's loose or needs a little loosening" will be taken from Kentucky's coal mines and donated to the state-wide campaign to help Uncle Sam keep the nation's steel mills humming. Sam Caddy, president of District 30, United Mine Workers of America, declared in Lexington Tuesday. "And to 'loosen' it each of the approximately 22,000 miners in District 30 will devote a full day's work each Saturday to the gathering of scrap metal. We will have contacted all unions materials so vital to eventual victory will go over the top hand running," Caddy added. The patriotic motive was sufficient to put the miners firmly behind the scrap collection campaign, but to spur them on, Mr. Caddy announced that if one of the locals in District 30 won the $250 prize offered by Kentucky newspapers to the union local collecting the most scrap, District 30 would add $250. "Thus some local in District 30 has the opportunity of adding $500 to its treasury."

"When we first began organizing our boys to do their bit in this drive I set a minimum of 4,000 tons of metals as our share of the work in the state, but now I honestly believe, as our individual efforts continue to gain momentum, that we will produce between 6,000 and 7,000 tons," Caddy said. First-hand information as to just how the miners are going about gathering the metals was revealed by Eddie Reynolds, U.M.W. representative in the Hazard field, and Tom Raney, representative of the mine workers in the Big Sandy field. Reynolds announced that approximately two-thirds of the local unions in his field had been contacted and results so far were "gratifying," to say the least. "We will have contacted all unions by Saturday and our boys are swinging into this campaign like nobody's business. Each of our miners is giving over a full day's work each Saturday which usually is a holiday for our boys—in order to gather the scrap metals.

"We are combing the mines inside and outside and piling up this scrap to a fare thee well.

"Each local union also has been organized to make a house-to-house canvass in the field so that we will miss a single piece to toss into Kentucky's big pile.

"The mine operators are co-operating 100 per cent; the most children are doing their bit in a patriotic way that makes your heart jump and, in fact, we all are doing everything possible to put this drive over with a bang."

Aiding Reynolds in the Hazard area is James Allen, also a U.M.W. field official.

Campaign leaders in the Big Sandy field, according to Raney, talk to the miners at each coal mine when the shifts "turn over" and in this manner have reached every worker in that part of the state's coal-producing areas.

"Everybody is lending a hand up here to make this campaign a rousing success," Raney commented. "The coal operators are doing everything they can to help our pile of every last piece of metal that looks like scrap. We have a joint labor-management committee.

"The way those children go about getting the scraps is the most patriotic thing I've ever seen. It really warms your heart just to watch them scurry about gathering metals.

"We have worked up a house-to-house canvass and you can tell everybody in Kentucky that our miners will work till hell freezes over to get every bit of scrap metal in this section."

Others helping Raney in the campaign in the Big Sandy field include E. B. Baker, Earl Bloomer, John Lucas, Bill Hall, Carson Hibbits, Bill Hogan, and William Taylor, each of whom is a U.M.W. field official. Caddy stated that mine operators in both fields had made provisions to maintain electrical power in the mines on Saturdays and also were providing coal on so that scrap metals could be brought out of the pits.

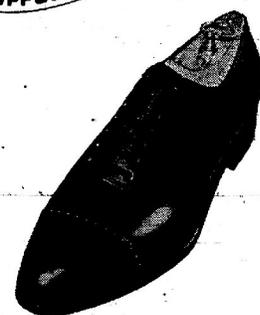

"Under our five-day week plan, each Saturday is usually a day off for the miners, but not from now on," Caddy said.

"From now until we are told to stop our boys will work each Saturday just as hard as they do any other day in the week, so that we can get the very last piece of scrap

PROTECTION OF A FENCE THE TIMES re-prints from the Big Sandy News at Louisa the following portion of a letter from State Treasurer Ernest E. Shannon to Claude T. Wilson, director of the Lawrence county WPA salvage crew, just as an example of what is being done by some folks in other counties:

"I see by the newspaper that you are Uncle Sam's Scrapper. So I will be glad if you will go around to my home and take down the iron fence in front of my home on Main street and put it in Uncle Sam's scrap pile. "When I come home around October 1st I will determine by then whether to give you the iron fence on the railroad side of the house or not. I feel that is some protection but we need protection abroad as well as at home. So I will see you while there as I will be home for a few days."
