This Town-- That World

HERE'S THE CALL! Last week this column promised something definite on the "Honor Roll" proposed for erection on the courthouse grounds here and bearing the names of every Floyd county man in the national armed services.

Well, here it is-- We, the people, as individuals, will have to do the job. The fiscal court has not yet taken action on the matter and most of its members have given the plan their approval. But whatever help it may be willing to give is too slow coming.

You will recall that when we asked readers of this newspaper to withhold their personal contributions until the court took action on the matter we expressed the hope that when you were called upon for help you would "come a-whooping."

All right. This is the call. Let's get busy, get the money ready and work started.

Floyd Post, American Legion, Prestonsburg, has volunteered to sponsor the undertaking. There, for, send or take all your contributions to Floyd Post, American Legion, Prestonsburg, care of F. C. Hall at the Home Owners Loan in Prestonsburg. DO NOT SEND CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES.

Now, this "Honor Roll" is not going to win the war. It will not be of material benefit to those of our own county who are now fighting or training for the test of arms with the brutal enemy. Neither does the building of a church get you to heaven.

But we all want to give expression to our appreciation of the "boys" who are doing for us and what they mean to us. We are making no sacrifice in doing this, not any of us. It is the least we can do--to honor to those who serve.

What better thing could we do, just now, than to make this giant signboard to remind us of the many hundreds who are gone away so that the rest of us may stay at home in safety?

Floyd county boys are doing their part--almost 4,000 of them already are doing their part--to save what we devoutly believe is the salvation of the world.

Let's tell the world who these boys are! Fill out the coupon below and mail today to the Prestonsburg American Legion.

AMERICAN LEGION, Care, F. C. Hall, Home Owners Loan Office, Prestonsburg, Ky.

Here's my $... to help build Floyd county's "Honor Roll" in honor of those who are serving in the armed forces.

Name... Address... Some of the global strategy heard on street-corners hereabouts is too globeable to be of value.

Wascrock of the week was Elmer Davis' when he said the only effect Hitler's reported demotion would have would be that the United Nations would lose the benefit of his intuition.

Have you heard the song the jungle-diggers sing? It's a period of "White Christmas" and starts off with "I'm dreaming of a white mist."

Since the Corrupt Practices Act is more or less, mostly more, like the dodo, it has been suggested that OPA set a ceiling price on a copy, 25c a head. The flouters then would either stay at home or, if ended out by higher pay, the OPA could declare the whole thing a "black market" and take action.

What once was Hamburg is now Hanburger.

Floyd Paratrooper Celebrates Birthday With Sicilian Jump One of the most memorable birthdays to be experienced by a Floyd county man was Cpl. Russell Olan Ratliff's on July 10.

THURSDAY

192 DRAFTEES ARE NOTIFIED FOR AUG. 19

Change Made in Date Of Departure; May To Offer New Bill

The 192 selectees to leave this month from Draft Board 45 for induction examination at Huntington, W. Va., will make the trip on Thursday, Aug. 19, instead of Aug. 20, Robert Wallace, clerk of the board, said this week.

The change to Aug. 19 was made on orders from state headquarters. The large number of volunteers in the group leaving next Thursday--41 of them--saved married men from this call, Mr. Wallace said. He expects a supply of approximately 40 I-A's by the time of the September call. Harry T. Hill, clerk of Board 44, last week estimated his number as Richard, Elmo and available next month. Induction of married men is not expected to be delayed longer than October in any event.

In Washington Tuesday Congressman J. J. May, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, declared he will introduce a bill next month to prohibit the drafting of all fathers--whether they reached that status before or after the war. At the same time Draft Director Hershey maintains that induction of fathers will be necessary.

Names and addresses of the selectees to leave Aug. 19 follow (CV indicates volunteer):

Funeral of Mrs. Maness Is Conducted Tuesday

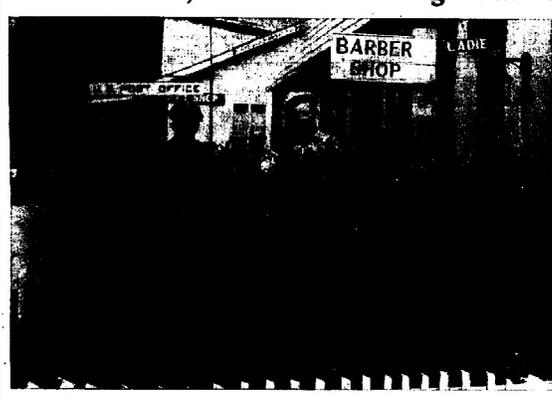

Funeral rites for Mrs. Beth Maness, 30 years old, wife of Claude Maness, who died at her home in Wheelwright Saturday were conducted from the residence Tuesday, with burial being made in the Melvin cemetery under direction of J. W. Call & Son.

Mrs. Maness was a daughter of Wheelwright, surviving brothers and sisters are Alvin Little, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Geneva Adams, Gearheart; Mrs. Phoebe Maness and Miss Marie Little, Wheelwright.

Added Home, Hospital Service Made Possible

Addition to the medical staff of the Prestonsburg general hospital, Dr. J. B. Burgess not only enables the hospital staff to render more efficient medical assistance in private homes but also makes such service available at the hospital on a 24-hour basis--a function the hospital had not hitherto been able to perform, Dr. D. H. Daniel, head of the hospital, said this week.

Floyd Service Station Grows Flowers In Peacetime, Tomatoes During War

Floyd county's only public garden, titled by Charles Crum and his Martin Pure Oil Station boys, grew flowers in peacetime. Now, it grows tomatoes.

Eight feet wide by 14 feet long, it is producing at least eight bushels of tomatoes this year. Mr. Crum estimates that one acre at home with a tomato canner.

Back when all the world was bright, the small plot of ground outside the service station was planted in flowers purely as a beautification project. During those halcyon days, 22 youth employes, at one time or another of the station, tended the flower garden. These 22 now are scattered over the world wherever U.S. fighting men are engaged with the enemy, and their successors are raising tomatoes where once peace-time flowers grew.

Those who worked at the station and grew flowers on the plot, and who now are in the nation's armed forces are Richard, Elmo and Mont Johnson, brothers, John Edward Hampton, Martin Owens, Edward Beckett, Curtis Pitts, Bill Dancet, Everett Tackett, Tom Taylor, B. D. Dugas, Eugene Foley, Chas. Harrison, O. A. Collins, John Coleman, J. Thomas, Edward Allen, Doug Wilson, Richard Evans, Jr., Lee Prasure, Carl Green, W. J. Reynolds, Jr., Norman Osborne.

Although the "garden" is on Martin's "Adm. Dress" and peonies, in between the town's most frequented places--the service station, postoffice, a store, beauty and barber shop--it crop and purpose have never been violated.

Water for Floyd Town Hauled 10 Miles as Drouth Pinches

John Floyd and all the little Floyd litters lifted their eyes skyward this week as they did last.

Not looking for enemies planes or for any other evidences of the enemy other than the innumeral antics of the Weather Man.

Folks up the creeks, with cattle changing their whow to moaning for water, with the lowing and town water supplies low with corn "dry in the shuck," with creek beds dry and emergency supplies of "water-father" springs and coal banks down in mere trickles--with all that, the sun topic of their conversation was, "When will it rain?"

The mining town of David, with approximately 75 families, was particularly hard hit in the matter of water for human consumption.

Surviving are the widow, a daughter, Mrs. A. Degrue Warlock, Jr., of Philadelphia, the former Miss (See story No. 6, Page 8)

ABSENTEEISM OF TEACHERS

Is Denied Approval Of County Board; Moles Is Member

No leaves of absence will be granted teachers from Floyd school this year, the Floyd County Board of Education voted at its last week's meeting.

This action was taken, it was explained, because of the critical shortage of teachers. Those staying away from their teaching duties in this year will, when they return, be employed on a new teacher basis and, therefore, will not enjoy the continuing contracts they would have been entitled to had they remained teaching over the year.

A meeting of consolidated school principals was called for Wednesday, this week, for a discussion of the teacher situation. Unless restrictive measures occur at the ranks of high school teachers, consolidated schools are expected to have complete facilities, with the use of emergency instructors. County Superintendent Town Hall said Tuesday morning.

The Joe Gobbe school on Johns Creek remains closed, awaiting the arrival of a new teacher. Nola McGuire, Principal Roy Turner of the Mauston school resigned at the end of his first month's term.

GATEWOOD IS VICTIM

Husband of Local Woman Succumbs In Huntington

W. B. Gatewood, prominent Huntington and husband of Eva May's Gardner, native Prestonsburg woman, died Thursday morning, last week, in a Huntington hospital.

Mr. Gatewood, who was president of Langhorne & Langhorne Company, railroad contractors, and head of the Miami Great Company, was injured on a job, two months ago and never fully recovered. He was taken to the hospital August 2.

He was born in Barren county, Va., of late late Alexander Leach, Captain of Greenwood and Mary W. A. Gatewood. His early education was received in private schools and he later attended Greenbrier Military School, at Lewisburg, W. Va., where he was graduated.

His father was an early graduate of Virginia Military Institute and helped train troops for the Confederate army in the Civil War. He later distinguished himself in General J. E. B. Steuart's cavalry regiment.

Upon leaving school Mr. Gatewood joined the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company as resident engineer and was promoted to division engineer while still a young man.

He joined C. L. Langhorne, of Lynchburg, Va., as resident engineer of the Old Stone Presbyterian Church at Lewisburg.

Mr. Gatewood married the former Eva May Gardner, daughter of the late George W. Gardner and Mrs. Belle C. Gardner, of Prestonsburg, in December, 1915.

Surviving are the widow, a daughter, Mrs. A. Degrue Warlock, Jr., of Philadelphia, the former Miss (See story No. 6, Page 8)

MYERS POLLS HEAVY VOTE IN COUNTY

Stargill, Hays, Biggers, Howell and Dinges Win Local Races

Rebellious Democratic Floyd county staged an uprisings Saturday and polled the only majority given Rodes K. Myers outside his home county of Warren in his unsuccessful bid for the gubernatorial appointment over S. L. Lister Davidson, the Atlanta Democrat candidate.

Though Ben Kilgore ran far back in this county, he was runner-up to Myers in the last week's polling with a total of around 50,000 votes to the winner's approximately 130,000. Myers was far back in the precinct of the 38,000-vote district.

S. S. Wilks, of Ashland, had no opposition for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The election, which saw almost 6,000 Democratic and around 1,900 Republican votes cast, was hard-fought in this county as six Democrats sought the nomination for Sheriff, T. B. Strickland, former Circuit Clerk won by a margin of 344 votes over Ben Hall of Ligon, with Willard May, of London, although in the third slot with 1,341 votes. Elson Kridinger, polled 215 votes. Adam Hays 208 and Otto Fannin 157.

D. P. Perk, Dinges, Martin, won the Republican nomination for Sheriff over Millard Salisbury, Prestonsburg; 849 to 133 votes.

Doug Hays, of McDowell, easily won the Democratic nomination for Sheriff in the Floyd-Knox-Martin district by a majority of 1,333. His vote in the county, which totaled 2,912, nullified the early lead.

INSIDE HERO STORY

Behind the award of the Congressional Medal of Honor to 31-year-old Lieut. Com. Bruce McCandless of the U. S. Cruiser San Francisco is a story almost without parallel in the annals of naval warfare.

Inside fact is that shortly before he was cited for heroism "above and beyond the call of duty" in the smashing November 13 Solomon naval victory, McCandless wasn't sure whether he would be decorated or hailed on the carpet for inaction.

His citation was one of glittering generalities, but here is the whole story as it happened.

McCandless was on the bridge of the San Francisco when it led a spectacular assault between two columns of Japanese battleships, one point blank at both. In the roaring 35-minute engagement, Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, commander of the task force, and Capt. Cassin Young, skipper of the San Francisco, were killed, as well as other officers commanding the task force.

The young lieutenant commander did not notify superior officers on other vessels in the task force of Callaghan's death, but immediately took command and began giving orders to the other vessels in Callaghan's name. Ordinarily, this discipline. However, McCandless acted as he did for two reasons:

(1) He was thoroughly familiar with the plan of attack, having been present at strategy sessions at Callaghan and Young when it was mapped out, and he feared there might be a lull in the action and the sailing task maneuvered 12 the command passed to another ship after Callaghan's death.

(2) It was vital to keep the news of Callaghan's death from the Japs, and they undoubtedly would have intercepted the radio communication. When the engagement was over, a friend suggested that he might be decorated for his brilliant "incomplete" leadership. McCandless is quoted as replying that he would be lucky to get off without a "court martial." However, the navy was so impressed with his gallantry and bravery that it gave praise where praise was due.

MARCHING INTO TOKYO

Mal Marine of Mexico, who is both marine corps colonel and congressman, has two memos from the Solomon—a 30-year Jap note and a 30-year note of Jap invasion money.

Maas got the money off dead Jap soldiers.

The other day he was displaying it to Representative Gordon坎菲尔德 from New Jersey and two Japs were comparable to the WAVES who were having lunch with坎菲尔德 in the hotel restaurant. The WAVES and Elizabeth Gibson, were especially interested in the yen note, which was covered with bright green ink. Whereupon the colonel said: "Be sure to take that money back to me," said Maas. "I have big plans for it."

"Yes, these notes will make a wonderful souvenir to show your grandchildren," commented one of the WAVES.

"Souvenir—nothing," exclaimed Maas. "I'm keeping that money to spend in Tokyo."

GUARDING THE WHITE HOUSE

The White House called Speaker Sam Rayburn the other day, asked him to come in to see the President, bringing with him a group of congressmen of his own choosing.

When they arrived at the front gate of the White House, the speaker's car, the chauffeur said to the Secret Service men: "This is the speaker and members of congress."

The guards were skeptical. "The speaker is all right, but how about those other men?" Whereupon they insisted upon a personal examination of the other members of congress.

When Rayburn got inside the White House, he was as usual that god-natured Texan ever becomes. He found a senior officer of Secret Service and said: "Look here, when I am asked to bring members of congress to the White House, I want them to be admitted without any third degree examination. You ought to know I wouldn't bring any bomb threat."

Note: The White House has been more closely guarded in this war than at any other time in history, including World War I. Streets on three sides are blocked off, and no one can get near without a pass, even a member of congress.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

The Germans are trying to scare you out of making a commercial deal to sell us certain critical materials which have gone to Germany.

Practically every young officer in the navy department here is asking for active duty, and many are getting it. Waves of WAVES are reaching them.

The Pennsylvania Quaker village of Swarthmore is subscribing for a bomber to bear the name "Swarthmore."

STUDY OF MAN GONE EIGHTLY MAD THROUGH RATION RULES

Mr. Twitcheek took two more letters from ration boards from the letterman and weighed them carefully. Then he handed them back. "Sorry. Can't use 'em," he said. "I've already had my two and a half pounds this week."

"Get the sugar bowl," he commanded addresslessly. Twitcheek. "What for?" she asked. "Got to turn in all but five lumps," he said.

Elmer then stood on his head in the middle of the living room and put on his glasses.

"What on earth are you doing now?" demanded Mrs. Twitcheek. "Got to copy the serial numbers on the sides of all my tin burners," he snipped.

At this point, Mrs. Twitcheek went upstairs and quietly summoned the doctor.

The doctor arrived as Elmer was leaning over a table repeating his name and address over and over again and giving his height, age and color.

"Elmer, what are you doing now?" asked the wife.

"Just another registration," he snipped.

The doctor motioned to Mrs. Twitcheek to sit down and whisper to her that he would like to observe Elmer without any comment for a while.

Elmer took from his pocket a small thermometer and said it was hot a few moments. Then he read it. "Seventy-nine degrees," he announced. "It is better just to let me for having a temperature like that. I could have avoided it all, though."

"Twitcheek forgot his coat," he barked at her, remembering those warnings that all cars should keep down to two cups a mile.

He then went to the kitchen, took the coffee pot and threw it away.

"Got to get something smaller," he said. "I'm only an 'A' card holder. My allowance is to be cut to three gallons a week now. Use it to be better just to let me for having a temperature like that. I could have avoided it all, though."

Elmer walked to the telephone. "Hello, is this the doctor's office?" he asked. "Just want to tell you about the butter. It was worth retreating so I had to turn it in. Press company and turned it in."

"Quite a case," observed the doctor, making notes.

Mr. Twitcheek now got a can of gasoline, poured out a small quantity, added condensed milk, a pinch of sugar and gave it a stir.

"Tastes lovely," he said, "but a ration order is a ration order."

Suddenly he put the cup aside and remarked, "I forget this was a coffeeless Tuesday."

"How long has he been acting like this?" asked the doctor.

"Just for the last day or two," said Mrs. Twitcheek.

"What's that?" demanded the doctor, suddenly noticing the doctor. "Ah, I recognize him now. He's the federal finance inspector. It's a bad omen. I hate my furnace up for the winter and am heating the house by kerosene now."

The doctor at this point sneaked up behind Elmer and slugged him with a heavy paperweight, knocking him out.

"It's the only way to handle these cases," he said to Mrs. Twitcheek. "I'm getting more of 'em every day."

But just the same Lalai got through:
He's tough as hippo hide.

Many stores are now rationing ice cream, and refusing to sell any to take out. One man says his wife wanted a pint for a sick child, and so explained to the ice-cream clerk. But the reply—believe it or not—was: "You'll have to get a prescription."

Here's one, so labeled, is now being sold in many cities at a selling price high. Some people say it isn't bad. Elmer Twitcheek insists it's the best. It all depends on the horse's head.

Hand Grenades were used by the Egyptians as far back as 490 B. C. They consisted of boxes in which vipers were scroled. These were thrown at the enemy lines.

"Hash-marks" came into vogue in the continental army in the form of a strip of white cloth sewn to the shoulder of the uniform. Each strip of cloth represented a year of service.

Rifle Grenades were used at the battle of Verdun in 1917 and the men aspired to bring the grenades were known as grenadiers.

NYA Equipment Needed

UNLESS the Congressional act which killed the National Youth Administration was so rash as to make no provision for use of NYA training equipment by the public schools, there apparently is no reason why Prestonsburg and Floyd county cannot have a vocational training shop at home.

The machinery used by NYA and the state department of vocational education remains here—Floyd county's last vestigial shadow of a war plant, since the shop here did turn out some material for the armed forces.

Vocational training is needed by Floyd county youth—is needed now; will be needed perhaps even more later. Prestonsburg school authorities, as The Courer-Journal points out in an editorial reprinted on this page, have taken progressive action in seeking to keep the NYA shop equipment here for that purpose.

Don't Tear Down the Ceiling

ISSUES of the primary election are decided. Comes now a breathing-spell before the November storm. During the interim, the voters of Kentucky will be advised by some to support the Constitutional amendment lifting the ceiling on salaries of public officials.

The voters of Kentucky will be told lifting of the $5,000 salary ceiling will induce better men to seek the office of Governor, that higher pay will improve the quality of men holding other offices.

Thomas H. Cutler, present state highway engineer, was brought to Kentucky as "one of the best" and his salary was raised $10,000 by a contribution from the late Robert W. Bingham, publisher of The Courier-Journal.

Surely there is something more than the job-hunter looking for a salary about these Kentuckians who, every four years, seek the office of Governor.

Points By Other Editors

PUBLIC SCHOOLS MAY FALL HEIR TO N.Y.A.

PROSPECTS appear good for retaining the machine equipment of N.Y.A. war training centers if all the communities in which they are located show as active interest as Prestonsburg does.

The Board of Education there, according to The Floyd County Times, was advised by State Superintendent Brooker and R. H. Woods, director of vocational training, that federal authorities are willing to lease the plants for use in vocational schools under local sponsorship and state supervision.

Terms of the arrangements are not yet known, but it is understood that the cost of operation would be borne jointly by the state and federal governments, and it is the intention of the Prestonsburg board to conduct the school if the conditions can be met. It would continue to serve the area included in the N.Y.A. program.

In view of the favorable attitude of federal authorities, response to requests from all over the country, this seems to be a rare opportunity for Kentucky schools to secure vocational equipment most of them are unable to purchase.

After the war, in all probability, title will be relinquished to the schools, and we're behind in technical training facilities for future industrial development. Even farmers need it in a mechanical age.—The Courier-Journal.

'BURG NATIVE DESERT VICTIM

Bannon, One of Trio Lost During Army Desert Maneuvers

One of the three soldiers who died recently of exposure after having been lost in the California desert near Camp Young was reported here last week as Jack Bannon, 30, native of Prestonsburg.

The report stated he was born here June 4, 1913, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bannon. He had lived in Jackson and Chillicothe, Ohio, with relatives for several years.

Bannon was found and taken to Camp Price, near Cairo, where he died of sunstroke, after having been treated at an emergency hospital. Price, was for a fresh supply of water.

He had lived in Jackson for several years and went to Chillicothe to make his home with his sister, Mrs. Ronald Hand, about 10 years ago.

Besides his sister, he is survived by his brother, Robert Gay, a corporal in the marines in the South Pacific area; a step-father, Edna Gay of Sophia, W. Va.; an aunt, Mrs. H. P. May, Sr., of Columbia, S. C.; and other uncles and aunts in Columbus.

Every kind word you spoke for me is appreciated more than I can find words to express. To those who felt obligated to either of my opponents I voice my sincere appreciation. It will be because of your support for your friend, whichever one it was. You had your reasons for so doing and that is one of the many things we enjoy which our boys are fighting and dying to preserve to us. To every Democrat in our county, permit me to pledge you now that the primary is over and I heartily join you for a sweeping victory in November. Very sincerely yours, BILL HALL

The good people of Floyd County behind me, we cannot lose. My opponent, Mr. Millard Salsbury, and I conducted our respective campaigns on the foundation of terms. I invite him and all his friends to join in November victory. My friend, Troy B. Sturgill. D. P. PEKIC-DINGUS

ONE of my favorite athletes for some 20 years has been a fellow by the name of Heartley Anderson—better known as Hunk.

With George Haines, former coach and owner of the Chicago Bears, he was in war service. Hunk is one of the best contacts. Hunk is the toughest physical specimen I've ever known, and that includes Joe Louis and Strangler Lewis. As a guard under Knute Rockne, he weighed 170 pounds. Hunk made Granadland Rice 240 pounds surrender and leave the field. They wanted no part of Hunk, who in addition to amazing quickness and unusual strength, always has had outstanding physical strength.

He was the type they might kill—but never whip.

An Anderson Angle This takes us back to the time Notre Dame decided to try out field hockey. A big squad had assembled—Hunk appeared. His presence scattered most of the hockey squad.

"Do you mean," one of them asked, "that I'm to play in a game in which they are giving Hunk a person a stick? I don't want any part of it!"

As a coach in the old days, Hunk may have been a better top sergeant than a general of the Rockne type, but that still goes as a tribute. He certainly never has had a superior as a line coach. Hunk has been given the impossible job at Notre Dame of following Knute Rockne. At the time this was an impossible assignment.

Hunk's toughest coaching job came at North Carolina State some years ago. Hunk had assembled a strong Southern line and a Northern backfield.

"I made one big mistake," Hunk told me later. "I thought the Civil War was over. I soon found that my Southern line was tackling and stepping my Northern backfield before it got started. I'd just forgotten to brush up on my history. I discovered that when I had mixed up Stonewall Jackson and Robert E. Lee with U. S. Grants and William Tecumseh Sherman and Philip Sheridan."

The Strong Man I doubt that football has ever produced a stronger man than Eddie Hart, Princeton's old football captain, now installed as a major in the marines. His strongest man rival was Eddie Glass of Yale. The new marine is no kid. He was Princeton's leader back in 1910 and 1911, when he played with a broken nose protected by a special leather harness.

Now over 50, he is still in the physical shape and still one of the strongest men I know. Something after the manner of Pudge Heffelfinger, who was still a football star at 55 and not so bad at what he played a full period in a charity game.

Two Eddie Hart examples—the first might be won a bet that three All-Americans in the room couldn't bowl him over as he stood on one foot—the day in Paris during the last war when a 105-pound football pal called from the second floor of a Paris hotel—"I'm jumping, Eddie, catch me." Hart caught him.

The marines get a true marine in Eddie Hart. Eddie Hart coached the Army football team that played in Paris after the Armistice. Eddie Mahan was on that Army squad. "It was after this game," Hart told me, "that Marshall Foch said, 'Any army that plays this game is already well trained for war. It is a game that belongs to the strong and the fast and to those who must think under pressure. It is the type of competitive sport an army needs.'"

Efficiency Col. Bob Neyland remarked a short while back that when you can get a team up to 80 per cent efficiency in blocking and tackling you have about reached the summit of human expectancy.

This is true, with a few exceptions. Holy Cross passed 80 per cent in this respect against Boston College, and Washington's Redskins were close to 100 per cent against the beaten Bears.

I've never seen a team that tackled harder, blocked harder or ran harder, gave all out like the Redskins did against the Bears. They had a record wonder to cure that has been fastening for two years, 73 to 0, and you could see on practically every play they meant to affect the game.

Here was full proof of what a football team can do when it becomes emotionally aroused. Here was full proof of what a football team can do when it becomes emotionally aroused. Here was full proof of what a football team can do when it becomes emotionally aroused.
