FOR THE RED CROSS-$5 FOR EACH FIGHTING MAN!

This Town-- That World

VOLUME XVI

Floyd County Times

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

NUMBER 47

MARCH 23, 1944

$5 PER SERVICE MAN - A SMALL AMOUNT

I don't know if you folks are interested in such matters, but they hit me.

Anyway, on February 29 on the eve of the drive being made by the American Red Cross for funds needed for a continuation of its work, a Prestonsburg woman who lives alone, whose income is not adequate to maintain as considered with that of most Floyd county business and professional men, listened to President Roosevelt and his cabinet by radio to the need of Red Cross support from every citizen. She heard them tell of blood plasma sent thru the Red Cross to the fighting front, finding its way into the veins of wounded men, of the plasma saving lives precious not only to the relatives of the wounded but also to the nation which sent them to war; she heard how lonely service men in strange cities find the Red Cross a friendly hand reaching across states and countries, even across the seas; she heard the story of how prisoners in Jap and German concentration camps, brutally treated physically and spiritually, found supplies reaching them through the Red Cross; only means of subsistence, the letters the Red Cross gives them to live for the day when peace comes.

This woman, early next morning, gave $10, and she was glad to give. She was at the home of the Red Cross secretary here before the regular getting-up time. She has no one engaged by her to do any work and she shall, yet the great mother's heart of her prompted her to give as did the Widow with her Mite.

I can't delve into the monetary emotions and instincts of that woman, as much as I would like to as a challenge to some of you who can give but have no idea you should to the Red Cross during this drive. They are invaluable, and they are set down here very sketchily, in the hope that you will do as you should and you will feel the searching finger of your conscience.

Floyd county has adopted a slogan of "50 for the Red Cross for every Floyd county man in service."

The boys are giving their lives, their limbs, their blood. What do you want to do all back and wash your hands and wash your hands in the great movement to save their lives, to preserve their morals, to send them back to us as normal human beings?

That little matter of a loan woman giving "till it hurt" struck us. How it will affect the county's Red Cross contributions are added up at the end of March.

Don't you think it's a small matter, the giving of $5 for each man from the county in the service?

POST-WAR PLANNING The City Council of Pikeville recently voted a $500 appropriation for the Boy Scout fund there. Some may think that is a waste of money, but such co-operation with the Boy Scout movement will save the town more than that small sum in feeding prisoners, a few years from now. Whatever constructive work the citizens is worth a community's financial as well as its moral support.

FLOYD COUNTY IS FAR SHORT OF ITS GOAL

As Disappointing Red Cross Returns Received Here

Although Floyd county's Red Cross contributions to date are not definitely known, Ella Noel C. White, executive secretary, Floyd County, was far from optimistic about the county's efforts to meet its record $2,500 quota during March.

This state of pessimism followed a meeting here Saturday evening which, Miss White said, "scared the life out of us. We saw from returns at that time that we were in the doghouse."

Although Tom Boney, Pikeville, international leader, United Mine Workers, had expressed his belief that contributions of the county will total $13,000, reports received to date are far shy of this figure.

The contribution from Prestonsburg was $1,000, amounting to about $2,000.

Reports are yet to be received from the counties making reports from communities, Maytown, Banner, Betsy Layne, several other towns.

'QUORUM' SHY, NO ELECTION

Hold Co-op Directors Off at Conference Here Last Saturday

Lacking attendance of the required five percent of the 825 members of the organization for the holding of an election of directors, the Big Sandy Rural Electric Co-operative Inc. at its annual conference here Saturday afternoon did not conduct the scheduled election and the directors now in office will serve until their successors are named at the 1945 meeting.

Election of officers of the co-op will be held here next month at a directors' meeting.

The conference, attended by 34 members, was addressed by Walter Johnson and Russell Adams, of the St. Louis office, and by Representative W. C. Biggers whose opposition in the legislature to the Moas bill seeking curtailment of TVA and REA drew the praise of members of the co-operative.

Floyd Soldier's Life Saved by Penicillin, Red Cross Learns

Through the efforts of Floyd chapter, American Red Cross, relatives here learned last Thursday that the life of Pvt. Edward Herschel Tackett, ill of bronchitis pneumonia and suffering stomach hemorrhages at his Ft. Monmouth, N. J., army post, hinged on immediate receipt of the war-born miracle drug, penicillin.

While Pvt. Tackett's wife, the former Miss Virginia Burchett, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Tackett, were en route to Ft. Monmouth, penicillin was being flown by plane from New York City to the army post as an emergency treatment.

"Tuesday, members of the family here learned he was greatly improved. Sulfa drugs failed to achieve satisfactory results, so a new treatment was recommended for a time Pvt. Tackett was in an oxygen tent.

Floyd Countian Tells of Service Others Rendering Against Japs

Cpl. Roger Reed shakes hands at a secret air base in northeastern Australia with his brother, Sgt. Andrew J. Reed. Another picture, taken at the same time, but not published here, shows Sgt. Reed.

Back in the States after long service in the Southwest Pacific, Cpl. Roger Reed speaks lightly of his own experiences in a recent letter. Instead, emphasizes the roles played by others in the lanes and air war going on there.

Particularly he mentions his brother, Sgt. Andrew J. Reed, who entered the service at 16, and Charles Cole of Martin.

"The Reed brothers are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gold Reed, of Hueysville. Norman Reed, a brother of Roger and Andrew, lost his life early in the war while in navy service. A fourth brother, Kelly, is in the armed forces. This is Cpl. Reed's story."

SCHOOL FUND DEFICIT SEEN

For Floyd County If Special Meet Not Summoned

The legislative stalemate at Frankfort will leave Floyd county school funds short by $65,000 for each of the next two years unless a special session of the General Assembly is held to remedy the situation.

Superintendent Town Hall said here Wednesday.

The shortage, Mr. Hall added, would mean a salary reduction of approximately $80 per teacher.

His estimate of the shortage was based on the funds available to the county for the last school year's salaries—the $500,000 special back-pay appropriation which would not be possible for the coming school year as matters now stand.

CITIZENS HERE GET PERIODIC DEBT SCORE

Federal Court Action To Force Assessment On Taxpayers Seen

Prestonsburg's old sewer and paving jobs proved its utility board this week to provide property owners here their seasonal state of jitters as the threat of a special tax levy to settle the indebtedness drew nearer to reality.

The case of nerves was averted by property owners as they learned that a public accountants was here checking on the city's finances and general fiscal set-up to present as proof in federal court next Monday at Pikeville in behalf of the Cambria Building Company's claim of $7,000, with interest from 1927.

Judgment already has been awarded the company by a federal court in Louisville. That court has increased the Cambria debt to approximately $14,000, it was said.

"My opinion is," Mayor E. P. Arnold said last night, "that the federal court will order a special levy." Mayor Arnold said prospects of a funding bond issue to handling the outstanding indebtedness, including the Cambria claim, is none too bright.

The original paving and sewer indebtedness was against individual property owners served by these conveniences, but collection of their debt in some cases was permitted to run into the hundreds of thousands, successfully pleaded.

FOG OVER FRANKFORT

THE TIMES has refrained from comment on the late session of the General Assembly, simply because this newspaper had no accurate concept of what was taking place in Frankfort. Governor Willis, ordinarily a "smooth operator" as men are judged in their public statements, says he will call a special session of the Assembly to provide more money for public education—because "the General Assembly refused to cooperate" during its regular session.

Thus he places the blame on the opposition, which is composed of Democratic majorities in both Houses. At the same time he doesn't to any appreciable extent improve the relations between the Administration and the Opposition.

At the same time, The Courier-Journal, with at least two competent men on the ground, claims the extra session is a result of the Governor's lack of leadership and failure on his own part to cooperate.

Things come to a sorry pass when the people of a state whose sons are fighting to preserve our free institutions can be the only culprits, inasmuch as they elected the Governor, his adherents and his opponents and since everybody except the poor voter denies any guilt whatsoever.

Why can't politicians get it through their noggin's that the best politics is no politics at all when the folks back home are giving of their blood and their financial resources to keep all of us from going under—regardless of the politics of the privates, sergeants, generals and all the others who compose our armed forces?

THE $64 QUESTION

A few weeks ago, THE TIMES editorially urged a municipal playground for Prestonburg's children. And the suggestion met with wide approval.

The folks agreed that children of the town should not be robbed of the playtime hours which belong to them, that they should not be driven into the streets to dodge passing traffic while at their games or to annoy the aged and the ill whose laws they often invade for a lost ball or in pursuit of an elusive runner.

But—and there's the "rub"—the question was asked, "Where can a playground in Prestonburg be found large enough to accommodate the children of this community?"

That question, it occurs to THE TIMES, is one which should be asked of city officials, school authorities and civic groups.

THE TIMES begs some help in answering that question. Surely there is an answer.

Or shall we continue to let the children be victims of our inactivity?

Floyd Mound Star Joins Louisville In Training Camp

Ray Patton, Floyd county's candidate for big league baseball fame, left this week to report to the Louisville Colonels for spring training.

Last year, after spending the training season with the Colonels, Patton, a big right-hander, was optioned to Roanoke of the Piedmont league and was a mound star there. Joe Westinghouse of Boone, who had signed a 1944 Louisville contract as a catcher, has been inducted into the marine corps. Weddington was with Roanoke last year until he suffered an injury.

If Patton gains the control of his blazing fast ball that Louisville's Bill Burwell hopes for him, he is expected to see service with the Colonel's parent club, the Boston Red Sox, before the end of the season. Ray is 4-F in the draft.

While in training at City College, New York City, his team won the camp championship. He left there in February, just in time to hook up with a regimental team playing in an 18-team tourney at Trux Field, in the final contributed heavily to his team's victory. In the other three games of the meet he scored 12, 12 and 13 points.

His brother, Pvt. Johnny Helms, was continuing his basketball play recently at Keesler Field with the air forces. Both soldiers, sons of Mrs. F. L. Helms, made outstanding athletic records in school here.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

The other night Grandma Hoekins was showing her scrapbook of favorite quotations she's been collecting all these years.

"Let me show you one I especially like," Joe," she said.

I can't recall the author's name, but the quotation was like this: "Tolerance is the only real test of civilization."

Well, that's just like Grandma Hoekins. She's always believed in setting everyone live his own life in his own way. "So long as it's good and proper!"

From where I sit, Grandma Hoekins idea of tolerance and civilization surely works—judges from the fine, upstanding family she's raised.

Easter

Have You Wondered Why Easter Sunday Comes On Different Dates?

This year Easter falls on April 9, practically the center of the range of dates on which it may come. Last year it came on April 25, the last possible day, and gave many a buyer and merchandise manager quite a fit with their figures. The earliest possible date is March 22, which hasn't happened since 1818 and won't happen again in time for our contemporary buyers and merchandise men to worry about.

The principal reason we have so much trouble with Easter dates can be laid to early pilgrims to the Holy Land. They needed moonlight to travel, so the Nicene Creed, drawn up in 325, obligingly decided that Easter should thereafter be on the first Sunday after the Paschal full moon which happens on or after March 21.

This was okay for those early folk who still used the Hebrew lunar calendar under which the date always fell on the fourteenth day of Nisan, seventh month of the Jewish year. It was only after the Julian calendar was adopted universally that Easter started skipping around.

There have been several moves to bring Easter within the orderly scope of solar time, but all have been in vain. Principal among these was an act of the British Parliament provisionally determining that Easter should be designated as the first Sunday after the second Saturday in April, which would have minimized the range of variation to less than a week. This change was to await international consent, however, and it died for want of takers among the other nations.

The commercializing of Easter can by no means be laid solely to merchants through the centuries. Coincidentally, Easter portends the advent of spring and, therefore, is the logical time for a change in wardrobe. Hence, the tradition of wearing the newest and finest to church in honor of the day.

As a fashion event, the holiday has held up very well among the ladies. Of late, there has been a waning of its importance as a style date for men, who apparently don't give a hoot how they look in church.

THE WEEK IN OPA

Food Stamp Changes
Green stamps K, L and M in War Ration Book Three used for the purchase of processed foods, expired Monday, March 20.

Brown stamps Y and Z in War Ration Book Three used for the purchase of meats and fats, also expired Monday, March 20.

Beginning Tuesday, March 21, only blue stamps and blue tokens will be used in buying processed foods; only red stamps and red tokens will be used in buying meats and fats.

Five blue stamps for processed foods are good on the first of each calendar month and may be used for approximately 12 weeks. Three red stamps for meats and fats are good every two weeks and may be used from nine to 12 weeks, depending on the date of validation.

So far, red and blue stamps have been validated as follows: Red stamps AK, BL, CL, begin Feb. 27, and May 20; DE, ES, FS, begin March 12, end May 20; GH, HS, JS, begin March 26, end June 18. Blue stamps AS, BS, CS, DS, ES, begin Feb. 27, and May 20; FS, GS, JS, and KS begin April 1, end June 20.

Sugar Ration Unchanged
The consumer sugar ration will remain unchanged for the present. OPA has announced, but it is not known at this time whether it will eventually have to be cut. It will depend upon the shipping situation, and on the rate of consumer buying. In no case, says OPA, will the five-pound value of stamps 30 and 31 be reduced.

Sugar stamp 30 in Ration Book

Four will be good indefinitely. It will not expire on March 31, as was previously announced. Similarly, sugar stamp 31, which becomes valid for five pounds of sugar on April 1, will also be good for an indefinite period.

How to Endorse Coupons
Kentucky motorists who expect to receive new car license plates this spring should nevertheless put their old number on the gasoline ration coupons now in their possession, OPA says.

When the new 1944 numbers are issued, motorists may simply write the new number on the cover of their ration books; they will not be required to change the endorsement on the coupons themselves. Coupons endorsed with the old 1943 number will be acceptable at filling stations if the ration book cover carries both the old number endorsed on the coupons and the new number shown on the plates on the car.

Reduction in "A" Coupons
Effective March 22, a one-third cut in "A" gasoline coupons will be made. This will be brought about by making the valid period of those coupons three months rather than two months as previously allowed. The value of the coupons will remain three gallons and it will be necessary for the motorist to stretch his "A-11" coupons, which became valid on that date, over a period of three months, until June 22, 1944.

Food Store Survey
Several thousand food stores in the Lexington district were visited by War Price and Rationing Board employees and volunteer Price Panel associates during the first emergency survey which was conducted from March 13 to 18. The purpose of this survey was to educate retailers in the proper use of OPA price regulations and to determine if selling prices are being kept in line with OPA ceiling prices. Reports indicate that this preliminary survey was a complete success, although OPA workers encountered many difficulties, including bad weather conditions and other factors that hindered them in their work. The survey was not without its amusing angles. In one instance, a price clerk walked several miles over mountain roads to visit a store, only to find on arrival that the store had burned down several months ago.

A second emergency survey will be made during the week of April 3-8 to check up on violations found during the first survey.

Whisky Price Violations
In an effort to curtail the black market in whisky, a number of warrants have been obtained against retail dealers as a result of investigations conducted by the District OPA Enforcement Division. At the present time, hearings against eight individuals charged with violating whisky ceiling prices are pending. Indictments have been obtained against one wholesale concern and one retail firm. A number of other investigations are pending and may result in criminal prosecution in the future.

All these investigations have been made in connection with the assistance of the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit.

Children's Shoes, Ration-Free
Red Wilson, district director of the Office of Price Administration, announced this week that children's low-priced shoes in sizes 8 1/2 to 12, boys' shoes in sizes 12 1/2 to 3, and girls' shoes in sizes 12 1/2 to 3, may be sold ration-free to consumers for $1.80 a pair or less, between May 1 and May 20.

Ration currency cannot be recovered by dealers selling shoes under this release. Mr. Wilson said, Dealers may purchase this type of shoe ration-free from wholesalers at a price not to exceed $1.10 net invoice price between March 20 and April 29. This date precedes the starting date of dealer-to-consumer sales to allow dealers to take advantage of any shoes in these sizes to be purchased from suppliers. Dealers are requested to call the Lexington District OPA Office for further information.

'Free' Pork Slaughter Period Is Extended

The War Food Administration has extended indefinitely the period in which farmers may slaughter hogs and deliver pork to others without permit or license. Tom Bailey, Alkusa area supervisor of FDA's Office of Distribution, announced this week.

Restrictions on farm slaughter of hogs and delivery of pork were first suspended for a three-month period from Nov. 17, 1941, to Feb. 17, 1942. That period was later extended to March 17.

For Young Women (20-35)

Questions, Answers About the WAVES

Do WAVES get a regulation haircut when they arrive at the training school?
No. Members of the WAVES determine for themselves the style of haircut they want. The only regulation is that the hair shall not cover the coat collar.

Where is a girl sent after enlisting in the WAVES?
She goes to recruit school in New York City, for six weeks' indoctrination. Some WAVES are then sent to duty stations as soon as they complete this basic training. Others are sent to schools in Georgia, Florida, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Oklahoma or other places for specialized training.

Does the Navy provide transportation to the training school?
Yes, also assistance en route. How much civilian clothing should be taken to the training station? Enough for a week or two. As underwear, sleeping garments and stockings are not issued by the Navy, enough of these items should be packed to provide for a girl's needs until she wishes to replenish her supply.

Young women interested in joining the WAVES should write, telephone or call Naval Officer in Charge for a new Blue Book, "The Story of Sea in Blue."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, would you mind tellin' Charlie here what you told me the other night walkin' home from lodge. I can't word it just the way you did."

"Sure thing, Tim. Here's what I told him, Charlie. There's no such thing as votin' a nation, a state, a county, or even a community dry. We had proof enough of that during our 13 years of prohibition. What you really vote for is whether liquor is going to be sold legally or illegally... whether the community is going to get needed taxes for schools, hospitals, and the like, or whether this money is going to go to gangsters and bootleggers. That's the answer, boys... simple as A-B-C."

Their Needs Over There May Delay Your Getting Telephone Service Over Here

Here at home we have restrictions on telephone service, so that our men at the front may have what they need in telephone equipment.

BECAUSE metals and other communication materials are so badly needed in war, it is becoming more and more difficult for the telephone company to fill service requests.

When facilities are available, they must be employed first for essential users. Then, from any facilities remaining, others will be served in their regular order.

Everything possible is being done to lessen the effect of wartime restrictions on telephone service.

THE GARDEN

By JOHN S. GARDNER Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics

WHITE POTATOES—I Record kept at the Kentucky Experiment Station over many years has established the potato planting date as between March 15 and April 10, for Lexington's latitude.

Planted before, they sometimes come to grief through frozes, and, planted after, they often failed to make a full crop because the rains out or because the soil became too warm.

In some counties opposite the Tennessee line, the season is about two weeks earlier, and in those areas from Cincinnati, a week later.

Thus, there is no particular virtue in rushing the season, any time, and particularly in this year, when every ounce of effort and every cent's worth of seed and fertilizer should be expended wisely, to avert even a half-failure.

Ideal potato land is deep sandy loam, but gardeners generally must do with what they have, which is often light clay whose nature is to run together and bake. Such soils can be made to produce fine potatoes, given time. However, time is pressing. It is this year's potatoes on land as it is, that concerns us. But much may be done, even now.

As potatoes are over 90 per cent water and as it does not rain just when and as the crop needs moisture, the soil must be made spongy by adding plant fiber to rot.

The most obvious material is, of course, stable manure, and scarce as it is, some may be found, now. If it is horse manure, it should preferably be partly rotted, to avoid danger from scab, but turned under, even the few weeks until planting time give some opportunity for breaking down. Safe to use is mixed manure, but when cow manure is used, there is almost no risk of scab at all. The plowing should be 10 inches.

Another humus source is rotted straw or spoiled hay, not too easy to get, but still a possibility.

Another "woody dirt" leaf mold, scraped from under forest trees, though small potato patches could be so covered, but even a little would help.

Still another is the growth of weeds and crab grass that embarrasses even the best of gardeners last fall. Rather than burn this off, it should be turned under. True, its

(Continued from page one) more; it took too long." Then he added: "The ladies we make were never counted either. No job near where we went ever counted anything except dainties."

I was very lucky in more ways than one to get my brother in Australia where I spent eight months. His unit, a part of the Fifth Air Force which has a lot of our boys, had just left the combat zone for a brief rest. They were getting new ships, replacements and a chance to get the feet of their new "Thunder Birds" in peaceful skies before returning to New Guinea. At this time, my brother was barely 18, having entered the army air corps before he was 16.

The folks back there needn't worry about their young sons starting on the army's full ration, for my brother had grown so big and never have known him and is now the tallest member of the family.

Our mountain boys seem to make the best of soldiers, I noted that the commanders always picked them as gunners or put them in other key positions. When it comes to close shooting, they always call for a Kentucky. I could tell a lot of what is going on over there and the part some of our own boys are playing. But I only wanted to give you and possibly some of the other people of the county a small picture taken from the life of three Floyd county boys who serve our country.

I did my small part as it was assigned to me. Now, in a few days, I will be honorably discharged from the service. As I try to take up my life in the home county, I will be regretting that I left my friends on the front. The medical authorities have decided I am no longer fit for military service but my heart will be fighting with my brothers and the other men who are daily doing battle with those yellow rats in the sky.

Charles Cole of Martin, and my brother, Andrew J. Reed, have now been in action over there over two years. Their unit with their help has sunk many a Jap ship, bombed countless installations and has shot down dozens of Zeros. For these 25 months they have made it possible, by their own gun bores and being for our ships and troops to move about with greater freedom.

Now whenever I am where people have a tall story to tell of the war and great fighters, I can proudly come forward and do credit to our own state and county by telling how they have sunk many a Jap ship, bombed countless installations and has shot down dozens of Zeros. For these 25 months they have made it possible, by their own gun bores and being for our ships and troops to move about with greater freedom.
