(Continued from Page One) common school fund to increase salaries of teachers is being asked by school people. Kentucky Education Association action on proposals of its district branches is not expected until reports from all meetings are studied.

The resolution declared that "we stand united in our great fight for the children in Kentucky. In the event no measures are enacted which will supply the necessary funds, we will change our program of instruction to a program of adult education in which the teachers will send their pupils home February 11, while they work among the parents and legislators in order that they may assist their friends in the General Assembly to ward the final enactment of measures that will protect the educational rights of every Kentucky child. The physical facilities of the school are to be kept open and available while we are engaged in this endeavor."

The S.K.E.A. voted, in a resolution, which was prepared by the Association at a previous meeting, 749,729.25, to support the Kentucky Education Association tax program as suggested to the Legislature or raising the necessary funds, until a more constructive program is proposed by the General Assembly.

The K. E. A. proposed the following tax program be adopted to provide revenue: An increase in the tax on beer from $1.50 to $3.00 a barrel, estimated to yield $1,719,000.

It is understood that such taxes be earmarked for the common schools for the biennium 1950-52 only if the budget bill as finally enacted does not include the full appropriation of $34,500,000, or a supplementary budget is not adopted providing for additional appropriations for the common school fund each year of the biennium 1950-52.

The resolution pointed out that "Kentucky's children are the state's greatest assets and Kentucky's educational standards are among the lowest in the nation and that, although reasonable efforts have been made in the past, our standing in the nation still continues to show that more supplies from the state must be forthcoming if Kentucky's children are to enjoy their educational birthright."

Fire Damages Residence in West Prestonsburg Early Monday Morning

Fire early Monday morning damaged the residence occupied in West Prestonsburg by Ollie Burga, Jr., and family. There was no estimate of the loss.

A bed was destroyed and the building, owned by Mrs. Jane Harris, was damaged by water and smoke, though the flames were quickly brought under control by the fire department.

It was said that Mrs. Burga and baby were almost suffocated by smoke. The blaze started from the kitchen, where a curtain caught fire, it was reported.

Hazard Refuses To Pay Bills For Bond Issue

Hazard, Ky., Jan. 24—The City of Hazard has refused to pay the Bankers Bond Company of Louisville $23,251.25 for serving as fiscal agent in preparation of a bond issue which never was sold.

Action of Mayor M. E. Egan in turning down the bill and another for $6,250 submitted by Alfred Le Feber & Associates, Cincinnati, for preliminary work as engineer on the issue was approved by the Board of Commissioners.

The board, which went out of office the first of the year, authorized the $450,000 bond issue to finance a firehouse and improve the City Water system. The project went on the rocks when no acceptable bids were received on the first $100,000 worth of bonds. The new board reported the bond ordinance.

City Clerk Cannot Serve As City Tax Collector

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 23—A city clerk cannot serve as the city tax collector.

The opinion was given today by the attorney general's office under the signature of H. M. Meredith. The opinion said the council could name a tax collector or consolidate the offices of collector and treasurer.

The reply explained a statute permitting the clerk to collect taxes does not apply to third-class cities such as Corbin. Another opinion relating to duties of the city clerk was given to County Clerk Obed Cummings of Albany. Cummings was told the city clerk could not at the same time be a deputy county clerk. If the person takes the county job, he must vacate the city position, the opinion stated.

Church Groups Begin Study Course on Japan

The Women's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild of the Methodist Church, in joint-session with the Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church, began a mission-study course on Japan last Monday evening at the Methodist Church. The text being used is "Japan Begins Again" by Dr. William C. Kerr, for many years a missionary in Japan and Korea, who is now stationed in Tokyo.

An inspirational devotional service was led by Mrs. J. W. Sutherland, secretary of the Missionary Education and Service of the local Methodist Church. Mrs. Wm. Hugh Smith, class instructor, then lectured on the religion of Japan, after which she presented a radio ski introducing various Christian workers in Japan. Mesdames Peggy Spurlock, Eleanor Horn, Edith Kishpaugh, Hope Whitten and Ruth Worland took part.

Much interest was added to the study by a large exhibit of Japanese products brought by Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Shepherd. Mr. Shepherd was stationed in Japan for several months and gave much information on the country and the Japanese people. Tea and wafers were served to the 40 churchwomen present.

NOTICE

Automobile and truck owners should delay no longer in getting their new licenses. Because of the typing of certificates required under the new system installed by the Department of Revenue, issuance of motor vehicle licenses consumes much more time than heretofore, and it owners wait till the deadline many will have to suffer the inconvenience of standing in line or even a few days' delay.

4-Year-Old Boy Reminds Mother About Hadacol

Leslie S. Ladd, Jr., is only four years old but he knows his B vitamins and minerals and knows that he has his mother and his grandfather get those vitamins and minerals through HADACOL. "Mamma, we haven't taken our HADACOL today," Leslie, when his mother has forgotten Mrs. Ladd, who lives at 41 Cleveland Avenue, Nashville, Tenn., explained that her folk will always be a HADACOL family, not only because of little Leslie's reminder, but because of the doctor that HADACOL has done in relieving her of asthmatic disturbances, causing no appetite and bringing back color to little Leslie's pale cheeks and in making her father overcome the rheumatic pains of neuritis.

Mrs. Ladd and Leslie, Jr. "I have taken my HADACOL," Mrs. Ladd said. "I have been run down since my oldest son was born. I am 23 years old. I have had very little appetite and had weak spells every morning. I would almost faint, and, thanks to HADACOL, I am now as good as old and I stay hungry all the time. My four-year-old son has little appetite and bad checks were pale. He now takes HADACOL when I forget it he says, 'Mamma, we haven't taken our HADACOL.' His cheeks are rosy and he has a wonderful appetite. I also had headaches and

The winner of the essay contest was a Cherokee Indian, and to what he, the philosopher, is said to have written:
"Both pictures show white man crazy. Make big leech. Flow hill. Water weak. Wind blow out grass all gone. Squaw get, papoose, too. No chuckaway. No pig, nor corn, no hay, no cow, no pony. Indian no show land. Keep grass. Buffalo eat grass. Indian get buffalo. Hide make tepee, moccasins, too. Indian no make terrace. No build dam. No give dam. All time eat. No hunt job. No hitchhike. No ask relief. No shoot pig. Great Spirit make grass. Indian no waste anything. Indian no work. White man keep crazy."

WED BE AN IMPROVEMENT
I don't look upon this liquor control bill authored in the Senate by Senator Dick Hays and in the House by Representative Robert Hayes, of this county, as either "wet" or "dry," especially so, when I recall that the boys and girls hold no brief for it. This appears simply to be a piece of legislation designed to place the business of handling liquor, wherever it is legal, in the hands of the state, with the matter of individual profit taken out of it. It doesn't make any dog country wet. I don't think the profits 25 per cent would be paid into the common school fund.

FROM "LIFE IN THESE UNITED STATES"
I wish to extend our thanks and express our appreciation to our friends for their help and sympathy upon the death of our loved one, Morton Allen. We also wish to thank the ministers, the Bess, S. C. Hunsplinger, L. B. Price and A. J. Moore, for their comforting words; and the pallbearers, the group of students from Maytown high school and the Ryan Funeral Home.

Friday, Saturday To See Conference Net Finals

Final eliminations of the Big Sandy Conference tournament, slated at Pikeville Friday and Saturday, will bring together, Martin and Flat Gap, winner and runner-up, respectively, of the north sectional play at Martin, and Betty Layne and Betty, who will, likewise, represent the south sectional at Pikeville.

Martin's Purple Flash earned its way into the last round of the "north" eliminations in Betty fought victory over Meade Memorial, 49-47, in the Tuesday night semifinal of their sectional. Meade's Red Devils had beaten the Flash in two previous encounters during regular season play.

After spotting Martin a substantial first half lead, the Red Devils rallied, right up to the last few seconds, to make their record three full Greyhounds, though misting numerous shots under the basket, controlled the rebounds and had little trouble with their blue-and-white rival opponents.

In one of the Monday opening rounds, Martin dismissed the Paintsville Tigers, 69-55, from tournament competition with McCarty tabbing 26 points, Lafferty 15, Griskey 12 and Bob Taylor 10 in the Flasher front-court scoring.

Oil Springs upset Wheelwright, 62-52, in another Monday round. Trumbo with 19 points, Pace 17 and Wheeler 10 paced Oil Springs. Curry got 17, Hooks 16 and Gibson 12 points to lead the Maroons.

Fat Gap won handily over the Van Lear Bank Mules, 61-40, Monday night despite the scoring efforts of Hall, Van Lee guard who netted 18 points, Hamilton and Comley scored 17 points each for the Greyhounds.

Meade Memorial initiated itself into tournament play Monday night by blistering the Prestonsburg Blackcats, 75-59, as Al White, the red devil high-scoring guard, racked up 40 points, a total which surrounded the total scoring of the Prestonsburg team.

South sectional semi-finals at Pikeville Tuesday night, saw Betty Layne, the favorite of that area,

Is the Little Red School Gone?

BY PALMER J. HALL
Supt. Floyd County Schools

To many people in the United States the little one-room school is like the Indian, a vanishing American institution. It is true that a great part of our American boys and girls get their education today in school buildings that house several hundred children, under the tutelage of a number of teachers.

But a recent survey shows that there are still 78,000 one-teacher schools in our nation, ranging from 26 in Rhode Island to over 2,600 in Illinois.

In Kentucky approximately 163,000 children catch a school bus each morning to ride to a larger school; yet approximately 100,000 Kentucky boys and girls march into 5,327 "little schools" where they address the school's principal, teacher, janitor, secretary, five or more at the same time when they hear "Good morning, Good-bye" to mention all the others.

Of these 5,327 schools, 3,127 attend the two, three and four teacher schools without the aid of a bus.

In 1929-30 Kentucky had 5,741 of these one-teacher schools. Five years later the number had dropped to 5,327 while in 1949-50 out of a total of 5,325 schools, 3,127 are one-teacher schools.

Only six of the 120 counties have only one-teacher schools while 12 counties have only one and seven have only two. Twenty-five others have less than ten one-teacher schools but there are 25 counties with 50 or more with Pulaski showing the greatest number, a total of 198.

In our own county of Floyd, we know that while there will be a gradual elimination of the one-teacher school by consolidating it with a larger school or by adding a teacher or two, the one-teacher school in Kentucky is "here to stay" for many years yet.

We, then, should concern ourselves with the kind of teacher required for the one-teacher school and the kind of teacher available and used in this school. The one-teacher school, for instance, must be 80 teachers piled into one for the school's best eight grades an average of at least ten subjects or courses each, she can not be a specialist in each of these grade subjects. But if she is to be a good teacher in her school she must be a specialist—a master, in the art of combining, consolidating, coordinating, alternating and organizing in order to make the best use of the six hours she has to give to her charges. A much higher degree of skill and training is required.

DEER MAY NOT AGREE—BUT THERE CAN BE TOO MANY DEER FOR THE GOOD OF DEER!

The public has been slow to accept the hard fact that there can be such a thing as too many deer. Many people do not understand that surplus deer are doomed to the early and untimely death if they are not taken by hunters. They use of starvation or the complications of malnutrition. When game technicians advocated a more liberal hunting season to reduce dangerously large herds, they are likely to be greeted with incredulity and scorn.

Just about every conceivable method has been tried to check overpopulation without killing the deer as readily as James B. Trotter of the Wildlife Management Institute. Dividing the animals from their overpopulated winter range is impossible. Artificial feeding, a popular method which receives much publicity, is at best expensive and at worst disastrous in its effect. It is now little more than a relief valve for the most critical short-term emergencies created by severe storms.

Live-trapping and removal of deer by underpopulated ranges has proved satisfactory for restocking but of little use in reducing the capacity of the range deer alone will not suffice. Valuable young fawns are destroyed by concentrations of hungry deer as effectively as by fire, and much cost without cover for wild turkeys, grouse and other game species is ruined.

In the short span of 25 years, wild-tailed deer have more than quadrupled their numbers. As deer populations increase, the animals invade farmlands in search of food, and farmers are forced to spend large sums for fencing to protect gardens and orchards. Crop damage by deer is becoming an increasing problem in many states. The only safe approach to these problems is to regard the deer as a pest. It takes a little more time to require thinning by harvest to prevent serious surpluses. Although there may never be enough whitetails in a state to satisfy all hunters, nature lovers and chambers of commerce the fact remains that there can be too many deer for the good of the deer.

Well, come with me to a public eating house. It's all the same, but we'll try the Pink Lady Tea Room, a neat little place with red-checked tablecloths and red-checked waitresses. The time is noon and I am hungry for a plain ham sandwich.

I enter. I select a stool at the end of the counter. A waitress gives me a menu, a glass of water, and a businesslike smile. Everything fine so far, you see. Then I order: "A plain ham sandwich and a glass of milk, please." "Plain ham?" she says in some alarm. "You mean without—?" "Uh-huh," I reply, "without without sauce and mayonnaise. No lettuce! No dressings?" "Yes, please." "They don't cost no extra, mister." "I know just a plain ham sandwich for the good of the deer."

"No." "You mean you want it just plain, without—?" "Yes, plain, without. Without lettuce, without mayonnaise, without pickle. Without tomato. Without mustard. Just bread, ham, and bread," in that order, please.

She looks hurt. "I'll see if we got any of the other plate upon which respects a dark brown object. 'I had no in the grocery for it," she explains. "We didn't have a slice of pie in the place!"

Can anybody tell me where I might get a plain ham sandwich, no questions asked?

At the time of the death of a family's breadwinner, many problems are presented immediately. The solution of those problems, which are financial in nature, requires money, cash on the barrel-head—right now!

Many families are unable to meet the sudden demand for cash when a member dies, and are forced to go in debt. But the practical way to provide for that emergency need is to save through life insurance.

Can I help it if it happens to be a plain-ham sandwich man? I like ham sandwiches, and I like them that way: plain. None of the silly "frills" between-and-between stuff—just plain old sandwiches for plain old me. I ask you, is this too much for which to ask? No, you say.

CATS DEFEAT BLACK DEVIL FIVE, 38-36
BOTH BELOW PAR

The Prestonsburg high school Blackcats handed the Carret Black Devils a 38 to 36 setback here Friday night in a disappointing performance on the part of both teams.

Neither team played the brand of ball of which each is wholly capable. The Friday night play is not to be held a criterion of what either team is liable to do in the payoff performance of tournament play. It did, however, clearly demonstrate the fact that high school basketball is a game full of surprises.

Although scoring of the two teams was comparatively light, the floor play was close and hard-fought to the extent that scoring was also checked throughout the contest. Carret led Prestonsburg 10 to eight at the end of the first quarter. Prestonsburg picked up sufficient gain in the second quarter to lead, 19-12, at the end of the second quarter. A foul shooting provided the difference between the two teams. Prestonsburg hit 10 of 15 free throws attempted. Carret hit eight of 14. Both teams hit 14 field goals each.

For Prestonsburg it was a continuation of their offensive play at Fayetteville which cost them their victory over the Tigers after last week's brilliant triumph over the highly-rated Ties Indians.

The Carret Black Devils set back the game was a setback on the Black Devils' scintillating comeback trail which had witnessed a five-week streak of victories over two of the strong teams of the 15th region, Wayland and Meade Memorial.

The Black Devils showed their power by taking both on successive nights, Friday and Saturday, of last week.

Past performances of both teams present their fans with suffering of shaken faith in their respective favorite. Loyal supporters anticipate coming tournament tests despite the Friday night display.

Loses to Wheelwright

McDowell Ky., Jan. 24 (Sp.)—The McDowell high school Daredevils won two of their three titles during the past week.

Friday night, Jan. 17, as Wheelwright, the McDowell team suffered a setback at the hands of the evening Maroons who won 49-39. Wheelwright was "really up" for this game seeking revenge for an earlier defeat at the hands of the Daredevils. They did just that by noing out McDowell in a thrilling finish.

The Daredevils quitted enjoying a 1-point lead at official timeout but couldn't hang onto the lead margin. Wheelwright's R. Curry with 15 points and McDowell's P. Honson with 12 led the way.

On Thursday night, Jan. 19, the Daredevils traveled to Pikeville to step into the win column. They comfortably trimmed the Pikeville College Academy Cubs 55-45, in a regular game.

They took an early lead and held it throughout the contest with the Cubs never offering a very serious threat. H. Newsome, Daredevil basketball guard, slugged 29 points through the nets for McDowell.

The Daredevils entertained the Olive Hill Comets at McDowell, Saturday, and won, 50-47. McDowell accumulated a 10-point lead at the half time. The Olive Hill lads made a gallant comeback to within three points of McDowell as the final whistle blew.

H. Newsome hit the nets for a total of 18 points for McDowell. Blivins led Olive Hill with 21 points. F. Frazer and F. Stevens, two of the future stars at McDowell, made their debut in this game. They responded well as Frazer tracked up six points while Stevens, a freshman, got two points.

Timber To Be Sold Scientifically Selected

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 25.—(Sp.)—Scientific forestry has been used in the selection of 400,000 board feet of timber to be sold from the Kentucky Ridge State Forest in Bell county, H. B. Newland, state forester, said today.

During the past 10 years these practices have resulted in the removal and sales of 4,000,000 board feet of mature, deformed or damaged timber thus having room for faster growing, more valuable trees. The tree growth rate on the forest has been doubled, Newland added.

In announcing this sale, Newland said that the stumpage will be sold on a sealed bid basis and the award will be made to the highest responsible bidder.

"It will be necessary that all bidders indicate their good intentions by enclosing a check in the amount of $1,000 with their sealed bids. The check should be drawn in favor of the Kentucky Division of Forestry. Unsuccessful bidders' checks will be returned to respective owners immediately after the award is made," the State Forester said.

Some of the species included are white oak, yellow poplar, mixed oak, hickory, pine, beech, maple, gum and others.

A bonded inspection of the sale area will be made on January 27, under the supervision of H. Nadler, superintendent of State Forests and Timber Management. Interested persons will meet at the Kentucky Ridge Forest office in Pineville at 9 a. m. (EST). Those who cannot meet this inspection date and wish to examine the area at another date should contact Mr. Nadler.

We take the Woes and Worries out of Weather

ONE of the grandest things about your Buick is the way you can ignore the season—chew your way through gravel and dust alike, splash through the wet stretches, snug and secure even on slippery pavements.

But bear this one thought in mind...

Rough road conditions call for special attention to your lubricants. Tires should be checked for correct inflation—for deep, clean tread that bites on a slick surface. Brakes won't stop you, with a sure and gentle touch if the master cylinder needs more fluid, or if an air-bubble has worked itself into the line. These things, and more, should be checked to keep your Buick at its best.

If that sounds like more than one thought to bear in mind—just drive into our shop and tell the man, "LUBRICARE, please."

Our winter Lubricare treatment covers all these points—with specially trained mechanics following factory specifications as they go over your car from end to end.

Drive in this week, why don't you? The price is surprisingly low. The peace of mind is priceless.

Kentucky Mountaineer Traits Found In Old Court Records

(Kentucky mountain feuds, the mountaineer's independence and belligerence and his lawsuits on those occasions when he did resort to civil rather than drastic action, are traditional in this article, one of a series, Henry P. Scalp shows by actual court records and historical data whence came those traits of ours. Editor.)

BY HENRY P. SCALP

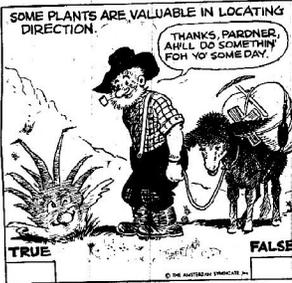

Augusta county, Virginia, was organized in 1745 and its original jurisdiction embraced all of Virginia west of the Blue Ridge with the exception of a vast grant called the Northern Neck Grant, the whole of the present West Virginia, a large segment of western Pennsylvania and all the lands claimed by Virginia on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. The most of this vast area was an unpopulated wilderness but over it, settling on the choicest bottoms, was the nucleus of an over-flowing population that people of Kentucky. It was essentially a Scotchdraming the court and swearing 4 oaths in their presence." Aug. 21, 1745: John Burdick and John Leitch ordered immediately before the court for disturbing it while sitting. Same date as above: "Gabriel Jones adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor in giving his evidence." Aug. 19, 1747: "Thos. Gardner ordered arrested and committed to the county house. Stephen Holdston same." Sept. 17, 1747: "Samuel Wilkins committed of selling and stalling without a license in a booth or stall at the court house."

It would be wearisome to retrace all of the entries recording disputes for constitutional authority as shown on the official record. The above must suffice. The court had its jury troubles, too. The jury would receive a charge, and with Calhoun (Coburn) taking admission to refrain from talking with any person other than a juror until called to the stand, a juror retired to a room, some jurors, even at times two or three, would jump through the window and about the courtyard and their friends who were usually talking horses, Indians or "cussing" the king.

On Nov. 21, 1753 began a most interesting court trial and since the principals involved were probably ancestors of people today in Floyd county, the case is followed through the several entries. The first entry: "An oath of James Patton vs. James Calhoun (Coburn) and the jury returned into court unable to agree and asked to be discharged, having been four days in retirement, but the plaintiffs continued further and if they could not agree, then to return next court."

Here we have no inkling from the abstract as to the cause of the controversy and it is only in the case do we know why Patton and Calhoun were at law. "The next entry is March 23, 1753. For the abstract follows: "James Patton vs. James Calhoun. The jury impasse and unable to agree at last term being called, the jurors on one of them not being present, is fined. Defendant's Attorney moved the court to dismiss the jury and empanel a new one, but plaintiff, in person, objected, and court was of opinion that the case be continued, and the same jury try the issue."

It is easy to see that Patton had a "hung" jury and, perhaps realizing that this kind of "verdict" was the best that would come out of the case for him, was attempting to keep them on the case, a hopelessly vain judgment, anyone and as Patton was one of the gentlemen justices and also, perhaps, sheriff at this time, he may have planted a close friend on it.

May 22, 1753, Abstract of entry. "Patton vs. Calhoun. Jurors failing to appear, he was summoned to next court. From now on there are various entries in the case. The jurors being hopelessly deadlocked, they were ordered to discharge them, were in a fighting mood. Some of them may have lived great distances from court and a few of them, seen that they had no way to get a verdict or discharge, decided to seek relief from the general court at Williamsburg. It was a great distance to Williamsburg, but some member of the jury went there and sought relief against the lower court. On Aug. 18, 1753, a mandamus was issued from the General Court to county court requiring it to dismiss the jury in the case. The county court having no alternative, did so, but continued the case. Soon after, the county court, thinking that since the General Court had intervened and discharged the jury, it would be as well if the General Court tried it, so the case was handed over to it. The General Court, so promptly handed it back to the county court.

On May 20, 1754, arbitration was decided upon and here again we see the deft hand of James Patton. The case was submitted to arbitration and as the Patton arbitrators must have had their orders from him. A compromise was arranged. It is only now, from the meager abstracts that we know the cause of this untitled law suit. "Patton vs. Calhoun, contracted for 2 patents to Calhoun, contracted when there was no fee to the Governor for signing the patents. Before patents were delivered, law was enacted giving Calhoun a fee. Patton charged this to Calhoun. Award is that each pay for the other's patent. As a sort of climax to this case Patton later charged Calhoun with slander. "James Patton vs. James Calhoun—Slander. Calhoun said in 1750 Patton had made over all his estate to his children, to defraud his creditors and Patton had no title to the lands he offered for sale on Roanoke and New Rivers. Mandamus issued requiring court to dismiss the jury from entering a verdict."

The last sentence indicates that General Court had again intervened to dismiss a jury. For the data in the above article, the writer is chiefly indebted to Chalkey's "Records of Augusta County, 1745-1800," Vol. 13.

What of Other 'Surrenders'?
The Courier-Journal expresses no inconsiderable concern about the loss of a fundamental right if, as the Attorney General's office surmises, roadside operators in this county may legally waive their constitutional rights and submit to search of their premises without the formality of a search warrant.
The Times hopes Governor Clements will not find the decision-time services to this or that candidate or political party. It did not look for the immediate dawn of the Millennium, but it did see hope of a better government, improvement in the public payroll by holding onto their jobs through meritorious service, regardless of election-time services to this or that candidate or political party. It did not look for the immediate dawn of the Millennium, but it did see hope of a better government, improvement in the public payroll by holding onto their jobs through meritorious service, regardless of election-time services to this or that candidate or political party. It did not look for the immediate dawn of the Millennium, but it did see hope of a better government, improvement in the public payroll by holding onto their jobs through meritorious service, regardless of election-time services to this or that candidate or political party.

There is merit in this newspaper's argument against curtailment of any of our basic rights. But this right, waived by the operator of a roadside in order to procure license from the county appears to us no greater than others so long ago, surrendered that they are ceased to be considered such. And so it would seem that the Courier-Journal is singling out for editorial target practice an item of legal procedure designed to maintain law and order while forgetting other instances wherein "sacred rights" are unconditionally surrendered.
Does not the operator of a legal whiskey store, in procuring his license, open his doors and his records at any time to the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board? Isn't the same right surrendered there as is asked by the Floyd county court of those seeking license to operate a roadhouse?
If a murderer takes refuge in a home, must a search warrant be procured by authorities before he can be dislodged, therefrom? Is it not being done.
At any port of entry to these United States, the home of freedom and protector of individual liberties, the private belongings of any person, whether an American citizen or a visitor from foreign shores, are seized and searched, if that citizen were bringing an automobile into this country, it must be searched also—and Constitutional rights go hang!

As for the waiving of personal rights, we cite the rights of a fugitive from justice. If he is captured in, say, neighboring Indiana, he has a right to fight against extradition. He may demand a hearing, or, if he chooses to do so, he may waive his rights in the matter.
The history of this country is not clear of the record of surrender of rights.
The Times wants no further surrender of individual rights. But while we're about it, if there is to be any surrendering done let it be with the definite purpose in mind of giving consensual authority in the enforcement of the law.

Has the Governor Retreated?
NOT long ago, Governor Clements was reported as planning a fight to install in Kentucky a merit system for state employees, thus making a clean break with traditional politics, Kentucky style.
The Times hailed this indication of daring, progressive leadership on the Governor's part. It expressed a happy anticipation of the day when women and men would find some security on the public payroll by holding onto their jobs through meritorious service, regardless of election-time services to this or that candidate or political party. It did not look for the immediate dawn of the Millennium, but it did see hope of a better government, improvement in the public payroll by holding onto their jobs through meritorious service, regardless of election-time services to this or that candidate or political party.

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of my niece, Mary Lou Fawin, who died Dec. 25, 1945:
How sad it seems in all our dreams
The memory of the day.
When death did come and steal the breath
Of our dear loved one on that day,
Oh what could heal the grief we feel,
For hopes had come no more.
Had we never heard the Bible read
Not just but gone before,
Our eyes awake for her dear sake
Our own with tears grow dim,
And faint records of doing words
Are changed for heavens sweet hymn.
Oh! There at last
When lifes trials are past,
We will meet her on Heaven's shore.
We will meet her on Heaven's shore.

Devil

Relph Edwards is the devilish guitarist on his "Truth or Consequences" program on WLW-NBC Saturdays at 8:30 p.m., EST.

He balanced their books with an overtime upset victory over the Wapsis 61-58, at Wayland on Saturday night, Jan. 14.

Garrett was leading at the half-10, 28-25. But the third quarter saw Wayland put on a scoring spurge that carried the Wapsis, at one stage of the game, to a 14-point advantage. Garrett rebounded and closed the gap at official time timeout to one point with Wayland leading, 55-54. A foul by Wayland read the score at 56-54. Prater or Garrett tied the count, 58-56. The scoring of Duff and Meade in the overtime put Garrett safe.

Friday night, Jan. 13, the Devils had a hard tussle with Meade Memorial at Garrett before winning, 52-48.

White, of Meade, stole the ball in the last four seconds of the game, dribbled the whole length of the floor and scored twice to almost overcome Garrett. He was high point man with 30 points.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

By Ewing Galloway

In Irvington one civic development leads to another. Two years ago the municipality bought the cemetery, which was veritable jungle and without a road possible in bad weather. As I reported a year ago, civic leaders set out to raise $2,000 and got over $4,000. Later half a dozen other improvement jobs were done.

But this story takes us back to that cemetery. This year the Cemetery Association hired a full-time caretaker and, with the city paying half the bill, bought a midget tractor or with a power mower and a bulldozer blade. Formerly owners of vacant lots in Irvington had to hire pick-up laborers to cut the weeds. The weeds were cut at all. Now the community tractor mowers barbers vacant lots and lawns for two dollars an hour. The bulldozer is used to fill ruts in the streets. It even levels off budding lots if the jobs are not too heavy.

People driving through Warsaw on U. S. 42, stop to admire the Gallatin County court house. All because of a first-rate paint job. The building was something for the town and county to apologize for until a few months ago, a retired high school teacher suggested to the town that they let him paint it white. I'm going to write a full-length column about Warsaw and Gallatin County in the near future.

Speaking of pretty things to look at, I have been back here in Henderson County thirteen years, and it was only last week that I discovered Dan 49, two miles from the Ohio River. Old trees, plus fine landscaping, the grouping of buildings, make Dan 49 the number two scenic beauty in West Kentucky, the top attraction down this way being Kentucky Dam.

Conservation commissioner Henry Ward assured me last spring that roadside signs directing tourists to Kentucky Dam would be put up in the near future. Thus far signs have been put up—none over the western end of the state. Some Indiana acquaintances told me the other day that they got lost in side roads trying to reach the dam. The best way to reach the dam over most of the main roads is by way of Paducah. Route 68, coming in from the east, is an exception.

Yes, people from other states are still getting lost trying to reach Kentucky's greatest man-made wonder.

Large advertisement for the 1950 Ford. Features a central image of a Ford car, large text '50 WAYS NEW FOR', and 'TEST DRIVE' the '50 FORD at your FORD DEALER'S NOW!'. And now, too, you ride in a quiet, sound-conditioned interior—so silent you can hear scarcely a sound—even at sixty. And this 50-way new Ford brings you that wonderful Ford "feel"—more comfortable and softer than ever, with its low level "Mid Ship" Ride . . . 13-way stronger "LifeGuard" Body . . . 35% under-cutting King-Side Brakes . . . and the many, many other advanced features which make Ford the one fine car in the low-price field.'
