IT'S A GOOD WORLD
BY WILMA Y

When former Congressman A. J. May finished his splendid address on World Peace before the Maytown P.T.A. Tuesday night, he presented the Maytown school a framed copy of The American's Creed, which had been in his office 20 years. Maytown Professor Turner requested to autograph the Creed.

Made any New Year's resolutions? It is not a bad idea if you take inventory later to see just how many are keeping. One male and one female have more value than dozens made and broken.

Many persons are anxious for an inside view of the new residence just completed atop the hill between the twin bridges in Martin, formerly the property of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Marshall.

If you want to see about the healthiest looking collection of African violets possible call on Mrs. Howard Ramey, of Maytown. Visitors wonder whether she has the proverbial "green thumb" or some secret formula for soil mixture.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Allen, of Martin, bought the former property of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Marshall and are moving this month, with their four-year-old twin daughters, Kay and Anne. Only the best people have moved this month, with their four-year-old twin daughters, Kay and Anne. Only the best people have moved this month, with their four-year-old twin daughters, Kay and Anne.

It called to mind the girl whom yesterday who adopted a little boy after having a childless home for five years. "Babies need a home" is a social worker told her. "Yes, but babies need babies," Dorothy Holliday replied. When Jimmie was five the Hallidays were blessed with a little son, Earl, Junior, and more recently a daughter, Betty Jane.

When Mrs. Charles Hender, of Warco, had to see a Huntington specialist recently and found none of the regular drivers available that day, Mrs. Chris Setzer, who has only been driving two or three months volunteered in good-neighbor fashion. The women pulled out for the first time in the driver's seat on a previous acquaintance. Loud and long were the men's predictions. Everything was smooth as velvet. What's more, the girls did not park the car on the outskirts and walk in.

Former Floyd Sheriff Witness in Letcher

Jenkins, Ky., Jan. 6—When they were reacting for the trial in circuit court at Whitesburg of Robert Blair, Jr., former Letcher county deputy sheriff, it was found that Troy B. Sturgill, Prestonsburg, was an important witness and proceedings were delayed pending the summoning of Sturgill at his home in Prestonsburg.

Blair is charged with malfeasance in office. It is charged that he accepted about $15, several times the correct fee, from Sherman Baker, Whitesburg merchant, for executing two papers.

Instead Baker alleges that the papers were never served, and that Blair refused politely to refund his money. An indictment followed by the grand jury charging the officer with malfeasance in office.

Campbell Is Named To Succeed Cassidy As Division Leader

L. C. Campbell, vice president, Eastern Gas and Fuel Association, was appointed as the new chairman of the Coal Division of the American Mining Congress by the organization's Board of Directors at its recent meeting.

Campbell succeeds S. M. Cassidy, president, Consolidation Coal Co. (Ky.), Jenkins, Ky., who has held the chairmanship for the past two years. Cassidy will continue as a member of the Advisory Council of the AMC Coal Division.

In accepting the chairmanship of the AMC Coal Division, Campbell declared: "There can be little doubt in the mind of any clear-thinking American that our industrial machine must be put in high gear in the defense of the United States. World War II saw the defense on the mainland and islands, in the air and on the sea, on far-flung frontiers. This new defense of America and its ideals in 1951 may well be on our own shores and in our own skies."

"Coal will have an unbelievably important part in the making of new forms of machinery to fabricate that steel, and the driving of transportation to get it where it is most needed. America can be thankful that it has the coal, the men, the machines, and the management to quickly answer the call for power to do this job."

Injured Woman Not Resident of P'Burg, Inquiry Here Shows

Inquiry here failed to identify the Mrs. C. F. Ford, 69 years old, whose injury was reported in the collision of a bus and taxicab at Wooten, six miles east of Hyden, Friday when a woman passenger in the cab was killed and 10 others were injured. Her address was given as Prestonsburg.

State police identified the woman who was killed as Mrs. Golden Roberts, about 35, mother of four children. Her husband, Golden Roberts, 45, an employee of the State Highway Department, suffered serious head injuries. The couple lived at Hyden.

Also injured seriously was Quintan Sildham, 25, Hyden, identified by state police as driver of the cab. State officers said it was loaded with seven passengers.

A MOTHER WRITES . . . A few years ago during World War II, Mrs. Virginia Mullins, of Garrett, received word that her son, a member of the 1st Marine Corps in the South Pacific. Last week, she saw another son leave home, a volunteer in the same branch of service.

After he had gone, she wrote these lines, which she calls "Moon," but which could as appropriately be entitled, "Courage":

I watch her as she prepares her son's last meal before he leaves for the Marines, trying to be brave. With shoulders slumped, head bowed, and eyes red from crying, she walks from room to room. Now she sits . . . so still, without moving a muscle. Is she thinking of another time, another son?—Another killed on an island in the South Pacific? It all seems such a short time ago, and now another son is going, and she is smiling and smiling and she is a Leatherneck and protect his country and the people and the life he loves. An awful does she say about that? Not—"Why does it have to be my son?" But—"Be a good boy and don't get disgusted when the going is tough."

Not—"I hate these Russians." But—"God give me strength."

Not—"I hate their guns."

Not—"Doesn't that President know anything?"

But—"If you need anything, son, write for it."

No, she doesn't curse the Russians, talk about our President, or feel sorry for herself—she accepts it, and knows that, regardless of how many lives are lost—how many mothers' hearts are broken—it is worth it. She knows that what her son fights for—die for—is right! She knows that we will win—the matter has tugged it gets. We will win—because we are fighting for the most precious thing a person could have: Freedom!

Freedom to worship as we please. Freedom to speak as we feel. Freedom to stand up for what we believe to be right—what we know is right.

We will win, because God is on our side—we are His people and Mom says He will take care of us.

Angered by Church-Going; Pike Man Kills Wife, Son

Former Bonanza Man Train Victim Sunday Near Caststown, Ohio

Plymouth relatives have been notified that William T. Shell, 54 years old, former Bonanza man, was struck and instantly killed Sunday afternoon near Caststown, O., by a Norfolk & Western train.

Mr. Shell, who resided at Christiansburg, O., near Fronton, had taken a truck load of potatoes to West Virginia and was returning home with a load of coal when the tragedy occurred. Parking his truck near the railroad, he was walking across the tracks to a nearby store when the train bore down on him.

Funerary rites were conducted at Christiansburg today (Thursday).

Sherriff Conway quoted him as saying an argument resulted after breakfast, the morning when he learned the family had gone to church again last night.

The statement continued: "I told my biggest boy (Sturgill) to get down and keep quiet, and he told me to make him. He drew back with an iron poker, and I got up with a .28-caliber pistol. Somebody hit me in the back. I don't know who it was."

Mr. Conway said a murder charge would be filed and presented to the grand jury now in session.

At the house, located in Pike county near the Virginia border, about 20 miles southeast of here, officers found the bodies of Mrs. Gynthia Cochran, 51, and Sturgill Cochran, 23, nearly half mile by side on a bed.

Cochran had tied a red handkerchief around each of their heads—underneath the chin over the eyes. Officers said it was an old mountain custom, used to keep the mouths of the dead from opening.

Another son, Chester Cochran, 19, was in critical condition in a hospital at Grundy, Va., and a daughter, Sarah Cochran, 14, was treated for a flesh wound in the arm.

Three other of Cochran's children, Bonanno Cochran, 16, and William and Ella Cochran, 11-year-old twins, witnessed the shootings but escaped unhurt.

At Pike county jail where he was held on an open charge, Cochran said in a statement that he returned over the week-end from a job in Ohio and learned that his family had taken to going to church at night.

Jest Among Us...
By Jack Wild

Kentucky is a state of nice places and nice places. There's a hill and a valley to the number of villages in Kentucky towns, but unfortunately the prettiest names belong to villages little known beyond their own boundaries. Here are a dozen such that especially appeal to me.

Blue River, Meigs county, Burning Springs (Ch.). Falls of Rough (Waynes). Fancy Farm (Graves). Maple Mount (Davies). Maryfield (Laurel). Morning View (Kenton). Summer Shade (Meade). Swan Lake (Knox). Valley View (Madison). White Rose (Taylor). Yellow Mountain (Knox). Of them all, I believe I like Morning View best, for the cool freshness of it.

For what is believed to be the first time in the history of the University of Kentucky, three parents are U.-K. students along with their children. The father and two mothers—a principal, a teacher, and a housewife—are enrolled in the University's Mother Extension Center in Covington. Their children are students in the Colleges of Commerce, Arts and Sciences, and Education. Which piques the question, when all the family goes to school who helps whom with whose lessons?

THOUGHTS AND THINGS

Whitley county and Williamsburg were named for William Whitley, whose home near Stanford was the first Kentucky house built of bricks and who was one of several men claiming to have killed Pontenash, the Indian chief. "It's a crying shame, or thereabouts, that what has happened at London, Kentucky, hasn't been carbon-copied by other cities, large and small, all across Kentucky." So says the attractive new booklet put out by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce on the improvement program undertaken by Laurel county's chief city, and I believe all progressive citizens will agree that a fine job has been done there. Some folks tell you, with a perfectly straight face, that the big atomic bomb plant there will make Paducah a "boom" town.

While we are not building "mouse traps," we are building better new tires from old ones.
We invite you to call, inspect our modern plant, see the high class work and materials that go into your tires at as reasonable prices as possible.
Due to increased government demand for rubber, rayon and cotton, vital materials used in the manufacture of tires, new tires will become scarcer.

Big Homecoming Crowd Sees Bob Cats Triumph; Miss Hall Named Queen

Betsy Layne, Ky., Jan. 8 (Sp.)—The second largest crowd in the history of Betsy Layne high school attended the homecoming game Saturday night, December 22. It was a battle all the way between the Battling Bob Cats and the Virginia Eagles until the last quarter when the Cats pulled away to win by 14 points. One hundred seven old grads attended the game. Mrs. Carlisle A. Crum was the only representative of the class of '30. None attended from the class of '31, but Willie Prasure of Amba, and Mrs. Regina Daniels, of Harold, represented the class of '30. None attended from the class of '31, but Willie Prasure of Amba, and Mrs. Regina Daniels, of Harold, represented the class of '30. None attended from the class of '31, but Willie Prasure of Amba, and Mrs. Regina Daniels, of Harold, represented the class of '30.

Miss Sproule Hall, of the present Senior Class, was crowned Homecoming Queen by Frankie Crum, captain of the team. Gordon Clarke presented her a bouquet of roses. The game saw the school resume the practice of allowing men to attend uniform free admission. This practice was kept up by Betsy Layne high school during World War II. Local boys who are former students and graduates are also invited to see the last game prior to their induction into the armed forces, free of charge.

The Betsy Layne "B" team, commonly known as "The Pooleys," are establishing a very good record this year, having won 10 of their 15 games. Their last two victories were Friday and Saturday nights when they defeated Betty "B" 27-10 and 64-24, and Maytown on Saturday, 45-17. Carl Jones scored in the '32 games 25 and 18 points respectively, while Dayton Davall, Dale Adkins and Archie Howell moved their scoring into the two-figure column. The rebounding by Bobbie Clarke and his floor work in general has been helpful. The second five of the "B" team has seen considerable action and has done some nice team work. The team is coached by Jim Brooks, who was graduated from Betsy Layne with the class of '44. He received his degree from Transylvania University in June of last year and came to the Betsy Layne faculty with a Physical Education major.

By TED KESTING

Picking tackle to suit the angler. If he's beyond the novice stage, is a pretty tricky matter. If the purchaser isn't so angler, he or she is more likely to buy something expensive and pretty, but completely useless to the recipient. With a little ingenuity you can discover what will please him. Here are a few general suggestions from JASON LUCAS:

Rods—Strongly, with everything else sky-high now, never before were there such values in rods—fly, casting or spinning. There are many distinct varieties of rods, even in fly rods alone, each technically suited to some certain purpose, or at least to the user's firm belief as to what's suited for that purpose. Just buying somebody a rod would be like buying him a pair of shoes without knowing the size he wears. Find out what he wants.

Reels—In reels, too, never were there such good values. Believe it or not, $5 will now buy a casting reel that will cast much better and more smoothly than the $50 reel of a generation ago. However, there are also some very poor casting reels on the market now. Better stick to the product of a maker known to be reliable. But this same advice goes for all articles of tackle. Tackle making is a highly specialized business calling for accurate technical knowledge of its many points.

Lines—Find out what sort of casting or spinning line the person uses, and get him a new one like it; he probably won't want to change. Don't give anybody a cheap fly line. This line must be of the right size to fit his rod or it's completely useless.

Other things—Waders! Be sure to get them knee-length, the legs so they'll be baggy and wrinkled as he walks around. Trout creel? Only recently available, so his old one may be pretty much of a wreck. Wading jacket? See that it has plenty of pockets. Tackle box? The bigger the better. Fly dress? Lots of nice ones are made now.

P'burg, Paintsville Lose to Martin Five On Consecutive Nights

Those old rivals, Prestonsburg and Paintsville, found a common foe last week, and neither of them was able to do anything with this new "enemy."

The Martin Purple Flash downed the Paintsville Tigers in their own late Friday night, 48-41, then came to Prestonsburg the following evening and handled the Cats a 59-50 defeat. At Paintsville it was Grigby who led the Martin boys, but here Tackett, a forward, put on a sensational shooting exhibition with a total of 27 points. Lafferty, guard, chalked up 15 points for the losers. Friday night of this week, Martin will play host to the undefeated Wayland Wasps in the second meeting of the two teams this season, and this game is one which is expected to draw one of the biggest crowds of the season. The following evening, the Purple Flash is at home to McDowell.

FLOYD MAN BRAVED PERILS OF GOLD RUSH IN SEARCH OF MONEY TO PAY DEBTS

A letter from John Vanhose, born Oct. 14, 1821, and a sister, Elizabeth, born Feb. 28, 1828. He may have joined the Browns in Arkansas around 1848. Peter Brown, son of James Brown, the first Floyd county settler, emigrated in 1835 to a place in Arkansas ever afterwards called Browns Landing. To this settlement of Browns in Arkansas went Jeremiah Hatfield and others. This trek of Floyd county to Arkansas came long after the Civil War. With apologies for the long, explanatory preface, the text of the letter follows:

"June 30th, 1850
"California, Sacramento City.
"Dear Sir: After a long absence I write to let you know that I am still on this side of the grave. Hoping that this will find you alive and well.
"I left home on the 15th of April, 1849 bound for the gold region of California and landed in the city of San Francisco on the 17th of October, a travel of 6 months through 7 nations of Indians. We came a new route, made our road for us, ever since and am doing well. I shall leave for home about the 15th of November. I of an hour taken out in one day 3-4 lbs. of solid gold. Each of us has on hand between 40 and 50 lbs. of gold and the main time for getting gold will be from this time on as the water is falling and will soon let us in the river. I think there is no gold but I shall get 6 or 8 thousand dollars. James P. Dickerson, the man who married Rachel, my eldest daughter, is with me and George Lewis, my wife's brother, and Peter Mankins, son of old Peter Mankins.
"My family was all alive and well in March last. I have not heard from them since. There is not any of my boys with me. John was married and has 4 little children and could not have them. Zachariah was engaged in a school at 30 dollars per month. Peter was starting law with Judge Watkins of Arkansas. The other boys I would not let come. Judge Watkins says Peter will make one of the finest lawyers in any state. He is a good Latin and Greek scholar. Zachariah is a professor of mathematics.
"I shall be at home about Christmas and by spring if life lasts you shall have your money. It was for that purpose that was to make a clean sweep of all my debts that I made the dangerous trip to California and I have succeeded in getting plenty which will go home whether I live or die unless we are all back and my sons will pay every dollar that I owe in the world and I am well satisfied that I will live and keep well that I shall have enough to do me the balance of my life.

"I expect you had counted it lost but I never did. I have been striving every since I left to get some one to take it. I know you know that I owed Lackey you know he sued on it and it has taken all that I could make since I left. I had to pay it the interest counted up so fast there is still 3 or 400 behind yet but my surpluses has had to pay I have written to you before and of my brothers to meet me about Xmas and I will pay them well for coming to Arkansas. I want you to see them as soon as you can in this letter and if they will come send the note you hold on me and take the receipt for it and I will send you the money.
"I would give you a history of the mines here but the newspapers tell you all about them and a great deal more than is true. There is a great quantity of gold here but the papers tell all the good and leave out the bad. Thousands of men leave home and family in search of gold and find their graves. So much exposure lying on the gold fields to see them as soon as you can in this letter and if they will come send the note you hold on me and take the receipt for it and I will send you the money.

At the bottom of the old hand reference—of men long since dead but some who in their day left a footprint on the sands of history. The list is headed by Hon. Henry A. Wise, Accomack, Virginia. He was at one time Governor of Virginia and a member of the U. S. House of Representatives. From where so many of the early Floyd settlers came, was particularly true for him.
"This business of assisting claimants to pensions was, in the early days, a very lucrative side business for any attorney. Henry C. Harris, a brilliant attorney of Prestonburg, handled, before 1850, a greater number of pension claims than any other attorney, and finally moved to Newport, Kentucky, where the lucrativeness of this work increased.

Sgt. Friend in Training As Air Force Gunner
Sgt. Tilden B. Friend, son of Mrs. Gilvin C. Spurlin, of Prestonburg, is now in training at Randolph Air Force base as a gunner with the combat crew training group, Randolph AFB, known world-wide for its basic training of more than 20,000 aviation cadets, since its origin in 1931, expanded its program to include the training of combat crews for the Air Force B-29 Superfortresses in August 1950 and the runways which were awarded with small technical schools for the Air Force B-29 "Supers."
The main crew of which Sgt. Friend is a member, will upon graduation from Randolph, be transferred to the Strategic Command for further assignment with combat units. B-29 Combat Crew teams are made up of graduates of technical schools in the Air Force Training Command as well as of World War II veterans.
Sgt. Friend, who entered the service in November, 1942, attended Prestonburg high school, the University of Kentucky, Lexington. He was called back to service as a reservist.

Some time ago this column discussed the old Bevins home on Seventh street and the statement made that, originally, it was a log-house. Since then the old home has been dismantled and the pieces of the weatherboarding had been stripped away, that it was not originally of logs, but had been constructed of yellow poplar, which was used by the builders, decades ago. It is with deep humility that this error is confessed in view of the eccentricity of workmanship and the long, patient labor that went into the construction of the old home. The foundation sills were twelve by twelve inches and of yellow poplar. The sills, closer than is usual, were of the same material and were mostly three by six. The plates atop the studs were six by six, of course, patiently and laboriously sawed by hand.
The modern carpenter, in making a corner, nails two pieces together at right angles. Not so here in making corners. These corners were nailed and sawed out by hand, so that there would be no seam and the running pieces of length mortised in by hand. This method of cornering is, to this column's knowledge, no longer used in the construction of the old home. On the early construction of the old home, no nails were used. The pieces were mortised in, the size of the piece of wood determining the size of the hole. A determining of this kind is not used in the construction of the old home. We have three methods of tying planks together—the mortise, cut nail and the most, round, machined nails of today.
There was a diary of the early Bevins family extant at the time the house was dismantled, and this was found by a workman, amidst some debris, in the attic. Mr. Glenn Beuchamp, who purchased the house, informs that a record was kept through the decades, of the labor expended in materials and these other innumerable things necessary to the construction of a home. During the process of tearing down, with the attendant accumulation of debris, this old diary was lost. Men, boys and then so many generations have been down and rebuilt, but unless the rebuilding is done of stone or brick or other permanent material, the permanent structure could have been erected than the old Bevins home.

1. The loan does not exceed $10,000, is made before June 30, 1951; and is used for the purchase or construction of a home, or for the construction or improvement of a farmhouse, and.
  2. The home or farmhouse is located in one of the counties designated as an area in which direct loans may be made, and.

- Floyd county is a designated area in which such loans may be made, but to date the Veterans Administration has received very few applications from veterans in this county.

Any eligible veteran who is interested in obtaining such a loan directly from the VA should write to the Loan Guaranty Division of the Veterans Administration, Regional Office, 1406 West Broadway, Louisville, Ky.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, PH.D.
Western Kentucky Teachers College Bowling Green, Ky.

BLUE MONDAY

We college people have a way of calling Monday "blue" and usually have a pretty good reason for doing so. The week-end is a hectic time. Ball games, trips home or out, and a variety of other things until the last minute (sometimes early Monday morning)—these are a few of the things that worry the teacher and make him sometimes wonder whether universal public education is such a great blessing after all. As I view it now, Monday has justly earned its name as the Sabbath-day by definition in all unnecessary work, but they loved to work out to view their crops as sweetest rather than as the owners. Nearly always they could find the very thing that should be done early Monday morning, just as soon after midnight on Sunday as it was possible to get up and start all over again.

Through the years since I left Fidelity I have come to feel that the week-end is not so bad, especially when birds can be seen or nature visited. But there is still something that troubles me as the beginning of another week work. Just how most of us would get along without routine, I don't know. I don't think I would not wish to know, "Welcome, sweet day of rest—yes, but why come, also Monday blue or any other color?"

It Wasn't So Great For Big Sandy

THE Courier-Journal last Sunday printed a Kentucky map which should be of interest to Eastern Kentucky, if not indeed to all the state.

The map, marking the industrial development of Kentucky, accompanied a feature article which described 1950 as the greatest year industrially in the history of the Commonwealth. Cities and towns where products were manufactured from raw materials dotted the map.

But what compelled the interest of Eastern Kentuckians was that big expanse of white space in the southeastern corner of the map where only one town, Van Lear, appeared as a manufacturing community.

Publication of this map and the accompanying article followed by only a few days a report of the American Society of Engineers reorganizing, at least temporarily, the capitalization of the Big Sandy river to a large part of unwanted projects. Which impinges on the consciousness of us all the seriousness of the situation at present in the present and future of this valley.

The Big Sandy is rich in the finest quality of bituminous coal. Its natural gas is far higher in B.T.U. content than that of most gas-producing fields. It still produces a large part of the timber in high demand for both civilian and military use. Its natural resources are great, some have not even been explored, and yet none of its raw materials are converted to the finished product at home, save the product of scattered sawmills.

We are told, and we believe, that the high freight rates and the fact that the section has only one rail line as a means of transportation are the principal reasons for manufacturing plants moving elsewhere to convert these natural riches of ours into the things our own people and others buy.

This being true, the Corps of Engineers, studying cold figures, without consideration of the human equation, apparently have decided that Eastern Kentucky shall give till its hills are but industrial catacombs, the life of its resources gone; and after that a mountain barrens, its inhabitants left to the mercy of some future WPA.
