SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

JULY 11, 1963

THURSDAY

This Town... That World

Don't get huffy and say, "It'll be a cold day in July when I'm dead!" Not this year, anyway.

CURIOSITY SHOP STROLL

While my wife was looking for a used furniture bargain today she ran up with the prize. It was a copy, nobody knows how old, of Mary J. Holmes' "Homestead on the Hillside."

I bought that 'book in paperback edition some 45 years ago for a dime. This one cost me a quarter. But I'm satisfied.

Remember "Tempest and Sunshine"? (This is asked of nobody under 50.) Do I remember? Now there was fiction to satisfy the soul. Never a spot on the hero's physique, the heroine flaunted but as pure as the driven snow. And the dullest villain ever contrived up by the brain of man-or-woman.

80 FARMERS ASKING AID

Flood-Stricken Owners To Receive Cost-Share Practices For Land

More than 80 applications have been received by the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee for cost-share on damaged flood damaged Floyd county farms, it was said Wednesday by Elder Goble, office manager.

The federal government recently made available $27,000 as an initial allocation for the work here.

This is the second time in two years that the federal government has offered help to Floyd county landowners for repair of flood-stricken farms. Work was completed last year on 200 farms.

The cost-share rate shall be an amount not in excess of 90 percent of the actual cost, Goble said.

"Cost" will include labor and machinery use," he added.

Cost-share practices include removal of accumulated debris, filling and chipping of gullies and waterways preparatory to vegetable stabilization, renovation of terraces damaged by rainfall in excess of storm design, reformation of ponds, renovation of diversion channels damaged by rainfall in excess of storm design, and stream bank land and stream restoration and restoration of intermittent stream courses and drainage systems damaged or destroyed by excessive rainfall or floods in March.

The Soil Conservation Service technician is responsible for developing design and specifications for cost-share aid. It is noted.

REYNOLDS BODY PLANT LOCATES NEAR ALLEN

WIDE VARIETY OF PRODUCTS IS PROPOSED

Operation Scheduled By September 15; To Cost $100,000.00

The Big Sandy plant of the Reynolds Body Company, now under construction on U.S. 23, north of Allen, will employ 20 persons according to Marvyn Reynolds, president. Work was started on the plant two weeks ago.

The plant there will manufacture truck bodies, steel stairways, coil springs as Reynolds expressed it, "anything that can be made from steel."

The building, now under construction, will cost $85,000 and equipment will increase the plant cost to approximately $100,000. It will get into operation by September 15, Reynolds said.

The Reynolds Body Company was organized three years ago and the first plant, was built at Hazard. It employs 28 men and manufactures, chiefly, truck bodies for the truck line industry.

The new plant is being rushed to early completion by a crew under the supervision of Reynolds. Most of the work is on sub-contract.

Reynolds is optimistic about the possibility of manufacturing and selling a new type of truck body.

"There has always been a big demand for steel fabricated products in Eastern Kentucky and the plant will offer a service in this field to mines and other industry," he said.

Reynolds is a native of Beaver, this county, and has been in the steel fabrication business for years, at first as a plant superintendent for other companies.

The Floyd county plant will eventually be larger than the Hazard plant, it is viewed.

He pleaded guilty Monday and was fined $100 and costs. His driver's license could not be revoked. ## YOUTH JOBS UNDER STUDY

Federal, State Officials Set Paintsville Meeting; Educators To Cooperate

Paintsville will be host to Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, other federal officials, a group of Eastern Kentucky University students and prominent local businessmen. The scheduled conference will discuss youth employment problems of the area.

Wirtz is executive director of the Department of Public Instruction. Wendell Butler has asked superintendents in the mountain area to discuss youth employment problems of the area. He will be accompanied by guidance counselors and school board members.

Other officials coming are Wilbur C. Bennett, assistant secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Governor Bert T. Combs; Congressman Carl Perkins; Economic Security Commissioner Earle Powell; and E. P. Hilton, director of the vocational education division in the Department of Education.

Butler said discussion will focus on problems Kentucky faces in training youth. He hopes to impress upon the federal officials the severity of our unemployment situation and to come up with some plan of action. Butler said.

Wirtz is expected to outline a new literacy training program and an economic incentive to train jobs. He also expects the Kennedy administration is urging Congress to enact the Manpower Development and Training Act and the Area Federal Support Act provide training for unemployed adults, but Butler said little accident has been offered to Kentucky youth.

The state's share of manpower funds last fiscal year was slightly more than $1 million. About 1,000 students have been enrolled in courses throughout the state under the Manpower Act program.

Immediate Start, Plan Of Meade & Kendrick After Earth Fill Work

The Prestonburg Community College will be built by the Prestonburg contracting firm of Meade & Kendrick (Astor Meade and W. R. Kendrick).

Contract for construction of the college was awarded the firm Wednesday by the Department of Revenue on bid of $889,000, which includes the base bid of $822,000 and $116,000 in alternate additves.

Although the base bid of $872,000 included the Southeastern Construction Company, Charleston, was low, the firm's bid on alternates raised its total bid to $926,000-$726 for that of the Prestonburg contractor.

Work will be started next week by the Kentucky Road Oiling Company, sub-contractor, on the earth fill to be made at the college site, and this phase of the undertaking is expected to be completed within six weeks, Meade and Kendrick said.

They added that they will begin work immediately thereafter and make every effort to have the structure ready for occupancy for the beginning of the fall term next year.

Plumbing, heating and air-conditioning has been subcontracted to the Ward Engineering Co., Louisville, and the electrical work to Del Hamilton, South Shore, Kentucky. Both subcontractors have been accepted by the Department of Revenue.

Added to Meade & Kendrick's base bid of $822,000 were these alternate items: 4900 for solid doors instead of hollow-core doors; $2,500 for vinyl floor instead of concrete floor; $2,725 for that of the Prestonburg contractor.

PLANE MISHAP CLAIMS SIX

Near Jackson, Sunday; Storm-Struck Aircraft Down Near Mt. Parkway

Federal investigators supervised removal of six broken bodies Monday in the mountain area of a private plane whose pilot took off Sunday despite a warning of thunderstorms in his flight path.

There were no survivors of the crash that wiped out four members of one family and another couple carrying eight children, seven members of the family and only one member from the new Mountain Parkway.

The victims, all from Statesville, N.C., were identified as Paul Edinger, 29, believed to be the pilot; his wife Joyce, 25; their daughter Paula, 4; their two-year-old son Victor; Paul's wife Wilma, 21; and his wife Violet, 16.

The plane left Blue Grass Field at Lexington about 4:45 p.m. after refueling for a flight to Statesville. It had enough gas for a 10-minute trip.

An official at the field said Edinger wanted a flight for the weather to clear, then left despite information that there were thunderstorms in the mountain area over which he would be flying.

James Noble, a school teacher who lives near the crash scene and was called to search for the plane, said: "It looked like a big wall of tin foil." He said there was no fire and that he did not smell any gas.

Several persons said the private plane's engine roared as it fell into the woods, and that a wing appeared to be damaged. The plane was seen to be falling.

Edinger and Wilma were employees of the Revue Furniture Company at Statesville. A business associate said the Edingers had flown to Jackson, Michigan, where they were to work for the holiday week-end and had picked up the Wilsons for the return flight.

The bodies were taken to the Breathitt Funeral Home, Jackson. The funeral for the Edinger family will be today (Thursday) at Jackson, Michigan.

The college will have 12 classrooms, three laboratories, a library, a multi-use room for band and meetings, a seminar room and a director's office.

The contract will include heating, air-conditioning and electrical systems, clearing and grading of site and construction of driveways and parking areas.

The building will accommodate 300 full-time students and 200 adults on a part-time basis.

The college tract of 33.8 acres between Old U. S. 23 and U. S. 491 and the new U. S. 23, near the Cliff bridge. The Big Sandy College Development Corporation, a local group, supplied $92,000 of the land cost and the state supplied $1,017,000. Another six acres is under option.

The curriculum will provide basic two-year professional and arts and science courses, plus courses leading to certificate degrees and technical training below professional levels. It will also serve as a facility for programs of a general culture nature for people with specialized needs.

CONFESSION

The joy-riders having taken over at Dewey Lake, the bass having taken to subterranean lairs in the same body of water, and the day being July 4 I asserted my independence and got myself in shape for possible expulsion from the Lake in August. I played 17 1/2 rounds of golf.

I am now appealing to the brothers not to kick me out. I have reported I was still in the area of wildlife—I went after a "bird," as they say. A bird or a bass, what's the difference?—they're not in my line, apparently.

The fact is, on No. 3 fairway an odor hinting of something dead drifted my way on a wayward breeze, and it was frankly stated that that wasn't something dead—it was just my game.

You know, this is what a body can get into by watching television. You sit around and watch Palmer and these other guys make that ball do everything but say, "Uncle," and finally, in a state of hypnosis or something, get to thinking you can do the same. Yet if the bass had been cooperating I would never have yielded to the temptation.

It's on No. 5, I believe, where I got in the rough (that was the first time I really was in the tall and uncut), and immediately came those words I heard Demaree say about one of the Open leaders: "He's in the rough and will have trouble holding the ball on the green. The ball will fly out on him."

Well, I am here to inform Mr. Jimmy Demaree and perhaps a few others: The ball did not fly out on me. I had no trouble holding the green. My trouble was getting on the blasted thing.

TROUBLE AFOOT

Lonely? Want the phone to ring? Just take a bath.

Calvin Lafferty wasn't particularly lonely, the other afternoon, up at Allen; he just wanted to take a bath. He just sat himself "soaked up" when the telephone began to dial his stuff. Lafferty was outside the house and couldn't hear the ring, it somehow sounded urgent, and so Galloway snatched a towel, draped it around himself and set all down the hall.

On the way, however, soap and water and a polished floor did their fell work. He didn't count the revolutions, but Galloway figures he did possibly six before he slidded to a stop, leaving the towel a few yards to the rear.

He made it to the telephone and, between blowing soap bubbles, panted a hello. Came a voice—you guessed it—a teen-age voice sweetly inquiring if his dialer was home.

With iron self-control, the injured man didn't ask who in the name of Alexander Graham Bell wanted to know. He simply said, "No," very quietly and went back to cool off under a cold shower.

There are no particular illnesses of old age and 90.5 percent of men and 87.3 percent of women over 60 are in average good health or better. Such is the conclusion of the Committee on Aging as reported in the July Reader's Digest.

As a precaution against fire, the Kentucky power built the chimney of his log cabin so high that if it did catch fire he could pull up a key log and collapse the burning chimney.

The hardest part about parking a Corvair is finding a nickel

That may be a slight overstatement, but such jauntness comes easily when you're a Corvair owner.

And you can usually back it up as easily as you can back up a Corvair. You'll find yourself doing that occasionally, if only to adjust the brakes—they're self-adjusting. That's all there is to it, and that's a good example of how delightfully easy Corvair is to own, drive and maintain.

But since we began by talking about driving, let's stick with that awhile. A large factor in the fun of driving a Corvair is the location of its engine in the rear. Why the rear? It gives Corvair extra traction on any road surface. It provides a nearly flat floor for more usable interior space. Best of all, it produces steering so light, so responsive, you wonder why no other American-made car thought of it.

Corvair's engine is also air cooled, we might add, which means there's no antifreeze or water for you to add. Ever.

All that pleasure from something so practical almost makes you think Corvair is unique among American cars. Which isn't surprising, because it is!

Telephone Talk

By GUY HUBLE
Your Telephone Manager

THE BELL SYSTEM STARTED WITH AN IDEA... to provide the best possible communications service at the lowest possible cost. And with all its vastly expanded service to homes and industry and science, it has stayed with the original idea. Today Bell Laboratories designs, Western Electric makes, and 21 Bell Telephone companies (like Southern Bell) form the team that maintains the world's greatest communications network. And the basic principle still applies... providing the best service at the lowest cost.

KITCHEN PAN

A WORD TO THE WISE COOK... If you've ever ruined a soufflé or flattened a roast while answering a phone call out of the kitchen, you'll appreciate the very special convenience of this kitchen pan. It fits flush into wall or cabinet and the easy pullout cord retracts into the phone when not in use. Comes in unusual color combinations, too... white handset with an aluminum face or a beige handset with copper. Why not dress up your kitchen with this convenient and beautiful phone. Just call our Business Office.

NEGLECTING THE FIRST AND LAST PAGES OF YOUR TELEPHONE BOOK is like reading only the middle of a good book. There's a lot of useful general information on the introductory pages of your directory and, of course, at the end are those invaluable Yellow Pages!

IN TIME OF CRISIS telephone people are always ready to help you. But if you need the fire department, the police, or a doctor, don't panic. Stay on the line long enough to give the operator all the necessary details. It's a good idea, too, to have these numbers written in a handy place so they'll be readily available when you need them.

AT THE PARK

(News from and about Jany Wiley State Park from July 1 through July 8)

Thursday July 4, 9,500 persons visited the park with 5,000 persons on the beach, 100 on the golf course and 40 families on the tenting and camping area at Stratton Branch. Motor counters, placed at three different places on the park, were used to count the cars. This total number was divided by two to account for departing cars. This number then was multiplied by two and one-half based upon an average of two and one-half persons per car. And, finally, a sufficient number was subtracted from that total to cover the count of daily employees on the park. Even further procedures were used to get the breakdown for different facilities on the park.

The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad assisted in directing traffic here during the holiday week-end.

Charlie Barker and his band, of Paintsville, supplied the music for the square dancing held at May Lodge, Saturday night. The attendance was the largest for recreation of any type sponsored by the management of the park.

Five Candidates Named By Sportsmen's Group

Sportsmen of the Seventh Wildlife Region selected five candidates for the post of Fish and Wildlife Resources Commissioner at a meeting held July 2 at Jany Wiley State Park. One of the five men selected by the sportsmen will be named to the Commission post early in August by Governor Bert Combs to fill a four-year tenure in that spot.

Selected at the meeting were: Roscoe Davis, Hazard sporting goods dealer and incumbent commissioner; Republican; Sam Garrett, Hazard insurance man; Democrat; Robert Turner, Jackson, teacher; Democrat; Dr. Hugh Smith, Pikeville dentist, Democrat; and T. A. Combs, engineer, of Langley, Republican.

The meeting was called to order by Fish and Wildlife Resources Commissioner Mirza Clark, after which the delegates nominated Dr. C. E. Allen, Martin, to serve as temporary chairman. The delegates elected Warren Clark, after which the delegates elected Bayly secretary of the meeting. More than 100 voting sportsmen were present.

Surf riding has become a popular sport since World War II, but Hawaiians long ago acquired great skill with the surfboard. According to the July Reader's Digest, King Kamehameha, 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighing nearly 400 pounds, and his Queen Kaahumanu, only two inches shorter and a few pounds lighter, were famous surfers.

Hunting, Fishing Film Is Completed by State; Distribution Readied
For many years sportsmen of Kentucky have been requesting movies of fishing and hunting in this state and of the activities of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources in its effort to preserve and perpetuate the fish and wildlife of the Commonwealth.

Now their requests are being fulfilled. Already this year the Department has completed a film on hunting, a 14-minute sound and color movie showing the different species of game that may be harvested and the actual harvesting of such game by hunters in the field. This film was completed late in the hunting season and hunters will be seeing more of it this fall and winter.

Now to be ready for distribution soon is a similar picture on fishing in Kentucky. Most of the shooting has been completed and the work of editing the film and providing the narration is now underway. It should be ready for showing in a few weeks. Of course, the film may be a bit late for this fishing season, but it is sure to set a big audience early next spring. It too shows the type fishing offered in Kentucky, although, to be sure, all phases could not be covered in a 14-minute film. We believe, the film will be interesting and well worth seeing. These two films were made by Public Safety Pictures, Dallas, Texas, in cooperation with the Department.

A third film, covering generally the overall program of the Department, the manner in which it operates and its aims and purposes, is in the making and should be ready for showing this fall. This film is a sound-on, 25 minute color movie and is being made by Karl MacLowski, of Cincinnati, an expert in the field of wildlife photography.

We believe this will be one of the finest films of its kind produced in any state and this was brought about by the action of the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission and the commissioner of the Department who ordered the making of this film last fall. So again, we believe that the sportsman will have their wants as concerns movies. But, this is not all. The Commissioner and the Commission have also requested that at least one film be made each year dealing with a particular phase of the fish and wildlife management program in Kentucky.

We believe these films will bring Kentuckians closer together and make them realize more clearly the vital need for fish and wildlife management in Kentucky.

DARK SKIES
Why is the sky dark at night? The uncounted billions of light-giving stars should give as much light at night as the sun by day, but, says the July Reader's Digest, our universe is constantly expanding and the galaxies are moving away from the earth so fast as to weaken the radiation we receive from them. That is what gives us our restful nocturnal darkness.

Mattick said that Scott Barbour, Frankfort, will be chief of the new section, which will increase law enforcement activities relating to forest fire control and will set up a safety program for division employees. Barbour will work directly under Gen. L. Butcher, division director.

Mattick said that Kentucky has just experienced its worst forest fire season and expressed hope that stepped-up law enforcement will reduce future losses. He said that at least 3,000 fires were reported this spring and that many were apparently set deliberately. Others were caused by violation of other pieces of mechanical equipment and their use will come under the safety functions of the section, Mattick said.

Barbour is a former director of the Division of Boating in the State Department of Public Safety.

Anyone getting retirement benefits under social security should report immediately to the Social Security Administration if he goes to work for over $1,200 a year. The one exception to this rule is the old-age beneficiary who has reached age 72.

Our Historic Heritage

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky (No. 245 in a Series)

The 1937 Flood at Prestonsburg The Big Sandy River was one of the tributary streams of the Ohio River that contributed heavily to the latter's flooded condition in 1937. Catlettsburg, Ashland and Huntington were gravely stricken.

Court street, Prestonsburg, was flooded. In this photo is seen the area at the old Irene Cole Memorial Baptist church building. The picture was taken Jan. 23, 1937. Two persons were drowned in Floyd county as an indirect result of the flood, a man near Winchester and a woman at Martin.

A relief train for Catlettsburg and Ashland loaded at Prestonsburg and other valley towns. Four full carloads of clothing and food and three cars of boats were sent. Prestonsburg initially contributed one car of food and clothing, 14 boats and 50 cots. Relief supplies to the stricken Ohio River towns continued to pour out of the valley for days.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of our past in recognition of our historic heritage.
