Dull Drive For Votes Nears End

Local Races May Provide Interest In Nov. 4 Polling

Another dull election campaign was drawing to its close this week, with city races supplying most of the interest in this county, despite a full slate of candidates for state office from both major political parties.

Beginning with railroad commissioner and ranging on through the offices of state senator, representative, commonwealth's attorney and circuit court clerk, Democratic nominees in this county are unopposed except in the case of Lowell Hughes, Democrat, who is opposed in the 24th senatorial district by Ronald B. Huff, Republican. Two Floyd precincts, Clifton and Little Point are in that district.

The state slate of candidates includes: For Governor—Robert E. "Bob" Gable (R) and Julian M. Carroll (D); the incumbent lieutenant governor—Shirley W. Palmer-Ball (R) and Thelma L. Stovall (D); secretary of state—Huda Jones (R) and Drexell "Drex" Davis (D); auditor of public accounts—Richard T. "Dick" Combs (R) and George E. Atkins (D); state treasurer—Larry S. Perkins (R) and Frances Jones Mills (D); superintendent of public instruction—James M. Taylor, Sr. (R) and Dr. James B. Graham (D); commissioner of agriculture—J. Robert (Bob) Miller (R) and Tom Harris (D); clerk of the Court of Appeals—Joseph E. Lambert (R) and Martha Layne Collins (D).

Voters also will decide the fate of two constitutional amendments. Amendment No. 1 is known as the Judicial Amendment and restricts the powers of the judicial system. The second is to include property exempt from taxation real property maintained as the permanent residence of the owner who is to be valued up to the assessed valuation of $6,500.

This Town...That World

Red, White and Blue Day worked its magic again. For the sixth year in a row October's "bright blue weather" prevailed, and the spirit of the occasion caught most of us and surrounding all the color of the parade was the coat of many colors of the late October hills.

WITH A CUD OF COURSE

George Brown tells of hearing the merits and demerits of chewin' tobacco discussed by some of the fellows gathered here the other day in a sidewalk forum. It was at the point of developing into an old-fashioned jawin' match when one of the fellows admitted that for his use of the weed. But another plumb snatched away the bone of contention when he mildly asked:

"How do you think the Reds won the World Series?"

THE BARGAIN-HUNTER

I have more trouble with hats. If I wear one, it takes on an irreparable slouch which is so slouchy that it never is through mistake taken by anybody, not even at church. Then, again, I am so unobservant of details of dress that I get into trouble. I have never been asked again what anybody wore at any function since the time when I remarked that I was certain the lady in the question wore a dress.

This hat of mine, I left it behind when I visited the old home on Salt Lick, a few weeks back. No problem, I would pick it up, next time there. Well, last Thursday I went back, and they were having a yard sale. Dresses, coats, dishes, and so on. Mrs. Bee Bailey showed me the array.

Mayor Sets Rules For Trick-or-Treat

Witches may be abroad, and goblins may make the evening eerie, but in Prestonsburg for "Trick or Treat" tomorrow evening (Thursday) they may not be more than 12 years of age and their covens must disperse by 9 p.m.

Rules governing Halloween-time were stated in a proclamation issued by Mayor William O. Goebel at the request of various groups. He pointed out that "Trick or Treat" is limited to one night only, Thursday, Oct. 30, no person above the age of 12 will be permitted to wear a mask of any kind, and a curfew of 9 p.m. will be in effect for all engaged in Trick-or-Treat celebration.

Auxiliary police will join the regular police force in patrolling Prestonsburg during the evening.

RESPLENDENT in authentic, American Revolutionary War period uniforms, the Bicentennial Color Guard of the 101st Airborne of Fort Campbell, Ky., added to the color and patriotic spirit of the Red, White and Blue Day parade. Other military personnel in contrasting modern-day dress are in background.

Thousands Under Clear Skies Witness 6th Patriotic Parade

Saturday's Red, White and Blue Day was blessed by the same, almost ideal weather that has characterized the event each year since the original celebration six years ago, and, as in years past, Red, White and Blue Day 1975 was bigger and more impressive than the preceding year's observance.

Thousands of people from Floyd, surrounding counties and a number of neighboring states crowded Prestonsburg to witness the area's special salute to America. Mrs. Marcella Bailey, of Maytown, founder of the observance, said the attendance this year was clearly greater than in years past. Generally clear skies and balmy temperatures enhanced the day's activities, and rain, which had been predicted for the day, interrupted only the final minutes of the square dance late Saturday night.

Preceding the two-hour-long parade which customarily highlights the day were old-time country and gospel music groups performing at the municipal parking lot, including the Morgan county band of Linville, N.C., as well as a group of American Indians selling crafts from a genuine tee-pee in the same area. The day was officially opened by the singing of the National Anthem by the Prestonsburg high school chorus under the direction of Mrs. Carlos Hayward, the Pledge of Allegiance and flag-raising. At noon, the honorary speaker for the day, the Rev. Oddvar Berg, addressed a large group gathered in the municipal parking lot.

Berg, widely known minister and lecturer, and native of Sweden, pointed out facts and statistics illustrating the great prosperity and affluence of the average American as compared with the lot of citizens of other nations.

Twenty-five floats, military units, eight marching bands, Oleka and El Hasa Shriners, and dozens of groups of majorettes, cheerleaders, Scout troops and school representatives featured this year's parade which began at 2 p.m. and followed U.S. 23 from the center of town to Prestonsburg high school. Besides five county high school bands, three bands from Elliott, Johnson and Pike counties also participated, indicating widening interest in the day which has become a multi-county event. Allen Elementary's float, depicting the theme, "Past, Present and Future," won first place in the float competition. Second place went to the Mizie church float of Morgan county depicting "The Church in the Wildwood," and third was won by Prestonsburg Elementary's first grade float. One of the most impressive groups in Saturday's parade was the Bicentennial color guard of the 101st Airborne unit of Fort Campbell, Kentucky. Dressed in authentic uniforms of the Colonial army of the Revolutionary War, the unit carried out the bicentennial celebration theme. Modern army units with armored vehicles from Ft. Campbell were also featured in the parade. Eva Collins and Ted Nairn were in charge of this year's parade.

Delegation to Seek Curb on Truck Speed

Lives of school children transported to and from school by bus are being endangered by heavily loaded, fast-moving coal trucks, Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said this week.

Because of the growing seriousness of the situation, particularly along US 23 between Prestonsburg and Auxier, a delegation of school officials, teachers and parents has planned to call on the fiscal court at its meeting next Wednesday afternoon for help.

Supt. Clark said that on two occasions recently school buses which have stopped to unload passengers have been passed by coal trucks which ran onto the gravel on the right side of the bases.

Clark said coal trucks in various parts of the county are traveling at such speeds that if, rounding a curve, they came on a loading or unloading school bus, they would be unable to stop in time to avoid a crash.

"We have simply been lucky, so far," he added.

The superintendent said both threats received by schools are being investigated and that if those using telephones to make such threats are identified there will be no weakening in his resolve to prosecute.

2 Food Markets Open Thursday

Tomorrow (Thursday) will mark the opening of two new supermarkets in Prestonsburg. One, Shopper's Choice, will open in the former Kroger building on Court Street. The other, the Sav-U-Discount Food Market, will take the place of the Piggy Wiggly Supermarket at the corner of Lake Drive and Fried Street.

Jess Stover, Piggy Wiggly manager here who will continue as Sav-U manager, said the ownership of the business stands unchanged. The store will discontinue issuance of Green Stamps and the marketing of Piggy Wiggly brand foods and will concentrate, he said, on "selling cheaper than anywhere in Eastern Kentucky."

Personnel of the store will not be affected by the change. Shopper's Choice is opening its first Eastern Kentucky supermarket here after establishing an unusually successful marketing records with stores in central Kentucky and in other sections. Its store opening here is a prelude to the Shopper's Village construction project here which will include a Shopper's Choice store, Heck's, the Herrick & Johnson Pharmacy and possibly other stores.

Beginning of work on Shoppers' Village has been delayed because of a zoning ordinance on which a hearing is scheduled Nov. 5.

Carroll Speaker At Rally Here, Stresses Roads

Governor Julian Carroll came to Prestonsburg Monday to deliver the first speech made in the county during the current campaign by a candidate for major office.

"Speaking of the needs of the region and the state, he gave high priority to transportation and declared his intention to build "a good connector" road, KY 80, from this county to Hazard to link with the Daniel Boone Parkway.

Asked later by The Times if his letter of Sept. 22 in this newspaper could be quoted, Gov. Carroll did not hesitate to give permission. It read, in part: "It is my hope to see KY 80 constructed from the Mountain Parkway to the Daniel Boone Parkway during my administration and I am not going to let any dollars out of my pocket for a legitimate project and, in my opinion, one of the most important in Kentucky, and I intend to see it built."

Governor Carroll admitted that the four-lane road program begun 10 years ago is "about done," but insisted that roads linking sections of the state to these arterial highways are necessary. He added that he proposed to continue the road repair program which has begun and which has drawn some newspaper criticism.

"The coal severance tax this year produced $98 million, and spending a fifth of that amount to repair roads is a huge investment—and I intend to keep on doing it," he added.

The governor also said the state is preparing to build a new Kentucky National Guard armory in this county. He reviewed the potential of the area for industry and tourism and pointed out that these depend upon good roads, schools, housing and trained workers and indicated he will bend his efforts toward attaining that goal. He also said he declared the people of Kentucky cannot afford to pay more taxes.

"You householders, senior citizens, even business men know what it is to make do with what you have in times such as this, and we (state government) have got to learn to take what we have and make it do," he said.

"But," he added, "beware of any candidate who comes telling you he will reduce taxes. He simply is not telling the truth."

Clinic Doctors' Offices Looted During Weekend

Offices of six doctors in the Archer Clinic here were entered during the week-end and $901 in cash was taken. Prestonsburg police reported. Officers pointed out that the clinic apparently was entered, not broken into, and that the burglar apparently knew where each of the doctors kept cash receipts. The entry was effected between 8 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. Monday.

The clinic burglary was one of a series over the county. Pierce's Food Market at Hueysville was broken into Monday night, with 40 cartons of cigarettes and a tape player taken. Frozen foods were (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Ted Salisbury New ABC Agent

Ted H. Salisbury, of Martin, has been named Floyd county agent for the Alcoholic Control Board, succeeding Arvil Nelson, of Prestonsburg.

Mr. Salisbury, served one term as constable in Magisterial District 3 and more recently was special local officer for protection of Island Creek Coal Company property. He is a retired employee of the C. & O. Railway Company with 25 years service.

Mr. Salisbury has attracted attention in recent months with his lectures at Alice Lloyd College which centered on the illegal liquor business in Appalachia. The experience at the college, he said, "was the turning point of my life."

He recently praised Sheriff Joe W. Lewis who, he said, "has made a great effort and spent a lot of time to control liquor in Floyd county."

"I have friends and relatives who are in the liquor business, and I ask them not to do themselves and me a favor by getting out," Salisbury said.

"You know the rules of the game and the consequences," he added. "Don't blame me if you are caught."

Red, White and Blue Day Queens, 1975

Something of a Confession

Editors are sometimes supposed to be pundits, and pundits are supposed to pontificate. Infrequently they are forced to admit, "We just don't know"—a fact which they perhaps should admit more frequently.

The proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 1—the so-called Judicial Amendment—which will be on the ballot in next Tuesday's election is one for pondering.

Both candidates for the Kentucky governorship are agreed on one thing, if nothing else. Both urge passage of the amendment. Both of the state's senators in the U. S. Congress say the amendment is needed to clear cluttered court dockets, place the judiciary on a professional level and make of the courts of the state, from the lowest to the highest, what they should be. The Kentucky Bar Association, eminent lawyers and students of government endorse it.

One finds it difficult to find fault with the amendment in the face of such endorsement from men who should know what Kentucky needs in its courts. True, members of fiscal courts who would lose their judicial power and prestige oppose the change in the court system, but some would question their motives. Apart from all that, however, there are questions to be raised. Will a separation of judicial and administrative powers and a pyramidal court system presided over only by attorneys get more cases brought to trial and more final decisions rendered? As long as judges—in whatever system—continue the practise of continuing cases till later trial dates on the flimsiest plea of defense or prosecution, the backlog of cases will never be cleared. Until the higher court gets down to the plain business of hard work for longer hours, its docket, too, will be jammed—whether it is known as the Supreme Court, or whatever.

In this connection one recalls that the U. S. Constitution assures to every citizen the right of fair and speedy trial. It is good that no individual may be held in jail indefinitely while his accusers and the state delay the day when his guilt or innocence is to be decided by a jury of his peers.

But this constitutional provision for the defendant does not provide for the state or the society which is a part of the case at issue. Some law should provide that a fair and speedy trial be given as a service to the state that is offended and the society that is, or may be, endangered by the individual accused.

Again, if Amendment No. 1 is approved by the voters and only qualified attorneys may serve as magistrates and judges, what will be the cost? The lawyer who is elected under the amendment provides, may not practice his profession; he must attend solely to the business of being a judge. Then how many lawyers will forego a lucrative practise for a judge's office at a greatly reduced salary? What will the annual salary be to attract legal talent to the bench—$40,000, $50,000, more? Or will the bench be occupied only by the retired, the superannuated whose days of active legal practise are, for one reason or another, over? Or will it be occupied by the young, untried and inexperienced?

It is well that the man presiding in the trial of another human being hold the highest qualifications of mind and heart, that the law be protective as well as punitive. But it seems passing strange, as one who is well known to the law points out, that a justice of the peace would, under Amendment 1, be required to possess qualifications not required of the chief justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, who may serve though not a lawyer.

Having said this, this confessor: "We just don't know" gathered in the Prestonsburg High School fieldhouse for the Miss Red, White and Blue competition. Hundreds cheered their own favorites as the contestants were judged on the basis of beauty and poise. Named Miss Red, White and Blue for 1975 was Rita Akers, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Akers, of Martin, and a senior at Sligo Central high school. The Junior Miss selected for 1975 was 13-year-old Becky Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Collins, of Lakey, and an eighth-grade pupil at Wayland Elementary. Selected as this year's Little Miss Red, White and Blue was Karen Moore, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Moore, of Maytown, and a third-grader at Maytown Elementary. The Allen Women's Club sponsored the Miss Red, White and Blue competition.

A square dance featuring Huck Thornsbury and the Floyd County Mountain Boys ended the day. A greater participation in the dancing was noted this year. Filming the day's activities was Kentucky Educational Television (KET), which also presented in the circuit courtroom Saturday morning a video tape, entitled, "Bert T. Combs, Distinguished Kentuckian." A film of the parade was shown on Hazard television Sunday night, with narration by Mrs. Eva Collins, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Marcella Bailey, of Maytown, founder of Red, White and Blue Day.

MOSCOW—Sculptor Ernst Neizvestny said Monday his application to emigrate had been turned down a second time by Soviet officials. The 50-year-old Neizvestny—who told Nikita Khrushchev in 1962 that the Soviet leader knew nothing about art and later was engaged to design the tombstone—applied to President Nikolai Podgorny to allow him to emigrate to Israel and to help stop official harassment against him.

The sculptor said Soviet officials told him he couldn't leave because he had two elderly parents, although he said his parents feel he should leave the country.

Ten Years Ago

(October 28, 1965) Contract for construction of a Junior Olympic swimming pool for younger children of the new Prestonsburg city park was awarded Monday to the only bidder on the project, Gay Young Pools, Inc., of Lexington. The first case of typhoid reported in this county in 10 years has developed at Banner where a housewife is ill of the disease. The Floyd County Health Department has learned. The Maytown schools were closed Monday morning by order of Dr. Russell L. Hall, Floyd county health officer, after the water supply there had been found "dangerous for children to drink." The Public Housing Administration has approved the Prestonsburg Municipal Housing Commission's annual contribution contract for 42 additional low-rent housing units which will be built at a total cost of $687,661. Bert Dixon's Prestonsburg Black Cats annexed their fifth victory by crushing winless M. C. Napper, 4-0, on three touchdowns by Johnny "Wimpy" Clark, one by sophomore Mike Castle, two by halfback Gene Henshale, and one by quarterback Steve Clark. There died, James Ballard Goble, 52, Courier-Journal staff member and formerly with the Floyd County Times, Sunday at his home at Anchorage, Ky. A. B. (Happy) Chandler came to Prestonsburg last Thursday after defeating the home-town candidate Bert T. Combs in one of Kentucky's hottest primary fights and poured a little oil on the situation. "I want the people of Floyd county to know I didn't say a single harsh thing about Judge Combs," he said. "The Floyd County Health Department has been notified by the State Department of Health that all children, ages 1 through 9, and pregnant mothers will be eligible for salk vaccine in the clinics which are scheduled to begin in the county Nov. 14. Then I espied a hat and inquired the price. "Two dollars." "You've just made your first sale," I remarked, hailing the old pocketbook into the wagon reduced to tears. I even by laughter, but she was at that stage when she reminded me that I was on the verge of buying my own hat. "Why I tell that and admit I am something of a good," well, I've got to fill this column with something.

DESPERATION CALL It was perhaps with some measure of relief to readers that we made no announcement of last Sunday's time change. Especially those who recall the time when we got dates mixed up and had school buses running an hour early and men driving to work at all hours.

Be that as it may, we had a call last Friday—myself hearing it had been printed—and the caller wanted to know when the time change would be made. "You're kidding," my son replied to the query, himself offering a prediction for outdoing the calendar, clock, International Dateline and everything connected with time. "No, I'm desperate," the caller said. The son stoutly refused to commit himself, and later we conferred. And we agreed—the guy must be desperate, forsooth, to be willing to take our word for it.

Senior Citizens Group Enjoys Frankfort Tour

A group representing the Archer Park Senior Citizens Traveled to Frankfort, October 17 on a visit of the state's capitol. The group visited Gov. Albert Gurnea and the Governor's mansion, where they enjoyed refreshments, toured the Capitol building, and visited with other officials.

The group traveled with members of the Franklin County Senior Citizens Center and viewed a movie, compliments of the Franklin center. Taking part in the tour were Darcus Daffert, Amanda LaFerry, Stella Justice, Jesse Burchett, Anna Mae Spencer, Luda Wallen, Goldie Vance, John Morgan Slone, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Scott, Bessie Isaac, Hazel Crisp, Vanie Turner, Mary Compton, Emma Mitchell, Era B. Mullins, Mary Ellen Ratliff, Hester Prater, and Ella Griffith Myrtle Ann and Larry Leedy, director and J. R. Miller, driver of a bus accompanied the group.

KUWAIT STOPS SELLING OIL KUWAIT—Kuwait has asked foreign oil companies to stop paying for their purchases of Kuwaiti oil. The move interpreted Kuwait as detrimental to the already troubled status of the pound in monetary markets. U. S. Ministry officials said payments for oil by British Petroleum, Gulf Oil of America and others during the third quarter of 1975 will be settled by the end of October in U. S. dollars.

Bug Which Decimates Forests Not Here Yet But Is Near

Those pines which have become brown and are losing their foliage in this county are not victims of the southern pine beetle which is cutting a destructive swath through pine forests of other sections of the state. The Division of Forestry office here said Monday.

It is the ipsa beetle, which is similar to the southern but not so destructive, that has infested pines in this county, the division spokesman said. That and, according to Extension Agent John Sparks, drought conditions and temperature fluctuation which causes defoliation of young lolly pines.

A study made recently by a state entomologist in the Henry Wiley State Park area showed that the southern pine beetle has not reached that area yet, and no evidence of that beetle has been found in the county.

In neighboring Martin county, however, the southern beetle is at work, and the proximity of that county to Floyd poses a threat.

State Forester Harry Nadler terms the problem serious and said the bug has been discovered at Pine Mountain State Resort Park where the Mountain Laurel Festival is held.

He said if the problem becomes more serious, the park could "look pretty rough."

The insect was discovered in Kentucky forest during an aerial survey last summer.

Amel E. Landgraf, a U. S. Forest Service assistant director from Atlanta, told an audience at the Phoenix Hotel in Lexington Sunday the beetle infestation began in 1972 and is "the worst in history."

The beetles have destroyed enough timber in 12 southern states to build 190,000 homes, Landgraf said. He reported in a speech to the Sixth Governor's Conference on Forestry that 1.9 billion board feet of timber have been destroyed.

The area affected in Kentucky includes 65,000 acres, Peter P. Kovalic of the U. S. Forest Service office in Winchester said. The Winchester office is the headquarters for the Daniel Boone National Forest.

Portions of the Daniel Boone National Forest in Whitley, Pulaski, Laurel and the eastern edge of McCreeky counties are affected, Kovalic said.

Nadler said Kentucky Ridge State Forest in Bell county and Kenton State Forest in Harlan county are threatened.

In about a week Kovalic will forward an $800 plan for controlling the beetles to the U. S. Forest Service office in Atlanta for approval. The control program might begin in December, when cold weather slows the beetle's appetite.

Nadler said he plans to develop a state plan in November. State officials plan to use a mobile sawmill, originally purchased as a demonstration project, to salvage dead trees.

State and federal officials said the cheapest method of control is to remove trees infested with the beetles. The bugs attack in spots, infesting perhaps only a few trees per 10 acres, the officials said.

Dr. Thomas Hansbrough, chairman of the University of Kentucky's department of forestry, told the conference Thursday that strip mining and other activities will reduce Kentucky's nearly 12 million acres of commercial forests to 10.6 million.

Hansbrough said strip-mined land is not capable of producing commercial forests in the future. He said the coal mining industry must change its philosophy from earth moving and covering up to engineering for maximum productivity after the coal is gone.

Education Group Studies Assembly Impact on Schools

The possible impact of the 1976 General Assembly on school systems of the state, including Floyd's, was discussed at a recent meeting of the Legislative committee of the Floyd County Education Association at Martin High School.

One point raised at the meeting was the claim that far too many grade school teachers do not have a planning and rest period during the school day. The committee expressed the opinion that the scheduling of such periods would improve the professional performance and emotional well-being of these teachers.

Because many small schools with limited staffs cannot schedule such periods, the committee agreed that the Legislature and the Governor should provide for the hiring of relief teachers and thus eliminate the problem existing in these schools.

The following general statement of policy was issued:

"We believe that the vast majority of the citizens in our Commonwealth want the best schools possible in which our youth can be educated and trained to the limit of their varying abilities, efforts and desires.

"We further believe that more realistic and adequate financing of our schools can no longer be delayed if we are to meet the demands of our rapidly changing society.

"Teachers are asking for salary increases to reach the average paid in surrounding states. We believe that the Governor and the Legislature should provide funds in the state's biennial school budget not only to meet the petition of the teachers but also to grant a wage increase to bus drivers, janitors, cooks, maintenance workers, clerks and stenographers in order that they may share more fully in the American Way of life.

"We realize that money (important as it is) is not all that troubles our schools today. However, we believe that the common sense of our citizens will finally prevail and our schools will improve.

"We ask that teachers, administrators, parents, students, officials and other interested citizens join together to build a better school system in our state."

Edgar Bingham, chairman of the committee, presided at the meeting. Members participating were Gleason Stone, David Hinchman, Nadine Hicks and Phillip Dingus.

Job Safety Course At PCC Next Spring

A course entitled "Occupational Safety" will be offered during the 1976 spring semester at Prestonsburg Community College. The course will aid supervisors in developing skills to train employees in good safety procedures on and off the job. Emphasis will be placed on the standards developed as the result of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 and the Kentucky Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1972. Those interested may call Robert R. Allen, 888-3888, ext. 200.

Let's Set the Record Straight for Martin

For the past eight years the Town of Martin has been moving forward. We are proud of the following accomplishments by the PROGRESSIVE TICKET and offer them for everyone's consideration:

1. We have exemplified sound and efficient fiscal responsibility for our town. We have not borrowed any money to promote our projects but have kept the town's business within its own means and income. We have spent money only as we have taken it in, and still we have been able to accomplish our goals and purposes.
2. We have not raised property taxes in the past eight years!
3. The town is in good financial condition and we are not in debt!
4. We initiated and procured funds for the present Federal Flood Control Project for Martin. We also raised the funds necessary for the preliminary channelization of this project. WITHOUT additional taxes.
5. We planned and worked zealously for the present Housing Project in downtown Martin for the elderly and disabled citizens of our town. It took several years of persistence and patience in working out this project with the Federal Government—BUT WE DID IT!
6. We secured the right-of-way to Bridge Street and elevated the road above flood level, which was a vast improvement for that part of our town.
7. We are paving our streets and building new sidewalks in town, which has helped substantially to improve appearances and conveniences for our citizens. Furthermore, the Floyd Fiscal Court has never provided any money for streets or roads in Martin.
8. We improved our law enforcement and protection of our town when the present city policeman, Herschel Lester, was hired several years ago. Mr. Lester is a very popular and respected law officer with all age groups of our community.
9. We have SUPPORTED and will continue to SUPPORT progress in our school system for our Martin Elementary School. With the addition of a new P. E. building and gymnasium, we shall continue to fight for the complete renovation of our old High School building.
10. We supported and gave needed funding to the renovation of our athletic field. A new backdrop, seats for spectators and a new fence, all were installed to improve the present facility.
11. We have supported and will continue to support and donate to our Martin Little League, Babe Ruth League and Ladies' and Girls' Softball League.
12. We have improved cleanliness and sanitation in our town.

Some Past Accomplishments by Mayor E.P. Grigsby and the Progressive Ticket from 1951-1955 and the Present Administration of 1967-1975:

1. Bought the FIRST FIRE TRUCK for Martin at a cost of $14,000, with no extra taxes or assessments from citizens.
2. Bought land and built the present City Hall at a cost of $16,000, with no extra taxes or assessments from citizens. This also included a better and more modern jail for prisoners.
3. Installed all the present modern street lights in Martin, with the exception of one that the Independents installed.
4. Bought one new and one used Fire Truck at a cost of $29,000, also bought land and built a new addition to Town Hall for the fire trucks at a cost of $6,000.
5. Reduced fire insurance rates up to 50 pct. by purchasing the fire trucks and organizing the volunteer fire department.

Wonderful Story

Wonderful story of infinite grace.
Story of One crucified in my place,
Hanging forsaken between earth and sky,
Shamed and tormented and left there to die,
His kindly head bowed with the weight of my sin,
(Paul was I, Lord, without and within)
Angels still carol the story through space,
Wonderful story of infinite grace!

Wonderful story of infinite love.
Wanting me there in Heaven above,
Seeing me, blood-washed, as spotless as He.

Building a home for a sinner like me,
O, how it eases the pain I must bear,
Only to dream of that home waiting there,
Its windows aglow with the light of His face!

Wonderful story of love and of grace!

McDowell Girls Open Net Season

The McDowell Daredovils girls' edition will travel to Allen Central, the night of Nov. 1, to open its 1975-76 basketball season.

Last year, McDowell advanced to the 15th region finals before bowing to Sheldon Clark, 56-55. McDowell also won the Tom Wiley Invitational and was co-champion of the Floyd County Conference, en route to a good 21-3 season.

McDowell will return a veteran squad headed by junior all star Gen Grigsby who averaged 41.5 points per game and scored 1,069 points for a new school record. Returning with her as starters from last year's team are 57 senior center, Rita Roberts, 5-5 senior forward guard, Pam Head, and 3-9 junior forward, Jamie Martin. Other girls with experience returning to help out are Gina Carter, Donna Humphrey, Donna Coudill, Marcia Stone, Lisa Sigall and Kathy Howell.

The team also begins the new season with a new coach, Johnny Ray Turner. Mr. Turner was head coach of the boys' team at Salyersville High School, the past two seasons. A graduate of McDowell High School, he played under former McDowell mentor, Pete Grigsby, Jr.

Wheelwright Board Names Recktenwald Citizen of the Year

Roger Recktenwald, of the Big Sandy Area Development District office here, has been designated Wheelwright's Citizen of the Year.

Mr. Recktenwald was presented the Citizen of the Year plaque at last Thursday's meeting of the town's board of trustees. The honor had been voted him at an earlier board meeting.

City officials pointed out that Recktenwald was accorded the honor because he had designed almost all his free time to Wheelwright. He resides there.

Recent arthritis research efforts have been in three main areas, identifying a possible viral or infectious agent as the cause of arthritis, pinpointing the malfunction of the body's defense system that occurs in the chain reaction leading to arthritis, clarifying the inflammatory process that causes the heat, redness, pain and swelling in serious forms of arthritis.

'Cats Ambush Indians, 14-8

By BRIAN STURGLLI

Last Friday night was Parents' Night at the Prestonsburg High School football field. The Blackcats honored their elders by beating the Madison Central Indians, 14-8.

The first quarter went without scores, but with the second quarter only having been in progress 51 seconds, William Goebel recovered a Madison Central fumble and ran five yards to score. The conversion, a pass from Greg Dixon to Tim Patrick, was complete.

Madison Central scored the next touchdown when John Hissom received a pass from Mike Harville. The point after another Harville pass, was received by Ozzie Beck making the score at half time, 8-8.

The final score of the game came for the Cats in the third quarter when Greg Dixon, quarterback, sneaked the ball 30 yards to score the winning marker.

The Blackcats had a super-defensive night. Leslie "Bear" May and Mike Clegg had 25 tackles each, Scott Walker had 20 and Sam Isbell recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass.

Both teams had a good night, offensively. For the Indians, Ozzie Beck ran the ball 123 yards and Doug Vesicic rushed for 32. The Blackcats' also had two outstanding rushers—William Goebel with 30 yards and Greg Dixon with 76.

The Blackcats with a 6-3 record go to Ricesland, Friday night.

The drive for representation by the National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees began in August. The three groups of employees listed as eligible to vote are:

What To Do in November

By NEVILLE SHAKELFORD (UK College of Agriculture)

November, according to the encyclopedia, has had fewer good words said for it than any other month. Burns wrote:

"When chill November's surly blast Made fields and forests bare."

And Taylor in his "November" tells how "Wrapped in his sad colored cloak, the Day, like a Puritan staid stern in joyless fields, rebuking the lingering color."

Perhaps the reason few kind words are the portion of November is because it seems the season of death. In temperate regions, the fields are bare and shrill and gusty winds whirl about the dead leaves that have lost their last vestige of their gorgeous autumn color. Autumn seems over, winter has not begun, and there usually isn't any snow to cover the bareness of the landscape.

The ancient Anglo-Saxons, who had a talent for naming things simply and picturesquely, called November the "wind month" and the "blood month."

The reason for the first name is obvious, the latter probably stemmed from the fact, that, in November, animals were slaughtered for the winter supply of meat.

Despite its many "melancholy days," which William Cullen Bryant immortalized in verse, November is by no means without its special attractions. There is sweet cider fresh from the press, football games, and Thanksgiving Day, and many a lover of the outdoors finds the hazy, mystical days of Indian Summer one of the most delightful seasons of the year.

As Mother Nature seems to be holding her breath, many of the out-of-door activities on the farm are at a standstill. The harvesting season is over, the crops of the field and garden are secure in the barn, pantry, and cellar, but there are still some things to do, or that can be done. UK Extension specialists say:

Bake leaves often to prevent grass from being killed. Clean out the gutters which may be full of leaves. Plant deciduous trees and shrubs and mulch these trees to reduce freezing and thawing and keep the plants from "heaving." Plant tulips. Spray roses for the last time, cut the plants back to 30 inches and tie the tops to help protect them from wind damage. Water evergreens and lawn if they need it. Wrap newly planted trees to prevent winter wind burn and bark splitting. Winterize power equipment and clean, oil, and repair all garden tools.

November is indeed a bleak month but we are urged by Sir James George Frazer to "Fear not its challenge bold. We've books and friends, and hearths that never can grow cold. These make amends."

Wounded Man Dies At Hospital Here

James Edson Arnett, 31-year-old Magoffin man who died Saturday morning at the Highlands Medical Center of a gunshot in his head, may have died of a self-inflicted wound, Magoffin authorities said later, but they are continuing an investigation.

A man reported to have been with Arnett prior to the shooting has not been found, and he is wanted for questioning, a Salyersville report said.

The victim, who is a resident of Gifford, was shot at Hendricks, on KY 30. He was a son of Oscar and Jewell Henry Arnett, now residents of Aberdeen, Ohio. Surviving, besides his parents, are his widow, Mrs. Phyllis Arnett, two sons, a daughter, three brothers and one sister.

The U.S. Department of Labor reports that the multiple jobholding rate of whites was higher than that of blacks; however, a greater proportion of black than white moonlighters held second jobs to meet regular expenses.

AVERAGE U.S. WORKER READS FROM 1 TO 4 HOURS DAILY

WESTPORT, Conn.—The average American employe probably spends from one to four hours a day reading material necessary to the performance of his job, according to a reading skills institute.

If this employe works 40 hours a week and earns $12,000 a year, he is being paid $2,300 to $6,000 a year just for reading, the institute estimates.

Patrick made the charge in testimony in support of the proposed Interfuel Competition Act of 1975 (S 489) introduced by South Dakota Senator James Abourezk. The bill would make it illegal for energy producing companies to own or control companies which own or produce competing energy resources.

"Our evidence strongly suggests that a degree of collusion exists between AMAX and SOCAL which makes a mockery out of competitive bidding on federal and Indian coal lands," Patrick declared. "The further we dig the more strong is the smell of something rotten."

Patrick said the UMWA will meet with the Federal Trade Commission later this week to share its information with the staff of the Bureau of Competition and urge the FTC to make a comprehensive investigation of SOCAL-AMAX collusion. The union has filed a complaint with the staff of the Bureau of Competition and urged the FTC to make a comprehensive investigation of SOCAL-AMAX collusion. The union has filed a complaint with the staff of the Bureau of Competition and urged the FTC to make a comprehensive investigation of SOCAL-AMAX collusion.

Patrick told the committee that the merger of the two companies was "another step towards completion of a project which has now been underway for 12 years—the effective control of all energy resources by the giant oil companies of the United States."

Both AMAX and SOCAL are heavily involved in the development and production of coal, oil, and natural gas as well as minerals and fertilizer production. The two companies would have been natural competitors, were it not for the merger, Patrick told the committee.

"Now it is clear that they will work together—and any possible benefits of competition will be lost to the energy users of America," he testified. Since 1963, Patrick told the committee, the oil gas industry has acquired control of 40 per cent of the nation's future coal production and that now three out of the top four coal-producing companies are controlled by major oil companies.

"The implications for the American consumer of this silent takeover by the oil interests of the energy market are enormous," Patrick declared. "These corporations are not accountable to us. They set their own timetables, make their own commitments, exercise great influence over the prices we pay for their products, and control the future availability of those products."

"If these companies are permitted to continue consolidating their control of these resources, the consequences are clear: first, from the standpoint of price there will be no such thing as 'competing' fuels—they may be interchangeable for each other, but the basic price structure will be established in a handful of corporate executive offices far beyond the reach of even the most outraged consumer; and second, these companies will block the development of any true national energy policy based upon what the public needs, wants, or deserves."

Patrick said that evidence of the harmful effects of the increasing monopoly control of energy can be seen in the increases in coal prices which he said closely followed the recent increases in oil prices.

Half May Lose Food Stamps

The Ford administration introduced a food stamp reform bill Monday that it says would save taxpayers $1.2 billion annually by eliminating from the rolls or reducing benefits for almost half of the 11.8 million people receiving the food coupons.

The plan, outlined before a Senate committee by Agriculture Secretary Earl Buttz, would tie the food stamp eligibility to the annual poverty figure established each year by the federal government. This figure currently is $3,050 for a family of four, but the administration plan allows $100 a month or $125 if the household contains a person over age 60 in figuring food stamp eligibility. The deduction would raise the annual gross income figure to $6,250 or $6,350.

Fate of $200,000 Hinges On Appeals Court Test

Floyd county stands to lose $200,000 of its original $1,292,771 coal severance tax rebate if a ruling made last week by Judge Squire Williams of the Franklin circuit court stands a Court of Appeals test.

Judge Williams upheld the opinion of Attorney General Ed W. Hancock that counties in which coal seams are located are eligible for the severance rebates, not those where the coal is loaded for shipment or where the mine opening is located.

The current severance rebate may be the largest this and most other counties will receive. This is the situation which looms for Floyd county for two reasons: 1. More and more coal loaded over Floyd county (plies is coming from coal seams located in other counties; 2. The reduced selling price of coal will cut into the amount of the tax.

John D. White, an attorney for Clay county, said an appeal would be filed immediately with the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

White said it was his position that coal taxes should be paid in counties where the mineral is brought out of the ground because that would result in rebates which would help to support the maintenance of roads and bridges on which coal is hauled.

He said he felt that was the intent of the legislature when it passed coal severance tax legislation to return money to coal producing counties.

The suit also involved Leslie county, where the coal seam in question is located. The mouth of that mine, the Shamrock coal mine, is in Clay county.

The suit was filed in an effort to settle the controversy which involves a total of 11 counties in Kentucky.

Leslie County Attorney Robert C. Muncy said that his county would not be eligible for any severance tax rebates if the attorney general's opinion was not upheld because there are no facilities to move the coal in Leslie County.

The suit was filed Oct. 2 by state Finance Commissioner William Scent, naming Leslie and Clay counties as defendants. Also named in the suit were officials of both counties.

Clay and Leslie aren't the only two counties that will be affected by the suit, which Scent said will be appealed to the state Court of Appeals. But those two counties have been involved in the most recent dispute over the collection and return of coal tax money.

Scent said the purpose of the suit is to settle the question once and for all, that no facts are disputed and that all sides merely want a ruling from the state's highest court.

Scent said he expects the high court to rule on the matter within four weeks.

Some coal operators report production for tax purposes on coal taken from mine openings while others report on the basis of which counties the coal was taken from.

If the courts uphold the attorney general's opinion, Leslie county stands to gain more than $290,000. But Clay County would benefit if the appeals court ultimately holds that coal tax should be collected in counties where the mouth of the mine is located.

Scent's suit said no severance tax money has been sent since Sept. 5 to the 11 counties that would be affected and that none will be until the outcome of the litigation is determined.

The 11 counties involved are Clay, Leslie, Floyd, Harlan, Hopkins, Johnson, Knott, Letcher, Martin, Perry and Webster.

WHAT IS BABY BEEF?

TESTENDER BEEF

is what comes naturally

With ARMOUR TESTENDER BEEF, you know in advance... you eliminate the chance. Naturally Tender Beef every bite, every cut, every purchase. It's guaranteed. Look for the Testender Seal on our meat cases. You'll find it on steaks, roasts, beef for stews, prime ribs, chucks, rounds and briskets. The Testender Seal is your assurance of natural tenderness, that elusive, sought-after quality that can't be added on, built-in or imagined. Nature has to put it there and Armour knows how to find it for you, every bite, every cut, every purchase.

More lean meat. Much less fat. That's why ARMOUR Veribest pork chops make a better meat bargain.

And because ARMOUR Veribest pork chops do have larger lean areas, you don't end up paying for useless fat.

But you do end up with pork chops that shrink less when cooking than fattier, "average" pork chops.

Make more out of your pork chop meals. With leaner, protein-packed, great-tasting ARMOUR Veribest pork chops. Try some today.

A cut above the rest.

In response to consumer demand for lower priced meats, Shoppers Choice is now offering you an economical beef buy - Baby Beef. Although a lower priced meat, it does not mean a reduction in its nutritional value.

Baby Beef is the meat from young cattle, too old to be classified as veal but younger than the widely available mature beef.

For these reasons, cooking procedures which supply some fat either by the cooking method (braising, pan-frying or deep-fat frying) or marinating are desirable.

Baby Beef is a mild, delicate-flavored meat that requires less cooking time than for comparable cuts of beef and should not be cooked too well done.

Addingtons Get Third Contract

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 15—The Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) has awarded the fourth short-term coal contract in five months to a Kentucky firm, calling for low-sulphur coal at $23.45 a ton, the agency reports.

A TVA spokesman said the price is slightly higher than those under the three contracts awarded earlier this year when the prices averaged $21.78 per ton.

Low-sulphur coal is now being used at TVA's Shawnee Steam Plant at Paducah, Ky. because Western Kentucky farmers complained of crop damage caused by sulphur gas emissions.

The latest contract to Addington Brothers Mining, Inc. of Elliott County, Ky., calls for an additional 35,000 tons of low-sulphur coal to be delivered to the plant over a four-week period.

The coal will come from strip mines operated by the company in Eastern Kentucky said TVA spokesman Lee Sheppard.

Some weeks ago, Addington Bros received a contract from TVA for 100,000 tons of Eastern Kentucky coal, and a few weeks later received another order from TVA for an additional 100,000 tons.

New Clinic Opposed By Jackson Council

By BRYAN WILKINS
(In The Lexington Herald)

Jackson, Ky.—The City Council of this Breathitt county seat has come out in opposition to the construction of a health clinic—even though the county's fiscal court has already voted funds toward its construction.

The council notified Paul Townes, executive director of the KYRADD (Kentucky River Area Development District) in a letter to "express opposition to the project."

"We have four active, full-time general practitioners of medicine, two drugstores and four full-time dentists. It's our opinion that subjecting our businesses to competition here in Jackson is not justified."

The fiscal court has already voted to contribute $110,000 toward construction of the proposed health clinic. The funds would come from coal severance tax revenues. Mountain Comprehensive Health Corp. has also promised funds of $150,000 for the clinic.

Jackson's four doctors are among the main opponents of the clinic. In a letter to Mrs. Lois Baker, administrator of Mountain Comprehensive Health, they said:

"We are offering the people of Breathitt county the best type of medical care that can reasonably be expected of general practitioners in a rural area of this type."

"An increased number of general practitioners in Breathitt county will not alleviate the necessity for major medical and surgical services. . . . we feel that this type of structure will not offer any more services to our people than we are now offering."

The four doctors, Robert Cornett, F. C. Lewis, Price Sewell III and Emmanuel Turner concluded their letter, "We wish to object strenuously to any type of subsidized, socialistic program competing with our private practice of medicine."

Carbon copies of the doctors' letter were sent to Gov. Julian Carroll, Cong. Carl Perkins, representative from the Seventh District and heads of state government agencies.

State Board Investigating Alleged Merit System Violations

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The State Board of Education has resolved to undertake a full investigation of alleged merit system violations by Department of Education personnel. The decision was made at a special board meeting Oct. 22, called by Dr. Lyman V. Ginger, state superintendent of public instruction.

The allegations stem from the sale of tickets to a bean supper held on April 28 to support the candidacy of Dr. James Graham for the Democratic nomination for superintendent of public instruction. Graham won the nomination and if elected Nov. 4 will succeed Ginger.

Since the state's merit system law prohibits soliciting political contributions from merit system employees, the state Personnel Board has been investigating the matter since late May and has now requested a reply from Ginger before Oct. 24.

The purpose of the special meeting was to determine an appropriate response to the Personnel Board's request.

The Board of Education responded that it will conduct its own investigation Nov. 13-15. This will give the school board time to review the material assembled by the Personnel Board and to determine the scope of the problem, said Henry S. Pogue Jr., a Board of Education member.

Rev. Bob Brown, school board chairman, said the Board of Education had allocated three days for the hearing in order to allow a thorough investigation. The board will hear testimony, make its judgment and send that judgment to the Personnel Board.

In response to a question after the meeting, Ginger said the Board of Education has subpoena power and will use it if necessary.

"The board is anxious to get the complete picture—the whole scope of it," Ginger said. "The board is very serious about this."

Area School Boards Elect New Chairman

School board members and administrators from seven area school districts last Thursday elected Holmes Cassidy chairman of the Kentucky School Boards Eastern Kentucky South Region for 1976. Mr. Cassidy, who is chairman of the Martin County Board of Education, will also serve on the KSBA board of directors.

The KSBA regional dinner meeting was held at May Lodge, with Paul Hinkle, the retiring chairman, presiding. Mr. Hinkle is chairman of the Pikeville Board of Education.

Participants, including local district school board members, administrators, KSBA officers and staff, heard presentations on legislative matters and association programs and services, and discussed issues and concerns of interest to school boards in the Eastern Kentucky South Region.

Richmond Salyer, a member of the Magoffin County Board of Education, was elected vice-chairman of the region, replacing Carl Billiter, member of the Pike County Board of Education. Sheldon Clark, superintendent of Martin county schools, was elected to succeed Pikeville School Superintendent Charles Spears as secretary.

By Rufus M. Reed

Birds of English Literature

1. THE NIGHTINGALE: As this bird's name indicates, it sings only at night, and like the famed English skylark, it is not found in any other region except Europe. This renowned songster was immortalized by John Keats in his famous poem, "Ode to the Nightingale." It is said the haunting melody of this bird's song so deeply touched the poetic heart of Keats that he would sit for hours at night listening to its song while the tears coursed down his cheeks. It is also said that few gaudily colored birds have a superb gift of song. Nature seems to compensate for the nightingale's drab, brown color by endowing it with the gift of sublime melody. The bird's classical name is philomela. It is about the size of our native song sparrow but is perhaps the most gifted songster of the world.

The God we worship doesn't ask us to help one another. He demands it.

Start treating your brothers and sisters like brothers and sisters

Now a word about Keats. His one great ideal was Beauty. Once he wrote, "Beauty is beauty and beauty is truth. A thing of beauty is a joy forever. It will never pass into nothingness."

It was the ethereal beauty of the nightingale's song that inspired him to write his immortal poem about the bird. Keats was one of the great geniuses of English Literature, and it is a stark tragedy that he died of tuberculosis at the early age of 28. Yet, in that brief life span he accomplished more than most men who live to a ripe old age.

Our own mockingbird is sometimes called "The American Nightingale," but his song lacks the haunting beauty of the English nightingale.

2. TENNYSON'S EAGLE: The golden eagle of Tennyson's England built its nest on high cliffs overlooking the sea. Our golden eagle of the west builds its nest on high cliffs in the mountains.

Tennyson often watched the great, golden eagle as he leaped from some high crag and fell like lightning upon his prey far below. He was thus inspired to write one of the most beautifully descriptive poems in the English language entitled, "The Eagle." Here is a poem which in a few descriptive lines describes the ways of the eagle better than a naturalist can with a whole page of prose. I quote his poem, "The Eagle."

"He clasps the crag with crooked hands
Close to the sun in lonely lands,
Ringed with the azure world's
He stands.
The wrinkled sea beneath
him crawls;
He watches from his mountain walls,
And like a thunderbolt he falls."

The golden eagle is one of the most magnificent birds of the world, having a wing span of nearly eight feet and a golden neck like burnished gold.

This eagle and our National Emblem, the bald eagle, are both in grave danger of extinction. Poisoned fish have wrought havoc with the numbers of the bald eagle, reducing them to a dangerous low. The golden eagle of the west has been wantonly slaughtered by ruthless men shooting it down from airplanes. It was accused of capturing lambs, a reputation it scarcely deserves. Its food consists mainly of small mammals. I feel strongly that we should do all in our power to save these eagles from extinction.

Hazardous Waste Study Funded

The division of solid waste of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has received a $45,000 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to make a survey of Kentucky industries that produce hazardous waste.

Combined with $45,000 furnished by the state, the federal grant will be used to determine the amount of hazardous waste produced in Kentucky and where it is being disposed. The state will also survey site problems related to hazardous waste and report on its findings.

There are not permitted disposal sites in Kentucky for potentially dangerous chemical and liquid wastes, according to Karl Patterson, director of the hazardous waste program in the division of solid waste.

Although no one will know how much hazardous waste is produced in Kentucky until late spring when the study should be finished, Patterson said: "It must be a lot."

Patterson predicted that the study will show most of the hazardous material is centralized in the large metropolitan areas such as Louisville, Northern Kentucky and Lexington. "The 15 or 16 paint manufacturing plants in Louisville produce about 20,000 gallons of hazardous waste during one week alone," he said.

After the survey of the 1,500 industries in Kentucky is completed, Patterson should know where the state's hazardous waste is being disposed. "Since there isn't a permitted place to put the stuff in Kentucky, I suspect we'll probably find that a lot of the waste is being dumped where it shouldn't be," said Patterson. He said hazardous wastes have probably been dumped illegally into rivers and solid waste landfills and so far, the only way an industry can dispose of its hazardous wastes legally is to transport it out of state to a suitable, legal disposal site. "The expenses of transporting the waste out of state probably prompts some people to get rid of it illegally... and dangerously."

Two of the closest sites for disposal of hazardous waste are in Columbus, Ind. and Franklin, Ohio. At these sites, oil is separated from the remainder of the material and the waste is treated. Then the waste is disposed of and the oil is sold.

Little Uncle Sam Wants You

Portraying Uncle Sam on Allen Elementary's float in Saturday's Red, White and Blue Day parade, Terry Mitchell indicates with pointing finger, "I Want You." Terry is son of Judy Mitchell, of Prestonsburg.

Consumer Comments

By ED W. HANCOCK

(Attorney General)
Have you bought land in Kentucky or out of state that isn't what you thought it was? If so, you may be taken again by dishonest salesmen.

There are people who know about the land you bought and how much you paid for it. This information may be used by these people in an effort to convince you that they can sell the property for you. Don't be taken in.

Beware of two sales pitches often used by these people:

In one, a salesman contacts you saying he has a "buser" wanting to purchase your land. It will cost you several hundred dollars to have the land sold, but this money, according to the salesman, is applied to closing costs and attorney's fees. The money will be required in advance. If he gets your money, chances are good that you won't see him or the money again.

The other sales gambit is asking you to "list" your land for sale. The price to list the land is several hundred dollars for the first listing and additional money for listings thereafter. Again, many Kentucky consumers have paid their money and never had the property listed or sold, since no real listing service exists as represented.

Beware of land salesmen that come to your door or call you on the phone. Check their reliability. Don't be taken the second time.

If you have a complaint about a land salesman or any other matter, write to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, The Capitol, Room 14, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call toll-free on the consumer hotline, 1-800-372-2969.

Forestry Office Here To Have Plane for Fire Detection

Frankfort, Ky. Falling leaves are ushering in Kentucky's annual fall fire season.

As Harry Nadler, director of the division of forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, points out, "The bright orange and red leaves of autumn are falling to the ground, turning brown and drying out. Unfortunately, some of these same colors will be reborn in orange-red flames of forest fires that will feed on the newly fallen leaves."

Nadler said this fall the division of forestry is extending its use of airplanes in forest fire detection to two additional districts. The six-county eastern district with headquarters at Prestonsburg and the 12 counties of the Green River district headquartered at Madsenville have been selected for the expanded aerial detection system this fall.

According to Nadler, the system has been used successfully in the western and northeastern districts for several years. Nadler said the airplanes permit forestry officials to spot fires quicker and with more accuracy. The airplanes are very helpful to the ground crews in providing directions for the shortest route into a fire. This should be particularly useful in the heavily forested eastern district.

Nadler said use of the aerial detection system does not mean the forestry division is abandoning its system of fire lookout towers. Several key lookouts will be operated in the eastern and Green River districts to aid in communications. The remaining towers will be used in emergencies.

This fall the division will start receiving fire weather forecasts from the National Weather Service in Louisville, rather than Cincinnati as had been done in the past. These forecasts, combined with information the division receives from local weather stations, help the fire control people predict both the likelihood of fires starting and how rapidly they might burn if they do start.

Nadler said that this past spring Kentucky had its least destructive fire season with 945 fires burning 9,452 acres. "If everyone exercises reasonable care this fall," said Nadler, "1975 will be the best year that Kentucky has ever had."

Someone says that there are five foods which are essential in a person's growth. They are love, learning, beauty, service and suffering. Without these foods the soul does not grow.
Green hunger the soul grows in an experience of love. We are nourished when one hungers for learning. Studies, seeks mastery of a subject. Beauty comes only when we strive to appreciate or create the beautiful.
Suffering as food may seem to us hard experiences, but have you not noticed that men intent upon spiritual achievement have grown more surely and rapidly when suffering was their lot rather than when life moved along like a song.

Jenny Wiley Council Hears Work Reviews

The doors of the new Salvagers Grade School were opened recently to the October meeting of the Jenny Wiley Reading Council. Teachers and parents representing three counties gathered to review and discuss various programs peculiar to individual schools in this area.
Linda Conley, reading teacher in the Prater-Borders Elementary School in Magoffin county, gave the group a brief description of the school's total reading program. Now in its fourth year, the program involves every teacher as a reading teacher, and designates the first hour of each day as a teaching of reading period. This project, according to Mrs. Conley, has been successful, and a marked improvement in the students' overall reading ability can be seen.
A report prepared by kindergarten teacher Donna Gray and supplemented by first-grade teacher Wilma Crisp described the pilot kindergarten program now in progress in Floyd county's Martin Elementary School. Emphasizing social growth and language development, the Martin kindergarten consists of both morning and afternoon sessions. Some of the objectives include the teaching of alphabet names, numerals 1-20, listening skills, and identification of colors. Because of the child's involvement in kindergarten activities, the first grade readiness period is sometimes eliminated.
Parents and teachers were introduced to the ita (initial teaching alphabet) method of teaching reading currently used in the McDowell school. An alphabet consisting of 44 characters instead of the traditional 26, it enables the student to associate one character with only one sound, according to reading teacher, Bertha Rathiff. The transition from ita to the traditional alphabet usually occurs around the end of the first grade or the beginning of the second.
Highlighting the evening activities was an entertainment act by students from the Prater-Borders School. Refreshments were served by the Magoffin county school personnel.

Polltaker Reports Citizens Favor Judicial Amendment

Approximately 90 percent of the voting-age Kentuckians contacted in a recent survey favor having a modern court system in the state and by a margin of nearly five to one, indicated that they would vote "Yes" on a Constitutional Amendment for the courts that will be included on the November 4 general election ballot.
In answer to the question "Are you in favor of amending the Constitution of the Commonwealth to revise the Judicial Branch of Government by establishing one Court of Justice, composed of a Supreme Court, a Court of Appeals, a trial court of limited jurisdiction known as the district court, but retain the non-judicial powers and duties conferred upon the county judge and justices of the peace; providing the location, composition, administration and jurisdiction of such courts; providing for the eligibility, term of office, election removal, filling of vacancies, prohibited activities, compensation, and retirement of judges of such courts, providing for the clerks of such courts; and providing a schedule of transition for those judges in office on the effective date of the amendment?" 43 percent said they would vote "Yes", nine percent said "No", and the remainder said they "don't know".
These are some of the results of a survey by the John Kraft Opinion Research Company of Washington, D. C., to determine the reaction of Kentucky voters to certain aspects of the Court of Justice as contained in the amendment.
The amendment would establish a Court of Justice for Kentucky composed of a Supreme Court, an intermediate Court of Appeals, circuit courts, and district courts. The amendment would also require that all judges within the Court of Justice be licensed attorneys elected to office on a nonpartisan basis.
The survey showed that Kentuckians are greatly in favor of the professional, structural and financial changes contained in the amendment as they compare to the present court system.
For example, 82 percent favor having judges elected rather than appointed and 74 percent feel that judges should be elected in a nonpartisan manner with no political party involvement. Also, 66 percent of those surveyed felt that, once elected, judges should be required to give up any outside law practice.
Regarding structural changes 75 percent felt that Kentucky needs two courts for appeals, an intermediate court for lesser cases and a higher court for more important cases.
Although 58 percent of those surveyed favor having the county judge handle only executive and fiscal duties and not serve as a judge in the courts, 72 percent feel that each county should have at least one full-time lower court judge.
Concerning the appointment and removal of judges, 50 percent agree that vacancies should be filled by the Governor from a list of three names chosen by a panel of lawyers, laymen, and judges. Sixty-nine percent favor having a 6-member commission of one lawyer, two laymen, and three judges that could remove judges for good cause. Financially, 53 percent agree that state government should pay the cost of all Kentucky courts, but 66 percent feel that fines and fees collected for the violation of local ordinances should be returned to local governments with the remainder going to help finance the new courts.

Finally, 74 percent of those surveyed feel that Kentucky should have a court system that was a model for the country, while 12 percent are in favor of keeping the present court system as it was established in 1891.

A two-day consultative and diagnostic heart clinic for medically indigent patients will be held at the Floyd County Health Department, Wednesday and Thursday, November 12 and 13. The clinic is being organized so that adults only will be admitted to the clinic on November 12 and children only will be seen on November 13. Physicians from the departments of Medicine and Pediatrics at the University of Kentucky Medical Center will conduct the clinic. Co-sponsored by the Kentucky Heart Association, the Bureau for Health Services, and the County Health Department, this clinic provides a diagnostic service for the patient along with recommendations for treatment and management of the case. It also provides an opportunity for the referring physician to consult with the clinical regarding his patient. Necessary expenses of the clinic are being underwritten by the Kentucky Heart Association and the Bureau for Health Services. Clinic personnel as well as space and equipment will be provided by the Floyd County Health Department as well as the Bureau for Health Services and the Kentucky Heart Association. Only those patients who have been referred by a physician and have a written referral will be admitted to the clinic. Those in this clinic area are Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike.

The proportion of all employed persons who held more than one job in 1973, at 8.7 percent, was also about the same as a year earlier.

Former Policemen Back on Job Here

Two former policemen here have returned to the Prestonsburg police force, bringing the department up to full strength after a few months of manpower shortage. Returning to the force are Kenneth Kelly and Craig Kilgore, both of whom were deputy sheriffs for a time after leaving the police department. City officials said this week Prestonsburg's two new parking lots are ready for blacktopping and that when they are put to use, hopefully within the next 10 days, Prestonsburg will have possibly more municipal parking facilities than any town of its size in Eastern Kentucky. One of the lots, on the site of the former Sally E. Clarke home on Arnold Avenue, lies between the City's First Avenue lot and the fourth house parking facility. The other is on property purchased by the city from the Anna Stephens heirs.

The multiple jobholding rate for men, at 5.8 percent, remained substantially higher than the rate for women, 2.3 percent. Men 25 54 years old and married men continued to have the highest multiple jobholding rates.

Floyd County Health Notes

A public health nurse from the Floyd County Health Department will conduct an outpost clinic Monday, November 3, at the Beaver Valley Clinic in Martin. Clinic hours will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with the following services being available: immunizations, pap smears, TB skin tests, blood pressures, and diabetes screening.

A pap smear clinic will be held at the Floyd County Health Department Thursday, October 30, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. This clinic is free and open to all women. The public health nurses remind all women that in order to have continuing protection against cervical cancer, they should have a pap smear at least once a year.

Local Avon District Wins Nat'l Contest

The success of Avon ladies in this district will go a long way toward bringing a bit of cosmopolitan life to this section soon. The district, which includes Floyd and Pike counties, has won Avon's national sales contest which means that Avon representatives in this area under the supervision of Mrs. Betty Galliner out-sold those in 2,800 other districts nationwide. The president of Avon and other company officials will be here Tuesday, November 11, for a fete in honor of their super-salesladies. This will be not just the usual dinner, but will also see the presentation of $15,000 in awards, including a car, color TVs, fur wraps, and other items.

Safe Venting of Furnaces, Stoves Can Prevent Deaths from Monoxide

Every winter some people die, usually in their sleep, from inhaling the fumes of an improperly-vented or malfunctioning stove or furnace.

Combustion fumes leaking into the house or backing up into a heating unit kill people and cause fires every heating season, according to UK Extension agricultural engineers. Don't give this hazard a chance at your house.

Carbon monoxide fumes from any fuel-burning range, space heater or furnace are poisonous. That's why you shouldn't use a gas oven to take the chill off your kitchen, why you should leave pilot lights on, and why you must always vent any type of fuel-burning heater or furnace safely to the outdoors.

So keep your chimney clean, removing soot, broken bricks, bird nests, and anything else that might hinder the escape of gas. Test the chimney to see if it draws well by holding a lighted match or piece of burning newspaper near the clean-out or other opening. If smoke goes right up the chimney, it is drawing properly.

If it's not drawing properly, check the outdoor height of your chimney or stovepipe. If chimney is not at the roof peak, it should extend at least 2 feet 6 inches above the highest point. The top of the chimney at the peak of the roof should come at least 2 feet above the peak. On a flat roof, the top of the chimney or stovepipe should extend at least 3 feet above the rooftop.

Ideally, each stove or furnace should have a separate flue to vent into. Every time you add another pipe to a flue, the other pipes get less of the suction action that draws smoke and fumes up and outdoors. If you have a part-time stove you use in the same flue as a furnace, be sure to plug the chimney hole or close the damper tightly when the stove is not in use.

If you must vent two stoves into the same flue, run them in at different levels, at least 2 feet apart. Close each stove's damper when it's not in use. If you remove the stove, plug the chimney hole so the regular heating system can do its job more efficiently.

If nearby trees or tall buildings create downdrafts in your chimney, installing a regulation hood or chimney top may help deflect these air currents. These will also help keep out rain and snow.

Check vent pipes routinely to make sure there are no holes or loose connections that would let gas fumes escape back into the house.

Symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning are drowsiness, headaches, dizziness, confusion, nausea, muscular weakness, and unconsciousness. If someone is overcome by carbon monoxide gas, get him to fresh air, start mouth-to-mouth rescue breathing right away, and call a doctor.

But It's Not For Free We Pay For It All

Julian: "My Position On Busing"

Governor Julian Carroll has collected from the Kentucky taxpayers nearly $300 million in unnecessary taxes over and above the amount called for in the state budget.

This money comes out of your pockets. It is money you could have spent. Instead, it went to the politicians in Frankfort.

Carroll collected and spent nearly $1 million to finance his primary campaign when he was generally accounted a sure winner.

From these facts arise a disturbing question... What Promises did Julian make to his campaign financiers to raise such an exorbitant amount of money and why did he find it necessary to come up with a $300 million excess in taxes? A disturbing correlation could be drawn and summed up in the simple work "kickbacks."

Kentuckians deserve better than this....

Facts On Increased Taxes 1972- 1975

CATEGORY	UP	FOR EVERY DOLLAR YOU PAID IN 1971, YOU NOW PAY
SALES TAXES	36.2 Pct.	$1.36
PERSONAL INCOME TAXES	59.5 Pct.	$1.60
PRIVILEGE TAXES	689.1 Pct.	$7.89
STATE GASOLINE TAX	46.1 Pct.	$1.46
STATE GENERAL REVENUE TAXES	49.1 Pct.	$1.49

Scandals

When Julian Carroll ran for Lt. Governor, his campaign committees received thousands of dollars in illegal under-the-table contributions from a big oil company and from strip-miners in Virginia.

This year, Julian received money from an unregistered political committee, a violation of Kentucky law.

The Grand Jury is now investigating the many illegal activities found by the Congress while auditing a fund-raising campaign in which Julian participated. The activities include illegal corporate contributions, secret safety deposit boxes, interest-free loans and kickbacks from contractors.

How does Julian get away with it? He gave a $90,000 personal service contract to a member of the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance. And that member is a business associate of Julian's bag-man in his million dollar primary campaign.

JULIAN CARROLL IS GOVERNOR TODAY ONLY BECAUSE THE STATUTE OF LIMITATION HAS RUN OUT SO THAT HE CAN NOT BE HELD LIABLE FOR HIS CAMPAIGN VIOLATIONS.

Julian Wants More Taxes

Julian isn't satisfied with the extra $300 million in taxes he collected from you in 1974-75. He has his Revenuers seeking ways TO GET MORE TAX MONEY. For example, they are studying a proposal to prevent you from claiming on your state income tax report what you paid on your Federal income tax return. THIS WILL COST YOU ABOUT 25 per cent MORE THAN YOU ARE ALREADY PAYING.

All In The Family

Few people in Frankfort have benefitted financially from the Carroll Administration as has Steve Wilson, Brother-in-law of the Governor.

Wilson has reportedly become a wealthy man in less than a year as a "promoter" and a "public-relations" man. He has used his family influence most recently to realize large profits in producing such state events as the Boonesborough Bicentennial. Wilson also received thousands of dollars from the campaign coffers of his brother-in-law, the Governor.

In Memoriam

In memory of Lewis Edward Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Hall:

Loving thoughts and solemn tears Have marked the passing of four years. Tears may dry and fade away, But in our hearts you will always stay. Memories are treasures that no one can steal.

Death is a heartache that no one can heal. In our hearts your memory lingers. Sweetly, tender, fond and true. There is not a day, dear Lewis, That we do not think of you. He passed away beyond the River. We hear his voice no more. He is resting, sweetly resting. Over on the other shore.

Sadly missed by Mother and Father, Sisters, and Brothers 11
