Highway 23 Main Topic Of Meeting

Ashland Group Here On Tour Told Road Completion in Plan

Highways—a four-lane US 23, in particular—was the theme of the annual visit last Thursday evening of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce to this county.

Approximately 30 Ashland business and professional men, who were traveling by bus, met with business and civic leaders of Floyd. Johnson, Lawrence and Pike counties at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. Mayor Pro-Tem Harold Cooley and City Manager Curtis Clark represented the city of Prestonsburg in the absence of Mayor William O. Goebel, who is a patient in a Louisville hospital.

A four-lane US 23, all the way from South Shore, Ky. to the Kentucky-Virginia line was emphasized as the No. 1 aim of the visiting group, but consideration was given to an improved KY 3 from Louisa to Inez to Prestonsburg and to KY 80 from Water Gap to Hazard.

Bill Anderson, assistant division engineer, Department of Highways, said planning for four-laning US 23 from Ashland to Louisa is under way. He predicted future action of the same type of work for the route from Louisa to Prestonsburg.

Marking what he termed "a wild guess," Anderson said four-laning of the entire 186 miles of the highway could be completed within the next 6 to 10 years. Four-lane construction from Pikeville toward Jenkins is under way, but the work there has encountered delays, in one sector planning has not been completed, it was said.

Court Approves Water Project

The Floyd fiscal court announced this week it has found that extension of water lines by the Beaver Elkhorn Water District will have no significant effect on the environment and that it proposes to request the release of funds to pay the cost of the work.

The court will ask $300,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and this will be augmented by $286,000 of Appalachian Regional Commission money.

The proposed project involves extension of water distribution lines from three to eight inches in diameter to Finance Hollow, Drift Branch, McDowell Branch, McDowell (Middle Fork), Bosco and David. Approximately 17 miles of line will be laid, making water service available to approximately 300 homes. Involved in the work is the extension of water service from the district's existing main on Brush Creek, across the mountain and down the left fork of Middle Creek to the town of David.

Public comments on the proposed work may be submitted to the office of County Judge Henry Stumbo till Nov. 25.

To Get $1,113,000 Employment Grant

Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced last week that a $1,113,000 Economic Development Administration (EDA) grant has been approved for the five-county Big Sandy area of which Floyd county is a part.

The EDA grant is intended to supply employment for 125 persons in the five counties. It will be administered by the Big Sandy Community Action Program to fight unemployment.

Inducted to MSU Hall of Fame

Robert R. Allen, assistant director of Prestonsburg Community College, was recently inducted into the Hall of Fame at Morehead State University.

The ceremony took place at the annual Morehead State University homecoming candlelight dinner, with MSU President Dr. Adron Doran presiding. Mr. Allen and nine others were the first to be named to the Hall of Fame. A portrait of Mr. Allen will be displayed in the new Alumni House on the Morehead State University Campus.

Earlier this year, Mr. Allen received the Morehead State University Outstanding Alumni award for 1975. This award was based upon outstanding academic achievement and his contribution to Morehead State University. Mr. Allen, who has been on the executive committee of the Alumni Association since 1970, holds three degrees from MSU.

Board Accepts Allen Central Gymnasium Job

The Floyd County Board of Education voted Saturday its acceptance of the construction of Allen Central High School, subject to State Department of Education approval.

If the state department approves, the gym will be used at first for basketball practice and soon, possibly, for actual competition. Superintendent Clark said.

The swimming pool to be used in connection with the new school's physical education program remains the main work to be done.

The board at its monthly meeting Saturday accepted the resignation of Eula C. Hall, as English teacher in Prestonsburg High School and employed Mary Hall in her stead.

Four persons were employed to coach basketball in three elementary schools of the county. The coaches and their assignments are:

Danny O'Quinn, girls' basketball at Garrett; Sandy Boyd, both boys' and girls' basketball at Prater; Forrest Curry, boys' basketball at Betsy Layne; Bill Newsome, girls' basketball at Betsy Layne.

Beer, Whisky Hauls Made

Four Left Beaver Creek raids staged by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis, Lenzie Hunt, Denver Spurlock, D. D. and Melvin Martin during a six-day period ending Sunday resulted in the arrest of a man and two women and the confiscation of 46 cases of beer, 385 half-pints of whiskey and gin, 23 pints of whiskey and two quarts of wine.

First of the raids was made last Tuesday at Ligon, where eight cases of beer and a half-pint of gin were found on the premises of Bobby Joe Flanery. The premises of Gloria Dean Salisbury at Ligon were twice raided, first last Thursday when eight cases of beer and 23 pints of whiskey were taken, and again Sunday when two quarts of wine were found. Biggest haul was made Friday in the raid on the premises of Naomi Martin at Drift where 720 cans of beer and 384 half-pints of whiskey were confiscated.

A search of 385 half-pints of whiskey on a charge of selling intoxicants, and Gloria Dean Salisbury was jailed on a charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Bobby Joe Flanery was jailed on possession and transporting counts. Others booked at the county jail within the week were: Havin and Melvin, and names of arresting officers follow.

Jackie D. Cooper, drunk driving and operating on a revoked license, by State Trooper K. Havin and E. Havin, and Randy Tackett, attempting to elude a.

Floyd County Couple May Lose Mine Fight

A Floyd county couple who won their fight last April to prevent strip-mining in the vicinity of their home at Teaberry Mud Creek may lose, after all.

The state Division of Reclamation has granted the Paul Pelphrey Coal Co., of Paintsville, preliminary approval of a permit to mine land across KY 979 from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Newsom. Reclamation officials said all the Paintsville firm needs to do to get a permit is to construct a silt dam.

The Newsoms and some of their neighbors are fighting the proposed work, which will extend 7,200 feet along Mud Creek, contending they fear the slope to be mined is too steep and too near their homes for them to be safe.

This Town...That World

HE HAS DOUBLE TROUBLE

Any time you have an idea you're having it rough, look around. Somebody else, if it's any consolation, is in a worse fix. Today, Tuesday, has been a rough one for delectably 'rs. Bottom of the barrel scraped for news. Bottom here, as I should have known it would be. Why not start walking due south?

Then it occurred to me. I have only a paper to get to bed, and a few miles down the road is a fellow-editor having it rougher even than I. I refer to my comrade, "Bud" Perry, who this day has the unusual distinction of trying his hand at not one but two tough jobs: 1. Getting enough news together to pass for a newspaper; 2. Trying at the same time to get himself elected mayor.

And I hope he succeeds in both endeavors.

A REAL ANTIQUE

That news item telling of a woman's gift to Governor Carroll, the other day, of a 110-year-old rolling pin reminds us that Mrs. Edith F. James, of Prestonsburg, has a rolling pin that is at least 113 years old, and nobody knows how much older. It was a piece of flintam caught during the flood of 1862, the greatest the Big Sandy valley ever experienced by Mrs. James' father, Jasper Fitzpatrick, according to family lore. The rolling pin apparently hasn't been through much, it is so round and smooth, and until a few years ago was in almost daily use.

HOW TO GO BROKE WITHOUT REALLY TRYING

If you think crooks are smart, consider this story of a gang which started out in this county one night, a few years back, to get enough cash together to finance a whiskey-buying trip to Perry county. First of all, they picked up an estimated $100 worth of T-bones from a meat market. Just to be sure, they went to a hardware store, they decided to appropriate some of its stock.

But there was the matter of a large and not exactly friendly German shepherd standing in the way. So what do they do? One of the gang who had had previous acquaintance with the dog fed him the T-bones to keep him quiet while the others were appropriating a few items worth far less than the meat.

BUT YOU CAN'T PUT BEER ON A STRINGER

Both of my readers have been clamoring for flat stories. Well, I made a trip, all the way to London (Kentucky, that is) to this new Laurel Lake in search of one. No fish story, I didn't, so to speak, about myself on my own petard by catching myself in the seat of the pants on my backswing and then heaving forward and on out of the boat. Didn't get lost, didn't fall into the lake. And if the weather was wonderful, even though three of us, all close relatives of Joe Pisk, descended upon the impoundment like locusts. The "best I got to a fish was the 15-inch rainbow trout my son caught and

First Work on $750,000 Lake Project

Although the dredging project planned for Brandy Keg Cove awaits drawdown of Dewey Lake by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, the P & N Construction Co., of Lexington, has begun other work as part of the planned renovation of the Jenny Wiley boat dock facility which is located in the cove. Shown under construction here is a cut-stone retaining wall bordering an access road to houseboat moorings.

W'wright Gets Road Aid Funds

Gov. Julian Carroll has announced that the city of Wheelwright has been allotted $10,892.55 in municipal road aid money for the current fiscal year, beginning July 1.

Of the total amount allotted, $3,627 was identified as new money. The remainder consists of previously allocated funds remaining unexpended from the last fiscal year. The funds will be used to support the installation of street signs, blacktop patching, blacktop resurfacing and construction of sidewalks on various streets and roads within the city limits.

The work will be done by the city with the state's Bureau of Highways financing all or a portion of it in accordance with the municipal aid agreement.

Similar allocations to other communities also are being announced locally. In all, the state expects to allot nearly $9.5 million to municipal road aid programs during this fiscal year.

The Associated Press at 8 p.m. Tuesday projected victory for the entire state Democratic ticket.

P'burg, Martin City Elections Enliven Voting

Floyd county, as usual, was voting solidly Democratic, according to incomplete election returns Tuesday night, and in the early going the Democratic state ticket appeared to be winning.

Locally however, two city races commanded most interest.

At Martin E. P. "Pete" Grigsby, Sr., the incumbent, won the race for mayor by a scant nine votes on the face of unofficial returns over James (Jack) Conley. Grigsby polled 237 votes to 228 for his opponent.

In Prestonsburg the new eight-member City Council will be composed of Harold Cooley, George Cecil Brown, Hansel Cooley, Ronald L. Hager, E. "Shag" Branham, Donald D. Nunney, Floyd Johnson and Paul Phillip Hughes. All but Brown, Hager and Hughes are incumbents. All the winners, with the exception of Johnson and Hughes, were on the Independent ticket with Open Book device. Johnson ran as a Progressive Party candidate and Hughes as a candidate on the Liberty ticket.

The vote totals in the Council race here:

Floyd Idle Rate Still Above 10%

Floyd county's unemployment rate for the month of September stood at 10.9 per cent, and the Eastern Kentucky rate as a whole continued to be higher than the state rate, which was 7.5 per cent.

Robert MacDonald, chief statistician for the Bureau of Manpower Services, said that, although the Eastern Kentucky coal business has been booming, the return to the area of many former residents who have been laid off work in other states has contributed to Eastern Kentucky's unemployment problem.

The Eastern Kentucky rate stood, overall, at 8.9 per cent. The highest for the month in the area—and the state—was Powell county's 21.6 per cent. The lowest for this section of the state was Martin county, which once had one of Kentucky's greatest unemployment problems, which was 7.5 per cent in September was 5.1 per cent. The lowest rate in Kentucky was Ballard county's 3.4 per cent. The unemployment rate in 11 other Eastern Kentucky counties:

Bell, 11.9; Boyd, 5.9; Breathitt, 11.6; Lawrence, 8.1; Lee, 18.2; Leslie, 12.2; Letcher, 11.0; Magoffin, 16.7; Carter, 12.0; Clay, 12.2; Elliott, 7.1; Menifee, 13.6; Morgan, 10.3; Owensley, 15.0; Perry, 10.2; Pike, 6.4; Greenup, 7.0; Harlan, 7.5; Johnson, 8.1; Knott, 9.7; Rowan, 5.4; Wolfe, 13.9.

The Fuel Crisis—Is it Real?

If the President and the Congress ever really make up their minds that the fuel crisis of which they all speak so much is truly a reality, the conversion of coal to oil and gas will be a real part of the American industrial picture.

But, as of this moment, the national leadership is content to point with alarm and to depend upon the country's untapped, and largely unowned, resources—and on the uncertain supply of oil from the Near East and Soviet Russia.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Tim Lee Carter recently lost their attempt at passage of a bill to provide federal loans and guarantees, as well as funds for federal construction of coal conversion plants. Now, the whole program of oil and gas production from coal seems to be bogged down in troubled discussions of what effect such plants would have on the environment and what would be the social and economic impact on the area in which plants may be located.

These are matters worth discussing. But, if the situation is as serious as we have been told, there is no choice—unless the United States is willing to stake its future on a fuel supply from the Arab nations and Russia.

Congressman Perkins was looking far down the road, some 20 years ago, when he first introduced a coal conversion bill. He knew then that coal could be the ultimate answer, because Germany, under tight blockade and fighting for its life, produced oil from coal during World War II, and one of its coal conversion plants was brought, intact, to this country after the war ended.

Germany did this quickly, because it was do or die. And yet we plan and temporize... even hint of an armed takeover of Arab oilfields, if necessary, at a time when we are not doing all we can to become self-sufficient.

Whatever the cost of coal conversion, no price is costlier than that of war. If there is a crisis, the United States should cut the talk and do something about it.

Letters to the Editor

Red, White and Blue Day Founder Hails Observance

The eyes of the nation should have been focused on the patriotic hills of Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky Saturday, Oct. 25.

This should be staged throughout this great country we live in America. Kentucky loves you so much—they proved it, Saturday, Oct. 25, the day when all freedom-loving people dressed up in Red, White and Blue and, wearing their colors, showed their love for this county of ours, walking hand in hand down the same path together.

If we're going to survive, we're going to have to have unity and Saturday proved just that.

God bless all you little children—you looked so sweet to everyone and your teachers and parents, you did a great job of helping get it going.

Isn't it worth all the long, hard hours of work, especially when you see so many little ones in there, standing up to help the great cause? We really need to help the little ones. They look to us for guidance and leadership, and I thank God for giving me strength to hold up. He has to be behind me. Times like this I couldn't go on. I'd make a come back, and I love working for this great cause so much. I love and trust in the Lord with all my heart, and I surely hope, God will bless America again.

I had a representative from the Army stop by my place today, talking about the big parade. He was very impressed with all the participants and the Military. As he was leaving, I remarked, "Well, we got to get a meeting ready and start on the 1976 event." He said, "There you go!" "He was very happy to hear me say this!" So people get ready, we all need rest but we can at least think and make some plans. Get ready, America, you'll be hearing from Kentucky, inviting you to come and join in our 1976 celebration of the birth of our great nation. Each state will receive a letter of invitation to take part in our patriotic event, and we surely hope they will accept.

You Shriners, you make many little ones, as well as grownups, so happy. You work for such a good cause. And the police department and the Military, Emergency and Rescue Squad, State Police—many all congratulate you for a fine job.

Many thanks to the City of Prestonburg and for use of the parking lot. It takes us all to make this Festival 20—so, America, get behind us.

Sam Conn, 25-year-old Betsy Layne miner, was instantly killed Saturday morning in the mines of the Pike-Floyd Coal Company at Betsy Layne when struck by a main conveyor... The Floyd County Youth Men's Democratic Club was reorganized Thursday, with the following officers being elected: Woodrow Burchett, president, John Allen, secretary, and County Attorney Forrest D. Short, treasurer... Two Floyd county homes destroyed by fire within the week: the residence of Homer Burchett, at Banner, Tuesday morning, and the home of Rich Bentley, on Stone Coal Creek, Sunday morning... There died: Green Hicks, 70 years old, at his home on Stone Coal Creek, Sunday; George E. Hart, 57, at his home at Wayland, Tuesday morning.

MAYTOWN COMMUNITY NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Ike Eudy, of Cheatoh, Okla., are spending some time here visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. David Webb, Davie, Maria and Trudi, of Lexington, were week-end guests of his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Webb, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Stewart of Morehead, were week-end guests of Mrs. Shirley Stewart.

A large crowd from here attended the Red, White and Blue Day festivities in Prestonburg, Oct. 25. Everyone agrees, it was the biggest and best yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurnal Clark and Mrs. Earl Webb were shopping in Huntington and Chesapeake, Ohio, Monday.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Patton, whose six-year-old grandson, William Durrett Patton, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Patton, of Erlanger, was struck by a car near his home and fatally injured.

Mrs. Libby Wednesday and Mrs. Gloria Allen last Wednesday accompanied Misses Ann Flanery and Linda Boggs, students at Allen Central High School, to Morehead where they attended a Personality Development Program. The girls returned home Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Flanery.

Leonard Rice and Howard Allen, of Willard, Ky., visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom and Mrs. Lula Allen and other relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff McGuire and son, of Kenova, W. Va., were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Harmon, and other relatives last week-end.

Larry Robinson, of Prestonburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Robinson, underwent surgery at Pikeville Methodist Hospital last Wednesday.

Everett (Rube) Osborne is a patient at Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Tommy Moore accompanied Madison Moore, of Prestonburg, to Hinton Wednesday to attend the funeral of a friend, Ambrose Taylor.

Margaret Ann Vaughn, accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Peggy Vaughn, in Oak Ridge, Tenn. Mrs. Vaughn, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Josephine Webb, and Mrs. Mary Ann Baker, of Lexington, spent the week-end at the country-side Saturday and viewed the colorful foliage.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Turner, of Hanover, W. Va., visited relatives and friends here last week.

Friends here of Mrs. Paul Jarrell, of Charleston, W. Va., regret to learn of her continued serious illness.

Relative friends here regret to learn of the death of Jack Webb, of Lexington, last week. Mr. and Mrs. Webb were former residents of Maytown.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Prater, of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Flanery and children were vacationing last week.

NOT SAME MAN
Willie D. Williams, of McDowell, would like it known that he is not the Willie Williams listed in the Suits Filed column last week's Times. Being sued by Hometown Finance Company.

At Martin, only Howard Hamilton among the six candidates on the Independent ticket was elected, and his vote total, reported unofficially at 372, led both sides. The other winners, all Progressive Party candidates, are Denzil Halbert, John Hogesed, Sanford Ousley, John I. Maddox and Raymond Griffith, Jr. The unofficial vote totals were:
Glenn C. Patrick, 212; John Quincy Salsbury, 185; Harlan Bradley, 200; Wheeler D. Crisp, 192; Joe Everage, 197; Howard Hamilton, 372; Denzil Halbert, 254; Clyde Hogesed, 261; Sanford Ousley, 234; John L. Maddox, 257; Raymond Griffith, Jr., 244; J. C. Skeans, 221.

The early tabulation indicated that Floyd voters were giving their approval of both Constitutional amendments.

Democratic nominees for legislative, judicial and county offices were proposed as were candidates for the board of trustees at Wayland and Wheelwright. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, who was unopposed, surrendered his office through his position on the Judicial ticket on the ballot, separated from all other candidates.

The election, held in ideal weather, drew a light vote which would have been lighter but for the Prestonburg and Martin municipal races.

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to acknowledge our appreciation to those who helped upon the death of our loved one, Woodrow Brancham: to those who brought food and flowers, to the ministers Rev. O. E. Stanley and Rev. Clark Lafferty, to Dr. Adams and Dr. Jurich, to the singers Rev. Floyd Tackett and Nancy and Kim, to the Carter Funeral Home for its efficient services.
Wife and Family

CARD OF THANKS
The family of James Webb would like to extend our thanks to all the relatives and friends who were with us in our time of sorrow, and to all those who brought food or sent flowers.

We would especially thank the Little Salem Regular Baptist Church for having services for us Sunday, Brother Earl Waugh for his consoling words and the funeral services, and Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

HERE FROM UTAH
Franklin "Set" Brancham, of Salt Lake City, Utah, arrived Sunday for a visit here with his mother, Mrs. Fanny Brancham, and other members of his family.

Dr. Roger D. Akers this week moved his medical practice to the former offices of the late Dr. W. D. Osborne at Bypro. Dr. Akers, who is moving from the Eastern Kentucky Health Services Center at Hindman, began practice at his new location, November 5.

A son of Mrs. Orpha C. Akers, of Drift, and the late Clive Akers, Dr. Akers is a 1963 graduate of McDowell High School and a 1968 graduate of the University of Kentucky. He received his M.D. from the University of Kentucky School of Medicine in 1972.

Few people realize how much can be done about arthritis, to control pain, to prevent deformity and disability. For the facts, write or call the Kentucky Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

IN MEMORY OF MY DAD PROPHET LITTLE

who passed away Nov. 6, 1969:

Six years ago today the good Lord called and took you away. The greatest Dad anyone could of had. Dad I miss you so bad, but great memories linger on.

When we were all at home, when you would read the Bible to me, what was right and what was wrong, that is what lingers on. You had been gone six weeks ago to the day when you came to me in a dream in the middle of the night. You said, "Come and go with me, so I can show you where I will be."

We walked this narrow and rough road. You said, "Come on, Sissie, don't look back, just hold on to my back." We kept climbing and didn't fall, (you see I held on to Dad's overalls.)

We went on up and made it just great. And walked inside this Golden Gate. There were six golden chairs and six golden water fountains. There were names written on them. The first was my grandfather, Jerry. The second was my aunt, Betty. The third I won't reveal, you see, it was empty still. The fourth bore my Dad's name. The fifth one had aunt Rosie's name. The sixth one is filled. I know, for soon after the Lord called Aunt Lizzie.

May God keep all of us that remain, behind until our departure from this world. To one and all of our family (brothers and sisters): Mother and Father's paths don't lay any stones, and some day we will all make it Home. Sadly missed by daughter, ALPIA JEAN JOHNSON, Melvin, Kentucky

Miss Wells-Mr. Berniak Wed

Miss Barbara Lee Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jeff Wells, of Brunswick, Ohio, formerly of Prestonsburg and Auxier, became the bride of Mr. Thomas John Barniak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Barniak, Sr., also of Brunswick, in a double-ring ceremony solemnized by the Rev. William Harvey at 3:30 Saturday afternoon, September 27, at the Brunswick United Methodist Church.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Betty Good at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by parents, wore a princess gown by Medicino of New York in renaissance styling of silk organza re-embroidered petal lace. The victorian neckline was trimmed with alencon lace with scattered lace motifs. The sheer traditional sleeves were trimmed with beaded lace and the bouce hemline of her skirt fell into a sweeping train. She wore a garden hat accented with roses and veiling which formed a large bow in back. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, a gift from her grandfather, Jeff B. Wells, of Auxier, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Fuji mums.

Miss Gayle Wells, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Sue Kuchta and Miss Valerie Zak. They wore similar gowns with halter styling with matching voile jackets in a fall floral print on beige background. They wore matching picture hats and carried long-stemmed white mums with ribbon streamers. Flower girl Carolyn Barniak, sister of the groom, wore a dress of the same print as that of the bridesmaids, and Master Anthony Benton Wells, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. Miss Denise Wells, also cousin of the bride, was rice bearer.

Richard L. Stanfor, III, of Cleveland, O., served as best man, Paul Jewel and Kim Lyons were groomsmen.

Mrs. Wells, mother of the bride, wore a blue floor-length polyester knit dress with matching jacket trimmed with maribou. Her wrist corsage was of white orchids. The mother of the groom chose a green floor-length dress of chiffon and knit. Her corsage was of white, green-tipped carnations.

A reception was held at the Midlands Town and Country Club in Strongsville, Ohio.

The couple are residing in Brunswick, O., where Mrs. Barniak is employed at the Westside Cardinal Bank and Mr. Barniak is employed at Ganser and Ganser, Ind., a construction firm.

Money for College

Available to Students

If you are a high school senior and you need help paying for college or professional school next year, you should see your high school counselor.

Financial aid is the one way thousands of students each year get money for furthering their education. But to give yourself the best chance of getting what you need, you must plan ahead and apply early.

Counselors in Floyd county high schools urge pupils needing help to come by their offices and discuss their needs and pick up necessary application forms. The counselors are Eddie Craft, Prestonsburg High; Elmer Martin, Betsy Layne High; Jack Stevens, Allen Central; Adrian Hall, McDowell and Wheelwright.

Weinberger Warns of Welfare State

Casper Weinberger, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, charges that the current trend in federal programming is taking away from its most precious personal freedoms and may plunge the country into insolvency by the year 2000 if it continues at its present rate.

In a speech delivered to the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco and condensed in the November Reader's Digest, Weinberger says that "if (federal) social programs continue at their present pace, we could be spending close to half of our whole Gross National Product for domestic social programs alone by the year 2000. . . We would no longer have enough money left to invest in job-producing activities in the private sector."

Along with this projected collapse of our free-enterprise system, Weinberger fears a welfare state trend toward mediocrity. As an example of the kind of "social engineering" of the welfare state, he points to the program to end hiring discrimination in colleges which he calls "ineffective and meddlesome government." "I took the University of California over a year to prepare the mountain of paperwork that the Department of Labor requires," he says. "Yet the net effect of this Herculean effort will be only trivial in terms of increasing real job opportunities for minorities and women."

Weinberger argues that an egalitarian society does not promote true equal opportunity. The egalitarians, he feels, expect rewards with no eye to contribution and worth, while a free-enterprise system can further the quest for excellence. "The real social agenda of America, still unfinished, is to discover and reward excellence wherever it finds it—under a black skin, a white skin, in a female or male, in a Catholic, a Jew, a Protestant or an agnostic," he asserts.

In a companion Digest article on the perils of big-government spending, condensed from The Washington Post, UPI Capitol Hill correspondent Donald Lambro stresses his preference for shrinking the federal bureaucracy. Among his suggestions is elimination of the civil defense program which, in the age of missiles, he feels is superfluous.

Current cost of this program, according to Lambro, is $82 million a year. A simple across-the-board cut of 25 percent in travel by government officials and employees could be effected by placing more emphasis on phone and mail. Lambro believes, and would save the government more than $25 million in travel costs alone, not to mention the savings in energy.

Elimination of the Economic Development Administration, a move indicated by a report to Congress from the Commerce Department and Office of Management and Budget, would effect an annual savings of $396 million.

"Clearly," Lambro writes, "the budgetary scalpel can be wielded, agency by agency, across a vast wasteland of unnecessary spending."

Wilcox Vows Spoken In Sept. 6 Ceremony

Valley View United Methodist Church, near Oak Ridge, Tennessee, was the scene of marriage on September 6 for Mr. and Mrs. James Everett Wilcox. The Rev. John J. Jackson performed the double-ring ceremony at which the only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Tye Brooks, sister and brother-in-law of the groom.

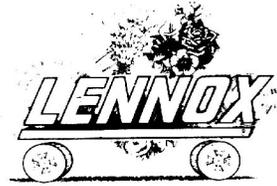

Mrs. Wilcox is the former Elizabeth Boughton, daughter of Thomas Patrick of Loufey, and the late Mrs. Patrick Sheis employed by the Tennessee Valley Authority at Clinton, Tennessee.

Mr. Wilcox is formerly from Pennington Gap, Virginia, a son of the late Dan and Osha Wilcox. He is retired from the U. S. Air Force.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox are making their home on Edgemoor Road, Route 8, Powell, Tennessee.

Dawson Unsure Of Food Stamp Change Effects

Franklin R. Dawson, Secretary of the Department for Human Resources, says that until the federal government sends him copies of the new food stamp bills being considered by Congress, he cannot be sure what the effects will be on Kentucky's 435,000 food stamp recipients.

"We have asked the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) for copies, and when we receive them, we will be able to accurately evaluate the effects on Kentucky's Food Stamp Program," said Dawson.

One of the bills, proposed by President Ford, would only provide food stamps to families whose incomes fall below the national poverty level. If passed, it would probably become effective by July, 1976.

The bill would allow for a standard deduction of $100 for most applicants. Individuals over 60 years of age would be able to take a slightly higher standard deduction. Under the proposal, everyone would pay a flat 30 per cent of their net income for food stamps.

This may mean that many people with incomes just above the national poverty level, even though they have high medical, rent and utility expenses, would no longer be eligible.

As the program stands now, applicants can deduct from their income monies what they must pay for necessities such as heat, rent, gas, electricity and medical expenses.

"Since we were not consulted by the federal government when they drafted the proposed bills, we are not sure of their exact content. However, it appears to me that there are a lot of things that need to be addressed when Congress considers the bills for passage," said Dawson.

Based on information obtained from the regional USDA office, if the Ford proposal passes, Kentuckians affected would most likely be the aged, the ill and those on fixed incomes such as Social Security and Supplemental Security Income. If these individuals can no longer take certain deductions for basics such as medical bills, rent and utilities, they may, technically, no longer fall below the federal poverty level, Dawson explained.

The national poverty level for a one-member household is $2,990 a year, for a four-member household, it is $5,050 a year.

THE REGIONAL USDA office also reported that if the bill passes, recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children will no longer be automatically eligible for food stamps, nor will college students be able to receive the stamps.

Calgon Corp. Agrees To Pay Damages

Calgon Corp., a Boyd county firm which manufactures pollution control equipment, among other products, has agreed to pay the state $10,000 in damages and to expand and improve its water pollution controls as a result of actions taken by the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

The department had charged Calgon with numerous violations of state water pollution regulations. The charges involved alleged discharges of industrial waste and acid water into the Big Sandy River and White's Creek.

According to the agreed order, Calgon will spend more than a million dollars in pollution control equipment by June 30, 1976. Of that, $326,000 is for additional controls not required for compliance with the pollution control plan approved by the department.

The Old Johnson Place Revisited

By GEORGE L. MOORE

One of the satisfying and rewarding things about writing about people and places of long ago is the response that you get in the form of letters from people that you never knew existed. A case in point is the old Crit Johnson Place. When I wrote a story about this old place on Clay Fork of Sinking Creek, I said that I did not know how long the old buildings had been standing but certainly longer than the memory of anyone still residing in these parts. I did not know that Uncle Crit (or Judge Johnson, as he was later called) had any surviving children.

Shortly after the article appeared, I received a long and interesting letter from his only surviving daughter, Mrs. Clydia Webb, Louisville. Her letter, would indicate that she is not only very intelligent but quite articulate as well. She gave me considerable information about her father and the old place on Sinking Creek. To begin with, she said that the house was constructed in 1887. Let her describe it.

"It was built with white oak logs of uniform size, hewn to a smooth surface. It was a fine house in those days. It was well put up. I had no doubt they had discussed the case many times. When the case came up for trial, the counsel for the defense made the motion to procure the jury from another county. After the commonwealth attorney agreed to this, Mr. Young jumped to his feet and said, 'We demand that the jury be selected from Carter county.' The opposing attorney said, 'I wonder why Mr. Young is so anxious to secure the jury from Carter?'"

"Your Honor," said Mr. Young, "I suggest we get the jury from Bath county, just to show that I want to be fair about the matter, I will agree to have the jury selected from Bath."

"Needless to say, the jury impaneled from Bath county returned a verdict of not guilty."

On another occasion, the judge appointed Bill Young to defend a man in his court. The man had been indicted on a felony charge and had no money to employ an attorney to defend him. The father brought the man into court. The judge said, "Now, Bill, I want you to go out and confer with this man and advise him to the best of your ability."

After an absence of an hour or so from the courtroom, Mr. Young returned to the counsel table. The judge looked at him and asked, "Mr. Young, where is your client?" He replied, "Judge you told me to advise that man, to the best of my ability."

"But, where is he?" inquired the judge.

"Well, I advised him to get out of here at once and leave Rowan county for good," Young replied.

Mrs. Webb gave some background about her ancestors. "My grandfather Johnson was a wealthy land owner in Virginia, he had many slaves. He had to flee with his family during the civil war period," she related.

About the old place on Clay Fork of Sinking Creek she said, "We had tenant farmers to help with the crops of wheat, oats, barley, corn and flax. All of these crops were necessary at that time. We had beef cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, ducks and geese. We had plenty of big fat featherbeds and pillows. I still have a featherbed that is more than 25 years old that came from the old farm. I would like to interrupt here to say, anyone who has not sunk into one of these fat featherbeds on a cold winter night, does not know what good sleeping is all about. To continue her account, "My mother knew how to pick geese and could shear sheep. She could also make that jute yarn and make cloth from it. I could write a book about her."

The part of Mrs. Webb's letter that I cherished most was that "Some people are sensitive about their forefathers but I am proud of mine. I have really enjoyed going back through the past year with you. I hope my letter has helped you. I could tell you more but I don't want to bore you."

I have since received other letters from Mrs. Webb and none of them have been boring. They have been interesting down to the last word. She has been a valuable and highly esteemed consultant on a way of life that has disappeared from these hills.

Charles Gibson, Governor of Kentucky... Those who were children of the Great Depression in the thirties find it hard to comprehend the extravagance and waste of the seventies.

Raisins, Lizards and Aborigines

By DICK WEST (In The Dallas, Texas News)

Those who were children of the Great Depression in the thirties find it hard to comprehend the extravagance and waste of the seventies. I remember my father walking 10 blocks to save a dime on a sack of turnip greens.

of journalism graduates recently that the Washington press corps, in its eagerness to expose Watergate had overlooked the biggest story in the capital waste in government.

Lambro's book, "The Federal Rathole," published by Arlington House, shows how $25 billion could be lopped off the federal budget by eliminating some 50 useless federal programs and trimming a score of others.

Somebody should subsidize the distribution of this book in Washington. Why should American taxpayers finance a $75,000 bill to study the small of perspiration from Australian aborigines? Lambro asks.

Or $15,000 to investigate the habits of Yugoslav lizards? India got $6,000 for a study of ducks, and a Polish zoological institute received our tax funds for "classifying bisexual frogs."

Why a $71,000 grant to compile a history of comic books, $19,300 to learn why children fall off tricycles or $375,000 for a study of trisees? In 1918 the federal government created a committee to standardize screw threads. It was supposed to complete its work in one year, but it is still without.

We spent $1.8 million on a Commission on Obscenity and Pornography which produced a report discovered by the White House before its submission. Bangladesh, a starving country, got $20,000,000 from the United States for a telecommunications program, and $65,000 was spent studying the "pre-history" of Taiwan.

In the Pentagon dining rooms, the taxpayer picks up the check for leg of lamb, lobster and chicken Kiev at cut-rate prices.

The government is spending nearly $15 million a year to maintain 300 golf courses for the military in this country and 19 others abroad.

Face lifts, breast enlargement operations and other cosmetic surgery are regularly performed without charge on wives of military personnel at military facilities. These operations cost in excess of $1,000, but dependents of military personnel pay only $4 a day for meals.

The list can go on and on, and we'll conclude by saying we look forward to a government report on raisins and the conclusions of a "review committee" on anti-perspirants.

Yet, the federal government right now is spending one billion dollars a day, which is around $41 million an hour.

Those of us who matured on 25-cent turnip greens really can't comprehend the wealth of those Mideastern oil countries whose revenues this year will be $25 billion.

That figure would buy all the steel produced in America for the next four years and all the trucks and cars for three years. It would purchase all the stock in our 30 largest corporations, pay for 3,200,000 American homes or the entire U. S. farm crop.

If you aren't conscious of how much a billion dollars is and how Washington can fling a billion around like a bag of jellybeans, consider this:

It took 163 years for the U. S. government to reach the point where it was spending $100 billion a year. But in only nine more years it was spending $200 billion. In only four more years, $300 billion.

Donald Lambro, 33-year-old United Press International reporter, told a group

Program Enlists Students To Encourage Safer Driving

By JIM CLARKE
Frankfort, Ky.—Students from all of Kentucky's high schools and being recruited in a joint effort to help reduce the state's rising highway death tolls. Expressing "grave alarm" over the now obvious trend toward more traffic deaths in Kentucky for 1975, state Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts said here recently that his office is working on a program aimed at enlisting student help to encourage safer driving and better compliance by all motorists with the state's traffic safety laws.

"We are especially concerned by the growing tendency of drivers to ignore the 55 mile-an-hour speed limit," he said.

According to Roberts, the program calls for a series of eight regional high school traffic safety conferences to be held at various locations in Kentucky between now and November. The first meeting was held Oct. 15 at Jenny Wiley

State Park. Three other meetings since have been held at Greenup, Corbin and Fort Mitchell.

The next conference, scheduled for Kentucky Dam Village State Park on Oct. 28, will be attended by students from schools in Fulton, Ballard, Carlisle, Hickman, McCracken, Graves, Livingston, Marshall, Calloway, Crittenden, Lyon, Trigg, Union, Caldwell, Christian, Hopkins, Webster and Henderson counties.

The program is being sponsored by the Office of Highway Safety Programs (OHSP), an agency of the Kentucky Department of Transportation (KYDOT).

"These conferences have the enthusiastic support of the governor who believes, as I do, that one of the best ways to attack the problem is to get the support of our youth who account for a large part of the state's driving population," Roberts said.

One statistic for which Roberts and his highway safety programs people will be seeking workable solutions is the high rate of young driver involvement in fatal accidents.

Although the actual number of young drivers involved in fatal accidents during 1975 won't be known for several months yet, Roberts noted that nearly one-third of all fatal accidents reported, both nationally and in Kentucky during 1974, involved drivers under the age of 24.

"We need to talk about what can be done to reverse that trend, and the best place to look for answers is among the drivers most affected," he said. "We hope to benefit from their (the students) constructive thinking and advice, both on that question and on a number of other issues which affect our entire driving population as a whole," he added.

Among the specific topics scheduled for student discussion at each of the conferences will be drugs and alcohol, driver education, traffic enforcement and driver licensing.

Each discussion group will be joined by an adult representative who will be there "primarily to answer questions," Roberts said.

The representatives will come from virtually every field of traffic safety and enforcement. Among agencies sending representatives to the conferences are the Kentucky State Police, KYDOT, Division of Driver Licensing, OHSP and the state's Department of Education which administers driver training programs in the schools.

Students attending each of the conferences will be asked to submit their ideas and suggestions for improving the state's traffic safety record to OHSP representatives who will compile them into a report to be turned over to the governor and other state officials, including state legislators, after the last conference is held.

Roberts said the final report may prove "invaluable" in helping the state reach future decisions, legislative or otherwise, on how best to deal with the traffic accident situation.

On Nov. 30, 1972, the United States and Britain signed a preliminary treaty of peace, recognizing American independence.

RETIREE TEACHERS TO MEET NOVEMBER 8

The Floyd County Retired Teachers Association will hold its fall meeting at Effie's Buffet at 12 noon Saturday, Nov. 8. Clyde Lassiter, of Lexington, vice president of R.T.A., will be the guest speaker. The meeting is of vital importance to all retired teachers and they are urged to attend.

Roadbeds Furnished by Gov't Suggested as Help for Rails

Government provision and maintenance of rail roadbeds and rights-of-way would be one possible solution to providing better transportation services to coal shippers, according to a coal transportation study released by the Kentucky Department of Cabinet.

The study says such action, in which roadbeds would continue as private companies functioning to provide transportation services, would provide increased and more efficient coal transportation and help alleviate the financial burden of the rail networks.

Dr. Dee Ashley Akers, secretary of the Development Cabinet, said, "An effective railroad system is a national resource and could be publicly financed as such."

In addition, an arrangement of this nature would make it possible to eliminate the monopolies railroads may have in particular market areas and would allow the railroad management to concentrate resources and managerial skill on the effective operation of the transportation system.

Akers said that proponents of this plan point to highways as a precedent of the government providing facilities for other modes of transportation.

Another proposal in the study was the original purchase of coal cars by the state or guaranteeing the financing of cars, which would create a "reserve fleet" of coal cars to be used in periods of peak coal demand.

Don Hartman, assistant cabinet secretary for policy and planning, said, "The rail car shortage is most significant to the long-term effectiveness of coal transportation by rail."

"One solution suggested by the study would be to modify the equal sharing of cars to better supply the most steady shippers."

The study also recommends decreasing the rail-haul distance and time to markets in the South, Southeast and East—all forecast as future markets for Kentucky coal.

At present, Kentucky coal shippers using south-bound rails pay extraordinarily high freight rates because of backtracking in the Southeastern Kentucky area to bypass Pine Mountain.

The study encourages more use of unit train shipments. Such shipments are defined by the study as trains utilizing a specific number of coal cars loaded at one origin, unloaded at one destination each trip and moving in both directions on a predetermined schedule.

Although the origin and destinations are not necessarily the same for each trip, the train is never split for any other shipments.

Rates for unit trains, usually 40 per cent lower than bulk rates, are established on the basis of minimum tonnage per year and per shipment, paralleling closely coal contracts between producers and consumers which are usually long-term and large-volume.

Coal tonnage hauled by the major railroads serving Kentucky coal shippers, increased by 1.5 per cent from 1972 to 1974 and two per cent for the previous year. However, the rate of coal production in the state grew over seven per cent in 1974, putting pressure on other modes of transportation.

Movement of coal by barge, which accounted for 19.4 million tons of coal or about 17 per cent of total Kentucky production in 1972, was seen by the study as an area of coal transportation maintained largely by the federal government, plus including state participation in providing more efficient service.

The Corps of Engineers, responsible for locks and dams on waterways used by Kentucky coal shippers, report that barge traffic on the Ohio River could double if a "bottleneck" at the Gallipolis, Ohio, lock could be alleviated. A project is presently underway to improve this lock.

As for truck coal-hauling, the study reports an increasing tendency toward truck use. The percentage of coal produced in Eastern Kentucky that was trucked rose from 39 per cent in 1960 to 67 per cent in 1973 and from 5.5 to 23 per cent for Western Kentucky coal in those years.

The study also states that 75 per cent of the coal trucks on all three classifications of roads in the state are running overweight.

The Kentucky Department of Transportation estimates that $1.9 billion would be needed to bring all local roads up to normal travel standards with an additional $335 million needed to build roads to support coal trucks.

Collection of a tonnage by Kentucky coal counties, establishment of an export tax on the state's coal, institution of a "ton-mile" tax for coal haulers and amendment of the Appalachian Regional Commission's budget to provide money for coal hauling were listed by the study as ways to meet the cost of highway improvements in the Kentucky coal mining area.

The study says better regulation of trucks and a more thorough analysis of the coal benefits of keeping trucks within weight limits is needed.

The analysis also would deal with the problems of road damage its prevention and its cost responsibility.

Miss Rosaland Adkins Is Bride of Mr. Stanley

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Rosaland Adkins daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Adkins, of Pikeville, to Robert Edward Stanley, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Stanley, of Betsy Layne.

The marriage was solemnized Friday, October 10, at the First Baptist Church in Clontarf, Va., with the Rev. Henry Gains officiating.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at the home of his mother in law, Mrs. Stella Akers, at Grethel by the Rev. Frank Kidd. Burial was made in the Lee Alley cemetery there under direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

EKU Grant Increase For Justice Program

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Gov. Julian Carroll has announced an increase of $12,131 in funding for a grant supporting the criminal justice internship program at Eastern Kentucky University. The grant revision was approved by the Kentucky Crime Commission during a recent meeting and submitted to the governor for final consideration. To date the program has provided an opportunity for 26 EKU students to work as interns in 15 different local, state and federal criminal justice agencies. It is estimated that these students have worked approximately 200 man-weeks in the various agencies. Interest in the program by both students and criminal justice agencies has been so great that additional funding is being provided in order to extend the program through the 1976 spring term.

Of the total increase, $9,796 comes from federal funds; the balance from the State Department of Justice by the U. S. Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. EKU will provide additional funding of $2,335, raising the overall project funding, including the original grant which was awarded last January, to $24,485.

Struck Hospitals Discharging Thousands of Patients

Struck hospitals in the metropolitan area discharged thousands of patients yesterday and closed entire floors, and three nursing homes whose resources were being exhausted by the three-day old strike, announced they would be sending home all 1,347 patients within the next week.

At the same time, the 48 hospitals and homes affected by the strike sought to cope with mounting food, fuel and medicine shortages. The Jewish Institute for Geriatric Care had a helicopter deliver linen.

In Washington, John T. Dunlop, director of the Post of Living Council, said "the council had no intention of being a scapegoat" for the strike by 30,000 members of Local 1199 of the Drug and Hospital Union.

At the last evening Mayor Lindsay who had been trying to talk with Dr. Dunlop for five days, got through to him and urged him to convene the council immediately to consider the wage question that led to the strike.

According to the Mayor, Dr. Dunlop said he would consult with his council on whether to order an immediate meeting on the matter once the hospital workers called off their strike. He reportedly told the Mayor that he would announce the decision immediately after his deliberations.

The Mayor's announcement came at the end of a day in which both labor and management expressed hope that the strike board would act to resolve the bizarre impasse.

The strikers left their service, maintenance and laboratory jobs, because the council had not approved a 7.5 per cent wage increase awarded to the union by a state arbitration panel in July.

The hospital management group, the League of Voluntary Homes and Hospitals, whose members are bearing the brunt of the walkout, had appealed to the council to approve the increase, which was to have gone into effect last July.

Whatever momentum for settlement there might be is expected to come today in Federal Court, where a hearing is scheduled on the league's request for a permanent injunction against the union. A temporary restraining order against the union was issued last week. The strikers defied it.

William Abelow, director of the league, reported yesterday that the effects of the walkout and the pickets' blockades of deliveries were becoming cumulatively severe. He noted that sporadic violent eruptions, involving vandalism and harassment by strikers, also appeared on the rise.

Checks at some of the struck institutions showed that all had closed down outpatient departments, which normally treat 6,000 people a day, and that there were no non-emergency admissions. In normal times the hospitals handle an average of 1,700 admissions a day.

At New York Hospital, the patient census dropped from 580 patients on Monday to 375 yesterday. At Long Island Jewish Hospital, 120 patients were sent home in the last two days. At St. Luke's, one entire building was closed in an attempt to consolidate services, and 141 patients were sent home.

Those discharged were patients awaiting non-routine surgery or those who would have convalesced in the hospital.

A microcosm of the critical situation at many of the institutions was presented by Leo Lazarus, the fatigued director of Trafalgar Hospital, a 120-bed institution at 161 East 90th Street.

"We're discharging patients left and right," he said wearily. "We have 75 left and we're calling their families to take them. We have three days of fuel left and the pickets turned back the oil truck twice yesterday and one today."

"The overturned linen carts. They broke into our hydraulic lifts and threw laundry on the streets. They slashed the tires of my car. We can't get our garbage out. I've been smuggling milk in under my coat. I haven't had any volunteers."

Similar bleak assessments were given at the other homes announcing their intention to move out all patients, the Jewish Institute for Geriatric Care in New Hyde Park, L. I., where the staff was reported "exhausted," and at the Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center, at East 49th Street and Rutland Road in Brooklyn.

Early today, the police reported that there had been 34 arrests of pickets throughout yesterday at hospitals in Brooklyn, Queens and Manhattan, on charges of disorderly conduct, criminal mischief or harassment.

In one incident of random violence, according to the police, vandals smashed the windows of 15 parked automobiles of hospital employes at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital, 555 Prospect Avenue.

At the Bronx Lebanon Hospital last night, a Molotov cocktail exploded in a parking lot. The burning gasoline did not reach the apparent target, a hospital bus.

There were at least 22 strikers arrested yesterday in incidents that took place at Beth Israel Hospital at First Avenue and 16th Street, where pickets swarmed over a truck that hospital staff members had rented and filled with provisions. The attempt to bring the food in was described by Dr. Jacob Horowitz, director of the hospital, as "a clandestine operation."

Dr. Horowitz said that the rented truck had met bread and cereal suppliers at an undisclosed place and that members of the hospital staff had transferred the packages. A police escort was arranged and the truck went through it. It was being unloaded when some pickets stormed it and fought with the police and hospital employes.

A union spokesman at the scene, Angelo Alcala, said he regarded the hospital's attempt as subterfuge. "They lied to us, they broke a promise," he said. "The truck that came in had bread, cakes and cereal on it. People don't need that to live."

As a result, he said, no trucks will be allowed to leave the hospital or make deliveries.

In another incident, strikers at South Shore Hospital in the Rockaways, Queens turned back vans from the city morgue that had come to pick up the bodies of three patients who had died.

Moe Foner, a spokesman for the union, said that such actions resulted from "misunderstandings" and that the union stood ready to cooperate with the hospitals on the deliveries of vital materials.

Mr. Abelow, at the league, said that he had received these views from the union, but found the position at the hospitals to be "the degrees opposite from the union's public expressions of a willingness to cooperate."

The only situation where there seemed to be some improvement was in the removal of hospital refuse, whose accumulation had posed health hazards. Inspectors from an emergency City Health Department force visited the hospitals and ordered sanitation trucks to remove the piles.

"Sometimes the trucks turned back two or three times before making the pickups," said Walter J. Hinkelley, deputy commissioner of the Health Services Administration and director of the emergency group.

Work on Exhibit at Library

A dozen watercolors executed by Mrs. Duna Verich Combs, of Langley, are on exhibit today through November 14 at the Floyd County Library here. Mrs. Combs said of her work on display: "Watercolor is a most challenging medium to work with, and one I find especially expressive. The flower paintings on view were done, each one, at the site of the hibiscus flowers in our back yard. I chose watercolor because it seems especially suited to the fragile flowers, in color and form." An earlier exhibit of Mrs. Combs' work was made up of paintings and drawings of her family. Mrs. Combs taught art in Wisconsin before coming to Kentucky to teach in the art department of Eastern Kentucky University. She has taught art in the Maytown, Martin, Garrett and McDowell schools. In addition, she has set up a six-unit art program in Johnson Central High School which included drawing, painting, printmaking, crafts, ceramics, sculpture, and art history. She has given up teaching to remain home with her family and to devote more time to her first persuasion, that of painting and drawing.

"There's nothing I can do. I'm just one person."

Do you really think God will accept that?

Maybe you can't help people all by yourself. Then join with others at your local synagogue or church. You'll find lots of things to do. Example: in Montana, one congregation was disturbed by the lack of adequate housing for senior citizens. Because of its concern, today senior citizens have a new, non-profit place to live. The God we worship expects us to help our neighbors.

ZUMWALT SAYS ODDS ARE HIGH THAT SOVIETS COULD BEAT U.S. CLEVELAND - Retired Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. says the odds are very high that the Soviet Union would defeat the United States in a conventional war. Zumwalt, former Navy chief of operations, told a City Club Forum in Cleveland that the Soviet Union has outspent the U.S. militarily since 1971. He said the U.S. Navy has the smallest number of ships since 1959. "What this country desperately needs is a truth-in-packaging foreign policy," that would make people aware that the Russians are abusing their detente agreement with the United States, Zumwalt said. Floyd County Health Notes

BY DONNA J. GREIFFITH, Health Educator I A pap smear clinic will be held at the Floyd County Health Department Thursday, November 6, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. This service is free and all women are welcome to attend. The health nurses remind all women that they should have a pap smear at least once a year in order to have continuing protection against cervical cancer. A nurse from the Floyd County Health Department will conduct an outpost clinic Monday, Nov. 10, in the basement of the Methodist Church at Wayland. Clinic hours will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with the following services being available: Immunizations, Papanicolaou, diabetes screening and blood pressures. These services are free, and all persons in the Wayland vicinity are welcome to attend. The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a glaucoma clinic Tuesday, November 11, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Glaucoma is a serious disease that can eventually cause total blindness if left untreated. All persons age 35 and over are urged to be screened for glaucoma every two years because early detection and treatment is your best defense against glaucoma. The health department also announces that there will be no nursing or clerical services available to the public on Wednesday or Thursday, November 12 and 13. The health department staff will be working in the regional heart clinic on these two days. This clinic is open only to patients who have previously attended these clinics or new patients who have a doctor's written referral. Two times more women than men suffer from arthritis.

Cars Worth $14,000 Given Pikeville College

Pikeville, Ky.—Pikeville College is the recipient of a donation worth approximately $14,000. Dr. Jackson O. Hall, president of the college, and Wayne Martin, athletic director, jointly announced a donation of two automobiles by Bruce Walters Ford Sales, Inc. The cars will be used in the president's travel and the athletic department.

Jack Walters, president of the local Ford agency, said the use of the Ford cars would be given to the college annually.

This is the third year the Ford dealership has donated a station wagon to the athletic program and first year to donate a car to the president's office.

Accountants Claim Almost $4 Million Due Them by Short

A suit for almost $4 million has been filed against an Eastern Kentucky coal operator by a Paintsville accounting firm. Harold R. Butler, Arnold Wells, and George Hilton, certified public accountants, brought the suit against Homer Short. The three claim the money is due them as a result of contracts which made them exclusive agents of Short for the sale of his coal interests.

Short's interests were sold, however, when Kentucky King Coal Co. and Paula Coal Co. were bought in June by CLHC, Inc., a subsidiary of Ashland Oil, Inc. The three CPA's attorney, William F. Johnson, said his clients are asking for a total of $3,938,600 from Short as a result of the sale.

Coast Guard Academy Accepting Applications

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has announced that the United States Coast Guard Academy is accepting applications from young men and women until December 15 for appointment to the academy as a cadet, class entering in June, 1976.

Appointments to the U. S. Coast Guard Academy are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional appointments. Any high school graduate between the ages 17 and 21 who wishes to qualify for the competition should write to the Director of Admissions, United States Coast Guard Academy, New London, Connecticut 06320.

No respecter of age, arthritis claims its victims from all ages.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION BUREAU OF HIGHWAYS

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
Sealed bids will be received by the Bureau of Highways, at its office, Frankfort, Kentucky until 10:00 A.M. Eastern Daylight Time on the 28th day of November, 1975, at which time bids will be publicly opened and read for the improvement of:

- BDR GROUP 3 (1975) Floyd Co., R. 36-0114-B0025. The Prestonsburg-Salyersville Road (KY 114). Repairs to Deck of Bridge over Middle Creek, 9.749 miles west of US 23.

The Bureau of Highways hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this advertisement, minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation, and will not be discriminated against on the ground of race, color or national origin in consideration for an award.

Bid proposals for all projects will be available until 9:00 A.M. EASTERN DAYLIGHT TIME on the day of the bid opening at the Division of Contract Procurement at a cost of $2 each. Bid proposals are issued only to prequalified contractors. Remittance payable to the State Treasurer of Kentucky must accompany request for proposals.

Receives Promotion

Stephen R. Brackett, assigned to the 236th Military Police Detachment, Washington, D. C., was promoted to Specialist 4, September 19, the third promotion he has received in the past year.

A 1973 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, he attended Prestonsburg Community College and is currently on military leave of absence from the Kentucky Division of Forestry.

He enlisted in the U. S. Army in June, 1974, completing basic combat training at Fort Knox, and military police training at the Military Police Academy, Fort Gordon, Georgia, where he graduated in his class with a 98.2 average.

Brackett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brackett of Allen.

Three at Transylvania Pledged to Fraternities

Three men from Prestonsburg, Jack Andrew Abshey, Blake Robert Burchett, and Harry Lee Burchett, have been pledged to fraternities at Transylvania University in Lexington.

Abshey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Abshey, Sr., Arnold Avenue, has been pledged to Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. Blake Burchett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Burchett, and Harry Lee Burchett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burchett, have been pledged to Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Our Fragile Earth

The last article discussed food poisoning. This article examines some of the diseases transmitted from animals to man, called zoonoses.

Salmonellosis, that form of food poisoning caused by the bacteria Salmonella typhimurium, is very common in the U.S., where it is estimated that two million cases occur annually. This common bacterial species is found naturally in the intestines of man and other animals. When an outbreak occurs, it almost certainly is a result of food coming into contact with feces in some fashion. Commonly infected foods include turkey and pork products, ice cream, chicken, and potato salad. Disease symptoms include headaches, dizziness and nausea. A recent study by the U. S. Public Health Service showed that as many as 200,000 salmonellosis cases are caused by U. S. pet turtles annually. Their feces contaminate the aquarium gravel and the gravel is often handled by children. Two states, Maryland and Pennsylvania, have outlawed the public sale of turtles as a result.

Toxoplasmosis is a disease caused by a microscopic animal parasite, Toxoplasma gondii. Spread from the Arctic to the Antarctic, this parasite is found in rabbits, rats, mice, birds, swine, dogs, chickens and cats.

Toxoplasmosis has a mysterious mode of transmission, but it is known that eating infected meat can cause the disease and it is also known that contact with cat droppings is a major source for disease transmission. Because the disease agent is so small, it can be transmitted across the placenta of pregnant women and infect the fetus which has not had sufficient time to build up infection antibodies. Consequently, pregnant women have been advised to avoid cats. Recent research has uncovered an insidious mode of operation. For no apparent organic reason, people sometimes go blind in their mid-20's or 30's. It has been shown that in many cases toxoplasmosis dormant since the fetal stages, is to blame. The brain's equilibrium sound and sight centers are attacked and once detected, it can be treated with antibiotics, but it can kill. Another serious, sometimes deadly zoonosis is encephalitis, a virus which inflames the brain. In 1964 in Houston, more than 500 people were stricken and New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Florida also experienced encephalitis outbreaks during the 1960's. The disease is transmitted by mosquitoes which have recently bitten infected birds. Common reservoirs are the pigeon, blackbird, starling and chicken. Encephalitis is increasing primarily because these bird populations are building up. Chickens must be grown to feed our expanding population. Starlings and redwing blackbirds fly rampant in an unbalanced environment and pigeons never had it so good in our congested and dirty cities. There are many other zoonoses about which we must be concerned.

Mr. Mrs. Burchett Named To Parents' Committee

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Burchett, of Prestonsburg, have been named to serve on the Parents Committee at Transylvania University during the 1975-76 academic year. As members of the committee, they will assist committee chairman, James Parrish, Jr., Paducah, in planning the activities and programs at the university which involve parents. Mr. and Mrs. Burchett's son, Blake, is a member of the freshman class at Transylvania.

New Director of Nursing

Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, has appointed a new director of nursing, Georgia LeBeau, RN, of Lake Worth, Florida. Miss LeBeau is originally from upstate New York. She received her associate degree in science from Palm Beach Junior College, Lake Worth, Fla. Her schooling also includes some pre-med from Bowling Green State University in Ohio and courses at Florida Atlantic University, Boca Raton, Florida, including management. Miss LeBeau has experience in almost every phase of nursing and has done supervisory work since 1966. Just prior to taking her position at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, she was an administrative supervisor at the 200-bed Doctors Hospital in Lake Worth, for 2 1/2 years. Prior to this, she was director of nurses at John F. Kennedy Rehabilitation Hospital in Lake Worth.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital has been operating without a director of nurses for many months.

Reflective Disks "Lighting Up" Kentucky's Major Highways

Frankfort, Ky.—The white-painted centerlines of several major use highways in Kentucky are being replaced with a new type of raised, highly reflective plastic disk designed to help improve road visibility for drivers during dark and inclement weather. Thus far, at least seven areas of the state have received the raised markers or will receive them soon. They have been installed on I-75 between Lexington and the Ohio state line on New Circle Road, the by-pass route around Lexington, on US 421 at Frankfort, between Wilkinson Boulevard and the Thornhill By Pass, and on I-64 from Lexington to the I-65 interchange at Louisville.

The Watterson Expressway, I-71 within Jefferson County and the by-pass route around Owensboro in Davess County are next in line to get the new marking system. The disks being installed by a Cincinnati traffic equipment company for the Kentucky Department of Transportation, are made of ceramic material and small squares of the reflective plastic. They literally light up at night in the glare of an approaching car's headlights instead of fading off into the dark as the old, painted centerlines tend to do.

They are especially effective in rainy situations where a painted centerline often seems to disappear from view completely, said John F. Roberts, secretary of the Department of Transportation. Public reaction to the new and still experimental project has been "truly amazing," according to Roberts. "The only criticism so far—if you can call it that—has come from several persons wanting to know why we didn't start using the markers sooner. Roberts' chief traffic engineer and the man who first brought the new idea to his attention, Bob Flenner, said that it was not until just recently that the raised markers became practical for use in states which experience heavy snowfalls. "Until now we were afraid that they (the markers) could be damaged by our snow plows," he said. However, a newly developed edge for snow plow blades has virtually eliminated that particular concern, he added.

Roberts said he hopes that the Jefferson and Davess County installations can be completed by the end of this year. "But it all depends on the weather because the epoxy used in cementing the markers to the pavement will not bond in cold temperatures," he said. The contract for the work, which was awarded to Interstate Traffic Equipment Co. of New Haven, Conn., amounts to about $278,000 in federal-state money. Marker installations on the interstates are being funded 90 per cent with federal funds and 10 per cent with state money. The funding ratio for rural and non-interstate segments is 70-30. A second contract, scheduled to start next spring, has been let to another firm to improve two-lane road segments in Christian, Henderson, Davess, Hardin, Meade, Jefferson, Anderson, Mercer, Boyle, Pulaski, Boyd, Pike and Floyd counties.

Contract costs for next spring's work will amount to about $247,675, but will be covered entirely by Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) money. In urban areas and on most well-traveled highways, the markers are being placed three feet apart for a distance of 15 feet, after which there is a skip of 25 feet before the next sequence of markers is resumed. In rural areas and on some interstates, the spacing calls for one high intensity marker every 90-99 feet.

Thought to Remember

Most everyone you see has a job they go to work and do this job the greatest part of their lives. Most of their lives that is a pretty big statement. If you are going to be doing something most of your life, it should be something you love and enjoy. I'm sorry for the boy or girl who picks a job simply for its monetary rewards. Pay is certainly important, but the job will eventually make the person a person who finds the job that lets him feel he is doing something gives. The satisfaction will be a happier and better individual. If you are spending your days wondering about your "vocation," then very likely you have the wrong one.

Kidd-Hamilton Vows Said

Miss Patricia L. Kidd became the bride of Mr. Kenneth R. Hamilton in a candlelight ceremony Saturday, July 19 at the Cline Street Freewill Baptist Church in Pikeville.

The bride is the daughter of George and Betty Rickman, of Allen. The bridegroom is the son of D. J. and Phyllis Hamilton, of Pikeville.

The doubling ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Don Lee before an altar decorated with a traditional archway of white carnations and arched candelabra. Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Donna Watts Reitz. The bride was given in marriage by her stepfather, Miss Kidd was attired in an A-line gown of white organza and silk of Victorian styling. The yoke and long tapered sleeves were of rosebud lace. The chapel train was of matching lace. Her two-tier veil was of Venice lace. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and white baby roses, with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Vivica Bryant, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore an A-line floral polyester gown styled with a ruffle neckline and short bell sleeves, a white picture hat with floral satin streamers. She carried a bouquet of pastel daisies with mint green satin streamers.

Mr. Phillip Coleman, of Pikeville, served the groom as usher and best man. The mother of the bride wore a street-length dress of mint green polyester with a matching corsage of carnations. The mother of the groom wore a street-length dress of light blue, also with a matching corsage of carnations.

Mrs. Jewell Lee, of Pikeville, directed the wedding, and Mrs. Sandie Porter, of Allen, presided at the guest register. A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the church.

Pre-nuptial activities included a personal shower given by Peggy Kidd and Vivica Bryant, and a miscellaneous shower given by friends of the bride. Upon their return from a week's honeymoon the couple are residing in Allen. Mr. Hamilton is employed by South Central Bell in Pikeville, and Mrs. Hamilton by the Bank Josephine in Prestonsburg.

CPHE To Consider Budget Requests

Frankfort, Ky.—Requests from Kentucky's public colleges and universities for state funds for their 1976-78 biennium budgets will be prime agenda items at the Council on Public Higher Education (CPHE) meeting here November 6 and 7. The Council will meet in the ground floor conference room, Capitol Plaza Office Tower, Frankfort. The CPHE, which is Kentucky's public higher education coordinating agency, is required by state law to review the eight state institutions' budget requests and recommend funding totals to the governor.

The agency has received requests from the institutions totaling $571.6 million for operating expenses and $192.6 million for capital construction projects during the two-year period beginning next July 1. Review of the requests by the CPHE staff, involving representatives of the institutions, began October 15. The staff's recommendations on the operating expenses requests will be considered by the CPHE members for approval Thursday, November 6. Capital construction request recommendations will be considered Friday, November 7, and the agency's recommendations will go to Gov. Julian Carroll Saturday, November 15.

CPHE recommendations for the 1975-78 biennium will be announced at the November 6-7 meeting. Also scheduled for consideration by the CPHE is a report from a hospital and construction management firm on its review of the proposed construction costs for a teaching hospital-regional medical care complex at the University of Louisville.

DISABLED VETERANS VAN TO BE HERE THURSDAY

The Disabled American Veterans state van will be at the city parking lot in Prestonsburg, November 6, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., to assist veterans, widows and dependents.

Fair Credit Act Protects Consumer

By ED W. HANCOCK (Attorney General)
Almost all consumers have a credit report on file at one or more credit bureaus. This information may be used by credit grantors, insurance companies, prospective and present employers, and collection agencies.
Credit bureaus compile information on the consumer including job history, address changes, marital status, and social security number. Also, material regarding credit history, credit experiences, and public record information deemed important is compiled.
One example of how this information may be used is when a consumer applies for credit. The bank or business contacts the credit bureau to investigate the consumer's credit history. Thus, it's important that the consumer report is correct and up-to-date.
The Federal Fair Credit Reporting Act protects the consumer's right to have fair, impartial, and complete information on file.
Under this law the consumer may review his credit file at any time by either visiting the credit bureau or making a telephone call preceded by a written request. To protect the confidentiality of the records the consumer is required to furnish proper identification. Then, the credit bureau representative must review the credit record explaining the information to the consumer.
If there is a question about any item in the credit file, the credit bureau is required to re-investigate within a reasonable period of time. If the information is found to be inaccurate or can no longer be verified, the item must be deleted.
In situations where the credit bureau investigation does not solve the dispute, the consumer can file a brief statement of about 100 words clarifying his side of the question. This report must be included in any future credit reports that the bureau gives. The consumer may request distribution of this report or notice of the deletion of an incorrect item to any person that has received employment reports within the past two years and all others who have received a credit report in the last six months.
The Fair Credit Reporting Act further states that the consumer cannot be charged for a review of his credit file if he has been denied credit within the last 30 days because of the credit bureau report or has received notice from a collection agency affiliated with the credit bureau. But the credit bureau may charge a reasonable amount for the consumer interview if these events have not occurred.
If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, The Capitol, Room 34, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, or call the toll-free Consumer Hotline, 1-800-372-2960.

OCT. 24 IS UN DAY
WASHINGTON—President Ford proclaimed Friday, Oct. 24 as United Nations Day, saying the international organization has been useful in economic development and that its existence is justified by its efforts to achieve peace in the Middle East alone.
BULGARIA BIG EXPORTER
SOFIA—Bulgaria is Eastern Europe's largest farm-products exporter. About 80 per cent of Bulgaria's farm exports—valued above $1 billion a year—move to other Communist countries, with fruits, vegetables and tobacco comprising the bulk of the shipments.

Forest Review To Start Soon

The U. S. Forest Service and the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Division of Forestry are taking a close look at Kentucky's forest resources. What they see will influence future forestry programs for the state, according to a Forest Service spokesman.
The current inventory is the third in Kentucky's history. By mid-November field crews of the USDA Forest Service, cooperating with the Division of Forestry, will have remeasured 790 forested field plots and established 890 new ones. The survey, begun in 1973, occurs 11 years after the second and 26 years after the first forest inventory. Inventory information is used by foresters, planners and other interested groups to evaluate the present and potential condition and supply of forest land and the products and benefits it supplies.
In another phase of the forest inventory, sawmills, woodpulp mills and other wood products producers have been asked to report the volume of logs, bolts, and any wood products they received. This information is being used to estimate the present and future demand for wood products from the state's forested land. All mills that operated in 1974 have completed the questionnaire. Results of this canvass indicate that Kentucky's sawing harvest has changed little since 1969.
One vital stage remains to be completed: a mail canvass of forest-land owners. Once again, the work is a joint venture of the Forest Service and State Division of Forestry. Kentucky becomes the ninth and largest, state to be canvassed for forestland owner information. More than 1,200 Kentucky forest-land owners will receive questionnaires dealing with their reasons for owning forest land, and their attitude toward timber harvesting, forest management and recreational use of the land. Also of interest are future intended uses for the land and certain personal information that will help describe and classify particular groups of owners.
Information from the questionnaires will be used with data gathered as part of the forest survey to create a total picture of the future availability of timber and forest land. State and Federal Foresters expect to see other benefits, too. If public officials know the kinds of people who own forest land, and their reasons and objectives, forestry programs can be made more effective and more responsive to the needs of the landowners. The answers to the questionnaire will help to anticipate losses or gains in timber and forest land, and pinpoint potential problems before they reach crisis proportions.
Participation in both canvasses is voluntary. However, the agencies expect a high level of response because of widespread interest in forestry in Kentucky. Answers are always confidential and will be compiled so that no person or land holding can be identified. Landowners and companies are urged to respond at the earliest opportunity so that the data can be quickly gathered and analyzed.

4 Defendants Convicted In U.S. District Court

These convictions in U. S. district court at Pikeville were announced this week by U. S. Atty Eugene E. Siler Jr. Amos Adair Stiller, 24, and Freddie Carson Stiller, 23, both of Grundy, Va. pleaded guilty to unlawfully possessing a quantity of stolen explosives on Feds Creek in Pike county. The explosive materials had been stolen from a mine operated by James I. Griffith, also of Pike county. Judge H. David Hermansdorfer sentenced both defendants to five years.
Ronnie Mullins, 30, Route 2, Grundy, Va., also entered pleas of guilty to receiving and concealing the explosives taken by the Stillers and each was sentenced to three years.
Jack Little, 51, of Robinson Creek, Pike county was convicted of knowingly storing explosive materials in an unauthorized manner, in violation of the Organized Crime Control Act. The explosives were discovered in an abandoned car and outbuilding pursuant to a search by Kentucky State Police Detectives Richard Ray, Fred Bailey, and Trooper Kenneth Frost. The defendant was fined $200.
Melvin Caldwell, 32, of Conley, was convicted of being in possession of a firearm, a Colt .357 magnum revolver, in commerce and affecting commerce in Falcon, Magoffin county. The defendant was sentenced to two years.

Suspect Jail Inmate In Cellmate Death

A Pikeville jail inmate was beaten or stomped to death in his cell late Saturday night, officials said.
A cellmate has been charged with murder in connection with the death.
Kentucky State Police said John Herrington, Pikeville, was fatally assaulted sometime between 8 and 11:30 p.m. Saturday.
Billy Hall, 28, also of Pikeville, has been booked on a charge of murder. He was removed from the city jail to the Pike county jail.
Both men were arrested early Saturday night and jailed on charges of public drunkenness. They were arrested in separate incidents and lodged in the same cell by city police. A third man was also lodged in the same cell, but police said he was unable to be questioned because of his state of alleged intoxication.
KSP Detective Fred Bailey said officials at the jail discovered Herrington's body about 11:30 p.m. last night when they attempted to lock up a fourth man.
Police said other occupants of the jail, lodged in nearby cells, gave no indication they had heard or seen any fight or disturbance.
Pike County Coroner Bradford Hall said Herrington had apparently been beaten—or stomped—to death. Injuries, he said, included a broken jaw, internal injuries and a possible skull fracture.
