Confusion reigns in views of school fund status

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Differing interpretations of the timelines local school districts have to spend state school construction monies before those funds are lost to the state's general fund have added another wrinkle to Floyd County's ongoing school construction dilemma.

Differences of opinions on those deadlines exist between state school officials and bonding agents who assist local school districts with bond sales for new school construction.

The issue of how much time local school districts had to sell state school construction bonds was raised earlier this month by state education officials.

The Floyd County Board of Education was notified in early September by state school officials that they had until September 1994 to sell $7.5 million in state School Facility Con-

Bonding agents, SFCC officials differ over deadline for obligating construction allocations struction Commission (SFCC) bonds or those funds would be lost.

The SFCC monies which reportedly are in jeopardy are state funds allocated to the school system in 1988 and 1990 which have not been used for school construction projects. Laws governing the SFCC require local school districts to spend the state allocation within four years.

Local school officials were notified last week by Joe Nance, representing the local board's fiscal agent, Ross, Sinclair and Associates, that no SFCC funding was in danger of being lost. Nance's letter also said that the district has six years to obligate its SFCC funds allotted in 1988, 1990 and 1992.

Nance said the district must obligate $156,101 in SFCC funds not spent from the 1988 allocation by September 1994. The $156,101 SFCC allocation has a bonding potential of approximately $1.5 million for school construction projects. He said projects currently underway at South Floyd and Adams Middle School would more than satisfy funding obligation requirements.

Bob Tarvin, director of SFCC, said Tuesday that the six-year timeline is not entirely accurate.

A clause in the state's 1992-94 budget gave school districts a two-year extension to spend its SFCC

Paintsville firm gets detour on truck ban

Temporary relief given "land-locked" coal tippie

by Tony Fyffe
Paintsville Herald Editor

A judge issued a restraining order last week in a lawsuit by a Paintsville coal company challenging the state Transportation Cabinet's new weight limits for coal trucks on U.S. 23.

Acting on a complaint filed by Greentown Development, Inc., Johnson Circuit Judge Stephen N. Frazier entered the order Thursday prohibiting the cabinet from enforcing the new regulations "in such a manner as to landlock the Greentown tippie and coal processing facility by denying large coal trucks access thereto over some reasonable and practical route."

The restraining order applies to trucks hauling coal to the Greentown tippie and does not lift the ban on other coal haulers.

Under the new regulations, which took effect September 7, tractor-trailers hauling more than 80,000 pounds of coal are prohibited from traveling on the ten-mile section of U.S. 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg. Instead, northbound haulers are required to use two alternate routes: Route 114 and 460 or Route 3 and 1428—to bypass Paintsville.

Removal of the extended weight limit was requested by Paintsville officials, who said coal truck travel was affecting traffic in the city.

But Greentown Development, in its lawsuit, also filed Thursday, said the new regulations are harming its business.

Until the rules took effect, the suit claimed, "coal was hauled from Martin County to the Greentown tippie, via Route 3, west to U.S. Highway (old) Route 23, then north on old 23 to Route 1428, and north to

Stuck in the mud

Keith Terry of Paintsville had a close call Tuesday morning when the Dowell chemical truck he was driving wound up in a ditch in front of the Pagent Hill housing project in Martin. Officer Jeff Powell of the Martin City Police reported the accident occurred at 6:45 a.m. at the intersection in front of the Martin SuperAmerica when Terry attempted to turn South on Rt 122 from Rt 1428. Traffic was rerouted until 8:45 a.m. while workers cleared the scene. No injuries were reported. (photo by Ronnie Parsons)

Guardrails go up, water goes off for Left Beaver residents

by Ronnie Parsons
Staff Writer

Officials at Beaver Elkhorn Water District reported that construction to add and replace old guardrails along Rt. 122 from Martin to Clearwater, about 10 miles above McDowell, was the cause of last week's water problems for Left Beaver residents.

According to Bob Hackworth, field superintendent of the Beaver

Elkhorn Water District Office, state contracted ANPAT workers have struck the eight-inch main 16 times since work began on the new guardrails.

After ANPAT workers hit the water main 10 times between Wednesday and Friday morning last week, Beaver Elkhorn Water ran out of supplies to repair the line.

Beaver Elkhorn ordered more supplies from Lexington but was informed the company in Lexington did not have the materials needed and would have to forward the request to the main office in Alabama.

Quick delivery of the supplies from Alabama to the Beaver Elkhorn office allowed the workers to regain partial water pressure to the Left Beaver customers by late Friday night.

Five man crews worked around the clock from Wednesday to Friday and again on Monday helping to restore full pressure on the eight-inch main.

The workers' biggest problem occurred a quarter of a mile above McDowell where they had to replace a four foot section of the water main. Hackworth reported that they would be presenting ANPAT with the repair bill.

ANPAT representative Barbara Adams said that Beaver Elkhorn Water was slow in cooperating with the construction of the guardrails and did not know the exact location of the line running up Left Beaver and these were factors leading up to the accidents.

ANPAT will be putting workers from the job for 30 days to give Beaver Elkhorn Water enough time to find their water main in an attempt to head off anymore mishaps.

Floyd County miner dies in Martin County mishap

by Ronnie Parsons
Staff Writer

A Floyd County man was killed last week in a mining accident at the Raven Mining Company number two mine in Martin County.

Glenn Otis Bays, 32, of the Left Fork of Abbot, was killed Friday while cleaning around the take-up unit of a running conveyor belt.

According to state officials, Bays became entangled in the belt line and was pulled between the belt and the rollers causing head and chest injuries.

The accident occurred around 7:45 p.m. Friday, about 1,000 feet underground in an eight-foot-high seam of coal.

Bays was pronounced dead at the scene by Martin County Coroner Jay Hinkle.

Bays, a coal miner and a licensed minister, was a member of the Katy Friend Baptist Church and the U.M.W.A.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 2 p.m. under the direction of the Floyd Funeral Home of Prestonsburg.

Two of three okay agreements with city cable service

Verbal agreements have been reached with two of three area television stations that were in danger of being dropped from a Prestonsburg cable system's lineup. CableVision manager Dan Perry said Friday.

Hazard station WYMT and Huntington's WOWK will remain on CableVision's schedule, Perry said, and the third station, Fox affiliate WVAH of Hurricane, West Virginia, has asked for a 60-day extension on an October 6 deadline to complete retransmission negotiations.

CableVision subscribers had been notified earlier this month that those three stations could be dropped from the local cable system if retransmission agreements, required under new federal regulations governing relationships between broadcasters and cable systems, were not signed by October.

"Things are looking real good, we hope we don't have to lose anybody," Perry said Friday.

Board suggests state butt-out of track project

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County school officials reluctantly voted Saturday to amend their previous emergency declaration on the Allen Central High School track project after state officials questioned the move.

Board chairman Eddio Patton and board member Hattie Owens said they represented the state's interference on the project and suggested that they visit the district before nixing the emergency declaration.

"These kids run beside the road and on strip mine sites," Patton said. "If that's not an emergency, I don't know what is."

Owens concurred with Patton's comments and said state officials ought to visit the district before making a decision.

"It's easy for Mr. (Mark) Ryles to sit in Frankfort and say it's not an emergency," Owens said. "These kids are running beside the four-lane. They probably have a top notch track in Frankfort. This has been going on for a year and a half and we need to act."

Board members modified their decision last Tuesday to declare the entire track project an emergency and only included the construction of a retaining wall as an emergency.

Floyd superintendent Steve Towler told board members that state officials would not approve declaring the entire project an emergency and suggested that the project "get on the market immediately" to avoid further delays.

The board voted last week to declare the project an emergency because asphalt plants are expected to close in November and that there was not enough time to properly bid the project before the plants close.

Nick Feldman, the architect who took over the project, said that he would seek quotes from contractors to build the retaining wall and present them to the board at Saturday's special meeting.

The board voted to advertise for bids for the remainder of the project. After Saturday's meeting, Feldman and Jim Osborne, chief of Court okays vote machine deal over clerk's objection

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd Countians are expected to see what it's like to vote by computer this November with the fiscal court's decision Friday to buy new electronic voting machines.

Fiscal court members voted to buy 45 new computer voting machines from low bidder, MicroVote, despite County Court Clerk Carla Boyd's suggestion the county purchase machines from Harp Enterprises.

MicroVote's bid of $206,400 was approximately $25,000 lower than the bid from Harp Enterprises.

Boyd told the court that she has been using one of Harp's electronic machines in her office for absentee balloting for the past "two or three elections." The clerk said she did not favor MicroVote's machines because if the county has a crowded primary or general election, voters will have to scroll through pages on the machines, rather than looking at the entire ballot.

Joe Bolton, representing MicroVote, told the court that of the 12 counties presently using his machines, just three counties have had to use a second page in a primary election.

Bolton also explained that his machines are "self-sufficient" and will print the voting ballots. MicroVote machines have a "hard copy backup" which allows officials to retrieve votes cast during an election if one of the machines malfunctions.

Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens moved to purchase the machines from Bolton, but his motion died for a lack of a second.

Boyd told the court that if they did not decide on the issue at Friday's meeting, the county would be out monies to repair the 30-year-old machines.

"There's no use in throwing money away when the old machines will only be used in one election," Boyd told the court.

Owens renewed his motion to purchase new voting machines from MicroVote and the court unanimously approved the purchase and gave permission to proceed with arranging the financing.

The court will finance the purchase of the new machines through a lease/purchase agreement with operations for the school district, said that no final budget has been submitted for the project. They estimated the cost to be approximately $125,000.

In the only other business Saturday, board members accepted bids for the construction of the South Floyd gym.

Superintendent Towler said that several of the bids came in higher than expected and that the cost would be approximately $90 per square foot to build the facility.

Mark Ryles, Director of Facilities Management for the state, said Tuesday that South Floyd will be a "Catalytic" of gyms and that, considering the size of the facility, the $90 per square foot price is reasonable.

Architect Paul Hoffman told the board that the $90 per square foot cost to build the gym was "a reasonable and good fair market value." Due to revisions on the project by state and local school officials, the cost of the gym has increased from $2.5 million to approximately $3.3 million, chairman Patton said.

Of that $3.3 million price tag, $1.7 million is allocated for the project from the state's School Facility Construction Commission and the remainder of funds will come from a local bond sale.

Revisions include increasing the seating capacity from 750 to approximately 2,000; the addition of a weight room and band room; and a suspended indoor running track.

Patton asked Hoffman if the board would get better cost estimates if the entire project was rebid.

Hoffman said that the board would not realize any significant savings and could lose money by re-advertising for bids.

Hoffman recommended that four contracts be rebid and the landscaping contract be rejected and postponed.

The board voted to rebid the plumbing contract for clarity of information and the finishes and electrical contracts because only one bid was received for each. The roofing contract will also be rebid with the specifications calling for a less expensive type roof.

Jim Osborne, chief of operations, said the school district will submit an amended BO-1 to the state which will reflect the increase in the cost of the project.

The bids accepted by the board Saturday will have to be approved by the Kentucky Department of Education before contracts can be awarded.

Board member Eddie Billips was absent from Saturday's meeting.

Keathley acquitted of murder charge

Jury finds teen not guilty in 1991 shooting death

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County Jury deliberated for almost five hours Tuesday before finding a Floyd County teen not guilty of murder in the 1991 shooting death of Larry Calhoun.

Douglas Todd Keathley was charged with murder after he shot Calhoun one time in the head with a shotgun on March 27, 1991.

During closing arguments Tuesday, Keathley's attorney, Steve Owens, said that Keathley, who was 16 at the time of the incident, was acting in self-defense when he shot Calhoun, who was 35. Owens argued that Calhoun had threatened Keathley with a knife and told the teenager he was going to slit his throat.

Calhoun had beaten Keathley's mother "like a dog" the year before, Owens said, and when Calhoun showed up drunk at his mother's house and threatened the two, Keathley shot him.

Special prosecutor Teddy See of Louisa, argued that Calhoun was not close enough to Keathley to present a danger and Keathley shot him out of anger, not fear.

See also told jurors that "all he had to do was stay in the house," and Larry Calhoun never came any closer to Keathley than the other side of the road.

Owens moved for a mistrial during closing arguments when See made reference to photographs not introduced into evidence.

Floyd Circuit Judge John David Caudill overruled Owens' motion and told jurors that See's statements were improper and to disregard them.

Floyd school board to meet between training sessions

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County school board members will squeeze a special board meeting in Saturday morning during a two-day workshop at Allen Central High School.

An orientation/workshop on the school system's central office reorganization will begin Friday, September 24 at the Allen Central High School library. The Friday session begins at 6 p.m. and will end at 10 p.m.

On Saturday morning, September 25, the board will meet with the district's Local Planning Committee (LPC) at 8 a.m. in an attempt to resolve differences between the board and the LPC on the school system's new four-year building plan.

The LPC has recommended that the board proceed with plans to build a 21-classroom addition at Betsy Layne Elementary but the board has voted to abandon the project.

At 9 a.m. Saturday, a special meeting of the board has been called, but the special meeting agenda has not been prepared.

At 11 a.m. Saturday, the board's workshop will resume and is expected to last two to three hours. During the two-day workshop, the board will discuss the role of the central office staff member with the superintendent and building principals. Instructional staff will be the topic of the September 24 and 25 meetings. A second workshop, to discuss the operations staff at the central office will be held at a later date.

The September 24 and 25 workshops are open to the public.

Parker, Akers clash with mayor

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A fight almost erupted Monday between the mayor and two city commissioners at the Wheelwright City Commission meeting.

Not long after Monday's meeting started, Mayor Kenneth Johnson threatened to "whip" Commissioner Lowell Parker during discussions on a lease between the city and the school board for the city's swimming pool building.

When Parker suggested that the city not enter into lease with the board for the building for $1 per year, which would house a Family Resource Center, Mayor Johnson sarcastically said, "I don't think the kids of Wheelwright need anything."

When Parker remarked that the issue "died" as did an earlier discussion, Mayor Johnson asked him, "are you going to start on me tonight?"

"I'm a legislator tonight—I don't have time to put on boxing gloves," Parker replied.

"You either shut up or get in the middle of the floor," the mayor told Parker. "You can get your butt whipped like any other time. You're lying racial. For four years now you've been all mouth. Sit there and shut up."

Parker responded that he didn't have to shut up and Mayor Johnson stood up and walked toward Parker.

Parker told the mayor he wasn't going to get into a confrontation and suggested the council continue with the meeting.

Later in the meeting when the commission voted to go into closed session to discuss personnel, Parker refused to participate and instead called a press conference.

During the commission's closed session, Mayor Johnson and Commissioner Andy Akers had a verbal argument concerning the police department. Akers said after the meeting.

During the closed session, Commissioner Allen Taylor came in and announced to the audience that he "had to sit two of them down" during the closed session.

While commissioners discussed personnel issues, Parker told the audience he was ashamed of the "bar-room brawl" behavior that had taken place earlier in the meeting.

"This is a charade and should have never taken place in a public meeting," Parker said.

He added that the City of Wheelwright has become a "nightmare" and the "laughingstock of Eastern Kentucky."

Parker also said that the topic of the closed session was "cut and dried," but he declined to elaborate on that statement.

Parker also urged citizens to participate in their city government and attend commission meetings.

"It's time to take a stand for what's right for the people," Parker said. "See how your elected officials behave."

Parker is an opponent of Johnson's in the November election for mayor.

Earlier in the meeting the mayor and Parker clashed over a vote to pay the legal fees of attorney Will T. Scott, who is representing them in a federal lawsuit filed by former police chief Charles Harmon.

The amount of the invoice was not discussed, but when a call for a vote on the issue was made by the mayor, only the mayor said "aye."

Commissioner Akers made the motion to pay the bill and Parker seconded the motion.

Parker said that he and Akers were in favor of the move, but if the mayor insisted that only one affirmative vote was needed, the issue was approved.

"One 'aye' vote is more than no 'nay' votes," Parker said.

City clerk Mary Johnson appeared confused by the mayor's claim that only one "aye" vote was recorded and pointed out that the two commissioners had placed the motion on the floor.

Also Monday, commissioners voted to hire David Gray as the temporary police chief to fill in for David Duncan who has been off work since being injured while trying to arrest Commissioner Luther Johnson this past summer.

Commissioner Parker made a motion to hire Brent Huff as a part-time police officer. Huff was previously a city police officer who was also involved in Johnson's arrest.

Johnson, Mayor Johnson and Taylor voted against hiring Huff.

Parker said he recommended Huff because he had been trained at the police academy in Richmond and the city would need a trained officer while Gray attends the police academy.

Bus drivers asks board to recognize U.S.W. union

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County school bus drivers asked school board members last Tuesday to recognize the United Steel Worker's organization as their union representatives.

Bus drivers Shannon Wallen and Denver Ousley asked the board to recognize the steel workers as their union and to sit down with the group and negotiate a contract.

Wallen said bus drivers were unhappy that they had received no response from school officials relating to a list of concerns the drivers gave to several board members and superintendent Steve Towler earlier this year.

Board chairman Eddie Patton told the drivers that he wasn't against the union, but he wished bus drivers would come to the board to talk about problems and for drivers "to work with us and put the children first."

Wallen responded that the children are the driver's first concern and "the main reason why we are here."

Patton said he would like to personally talk with local United Steel Worker's president Alan Whicker about the issue.

Whicker, who attended last Tuesday's board meeting, said he was available to talk with board members individually or as a group. Whicker said he would like to discuss the issue with at least three board members, but chairman Patton said that if three or more board members met it would have to be a public meeting.

The board agreed for Patton to "find out what the problems are" and report back to the board at the October meeting.

Wallen and Ousley also asked why regular bus drivers had to drive more miles each day than teachers who also drive buses. The two also complained that bus drivers should receive the same number of sick days as certified personnel.

Patton suggested the bus drivers follow proper grievance procedures concerning their complaints and if the issues cannot be resolved, they should come back before the board of education.

PCC series to focus on women

Several Kentucky women who are making their presence known in politics and business will be at Prestonsburg Community College over the next two weeks to address the topic "Strong Women of the Nineties."

The series is part of a class assignment for students in Professor Leo Waddell's class in Modern Social Issues. A team of students has planned the programs.

Ellen Rosenman, director of the University of Kentucky women's studies program, will be the first speaker. Her presentation is set for Wednesday, September 29, at 12:40 p.m. in Pike Building auditorium. Rosenman is also a professor of English, specializing in women's literature.

Looking at women in the media will be television newswoman Susan Nicholas, who will speak Monday, October 4, also at 12:40 p.m. in the Pike Building. She is news anchor at WYMT-TV in Hazard.

Buy the books . . .

by Scott Perry

With all the great strides forward we've taken to reform education in Kentucky, you have to wonder if we've really gone anywhere when some students still lack the basic tools for learning.

In many school districts, students are finding that their biggest problems aren't in meeting academic standards or testing criteria, but getting their hands on textbooks.

Here we are, entering the second month of the school year and some students still have no books, forcing them to either share with others or use mimeographed copies of lesson assignments.

As you might expect, the root of this particular evil is money.

The state allocates a certain amount to each district, per student, for the purchase of books. Those textbooks have become so expensive that schools often delay orders until they are absolutely certain of the quantities they must buy.

That means waiting until after school starts to get an accurate head count. And, in many districts, it means some students must get by with less.

If that sounds a bit contrary to education reform's promise... that every child will have equal access to a quality education... it's because it is.

The reasonable solution to this problem would be to have schools order over-supplies then send back what they don't need.

If book publishers aren't interested in that consignment approach, find another who is.

Meanwhile, the state needs to re-evaluate its textbook allocation formula to ensure that all the needs are covered.

When we measure reform in dollars, it makes very little sense.

Our children's education and future

Editor:

If we all took time out from our busy days to just sit and think about our children's education and future, maybe we would understand and appreciate all the teachers and support staff that work in our school.

I have five kids in Maytown Grade School and it is sad to know that I never once said "thanks" until I started visiting my kids' school and seeing for myself what great things they do for my kids, (well, everyone's kids).

We all think that teachers' work stops after school, but we are wrong. I have seen them go from one meeting to another just to try and better our schools.

I went to Maytown Grade School myself and believe me it has improved a lot in the years. They have programs now that not only help our kids but help us too, such as the Family Resource Center. It has helped our community and school in so many ways.

I guess what I am saying is please start getting involved in your child's school so that we can give our kids the education and future they deserve.

I would like to "thank" everyone in Maytown Grade School for doing a great job with my children.

True facts emerge

Editor:

As a parent of the Betsy Layne Elementary district, I have become actively involved concerning the controversy over the new grade school facility.

When I first heard of this project being canceled, I thought it was because of some major problem. However, after attending local board meetings and reading about this project daily, the true facts have emerged.

The board's rationale as to why this project should be scrapped is not logical or practical, but come to find out this was a falsified rationale presented to the state board and it was never addressed or signed by any of the local board members.

How can they, or the tax payers, afford to abandon a site valued in excess of 2 million dollars? What about the value of the existing property and the fact that all utilities are present? They have also spent 1/2 million on site preparation.

The gym was built in 1969 and was to accommodate both a high school and elementary. The cost to renovate and pay insurance would be far less than to build a new gym facility. The gymnasium would cost approximately 2 million dollars if it were rebuilt today and since it exists we should maximize its use.

Living in the Big Sandy Area, we all know that this entire valley is practically in the flood plain. However, the new school will be built out of the flood elevation. There is a difference between flood plain and flood elevation.

Our local planning committee (LPC) suggests that the new elementary school be built and the LPC consists of 16 qualified persons who unanimously voted for the site. The money is available for both this school and a new middle school. As stated by Dr. Towler in an article last week, if we have the money let's use it to our school district's advantage... don't lose it.

Ask yourself, what would an alternate site cost? What about site preparation and what would the cost of access into a new site cost along with utilities?

I am anxious to think that the entire board will re-evaluate and present their own rationale and that this much needed facility project will be reinstated.

Hello, neighbor!

Editor:

I was fortunate to be in the home of a friend when I heard the following conversation, when a lady walked in. The lady came into the room, after knocking. She was carrying one child and leading another one. She looked at the lady of the house and smiled.

She said I have brought you a gift, as she handed the boxed gift to the lady of the house.

The lady of the house looked at her with a smile on her face and replied, "What's the occasion for the gift?"

The lady with the children replied, with a big grin on her face, just a small token of appreciation for you being a good neighbor. I marveled at this display of two people who lived on the same street and just a few doors away.

I pose this question to the people of Floyd County: Are you a neighbor to the people on your street or hollow? Are the people a neighbor to you? Do you know the people that live near you? Could you borrow coffee from them and vice-versa? Would you go to the assistance of those people? Would they reciprocate?

I would say, if all people were neighbors, this world would be a much better place to live. My family is a good neighbor to the people on our street and is a good neighbor to other people in our town.

Why don't we all start being good neighbors? Why don't we make Prestonsburg a good, neighbor town?

Betsy Layne addition facts

Editor:

Our appointed board member from the 3rd educational district Brent Gifford Clark has failed to speak up and give us a logical, justifiable reason for the cancellation of the Betsy Layne School project. We are left to theorize and guess at what his motivation is for initiating the cancellation of our school project.

One thing that we do know is that Brent Clark persuaded some other board members to go along with him in scrapping the project. One of the arguments he used to gain their support was that "building a middle school first would eliminate the need for mobile classrooms at several schools and would save the school system $1 million in the rental fees over a five-year span" (as reported in the Floyd County Times on July 23) ... and referring to the Betsy Layne School, he stated at the August board of education meeting at Stumbo that "Building a middle school first would be the quickest way to eliminate mobile classrooms at the school" (Floyd County Times, August 20).

Betsy Layne Elementary has 15 rooms in mobile units in service and has 5 1/2 classes of 6, 7, and 8th graders and would be left with 10 mobile rooms in use if all of these kids went to a new middle school. Stumbo has six classes of this age kids and eight mobile classrooms and would be left with at least two mobile rooms in use. Of five districts in the county the 3rd district has over 43 percent of the mobile units.

The projected savings seem to come up a bit short also once you look at the numbers. If you take the monthly rental costs (provided by the BOE) at Betsy Layne ($3,019), Prater ($1,260), Stumbo ($3,649), and Harold ($0-all owned) add them all

by Scott Perry

We're feeling a bit philosophical this week, what with our advanced age and all, so we'll take a break from our normal routine to wallow in self-pity, poetically...

Have you ever thought as the days go by
That you can only live until you die?

And it seems some are intent on rushing that up,
With their jokes about how you're no longer a pup.

"You're not a spring chicken,"
They cackle with glee.
"You're older than bark on a petrifed tree."

"Older than dirt, than Methuselah, too."

"They've found dinosaur bones that are younger than you!"

"They say that when Noah
Was sailing his ark,
You offered directions on where he should park."

"And when Moses was doing his
Red Sea routine,
You went along to report on the scene."

We laugh at their jokes,
With a measure of cheer.
And by remembering a saying we've come to hold dear.

We'll take what they give through their fun and their games,
We'll forgive all our foibles, but remember their names.

When opportunity knocks,
We'll answer the door.
And use all of our efforts to settle this score.

We're older, but wiser, with secrets to tell.
Turnabout is fair play...and paybacks are Hell.

To borrow a line from Mark Twain,

the news of our death has been greatly exaggerated.

Reaching this particular milestone, which we have heard described alternately as the "foothills of middle-age" or "the backstretch of the rat race," has given rise to serious contemplation on the path we should follow for the time we have left.

Should we rise above our vices, walk hand-in-hand with righteousness and humility, rededicate ourselves to the service of mankind, cleanse our mind, body and soul of self-indulgence to become a paragon of virtue?

Or should we just ride around and listen to the radio?
Can't teach an old dog new tricks.

—Letters to the Editor—

together and multiply by 12 months and then multiply by five years the most you could save is about $475,680 over five years or less than 1/2 the "claimed" savings.

We also understood that the board members were told about the Betsy Layne project that "nobody" out there wants this school built." We of the 3rd district have found a tremendous number of people who do want to see this school built and who do not agree with throwing away the $1/2 million that has already been spent on this project. (P.S. we still ain't figured out who 'nobody' is.)

We can understand how the other BOE members might possibly have been persuaded to go along with the scrapping as they appear to have been misled by our own appointed BOE member. We asked them to look at the accurate facts, the savings, the needs, the demographics, etc., and reinstate this project and start construction now.

One more topic we need to touch on is the fact that the money for the Betsy Layne project (the 26 room addition and the repairs to the gymnasium) won't begin to build the middle school. The proposed middle school cost will total approximately $14 million (it is designed to serve 600 children) and will be built in 3 phases. If every penny of the Betsy Layne project went to the middle school project you wouldn't have even enough to build the first phase and there doesn't appear to be funding to complete this school in the immediate future.

Completion of the Betsy Layne project should be done now as it will have an immediate impact on 550 children for a fraction of the cost of the middle school. If the middle school construction is started now without adequate funding, no children will be served and only the architects, construction companies, and the property owners where the middle school will be built will benefit. Let's use our dollars for the children's benefit and begin construction of the Betsy Layne project now.

Fair coverage for all high schools

Editor:
I enjoy reading the sports pages of the Floyd County Times and I believe that Ed Taylor does a good job covering the football, basketball and baseball games played by our high school players.

In the September 15 issue of the Floyd County Times there were pictures of plays from the Prestonsburg-Whitesburg game, the Allen Central-Pikeville game and the Betsy Layne-Allen Central freshman game.

South Floyd High School played Phelps at home on the Wheelwright field. This was the first home football game played by South Floyd High School under its new name. The South Floyd Raiders comes from the merger of McDowell and Wheelwright. I did not see any pictures of this game, only a written account.

I realize that Ed cannot be everywhere at the same time, but someone should have been sent to take some pictures of the first home game of the South Floyd Raiders.

Please treat all the high schools equal in Floyd County and keep up the good coverage.

Approved or not approved?

Editor:
I was very upset to hear my child's school superintendent state to our board at Tuesday's meeting that he did not present the State Board of Education with the Rationale Report explaining the board's decision to stop the Betsy Layne Elementary addition.

Many of our parents were in attendance at that meeting and we saw one of his assistants reach him in the paper in question which he in turn presented to the state board implying it had been approved by the local board. Joe Kelly, a chairman of the State Board of Education, who was present at the meeting told the Floyd County Times the document was not valid. If Dr. Towler was told to present this document to stop this much needed project at Betsy Layne Elementary he should own up to the means he used to accomplish this goal. After all, there was a room full of witnesses that saw exactly how it was done.

Fire victim says thanks for helping

Editor:
I would like to thank all the good people of Floyd County who opened up their hearts and gave me a helping hand when I was in need.

I want to thank Naomi Martin for her hospitality, welcoming me into her home and also for all the good food she shared with me. I especially want to thank Danny Martin for his friendship. He is a close, personal friend who has stood by my side through my hard times. They don't come any better.

I also want to thank a very special and unique person who gave me a word, but wanted to remain anonymous.

Thank you all from the bottom of my heart.

WHS reunion, "wonderful" and well attended

Editor:
I'm finally come down off "cloud 9" and can extend proper thanks to all those who helped in our wonderful reunion. It was with great sadness that we accepted the fact that Wheelwright High School would be no more. We began to dream of a "super" reunion, giving everyone an opportunity to get together once more. We met for the first time in April and a better group of workers could not be found anywhere! The first 2-3 meetings were concerned primarily with addressing envelopes and collecting more names and addresses. As the first donations began to trickle in, we knew we were on our way.

I could tell you hundreds of incidents that turned my hair a little grayer—but I won't. I just want to express my love and appreciation to all those wonderful people who helped us along the way. To the wonderful people who helped with food, entertainment, building, registration, publicizing... I could go on and on; thank you.

A safe estimate for the total crowd would be 3,500 and some say closer to 4,000. I saw hugs and tears, jitters, giggling and giggling—just hundreds of happy, happy people!

If for some reason, you couldn't attend, I'm truly sorry. You really missed a wonderful weekend! This was a once-in-a-lifetime event. There may be other reunions but this one was special.

To those of you who came, I know you share my feelings. Thank you one and all. And to think, I worried no one would attend! Again, let me thank all you wonderful, wonderful people. I love you all and God bless you.

Colors are in the eye of the beholder

Editor:
Where but in America, where we have freedom of speech, choice, expression, and the right to bear arms can an issue of the Rebel Flag be an issue! The ones against the Rebel Flag are people who try to exploit minorities for their own satisfaction.

I want to know who's speaking for the white bonded slaves? They were owned till their fare was paid back. Shall we ban the 13 colony flag?

Let's ban the Chinese flag for their slavery; Mexico-slave wages; Japan-slaves to the company they work and die for. Why don't we ban everything someone doesn't like? Sounds far-fetched—well, to me, banning the Rebel Flag has gone to extreme.

Today the Rebel Flag is a symbol of a proud, kind and friendly class of citizens. (More than I can say for northerners, I'm from the north). Southerners are proud of their heritage, whatever race they are. Race should have nothing to do with who or what you are. It's who you are! Why can't we let the past be? We can't change that—what's done is done. But we sure can make the future better and make sure it don't happen again!

What's happening here is just like our criminal system. Too many bleeding hearts, you see where we're at today. Crime pays except for you and me. We don't have any rights anymore. The few rule over the majority. That's wrong! Where are the rights of the people who want to display the Rebel Flag?

Today the Mexicans were displaying their flag. One man told me someone asked his son, "why are you flying the Mexican flag?" He responded, "Every one is and I wanted to." The son was asked if he knew the Mexican emblem. No, he did not. So, why was he flying the flag? He has more rights than the Southern people!

When I see the Rebel Flag, the only colors I see are red, white, blue. I don't see any other color, not black nor white, because I'm not a racist. Only a racist would see any other color.

Encouraging news

Editor:
We often become discouraged about the condition of our nation and need encouraging news.

Our churches, with the proper adult/youth balance in their congregations, could do much to help our nation's wounds.

The adults could furnish the church finance base and the youth could keep new blood flowing into the congregation.

It's sad, but a number of churches are dying on the vine, because the grandparents have it "all."

There are three church plants known to me in Massachusetts, and they are in a sort of test case, to do what things for Christ and America. However, there are some problems.

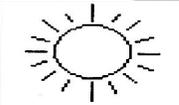

I know first-hand of the problems being encountered by Christ The King Baptist Church (CKBC), 24 Montrose Avenue, Lawrence, Massachusetts 01842, in trying to achieve a proper balance of adults/youth in their congregation. Youth are responding beautifully, but adults are slow to respond.

The potential for CKBC to serve as a role model, and pass on the "savvy" for achieving proper adult/youth balances, is great, if only a very small percent of people will become a part of the program. It would cost an individual so little. The basic needs for CKBC to succeed for Christ, and America, are prayers for mission success, publicity, and our "pennies" from Heaven.

The opportunity for us to band together in spirit and song with togetherness, is before us, in CKBC. The mold has been set, and God is waiting on us to do a little, and He'll do the rest.

All this is encouraging news, (11 Chronicles 7:14). For God and Country.

Three plead not guilty to corruption charges

Letcher County Jailer Gene Banks and his wife have pleaded not guilty to charges they stole county money to buy personal items for their home.

Pike County Finance Commissioner Mary Jane Wright also has pleaded not guilty to an unrelated charge of second-degree possession of a forged document. She was indicted last Tuesday along with Letcher County Commonwealth's Attorney James Wiley Craft. Wright was Craft's secretary at the time of the alleged crime.

Wright and Craft allegedly falsified a date so someone could be named administrator of a dead person's estate.

The indictments were part of a special grand jury investigation into government corruption in the county. —Lexington Herald-Leader

Newspaper keeps Eagle eye on county

In many Kentucky counties, tales of corruption in local government are whispered, barely raising echoes in the quiet courthouses.

But in Letcher County, where the judge-executive, jailer and prosecutor were indicted last week, there's a louder voice at work.

The Mountain Eagle, a weekly newspaper that serves the county, has for much of the past two years been "filled with the drubbing of public corruption," said Will Collins, a Whitesburg lawyer who served on a grand jury that began investigating county officials in 1991.

The paper's slogan: "IT SCREAMS!"

Collins said the newspaper's tough reporting of questionable county purchasing practices spurred the grand jurors to call for the investigation, headed up by a special grand jury, the state police and the state attorney general's office.

Powell clerk is more than $100,000 short, audit finds

More than $100,000 is missing from the Powell County clerk's office, and the clerk tried to hide it by falsifying bank deposit slips, a report from the state auditor's office says.

State Auditor Ben Chandler said he does not know what happened to the money. He has referred the matter to the Kentucky State Police and the attorney general's office.

Sherry Williams Bowen, the clerk, said she was not familiar enough with the audit to discuss specifics. But she added, "I have not done anything wrong."

Chandler had a different view. —The Courier-Journal

KACO (Kentucky Association of County Officials) and the financial arrangements are expected to be complete in 60 days.

In other action Friday, Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson presented the 1991-92 audit of his department which showed a 93 percent collection rate for property taxes. Thompson explained that the collection rate for state taxes was at 94 percent with the difference between the two being in intangible property taxes.

Every taxing district was overpaid, Thompson said, except the Floyd County school system and the health department. He said the school system is owed approximately $65 and the health department $32. Thompson explained that the courts will receive about $140,000 in unmined mineral tax before the books are closed. Unmined mineral tax collections stand at 80 percent, Thompson said, but those tax collection rates do not coincide with property tax collections.

The court voted unanimously to accept the sheriff's settlement.

Also Friday, RND Design president, Ralph Bowen told court members his plant in California closed

Friday and the inventory from that location is being shipped to Martin office.

Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond asked Bowen to clarify the number of jobs expected to be available at the Martin location after three years of operation. Bowen said that after three years, "at least" 150 people would be employed and if business is good it could be 300-400 people. Bowen explained that workers would be "phased in" and it would take a full year before the company is fully operational.

RND Design is a company which manufactures low wattage outdoor lighting fixtures. Darrell Gilliam, director of the county's development authority, told the court that site improvements at the RND building were coming along "real well."

The fiscal court approved a transfer of $95,000 to the economic development fund to pay for site development for RND Design. The cost of the site development will be reimbursed to the county by the state's economic development authority, Gilliam said.

In additional business Friday:

• the court approved a contract between the Big Sandy Area Development District and the fiscal court which allows Big Sandy ADD to administer and manage the grant funds for the RND project.

• Magistrates Gerald DeRossett and Jackie Owens asked the court agreed that each magistrate be alloted 200 tons of gravel each month for road improvements; and

• the court approved line item transfers of $321.

The next regular meeting of the court is scheduled for Friday, October 15 at 10 a.m. in the courthouse annex. The meetings are open to the public.

funding, Tarvin said. But when the state's 1992-94 budget expires in June and the two-year extension also expires, Tarvin explained, local districts then must abide by the four-year deadline outlined in the law.

A spokesman for the Legislative Research Commission said Tuesday that the provision in the state's 1992-94 budget, which overrides the statute pertaining to the timeline for spending SFCC funds, will expire at the end of June. But, if state legislators decide to put another extension into the 1992-96 budget, the issue could be revisited.

Tarvin said Tuesday that it would not be wise for local school officials to wait and hope that another extension is included in the state's next two-year budget.

Tarvin added that the SFCC did not ask that an extension be put into the state's 1992-94 budget and he felt it wasn't a good way to do business.

Jim Osborne, Floyd County sheriff of operations, said Tuesday that Vance is of the opinion that the two-year extension applied to all school projects funded at the time by SFCC, not just the 1988 SFCC allocation.

Floyd County received $469,344 in SFCC funding in 1990. Vance's letter to the superintendent says that the board has until 1996 to obligate those funds.

Osborne said Tuesday that local school officials will heed the advice of Tarvin and work under the deadline imposed by the SFCC. Osborne added that Floyd County will not be the only school district affected if the deadline reverts to four years.

The LRC spokesman said that it will probably come down to an issue of interpretation, but that a clarification on the matter needs to be made soon so school officials will know which deadline to follow.

After the amendment of the KAR 8-23, "the complainant withdrew. These roads were part of the Greenway of Kentucky. They had a weight limit and could be used for heavy trucks, which permitted transportation of coal to the Greenway's tipple in economic loads."

Removal of those sections of road from the extended weight system left Greenway Development without a "practical alternative route," handicapping the tipple and forcing it out of business, the suit contended, adding that amending the regulations was "arbitrary and wrongful and violative" of the company's constitutional rights.

Greenway Development had been an established business under the previous extended weight coal haul regulations for many years, before said amendment of September 1991, and the plaintiff had acquired a reasonable expectancy and a vested right to continue to receive coal over the roads and make substantial investments in improving the tipple and processing plant," said the lawsuit filed on the company's behalf by attorneys J.K. Wells.

The restraining order, Tarvin said, trucks delivered daily to Greenway Development "shall be permitted to travel U.S. 23 by customary route and shall carry a certified copy of this restraining order which shall be presented to any appropriate state officer questioning the right of the operator to travel said roadway."

Named as defendants in Greenway Development's lawsuit were the Transportation Cabinet, Transportation Secretary Don C. Kelly and Jerry Anglin, deputy secretary and Commissioner of Highways.

Riverside Downs owners say Floyd group extorting money

The backer of a proposed Floyd County harness racing track has been accused of extorting money from the owner of Riverside Downs near Ashland.

M.L. Vaughn, owner of the proposed Riverside Downs harness racing track, said Monday that Julian Carroll, a major stockholder in Mountain Racing Inc., is trying to extort money from him in exchange for letting him operate within 75 miles of the Floyd County track.

Carroll, who is also an attorney for Mountain Racing Inc., did not deny that he was trying to get money from Riverside Downs, but said the effort could not be characterized as extortion.

Carroll says that Riverside Downs must negotiate with his group before moving from Henderson to the Ashland location.

Carroll cited a 1992 law prohibiting intertrack wagering within 75 miles of another licensed track without the other facility's permission.

The two harness racing tracks were both licensed simultaneously for 1994 by the Kentucky Racing Commission, but the proposed Floyd County track has never held races and was not licensed when Riverside Downs was decided to be moved, said Vaughn.

Clyde Woods, a Prestonsburg businessman, purchased the license of the former Louisville Downs harness track in 1991 and intended to build a harness track in the area.

The Kentucky Harness Racing Commission approved the transfer in 1992 and Kentucky Downs held intertrack wagering in Prestonsburg the last few months of 1992.

After the organization failed to meet the deadline for the track completion, the Kentucky Racing Commission denied Kentucky Downs dates for live racing in 1993. Carroll says the license was still in effect.

On August 30, both tracks were awarded 1994 racing dates so neither track could claim precedence over the other.

RND Inc. is looking for a few good employees

The Department for Employment Services will begin taking applications Wednesday, (today) at 8 a.m. for several positions at RND Incorporated at Martin.

Debbie Allen, director for employment services in Prestonsburg, said last week that there is an immediate opening at the Martin plant for a secretary and that within the next two to three weeks, two to three additional workers will be hired.

Within the next five to six weeks, the company expects to hire five or six more employees.

RND Inc. is a company which manufactures low wattage outdoor lighting fixtures. The company completed the move of its manufacturing plant from California to Martin last week. RND officials hope to hire up to 300 people after three years of operation.

Kentucky Opry season closes with jazz ensemble

Music will be rolling from Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre Sunday night with the final 1993 outdoor performance of Kentucky Opry, the Junior Pros, and a new group taking the stage to perform classic hits from the Big Band era.

Kentucky Opry, which is Eastern Kentucky's answer to Nashville, has been playing to sell-out crowds at the Amphitheatre this summer.

The non-profit performing group was created to promote the construction of the Mountain Arts Center as a permanent music home for Eastern Kentucky.

In the process, the group of young performers has gained state and national recognition through its shows.

The new performing ensemble, which will go on stage as one of two opening acts Sunday night, is an offshoot of the Opry's role in fostering music education in the region.

Composed of 14 band directors, assistants, and music teachers from five counties, the Jazz Band Ensemble will recreate music of the 40's, when Swing was King and Pop was Hot.

First on stage Sunday, starting at 6 p.m. will be the Junior Pros, another Opry offspring. Made up of 23 talented musicians and singers, from third graders to college freshmen, the younger group was created by Opry founder Billie Jean Osborne to give professional stage experience to young performers.

The Jazz Band Ensemble will perform at 7 p.m., and the original Kentucky Opry will go on at 7:45.

Tickets for the Sunday night performance are still available, and may be reserved by calling (606) 886-9274 daily between 2 and 6 p.m.

BUT HOW MUCH DOES IT COST?

An unusual offer was presented in full-page ads appearing in major magazines during September 1993. The ad read, "Governments try to solve Their Problems. The World Government of the Age of Enlightenment announces its readiness to solve the problems of any government regardless of the magnitude and nature of the problem. 1983 can be the year of fulfillment for every government."

Interested parties were directed to contact the organization run by His Holiness Maharishi-Mahesh Yogi. The offer carried no warranty.

Ticket prices are $10, adults; $8, seniors; and $5, students.

Members of the Jazz Band Ensemble, their instruments and schools are: Paulita Smith, baritone sax and John Norris, trumpet; Hazard: Jan Looney, keyboard, and Geri Johnson, trumpet; Mullins: C.C. Houston, sax, Allen Central; Arley Sparks, trombone, John M. Stumbo and Clark Elementary; Richard Ord, alto sax, McDowell Elementary; Debbie Evans, keyboard, Elkhorn City; Dan Houston, alto sax, Pikeville; Lee Burke, drums, Shelby Valley; Gene Schindler, sax, Prestonsburg Community College; Everett Windlen, trombone, Paintsville; Bob Saylor, trumpet, Knott County; Charles Newman, trumpet, Pike County Central.

Workers break to train

Court Designated Worker Charlotte Weddington, representing the 31st Judicial District, which includes Floyd County, attended the statewide court designated worker conference held at Lake Cumberland State Park, August 23-26.

The conference provided CDW's with the opportunity to enhance their professional training in juvenile justice. Seminars, workshops, small group discussions and active learning strategies were utilized during the two-day conference. Topics included: community-based agencies; conducting effective law enforcement presentations; peers helping peers; directing and promoting socialization skills; working effectively with diverse clients; juvenile violence; identifying and responding to sexual offending within the community; and dealing with at-risk situations.

In addition, the group was addressed by special guest speakers Leo Mudd, a retired state trooper with 20 years of law enforcement experience, and David Stone, who is respected in the social work field for his work with teens and college administrators regarding priorities and motivation.

The conference was sponsored by the Kentucky Court of Justice and conducted by AOC's Juvenile Services staff.

Family physicians support National Mammography Day

October 19 will be the first National Mammography Day in American history. The American Academy of Family Physicians encourages American women to receive, sign up for, or make a commitment to get a screening mammogram.

While women should consult their family physicians on the timing of the first mammogram, experts agree that regular screening mammograms are the most effective means of finding breast cancer early, and are crucial for all women over 50.

"Far too many women die needlessly," according to the American Academy's president, "because they did not find their breast cancer soon enough. We know that following mammography guidelines can change that, and hope that National Mammography Day will encourage millions of American women to give themselves the gift of a lifetime." Regularly scheduled mammograms should be supplemented by seeing a family physician for regular clinical breast examinations and by practicing monthly self-examination.

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO... A belated happy birthday wish to Roger Harless of Sheldon Clark High School...

THE REAL STORY... The South Floyd football program was hit hard when an anonymous letter arrived at the office of Commissioner Billy Wise...

The letter referred to three football players -- Arnold Adams, Patrick Tackett and Cruse Caudill -- stating that they were not eligible to play football this season because of their ages.

The letter was forwarded to South Floyd principal Terry Stewart and head football coach Donnie Daniels, along with a letter from the KHSAA stating a complaint had been filed.

Coach Daniels and Mr. Stewart journeyed to Lexington to meet with Mr. Wise and to explain their side of the issue.

"We just have a conflict of documentation on their birthdates," said Coach Daniels. "There are records that show they are eligible to play and records that show they are not."

The decision was to come this week and the South Floyd football program could be put on probation for the rest of the year.

"That means that we would just have to watch ourselves," said Coach Daniels. Daniels also stated that he doesn't expect the team to be prohibited from taking part in this year's playoffs should this team qualify.

Mr. Stewart said that he took action as soon as he had been notified by the KHSAA.

"We received a letter from the KHSAA and as soon as we were notified I took it upon myself to suspend the two players," said Stewart. "I have given them a chance to prove to us and to the commissioner that they are eligible to play. So far, they haven't provided any proof."

As of Tuesday, no official word has come down from the KHSAA but both Stewart and Daniels expect no ruling in their favor.

"A penalty of some kind is sure to come," said Daniels. "We took action on the complaint as soon as we were notified. We called the two young men and told them this is what you did. As far as I know they haven't tried to get any proof otherwise."

Coach Daniels said that as soon as they receive official word from KHSAA they will talk with the people at Phelps concerning the only win the Raiders have.

"We just want to do what is right here at South Floyd," said Mr. Stewart. "We don't want a negative image of our school. We just got caught in a Catch-22 situation with the changes in the schools."

Stewart said that the letter was from someone who signed it a "concerned fan."

"I have had the opportunity to work with Coach Daniels since he was first at Allen Central. I know the character of this coach and his dedication to the kids in the Wheelwright and now McDowell area. He is a coach with dignity and would not purposely break a KHSAA rule."

"I have gotten to know Mr. Stewart in the short time that the new school has been in session. I feel the same about this man and feel that the school is in excellent hands."

Lottery tickets, savings bonds; some of car show prizes

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The 6th Annual First Guaranty National Bank Red, White and Blue Car Show promises to be one of the area's best as the cars start motoring in on October 16 to the bank's Martin parking lot.

The events are expected to get underway with registration starting at 8:30 a.m. and lasting until 11 a.m. Cars are expected to be on display from all over the region, as well as from out of state.

Hundreds of car show enthusiasts usually take in the car show which will include a variety of events this year. While wandering the parking lot looking at all the old cars, those in attendance will be able to listen to music provided by Reels on Wheels, a popular DJ out of Louisville.

There will also be entertainment for the kids as the Purple Dinosaur makes his appearance at the car show. Show director Tina Mills has organized a Hula Hoop contest that will bring back a lot of memories. Maybe, just maybe, Terry Sizemore and Steve Newsome will be two of the participants.

There will be prizes galore during the show. The Best of Show will receive a $1,000 savings bond as over 40 classes will be judged that day.

Fifty dollar and $100 savings bonds will also be part of the huge prize selection. Kentucky Lottery tickets will be awarded to the first 150 cars in the show.

Something new this year will be a model car show for the young and old at heart. Chances will be sold on a set of rims and wheels that will go to some lucky ticket holder.

The show committee will provide security for the car show and many other door prizes will be given away.

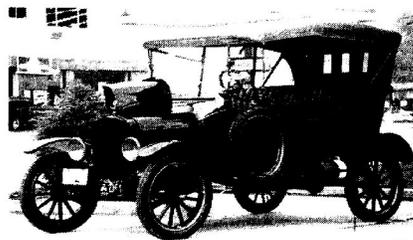

Something that every car owner needs is free front end alignments. Three will be given away on October 16.

There will be dash plaques for the first 100 cars, and first and second place trophies will be awarded.

Entry fee for the car show is a low $10 per car.

If you enjoy viewing the older cars, then you want to be at the First Guaranty National Bank parking lot on Saturday, October 16, to enjoy the day that is being planned.

Remember, registration begins at 8:30 a.m. that day. For more information contact Tina Mills at 285-9281.

A 21-yard pickup! Prestonsburg quarterback Thomas Ratliff picked up good yardage on this carry Friday against the Belfry Pirates. Ratliff scored a touchdown that gave the Blackcats a 6-3 lead as they held on to win 12-3. (photo by Ed Taylor)

In defensive battle,

Prestonsburg prevails 12-3

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Jody Comette knew that against the Belfry Pirates much would be riding on the senior tailback's shoulders when the Prestonsburg Blackcats battled arch rival Belfry at the Prestonsburg stadium this past Friday night.

The Blackcats came away with a 12-3 win and, although it was not a district game, the contest was needed, according to Coach Bill Letton, as a test of the character his team has.

"It was a big game for us because we learned a lot about ourselves," said the Prestonsburg coach, who won for the first time over Belfry in his five-year stint. "We needed to see if we had that character defensively."

"We've had some fourth down situations before, but we've been up a touchdown or two. Tonight it was on the line and we had to see if we had it in or not. It was a big game because of what we did learn about ourselves."

Prestonsburg's defense is still without a touchdown being scored against them in the first four games. Matt Vargo's 38-yard field goal in the first period was the first and, so far, only point the Prestonsburg defense has given up. The field goal attempt came close to going Prestonsburg's way but did take the Belfry bounce as it hit the crossbar and went over.

The score came with 8:58 left in the first period on Belfry's first possession.

The story for Prestonsburg was twofold -- the play of Comette and the defense of the Cats.

"Defense won the football game for us," said the Blackcats' mentor. "We didn't give up too many first downs, although I haven't seen the stat sheet yet. We stopped two big fourth down plays in the second half."

One of those plays came with less than 10 minutes remaining in the fourth quarter when Belfry had the football on the Prestonsburg 18 and was facing a fourth-and-four. Peyton Roberts, a 5-11, 181-pound running back, took the football and was stopped a yard short of the first down turning the football over to Prestonsburg on downs.

Again, late in the fourth period, the Pirates faced a fourth-and-three as quarterback Jason Slacey tried to pass for the necessary yardage but the pass was incomplete thanks to excellent downfield coverage by Prestonsburg's secondary.

Trailing 3-0 late in the first half, Greg Jones came up with a big interception of a Stacey pass and the Cats took over on the Pirates 35. On second-and-ten, quarterback Thomas Ratliff carried for a 21-yard pickup and a Blackcat first down on the Pirates' seven. A pickup of 5 yards by Comette set up Ratliff's 2-yard plunge for a touchdown and a 6-3 Prestons-burg lead. An illegal procedure flag against Prestonsburg on the PAT nullified the extra point.

Jockeying for good field position was a problem for Prestonsburg early in the first half but it was different in the second.

"That was a big thing for us in the first half," said Coach Letton. "The field position. They got a long play on us in the first quarter that we never really recovered from."

"Then the defense comes up with a blocked punt and now we have good field position."

The block punt was through the play of Larry Morris, who led the defense with nine solo hits, two assists and the block. Morris blocked the punt and Prestonsburg recovered the football on the Pirates' 25-yard

Floyd's four TDs lead Rebels past Berea 43-8

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Berea had to almost call in the fire department to put out the play of senior fullback Glenn Floyd. Floyd, in what could very well be a school record, scored four touchdowns in rushing for 224 yards to lead the Allen Central Rebels to a 43-8 win over host Berea last Friday night.

The victory snapped a two-game losing streak for coach Glenn Reeves' ballclub which evened their record at 2 on the year.

Other possible school records being set may be the 43 points that the Rebels put on the scoreboard, as well as the 224 yards that Floyd collected. "We are checking the books to see just what the record is," said Coach Reeves. "We're thinking that the 43 points could possibly be the highest scored."

Floyd put the Rebels on the scoreboard early in the first quarter as he crossed the goal line on a 21-yard run to give Allen Central a 6-0 lead after the conversion failed.

He scored again in the second on a 35-yard run, and Brad Blackburn added the two-point conversion to make it a 14-0 game.

"The thing about Glenn scoring four touchdowns and having a great game is it notifies everyone else that you need to watch Floyd," said Reeves. "But we're not just a one-track team. We can come at you other ways, also. If you try and stop the run we'll pass the ball."

"We have Shawn Howard, who ran for 113 yards. I'm talking about running it up the middle. Up the gut of the defense. There's two backs that are doing well."

"Basically what we try to do offensively is find a weakness in the opponent's defense."

Floyd, who was ill during the Pikeville game and saw limited playing time, responded well in his comeback and, according to his coach, has a good attitude.

"He finally got over his sickness that caused him to see limited playing time against Pikeville," said the Rebel coach. "We were hurting in the Pikeville game with some key players injured."

"Glenn is back, healed up and playing well. He has a good attitude and is a very coachable kid."

Halfback James Osborne was not without his game as he totaled 66 yards rushing on 13 carries.

Floyd scored his third TD of the game in the third period that gave Allen Central a 22-0 advantage until Berea finally got on the scoreboard.

Chastine scored for Berea on a 62-yard run and he also added the conversion for a 22-8 game.

Osborne ran into the end zone from 3 yards out to send the Rebels up 28-8. It was in the third period that Floyd scored his fourth touchdown of the evening on a 35-yard romp and Blackburn added his second two-point conversion as the Rebels were in control 36-8.

Betsy Layne Bobcats dejected; Derossett ejected in 35-6 setback

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Bobcats came ready to play but got something they did not expect when coach John Derossett was ejected from the game.

East Carter came to town with their much heralded running back Darren Fite but it was the play of Curtis Magley that led East Carter to a 35-6 win over the Bobcats Friday night at the Lloyd Hamilton Athletic Complex.

Derossett was given the heave ho by official James Looney after vigorously protesting a late fourth quarter call.

Betsy Layne quarterback Marty Keith Hamilton threw a forward pass that was grounded. However, an East Carter player picked the ball up and the official ruled it was East Carter's ball. That brought the protest from Coach Derossett who contended the pass was a pass play that should have been ruled an incompletion.

"Bad calls in the first caused us problems," said Coach Derossett. "I regret getting ejected from the game but the call was a ridiculous call."

East Carter coach Gary McPeck echoed the same sentiments as Coach Derossett in saying that "some of the calls were questionable calls."

I felt read bad for John getting thrown out of the game. I called the Kentucky High School Athletic Association on the part of John. Betsy Layne has a fine coach and he works hard."

Betsy Layne grabbed a 6-0 lead with 4:47 remaining in the first period when Rocky Hamilton scored on a 2-yard run after the Bobcats marched 71 yards on six plays on their first possession.

Hamilton came out on the first play from scrimmage and hit Jamie Robuette with a 56-yard pass that line. Prestonsburg failed to score on the field position.

"We didn't push the ball in on the possession," said Letton, "but the important thing was we moved the ball downfield and played good defense."
The Blackcats wasted little time in tacking on an insurance TD. With 9:22 left in the third period, Cornette broke a host of tacklers and raced 42 yards for the touchdown that gave Prestonsburg a 12-3 advantage. Opting to go for the two-point conversion, Cornette was stopped short of the goal line.

Belfry had a serious threat going at the start of the fourth quarter, moving the ball to the Prestonsburg 19 on a face masking call and a 5-yard pickup by Roberts. Stacey, on a keeper, managed to get to the Prestonsburg two, but an illegal procedure call against the Pirates brought the ball back to the Prestonsburg 24.

According to Belfry coach Phillip Haywood, the short penalties hurt.
"We were always putting ourselves in a second-and-ten situation. That was a key one called back on us at the time," said the Pirates' coach. The Blackcats put together a good initial drive in the first quarter as Radliff hit Clint Shotts with a 30-yard completion and got a short yardage pass completed to Jason Spurlock to put the ball on the Pirates' 36. But J.D. Baldwin spoiled the drive by intercepting a Belfry pass.

Prestonsburg, unlike the first half, managed to keep good field position the rest of the way during the second half and mainly because of the defense of the Cats' line.
"In the second half, we got a good play offensively and ran out on it," said Letton. "Our defense kept good field position for us the rest of the way. Belfry had a good drive going and we shut them down. We're proud of our defense."

"Prestonsburg has a very good defensive ballclub," said Coach Haywood. "We knew that coming in. I was disappointed about some mistakes we made offensively. I know we're a young football team but so many 5-yard penalties hurt us. We moved up 5 yards and then back five."
Coach Letton said that his team and coaching staff have taken a lot of pride in the fact that a touchdown hasn't been scored against them in four games.
"This team is well aware of what they have given up," he said. "They take a lot of pride in that and they should. We would like to keep it going. I don't know how long, realistically, we can do it but it's kind of fun to keep it going."

The Blackcats resembled a MASH unit as they played their first game without the services of Seth Hyden since he was hit in the Whitesburg game. Dwayne Garza saw very limited action and only carried the ball five times for 15 yards rushing, but Matt Porter was feeling well.
"I'm happy to see them win," said Hyden after the game. "I love it that they won. I watched from the sidelines and I would have loved to have been out there and playing with them."
Hyden said there is a good chance that he could return to the gridiron in two weeks as his injury is not as serious as first thought.

"In about one or two weeks, I should be back. I'm hoping and praying that is the case."

Cornette led the ground game for Prestonsburg with 21 carries for 105 yards. Radliff managed 21 yards and had a run of 21 yards.

The junior quarterback had three completions for 71 yards passing with Spurlock getting two receptions for 41 yards. Shotts had one reception good for 30 yards.

Radliff was intercepted once and Prestonsburg recovered their lone fumble.

Prestonsburg totaled 222 yards on offense and held Belfry to 154 yards total offense. The Pirates managed 113 yards on the ground and 41 in the air. Stacey was intercepted once.

Both teams were even in the penalty stat. Prestonsburg was flagged for seven penalties for 55 yards. Belfry received 55 yards in penalties on eight flags.

Scott Bruce carried 11 times for Belfry for 39 yards. Stacey rushed for 47 and he was sacked once for a 5-yard loss.

Prestonsburg (4-0) entertains Pike County Central this Friday night with kickoff scheduled for 7 p.m.

MARTIN COUNTY PAPER OUT OF LINE...

The local public fans and coaches alike, are upset that Joe Back, color commentator for Prestonsburg football over WQHY radio, will not return. Back was not in the booth during the Belfry-Prestonsburg game Friday night but was instead on the field.

I asked Joe why he was not in the booth with Jim Allen and he said that he "was fired."

"Fired?" I asked. "Why?"
He then pulled out a copy of the Martin County Sun and showed me a copy of the article in the sports section "Time For sports, by Vernon Robinson).

Robinson, in his article, attacked Jim Ed and Joe as well as the radio station. Jim and Joe were criticized for their comments over the officiating of the Prestonsburg-Whitesburg game, which needed to be criticized.

"I was more than a little disappointed with the account of the game being given by Joe Back and Jim Ed Brown. More with Joe than with Jim," stated Robinson in his column.

Number one, there is no Jim Ed Brown who works at the radio station. Jim Ed Brown used to be a country singer. Now there is a Jim Ed Allen and he is one of the area's best announcers.

The constant complaining about the officiating by Back and Brown (Allen really wasn't necessary. Then there were the comments about the AP poll voters not knowing the real reasons for the game being so close, the article went on.

"Vernon Robinson had been at the game, he would have seen a different tune, especially if the officiating crew had called the Whitesburg-Sheldon Clark game. Jim and Joe were at the game and like other announcers, told it like it was. The game was a horrible, so-called bad game and the crew should not be allowed to call a grade school contest.

Joe has done something for our station that no one else has ever done," said station manager Gorman Collins, Jr. "During the state tournament he interviewed people like Caswood Ledford, Kyle Macy, Rick Pitino and Joe Hall. That was something no other area station has done. In fact, Joe got Macy to talk with him over the radio."

Joe knows everyone and he has a knack for talking with people. Joe's job that he now has takes him out of the area to Tennessee or Virginia and it created problems for Joe in doing shows and getting things ready.

He was fired. It was just his luck, he just took him out of the area and we needed someone to help Jim Ed. We certainly did not fire him and we needed someone else. He was fired because of the article that was written because that would really create a problem with his job. So we fired Drex Stafford to help Jim.

Collins said that his radio station was going to have something over the air, but at the station and that a plaque would be hung in honor of 115 years of contributions to the state's sporting life.

Really, Joe Prestonsburg is a hard worker and a hard worker. He is a hard worker. Anything that he goes to, he does it well. I believe that he has taught Jim some things.

My personal opinion of the situation is that the airing of the Whitesburg-Prestonsburg game and the comments of the last two announcers were of no concern to Robinson. It did not involve a Sheldon Clark game and his article has created some hard feelings out of this area and his no sports.

Vernon Robinson in Eastern Kentucky is claiming being the source of Eastern Kentucky's 1995 is no exception.

Back was very instrumental in the station during many of the Sheldon Clark basketball games last season as well as the Roger Harless' Coach's Show. He did this on his own. Worked hard to get it on the air to give the kids at the Martin County school some air time. He believed in the talent that was at Sheldon Clark and he did it because he wanted them—the kids—to get recognition. What is wrong with that?

Often times when we do good it goes undetected. But you make a mistake and you will hear about it.
Jim Allen and Joe Back are to be appreciated for their promoting the kids in Floyd County.

Joe will be back in the booth on the 1995 this football season. I don't know if he was dismissed because of the article or if it was an mutual parting between him and the radio station. But we wish Joe the best.

NEW CONFERENCE IS GREAT.

It should have been done a long time ago. Why didn't someone come up with the idea years ago?
I'm talking about the newly formed Floyd County Grade School Football Conference that is into its third week.

The conference is made up of eight teams that include Magoffin and Johnson county teams. The play is great and the best thing is that all kids are getting to play.
I like the move locally of dividing up the Adams Middle School into two teams. That way more kids are getting into the game and not just standing around on the sidelines.
Dr. Don Chaffins deserves our applause for formation of the new conference and I'm sure that down the road it will prove very beneficial to our high school programs. Thanks Don!
Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

When the Betsy Layne Bobcats hosted East Carter last Friday night at the Lloyd Hamilton Athletic Complex, not only was it two high school teams meeting but two brothers.

Jody Cecil was on the Betsy Layne side of the field where he is an assistant to Coach John Derossett. On the East Carter side, standing along with head coach Gary McPeck, was Joey Cecil. In the middle, in the press box handling the public address, job was brother Jimmy Cecil and mom (Emily) was in the stands not knowing which way to go.

Joey Cecil just completed college at Morehead State and landed a position at East Carter High School in Grayson this year where he teaches chemistry. He also became an assistant to Coach McPeck where he is the offensive coach and speciality teams coach.

"It's great to be at East Carter," said Cecil. "He is doing such a great job here and I feel fortunate to be part of the program."

Cecil coached two years at Betsy Layne while pursuing his education. He held the same position with the Bobcats, working with the offensive line. Coming back to Betsy Layne was special to him.

"It's great to come back and with a decent team," he said. "I am privileged to be here and I have very good memories of Betsy Layne. I really mean this, I am privileged to be in the position that I am in and to come back here."

Cecil's father, Jim Cecil, was the one instrumental in getting football started at Betsy Layne. He started the program and coached in 1976. The program started on the junior varsity level only and then moved to varsity competition the following year.

"Jim started the program and he coached the first three years of their existence," related Emily Cecil. "After Jim left, the program almost was dropped until Don Daniels and then Wimpy Clark took it over."

Mrs. Cecil said that she was "proud" of her two sons and that Jim was, too.

"It's great to see them both here tonight," she said. "Jim is proud of both of them."

Jim Cecil at one time almost became the head coach at Allen Central after leaving the Betsy Layne program.

Along the walkway at the Lloyd Hamilton Athletic Complex is a sign recognizing those who have contributed to the football program over the years. The only name on the marquee is the "Jim Cecil Family."

Joey Cecil said that he has seen a tremendous amount of improvement in the Betsy Layne program and gives credit to Coach Derossett.

"John has done a great job here," he said. "He and his coaching staff have done a great job of turning this program around. He has a class team here at Betsy Layne."

Cecil said that he and his brother share information with one another but "not during this game."

"We stay in touch," he said. "I'll call home and see how they did the nights they play."

Rebels

The final score came in the fourth quarter for Allen Central when freshman tight end Thomas Jenkins hauled in a Brad Blackburn pass for 21 yards and a touchdown. Osborne kicked the PAT for the final 43-8 score.

Jenkins was on the receiving end of three passes, good for 40 yards. The freshman also stood out on defense with three interceptions and he had a total of 45 yards in interception returns.

He was just getting better and better," said Coach Reeves. "He came on for us defensively against Berea with the three interceptions. But the big thing was that he returned them for yardage instead of just falling down after catching the ball."

Coach Reeves said that he had been spending some time with Jenkins in practice to keep him from repeating the Pikeville game.

"He was embarrassed in the Pikeville game," said the Allen Central mentor. Thomas is a threat at free safety. He's got good size. He's tall and that's the way I like my free safety players."

Adam Coleman saw some time at the signal calling position and had one completion for 21 yards with Jenkins on the receiving end. Austin Shelton caught one pass for 10 yards.

Allen Central totaled 498 yards offensively with 448 coming on the ground. The Rebels had 50 yards passing.

It was a host of defenders that sparked the Rebels on defense. Charlie Wade had five first hits with five assists. Scott Bellemey finished with six first hits and eight assists.

Howard had five assists with one solo hit and Steve Akers came up with six assists with one first hit. Jy Shepherd had eight assists.

"Jy's doing a great job for us on the defensive line," said Coach Reeves. "He's hitting hard and making contact while going to the ball."

"We have Shawn (Howard) at the nose guard position and then we sometimes move him into a tackle spot. He's playing well."

Shawn Robinson is doing a great job at the defensive end position.

The only woman to receive the Medal of Honor, the highest military award given by the United States government was Mary Edwards Walker, a Union Army surgeon during the Civil War.

He's making some things happen there. Shawn is probably the spark to our defense. He's makes a big play he let's the other's know it."

Coach Reeves said that when his team gets excited about what they are doing then "we will play some good football."

"It was a good fundamental football game for us," he said. "We're coming along and starting to do the things we need to do."

"We were deeper than Berea and we just wore them down with our series of plays and wing "T." It was rough for them to defend us."

Coach Reeves stated that his backs ran the ball well and, hopefully, it will be a carry over to the Jenkins game.

The Rebels will travel to Jenkins Friday night to face the undefeated Cavaliers who are 4-0 on the year.

Big Apple Grapple to be part of annual Apple Day Festival

Smoky Mountain Wrestling will return to Paintsville on Friday, October 1, with the biggest wrestling card to come to the Paintsville area. The match also promises some surprises.

The event, billed as the Big Apple Grapple, will be part of the annual Apple Day Festival held in Paintsville each year. The match will be held at the Paintsville High School beginning at 8 p.m.

The main event will feature the Applebrawl '93, a 14-man over-the-top-rope Battle Royal with a very different twist. The last man in the ring will win $5,000, but the last man eliminated from the Royal will be tarred and feathered in the middle of the ring! In addition to all the other wrestlers on the card, Jim Cornette will be entered in the Applebrawl.

The SMW Heavyweight title will be on the line as Tracy Smothers challenges titleholder Prime Time Brian Lee with Tammy Fytch. As a special stipulation, the Dirty White Boy will be locked in a cage at ringside. Tracy feels this way he'll get a fair shot with White Boy not being able to interfere.

In a tag bout, Ricky and Robert, the Rock and Roll Express, face Jim Cornette's Heavenly Bodies, Tim Prichard and Jimmy Del Ray. The bouts between the Express and Cornette's teams are always classics, but this will be the first time the Rock and Roll have faced the newest combination of Bodies in Paintsville.

Ron and Don, the Bruise Brothers, will take on Scott and Steve Armstrong in another great matchup. The Bruises, at 6-8, 320-pounds each, have the size advantage, but the Armstrongs have the quickness and the support of the fans. This should be a hot one.

In a Country Whipping match, White Lightning Tim Horner faces Suicide Blonde Chris Candido. Both men will have a three-foot leather strap on their right wrist, and they can use those straps in any way they wish.

Horner vows to give "Crybaby" Candido the whipping he deserves. Also on the list, making their initial appearance will be the Paintsville Ringettes. These four lovely young ladies are sure to make an immediate impact around ringside and will leave a lasting impression on everyone there.

It all happens at the Paintsville High School on Friday, October 1 with belltime at 8 p.m.

UK can win next seven! Pitino(s) are SEC favs again

"Think they'll give up?" a reader wondered, referring to Kentucky's (familiar) if tormenting come-from-ahead loss to Florida Sept. 11.

Give up what? Kentucky's defense looks reasonably sound. Soon as the injury list shortens and somebody convinces Poogie Jones that all his options are not keepers, Kentucky is going to break through. Considering what future foes have done so far (UK foes were 5-7 in first two weeks), I think Bill Curry's team has an excellent chance to win its next seven.

SEC HOOPS 'FORECASTS' UK IS FAVORITE, BUT...

Time for a pre-season glance or two into the SEC basketball season. And we all know where the starting point is.

Favorite to win the league: Kentucky; top challengers: Arkansas and Vanderbilt; surprise team: LSU.

Player of the year candidates: Travis McCaffrey, Vandy (to repeat); Billy Ford, Kentucky.

SEC surprise player: Andre Riddick, Kentucky.

Remember these names: Danny Hall, Vanderbilt; Jason Caffey, Alabama; Jared Prickett and Tony Delk, Kentucky.

Coaches on the bubble: Wade Houston, Tennessee and Hugh Durham, Georgia.

Players SEC fans will miss most: Jamal Mashburn, Allan Houston and Gert Hamnink.

Impact rookies: Arkansas' 6-11 Darnell Robinson, Alabama's 6-9 Antonio McDyeas and LSU's Randy Livingston. All will be among the nation's best newcomers.

Top questions in preseason: 1. So, what about Walter McCarty?

2. Will LSU be a contender with Randy Livingston running the team?

3. Can newcomers blend into Nolan Richardson's 40-minute-of-hell? Hogs need a point guard.

4. Bulletin! LSU's pre-conference schedule includes: Texas, Okla. St. and UCLA.

Dates to pencil on your calendar:

• Feb. 6, 9, 12 and 15. 6th Versus UMass at Meadowlands (ABC); 9th: hosts Arkansas (Jeff-Pilo); 12th: at Syracuse (CBS); and 15th: at LSU (ESPN).

• Jan. 8 South Carolina at Nashville, Eddie Fogler's return to Vanderbilt.

• Jan. 12 Ole Miss finds out what it's like to play to an SEC against Kentucky at Freedom Hall in Louisville.

• Jan. 22 LSU vs. North Carolina, Lakefront Arena in New Orleans (CBS).

• 194 NCAA TOURNAMENT SITES

Making travel plans? The NCAA's SE Regionals next spring are Mar. 17-19 at Rupp Arena, and Mar. 18-20 in the Florida Suncoast Dome in St. Petersburg.

SE Regionals are Mar. 24-26 in Thompson-Boling Arena in Knoxville, Tenn.

Nice scenario: Western Kentucky to Rupp Arena.

Footnote: The SEC Tournament is Mar. 10-13 at the Pyramid in Memphis. Unofficially, the tournament is already a sellout.

PRESEASON NIT

Western Ky. plays NCAA champion North Carolina at the Dean Dome in Chapel Hill Nov. 17 or Nov. 18 in a game to be televised by ESPN.

Georgia is the only SEC team in the NIT field.

UK DOMINANCE

The Kentucky Wildcats basketball dominance in the SEC is legendary, but did you know UK is the only conference member with double-digit league and tournament titles?

Kentucky has won the SEC league crown 36 times, the last in 1986. Next is LSU and Tennessee with seven each. SEC Tournament titles: UK 17 times with Alabama next with six.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTABLES

Top this: Jason Thomas. In a 55-6 win over Wayne County, Russell County's Jason Thomas ran back a pass interception 102 yards. The 5-10, 177-pound senior also scored on a 46-yard punt return.

Top this II: Walter Brugh. When Paintsville played at Nicholas Co. Friday night, Walter Brugh was going for his 271st coaching victory in 38 years which would tie Bardston's Garris Martin (retired).

NOTE: If you have a high school "notable" let me hear from you.

CHEERS 'N JEERS

CHEERS. UK freshman Mo Williams. Say, did you used to be Sonny Collins?

JEERS. To Kentucky quarterback Poogie Jones. A delay of game penalty on a first and goal at the Florida four yard line! Hey Poogie, you hold your palm out to the guy in stripes and tap the fingers of your other hand into it. It's called TIME OUT!

CHEERS. Ralph Dawkins, Anthony Shelman, Aaron Bailey and Jeff Brohm. Speed, quicks, smarts. Whoa! UofL has something warm and fuzzy here. Maybe something cotton?

CHEERS. To Dallas offensive lineman Nate Newton who says, "I'm tired of talking about Emmitt."

JEERS. To Cowboys' running back Emmitt Smith who wants $4 million a year and won't settle for $2.5 million. Why? Buffalo's Thurman Thomas. Hey Emmitt, there's a job out here for you, $4-an-hour.

CHEERS. Monica Seles. Smart kid. She's getting more (sniff, sniff) media cover than she ever got grunting on a tennis court.

JEERS. To The Sporting News for allotting up front forum to Dave Kindred so he could warble about a 69 day, 21 century, 37,000 mile trip on which he hit golf balls into three oceans.

CHEERS. To Tennessee basketball coach Wade Houston talking about Temple U. football coach Ron Dickerson: "Ron and I are Christians. We've been to church together before. We understand the struggles out there for coaches, particularly minority coaches."

CHEERS. To Jimmy Carter, every day of every week.

CHEERS. The novel Bridges of Madison County. Read it.

CHEERS 'N JEERS SPECIAL

JEERS. To University of Louisville basketball star Clifford Rozier for his second scrape with authorities in two years.

CHEERS. Louisville news media director of being included in, for instance, TSN's College Basketball Report last week that listed players across the country who've gotten in trouble with the law this summer. Shhh.

WORTH REPEATING

Florida State coach Bobby Bowden, "...there is so much pressure involved at Notre Dame I don't think I could handle it. I admire Lou Holtz for being able to handle that. Man, you gotta keep the Pope happy. He don't even live here."

PARTING SHOT

Ex-UNLV star (and future NBA jerk supreme with Minnesota) J.R. Rider was booked by police in Alameda, Calif. last month for failing to make a court appearance on a traffic violation. When the police asked Rider whom he would like notified he replied, "Ghostsbusters."

And so it goes.

One thing just about any man-made reservoir has is rippap. This too is a man-made structure. Rippap is the large 7 to 10 inch in diameter rocks along bridges. The Corps will also put rippap along areas that may have landsliding. Rippap is a key structure in the spring and fall.

In the spring, the rocks will collect heat and hold it when the water is still cold. This is one area that heats up quicker so fish are attracted to it. To me, fall is a much better pattern to fish, because the rocks have collected a coating of mass that grows on them. If you would rub your hand on the ones that are submerged you'll feel the slickness of them. This is the moss. It is what shad draw to during the fall. What fall brings is cooler water and there is more oxygen in this area of water now. So then the bass are attracted to the abundance of shad. The angler who knows these things will be quicker at finding catchable fish and can usually run the rippap all over the lake in a day's time and have a very successful catch. Now we know when, where, and why to fish rippap, so let's talk about how to catch them.

There are several baits on the market that will catch fish on rippap, but keep in mind the fish are looking for shad. I try to imitate the shad. Certain days it may take other baits but my choices are usually crankbaits, spinnerbaits, and buzzbaits. One other bait that the pros will use is a floating worm. This is used to catch really big bass. I'll use Bass-Pro Shop's floating worm with 14 lb. test camouflage line on either bait casting or spinning outfits. I switch it really slow and hang on. I know that this pattern will catch fish just about anywhere, providing of course there's fish there.

This fall be sure to try this pattern and please always help keep our waters clean. Keep a positive attitude, keep casting, and keep FISHING!!

Belfry defeats Prestonsburg freshmen 22-14

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Belfry Pirates' freshman team made an early trip to Prestonsburg on the eve of Friday's "big game" between the varsity squads and handed the host team a 22-14 setback, despite the running of Jon Morris in the second half.

Morris, who spent the first half just trying to find some holes in the Pirates' defensive line, scored two touchdowns in the second half while rushing for 84 yards.

However, the fleet-footed running back could find no running room up the middle or outside in the first half and ended up with a minus 20 yards. In the third period Morris broke loose for a 35-yard pickup and then ran for 14 yards for a touchdown with 31 seconds left in the third period.

He continued to get to the outside of the Pirates' line and had runs of 32 and 10. He scored on an 8-yard run with 1:20 left in the game. Quarterback Mike Castle hit Gavin Hale with a pass for the two-point conversion that made it a 22-14 game.

Belfry struck early in the first quarter as Dwight Stepp scored with 7:16 left in the first quarter on a 13-yard run. Stepp also ran the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead.

Joey Scott wasted little time when he was inserted into the game in the second quarter. Scott rambled 46 yards for the score with 3:56 left in the second. Quarterback Barry Crum added the two extra points and Belfry led 16-0.

Against the Belfry defense in the first half, Prestonsburg was getting nothing on the ground and were running three plays and then punting. Belfry led 22-0 at the half on Scott's second TD, a 8-yard run with 41 seconds left in the second.

Prestonsburg's defense picked up in the second half, and they stopped the running game of Belfry. Also, Crum found the defense rather rough when he was sacked three times. Prestonsburg totaled 89 yards on the ground on 24 carries. Castle was three of six in passing for 47 yards. Hale was on the receiving end of two completions for 32 yards and Wesley McQuire had one reception for 16 yards.

Belfry stayed mostly on the ground grinding out 208 yards. The Pirates were hit with seven flags for 65 yards in penalties that included a 15-yard unsportsmanlike call on the Belfry coach.

End result

The best end result of any pass in football is a completion. Jason Spurlock went to the ground after grabbing this pass from Prestonsburg quarterback Thomas Ratliff. The completion was good for 35 yards. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Headed for pay dirt!

Prestonsburg's Jody Cornetta (10) scored on this run that gave the Blackcats a 6-3 lead against Belfry in the first period Friday night. The Blackcats came home with a 12-3 win over the Pirates. (photo by Ed Taylor) put the ball on the East Carter 16-yard line.

Bobcats

On a keeper, Hamilton rushed for a first down on a fourth-and-one play. Hamilton then took the ball into the end zone to give Betsy Layne the lead.

Betsy Layne concentrated on the fleet-footed Darren Fite, one of the state's top rushers, and forgot about Curtis Magley.

"We thought they would key their defense on Darren," said Coach McPeck. "We took advantage of that and went to Curtis."

East Carter tied the game at 6-6 when Magley raced in from 14 yards out with 6:43 left in the second period. The big fullback was hard for the Bobcats defense to contain as he had carries of 12 and 16 yards on the first two plays from scrimmage in the series. Marshall picked up a 16-yard gain moving the ball to the 14 of Betsy Layne where Magley carried the ball in.

It was a 12-6 game at the half when Magley scored his second touchdown of the game. He drove through the Betsy Layne middle, broke tackle to the left and raced into the end zone from 21 yards out with 1:57 left in the half.

Fite picked up 20 yards in the drive that covered 61 yards on five plays. Marshall had hit John Wages with a 14-yard completion that set up Magley's TD.

Magley got his third touchdown in the third period and added his fourth on a run in the fourth. Travis Rice had an interception in the fourth period that he returned for a touchdown just before Magley scored his fourth one.

Magley led 172 yards rushing while Fite finished with 102. East Carter had a total of 308 yards on the ground and Marshall threw for 46 yards giving East Carter 354 total yardage.

"We came ready to play," said Derossett. "The kids gave everything they could give and everything we asked of them. We jumped out to a 6-0 lead and there were some bright spots."

One of those was the defensive play of Craig Hamilton (130 pounds) who came up with 10 solo hits and three assists.

"It was something to watch," said Derossett, "when Craig would tackle that big number 44 (Magley)."

"Another bright spot was the way Marty (Hamilton) threw the football. He threw the ball well. He did not rush."

Hamilton threw for 135 yards coupled with the 110 yards gained on the ground to give the Bobcats 245 yards total yardage.

"East Carter is a playoff bound school," said Derossett. They dress 50 players to our 20. They are a physical team and that can be attributed to the athletic complex they have on campus. They have 1500 square foot dressing room where they can lift weights. We can only lift weights when the sun comes out. Facilities like that gets kids to come out.

"We will continue to build our program here at Betsy Layne as well as our facilities."

"It was a good game," said Coach McPeck. "Both sides played hard. They came out and popped a pass on us to start the game."

Derossett will have to sit out his team's game this Friday against Madison Southern because of the ejection.

"I went to the Kentucky High School Athletic Association and took game films with me," said Derossett. "They agreed that the officials missed some calls."

"I'll be in the stands Friday night rooting my kids on," said Derossett. "My assistants will take charge of the team with Jody in charge." Other assistants are James Derossett and Solomon Kilbren.

The Bobcats face Madison Southern at 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

South Floyd grade edges Adams White; Allen wins

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Floyd County Elementary Football Conference got underway last week and this past weekend with South Floyd and Allen coming away with victories while Allen Central was idle.

Compton passes Raiders past Adams

Quarterback Nick Compton tossed for 97 yards and passed for two touchdowns to help lead the South Floyd Raiders (grade) to a 25-20 win over the Adams White team Saturday afternoon at Wheelwright.

Compton also rushed for 53 yards and scored a TD on a 44-yard run. Darren Newcome picked up 53 yards rushing on four carries. Newcome's longest run was 31 yards.

South Floyd turned an Adams' mistake into their first score. On a punt attempt by Adams, the snap from center sailed over the head of punter Jake Poston and, in a scramble for the loose ball, South Floyd came up with the football on the Adams' 10-yard line. Compton then hit Brent Hamilton with a pass for the first score and a 6-0 lead.

Adams tied the game at 6-6 just before halftime on an 8-yard run by John Ortega. The PAT failed.

South Floyd had good field position just before the end of the first half as they moved the ball to the Adams' 34-yard line before the horn sounded. Compton completed two consecutive passes to Coby Little for 4 yards and then hit Anderson with a 23-yard strike.

Compton continued to pick on the Adams' secondary with a 76-yard pass completion to Little before he connected up with Justin Holbrook on a 9-yard touchdown pass and a 12-6 lead.

Anderson intercepted a Nathan Fanna pass and then plays later Hamilton ran the ball into the end zone from 53 yards out. The point after was good for a 19-6 score.

Adams wasn't ready to quit and came back on a drive that took only three plays. Ortega rushed 12 yards for the TD and brought his bulk back to within seven, 19-12.

On a third-and-one play from the 44, Compton broke two tackles on a sweep around left end and went the distance for the score with 2:57 left in the game.

Adams scored their final TD on a pass play from Fanna to Jake Poston that covered 38 yards. Poston added the extra two points for the final count of 25-20.

Ortega rushed for 53 yards and Hamilton picked up 25 on the ground for Adams.

South Floyd was hit with four penalties for 40 yards and Adams was flagged for just 10 yards.

"B" Team play...

South Floyd won the preliminary "B" team game, 25-12. Jody Tackett scored two touchdowns and Landon Frazier had a 60-yard touchdown run. James Walker took a Charlie Williams pass and went in from 12 yards out for the first score and a 6-0 South Floyd lead. Later Jody Tackett scored on an 8-yard run to give the host team a 12-0 lead.

It was 18-0 on Frazier's 60-yard run with 8:45 left in the third period. Wendell Collins put the Blackcats on the scoreboard with a 65-yard touchdown run to make it a 18-6 game.

Tackett's second touchdown of the game, from 80 yards, and Rodney Stone's conversion run gave South Floyd a 25-6 lead.

Collins scored Adams' final TD

on a 46-yard run with 49 seconds left in the game.

Magoffin shuts out Adams Red

It was the Brian Tucker show against the Adams Red team last Saturday at the Prustonsburg stadium.

Tucker did it all for the Magoffin County Hornets as he scored all four touchdowns in his team's 26-0 shut-out of Adams.

Tucker struck in the first period on a 10-yard run, and he then added the extra two-points by kicking the football through the uprights. (In grade school football the PAT counts for two-points; a conversion run is one).

Magoffin County led 14-0 at the half on Tucker's second touchdown run — a 51-yard romp. Both teams failed to score in the third period.

Tucker, who seemed to be all over the field, scored on a 7-yard run in the fourth period and then recovered a Adams fumble and galloped 44 yards for the final score as Magoffin County posted the 26-0 win.

Magoffin "B" team forfeits because they were not ready for prime-time action, the Magoffin County "B" team forfeited their game to the Adams team. However, Sulby Valley's junior team made an appearance with Adams getting a 14-0 win. The victory does not count in the standings.

Ricky Knox scored on a 70-yard TD run to give the Adams' team a 6-0 lead and then quarterback John Dixon hit Tony Dixon (no relation) with a 28-yard pass for the second TD. Knox added the two-point conversion.

Ask Dr. Bubba

Editor's Note: Dr. Bubba is not a licensed practicing therapist, but has received Ph.D. in analytical psychology and gourmet cooking from the prestigious Culinary Childs Institute of Culinary Psychology. Dr. Bubba combines these two vocations in his new self-help book, "The Cordons Bleus: When Love Stuffs Ya In A Blender An' Makes A Mince-meat Pie Outta You," available next January from BubbaPress.

Dear Dr. Bubba: I'm experiencing an incredible amount of pain and emotional distress. You see, I've always been a very shy, very gentle person and have always believed that soothing words and a friendly hand could solve almost any dispute. Unfortunately, however, my pacifistic view was horribly shattered last week when SOME SH@#%$ SCUM-SUCKING SH@#%$ SHOT MY DOG AND UNLEASHED HIS UNHOLY WRATH UPON THE ENTIRE NEIGHBORHOOD, CAUSING GROWN MEN TO LOSE CONTROL OF THEIR BLADDERS AND SENDING WOMEN AND SMALL CHILDREN SHRIEKING INTO THE NIGHT!!!! My question is, when I catch the cowardly criminal who inflicted this vicious assault upon my poor puppy, should I utilize ancient oriental torture techniques and slaughter him slowly over a ten-day period, or should I opt for the quick and painless convenience of high explosives?

Dear Yellow Dog: I sure understand the sufferin' ya must be goin' through. One of my six dogs was recently injured when they was "ill caught in a tragic front porch canine accident." Fortunately though, I'm highly skilled in emergency medical techniques an' was able to save his life with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. As far as gettin' revenge on the guy that shot yer dog, though, I advise ya against takin' the law into yer own hands. For one reason or another that I'm unable to understand, Kentucky law does not recognize dogs as bein' better and more important than people, so the courts refuse to accept justifiable homicide as an excuse in dog-revenge slayin's. Still, if yer bound an' determined to get even with the guy, a malicious wounding charge usually don't carry no stiffer penalties than illegal drug offenses, so if ya decided to remove certain tender portions of his anatomy with a chainsaw, ya'd probably only get a slap on the wrist.

Dear Dr. Bubba: I recently began dating a married woman. I know that our illicit affair is both morally and ethically wrong, but I just can't help myself. She holds this mysterious power over me, and I've begun to experience the strangest physical side-effects: I'm often overcome by hot flashes; my appetite has completely disappeared; and my entire body has broken out in a burning, itching rash. Do you think these are the signs that I'm truly in love, or is it a physical manifestation of my subconscious feelings of guilt and self-disgust? Burning Desire, Blaine

Dear Burnin': Uh-h, I ain't really sure WHAT it is, but I got a sneakin' suspicion that a little penicillin oughta take care of it right quick.

Well, that's about all the space we got for this week, kids. Remember to keep them cards an' letters pourin' in to Ask Dr. Bubba, c/o The Big Sandy News, P.O. Box 766, Louisiana, Ky. 41230. And, as always, don't play in traffic.

Breast cancer: A personal tragedy, a family tragedy, a community tragedy, and a national tragedy

By V. Gay Herrin
PCC instructor

According to the American Cancer Society, this year (1993) 182,000 women in the United States will be diagnosed with breast cancer. I am one of them.

Furthermore, the National Breast Cancer Coalition estimates that two and one-half million U.S. women have breast cancer, yet one million of those are undiagnosed. Until March 5, 1993, I was one of them.

This year, 1993, one woman in this country will die every two minutes from breast cancer, according to the American Cancer Society. I pray I am not one of them, but I could be.

Early in my diagnosis, I was encouraged to write about my experiences with breast cancer (to keep a journal), but I couldn't for a long time because it was too emotionally agonizing. Living the experience was almost more than I could handle; I certainly didn't want to voluntarily re-live any part of it by writing or talking about it.

Finally one day as I began to recover and resume my normal activities, I was able to write a paragraph or two about the day I found the lump. That was the beginning of this article.

On January 17th, 1993, I found a lump in my left breast. It was my daughter Kristina's 23rd birthday and my son Jon's 22nd birthday. To celebrate the occasion, our family had enjoyed a rare weekend together in Lexington. On Sunday morning we had brunch together at the Marriott. Throughout the meal, I drank an exceptionally large amount of coffee, simply because we had an attentive waitress who kept my cup filled to the brim. The caffeine aggravated my fibrocystic breast condition and caused me to experience some discomfort throughout the day.

Early in the evening my husband Eric and I headed home to Prestonsburg. We were both tired when we finally arrived. I went straight to the bedroom to undress and put on comfortable night clothes.

As I began to undress, I unconsciously began to press and palpate my aching breast tissue. Terror struck my heart as I felt a rather defined circular lump at the one o'clock position in my left breast. I proceeded to examine the rest of the breast; then I examined the other breast. The lump was unmistakably different; hard, defined, nonmmoveable. I called to my husband, who was in the other room, and asked him to come check the lump. He confirmed that it was there and that it was different. He echoed my thoughts as he suggested that I call my gynecologist the next day.

After seven weeks of medical misadventures, I finally found myself sitting in a chair in a small, sparse, sterile room awaiting the results of a needle biopsy. I was a little jittery, but I kept telling myself it was probably once again a fibrocystic growth. After all, I had had a complete gynecological exam including a mammogram in July 1992, and I had had a follow-up mammogram on January 19, 1993, two days after I found the lump. All reports had been negative for cancer. Surely everything was okay.

Finally, the surgeon opened the door. Keeping his eyes on the floor, he slowly sat down in the chair facing me. He fumbled through some papers. Then as if he had gathered courage, he said, "Well, the cells were positive for cancer."

I went into stoic shock. I asked questions. I heard medical explanations of breast cancer treatments and outcomes. I expressed my desire to live at whatever cost, but I did not feel—I was absolutely numb.

The attending nurse scheduled a follow-up appointment on the following Tuesday, giving pathology time to study the cancerous cells further. Then she ushered me into a small, cluttered closet-like room to watch a video, which started out by announcing that I was watching this video because I was now a breast cancer patient. About the only other thing I remember about the video is a young woman who was crying as she said, "I don't want to die. I don't want to leave my family." Her words expressed my sentiments exactly.

I left this room like a programmed zombie. The same nurse who had set up the video told me she had scheduled me for further tests at the breast diagnostic center after lunch. She advised me to get something to eat in the meantime.

I walked to the clinic's snack bar and ordered a drink. I watched life going on around me. People were chatting and laughing—carefree, students were studying. But I didn't feel a part of the scene—I didn't feel alive. I couldn't eat. I couldn't drink. I couldn't even swallow my own saliva.

After a long, lonely hour of simple existence, I checked in at the breast diagnostic center. I filled out the necessary papers and turned them in to the receptionist. She asked if I had someone with me and I said no. Other people came in—always in two's. I felt so alone and so scared. Tears began to flow uncontrollably down my face, and I tried to turn my back to the others in the small waiting room.

The receptionist called me into another area. She offered me Kleenex and said, "I'm a hugger. May I hug you?" I nodded consent. As she hugged me, she whispered, "I'm a breast cancer patient. I know what you're going through."

As she continued to tell me her story, I regained some of my composure. She asked if there was someone she could call to be with me and I said no. Then she insisted I call my husband long-distance, and I did. I also called my aunt.

She interrupted my conversation with Aunt Martha to call me into the x-ray room. Many pictures were taken of my breast—magnified views that clearly outlined the cancer.

The female radiologist and a resident met with me in a viewing room and detailed for me what they could tell about the status of my cancer. I was still visibly shaken and began to verbalize my anger at the medical profession for failing me. The radiologist said, "You don't have the time to be angry, and you don't have the energy to be angry. You must use everything within you to fight this disease. Go home and gather all the love and hugs you can get. You are going to need them, and you deserve them." So far, that's been good advice.

These doctors also asked if someone was waiting to take me home, for I was finished for the day. I told them I was alone, and they vehemently expressed their concern about my ability to drive, especially to Prestonsburg. But I was insistent. I told them I really needed time to be alone and to ponder what was happening to me. I drove home against medical advice.

On Saturday, I cleared my desk at Prestonsburg Community College of personal items and grieved that I might never teach school again.

On Sunday, Eric left the decision to me as to whether we would go to church and if I would share the information that I had been diagnosed with cancer. My spirit urged me to go to church and to share my dilemma with my Christian friends because I needed them so.

Ironically, the Sunday School lesson that day was about when bad things happen to good people. The lesson ended when, weeping so that I could hardly talk, told my Christian friends that on Friday I had been diagnosed with breast cancer. As I was talking, I saw tears and sorrow that were so genuine and spontaneous. I told my Sunday School class that one of my doctors had prescribed herbs. The prescription was filled. And prayer was added.

After Sunday School, Eric and I went on to the church service. I cried during most of the service. During the altar call I went forward and asked my pastor to pray with me, asking for courage and strength to deal with this great tragedy in my life. Word of my condition circulated quickly among the congregation and I received more hugs, love, encouragement, and assurances of constant prayer for me.

When one member heard of my plight, she felt compelled to call me on the phone because she, too, is a breast cancer patient. After hearing what details I knew about my cancer and sharing with me the details of hers, she asked if I had ever seen a naturopath. I said no. I had only seen simplistic drawings in textbooks. She dressed (for it was already late in the evening) and drove to my house to show me her scar. From that moment, I lost my fear of disfigurement because it was just a scar. I told her as she left that God had been sending me angels and she was one of them.

On Monday, somehow I could not stay away from school. So I taught all my classes that day, told each class about my cancer, asked the students for prayers, and assured them that my division chair, Professor Stone, would provide continuity for their course. So many students told me they would be praying for me. Co-workers sought me out to assure me of their support and prayers. The entire college community became one of my strongest and most consistent support systems.

On Wednesday, I returned to the surgeon's office and was scheduled for surgery on Wednesday.

On Wednesday evening, I had the cancerous section of my breast (lumpectomy) and twenty-two auxiliary nodes removed.

On Tuesday, I came home, most of me that is, and I began the recovery process, anticipating with dread, radiation, chemotherapy, and hormonal treatment.

The next Tuesday, I returned to the surgeon and received the protocol for treatment. On my next visit to the surgeon, most of what treatment I was willing to risk. My treatment would be a lumpectomy (which had already been performed), radiation, and hormonal treatments.

About three weeks following the surgery, I temporarily moved near the medical center in order to begin the radiation treatments. The radiation medicine department was in the base-

God's secret angels

On the way home, somewhere along the Mountain Parkway, I lost my sense of being alone. I felt the presence of God and his angels anchoring me as I tried to cope with this catastrophe in my life.

I suddenly realized that God had been preparing me for this tragedy for several months. You see, in December we combined our TV rooms and my library/music room. This arrangement left my easy chair next to bookshelves that had not been touched except for an occasional dusting for thirteen years. They contained my mother's books.

One night as I sat watching TV, I absently mindedly began to touch the books with my left hand. When my hand rested on one book, for some reason, my eyes glanced to read the title. It was Billy Graham's book Angels: God's Secret Agents. That was the beginning of my study into angels and my conviction that God uses angels (real people and spirits) to help us get through the hard times in life. As I began to rethink my day, I realized the receptionist may have been my first encounter with an angel. I had faith there would be others.

As I drove, I mentally cataloged the details of my day, and the one thing that kept coming to my mind was the doctor's advice that I must use "everything within me" to fight this disease.

I asked myself what exactly did I have within me to fight this disease. Even though my body was being attacked by cancer, I knew I bottle of Old Spice... but, as usual, she had just begun to browse. I told her I thought I'd get a cup of coffee and wait for her at one of the tables in the snack area.

I did, and purely by accident, found myself sitting very close to one of the cash registers. I'm glad I did, because I thoroughly enjoyed it.

The first incident that bears repeating involved two elderly gentlemen...both well-dressed and looking to be in their late seventies or early eighties. One was paying for his purchase and the other walked up behind him, shoved a can of flying insect spray up to the first man and said, "Here! You can pay for mine, too."

The first man turned around, and upon immediately recognizing the other, smiled broadly and said, "Well, how in the world are you? I ain't seen you in ever. How's it going?"

"Doing just fine," the second man answered. "Been up in Michigan for about two years. Got a boy and girl both living up close to Ypsilanti. How you doin'?"

After exchanging a few more pleasantries, quite suddenly, the first man said, "I've lost my wife."

The second gentleman seemed momentarily startled, then managed an "Oh? I'm sorry. Had she been sick?" "Oh, no," the first man said. "They ain't a thing wrong with her. I just lost her. She was standing back there by them rugs a minute ago. I don't know where she went now."

Another conversation I witnessed as I sat there sipping coffee, was among three women. I wouldn't even attempt to describe them, but they apparently were shopping together and had paused in the check-out line to pick up their copy of the latest tabloid.

As their inquiring minds looked over the front page, one said, "I don't blame Burt Reynolds one bit for leaving that woman."

"How come?" another asked.

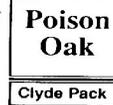

"Why, she won't even go to church with him. A woman that won't go to church with her husband ought to be ashamed of herself!"

"Won't go to church with him?" the woman asked. "I hadn't heard about that."

"Yeah, I saw him on TV the other day and he said that she hadn't been to church with him in over two years."

After they left, I sat and pondered that one for a while. I, too, had recently seen a TV interview with Burt Reynolds. Then it hit me about the church business. What he'd said was that he hadn't been with his wife in a biblical sense in two years.

I can't wait to run out of Old Spice again.

Kim's Korner

September not only brings cool nights, but the Miss America Pageant year after year.

Since the beginning of these pageants, many changes have occurred. Scholarships, evening gowns and yes, even talent. In the beginning the swimwear competition was the "ouls" category involved.

By Kim Frasure

Now, the 90's have come and so has the controversy of the bathing suit competition.

Before last Saturday's pageant 900 numbers were available for folks age 18 and over to call and voice their opinions.

Yes—the swimwear should continue apart of the pageant ceremonies, or no they should not.

Well, I have to tell you, I started cracking up. It was mentioned that swimwear is offensive to watch. So, I screamed at my TV turn it off!

Some girls who have participated in the event wished swimwear category is understandable.

But hey, for the last seventy some odd years it has been, and if you want that scholarship money, and that chance to wear the crown—well, then it's a part of it—or always has been anyway.

Some issues folks can find controversy in are absolutely ridiculous.

Another issue that fits the ridiculous category is the changing of the Rebel mascot.

The fact the dolls, amount that would be involved to do so is so large is beside the point.

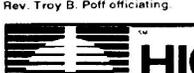

Uniforms that sport the Rebel emblem for football, basketball, band, cheerleading, track, majorettes, etc., the middle of the gym floor. The list goes on.

I doubt that one fan or one student representing that school while wearing a Rebel shirt has anything less than "pride" and the hope for the thrill of a victory, to mind while doing so.

Controversy sure adds spice and keeps our tongues wagging!

So, to the Allen Central Rebel fans, students, alumni and educators, stand tall, keep the faith and more power to you!

Till next week.

ment (I called it the bowels) of the medical center. On my first visit I began to smother as I rode the elevator down. The symbolism of this act and its significance to my condition were more than I could handle.

Once I exited the elevator, I was confronted with a dark waiting room that actually was a simple hallway which was framed by a large autumn mural. Again, the symbolic suggestion was not lost on me and I sank into deeper despair. The old, shabby, cold, leather chairs were arranged so the patients never looked at or talked to each other. We (the condemned) sat and waited our turn—we acted like we were going to the gas chamber, responding slowly and silently when our name was called. There was no talk—no laughter—no sound, except when a name was called. To me, it was a dead place filled with dying people. I was living a nightmare.

Once in the radiation area, I was "radiated" by radiation therapists who talked around me above me, but rarely to me as they positioned me for treatment. Several times I made a slight effort to enter their conversation, but I received little response—just a stare that I perceived to be saying, "Bring people don't talk."

On the first days, when the room was vacated by everyone except me, and the treatment had begun, I automatically began to recite silently the Lord's Prayer. The machine kicked off at 11:00 and I had made it through the first treatment. I repeated this ritual each day for six weeks. At the end of each treatment, I got dressed, went home, and slept off the effects of the radiation until the next day.

It seems that during the time of my radiation treatments I had one trial after another. On the first day I broke out with shingles. Just as that was getting better, and I was thanking God that at least I could walk to treatments, unlike some of the other patients, I began to have trouble with my feet.

One night, several weeks into radiation treatments, I tried to go to the bathroom but I couldn't walk. I could not stand the pressure of my weight on my sore feet. I called my husband at 3 a.m., and he drove 120 miles to be with me the next day as I sought medical attention. I had a Plantar Wart on the bottom of my right foot, and apparently I had stressed the bones by compensating so as not to put pressure on the invisible wart when I walked.

From the beginning, I had stomach pains and cried constantly. I would ask to see the radiation oncologist, she felt my symptoms were stress related and prescribed some over-the-counter medication, which seemed to help temporarily. I never questioned the diagnosis of stress because I was truly depressed and stressed. Actually, I was beginning to feel like maybe I was being tested—you know, like Job.

Finally, one of the radiation residents said to me after a routine morning session of complaints, "You are receiving the best medical care available, so you've just got to turn this over to the Lord." I smiled at her and cried some more. I had been trying so hard to turn it over to the Lord, but my trials just kept multiplying and I just kept crying.

A typical day following radiation treatment was filled with anticipation of promised phone calls in the evening. It was almost the only time I got to talk with anyone during the weekdays. I was too sick to seek people—I was dependent on those who cared enough to seek me. I could always depend on my husband Eric, my aunt Martha, and my friend Marc calling. I knew just when to expect their calls and I lived for them. They never let me down. Angels, I'd say. Occasionally others would call, among them was my cousin Brenda. Brenda sensed my despair and prayed with me every time she called. She admonished my fears as devil-sent and nurtured my spirit with scripture and prayers. She sent me handwritten outlines of Bible lessons she had taught in Illinois; she sent me inspirational tapes and books. She helped me grow spiritually as I fought for my life. She led me to seek healing. She became my spiritual soul-mate: an angel—I'd say.

As I result of my discussions with Brenda and much prayer, I called my pastor and requested (following the edicts in James 5) to be anointed and to be prayed over for healing. He did not discourage me, but said he needed to study and discuss it further before making a commitment to perform the ritual. I was satisfied because I had faith that it would be done.

I finished my last radiation treatment on Monday, May 10th. On May 14th I was in emergency surgery having three feet of my small intestine removed because it was dead—bleaked with blood clots which were believed to have been caused by the hormonal treatment (tamoxifen) I was taking. I was told most people do not survive this condition, but I did. A miracle orchestrated by God—I'd say.

While I was still in the hospital, my pastor told me he was arranging a healing session for me. He explained my part in readying myself for the ritual I prepared. The deacons came.

I cannot tell you the spiritual high I received as I saw this group of men, led by my pastor who was carrying a small brass vial of oil, get out of the church van and approach my house.

I knew I have been diagnosed with a terrible life-threatening disease, and I know I am mortal, but after this ritual I felt so whole (emotionally, spiritually, and physically). You see, I knew I had been attended by God's secret agents—angels.

I still cry sometimes, but I have returned to work and have a renewed appreciation for life—moment by moment. I know God let me stay on earth a little longer for a purpose, and I pray for guidance that I can recognize and fulfill whatever that purpose is. Maybe it's just to tell my story, to share my faith, and to make others aware that real women with families, friends, and faces make up these dre dre statistics.

South Floyd Overture

Let me introduce you to South Floyd High School. From the top floor to the bottom floor, this school is defining the word class. I mean, really where else are you going to find a clock on the wall every ten feet along a hallway so long it's hard to recognize your mom from one end to the other. Oh yeah, and by the way, I'm Sheldon Lee Compton, a Senior at South Floyd.

Now, I'm not going to use this opportunity to describe to you the structure of our school but what I am going to do is give you a look at what the students think about this new found world.

I suppose I could start with myself and tell you how I feel about being a Reader. First of all, I would like to say I have only one regret about starting school here this year: it was a bit late. I find myself walking the hallways and listening to some assorted freshmen talking among themselves about how much they can't wait to "get out of here" and I hold back my tongue. If they only knew how lucky they were. I know I have only one year and that's it. I'm probably not ever going to adjust fully, but, why gripe and whine? If I were to try and see the good in my situation I could always think of the fact that I'm going to be with the first graduating class of South Floyd High School.

One of the most-asked questions that I know of would have to be: How are McDowell and Wheelwright getting along? People want to know how the students are working with each other. From my point of view, I saw progress from the first day on. If I didn't see progress then I tried to make progress... somebody has to make the first step. I'm from Wheelwright but I have to tell you, I feel that every day that life becomes weaker and weaker. It has begun to mean less among students. Now the only people asking about McDowell and Wheelwright are mostly the parents. There is hardly any talk at all about it in the classroom.

Most of my classmates, including my brother Bryan, a freshman, are taking advantage of some of the new learning devices. Bryan just the other day, came home and informed us that his technology class was going to be building a rocket to launch from the school. I then told him about our airbrush experiments in art class. He smiled and told me slyly about the awesome car he was building on his computer. I decided to beat out—he hid me beat.

Because there are so many new things that South Floyd offers this year, almost every student is involved in something new. There is so much going on inside that no one even cares that there is no gym (mind you, I'm not speaking for the P.E. classes). Not all students have the same views on a school most of the time, but with South Floyd things are different. I think it will be quite awhile before the newness wears off this gift.

Spinal injuries can occur at any time

Most people think they can injure their backs only when doing something extremely strenuous—like moving furniture. But spinal injury is possible even with activities such as splitting wood or playing golf. Spinal injury can happen to anyone; however, most victims are between the ages of 15 and 35.

"Even something as moderate as sweeping the sidewalk or raking leaves can result in a form of spinal injury if done to the extreme or without proper body mechanics," said Paul K. Gardner, M.D., staff neurosurgeon at the Kenion D. Leatherman Spine Center in Louisville.

Practice the following tips to avoid muscle or disc injury while doing yard work and other repetitive outdoor activities:

- Warm up and stretch before activities that require a lot of bending or lifting.
- Keep your body in good physical shape by including walking or swimming in your exercise program.
- Learn and use correct body mechanics when bending or lifting.
- Avoid prolonged activity that requires repeated motions.
- Switch frequently between tasks that require different movements.

Spine injuries caused by this type of activity are normally treated with muscle relaxants and physical therapy. Most heat and massaging the affected area may also help to ease the pain. Depending on the degree of injury, bed rest is sometimes prescribed as well.

"Once the injured muscle or disc has recovered, it is important to use common sense and correct body mechanics when lifting or bending, and to exercise daily to avoid flare-ups or repeated injury to the spine," said Gardner.

"Although strained muscles or herniated discs are not as dramatic as injuries resulting in paralysis," he said, "many times the sporadic pain can be incapacitating."

First birthday

Kayla Danielle, daughter of Stuart and Sharon Halbert of Ivel, celebrated her first birthday September 15th. She is the granddaughter of Dallas and Rosa Lee Click of Martin and Hubert and Elizabeth Halbert of Maytown.

Prepared childbirth classes offered

The Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association is beginning another series of Prepared Childbirth Classes starting September 28. The class series runs for seven weeks and meets from 7-9 p.m. at Highlands Regional Medical Center in the Floyd Room downstairs. The classes prepare the mother-to-be and her support person specifically for labor and delivery and include information on: vaginal and cesarean birth; relaxation/breathing techniques; hospital procedures and medications; anesthesia; nutrition, exercises and comfort measures for late pregnancy; breastfeeding; and newborn characteristics and procedures.

Mothers having their second or third child, should take these classes. Taking classes can really make a difference in helping have a positive birth experience. It's also a great way to meet other folks who will be bringing their baby into the world at the same time as you! Being prepared for your baby's birth is the best way to begin to be good parents.

To register or for more information call: 886-8544, 789-5025, or 349-5209.

Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association is an independent, non-profit organization, with no particular affiliation with any hospital or physician.

Vespa Laboratories, Inc. of Spring Mills, Pennsylvania, is distributing a free brochure on allergic reactions to insect stings. Call 1-800-235STING for a copy.

A new bee sting treatment saves lives

The majority of the two million Americans who are allergic to insect stings believe that the only treatment available to them is a bee-sting kit (a package containing a syringe pre-filled with epinephrine). They are unaware of a new treatment available to them, an allergist's venom immunotherapy (VIT), which is extremely effective in preventing future allergic reactions.

"Because both treatments involve stings, people mistakenly think that a bee-sting kit, which is only useful after you've been stung and are allergic to the stinger, is the same as immunotherapy, which immunizes an individual against future allergic reactions. By desensitizing you to the insect's venom, VIT virtually insures against a recurrence," says Miles Garabick, president of Vespa Labs, Inc., a producer of the purified venoms used in immunotherapy.

Not having the protection that VIT provides can be dangerous for the insect-sting allergic person who depends on a bee-sting kit. According to Dr. Martin Valentin, professor of medicine at Johns Hopkins Asthma and Allergy Center, "Many insect-sting allergic patients who rely on bee-sting kits fail to have them in the right place at the right time. These kits are also not always adequate in instances of severe reaction." Dr. Valentin also recommends that anyone who has suffered a severe allergic reaction to an insect sting should see an allergist for evaluation. "It is clearly the treatment of choice."

Improvements in economy expected to favor consumers

Economic conditions continue to improve and that means a favorable outlook for consumers concerned about food expenditures over the next several months.

"Nine consecutive quarters of output growth have occurred without causing consumer prices to increase dramatically," said Forrest Stegelin, extension markets specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "Both short- and long-term interest rates remain low."

That means, he said, that as consumer incomes continue to rise, conditions become more favorable for the red meat and poultry industries. That situation contrasts sharply with weaker overseas economies which have limited export sales to the U.S., especially in higher priced red meat.

What's likely to happen in the near to intermediate future? Stegelin said, "For the rest of 1993 and into 1994, modest improvement in the economy is expected to continue. Real output growth of around 2.5 percent is forecast for 1993 and slightly higher in 1994."

Unemployment is expected to be slightly below 7 percent compared with 7.4 percent in 1992. Inflation rates are expected to remain steady and manufacturing surpluses will temper consumer price increases.

"That looks good for the food consumer over the next several months," Stegelin said.

Does that spell bad news for the farmers marketing red meats, poultry and vegetables?

"During the last 20 years, farm value of the retail food dollar decreased from roughly one-third to about one-fifth, while marketing costs increased from two-thirds to four-fifths of the marketing bill," Stegelin said.

In other words, farm value is a minor portion of the total consumer food expense. The bottom line on food expenditures, Stegelin said, looks favorable for consumers for the near and intermediate term.

Organizations needing help can help parents needing community work

Community organizations across Kentucky have an opportunity to get help with their projects while in turn helping families needing public assistance.

Under federal welfare reform, one parent in jobless two-parent families getting benefits through the Unemployed Parent (UP) program must be in unpaid work activity unless under 25 and needing high school credentials.

"We're appealing to public and private nonprofit organizations that can use some help—and at the same time help our clients have purposeful work experience," said Social Insurance Commissioner Mike Robinson, whose department oversees public assistance and related job preparation programs.

"Helping families stay together and make it economically on their own has been our aim since national welfare reform efforts began in 1990; that's when we began monthly benefits for jobless two-parent families," he said.

The Family Support Act requires that by Oct. 1, a parent in at least 40 percent of those families be spending 16 hours a week unpaid work activity, he said, "in the belief that such work usually leads to improved self-esteem and motivation and new skills for earning a living."

Work activity is defined as "projects which serve a useful purpose." UP participants can't fill existing vacancies nor receive wages or benefits from the nonprofit employer. Placements usually last six months to a year.

Around 7,700 Kentucky families are getting UP benefits, and 1,200 UP parents have already been placed in work activity. But the states expected the deadline for placing 40 percent of their caseload to be extended past October, Robinson said, "because the practical realities of finding enough positions and placing parents in them form a tough challenge."

"In some rural areas there are a very limited number of nonprofit agencies," he said. "Then, many participants have no transportation, and

DAVEY CROCKETT TAKES A WIFE

Davey Crockett had a strong compulsion to find a mate when he was in his late teens.

When he finally built up enough courage to speak to anyone in a dress, however, his heart would "begin to flutter like a duck in a puddle, get up in his throat, and choke him like a cold potato."

After losing two loves and overcoming the resultant blues, Davey found himself hunting one day near the home of Dutch widow who had a daughter, who young Crockett said was "as ugly as a stone fence." (Of course beauty is in the eye of the beholder as they say, and some folks find stone fences very attractive.)

Davey decided to stop for a visit. "She was so homely that it almost gave me a pain in the eyes to look at her," Crockett penned later, undoubtedly in jest. "But she asked that I return for the fall reaping and meet the prettiest girl I had ever seen. That enticed me such that I said I would attend the harvest."

Soon after arriving at the harvest celebration Davey met Jean Finley, the mother of the girl he had come to meet.

"Her momma was in no way bashful," Crockett would later write. "She praised my red cheeks and said she had a sweetheart for me. In the evening I was introduced to her daughter, Mary and I was pleased with her from the word go."

Davey danced, chatted and sat with the young girl and found himself becoming infatuated with her. When he returned to the Quaker's home, fifteen miles away, where he lived and worked, Davey entered into a contract to work for a horse. He would ride it when calling on the young lady.

After several weeks he decided to call on Mary Finley again. Although he found her with a young man, he soon determined that she was more interested in him. Her mother however preferred her daughter's other suitor.

Davey's proposal of matrimony was accepted but since he was wary of another suitor winning her favors and hand as had happened before, he proceeded to make the necessary arrangements without undue delay. He traveled twelve miles with his friend Thomas Doggett, to the Danridge Courthouse on August 12, 1806, to get the proper license.

"All the necessary arrangements were made at my father's house to receive my wife," Davey wrote. "I took my eldest brother and his wife, another brother, and a single sister, and cut out to her father's house to get her."

Crockett found that his prospective mother-in-law was still unfriendly when he arrived for the wedding. Davey started to take his bride to get married elsewhere but William Finley, Mary's father, persuaded them to stay.

"He sent for his wife and they talked for some time by themselves," Davey wrote. "Afterwards she came to me and looked at me mighty good, and asked my pardon for what she had said. She invited me to stay. I sent off then for my parson and we got married in a short time. I was afraid to wait long, for fear of another defeat."

After Davey and Mary were married he found there was more in life to be concerned about. "I thought I needed nothing more in the whole world," Davey recalled. "But I soon found this was all a mistake—for how having a wife, I wanted everything else. Worse than that, I had nothing to give for it."

Davey's mother-in-law gave them two cows and calves and he rented a small farm and cabin, and went to work.

"We worked for some years, renting ground, and paying high rent," he wrote. "I found that it wasn't the thing I was cracked up to be; and that I couldn't make a fortune at it. In this time we had two sons and I found that I was better at increasing my family than my fortune."

"It was necessary that I hunt a better place for us to live. I knew I would have to move to some time so I thought it was better to move before my family got too large, that I might have less to carry."

Davey Crockett loaded his family and their possessions on an old horse and two two-year-old colts, and on the back of his father-in-law's horse, and moved to the Elk River country of Lincoln County in south central Tennessee.

Here he began to build his reputation as a hunter and Indian fighter.

Corporations late in filing annual reports to be dissolved by state

By Becky L. Meadows
KPA News Bureau Director
Officers of Kentucky corporations should check to see if they have mailed their annual reports as required by the state, according to Secretary of State Bob Babbage.

Corporations who are late filing their annual reports were mailed frequent notices September 3, Babbage said. The notice allows corporations 60 days from the date it is mailed to file the reports. If corporations do not respond, they can and will be administratively dissolved by the state November 1, Babbage said. Corporations that are dissolved but continue to operate as a corporation violate state law.

Corporations that are dissolved may apply for reinstatement, but are required to pay a penalty fee plus past due annual report filing fees.

Scholarship
Recently, the Prestonsburg Rotary Club recognized the academic achievements of Anthony Siler of the Carl Perkins Job Corps Center with a scholarship grant to attend Pikeville College. Pictured with Anthony (center) is Mike Vance (l), president-elect of the Rotary Club and Roy Penix (r) deputy director of Education and Training of the Job Corps Center. Each year the Prestonsburg Rotary Club recognizes the fine work of area students through scholarships given to each of the Floyd County high schools. Support of Rotary projects, Jeremy Wiley Theatre Concession Stand, Pancake Day, and Onion Sale, help make this possible.

Stressed-out workers can take steps to regain balance

"The 'work ethic' has been woven into American culture like the flag, apple pie and baseball. If you ever stop and think about it, you'll find the papers there are times when all workers would like to pass books to avoid pressure."

For some people, work-related stress leads to more than playing hooky. According to the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, work-related stress or burnout is a leading cause of work-related illness and injury.

"Our lives will never be stress-free so we have to bring stress down to a manageable level," said Howard Maxwell III, M.D., clinical professor of Family and Preventive Medicine, Health and Mental Retardation in the Department of the University of Kentucky.

Maxwell said that if you are a certain age and you are in a certain position, you are in a certain position. He said that if you are in a certain position, you are in a certain position.

Maxwell said that if you are a certain age and you are in a certain position, you are in a certain position. He said that if you are in a certain position, you are in a certain position.

"We work to money, that is not a bad thing," he said. "I have a major source of self-worth."

"Employers can create a better environment by having regular lines of communication with employees, give workers a role in decision-making and an outlet to express their feelings and to resolve conflict," Maxwell said.

"A good supervisor knows each person's stress tolerance. It's important for a supervisor to stay in tune with each worker's stress level, because other areas of stress in a person's life may affect their work," he said.

Reducing workplace stress is not all up to employers. Workers can handle stress better by getting adequate nutrition, exercise, sleep and relaxation, managing their time at work and developing a plan to deal with stressors, he said. "It's also important to have a support system of family and friends."

Avoid using drugs or alcohol to cope with problems, he said. "If you feel anxious, depressed or physically ill, consult a physician."

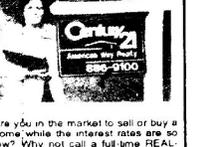

If a problem occurs with a co-worker, talk to that person and try to resolve it. If the conflict is with a supervisor and you can't work it out, you may need to go to the next management level to settle it, that is permissible, Maxwell said. "If you feel like quitting, ask yourself, 'Which is worse for me and my family, this job or no job?'"

Sometimes work-related stress is not being fully satisfied with your position. Some people feel frustration when not able to do in their careers of learning new skills, others see that as security.

It's important to balance your long-term goals with the short-term term setting your own goals and then setting realistic goals. It's important to acknowledge your own strengths and weaknesses, not hide your own abilities to help others help you in your career.

Work stress comes in many forms and it's important to identify the stressors and make a plan to deal with them. Then look ahead by updating your resume, checking personal finances and developing a savings plan, he said.

If stress becomes unmanageable, Maxwell said, people go to their family doctor, clergy, employee assistance program or mental health center for an evaluation and referral. For more information on work stress, contact your local mental health center.
