Road to close for repairs

Times Staff Report

PRESTONSBURG — The road from Jenny Wiley State Resort Park to Stonecrest is closed today between Route 302 on the park side and Maggie Mountain Road.

The closure is due to repair on two large dips in the road, according to the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet. The road will be closed from 8 a.m. this morning until 3 p.m.

The hope is that the repairs will make the road much smoother, said District 12 Engineer Matt Moore.

"We are sorry for any inconvenience this may cause," Moore said, "and thank motorists ahead of time for their understanding."

After waters subside, focus turns to cleanup

MAYTOWN — More than 40 volunteers worked tirelessly throughout Thursday morning and afternoon in Maytown, where the floodwaters have subsided and left tons of debris and destruction in their path.

The town was covered in up to eight feet of muddy water at the peak of flooding this past weekend when six inches of rain was dumped across the county. As of Thursday morning, much of the garbage and debris left had been gathered and ready to for shipping to the transfer station at Garth.

That's where volunteers stepped in and loaded furniture, appliances and even car parts. Among those were more than 40 volunteers from the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center.

This was the scene across much of the county Thursday, as areas from Melvin to Auxier were worked over to rid the roadways of mudslides and cleanup efforts gained ground.

In addition, the roughly 2,500 left without power following the storm had, according to county officials, seen it restored as of Thursday morning.

Another issue for many residents reeling from the heavy downpour was the lack of water service. Officials said that issue should be fully dealt with by Thursday evening.

"We only have 35 people left without water as of right now," said Floyd County Judge-Executive R.D. "Doc" Marshall. "Those people are located along Little Mud and we should have their water back on by the end of the day today."

At one point, approximately 4,600 people throughout the county were without water, according to Marshall.

Marshall joined volunteers at the Martin Community Center Thursday to receive a semi-truck full of supplies from a group in North Carolina contacted by local business owner Marlow Tackett.

The truck arrived at the center just after 10 a.m. and unloading began immediately as volunteers separated the various items — clothing, furniture, canned food — into sections along the community center gym floor.

"These are the same people who help Marlow with his Christmas event," Marshall said. "They'll have all sorts of things they're bringing."

Those helping from the Job Corps split into two groups Thursday, with one camp traveling to Maytown to help with cleanup efforts there and the other staying on at the center to unload supplies.

Also, Marshall said in addition

Prestonsburg receives $50K grant for tourism

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — The city of Prestonsburg now has $50,000 to use for tourism purposes after receiving a Community Initiatives in Tourism for You (CITY) grant during the Tour Southern and Eastern Kentucky annual awards ceremony at the Center for Rural Development in Somerset on Tuesday.

The grant awarded to Prestonsburg was the largest of the ceremony, and Brent Graden, director of economic development for the city, says that big changes are in store thanks to the funds.

"We plan on giving downtown Prestonsburg a whole new look," Graden said. "It's going to be a whole new adventure. We're not just thinking about doing it, we're doing it now."

Fred James, director of tourism for Prestonsburg, said that more details on the grant and what the funds may be used for will be released in the near future.

Also at the ceremony, the city of London received $20,000 to help complete a genealogy center, and the city of Barbourville received $15,000 for the completion of a memorial war park.

The competitive grants are federally funded and also available to the 42 counties in and around the Fifth Congressional District represented by U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers.

Tour Southern and Eastern Kentucky is a non-profit organization created in 1987 to promote, expand, develop and market the existing and potential tourism industry.

Times to combine Sunday, Friday issues

Times Staff Report

PRESTONSBURG — The Floyd County Times will be combining its Sunday edition with the Friday edition, to create a more robust weekend edition that will be distributed on Friday.

The change will take effect May 22, making the May 17 issue The Times' last Sunday paper.

More than 200 U.S. newspapers have reduced publication schedules in recent months, including the Big Sandy News and the Appalachian News-Express.

Floyd County Times publisher Joshua Byers said the change is being made to avoid passing substantial increases on to advertisers and subscribers.

"This decision was not made easily," Byers said. "We have worked hard to reduce our costs and maintain revenues in a very difficult economic environment. Community newspapers, in general, have not been as heavily affected by the downturn as the metro dailies. But we have not been immune either, and this decision will allow us to refocus our efforts and resources to remain Floyd County's best local news source."

Managing Editor Ralph Davis said he believes readers will ultimately be better satisfied with the Wednesday and Friday issues.

"We are looking at making some dramatic improvements to our Friday paper that will strengthen its appeal," Davis said. "In the end, while there will be fewer issues published, we believe that we will be able to produce a better newspaper overall."

Byers said followers of the Times will also

Senators, reps seek assistance

by SHELDON COMPTON

While Floyd Countians are attempting to regroup after the flooding this past weekend, congressional representatives are working on their end to see that help is provided.

In a letter to President Barack Obama that was drafted on Thursday and signed by Kentucky's eight congressional representatives, including U.S. Rep Hal Rogers, who visited Eastern Kentucky earlier

Mark Jude takes it easy on his couch during some of the worst of recent flooding in Martin. Jude had been attempting to save items from his home, but found the couch too heavy from being waterlogged, so he chose to sit down and relax instead. "I thought I would send you this picture to show that even through devastation, you can still find humor," wrote Jude's wife, Ruth Ann Jude.

Viola Adkins

Viola Adkins passed away peacefully, Saturday, May 2, 2009, at Park Place Care Facility in Georgetown, Texas, surrounded by her family and friends.

She was born in Thelma, on April 27, 1935. She was the middle child of Earl and Josephine Dawson's 12 children.

She was preceded in death by Jerry L. Adkins, her loving husband of many years; an infant son David; five brothers and three sisters.

She is survived by her loving sons, Gary, his wife Jan, and their children: LCPL Matthew R. Adkins, USMC, and Michael David Adkins of Pflugerville, Texas, and son James "Greg" of Copperas Cove, and his son, Sgt. Jesse L. Adkins, US Army; and brothers: Jim Dawson of Ohio, and little brother, John Dawson of Thelma; and a sister, Sue Moore of Prestonsburg.

In addition to being a loving mother and sister, she was also a true and dedicated Army wife, following her husband through many states and overseas, during his Army career and retirement.

She was always passionate about raising her children to be honorable and caring, and she kept the family in line during her husband's many deployments to Vietnam.

After her sons graduated and moved out of the fold, she poured herself into working in her garden, with children in the community, and elderly friends who couldn't care for themselves—always the mother and care giver.

She was director of a day care, worked with the REACH program, assisted elderly residents at the area nursing facilities and at their homes, and helped at the elementary schools near her home. Viola's last passion was working as a crossing guard at Mae Stevens Elementary School, where she made sure her children made it to school and home safely every day.

She will be greatly missed and her presence can never be replaced, but we are happy that she is now at peace with her husband and family.

Viola's family wishes to express their deep appreciation, gratitude and love to the wonderful ladies and gentlemen at Lighthouse Hospice and Park Place Care Center, who took our mother under their care; she was treated as if she was their own mother as well.

A brief memorial service will be held at 10:00 a.m., on Saturday, May 16, at the Eastside Baptist Church, 1202 M.L. King Jr., Dr., Copperas Cove, Texas.

In lieu of flowers, the family wishes that donations be made to the Viola Adkins Memorial

Fund that has been created at the National Banks of Central Texas in Copperas Cove, Texas, to plant trees in her honor at Mae Stevens Elementary playground, in order to provide comfort and shade to all her children and teachers, since she can no longer be there to do so in person. (Paid obituary)

Daniel Dale Newsome

Daniel Dale Newsome, 61, of McDowell, died Monday, May 11, 2009, at his residence. Born December 27, 1947, in McDowell, he was the son of Nannie Jones Branham of McDowell, and the late Edward Josh Newsome. He was a disabled factory worker (Ashabula Rubber Co.).

In addition to his mother, survivors include three sons: Daniel Newsome Jr., and Curtis Newsome, both of St. Cloud Florida, and Timothy Newsome of Orlando, Florida; two brothers: Bert Newsome of McDowell, and Eddie Newsome of Hunter; four sisters: Brenda Hamilton and Rebal Sparkman, both of McDowell, Fredia Kron of Drift, and Misty Dawn Hurley of Phelps; four grandchildren: Andrea, Steaphany, Jacob, and Sebastian; and his stepfather, John Branham.

Funeral services will be held Friday, May 15, at 10 a.m., at the Little Rosa Old Regular Baptist Church, in McDowell, with Old Regular Baptist ministers officiating.

Burial will be in the Lucy Hall Cemetery, in McDowell. Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home, in Martin, is in charge of arrangements.

Visitation, at the church. (Paid obituary)

Tennis Samuel Salisbury

Tennis Samuel Salisbury, age 85, of Left Fork of Toler, Harold, husband of Bonnie Sue Tackett Salisbury, passed away Tuesday, May 12, 2009, in the Pikeville Medical Center.

He was born April 11, 1924, in Barnabus, West Virginia, the son of the late Sid Salisbury and Margaret Hall Salisbury. He was a member of the Lower Toler Church of Christ, in Harold, and a retired mechanic.

In addition to his wife, survivors include one son, Dennis Wilford Salisbury of Harold; one daughter, Patricia Kendrick of Pikeville; two brothers, James Salisbury of La Mesa, California; and Oliver Salisbury of Florida; 11 grandchildren, and 20 great-grandchildren.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by two sons: Kenny Samuel Salisbury and Tennis Eugene Salisbury; one daughter, Sonya Sue Meade; two brothers: Sid Salisbury and Marvin Salisbury; and three sisters: Marie Salisbury, Lurline Roberts, and Layfurn Ratliff.

Funeral services for Tennis Samuel Salisbury will be conducted Friday, May 15, at 1:00 p.m., at the Lower Toler Church of Christ, in Harold, with Joe and Willie Meade officiating.

Burial will follow in the family cemetery, Left Fork of Toler, in Harold, under the professional care of the Hall Funeral Home, in Martin. (Paid obituary) this week with Gov. Steve Beshear to assess the damages, members are asking that President Obama realize the need for assistance at the federal level.

Letter

"Unfortunately, the enormous devastation wrought by this recent storm has overwhelmed community and state resources," the letter reads. "Nineteen counties and six cities have declared states of emergency, and entire towns and communities in Eastern Kentucky have been inundated with high water."

The letter went on to explain that many communities would remain uninhabitable for months to come, and focuses on the need for a federal declaration to ensure that support will be at hand for the process of "rebuilding and stabilizing depleting emergency material."

Statewide, nearly 125 National Guardsmen and countless emergency response personnel have been mobilized in the week since the flooding occurred. As of Thursday, it was estimated that tens of thousands of Kentuckians were still with electricity and clean water, as well as seeing total losses of their homes and businesses.

"On Tuesday, I had the opportunity to tour counties in my district hit hardest by this severe storm," Rogers said Thursday. "The damage was overwhelming and my prayers and support go out to those families who are reeling from this storm and face enormous challenges in getting back on their feet."

Rogers also said Thursday that efforts to secure federal help was something he and others were working to get sooner rather than later.

"I am urging the President to provide federal aid as quickly as possible," Rogers said.

"The affected communities need temporary housing, clean water and assistance to start rebuilding their homes."

In Floyd County, officials remain hopeful that a decision to issue a federal disaster declaration will come soon as they ready for visits from representatives with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) next week.

"I find that if you work closely with FEMA the very beginning, your project will go faster and your monies will come more quickly," said Floyd County Judge-Executive R.D. "Doc" Marshall.

Marshall will escort FEMA representatives Monday as they conduct preliminary damage assessments throughout the county.

The information from these assessments will be included in Beshear's request to show the level of the disaster. Based on this request, the President may declare that a major disaster or emergency exists which would then activate many federal programs to assist in the response and recovery effort. (Continued from p1) notice that its website, www.floydcountytimes.com, is becoming increasingly more integrated with the print products.

"Where we're often limited with space in our print product, our Internet site has vast potential to deliver more information about our local community," he said. Byers cited court documents and additional photographs as content that will be increased on the website. (Continued from p1)

"Additionally, we now offer a complete E-edition online," Byers said, adding the Sunday product wasn't reaching home delivery subscribers until Monday.

The newspaper, now in its 82nd year, began publishing its Sunday edition on July 4, 1999.

to those helping with cleanup from the city utilities in Prestonsburg there were also a total of 16 independent contractors working throughout the county as of Thursday.

But the main priority since Saturday morning, when the flooding was at its worst, has been to ensure that those trapped by the high waters are now able to be accessed and helped, Marshall said. As that goal nears completion, the county will focus attention elsewhere.

"We still have people who cannot get out along Spurlock, but we'll have access to them by today or tomorrow," Marshall said Thursday. "My main priority now will be to see that FEMA does the assessments fair and for everyone."

Officials plan to tour with FEMA representatives for early assessments by Monday.

Tetanus vaccine available for injured flood victims

Due to flooding in areas of Eastern Kentucky and subsequent cleanup work that has exposed people to potential health hazards, the Kentucky Department for Public Health (DPH) wants flood victims to be aware they may need a tetanus vaccine.

Four combination vaccines are used to prevent diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis: DTap, Tdap, DT, and Td. Two of these (DTaP and DT) are given to children younger than 7 years of age, and two (Tdap and Td) are given to older children and adults. The adult booster is available through local health departments and most private health care providers.

"While everyone in flooded areas does not need a tetanus booster, those with exposed wounds who have contact with flood waters should seek medical attention for an evaluation," said William Hacker, M.D., DPH commissioner. "If you fall into this category and it has been more than five years since your last tetanus booster, call your local health department or health care provider. If you don't know your vaccine history, it is extremely important you find out when your last tetanus booster was received before getting another one."

DPH stresses that just being exposed to flood waters does not mean you should get a tetanus vaccination. However, those who have exposed wounds (nail punctures, cuts, etc.) and have been in flood waters should be evaluated by their health care provider if it has been more than five years since their last tetanus vaccination.

Tetanus is a disease of the nervous system caused by bacteria that enter the body through a break in the skin. Early symptoms include lock-jaw, stiffness in the neck and abdomen and difficulty swallowing, followed by severe muscle spasms, seizure, and severe autonomic nervous system disorders. The disease can be deadly, particularly among elderly people.

"After a flood, numerous health and hygiene issues abound," said Hacker. "Always remember simple public health practices, such as the importance of washing your hands with soap and clean, running water, especially before work breaks, meal breaks, and at the end of the work shift. Assume that waters in flooded and surrounded areas are not safe unless local or state authorities have declared them to be."

Cycling is one the best ways to improve your health, protect the environment and reduce consumption of foreign oil. But even if you don't ride a bike, you can help do your part by watching for cyclists on the road and driving with care. In Kentucky, bicycles have the same rights to use roads and highways as cars and trucks. But keep in mind that cyclists are at greater risk of injury or death in the event of a wreck. That is why it is important to use caution and courtesy when you encounter a bicycle. Pass them only when it is clear, give them a few extra feet when passing, and never do anything to startle a cyclist, such as blowing your horn, passing too close or yelling at them.

Save a life. Share the road.

Highlands offers assistance to elderly during Mental Health Awareness Month

Each year, about 2 million Americans age 65 and older experience some form of depression. Even though many of us may feel blue or sad now and then, depression can interfere with our daily lives. Some symptoms of depression may include more than two weeks worth of:

- Feeling nervous or emotionally "empty";
- Feelings of excessive guilt or worthlessness;
- Sleep problems—sleeping too much or not enough;
- Restless or irritability;
- Frequent crying;
- Loss of interest in once pleasurable activities;
- Difficulty focusing, remembering or making decisions; or
- Feelings of hopelessness.

Depression is common among older adults, but is not a normal part of aging. Research demonstrates that older adults feel satisfied with their lives, despite having physical ailments. Important life changes can happen as we get older, which may cause feelings of uneasiness, sadness or stress. Such changes can include the death of a loved one, transitioning from work to retirement, or dealing with serious illnesses. Thankfully, people can recover from depression. Treatment options for depression can include medication, counseling, and therapy.

Alzheimer's disease, on the other hand, is a progressive brain disease. Millions of Americans are living with Alzheimer's disease. It can destroy brain cells and cause problems with memory, thinking and behavior. Some of the warning signs of Alzheimer's disease include:

- Memory changes that disrupt daily life;
- Changes in planning and/or solving problems;
- Difficulty completing tasks, both at work and home;
- Confusion with time or place;
- Trouble understanding visual and perceptual images;
- New problems with words, or speaking or writing;
- Decreased or poor judgment;
- Misplacing or losing things;
- Withdrawal; and
- Changes in mood and personality.

Alzheimer's is the most common form of dementia and unfortunately, has no current cure. The good news for those with Alzheimer's disease is that there are many available providers that can give patients and their families support and encouragement throughout the difficult process.

Noland named interim commissioner

FRANKFORT — At its retreat Wednesday, Kentucky Board of Education selected Kevin Noland to serve as interim education commissioner. Noland will serve during the time between the departure of current Interim Education Commissioner Elaine Farris and the selection of a permanent commissioner.

The board is in the midst of the search process for a new commissioner, and Greenwood Asher & Associates, Inc., of Florida is conducting the search. The timeline will culminate with the hiring of a new commissioner in August.

Farris, who has served as interim commissioner since the retirement of Education Commissioner Jon Draud in December 2008, has accepted the position of superintendent of the Clark County school district. She will begin her new duties on July 1.

Noland retired from the Kentucky Department of Education in 2008. He served as legal counsel, associate commissioner and deputy commissioner during his employment. Noland also served as interim commissioner three times previously.

Details, including salary and benefits, of Noland's employment have not yet been finalized.

Newspapers are too essential to fail

During last week's Senate hearing on the "Future of Journalism," Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., observed that the newspaper industry appears to be an "endangered species."

A chorus of senators rightfully expressed concern that newspapers' role as watchdogs and cornerstones of an informed democracy is jeopardized by the wrenching recession that has toppled many economic pillars.

But the news industry doesn't face a crisis of journalism. It is a crisis of advertising that affects all commercial media — including local television, magazines, radio and cable news. Like newspapers, other media companies have been enforcing layoffs, unpaid furloughs and pay cuts to reduce expenses as revenue shrinks as advertisers pull back.

The closings of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and Denver's Rocky Mountain News stunned those within the media field and created national headlines forecasting the demise of daily newspapers. But those closings prolong a long, regretful decline of a second newspapers in big markets. The Seattle Times and Denver Post survive.

Last week, in another two-newspaper city, The New York Times Co. threatened to shut down the venerable but money-losing Boston Globe if its unions did not agree to major concessions. They did, and the presses of the newspaper founded in 1872 will keep humming.

The news media are essential. But cracking the petrified credit markets and aiding the many jobless Americans should be a higher priority for Congress.

Newspapers will begin to heal when the nation's economy rises from its knees and people spend money again. Business conditions are bleak now, but eventually Americans will buy more cars, houses, vacation packages and restaurant meals.

Still, the news business is deeply challenged with no shortcuts in sight.

The Internet has changed every dynamic and diminished the dominance of daily newspapers, although they still command the largest audience and largest news-gathering teams. The rubric "newspaper" masks the breadth of online content that refreshes around the clock and provides in-depth local/regional news unlike any other medium. Online readership is growing in most newspaper markets.

But newspaper companies must find ways to pay for that news coverage in a digital world where information is free and a click away. News monopolies have vanished.

The changes wrought by technology have magnified by the flagging economy. Newspapers already were hobbled by huge drops in key classified advertising categories of employment, real estate and automobiles, some of which moved to online competitors or disappeared as companies used their websites to recruit talent or transact business directly.

The Christian Science Monitor became an online-only "newspaper." Tribune Co., owner of the Chicago Tribune and Los Angeles Times, operates in bankruptcy court. The San Francisco Chronicle is losing millions of dollars and threatened to close during labor negotiations. The struggles are painfully real.

Media companies are looking for solutions. Among those suggested or being tried are charging small fees to read news online, delivering content to mobile devices and reducing the number of days of publication. New large-format readers will make electronic versions of newspapers, books and magazines easier to read. Companies are looking into sharing content and transforming newspapers into non-profit foundations.

If the federal government wants to help, it can loosen outdated, pre-Internet (1975) regulations that limit content sharing and cross ownership of a daily newspaper and broadcast station in the same market. But that won't solve the fundamental revenue problem.

We appreciate and share the Senate's belief that news journalism is too important to fail. But newspapers — or should we say news organizations — should shun the idea of federal bailout dollars. Handouts aren't good for watchdogs.

Can we build a floodwall now?

The recent flooding in Martin has once again proven that the plan to rid the town of this problem is wrong. A floodwall should have been built and the town and residents, businesses, etc. could have built back and regained the prosperity this it once had.

The people of Martin, and especially the businesses, advocated a floodwall, but were scoffed at, ignored and treated by the mayor, city council and Army Corps of Engineers as if we were anti-flood advocates. We are still treated badly by these groups, as if we were not citizens and owners of Martin.

There is no one in downtown Martin who knows more about its history of floods than I do. I was raised in Martin and I got my first experience with floods in 1940. I woke up as a 6-year-old on Main Street and my bed mattress was floating on muddy and wet Beaver Creek! My dad carried me to higher ground next door to the Keathleys and saved our lives!

Since that time, I have assisted my father in some capacity in every flood that has been in Martin, even when I lived in Perry County and McDowell. No one, not even the mayor, wants flood control for Martin more than me!

I have a simple and less expensive solution for Martin at this time, and I believe most of the citizens in Martin would support it. This project has to be revised and cost less money to complete if it is to be successful. Time is really of the essence now, because regardless of what the mayor has said, under the current plan by the Army Corps, it will take 8-to-10 years to complete if the money is available by the federal government. I doubt if the current plan will ever be completed!

Why not build our floodwall now, Hal, Thomasine and Army Corps? It would be less expensive, save years of time and allow Martin to grow and prosper and build back homes and businesses once again.

The mayor could also build her city hall, post office, school, etc. on the hillside, with maybe her fire department, and we all could work together and make Martin a bigger and more prosperous town to live in. I believe our forefathers, and there are many, who made Martin many years ago into a great town to live and work in, would be very pleased.

Of course, I believe this is too simple a plan for success and the authorities that now exist would never adopt it. Good luck, citizens of Martin. We'll need it!

Kentucky Office of Highway Safety reminds public: 'Click It or Ticket!'

by CHUCK GEVEDEN

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
KENTUCKY OFFICE OF HIGHWAY SAFETY

For anyone who complains about getting a ticket for not buckling up when driving or riding in a motor vehicle, here's a crash course in reality:

■ 826 people were killed on Kentucky's roadways in 2008.

■ 55 percent of those killed were not wearing a seat belt.

■ When worn correctly, seat belts are proven to reduce the risk of fatal injury to front-seat occupants by 45 percent and by 60 percent in pickup trucks, SUVs, and minivans.

While those may sound like just statistics, those of us at the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet's Office of Highway Safety know from personal experience that those numbers are the actual faces of mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters, sons, daughters, aunts, uncles and friends right here in Kentucky. We tell too many families about losses that may have been prevented had a loved one only worn a seat belt.

This goes to the heart of our mission to protect the public. That is why we have joined with thousands of state and local law enforcement and other highway safety agencies nationwide to support the 2009 national Click It or Ticket seat belt enforcement mobilization running May 18-31.

The good news is we have seen unprecedented numbers of motorists buckling up over the past several years. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, seat belts can be credited with saving more than 15,000 lives in 2007 alone. Thanks in part to high-visibility enforcement campaigns like Click It or Ticket, this has led to an all-time high observed national seat belt usage rate of 83 percent in 2008—a 25-percent increase over the past 14 years. However, the tragic reality is that in Kentucky our usage rate is only 73 percent, even with our primary seat belt law.

As we monitor the increase in the number of fatalities so far for 2009 we are gravely concerned. As of today we have had 271 fatalities this year, compared to 261 this time last year and again, 55 percent of those killed in 2009 so far were not wearing a seat belt.

People often ask, "Aren't there more serious criminals on the street other than those who simply are not buckling up? They're not hurting anyone but themselves."

To the contrary, the people who choose to disobey the law by not wearing their seat belts are taking a chance with not only their lives, but the emotional and financial health of their families, friends and our community.

Death may be the ultimate consequence for not wearing a seat belt, but even for those who escape a fatal crash, the economic costs of injuries caused by motor vehicle crashes are staggering. Every year motor vehicle crashes cost our country an estimated $230.6 billion. That equals more than $800 per person per year!

Yes, this is a national problem, but law enforcement and first responders see the local faces at too many crash scenes. So, it begins right here in Kentucky. Law enforcement will be out in force to show our dedication to solving this problem. We want 100 percent of motorists to buckle up. Buckling up costs you nothing, but the costs of NOT buckling up may be a ticket, or worse, your life. Treat this as a tough and potentially life-saving reminder: Click It or Ticket!

Floyd flooded again; damages could total at least $4 million

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

Editor's note: The following story had been scheduled to appear in our Wednesday paper, but was inadvertently left out.

Weekend storms swept over the region leaving hundreds with damaged homes and property, and effecting what officials believe will most likely be some 500 Floyd County families.

Floyd County Judge-Executive R.D. "Doc" Marshall prepared early Tuesday morning for a visit from Gov. Steve Beshear by conferring with officials throughout the county, receiving estimates and updates from Jim Caldwell, Floyd County's emergency management services director.

"We have about 10 members of the National Guard performing assessments this morning," Caldwell said Tuesday. "It's a slow process, really, but they've put the number at 135 families who have been affected."

Caldwell said the process of assessment should be finished by Thursday and expects that number to be around 500 by that time.

Another 10 members of the Guard are expected to come to the county to assist in cleanup efforts and other related tasks, Caldwell said.

Flooding and slides were county-wide after a downpour broke loose Friday night and left much of the county under water. Southern and central Floyd County were some of the hardest hit areas and, by Saturday morning, Martin, Maytown, McDowell, Minnie, Eastern, Garrett and outlying communities were either completely or partially flooded.

In Martin, the downtown area was blocked off while residents of Maytown could only stand along the railroad tracks and watch muddy water lapping at the tops of homes and covering parked cars.

Rescue workers parked near the bridge entering Maytown and sat helpless in vehicles as their homes and those of their neighbors were taken by the brushing waves and debris-strewn tide.

"The water got into almost every single house in Maytown," Marshall said. "And we're sending the first round of cleanup equipment and operators there first."

Prestonsburg Utilities volunteered Tuesday morning to take equipment and workers to Maytown and then move along the county to others areas until further plans can be put into place to aid in cleanup efforts and debris removal.

In the days immediately following the worst of the storm, efforts were made to put in place two locations in Floyd County for those in need of assistance. Shelters were set up and are still functioning at Graceway United Methodist Church in Langley and the Martin Community Center, while the American Red Cross has set up locations throughout the county, as well.

These locations are providing shelter to families out of their homes due to the flooding, along with water, cleaning kits and food, Marshall said.

"We requested 3,000 more clean kits," Marshall said Tuesday, and, soon after, learned that 135 kits had arrived in the county. "That's not quite 3,000, but it's a start."

Also, the county gave a green light to the Red Cross to assemble a mobile kitchen beside the Maytown Fire Department.

Caldwell said Tuesday the county should be in fair shape for supplies of water to those in need, with water provided at various fire departments including Wayland, Garrett and David.

There were still roughly 250 people without power as of Tuesday afternoon, according to estimates, with some 2,500 without services at the peak of outages. Most of the remaining homes without power were in the Middle Creek and Little Mud sections of the county.

Marshall said the key focus of conversations with Beshear Tuesday would revolve almost exclusively around the type of assistance that could be received. That help will come in two forms based on qualifications — individual and public assistance.

"You have to have a certain number of people who experienced loss before you can qualify, but we should have no problem at all in seeing that happen," Marshall said.

In order to request this help, however, an estimated dollar amount must be arrived at, Marshall said. And by the time Beshear and Rogers, along with House Speaker Greg Stumbo, landed by helicopter in Martin Tuesday afternoon, they had a rough figure in mind.

"The ballpark figure right now is $4 million to get things back on track in this county," Marshall said. "That figure may go up after today, it's hard to say, but I don't see adjusting it down any at all."

Some 100 miles of county roads were damaged, according to road officials, with a reported $2 million in total damages throughout Floyd County, part of $10 million throughout all of District 12. Residents also found themselves dealing with more than 600 slides that occurred over the weekend.

And officials are now watching weather reports even as they go about the business of dealing with the last round of storms.

With rain forecast for the region again later this week, Marshall is bracing himself for the worst.

"If we get another good downpour, we're going to be fighting a double battle here," he said.

The number to call is (606) 886-0926 for residents who have experienced damage to their homes or property due to the flooding.

To report private damage to FEMA call (800) 621-3362 or locally at 886-0926.

Holder announces nearly $15 billion to Kentucky for public safety jobs

WASHINGTON — U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder announced that more than $14 billion in Recovery Act funds will go to the State of Kentucky to maintain or increase public safety in the state, while creating or retaining jobs within the law enforcement community.

These Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant (JAG) Program funds are part of more than $4 billion in Justice Department Recovery Act funds available to assist state, local and tribal law enforcement and for other criminal justice activities that help to prevent crime and improve the criminal justice system in the United States while supporting the creation of jobs and much needed resources for states and local communities.

This announcement comes on the heels of yesterday's testimony by Associate Attorney General Thomas J. Perrelli before the Senate Judiciary Committee where he spoke of the importance of Recovery Act funds in helping state and local law enforcement during an economic downturn.

As submitted in their application, the Kentucky Justice and Public Safety Cabinet plans to support projects that concentrate on substance abuse, criminal justice systems' operational effectiveness, and enhance other law enforcement initiatives, with the goal of preserving and creating jobs and promote economic recovery that will stabilize state and local government budgets and minimize reductions in essential services. Kentucky is required to provide a portion of the $14 million to the local jurisdictions.

"By addressing Kentucky's economic challenges while simultaneously meeting the state's public safety priorities, these funds represent the best of what the Recovery Act can do for our communities," Attorney General Eric Holder said. "This vital funding will help fight crime and build safer communities, and we look forward to continued work with Kentucky to address these criminal justice goals."

The procedure for allocating JAG grants is based on a formula of population and violent crime statistics, in combination with a minimum allocation to ensure that each state and territory receives an appropriate share of funding. Sixty percent of the allocation is awarded directly to a state and 40 percent is set aside for units of local government.

States are required to subgrant a portion of the funds to local units of government, such as a city, county, township or town. Faith-based and other community organizations are also eligible to receive pass-through funding from the state, as are Tribal governments.

Local Recovery Act JAG awards will be announced at a later date. The deadline for local units of government to submit their Recovery Act applications to the Department of Justice is May 18, 2009.

The JAG Program is the primary provider of federal criminal justice funding to state and local jurisdictions and is managed by the Department's Office of Justice Assistance. JAG funds support all components of the criminal justice system, from multi-jurisdictional drug and gang task forces to crime prevention and domestic violence programs, courts, corrections, treatment, and justice information sharing initiatives. Projects may address crime through the provision of services directly to individuals and/or communities and by improving the effectiveness and efficiency of criminal justice systems, processes, and procedures. For more details on the JAG Program or to track the use of Recovery Act funds, visit www.ojp.gov/recovery. For more details on how to apply for the state managed, pass-through funding, visit <http://www.ojp.usdoj.gov/saa/index.htm>.

The Office of Justice Programs, headed by Acting

Assistant Attorney General Laurie O. Robinson, provides federal leadership in developing the nation's capacity to prevent and control crime, administer justice, and assist victims. OJP has five component bureaus: the Bureau of Justice Assistance; the Bureau of Justice Statistics; the National Institute of Justice; the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention; and the Office for Victims of Crime. Additionally, OJP has two program offices: the Community Capacity Development Office, which incorporates the Weed and Seed strategy, and the Office of Sex Offender Sentencing, Monitoring, Apprehending, Registering, and Tracking (SMART). More information can be found at www.ojp.gov.

Picnic Pizzazz

FAMILY FEATURES

Pack a picnic and head outdoors; it's the perfect warm weather way to dine — especially when these easy and delicious dishes are on the menu!

- Make ahead, meal-in-a-loaf Picnic Sandwich provides plenty of protein and vegetables... deli meats, cheese and spinach topped with a tangy pickled beet, celery and bell pepper relish.
- Bean, Tortellini & Pesto Salad puts a new spin on a picnic favorite, bean salad. Start with a canned bean salad for extra quick prep.
- Colorful, antioxidant-rich Beet & Broccoli Salad-Dijon packs a powerful nutrition and flavor punch for the picnic table.
- Finish with Spicy Beet Cupcakes. The secret ingredient (beets) helps keep them extra moist, replaces some of the fat, and adds a nutrition boost to these "made from a mix," but "taste like scratch" cupcakes.

For additional recipes and product information, visit www.AuntNellies.com and www.READsalads.com.

Picnic Tips

- Keep cold foods cold. Chill foods before packing in an insulated cooler stocked with frozen gel packs.
- Store the cooler in the shade if possible, and open only when necessary.
- Return foods to the cooler within one hour, or less time if you are in the sun.

Bean, Tortellini & Pesto Salad

Preparation Time: 15 minutes

Cooking Time: 10 minutes

- 2 cans (15 ounces each) READ 3 or 4 Bean Salad
 - 1/4 cup prepared basil pesto
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt (optional)
 - 1 package (9 ounces) refrigerated tortellini, any variety
1. Drain bean salad; reserve 1/2 cup liquid. Combine reserved liquid, pesto and salt, if desired; set aside.
 2. Cook tortellini according to package directions; drain, rinse in cold water and drain again. Add pesto dressing; toss to coat. Add stir-ins if desired. Toss with bean salad.
 3. Serve at room temperature or chilled.

Makes 6 servings.

Optional Stir-Ins:

- Grape tomatoes or halved cherry tomatoes
- Chopped bell pepper
- Thinly sliced green onion

Note: Recipe can be doubled.

Beet & Broccoli Salad Dijon

Preparation Time: 30 minutes

Chilling Time: 1 hour up to 24 hours

- 1 jar (16 ounces) Aunt Nellie's Whole or Sliced Pickled Beets
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
- 1 small clove garlic, minced
- Salt and coarse grind black pepper (optional)
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced red onion
- 3 cups cooked broccoli florets

1. Drain beets; reserve 3 tablespoons beet liquid. Cut whole beets in half. In small bowl, combine beet liquid, olive oil, mustard, garlic and salt and pepper, if desired. Whisk to blend. Stir in onion.
2. Toss beets with dressing-onion mixture. Refrigerate, covered, to chill. (Make up to one day in advance.)
3. To serve, add broccoli. Toss gently to combine.

Makes 6 servings.

Note: Recipe can be doubled.

Picnic Sandwich

Preparation Time: 30 minutes

Chilling Time: up to 24 hours

- 1 jar (16 ounces) Aunt Nellie's Whole or Sliced Pickled Beets
- 1 small yellow, red or green bell pepper, chopped
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced fresh basil
- 1 loaf (1 pound) French bread or other shape such as ciabatta
- 1 cup prepared hummus with Kalamata olives*
- 2 cups baby spinach leaves
- 1/2 pound sliced provolone cheese
- 1/2 pound thinly sliced turkey breast, ham or roast beef

1. To prepare relish, drain beets; reserve 2 tablespoons beet liquid. Coarsely chop beets. Combine beets, bell pepper, celery and garlic. Stir together beet liquid and olive oil. Toss with relish ingredients. Add basil.
2. Cut bread lengthwise in half. Hollow out halves, leaving a 1/2-inch-thick shell. Spread hummus inside each half. Arrange spinach leaves over bottom half, pressing into place. Top with cheese, beet relish and turkey. Close sandwich. Wrap tightly in aluminum foil. Sandwich can be refrigerated up to 24 hours before serving.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

*Substitute plain or other flavored hummus, herbed or plain goat cheese, or spreadable herb-garlic cheese.

Spicy Beet Cupcakes

Preparation Time: 20 minutes

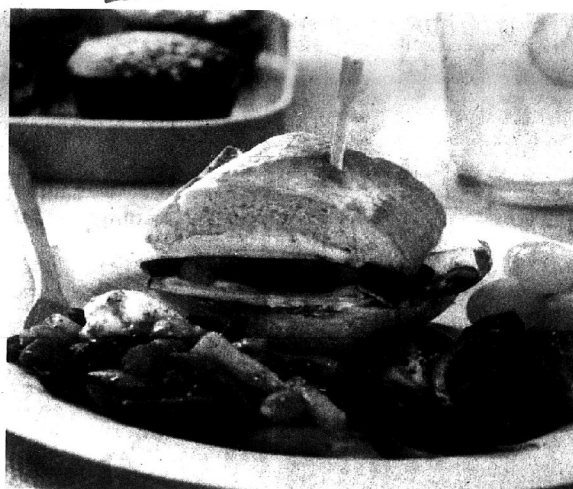

Baking Time: 20 to 22 minutes

- 1 jar (16 ounces) Aunt Nellie's Sliced Pickled Beets
- Water
- 1 package (18.25 ounces) spice cake mix
- 2 eggs
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- Confectioners' sugar

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Line 20 standard muffin pan cups with cupcake liners or spray bottoms only with nonstick cooking spray. Drain beets; reserve liquid. In food processor, puree beets until smooth. Add enough water to reserved beet liquid to equal amount of water called for on package.
2. In large bowl, beat cake mix, beet puree, beet liquid, eggs and oil on low speed of electric mixer 30 seconds to combine. Beat 2 minutes on medium until smooth, scraping bowl occasionally.
3. Divide batter evenly among muffin cups. Bake 20 to 22 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool completely on wire rack. Dust with confectioners' sugar.

Makes 20 cupcakes.

Note: Cupcakes can be frozen, tightly wrapped, up to one month. Dust with sugar after thawing.

KIM'S KORNER The juice

by KIM LITTLE FRASURE

About a month ago, one of my best friends, KJ, called to tell me she had been introduced to this "juice" she had been drinking and what a life-changing experience it had made for her and her family. Knowing the effects fibromyalgia has on my bones and muscles, she said she was shipping me some of that juice and wanted me to start drinking it as soon as it arrived.

Kim Little Frasure

Well, first of all, you have to know when it comes to being a chicken of medication, this oil has got to be the biggest chicken of them all. If it ain't an Advil, it ain't going down my pipes. And since being diagnosed with fibro in '97 I have taken six to nine Advil a day — no joke!

So there was no way this juice was going to cross my lips until a little investigation took place.

KJ said by all means check it out, told me the site to go to so I could read up on Monavie and that there were testimonies available on the site that I could check out as well. These fingers couldn't type fast enough to check out this juice and its effects.

Did I like what I learned? You bet I did!

Next thing I knew I was watching for the UPS man as if he were delivering Christmas. When the juice arrived I was ripping that box apart like no other. The eyes sat upon a sleek black bottle with this lime green neck that resembled that of a wine bottle. "WHOA! This is a fruit juice, right?" I said aloud.

KJ had told me to make sure to let the juice get ice cold before I started drinking it. So, to the fridge we go. She had also sent a box of information and the more I read, the more I couldn't wait to get started on this juice.

It contains the ever so popular Acai pronounced (a-sah-e) berry from the Amazon along with 18 other fruits: pomegranate, bilberry, passion fruit, wolfberry, blueberry, kiwi, cranberry, apricot, prune, nashi, aronia, camu camu, acerola, banana, pear, lychee, white grape, and purple grape.

After hearing and reading the testimonies of people that had been drinking this juice and how much better they felt, how much energy they had, I could hardly stand to wait for it to get cold and start drinking, but I did.

Most said they began to feel the effects anywhere from 4-7 days after they began. One evening while visiting the site and watching some videos on this juice Spouse was sitting just behind me in his recliner. "UMMM," he says, "I think I'm gonna start drinking that juice and see if it would help my carpal tunnel."

By this time I was on my third day of the juice, and though I was excited he was going to share the juice, part of me was like, "NO don't drink my juice!"

Next morning (the fourth day) of drinking Monavie Spouse began to try it out. We both had our two ounces and were off to work.

At the end of my first week drinking the juice, people began to comment on my energy level. I hadn't even thought about it. But co-workers and friends were telling me they could see a difference in me. On my 12th day on the juice, Spouse asked me if I had any Advil for he had a headache. Advil?

OH MY GOSH, I just realized I had not taken one Advil in 12 days! My bones didn't hurt, my muscles weren't in spasms — oh my good heavens, I love this juice!

Spouse then says, "Look at my hands. No swelling, no pain in my wrists. We are keeping this juice here at all times."

I want everybody I know and love on this juice. I want them to feel the energy and receive the health benefits too. So KJ says, "Girlfriend, we will become distributors of Monavie," and started G.R.I.T.S. (Girl Raised in the South), including Sherry Huff Mardis, myself and KJ.

And we have had an absolute blast keeping up with one another and the effects this juice is having in our lives. It is amazing!

What a blessing to have such wonderful friends who care so much.

'Til next week, God bless. If you want some juice, call me — I'm in the book!

KBC disaster relief active in Floyd, Madison and Pike counties

RICHMOND - Four teams of Kentucky Baptist Disaster Relief volunteers are helping residents in Madison County recover from a tornado on May 8, and additional teams are preparing to aid areas of Eastern Kentucky affected by last week's floods.

KBC Disaster Relief Associate Coy Webb said more than 15 volunteers from the Tates Creek Baptist Association are currently serving in Madison County after deploying on May 9 to clear debris and complete chainsaw jobs. Several chaplain volunteers are also serving, he said.

The active volunteers are from Berea, Georgetown, Hodgenville, Kirksville, Richmond and Somerset. Twelve additional volunteers from Eubank Baptist Church are scheduled to arrive on site by Wednesday morning.

The Madison County effort is anticipated to be complete by Friday, May 15, Webb said.

The KBC is also organizing relief efforts for areas of Eastern Kentucky affected by recent flooding. Webb said the KBC is targeting its efforts in Floyd, Owsley and Pike counties, where volunteers will assist with mud-out.

Three volunteers from Urica and Muhlenberg, Williamstown, are currently serving with a recovery unit in Pike County, and five volunteers from Floyd County are now serving in Floyd County. Webb is hoping more volunteers will soon be joining both efforts.

The KBC is also organizing volunteers for the Owsley County effort, he said.

Volunteers serving in Madison County are stationed at First Baptist Church of Richmond. The Pike County team is based out of McVeigh Baptist Church in McVeigh, and Floyd County volunteers are stationed at Maytown Center in Langley.

Volunteers are still needed for the work in Eastern Kentucky. Trained volunteers may contact the KBC Baptist Men on Mission office at 502-489-3527 or 866-489-3527 (toll free in Kentucky).

Contributions to the KBC's disaster relief efforts may be sent to the KBC, Dept. 5008, P.O. Box 740041, Louisville, KY 40201-9976. Please note "disaster relief" in the check memo. Online donations are also being accepted at www.kybaptist.org/dr.

Kentucky Baptists are part of a larger network of Southern Baptist volunteers trained to respond to disasters by manning mass feeding operations, using chainsaws to clear downed trees and limbs, clear mud out of flooded homes and more. Together, Southern Baptists comprise the third largest relief organization in the United States.

Qualifying set for State Am golf tourney

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

The state's top amateur golfers are poised to vie for the 2009 at&T State Amateur title. The 95th edition of the at&T Kentucky State Amateur Championship is now underway with qualifying rounds beginning on Sunday, May 24 at Henderson Country Club. Ten golf venues throughout the commonwealth will host over 300 contestants as they vie for spots in the championship field at Champion Trace Golf Club in Nicholasville. AT&T

Kentucky has been providing its support and title sponsorship since 1996. Locally, Drift resident Johnny Ray Turner is scheduled to tee off at 8:18 a.m. on Wednesday, May 27 at London Country Club. A field of 156 competitors will compete for a title that has been held by such highly regarded players as PGA Tour members J.B. Holmes, Steve Flesch, Ted Schulz, Jodie Mudd, Frank Beard, Bobby Nichols and Gay Brewer, Jr. The reigning champion - 2008 champion Tyler Sharpe - will be back to defend his title after a thrilling victory at the Country Club of Paducah. Opening round of the championship is Tuesday, June 9. Qualifying sites are as follows: May 24 - Henderson Country Club; May 26 - Gay Brewer GC at Picadome; May 26 - Indian Hills Country Club; May 27 - Pendleton Country Club; May 27 - London Country Club; May 27 - Danville Country Club; May 29 - Bellefonte Country Club; May 29 - Boots Randolph/Lake Barkley GC; May 29 - Frankfort Country Club; May 29 - Long Run Golf Course.

State Senator Johnny Ray Turner, Drift, will vie for this year's state amateur golf title.

DISTRICT SOFTBALL: Coach Don Burke and sophomore pitcher Shea Spurlock will lead the Lady Rebels into next week's 58th District Tournament.

Revived Reds show plenty of promise

by RICK BENTLEY
TIMES COLUMNIST

Business, as ol' J.R. used to say, is about to pick up. We're only a weekend away from starting the district baseball and softball tournaments, one of our favorite times of year.

There are a lot of reasons for this. For starters, we love baseball and softball. I've said many times before that I know I'm the odd guy in Kentucky, but give me baseball over basketball any old time and for me it's not even close. I love baseball, all the nuances and intricacies of it, and think it's a wonderful game that every young person should play.

The beauty of baseball is that you can enjoy it with a rudimentary knowledge of it and you can enjoy it if you know the sport inside and out.

It's easy to be excited about baseball (and, of course, softball) right now. For one thing—

MSC volleyball headed back to Frankfort for five years

TIMES STAFF REPORT

FRANKFORT — The Mid-South Conference will hold its volleyball tournament at the Frankfort Convention Center for the next five years.

The convention center hosted the volleyball tournament last year for the first time. The center is also host to the conference's basketball tournaments through 2013.

"We've enjoyed great success with the Mid-South Conference as our guests," said FCC Executive Director Rob Minerich. "We look forward to more great sporting events with the Mid-South Conference teams here."

The volleyball members of the conference include Georgetown College, Campbellsville University, Lindsey Wilson College, University of the Cumberlands, Pikeville College, St. Catharine College, West Virginia University Institute of Technology and the University of Rio Grande (Ohio).

"Frankfort Tourism is always pleased for the Mid-South to return. They are not only good business for tourism, but they bring in such wonderful people," said Joy Jeffries, executive director of the Frankfort Tourist Commission. "This is a true partnership among the Mid-South Conference, the Frankfort Convention Center, Frankfort Tourism, and the Capital Plaza Hotel. We hope they will be here for many, many years."

The Frankfort Convention Center, located in historic downtown Frankfort, features a 5,300 seat arena, 17,000 square feet of exhibit space and plenty of nearby parking. The center is part of the Tourism, Arts and Heritage Cabinet.

SOUTH FLOYD defeated 14th Region member Hazard in a regular-season finale. The Lady Raiders also posted a 10-6 win over Prestonsburg earlier in the week.

Lady Raiders conclude regular-season victorious

Hamby hits second home run of season versus Hazard

MINNIE — The South Floyd High School softball team concluded the regular-season victorious, posting an 11-1 win over host Hazard Wednesday. South Floyd split a pair of games in the Lady Blackcat Classic Tuesday, outlasting homestanding Prestonsburg 10-6 for its lone win. Raceland held off the Lady Raiders 3-0 in another game.

Trista Damron pitched South Floyd to a win in each of the late regular-season games.

"It was a very important district game to win and my girls played strong," said South Floyd Coach Kristi Howard. "Our defense was very strong, holding the Lady Blackcats to seven runs. Trista Damron pitched a great game."

Brandi Hamby hit her second homerun of the season for South Floyd in the win over Hazard. "I was very proud of my girls - they played extremely hard," said Howard. "Trista Damron had a brilliant game and the defense of my girls was extremely tough. Brandi Hamby is a very talented player. She has a tough glove and an extremely strong bat. They have improved so much during the last few games and I think we are ready for district tournament."

South Floyd ended the regular-season 6-10. The Lady Raiders, Prestonsburg, Allen Central and Betsy Layne will all vie for the 58th District championship next week during the annual district tournament.

Stepp transfers to Cumberlands

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

WILLIAMSBURG — Former June Buchanan School standout Clark Stepp is transferring from Austin Peay to the University of the Cumberlands in Williamsburg. Stepp scored more than 3,000 points and handed out over 1,000 assists in his high school career. The Knott County native appeared in 12 games for Austin Peay as a freshman. The 6-foot-3 guard played only 37 minutes and scored seven points as a first-year player for the OVC men's basketball program.

Several NCAA Division I programs were interested in Stepp. The JBS graduate, however, ultimately chose to return close to home and attend Cumberlands.

Stepp played guard for his uncle, Gary Stepp, at June Buchanan. He is the only player in Kentucky high school history to score 3,000 points and register 1,000 assists in his career. As a senior, Clark Stepp averaged 24.7 points (fifth in the state), 7.3 assists, 5.0 rebounds and 3.0 steals per contest. He was selected to participate for the Kentucky squad in the annual Kentucky/Ohio All-Star game and chosen first-team All-State. The proven sharpshooter finished in the Top 10 in scoring in the state in both his junior and senior campaigns.

EASTERN — The Allen Central Rebels won for the second time in three outings on the baseball diamond Wednesday, defeating 57th District member Sheldon Clark 8-1. Allen Central bounced back following a Floyd County Conference/58th District setback to Prestonsburg less than one week earlier. The Rebels ended the month of April on a winning note with a 14-4 win over Betsy Layne in another conference/district contest.

Junior pitcher Logan Crowder claimed the win.

Josh Stone went 3-4 with two doubles and four RBIs to lead the Allen Central offensive attack.

Zac Hall went 1-3 with a double and three RBIs. Hall also drew a walk.

Borrowing a line from former University of Kentucky Wildcat Jamal McClaire, Allen Central Coach Josh Todd said, "we are starting to show signs of consistency."

Allen Central improved to 9-12, remaining ahead of Sheldon Clark in the 15th Region standings. Sheldon Clark dropped to 8-16 following the loss.

The Rebels were scheduled to host Phelps Thursday evening, weather permitting.

Floyd drivers crack Top 10 at Bulls Gap

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

Brandon Kinzer and the Kinzer Motorsports Dirt Late Model team competed in one lone event last weekend, traveling to Volunteer Speedway in Bulls Gap, Tenn., Friday for an unsanctioned 53,000-to-win feature race. Kinzer timed in 13th quickest during qualifying, which earned him the inside seventh row starting spot for the main event. The Allen driver was then able to pass six cars during the 50-lap A-Main en route to a solid seventh-place finish. Martin driver Shannon Thornsberry joined Kinzer in the Top 10, finishing 10th. A breakdown of the feature race results follows.

TSC CARS SUPER LATE MODELS (50 laps): 1. Tommy Kerr, 4T (Maryville, Tenn.); 2. Chad Ogle, 10 (Sevierville, Tenn.); 3. Vic Hill, 1 (Morristown, Tenn.); 4. David Crabtree, 41 (Maryville, Tenn.); 5. End-of-game replays approved in HS hoops

TIMES STAFF REPORT

INDIANAPOLIS — Replay equipment may be used in state high school basketball championships next year to determine the final outcome of games.

In its April 13-15 meeting in Indianapolis, the National Federation of State High School Associations (NFHS) Basketball Rules Committee voted to permit state high school associations to use a replay monitor to review field-goal attempts at the expiration of time in the fourth quarter or any overtime period, but only in games when the last-second attempt would affect the outcome of the game.

This addition to Rule 2-2-1 was one of two major rules changes and five major editorial revisions approved by the Basketball Rules Committee. All changes were subsequently approved by the NFHS Board of Directors.

In response to end-of-game situations in three state championships during the 2007-08 season (South Carolina, Michigan, Ohio), the committee decided to give state associations the opportunity to use technology, if available, to assist in making sure that the correct team is awarded the state championship. Replay or game officials will be able to determine if the attempt occurred before time expired (0:00 on clock), and whether the shot was a two-point or three-point attempt.

"Coaches, participants, spectators and media now hold game officials to a higher, almost impossible standard," said Mary Struckhoff, NFHS assistant director and liaison to the Basketball Rules Committee. "When available, technology should be used to assist game officials and administrators in making the correct call when the outcome of the game hangs in the balance and a team has no further opportunity to overcome a critical error. This change provides state associations that opportunity."

Although not directly linked to the replay change, the other rule change approved by the committee could enhance the reviews of end-of-game situations. Beginning with the 2009-10 season, if a red light behind the backboard or an LED light on the backboard is present, it is permitted to signal the expiration of time in the quarter/extra period. If no red light/LED light is present, the audible timer's signal will continue to signal the expiration of time. In the past, use of the red light/LED light was not permitted even in those facilities that had one.

"This change allows the technology to be used if it's available, and in those situations when replay officials are reviewing end-of-game attempts, the red light/LED light should be helpful," Struckhoff said. "All other end-of-period rules remain intact."

Two of the five editorial changes were approved in response to last year's major rule change in which all players moved up one lane space during a free-throw attempt, thereby leaving the two marked lane spaces closest to the end line vacant.

New language in Rule 9-1-3d states that a player leaves a marked lane space when he or she contacts any part of the court outside the marked lane space (3 feet by 3 feet). A clarification to Rule 9-1-3g indicates that a player occupying a marked lane space must have one foot positioned near the outer edge of the free-throw lane line with the other positioned anywhere within the designated 36-inch lane space.

Struckhoff said these changes were necessitated by players attempting to leave their positions too early to gain a rebound advantage.

The remaining editorial changes are as follows:

Rules 1-13-3, 5-12-5: Clarified that the imaginary rectangle designated the area to be used for time-outs.

Rule 2-12-5NOTE: Clarified when the 20-second interval begins to replace an injured player.

Rule 3-7: Clarified that any item, in the referee's judgment, that constitutes a safety concern is not permitted.

The committee also adopted five points of emphasis for the upcoming season. The identified topics include traveling, closely guarded, three-seconds, block/charge and free-throw administration.

According to the 2007-08 High School Athletics Participation Survey conducted by the NFHS, basketball is the most popular sport for girls with 449,450 participants in 17,564 schools. For boys, basketball is first in school sponsorship with 17,861 and second to football with 552,935 participants.

Coming Sunday: Floyd County native Johnny Martin is back on the bench as a head coach in the 15th Region at Pike County Central High School.

although you wouldn't know it be the national news — the Reds are smoking hot right now, having just swept the Diamondbacks in Phoenix this week. This made them 13-5 on the road this year and put them in a three-way tie atop the NL Central standings. If this team was a little better at home than their current 7-9 worksheet they could easily lead the division by multiple games.

The good news for the Redlegs is they not only aren't home this weekend but also they move even further from the Queen City when they visit San Diego for three starting tonight. The Padres — which, by the way, I always hear pronounced as Col. Potter said it on M*A*S*H back in the day — are quite possibly worse than the D-Backs right now, having lost five straight entering play Thursday, although they are above .500, slightly, at home.

It's a good time to be a Reds fan, so let's take advantage of it while we can; a nine-game homestand begins Tuesday, so it may not last forever.

By Tuesday, we'll be into local postseason play if the weather permits. The only bad thing about baseball/softball is they are so dependent on weather, and let's face it, it's been a brutal spring where that's concerned. Many teams have had near-as-many rainouts as games played, and while it may happen, it would be foolish of us to expect two week's worth of dry weather so we can get the district and region played on time.

I've never been a fan of playing all four opening-round games on Memorial Day, largely because I enjoy the cookouts and time spent with family. But this year, if they can get them all knocked out in one day I say more power to them.

As of late I've asked several people who they thought would win the local regions and you'd think I was asking people for their favorite numbers. That's not a bad thing, though, and could mean we're in for a good, solid couple of weeks of play. Tournaments are always more exciting when there's no clear-cut favorite, and while many seem to shade toward Paintsville on the baseball side, there's no way you could call the Tigers a prohibitive favorite.

The other good news on the baseball side is that the winner will have something of a home-field advantage when sectional play begins.

The Section Eight tournament will be played at the W.C. Hambley Complex in Pikeville, which should help the locals in their attempt to advance to the eight-team state tournament.

And by the way, while I know I'll get hammered for this, let me again say that Hambley is the place the region should be held every year. I know the folks at Belfry will do an outstanding job and I mean absolutely no disrespect. But as long as Hambley has turf and nobody else does, it should be the site of the regional tournament. That's my only point there. There are times you can play there simply because of the turf when you can't play anywhere else.

Now let's spend the weekend getting some rest and come out ready to play next week. It's the last go-round for this school year, and with some luck we can have nice weather to enjoy on top of it.

Let's you and I get out and support our young men and women as they represent our communities by leaving the video-game systems behind and being active. It's a wonderful time of the year; let's enjoy the next couple of weeks at the old ball yard.

And one final thing: If you happen to see my mother this weekend wish her a happy birthday. She'll be celebrating on Saturday as Birthday Week

UK women to host 5K Run/Walk

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON — In an effort to get a new school record of 5,000 season tickets for the 2009-10 season, the University of Kentucky women's basketball team will hold a 5K run/walk rally on June 5K for 5K on Saturday, June 27 at 8:30 a.m. The race is set to begin and end at Memorial Coliseum.

The event will be one of five during the summer and fall to help break the current season ticket record of 4,808 set in 2005-06. The entire season ticket campaign is called Drive for 5K.

"The 'Drive for 5K' is something we came up with to help break the 5,000 season ticket mark," UK Coach Matthew Mitchell said. "We are going to do five events in the five months leading up to the start of the season in October. The first event is the '5K for 5K' and it's sure to be an exciting time with a lot of activities for family and kids. I'm even going to lace up my running shoes and run in the race."

Season tickets cost just $45 for 17 exciting home games in Memorial Coliseum. This year's schedule, which will be completed and released later this summer, is highlighted by matchups against first-time opponent Boston University in the season opener on Nov. 13 and intrastate rival Louisville on Dec. 20. The Southeastern Conference schedule also will feature eight home games compared to seven in previous years, as the league has adopted a 16-game slate beginning in the 2009-10 season.

All new or returning season ticket holders who purchase and/or renew season tickets by Wednesday, June 17 will receive one free entry to the race for each of their season tickets.

Fans interested in becoming new season ticket holders may go to UKathletics.com and click on the "5K for 5K" button on the front page. Order forms also may be picked up at the Athletics Ticket Office at the Joe Craft Center. For ticket questions call the UK ticket office at 1-800-928-CATS.

Current season ticket holders should receive a renewal form in the mail within the week. Those who do not wish to renew at this time will still be able to do so during the normal renewal process in August. Seat locations will not be assigned until renewals have been completed. Anyone wishing to just enter the race, but not purchase a season ticket, may do so for just $20.

Each entrant will receive a commemorative race t-shirt. The day also will feature interaction with the women's basketball players and coaches as well as entertainment, food, and activities for families and children.

Race questions can be directed to 859-257-5526.

THE UN-COMFORT ZONE

The pleasure principle

by ROBERT EVANS WILSON JR.

Swing and miss. "Strike Two," cried the umpire. I threw one more pitch right in at the player's wrists. He swung hard, but the ball just dribbled right back to the pitcher's mound. I picked it up and gently tossed it to the first baseman for the out.

As the batter turned back toward the dugout, his team captain stepped out and screamed, "Darrell, you've got to get over your fear of this guy!"

The words poured like sweet honey into my ears.

It was the third time I had gotten him out that night including two strike outs. I had completely shut down the best hitter on the best team in the league. It was the most fun I'd had in weeks.

No, I wasn't throwing heat. Quite the contrary, I'm talking about slow-pitch recreational softball for the over-thirty crowd.

But, I was totally into it. Once a week I stood on the mound under the lights with everyone's eye on me. Despite the butterflies in my stomach, I can't imagine anything more exciting (OK, maybe skydiving!).

And, I was totally motivated! I spent several hours each week tossing balls in my driveway. I set up an area with a pitcher's rubber and home plate laid out to the exact dimensions of those on the playing field. After I mastered the two standard softball pitches, I developed two of my own. The best was a softball version of the knuckleball. A spinless ball that baffled batters the first time they saw it, but even when they did hit it - they could never get any distance on it.

I have friends who are obsessed with golf; others with tennis. None of them have a clue what drives me to play softball. But, then again, I don't get why they play golf or tennis.

What motivates me to play softball or for that matter my friends to play golf and tennis? That's easy... it's fun! It is all about having fun... pleasure is very motivating. We all seek some pleasure in life. It's what keeps us going. And, for those pursuits that we enjoy, we are never too tired; we always seem to find time and energy for them. It comes to us easily. If only we could find that kind of relaxed energy for work.

What is it that you can't wait to do everyday? Is it a hobby? A sport? Sigmund Freud described that driving creative spirit as the Pleasure Principle. But, he also spoke of a contrasting principle that existed to put the brakes on our desire called the Death Instinct. Thankfully that theory has been disproved, however, it's still very true that work and no play make Jack a dull boy. Not only dull. Where happiness is absent - health is often absent too.

I look forward to work every day. I have clearly followed the advice of my father who encouraged me to find a job I enjoyed so that I would never "work" a day in my life. In her book Do What You Love, The Money Will Follow: Discovering Your Right Livelihood, Marsha Sinetar tells us to do the same thing. But, what should you do if you're not happy in your work? Make changes! That may be easier said than done. So, if you can't change your job, then change your work environment.

It's a well known fact that employees who enjoy their work are more productive. This is so true that people frequently turn down better paying jobs to stay with one that is fun. There are many ways to make your work-

DOUBLE VISIONS

MAC features artwork of husband-and-wife team

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — The art gallery at the Mountain Arts Center has doubled up for its May Artist of the Month selection, featuring the husband and wife painting duo of William and Sally Salyers.

The Salyers couple have won numerous awards for their art, but neither William or Sally focus on winning awards while they are painting.

According to the biographical information provided by the Mountain Arts Center, "For this husband and wife team, it has never been about winning awards. It is the personal pleasure of expressing their passion for art on canvas. Moreover, their artwork is a means for them to contribute to environmental and animal welfare causes. Donating paintings for these charity auctions, their artwork has raised hundreds of dollars for such organizations."

While the two are both painters who spend their lives together, the work of William and Sally Salyers is very different, especially when it comes to the use of color.

For the paintings of William Salyers, black ink of white canvas is the unique tool utilized to depict the nostalgic eastern Kentucky scenery of his childhood.

William used to work as an art fair artist selling his paintings directly to the public, but it wasn't stable enough work to become a career.

"This is actually my second career as an artist," William said. "I did it in my younger days and gave it up because it was very hard to make a living."

Sally Salyers' paintings are composed of vibrant colors produced by oil and acrylics, and depict landscapes, flowers and the occasional animal.

When Sally started to paint, William tried to get her to exhibit her work, but she told him that she wouldn't do it unless he did as well. That led to his return to the art world.

"I am my wife's teacher," said William, who studied at the Washington School of Art in Washington, New York. "She put in a lot of time and effort and became a pretty good artist, if I do say so myself."

Along with the awards and honors bestowed on the couple for their art, they have also been invited to an international show in Paris, France.

For more information regarding the artwork of William and Sally Salyers, call (606) 652-9335.

Q Recently I was diagnosed with scabies. I was horrified. I am a clean person, my home is clean, and I bathe daily. I work in the health care industry, and my doctor says I might have gotten this from someone else who has this condition. Someone else told me I might have gotten this from my dog. Please help! I need more information, because I don't want to get this again.

A Scabies is a relatively common — and extremely itchy — skin condition. The overwhelming itchiness, which is mild in the beginning and intensifies over time, is often worse at night and can disrupt or prevent sleep. This is the most intense symptom associated with scabies and the one that most often brings people to the doctor's office.

Scabies is caused by a tiny mite, Sarcoptes scabiei — about one-third millimeter long — that burrows under the skin and lays eggs there. Scabies is contagious, but only through direct touch. It is passed through direct physical contact, such as a hug, with an infected individual. It can also be spread through contaminated bedding

Scabies easy to spread, but easy to treat or clothing. Because of this, scabies often does spread within a family.

You cannot get scabies from a dog or cat. The mites that cause mange in dogs cannot live on human skin.

Although the mites that cause scabies in humans are, themselves, too small to be seen by the naked eye, their burrowing creates visible, red bumps and blisters on the skin. These typically appear in skin folds, such as on knees, elbows, belly buttons and between fingers. In children, the burrows sometimes appear on the face or scalp, but this rarely occurs in adults.

The eggs of the scabies mite typically hatch within three weeks, and the severe itching is your body's reaction to the mites burrowing and egg-laying. Be aware that excessive scratching can lead to secondary skin infections, which can complicate the condition.

The good news is that scabies is easily treated. Once the diagnosis is made — either by a simple examination of the skin or by scraping the skin and confirming the presence of eggs — treatment is straightforward. Your doctor will prescribe lotion or cream and, possibly, anti-itch oral medication. Some physicians choose to treat the entire family since this condition spreads easily. The itching can persist for several weeks after the treatment has begun to work. Over-the-counter antihistamines can help relieve the discomfort.

Since mites can live outside of the body for a few days, clean your bed linens, including the bedspread and dust ruffle; wash clothes that have not been washed in hot water and dried on high heat; and use an environmental disinfectant on commonly used furniture to help eradicate the mites from your home. Sometimes you need to put toys and other non-washable items in a sealed plastic bag for about two weeks to kill off the mites.

Scabies spread easily and can become quite uncomfortable, but they also are easily cured. Most importantly, a diagnosis of scabies does not indicate unhygienic habits or surroundings.

TIMES COLUMNIST

A surprisingly good week for releases included three sequels that were better than expected, for the most part, though your best bet was the only original flick in the pack.

■ "Grudge 3" — This is the first film in that series to go straight to video, but it's actually better than part two. The story follows a young Japanese woman who comes to Chicago to finally destroy the titular curse. This one's pretty good and ranks as the only R-rated film in the series.

■ "Underworld 3: Rise of the Lycans" — This prequel shows how the werewolves rebelled against the vampires who had controlled them and sets the stage for the first two films. This one is surprisingly good, with a fierce turn by Rhona Mitra ("Doomsday") as a vampire who falls for a werewolf. There's also plenty of dramatic spark from Bill Nighy and Michael Sheen, who reprise their roles as the head vamp and wolf, respectively.

■ "S. Darko" — This week's dud turns out to be a sequel to "Donnie Darko". This time we follow his sister on a road trip to California, seven years after her brother has died and left the family in pieces. The problem here is that "Darko" was a true original and replicating it is impossible. They fail miserably and offer a lame story about his stopping in a town that gets hit by an asteroid. Strange things follow and there are plenty of nightmare sequences, but it all adds up to nothing.

■ "Taken" — Liam Neeson turns this kidnapping vehicle into a high octane thriller with an intense performance that makes you forget you've seen all of this before. He's very good as a former spy who must regain his skill set when his daughter is nabbed by slave traders. Builds slowly, but the last 45 minutes totally delivers on the "enraged parent takes down the bad guys" motif.

Next week look for Tom Cruise plotting to kill Hitler in "Valhalla" and check out "My Bloody Valentine" in 3-D.

Alivia Nicole Hale was born at 3:42 p.m. at Highlands Regional Medical Center on Feb. 12. She was welcomed by Audrey Ramsey and Cline G. Hale, of Allen. She is the sister of Lucas B. Hale, and her paternal grandparents are Cline and Helen Hale, of Allen, and her maternal grandparents are Winifred Ramsey, of Stanton, and the late John W. Ramsey. She weighed seven pounds and 11 ounces, and was 20 inches long at birth.

Donnie Stump and Stacey Salisbury will be united in marriage at the Prestonsburg Freewill Baptist Church on May 15. Stump is the son of the late Donnie Stump and Sheila Barley Stump, of Millard. He is the grandson of the late William Ray Bartley and Doshie Justice Bartley, of Pikeville, and the late Charlie Stump and the late Ethel Sawyers Stump. Salisbury is the daughter of the late Vernon Salisbury and Easter Young Salisbury, of Hueysville. She is the granddaughter of the late Catherine Rice Salisbury and the late Vernon Buck Salisbury, and the late James Young and the late Marie Maxie Young, of Pikeville.

MISCELLANEOUS TARIFF CHANGES

Miscellaneous Fees
Columbia is proposing to increase the following charges as indicated:

	Current	Proposed
Reconnect Charge (after nonpayment of bills or for violation of tariff)	$25.00	$60.00
Reconnect Charge (after disconnection at customer request) - GS
GS Residential (GSR) (Effective for first year only)	$74.40	$143.36
GS Residential (GSR) (Effective after first year only)	$74.40	$212.24
GS Commercial or Industrial (GSO)	$191.68	$226.24

Late Payment Penalty

Columbia is proposing to assess a late payment penalty of 5%, only once if a customer fails to pay bill by the due date shown on Customer's bill for Residential Service in the same manner as it currently does for Commercial and Industrial service.

IMPACT OF PROPOSED RATES

The foregoing proposed rates designed to recover Columbia's revenue deficiency reflect an increase of approximately 7.03% to Columbia. The estimated amount of increase per customer class is as follows:

Residential	$9,927,944	9.93%
Commercial	$1,160,537	2.06%
Industrial	$57,300	0.78%
Wholesale	$9,084	4.30%
Other	$410,865	60.08%

The average monthly bill for each customer class to which the proposed rates will apply will increase approximately as follows:

Residential	$6.73	8.2%
Commercial	$7.21	1.9%
Industrial	$33.05	0.9%
Wholesale	$378.40	4.3%

The rates contained in this notice are the rates proposed by Columbia; however, the Public Service Commission may order rates to be charged that differ from the proposed rates contained in this notice. In addition to the adjustment of rates described above, Columbia is also seeking Public Service Commission approval of the following:

- the implementation of an Accelerated Main Replacement Program ("AMRP") rider that would enable Columbia to recover its costs as it accelerates the replacement of the aging pipes and facilities on Columbia's system in order to maintain safe and reliable service for customers.
- a change in Columbia's rate design for the GSR and residential SVGTTS rate schedules, which would replace, after a one-year phase-in period, the current Customer Charge and volumetric rate with a fixed Customer Delivery Charge.
- the implementation of a Demand Side Management ("DSM") program to encourage customers to conserve their consumption of natural gas and help reduce their natural gas energy bills, along with an automatic Energy Efficiency Conservation (EEC) adjustment mechanism to recover the costs of the program. Pursuant to KRS 278.285, Columbia is permitted to recover estimated costs associated with its DSM program. The proposed monthly EEC rider for residential customers is $0.76 and is $0.00 for commercial customers per meter per billing period and are not reflected in the rates designed to recover Columbia's base rate revenue deficiency.
- the implementation of an automatic Pension and OPEB Mechanism (POM) adjustment clause that would permit Columbia to recover pension and other post-employment benefit expenses.
- The implementation of a Gas Cost Uncollectible Charge to recover the amount of uncollectible expense attributable to Columbia's commodity cost of gas billed to customers.
- the implementation of a Price Protection Service and a Negotiated Sales Service that will permit Columbia to offer customers a fixed or index price commodity service option in place of the Gas Cost Adjustment.

Any corporation, association, or person may, by written request, within thirty (30) days after publication of this notice of the proposed rate changes, request to intervene; intervention may be granted beyond the thirty (30) day period for good cause shown. Requests to intervene should be submitted to the Public Service Commission at the address listed below.

Any person who has been granted intervention by the Commission may obtain copies of the rate application and any other filings made by the utility by contacting Cynthia Benham at:

Columbia Gas of Kentucky, Inc.
2001 Mercer Road
Lexington, Kentucky 40511-1018
(859) 288-0261

Any person may examine the rate application and any other filings made by Columbia at the offices of Columbia or the Commission, as listed below:

Columbia Gas of Kentucky, Inc.

Frankfort, Kentucky 40602
(502) 564-3940

¹ Customers taking Small Volume Gas Transportation Service are charged the base rate charge and all applicable riders only.

² Applicable to all Rate Schedule DS customers except those served under Grandfathered or Intrastate Utility provisions.

³ Customers electing Small Volume Gas Transportation Service are not charged the gas cost adjustment or Gas Cost Uncollectible Charges.

⁴ Riders and gas cost rates after the first year will be determined by subsequent filings subject to Public Service Commission approval. Only the fixed Customer Delivery Charge and Delivery Charge Per Mcf effective after the first year will be determined in this filing.

⁵ Customers electing Price Protection Service (PPS) are not charged the gas cost or the Gas Cost Uncollectible Charge. PPS customers will be charged a fixed or indexed commodity option.

⁶ Customers electing Negotiated Sales Service (NSS) are not charged the gas cost or the Gas Cost Uncollectible Charge. NSS customers will be charged a fixed or indexed commodity option.

HOME FIRES

America's Biggest Disaster Threat

4 Out Of 5 Americans Are Unaware That Home Fires Are The Most Common Disaster Threat.

Preparedness is your best defense against deadly fires. Use these checklists to make your home safe and prepare your family.

To prevent fires before they start:

- ☐ Never leave burning candles unattended
- ☐ Keep fuel (paper, clothing, bedding) at least three feet away from heat sources

To stay safe from fires:

- ☐ Create a home fire escape plan
- ☐ Practice your plan at least twice a year
- ☐ Install smoke alarms and escape ladders
- ☐ Replace smoke alarm batteries at least once a year
- ☐ Purchase and learn how to use fire extinguishers safely
