This Town... That World

This guy who has squealed on the Mafia will never be any problem to prison officials. All they'll have to do to make him behave is threaten to turn him out.

CURRENT AND SHOWING

I am trying my level best to keep from growing lyrical about this autumn weather and the spreading fall colors.

I might take a fling at writing about the annual resurrection that is spring; of the long, golden days of summer, or of the stillness of a snow-blanketed hillside and its beauty in the moonlight. But I shall not run the range of the spectrum, trying to describe what is beginning to unfold in every mountainside around, these early October days.

Of the season at hand, let me just say this:

If you don't get out this month and see these hills at their loveliest, there's good chance you'll be missing the Greatest Show on Earth—anyway, the greatest that's showing, this season.

HE ASKS ME

That fellow who addresses me as N. K. (Nik) Allen sends along this question:

If you knew the editor was going to tell the absolute truth in your obituary, what would you quit doing now?

QUOTH THE OFFICE BOY

Ever read The Office Boy's Philosophy? Now there's one that has been around—starting where, I do not know, stopping perhaps never. This copy comes from Allan Trout's GREETINGS in The Courier-Journal, and it was supplied to us by Jack Hyden. It runs to this effect:

"Did it ever occur to you that a man's life is full of crosses and temptations? He comes into the world without his consent, and goes out against his will, and the trip between is exceedingly rocky. The (See Story No. 2, Page 8)

FIRST TENANTS MOVE INTO HOUSING UNITS

14 FAMILIES IN LOW-RENT DEVELOPMENT

Living Units Regarded Finest of Kind in Area; Final Inspection Slated

Occupancy of Prestonsburg's brand-new low-rent public housing units began over the week-end, and by Tuesday 14 families were at home there.

Two more families were expected to move in today (Thursday), and other units will be filled as applications are accepted and assignments made to specific units.

Chester Meade, who is in charge of maintenance at the development, moved into one of the three-bedroom units last week, and since that time has been busy, showing the living quarters to applicants and attending to the needs of those who have arrived to live there. The Prestonsburg Municipal Housing Commission is still receiving applications from prospective tenants, although those who already have applied are more than enough to fill all the units.

Asked his impressions of the development, one tenant replied with a question of his own: "Where in Prestonsburg could you get a place such as this, with gas and water bills paid, for less than $75 to $100 a month?"

The average rental at the housing development is $39 a month. Another said, "I think I'm going to like it fine, but I've got to find a place to keep my dog."

Pets are not allowed at the development.

The rumor given circulation here to the effect that tenants may not have visitors is untrue, however. Each unit is equipped with water heater, furnace, electric stove and refrigerator. Wiring and plumbing outlets are ready for washers, and the possibility of provision for dryers is being studied.

The bright interiors, new furnishings, the exteriors of brick and glass, new streets, large playground area for children—all these add up to what some say is the finest public housing development in the region.

Occupancy of the units awaited temporary sewerage which the city was required to supply at a cost of about $1,000. This will be supplied when the sewer system now under construction is completed. Television reception will be made available at the development soon, it was said.

WHISKEY, BEER CONFISCATED

Trooper Goble Arrests Roland Howell, Saturday; Trial Slated October 14

Roland Howell was jailed here Saturday by State Trooper Don Goble who arrested him at Sizemore and confiscated whiskey and beer from the car which Howell was driving.

He later pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving but demanded trial on a liquor transporting charge. His trial on this count was set for October 14 in quarterly court.

Howell told authorities he did not know whose car he was driving, but a check at the County Clerk's office revealed that the vehicle is registered in the name of Lou Heddy Johnson, now a resident of Ohio. The same car, Trial Commissioner Glenn Burchett said, has figured on one or two other occasions in liquor raids.

A peace bond in the amount of $1,000 was asked Monday by County Judge Henry Stumbo for the release of T. J. Kendrick, who allegedly threatened Mrs. Cassie J. Allen, Prestonsburg attorney, the previous Saturday. Trial of Kendrick was interrupted Monday by his outburst. Failing to calm the defendant, Judge Stumbo remanded him to jail.

Others booked within the week and charges against them: Paul Hall, no operator's license, arrested by State Trooper Larry Hatton; Charles Spradlin, obtaining money under false pretense, Deputy Sheriffs Sam Hale and Lonnie Herald.

CHANGEOVER MADE, OCT. 1, AT McDOWELL

Some Policy Changes Announced by Board; Hospitals Re-Named

"Except for some policy changes, we simply are continuing the work already begun," said J. Fred Bingham, administrator of the former McDowell Memorial Hospital, Monday, the first day that hospital and four others were operated by Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc.

Mr. Bingham, who transferred to McDowell from Williamson, West Virginia, has been at McDowell the last month, and the transition from operation of the institution by the Miners Memorial Hospital Association to operation by Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc. was effected without stir or difficulty.

One of the biggest changes was in the names of the hospitals, the words, "Appalachian Regional Hospital," following the name of the community where each institution is located. For example, the Floyd hospital will be known as McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK
 The Civil War in Kentucky
 By JOE JORDAN
 (Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, Kentuckians were fighting on both sides in the bloody two-day Battle of Chickamauga, September 19 and 20. Thirteen Kentucky regiments were on the Union side, five regiments and one artillery battery with the Rebels. The result was a Confederate victory, but one not wholly satisfactory to Richmond.
 The only Kentucky officer of general rank in the Union Army at Chickamauga was Maj. Gen. Thomas L. Crittenden, but the Confederates had Maj. Gen. Simon B. Buckner, then 40 years old and commanding an army corps, destined to become governor of the Commonwealth twenty-four years later; Maj. Gen. John C. Breckinridge, M.J. Gen. John B. Hood and Brig. Gen. William Preston, each commanding a division, and Brig. Gen. Ben Hardin Helm, a brigade commander. Helm, whose wife was a half-sister of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, was killed in the second day's fighting.
 In seven Kentucky counties, during the week under review, the Union Army was impressing 500 Negro slaves, to be put to work to supply the Louisville & Nashville Railroad with, as Special Order No. 210 expressed it, "the quantity of firewood required to do government business." The order, issued at military headquarters in Louisville, said the railroad company had not been able to employ the number of laborers needed. The L. & N. was a vital means of supplying the huge Federal armies then in the South.
 The commander of the army post at Russellville was to impress men in Logan and Todd counties; the Bowling Green commander, in Warren and Simpson counties, and the Munfordsville commander, in Hart, Barren and Hardin counties. With the delicacy affected in those days, the writer of the order had avoided using the word "slaves," and nothing in the order even hinted that such an institution as slavery existed. "When a citizen has but one Negro laborer, he will not be impressed," the order said. "In case a person has more than one and less than four, one is to be impressed." (Evidently "more than one and less than four" was the military way of saying "two or three.") If a citizen had more than four such laborers, one-third could be impressed.

 A dispatch to the Louisville Journal, from Headquarters U. S. Forces, Glasgow, said: "I see by your issue of yesterday that you are aware that a horde of demons incarnate have been prowling around us for some days past. This is true, and a record of their doings would shame the most remorseless scoundrels our country has ever produced. That the robbers are not misquidged Rebels is evident from the fact that Union men and Southern sympathizers were indiscriminately robbed. You will perhaps want to know what the forces at Glasgow have been doing. We answer, all that we could. We have here enough infantry to save the place and the indispensable government stores and a few squads of cavalry—in all, I suppose, not exceeding 75—but not half enough to go out into the hills and thickets and attack the lot."

Regional Meeting Slated At May Lodge, Oct. 8-10; To Talk New Legislation
 More than 1,000 local school board members and local district school superintendents will attend 12 regional meetings planned and sponsored by the Kentucky School Boards Association.

The 12 work sessions scheduled for October will be held in the 12 educational regions of the state— from South Marshall high school in deep Western Kentucky to Jenny Wiley State Park in Eastern Kentucky.
 The meeting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, is scheduled next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.
 William R. Black, chairman of the Paducah Board of Education and President of the State School Boards Association, has announced that three principal topics of current interest to school board members, school administrators, and citizens will be presented and discussed at each of the 12 conferences:

1. The 1964 KSBA Legislative Program—which deals with local and state financing of education, revision of the Teacher Tenure Law, and a proposal to provide for the appointment of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction by an elected State Board of Education.
  2. In-Service Education for School Administrators.
  3. The Responsibilities and Liability of Local School Board Members.
- School board members and administrators, serving as regional officers, will direct the meeting held in their respective geographic area. Educational leaders and specialists will be on hand to counsel and advise with school board members.

THE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL
 It was back in 1908 that our Kentucky General Assembly passed a law that provided for a county high school in each county of the states. Some counties hastened to open such schools and began the long tradition of public education on the secondary level. Some counties hesitated until reminded of their duties. Some of the high schools that were first established were in out-of-the-way corners of the county because the county seat had an independent graded system and was not at all ready for another high school to be established at the central location. Then came a perfect epidemic of county high schools, until one large county had fourteen, most of them offering four years, with a few that were junior high schools. It did not take many years to convince the county superintendents and the tax-collectors that something would have to be done about the large number of small schools; meanwhile the accrediting agencies were wide awake, and regularly warned small high schools to standardize or consolidate with other schools. Within fairly recent years even the most obstinate communities have been convinced that the days of the tiny high school are over, that it is now necessary to widen the boundaries. In some small counties this modern trend has resulted in a single, well-equipped high school for a whole county; in larger areas the regional idea has prevailed, so that there may be two to four standardized high schools to replace the dozen or more smaller, less-recognized ones. It has been my experience that the new units have nearly always found themselves unified in an astonishingly short time. Certainly the pupils whom I have talked to have been proud of their larger school and its wider opportunities for education.
 There has arisen, then, within a very few years, a new conception of the county high school, so far as many counties are concerned. Sectional jealousies have had to retire from their prominence; it seems easy to adjust to new ideas and to remember that the children are, after all, the reason why schools exist.
 Of the more than 300 commencement addresses that I have given before high schools, more than half were at schools now discontinued. In my later experiences I am hardly Frankfort was the only capital of a non-seceding state to be captured by Confederate forces during the Civil War. The Union forces began their bombardment just as Richard Hawes was being installed as Confederate governor.

Wild Turkey Hunting Season Is Scheduled; Opening Date Nov. 1

Something new has been added to the hunting scene in Kentucky this fall. For the first time in many, many years there'll be a wild turkey hunting season in a selected section of the state, where stocked turkey have progressed to the point where a short hunting season is feasible.

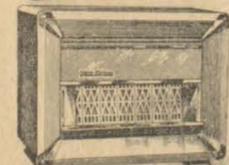

The turkey hunting season opens on November 1 and continues through November 3 and the area to be hunted is described as follows: That portion of Pulaski and McCreary counties, east of U. S. Route 27, north of Kentucky Route 90 and south of Kentucky Route 80 (excepting the Beaver Creek Wildlife Management Area), Perry, Breathitt, Knott (including Robinson Forest Wildlife Management Area), Clay and Leslie (including Ford Wildlife Management Area), that portion of Jackson county lying west of U. S. Route 421, Wolfe, Powell and that portion of Menifee county lying south of U. S. Route 460.

All that is required of the hunter is that he have a valid Kentucky hunting license; that only shotguns not larger than 12 gauge or smaller than 20 gauge be used; that only shot shell be used (slugs are prohibited), and that no sidearms be carried by the hunter. Only one turkey of either sex may be taken during the entire season and when a hunter has bagged his one turkey he is required to leave the field and cannot assist his buddy in his hunting. The use of dogs is prohibited. One other thing, residents of those states that do not allow residents of Kentucky to hunt turkey in their states during the open season may not hunt turkeys in Kentucky.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Politically speaking, 47 million American anglers can't be wrong—because there now are that many of us. So our elective officials, from village to national, had better wake up with a start of surprise to the fact that we're an awful lot of voters. Therefore, when we ask for some new legislation or endorsement of practically dormant laws pertaining to our sport, they'd be unwise to yawn in our faces and turn their backs, as they've so often done.

We can't make use of our strength without realizing it.

We have always seen large differences in estimates of the number of anglers in this country. One unfamiliar with the matter might think it easy to discover definitely—just find out how many fishing licenses are sold in each state and add them up. It isn't that simple, for many indeed can legally fish without licenses.

When the U. S. Bureau of the Census published actual nose-count figures, it had found 47 million of us! Over double what most had estimated.

This, for some strange reason, wasn't counting all the youngsters under 12 who fish, though a lot of them are really good at it. Counting all these youngsters, we unquestionably have well over 50 million who fish!

The average fisherman fished 11.9 days a year.

About 35 percent of the population over 12 fished during the year.

We all know that far more men fish than women. So what number of American men fish now? "I sit blinking at my typewriter, afraid to write what seems obvious—well over 50 percent," says Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

The survey showed that in the year there were 560 million man-days spent fishing—but only 50 million man-days in water skiing. In short, there was over ten times as much fishing as water skiing. This though water skiers, like buzzing hornets, can seem far more numerous than they are.

So we, in a ten-to-one majority, could easily get passage, and enforcement (rare now!), of laws to keep an all too common type of water skier from buzzing us, ruining our fishing and often endangering our lives. Remember this when the next fellow comes up, shakes your hand, kisses the baby and asks you to vote for him.

Pikeville Evangelist Dies of Heart Attack At Zanesville, Ohio

Rev. Raymond Willis, 53, Pikeville evangelist and editor, died Sunday at a Zanesville, Ohio, hospital after suffering a heart attack earlier in the day at Zanesville.

He had delivered a sermon at a Zanesville church Sunday morning.

He was a member of Wesleyan Methodist Church, a minister of the Household of Faith, and editor of a missionary newspaper. He and his wife had devoted themselves to extensive evangelistic travel. They had a growing missionary project in Jamaica and Haiti and were to return to those fields next year.

A native of Gallipolis, Ohio, Willis came to Pikeville in 1933.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Willis; two sons, Raymond H. Willis, Cincinnati, and Daniel H. Willis, Pikeville; three daughters, Mrs. Charles Epling and Mrs. Melvin Huber, both of Pikeville, and Mrs. James Nelson, Lewisport, Kentucky, and a brother, Darwin Willis, and a sister, Mrs. Wayne Thivener, both of Columbus, Ohio.

Funeral rites were conducted Thursday at the Pikeville Pilgrim Holiness Church.

We wish to thank all who visited, brought food, sent flowers and offered their sympathy upon the death of our brother, Bill Blanton. We are grateful to the officiating ministers, James Harmon, James E. #### THE ANT LION, CALLED "DOODLEBUG," AMAZING CREATURE OF NATURE

Children and most oldsters also know the little ant lion as "the doodlebug,"—but it's not a bug! Always lying concealed at the bottom of its circular sand pit, waiting patiently for an ant to tumble in, this little creature is rarely seen—unless one coaxes it out. It can be lured out of its pit, as many school kids know. Some of them use a "charm," bending low over the pit and chanting: "Doodlebug, doodlebug, come and get your fire coal."

If the chant is kept up, there'll soon be a stir in the sand at the bottom of the pit and the grayish, hairy little fellow will be seen caving in around in the sand; the movements are no doubt due to the breath of the "ant lion charmer"; loosening grains of sand, which causes the doodlebug to decide there's a juicy ant somewhere in the offing. The ant lion is one of the most remarkable creatures known to naturalists; it has the patience of Job, the ferocity of a lion, the slyness of a fox, the venom of a rattlesnake in its jaws; it plays dead like a possum when captured, and has the doughty skill of a Roman warrior who battered down his enemy's fort with a catapult. The ant lion hurls grains of sand and overpowers his prey, which may be an ant or a hapless bug that ventured too near his treacherous pit. And yet, naturalists say, most ant lions are not "hes," but "shes," or females, sort of female Amazons! They are drab and hairy and would not go far in winning a beauty contest, for they look like an overgrown hog louse with a hump back like a camel. They may spend two or more years at the bottom of the pit, waiting with the patience of Job for some insect to venture into the trap. No one knows how long the ant lion can go without food, but when it does secure a juicy ant to devour, it gives it a paralyzing sting with its hypodermic needles, which secrete a deadly venom; then it buries the ant and waits a little while. It is also one insect that never crawls forward, but always backward like a crawfish. Although it is extremely grotesque, drab and ugly, its mother is a most handsome creature, and to watch her darting about on her fine, gauzy wings, one would never dream she could give birth to such drab and ferocious offspring!

If one walks under an overhanging cliff in early summer, he may see as many as one hundred of the round little pits excavated in the dry soil or sand. The ant lion digs or works backward as it excavates the pit. When tiny pebbles fall in, the ant lion will get behind each one and laboriously push it to the top, as it seems to like a clear, clean pit, a home free of all obstructions, with a fair view. It has to depend upon luck for its survival and sometimes must wait for weeks before Mother Nature pitches in and helps it by sending a luckless ant too near the pit. But then nature has always on hand an overabundance of ants and can afford to sacrifice a few for the benefit of the ant lions, which help Nature maintain a balance in the ant kingdom.

When the ant lion has lived in its pit for a year or so, it then begins a most amazing feat—that of making its cocoon out of strands of silk and grains of sand; it lies first on its back and spins out the strands of silk, attaching them to grains of sand, until enough of these are cemented together to make a hemisphere; then it turns over and spins the other half, cementing grains of sand together, and when it is finished, the ant lion is sealed up inside a globe-shaped cocoon, in which it spends the winter. In the spring, it will burst out one side of the cocoon, unfurl its gauzy wings, and stretch out in the sun, being now a beautiful creature, with two pairs of gauzy wings, six legs, and two short, club-shaped antennae and a needle-like abdomen about two inches long. This sylphlike creature is now ready to wing across fields, woods and meadows in search of a mate and adventure, and after a few brief weeks of flying in the open spaces, enjoying life to the fullest, the beautiful female ant lion lays her eggs in dry soil, and then succumbs, leaving behind a drab progeny of hairy little creatures with amazing powers of survival.

The little ant lions may be captured and placed in a heap of dry granulated sugar, in which they will construct their pitfalls, similar to those in dry sand. Thus a strange cycle of nature is completed. The adult ant lions belong to an order of insects called, Neuroptera, insects with nerved wings. The females look like dragonflies and have wings with beautiful netted veins, arranged in fantastic criss-cross patterns. To look at one of the drab little ant lions half hidden in a hollow sand pit, one could scarcely realize that from such a strange creature there would some day emerge a beautiful Cinderella lady with gauzy wings and a slender, streamlined body.

What's Going On in FISH & WILDLIFE
by MINOR CLARK, Commissioner
Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources

It has been but a few weeks since the announcement was made of the 1963 waterfowl season and already many inquiries are being made about the bag limits of the various species. Ducks seem to be causing the most confusion although the regulations, we thought, pretty well explained just how many and what species may be taken in one day. But the legal manner in which the federal regulations are written may need a bit of unscrambling which we will attempt to do.

In plain old English the bag limit per day is four ducks. After two or more days of hunting a possession limit of eight may be held. That's fairly easy to understand in any kind of language. Now, here's the catch. It's the makeup of the limit. It's simply this. A person may have but four ducks after a day's hunting and the four may consist of not more than one hooded merganser; two wood ducks; two mallards or two black ducks, singly or in aggregate of both kinds. Further reduced it means that a hunter, if he kills two mallards, may not kill a black duck; if he gets one mallard he may harvest one black duck; if he kills two black ducks he may not harvest a mallard; if he kills one black duck, he may kill one mallard.

Then, after he has killed his two in aggregate of mallards and blacks, he may add two wood ducks to his

Soil Conservation

BY L. R. JOHNSON

H. B. Patrick, whose farm is located on Abbott Creek has recently completed a flood damage job through the 1963 Emergency ACP Program. The job consisted of sloping creek banks and filling scoured places in adjoining fields. The entire disturbed area was seeded.

Mr. Patrick also revised his Soil and Water Conservation plan with the help of Henry Amos of the Soil Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture. He plans to use his Class I land or bottom land for continuous corn, followed by cover crops, and to keep his steep land in permanent pasture and woodland. Other practices he intends to carry out are an additional 200 feet of tile to be installed in the fall.

bag, making four. However, since the limit is four he could not kill a hooded merganser. But, if he kills only one wood duck, which added to his two mallards and blacks in aggregate makes three, he may fill out his limit with a hooded merganser. Just double this line of thinking and you'll have your legal possession limit, which may be held only after two or more days of hunting.

Here's something that is easy to remember. The statewide duck season opens at noon on December 1 and continues through January 4. Shooting hours for the first day of the season are from noon to sunset; on all other days the hours are from sunrise to sunset. An encouraging note: There are many more mallards this year than for the past several seasons.

Freak seas, monstrous waves from the depths of a storm-tossed ocean, according to Reader's Digest, sometimes roll over ships so quickly that there is no time to launch lifeboats or radio a distress call. This may have been the fate of the "Marine Sulphur Queen," a 525-foot tanker that vanished last February with a cargo of sulphur and all hands on the way from Beaumont, Texas, to Norfolk, Virginia.

Scientists are battling the boll weevil and the Oriental fruit fly by sabotaging the sex life of the males. There are more than 50 chemicals, according to the October Reader's Digest, that induce sterility in them. The screw-worm fly population has been reduced greatly already by using cobalt radiation to sterilize the males. Since they mate but once no off-spring results.

SEVEN MEN ENJOY CAMPING
UNDER RED SEA 29 DAYS

If you went camping this summer, you probably enjoyed roughing it for a few days. But seven men recently had all the comforts of home as they spent 29 days in a unique "camp" 45 feet under the Red Sea near Port Sudan.

Their remarkable camping trip was directed by the famous French oceanographer, Jacques-Yves Cousteau (Coo-sto) — inventor of the Aqua-Lung. The experiment showed that men can live for long periods underwater without great hardship.

It brings closer the day when colonies of men will live for months at the bottom of the sea—growing algae, herding fish, and tapping the mineral wealth of the oceans.

The underwater campers used several odd-shaped steel buildings. The main one, shown in the picture, had four rooms of a central hall. Air was supplied by a pipeline from the surface. A smaller house was anchored 100 feet below the surface.

Inside the main building the men enjoyed air-conditioning, shower-baths, comfortable furniture, and television. Tasty meals were served from a sparkling, modern kitchen.

The oceanauts spent five hours a day away from camp, exploring and photographing life on the coral reef. They put on skin-diving gear and swam to a nearby "garage" where their two-man diving saucer was parked. This little craft maneuvers and hovers like a helicopter as far down as 1,000 feet below the surface. By living in underwater homes, the men avoided the hours spent in decompression chambers, which are necessary every time a diver surfaces. A doctor dived down to them every day to check their physical condition. At the end of their 29 days under the Red Sea, they were found to be in good health. Their morale was high.

A team of 60 men on the surface supported the undersea camp. Captain Cousteau directed the expedition from his oceanographic vessel, the Calypso. One day Captain Cousteau came below with his wife, Simone, to celebrate their 26th anniversary underwater. They brought a cake to share with the campers.

Next summer, Captain Cousteau plans to set up a larger and deeper underwater village in the Mediterranean Sea.

Someday, he believes, men will live in cities on the bottom of the oceans. They will have hospitals, theaters, and bowling alleys.

He is even thinking about providing men with artificial gills so they can be as at home living underwater as the fishes.—CURRENT EVENTS.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from files of The Floyd County Times of 30, 20 and 10 years ago.)

Thirty Years Ago

(October 6, 1933)

Forty-eight Floyd county boys go to Paintsville, Friday, for examination for service in the Citizens' Conservation Corps as a part of the "forest army" of 2,600 which is now being recruited from 19 Eastern Kentucky counties. Felix Kierowski, Lackey miner, who recently was shot through the chest and seriously wounded by Bob Ramey after he had struck Epp Lafferty, Lackey officer, over the head with a club, was able Monday to be removed from the Paintsville hospital to the county jail here. Three golfers remain in the running for the championship of the Abbott Heights Country Club. They are: E. E. Clark, E. P. Hill, Jr., and W. G. Stiles. The basketball game between Garrett and Bonanza, the first official game to be held in Garrett's new gymnasium, resulted in a 14-10 victory for Garrett. Construction of the Wheelwright school building is almost complete. Stewart, Powers & Carter, contractors, said this week. Huzzah! J. F. Ribble, Jr., playing the 163-yard No. 7 hole of the Abbott Heights Country Club course swarped his tee shot with a No. 4 iron, incredulously watched the ball sail straight for the green and—on the fly—plunk slap into the hole and stick for a hole-in-one. Married: Miss Louise Dunn and Dr. R. C. Burks, both of Prestonsburg, September 23, at the Methodist Church, Prestonsburg; Miss Marie Stevens, of Dixie, Kentucky, and Mr. James Salisbury, Jr., of Prestonsburg, August 31, in Lexington. There died: Thomas Adams, 16, of Garrett, at the home of his grandfather in Pikeville; Leslie (Butch) Porter, 26 years old, of Emma, in the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, Monday.

Twenty Years Ago

(October 2, 1943)

As the end of the Third War Loan drive drew in sight Floyd county was less than two-thirds of the way toward attaining its quota of $893,100. Of 228 selectees who left here last Friday for final pre-induction examination at Huntington, only 102 were accepted as mentally and physically fit for service with the armed forces. The revolver bullet wound from which he had lingered since September 5 resulted in the death Thursday, last week, at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey, of Bill Miller, 40-year-old Glo miner. Raney Everett Williams, 38 years old, of Hueysville, machine helper in the Goose Creek Mining Company's mine at Hueysville, was killed Thursday night, last week, when caught beneath a slab of slate of several tons. rule of contraries is one of the features of this trip.
"When he is little, the big girls kiss him; when he is big, the little girls kiss him. If he is poor, he is a bad manager; if he is rich, he is dishonest. If he needs credit, he can't get it; if he is prosperous, everyone wants to do him a favor.
"If he is in politics, it is for graft; if he is out of politics, he is no good to the country. If he doesn't give to charity, he is a stingy cuss; if he does, it is for show. If he is actively religious, he is a hypocrite; if he takes no interest in religion, he is a hardened sinner.
"If he gives affection, he is a soft specimen; if he cares for no one, he is cold-blooded. If he dies young, there was a great future for him; if he lives to an old age, he missed his calling."

An interim policy statement on staffing the ARHI hospitals states that "it is the policy of the corporation to operate hospitals for the benefit of the total communities and in the interests of establishing the highest possible quality of service."
The staffing policy adopted will prevail for the first nine months of operation—that is, from October 1, 1963, to June 30, 1964. Beginning July 1, 1964, there will be a yearly review of all staff appointments. Beginning with that date, appointments will last for one year.

The new policy provides that all physicians who have held staff appointments under the Miners Memorial Association will be kept on the staff in their present categories until June 30, 1964, without resubmitting credentials.
Doctors who have not practiced in the hospitals but who may wish to do so as they become non-profit voluntary hospitals may now apply for appointments to the staff by submitting their credentials to a pro tem credentials committee that will be immediately set up in each of the hospitals.
This committee will send its recommendations to the credentials committee of the regional staff that is forming. Final action on applications will be made as quickly as possible by the regional committee.
Of the decision to grant nine month appointments to former Miners Memorial Hospital staff, the Board said:

"The decision of the Board in respect to the existing staff is not in any way a blanket commitment to any physician who is presently on the staffs of the hospitals, either in solo or in group practice. Appointments shall be in keeping with the policy governing appointments of staffs of voluntary hospitals and shall be in accordance with the recommendations of the Commission on Accreditations; namely, that appointments are for one year and subject to review and renewal on a year to year basis."
It is the Board's intention, the statement continued, that all doctors practicing in the ARHI hospitals constitute one regional staff that will coordinate specialty services, provide for consultations and the use of facilities.
Local medical staff organizations will also be set up by physicians on the staffs of the hospitals to supervise and develop services and patient care within each of the hospitals.
The trustees also said that until plans can be drawn and money secured to build doctors' offices outside the hospital buildings, offices would be rented to staff doctors. The board also pledged that every effort would be made to provide offices outside the hospitals as quickly as possible. They directed their new executive director, Karl S. Klicka, M.D., to begin immediate discussions to implement the action.
The Board, said the trustees, "invites inquiries and participation by all physicians in the utilization of existing space and in the program for the development of office space . . . in separate office buildings."
During their meeting the trustees pointed out that the hospitals will continue to provide emergency services and give in-patient care to those who are without funds.
They also named Lexington, Kentucky, their administrative headquarters and heard a report that the United Mine Workers Welfare and Retirement Fund will use ARHI hospitals as well as others in the communities for the care of eligible Fund beneficiaries.

MISSIONARIES TO SPEAK IN COUNTY

REV. BAUSUM

Ten churches of Enterprise Association, Kentucky Baptist Convention, will hear during the period, October 6-11, first-hand reports from men and women who have been working in the foreign, home and state mission fields.

Ten missionaries have been assigned to the churches during next week, which will be marked by simultaneous schools of missions in churches of the Association. Beginning on Sunday morning, thereafter continuing each evening through Friday of next week, a missionary-speaker will appear at these Floyd county churches: First Baptist at Allen, Garrett, First Baptist at Martin, Wheelwright and Irene Cole Memorial here.

Other churches of the Association participating in the School of Missions program are Licking River, West Van Lear, Warfield, Paintsville and Inez. The Rev. W. D. Jagers, pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, is director of the Association program.

To speak in the several churches, reporting to individual congregations on the mission work which they are helping to finance and on the needs and opportunities for mission service, will be:

The Rev. Robert L. Bausum, who has served for 33 years as a Southern Baptist missionary in the Orient—24 years in Southern China and later, after the Communists occupation of China, in Formosa.

Euva Majors Bausum, wife of the Rev. Bausum, who was a missionary to China 27 years and to Formosa for seven years before her retirement in 1958. She was a teacher in her native Texas prior to her appointment to overseas mission service in 1924.

Miss Mary Sue Mueth, secretary at the headquarters office of the Indonesian Baptist Mission in Djakarta, Java. A native of Henderson county, Kentucky, she received her mission appointment in 1955.

The Rev. Frank DiMaggio, a native of Italy, who has served as a missionary to his people in Louisiana and Illinois. Although now retired, he serves as an approved worker in camps and schools of missions.

Rev. Charles E. Castell, now superintendent of missions of Phelps Association in Missouri, also a former pastor and did mission work with other Missouri associations of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Rev. Murl Platt, a district missionary in Louisiana since 1955, working among the French-speaking people along the bayous of southern Louisiana. He earlier was a missionary to Spanish-speaking residents of the Sabine Rivery section of that state, was a general missionary with the Louisiana Baptist Convention and also served as pastor.

Elbert Ross Isbell, a native of New Mexico and a missionary of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board to the Indians in Southern Alabama. He became a missionary in 1957, also serving Texas and Alabama pastorates.

Joe T. Poe, secretary of the Sunday School department of the Baptist Spanish Publishing House, El Paso, Texas, which produces literature used in more than 40 countries. He served in Chile as a missionary.

Others who will speak at the various churches during the week are Dwight Lyons, Baptist Student Union director at Eastern Kentucky State College, Richmond, and Bob Wayne, Kentucky Baptist Convention Training Union director.

RAYS OF REVIVAL

for Baptists and Unchurched People

DEAR FRIEND

I address you as "friend." Some of you I have known for many years, having been pastor at Allen for a couple of years. Some of you I have never seen. But I consider all of you as friends. There are few words in our language that express a warmer feeling than the word "friend." Jesus said in John 15:15, "I have called you friends."

Evangelist Winn T. Barr

The Baptist Church at Allen has invited me to come for a period of special services. I shall be trying to preach the glorious gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ each evening, October 21-30. I am your neighbor in London, Kentucky.

I come with no "clap trap" high-pressure methods, but with the simple message of the gospel. I'm writing this column to invite you to attend the services, hoping to have the privilege of meeting you in the very first one. Visitors from other churches are welcome, but Baptists and unchurched people have a duty to come with open minds and seeking hearts. It will make me happy when I get there for you to tell me that you read my column.

A little girl became lost in her neighborhood and walked, crying, down the street. The police in a patrol car came by and saw the little girl crying. The suggestion was made that they drive around the neighborhood and perhaps she would see her home. They soon passed by a Church, and the little girl's face brightened as she cried out, "Let me out here." She explained that she knew her way home from there.

It is good for us, again and again, when we face discouragement, when we face decision, when we face temptation, to go back to the day God worked a miracle in our lives, and then use that as a starting point in our thinking and in our decision. It is good to go back to Church. "I can find my way home from Church," said the little girl, YOU CAN TOO! IT POINTS THE WAY TO HEAVEN.

RED HERRING—There's more behind this Parole Board ruckus that resulted in the resignation of Director Milford Wells of Morehead than meets the eye or has been published. In a sense, Mr. Wells has been tried by metropolitan journalistic practices. Perhaps the correct version will be brought to light. From facts on our desk we recognize that the truth will reflect more creditably on Mr. Wells; i.e., Mr. Wells made strong recommendations about this very case almost a year before it broke, but his advice was ignored. This case, in many aspects, is like sucking eggs and throwing the shells under the desk of the Director of Probation and Parole.

Layne Says College Poll Shows Nunn A Winner

Larry Layne, state campaign chairman for Nunn-Lawrence, declared last Friday that "there is every indication we are going to win the election November 5th by a good margin."

Layne released a poll taken at Campbellsville College at Campbellsville, Kentucky on Thursday, September 26, which showed that 53.1 per cent of students are for Louie B. Nunn and 37.5 per cent for Edward Breathitt, with a 9.4 per cent undecided. The question asked by Southern Surveys, Inc., which took the poll was, according to Layne, "Are you for Nunn or Breathitt for Governor?"

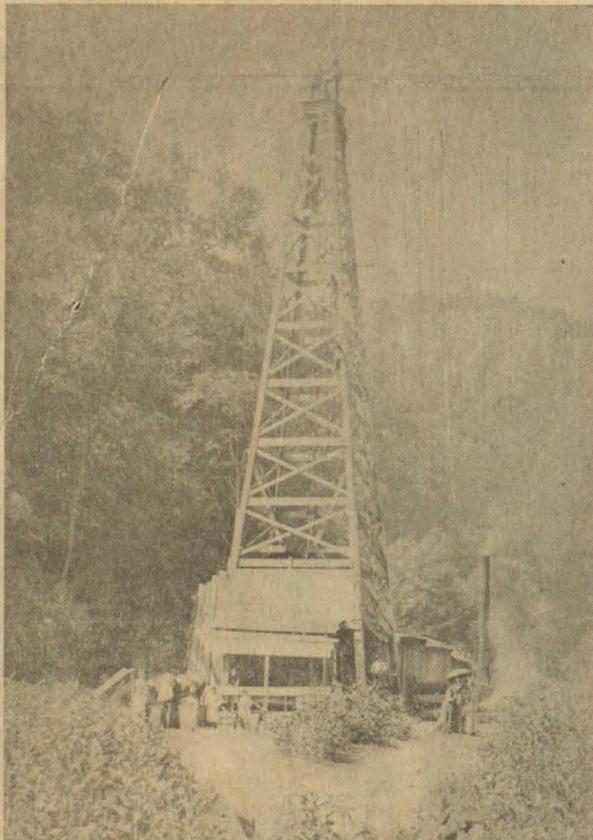

"A poll just completed by the Glasgow newspaper indicates that about 65 per cent of voters in Barren county are going to vote for Louie Nunn and 35 per cent for Breathitt," Layne added.

First Pike County Oil Well

Probably the first Pike county, Kentucky, oil well was drilled on Cedar Creek south of Pikeville in 1894. The power to run the drilling machinery was generated by a steam boiler.

PIKE ELEVEN DOWNS CATS

Paintsville Tigers Move
Into Tie with Ludlow;
Wheelwright Is Loser

The Paintsville Tigers moved into a first place tie with Ludlow in the Class A, Second district of Region 3 in the high school football playoffs as they passed Catlettsburg with a 12-0 setback.

Elkhorn City, also in the same district, aided the Tiger cause as they downed Fleming-Neon, 6-0, Saturday for win No. 4 and Fleming's first district loss in three games.

Jenkins stayed atop the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference standings, despite a non-loop loss to Lynch, 27-6. By virtue of its triumph over Fleming-Neon, Jack Hall's Cougars remained half a game back of the Cavaliers in league play with a 4-1 mark as compared with Jenkins' 4-0 slate.

In other area action, Pikeville's Panthers downed Prestonsburg, 21-7, for a 3-1-1 season effort; Whitesburg blasted M. C. Napier, 34-6; Hazard returned to its winning ways in whipping Belfry, 19-0, and Wheelwright lost its sixth successive game in bowing, 21-13, to Rowan County.

Senior halfback D. B. Kazee scored his tenth touchdown of the season in the second quarter on a three-yard run in pacing the Paintsville Tigers to their fourth successive triumph. Paul Pack scored the other six-point on an eight-yard trek in the last half.

Halfback Arthur Marinaro grabbed a pass from Bob Brooks in the last 40 seconds as Elkhorn City scored to nip Fleming-Neon, 6-0, Saturday night. The teams were scoreless until the final seconds when Marinaro tallied on the 17-yard pass. Neither team had threatened before in the sea of mud.

Butch Green scored twice, on runs of 21 and 4 yards, in pacing Hazard over Belfry. End Jimmy Walker tallied the Bull Dogs' other score on a 28-yard pass from quarterback Ken Tate. Belfry failed to muster a sustained drive and was limited to 169 yards.

Pikeville built up a 21-7 halftime lead over Prestonsburg, then held on in the last half, although outplayed, to post its third victory of the campaign.

The Panthers took the opening kickoff and marched to yardline in 13 plays with fullback Jimmy Moore scampering over from the seven. Barry Runyon booted the first of three extra points.

Byron Murphy set up the next Pikeville t.d. as he grabbed a wobbly pass on the Prestonsburg 40-yard stripe. Four plays later, Jimmy Ratliff raced in from the eight.

Prestonsburg came soaring back, midway the second frame on an 81-yard, 11-play drive that saw halfback Chalmer Howard move in for the six pointer. Howard also ran for the point after.

Jimmy Moore sped in from two yards out before the half ended. Prestonsburg's refusal of a 15-yard penalty on the 30-yard line was the big factor in the Panther score.

In the third quarter, Pikeville had the ball for only one down and fumbled on that one, but Prestonsburg was stopped twice on the 10-yard line.

Jenkins held favored Lynch to a 13-6 lead through three periods but felled in the fourth quarter as the Bull Dogs sent James Hawkins and Glen Wood in for t.d.'s. Senior halfback Buddy Hayes gave the losers a short-lived 6-0 second quarter lead on a two-yard pay-off run.

Kentucky is winning its battle against brucellosis in cattle. All of the state's 120 counties are now "modified certified brucellosis areas," meaning that less than one percent of the cattle and less than five percent of the herds in each county are free of the infection.

CAGE CLINIC MONDAY NIGHT

The 15th regional official rules basketball clinic will be held in Pikeville's T. W. Oliver Memorial Gymnasium Monday night, October 7, at 7 o'clock. All coaches in the region and officials who expect to officiate basketball games this season must be in attendance.

Coaches are asked to bring their timekeepers and scorekeepers to the clinic as Director Charlie Vettner would like for them to understand the 1963-1964 rules changes, which are many.

E. B. May, Jr., of Prestonsburg, is the region's official rules director.

The region will have the biggest turnover in history this season as 11 schools have new basketball coaches. The biggest change came in the 59th district (Johnson, Lawrence and Martin counties) where five schools changed.

Jim Wheeler steps back in at Paintsville high after a four-year absence; Joe Blankenship replaces Roger Gambill at Blaine; Hershel Walsh is the new mentor at Louisa; Bobby Williamson moves up at Inez; Everett Horn, Jr., and Johnny Williams takes over for Johnny Marcum at Warfield.

Oil Springs has a new man in Orville Conley, and Salyersville also has a replacement for departed Leonard Carpenter.

The 58th district (Floyd county) did not have a change.

David Miller, junior halfback, was named Black Cat Player of the Week in Prestonsburg's loss to Pikeville. The 160-pounder gained most of the team's yardage in running the ball two out of three downs. The Black Cats outplayed the Pikeville eleven in the final half, but muffed two scoring opportunities inside the 10-yard line. A penalty refusal set up Pikeville's third touchdown in the second period, and that decision could have been the turning point of the game.

WARNING

BE ALERT--BE ON THE LOOKOUT

Just before the November 5th election the Combs-Breathitt administration will scatter SOME gravel on the rural or country roads.

Just before the May primary, they scattered some on the rural roads, and the gravels being something new to the chickens they gobbled them up, wasn't enough to hurt them but they might by accident scatter the gravels in some spots thick enough just before the November election that your chickens might get enough to hurt them.

Put your neighbors on notice to be on the lookout for the yellow gravel trucks so they may be able to pen their chickens until the gravel has been spread but if no more than before the May primary they will be safe to turn them out.

You folks remember how this crowd abused one of the greatest Governors Kentucky ever had, called him a clown, a crook, a cheater, a Cheshire cat. Don't be deceived by a yellow truckload of gravel at the last minute.

Also don't be deceived by a job promise now. They are promising everybody and their brother a job.

The 1964 Cadillac is more tempting than ever to look at! It has a clean, low sweep to its lines . . . greater refinement in all of its body contours . . . and a dramatically new, divided grille.

It's more tempting than ever to ride in! There's greater smoothness and quietness. The interiors are luxurious as never before. And an exclusive new Comfort Control* enables you to pre-set interior temperature while automatically controlling humidity.

And Cadillac for 1964 is more tempting than ever to drive! It has a new high-performance engine—the most powerful in Cadillac history. RESIDUAL OIL CUT IS ASKED

Legislation Is Sought To Limit Importation

Legislation to cut back residual fuel imports to one-half that consumed in the previous year in order to broaden Eastern Kentucky coal markets was introduced last week by Congressman Carl D. Perkins (D. Ky.). Perkins said the legislation was urgently needed, since the present import control program has failed miserably to check the increase in imports of residual oil.

"Under the present authority to restrict imports the Administration has been forced to methods which cannot be effective," said Perkins.

In a statement made in connection with his introduction of the legislation Perkins joined other representatives of the Appalachian region in emphasizing that the residual fuel oil import problem was not a sectional problem but a national one.

Perkins pointed out that the time for establishing a new quota under the present system appeared, the Executive branch was subjected to extreme pressures from all sides of the import issue which resulted on many occasions in sizeable increases in imports considerably out of proportion to the need. "For instance," Perkins said, "during the last winter a special increase in the quota of 5,000,000 barrels was allowed because of the unusually cold weather, but the actual increased consumption amounted to only 600,000 barrels. Such increases then become a part of the regular quota and the resulting glut on the market further imperils the economic situation in the Appalachian coal area."

AREA VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS ASSIST ON TWO PROBLEMS

Frankfort, October 1 (Spl.)— Kentucky's 14 area vocational schools are doing two things at the same time: helping communities solve their educational and unemployment problems.

The state currently is spending $45 million on a series of nine construction projects at vocational schools. E. P. Hilton, head of the Bureau of Vocational Education, reported.

First of the projects completed was construction of the new $1 million Northern Kentucky State Vocational School at Covington to replace the school's former home in the old Federal Building.

Also complete now are a new science building at Mayo State Vocational School at Paintsville and a new trades building at West Kentucky State Vocational School at Paducah, each costing $500,000. New buildings to house area schools at Hazard, Harlan, Ashland, Somerset, Madisonville and Jefferson town are under way or being planned.

At least 60,000 Kentuckians now are taking advantage of some part of the vocational education program, Hilton said. Of this total, 25,000 are in training for jobs or to upgrade themselves in their fields. The expansion now under way will permit enrollment to increase by 25 percent within the next two years.

Other vocational schools are located at Bowling Green, Lexington Lafayette high school, Owensboro and Paducah Tilghman high school.

The Mayo school has extensions at Belfry and Millard, both in Pike county, Prestonsburg, West Liberty, and Jackson. Other schools with extensions are Harlan (at Barbourville), Bowling Green (at Glasgow), and Madisonville (at Morganfield). The Prestonsburg extension will move this year to a vocational building now under construction at Garth, near Martin.

Under a law effective July 1, 1962, 10 of the vocational schools are operated and maintained completely by the State Department of Education. The four financed by the state and administered by local boards of education are at Owensboro, Lexington Lafayette, Paducah Tilghman, and Ahrens Trade School in Louisville.

Most of the schools offer general industrial and trade courses such as auto mechanics, wood-working, office practice, drafting, and machine shop. At some schools, many specialized courses are offered, including practical nursing, cosmetology, air conditioning, commercial cooking, barbering, mining mechanics, apprentice plumbing, and others.

John Daly Plans Speech At Conservation Meet; Awards Are Scheduled

Frankfort, Ky., October 1 (Spl.)— The host of television's "What's My Line," John Charles Daly, will be one of the principal speakers at Kentucky's third annual Conservation Congress, October 17-18 at the Kentucky Hotel, Louisville.

He will speak at the recognition banquet October 17 at 7 p.m. State Conservation Commissioner J. O. Matlock, chairman of the Natural Resources Development Committee, which sponsors the Congress, said Daly is also well known for his work in conservation.

He has recently completed a three-year term as a presidential appointee to the Water Pollution Advisory Board, established by Congress to advise the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare on national water quality and water supply problems. In addition, he has done several public service television spots about water pollution.

The Congress recognition banquet will also be the occasion for presenting awards to Kentuckians who have made outstanding contributions in conservation and development of the state's natural resources.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY, WITH ITS OUTSTANDING NOMINEES, HAS A PLATFORM FOR PROGRESS. THE REPUBLICANS WOULD TURN BACK THE CLOCK!

Kentucky has had one Twentieth-Century state administration. Give it another in the mid-60's! Do Not Turn the Clock Back!

Breathitt and Waterfield offer a solid program for progress. They advocate the creation of 75,000 new jobs for Kentuckians, an expanded tourist industry, improved modern highways with the completion of the Mountain Parkway, conservation of our natural resources, an expanded welfare program, more pay for our teachers, no new taxes and continued governmental honesty.

The Republicans have no program except anti-ism and a hodge-podge of Nunn-Sense.

The present Democratic leadership ushered Kentucky into the Twentieth-Century. Breathitt and Waterfield offer a continued dedication to this modern concept of progress.

Cawood Calls Football

Cawood Ledford, WHAS sports director

The first time Kentucky got the football in the 1963 season, sophomore Roger Bird rambled the opening kick-off back 92 yards for a touchdown. This may have set the pattern of football at UK this fall. Not that Bird is going to run every kick-off back for a score, or even that Kentucky will win every game as they did with a 33 to 14 victory over Virginia Tech, but that we'll see some exciting football involving the Wildcats this season.

The team was aggressive. It had dash and color and gave the 36,000 fans something to roar themselves hoarse about. The numerous sophomore showed poise for their first varsity game. And while Rick Norton, Kentucky sophomore quarterback, couldn't get his vaunted soup bone going (he missed on all six of his passes and had two of them intercepted), he ran the ball club with a delicate touch. He mixed up his plays well and displayed the coolness under fire that only the veteran owns.

In whipping Virginia Tech to gain the first Wildcat opening victory in five years, the Kentuckians now must turn to their own conference, the rugged SEC. Needing perhaps a little more time for the sophomores to mature, Kentucky must now look right down the gun barrel at the defending conference champions, the Mississippi Rebels. To make matters worse, the Johnny Rebs were held to a scoreless tie by the "new rich" at Memphis State, and the Rebels will be smarting from that when they invade Lexington next Saturday night.

The Wildcats probably don't have the fire power to match the big and experienced boys from down south. Still, the Wildcats seem to possess an explosiveness in their attack, and if Coach Charlie Bradshaw can get the Wildcat passing game in high gear for the game, it could be one of the top football matches of the year in the Southeastern Conference.

Maytown Flower Exhibit
Judged As Outstanding;
Area Flowers Featured

The Maytown Woman's Club's 12th annual fall flower show which was held at Langley recently was one of the best ever presented. Three hundred colorful exhibits were on display. Artistic arrangements and horticultural specimens featured dozens of different flowers growing in this region. Table arrangements added to the beauty of the show. An interesting display was shown by Harriett Allen, featuring articles and souvenirs she had collected while in Hawaii. There were other hobbies, crafts, antiques and paintings shown also.

The three judges for the table arrangements were Home Economics teachers, Mrs. Hollie Fay Wicker, of Betsy Layne high school; Estes Hall, Wheelwright, and Nancy Sue Dingus, of Martin. Miss Jeannie Webb was the winner of the table arrangement section.

Judges of the artistic arrangements and horticulture section were Mrs. Charles Gullett and Mrs. C. F. Blair, of the West Liberty Garden Club, West Liberty, Ky. Winner of the artistic arrangement was Mrs. George Patton. The horticulture section was won by Mrs. R. H. Messer, of Garrett, with a perfect rose-colored dahlia, and the sweepstakes winner award went to Mrs. Jones Tallent.

Miss Anita Daniel
Bride of Mr. Webb

Miss Anita Daniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Daniel, of Har- old, Kentucky, became the bride of George T. Webb, September 14, at Vogel-Day Methodist Church, Har- old. Mr. Webb is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Beaulieu Webb, of Harri- man, Tennessee.

Dr. C. Nevil White, of Park Meth- odist Church, Lexington, Kentucky, performed the double-ring cere- mony in a candlelight setting of white gladioli and mums, palms, ferns and branched cathedral can- delabra holding white tapers.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Gary Layne, of Ashland, at the piano. Gary Layne, cousin of the bride, sang, "O, Promise Me," and "Wherever Thou Goest." James Daniel, brother of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white tulle and lace and satin. Her close-fitted bodice was designed with a tapering into a point at the hand. The full skirt held large pleats which fell into a chapel train. A small crown of seed pearls served her fingertip veil of silk illusion.

The bride carried a lace-covered Bible topped with a white orchid, surrounded by pink carnations and white satin streamers. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Judy McDowell, of Ashland, Kentucky, a graduate nurse of King's Daughters' hospital, was matron of honor. She wore a street-length dress of mint-green dacron and carried a white basket of as- sorted pink flowers and satin stream- ers. The bridesmaids were Miss Kay Buskirk, Mrs. Sharon Lemaster, and Miss Donna Rusk, all of Ash- land. They wore street-length dresses of pink dacron and carried white baskets of pale green flow- ers with white satin streamers. The flower girl was Miss Belinda Dan- iel, of Marion, Ohio, a niece of the bride.

The best man was Elwood West from Lexington, Kentucky. Ushers were Dave Tidman, Lexington, Mike McDowell, of Ashland, and James Daniel, Marion, Ohio, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a dress of blue lace over taffeta, with blue accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a recep- tion was held in the social room of the church. The centerpiece was a five-tier cake topped with a minia- ture bride and groom.

Those assisting were Mrs. Jackie Kidd, Mrs. Mary McKenzie and Mrs. Ann Daniel, Miss Anita McKenzie presided at the register. Taper light- ers were Mrs. Mary Lee Stumbo and Miss Sandy Stumbo.

The couple left on their honeymoon trip to Fairbanks, Alaska, where they will live for eleven months. Upon their return, they will reside in Lexington.

The bride is a graduate of Betsy Layne high school and King's Daugh- ters' School of Nursing, Ashland. She also attended Pikeville College and the University of Kentucky. The groom is a graduate of Harriman high school and the University of Tennessee. He holds a master's de- gree in electrical engineering. Be- fore entering the armed forces he was employed by the I.B.M. Com- pany, Lexington.

Partnership Restrained
From Violations of Law
Pertaining To Labor

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz has obtained a judgment in the United States District Court at Jackson, Ky., perma- nently enjoining and restraining Marcum "Mack" Callahan and Quentin Isom, individually and as co-partners doing business as Callahan and Isom Sand Com- pany, a partnership; and Calla- han and Isom Sand Company, a partnership, from violating the minimum wage, overtime, record- keeping and child labor provi- sions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

The judgment was approved by Federal District Judge H. Church Ford, serving by designa- tion, following the filing of a complaint based upon an investi- gation conducted by personnel of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Field Office, lo- cated at 301 Cumberland Avenue, S. W., Knoxville, Tennessee.

According to the complaint filed by the Secretary of Labor, the defendants are subject to the Federal Wage-Hour Law by reason of the fact that they and their employees are engaged in the business of supplying special pur- pose sand to coal mines to be used in the mining of coal which is shipped and sold in interstate commerce.

Even before Kentucky became a state in 1792, tobacco was a com- mercial crop of the area.

Oldtown Highway Marker
Commemorates First Birth Of White Child In West

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 1 (Spl.) — A churchyard cemetery and a high- way marker at Oldtown, Greenup county, were dedicated recently as memorials to Mrs. Lucy Virgin Downs, the first white child born of American parents west of the Al- legheny Mountains, W. A. Kent- worth, chairman of the Kentucky Historical Highway Marker Pro- gram, has announced.

According to the marker, the child, Lucy, was born September 17, 1769, in what is now Fayette county, Penn- sylvania, near Uniontown, then known as Beesontown, the daughter of Jeremiah and Lucy Virgin. She was a resident of Oldtown from 1807 until her death in 1847.

A $3,000 bequest by the late Miss Jennie Scott Osenton, Lucy's great- great-granddaughter, to the Com- monwealth of Kentucky paid for erection of the marker, a monument in the Oldtown Community Church- yard and improvement of the church- yard, including a stone wall with steps, Kentworth said. He said the state was notified by the First National Bank, Cincinnati, Miss Osenton's executor, of the provisions of her will.

...the '64 Buicks are here!

New Wildcat: Wildest, sportiest yet. Three hefty engine choices (up to 360 hp). Hot new Formula V wheels (optional at extra cost).

Buick Skylark: A very personal car with a flair for action. Now in 3 models.

Buick LeSabre: Stunning new looks, new gas-saving engine. Probably 1964's best full-size value.

Electra 225: Most luxurious Buick. Splendidly contemporary in taste and performance.

Our happiest problem for '64 was: how to beat a winner? According to thousands of owners, the 1963 models just about had it made in all departments. But—when your name is Buick—you just don't rest on your laurels. You keep pushing to make a great car greater.

So . . . the '64 Buicks are new—but new. New
