This Town... That World

All this talk about time, Eastern Standard, Daylight Saving and the like leaves me cold. My only concern with time is the sobering knowledge that there just isn't enough of that commodity left for most of us.

MORE ABOUT TIME

Pikeville stayed on fast time a few days, and a visitor here from that neighboring town contributed to the confusion. Said he left there for Prestonsburg and made it in nothing flat, literally. He left at 9 a.m. and arrived here at 9. But, going back, he recalled, he ran into headwinds or maybe it was the river current. The return trip required two hours: left here at 11 a.m., and wound up at home at 1 p.m.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

The woman walked into this establishment via the wrong door, wandered through the back shop and emerged, finally, into the office. She announced that she wanted to make a payment, meanwhile remarking that the place was in something of a mess. Asked what she wanted to pay for—maybe a subscription, huh?—she said, No, she wanted to pay on furniture, adding that the place was in a fix, or words to that effect.

We finally steered her across the street to the furniture store. We neglected to admit that the place looked more like a saloon after a busy Saturday night than a saloon. We also failed to remind her that, observant as she was, it would appear she could see, without being told, that a printing plant wasn't a furniture store.

OUR YESTERDAYS and MAY 1

I was reminded this week that May 1 was the date when, several years back, we were permitted to shuck our shoes and go barefoot. Thinking about the temperature on May 1 this year, I can't recall such weather on any of those Independence Days of years ago. For one thing, we didn't sport a thermometer, back then, and the weatherman didn't. (See Story No. 2, Page 8)

SUES STABLE FOR $117,000

Pikeville Man Names Park Riding Academy, Result of '66 Mishap

A suit filed in circuit court here this week by Walter E. May, Pikeville radio station owner, seeks to recover from Homer Neeley, doing business as the Jenny Wiley Riding Academy, a total of $117,000.

The suit is an aftermath of injuries suffered almost a year ago by May while he was riding a horse owned by the plaintiff on a saddle trail in Jenny Wiley State Park. May suffered a broken leg and pelvis, among other injuries.

Plaintiff claims he was thrown from the horse "while being negligently led by defendant's guide over an unsafe and hazardous bridle path."

He asks $25,000 for past and future pain and suffering, $2,000 for medical and hospital expenses, $5,000 for future medical and hospital costs, $5,000 for loss of earnings and $80,000 for future loss of earnings.

GRAND JURY NOTES VIOLATIONS DROP

INDICTMENT TOTAL IS 30 FOR 4 DAYS

Jury Names Carroll In 'Medicare' Theft, 6 in Whiskey Cases

The grand jury reported upon adjournment last Friday that it had voted approximately 30 indictments during the four days of its split session. Noting that most of these were for violation of the local option laws and offenses against property by force, the jury recommended strong prosecution.

On the whole, the report said, there has been a decline in violations. Enforcement officials were credited with doing "a fine job." Appreciation of the contributions made churches and civic organizations toward making the county better also was voiced.

The jury report, which was signed by Harve Johnson, foreman, asked that the rest rooms of the Toler Creek school be cleaned and that local highways be cleaned and properly marked with caution signs. It also recommended that a directory be placed at the front and rear entrances of the courthouse to inform the public of the location of the various offices in the building. The report also commented upon the clean condition of the courthouse.

Among the indictments voted was one naming Johnny Joseph Carroll, a South Carolina, accusing him of grand larceny in the theft from Dan Osborne, elderly Frazier's Creek man, of $1,535 which represented Osborne's savings of a lifetime. A second man known to have been involved in the case, in which the men posed as Medicare representatives, has not been identified.

Six Floyd men were named in liquor indictments—two on third-offense charges. Those indicted: (See Story No. 1, Page 8)

Six Jailed Here As Drunken Drivers

Booked at the Floyd county jail within the week:

Roy Roger Coleman, charged with drunk driving, by State Trooper E. B. Allen; Estill Newsome and Carson Thornberry, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Trooper Allen; Hillard Gayheart, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Deputy Sheriff J. D. Martin; James Lee Hall, forgery, by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis; Billy Eugene Gardner and Orville Hale, each charged with driving while intoxicated, and Walter Scott Caudill, interfering with an officer, jailed by Policemen Woodrow Salyers, Ray Click and Bill Booth.

ADAMS GETS FLOYD WORK

Four Road Contracts At Cost of $72,422 Go to Pikeville Firm

Contracts for surfacing of four Floyd county roads covering a distance of 8½ miles have been awarded to Adams Construction Company, Pikeville, Governor Edward T. Breathitt and Highway Commissioner Mitchell Tinder announced last Friday.

One of the contracts calls for bituminous concrete surfacing on the Frazier's Creek road, beginning at KY 122 and extending easterly a distance of 1.2 mile. Adams' bid on this project was $11,069.

The other three roads are to get bituminous surfacing. The projects are:

The Spurlock Creek road from KY 122, extending southeasterly 1.5 miles; the East McDowell-Hamilton Branch KY 1929 road from 1.2 miles east of KY 122 to one mile west of KY 979, a distance of 3.1 miles; and the Salt Lick road from KY 7 to the Knott county line, a distance of 1.5 miles.

The bid on these three roads totalled $61,353.

ALLEN CLUB SEEKS 100 HOUSING UNITS

A second Floyd county community has applied for housing construction under the FHA rent-subsidy program. The Times learned this week.

To the application already on file from the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association for 200 housing units here was added the application of the Allen Lions Club for 100 units at Allen.

The club would construct the housing units on a single site, while scattered sites were considered for the Prestonsburg project.

Lloyd Crum, Lions Club president, and seven members of the club conferred last Wednesday with Federal Housing Administration officials in Louisville.

Approval of the Prestonsburg application has been delayed by the unavailability of home sites at reasonable prices. The cost of land, FHA authorities have held, may run the cost of the homes—and, consequently, the level of rent—beyond the permissible level. The study of the situation continues.

If either the Allen or the Prestonsburg group succeeds in winning approval of the application, construction of the homes would be financed through a 40-year FHA loan, and the federal government could pay as high as 70 percent of the monthly rent bill of tenants. Construction of the homes in both communities would involve the expenditure of approximately $3 million.

A housing workshop for the Big Sandy area will be held Wednesday, May 24 at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. The program will begin at 10 a.m., according to Frances H. Pitts, area housing agent.

The workshop, however, is not concerned with the rent-subsidy program.

The program participants will be Mrs. Gladys Lickert, University of Kentucky, housing specialist; Kermit Mills, University of Kentucky, agricultural engineer, and Prof. Jessie Brooks, also from the agricultural engineering department at the University of Kentucky.

The topics to be discussed will be selecting house plans, storage, home site selection, construction methods, kitchen planning, heating and air conditioning.

This first housing workshop has been planned primarily for carpenters, building supply dealers and architects, but prospective home owners are invited. (See Story No. 3, Page 8)

HARMAN QUILTS POST AS PRINCESS PREXY

The board of directors of Princess Coals, Inc., announced last Friday that Russell Harman has resigned his position as president and that Ralph Huffman, executive vice-president, has been elected to succeed him.

Mr. Harman will continue with the company as a member of the board of directors and special consultant to the board. David L. Francis, chairman of the Princess board of directors, expressed the gratitude of the stockholders and officers for the long and valuable services of Mr. Harman and their pleasure that he will continue to be actively affiliated with the Princess companies.

Mr. Harman's service with Princess and affiliated companies began 31 years ago as an employee in the accounting department of Mallory Coal Company, Mallory, W. Va. In 1941, he was transferred to the newly organized Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David, as mines auditor. In 1952, he was elected secretary and treasurer of Princess Coals, Inc., and subsidiary companies, with offices in Huntington. Three years later, he became financial vice-president, and in 1963 he was elected president.

BRIEF PLEADS COURT ERRED

Salisbury's Appeal From Death Sentence Goes to High Court

The Kentucky Court of Appeals this week received the argument of Roy Salisbury's attorney that the death penalty voted Salisbury by a Pike county jury for the slaying, near Drift, of Mrs. Mallie Denney should not stand.

The brief was filed by Salisbury's attorney, Burnis Martin, on appeal from the verdict rendered in the Floyd circuit court, February 4, 1965. Salisbury has been in "death row," Eddyville prison, for two years.

One main point of the brief attacked as incompetent the testimony of County Judge Henry Stumbo in relating to the jury statements purportedly made by Salisbury's sister pertaining to the gun used in the slaying. (See Story No. 4, Page 8)

Daylight Saving Time Exasperatin' Development; Counties Differ On Time

We've got time on our hands, like it or not.

It began at 2 a.m. Sunday when daylight saving time went into effect.

Floyd county remained on Eastern Standard Time, but neighboring Johnson went to "fast time," as daylight saving is known locally. So did the city of Pikeville, later returned to standard time. Pike county outside the city remained on Eastern Standard. Lawrence county also made the jump to D.S.T.

The Floyd fiscal court will consider the matter at its meeting Thursday. The city of Prestonsburg has delayed action, pending the decision on the time for the county.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM EDGE IN RESULTS

Drys Say Margin 81, Wets Put Lead at 31 In Briefs Filed Here

With the filing Tuesday of the Dry forces' brief, the Floyd county local option election passed into the hands of Special Judge Charles E. Lowe, of Pikeville.

The Wets in their brief, which was filed April 13, claimed an edge of 31 votes. The Drys' brief contends their margin is 81 votes.

And, the Drys add, if contestants are given every benefit of doubt, their majority would still stand at 23.

The Wets admitted in their brief 76 illegal votes but countered with the claim that 192 illegal Dry votes were cast. This, it was pointed out, would reduce the 5,475 votes certified by the Election Commissioners as Wet to 5,399, and the 5,560 Dry votes to 5,368, leaving a Wet margin of 31 votes.

The Dry brief claims 105 Wet votes were illegal, reducing their total to 5,370. It deducts 109 Dry votes to leave their total at 5,451. The brief for contestants reiterated the contention that a voter who lived in the county more than six months had a right to vote in some precinct and that under the U. S. Constitution they may not be compelled to testify as to how they voted. The Dry brief also contends that the entire vote in Clear Creek and Lackey precincts should not be counted as legal because of irregularities.

ROAD FUNDS UP BY 40%

Over Past 7 Years, Tinder Announces; Gas Tax Increases

Frankfort, Ky., April 29—Total revenue to the state road fund has increased more than 40% during the past seven years, according to Highway Commissioner Mitchell W. Tinder.

During the same period, funds from two cents of the seven cents state gasoline tax have increased by 32 percent. This money is earmarked by statute for work on secondary and rural roads and is allocated each fiscal year on a formula basis for work in each county.

Net road fund revenue for the 1960-'61 fiscal year totaled $84.5 million; for the current fiscal year an unofficial projection shows it reaching $119.5 million.

In 1960-'61, two-cent allocations amounted to $18.1 million; this year they will reach $23.9 million. Tinder cited the figures, he said, to show the "good health" of the road fund and to allay any fears among counties that their rural road programs would be in any danger of a reduction next fiscal year.

"In fact," he pointed out, "the two-cent program has had an average increase of more than 5% in each of the past five years and based on unofficial estimates of this year's revenue will show a similar increase over last year." Tinder also noted the two-cent fund, coupled with the annual $10 million appropriation from the road fund for work on county roads, constitutes more than a third of the funds available each year for construction and maintenance.

"This healthy revenue increase, coming during the seven years of greatest expansion of the state's highway program, supports the theory that as more roads are completed and opened to traffic, increased gasoline sales and greater revenue are a direct result," Tinder said.

Frazier Makes Report At Hospital Convention

Chalmer H. Frazier, administrator at the Prestonsburg General hospital, attended the convention of the Kentucky Hospital Association in Louisville last week. In his report he said that Prestonsburg General is operating 106 percent capacity and that most of the hospitals' forty-eight beds are occupied by Floyd county residents, but several patients are from Magoffin and Martin counties. He said there is a waiting list for admission. At the last count 18 percent of the beds were occupied by Medicare patients.

COAL OFFICIAL ASKS BETTER UNDERSTANDING

A bituminous coal industry official recently called on the federal government to become "an understanding partner in seeking permanent solutions" to coal's current problems, "instead of an antagonist with the power to inflict irreparable injury."

Stephen F. Dunn, president of the National Coal Association, told the Kentucky Industrial Coal Conference air pollution is one of the most immediate threats to coal's future. He said that although coal is not the largest contributor to air pollution, the coal industry "is doing all it can to eliminate the pollution for which coal is responsible." He said the industry is spending millions of dollars, with co-sponsorship from electric utilities on research to control sulfur oxide emissions from coal-burning plants. The scientists expect answers in about five years, he said.

Meanwhile, coal is faced with an over-zealous campaign by government authorities to eliminate sulfur oxide pollution before the research results are in, he said. "Unfortunately, that sort of miracle is easier to demand than produce," he said.

Mr. Dunn said the coal industry has long maintained that "regulation must not outrun technology" in air pollution control. If the government feels it must advance the timetable, when the coal industry is doing all it can, "then it's up to the government to finance the acceleration," he said. "This is a reasonable request, for the government has been spending $200 million a year on making atomic energy competitive with coal," he said.

Mr. Dunn said coal men and their customers, however, "must do everything in their power to reduce air pollution," and to install control processes and equipment as they become available.

Mr. Dunn said that despite such problems as atomic energy competition and air pollution control, coal industry prospects look good. He said the nation needs increasingly greater amounts of energy, most of which is now in the form of coal.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from files of The Floyd County Times of 30 and 20 years ago.)

Thirty Years Ago

(April 30, 1937)

Sid Kenney, 27 years old, of Weeksbury, was shot and killed Tuesday afternoon in a Weeksbury restaurant. While trying to persuade a man to stop beating a woman, Johnny Beran, 26-year-old Allen man, was shot and killed Wednesday noon at Jimmy Patterson's restaurant at Allen. Circuit Judge John W. Caudill this week said that a special venire will be called May 4 to investigate increasing lawlessness in Floyd county; at the same time he scored the apparent flouting by county liquor outlets and roadhouses of the 12 midnight closing hour set for them and hinted at grand jury action in the matter. John Caldwell, 44, well-known Betsy Layne trucking contractor, was found dead on the highway near Betsy Layne, Sunday morning. The first Junior I.O.O.F. Lodge in the state was organized Thursday night at the Oddfellows hall, here. The fire which destroyed the barn and its contents, of Jonathan Hicks, of Cliff, is believed to be a case of arson. Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lee May, of Prestonsburg, a son—Frederick Theodore—Sunday at home.

Twenty Years Ago

(May 1, 1947)

Baseball in Floyd county drew the "color line" this week when representatives of the six teams comprising the Eastern Kentucky Baseball League met at Allen Monday night and voted to bar Richard Mims, Prestonsburg colored pitcher, from further play. (Probably couldn't hit him.) Fire of undetermined origin and a resulting explosion destroyed the main building of the Gilley Oil & Refining Company at Betsy Layne last Saturday. The last murder trial of this term of circuit court—the shooting of Mrs. Sylvia Helen Parsons near Betsy Layne last April—has been continued till Sept. 24. Southern soft-coal operators have balked at industry-wide bargaining with John L. Lewis as the government sought to stave off the threat of a new coal strike July 1. Prestonsburg's new Junior Chamber of Commerce received its state and national charters Wednesday evening, last week. A gas well said to be the biggest drilled in Eastern Kentucky was hit this week on Oakley Creek, near Royalton. Born: To Mr. and Mrs. James Mullett, of David, a son—Alvin—last Wednesday at the Paintsville hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Miller, of Betsy Layne, a daughter, April 27 at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville. There died: Lewis Likens, 72, at home at Hunter, Sunday; Mrs. Grace Hamilton, 48, at home at Grethel, Sunday; Donald, 16-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stone, of Ligon, at the Beaver Valley hospital, Sunday; T. J. Bentley, 57, formerly of Allen, at the Prestonsburg General hospital, Friday; Elford, 13-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Cooper, of Grethel, Saturday at the Gearheart hospital.

ISLAND CREEK CONTRACTS TO SUPPLY HUGE TONNAGE

Consumers Power Company, of Jackson, Michigan, and Island Creek Coal Company, Cleveland, Ohio, have jointly announced an agreement in principle for a coal supply in excess of 12 million tons over a 10-year period to the Utility's Essexville, Mich. plants. To provide the 1.2 million tons called for annually under the agreement, as well as additional tonnage to others, Island Creek has begun construction of an underground mine and coal preparation plant near Freeport, Ohio. Initial production is scheduled for early 1968 and when fully developed, the mine will produce 2.5 million tons a year. Island Creek holds recoverable coal reserves in the area in excess of 60 million tons, assuring a mine life of approximately 25 years. The mine will be known as the Vail mine in honor of Herman L. Vail, Cleveland attorney and an Island Creek director since 1949. Ultimately it will employ about 400 men inclusive of supervisory employees.

Church To Observe National Family Week

Wheelwright, Ky. — The Wheelwright Community Methodist Church will observe National Family Week Sunday with a special service at the 11 a.m. worship service. "Meditation on Family Life and Home" will be the Rev. Bergman's message. The senior choir, under the direction of Mrs. Bergman, will sing. On Mother's Day, May 14, the oldest mother, the youngest mother and the mother with most children present will be honored. The following MYF members were elected as new officers for the new conference year: Miss Susie Jones, president; Miss Susie Harris, vice-president and secretary, and Roger Johnson, treasurer-at-large and MYF fund treasurer. A special installation service will be held on Sunday, May 28.

EDA Approves Funds For Sewer Extension To Breathitt Towns

Approval of a $283,000 grant to help finance a sewer extension from the city of Jackson to Quicksand, was announced last week by the Economic Development Administration, U. S. Department of Commerce. The system will serve the University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station and the University's Wood Use Demonstration Center. The sewer will also extend to three buildings to be constructed by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. All of these users are seeking means to increase employment and economic growth in Eastern Kentucky. Total cost of the project will be $354,000. The Quicksand Water District requested the EDA grant and will provide $71,000. Completion is expected in about 11 months.

UK Botanist Sets 500 Redwood Trees

About four years ago, several Harlan countians became interested in whether the Giant Sequoia, or the California Redwood, would grow in the region. Larry Craft, instructor of botany at the University of Kentucky Southeast Community College, obtained 500 Giant Sequoia seedlings which he planted in Harlan, Letcher and Bell counties. "Since then," Craft says, "the seedlings have received no special attention," and he added that checks in the last two years indicate that seedlings planted in rich, well-drained soil in filtered sun have been "surprisingly successful" in adapting to Eastern Kentucky. Several plants died, particularly those in coarse, sandy soils receiving full sun. Some of the most successful plants grew from 12 to 18 inches last spring alone. It takes a Giant Sequoia a hundred years to reach full maturity, so this generation will not see the full growth of Harlan county's new residents. The next, however, may see a new kind of skyscraper—300 feet tall—in the mountains.

MEASLES CLINICS, SUCCESS BUT 'UNSHOT' YOUNGSTERS PRESENT EPIDEMIC THREAT

Although the number of children receiving immunization against measles at clinics held in the county last week exceeded the 1,000 estimated to be necessary to prevent future epidemics, the danger of outbreaks still exists, Dr. Russell L. Hall, county health doctor, said this week. Despite the success of the clinics, —$1,107 were immunized—, less than 20% of these immunized were pre-school-age children, and it is in the pre-school group that measles epidemics are most likely to occur. Most of those receiving the vaccine were between the ages of six and 12 years.

Kentucky Is Praised For Setting Pattern On Strip-Mine Laws

Frankfort, Ky. — Kentucky's role in helping Tennessee and West Virginia pass new strip mine laws was praised recently during a visit to Gov. Edward T. Breathitt's office by representatives from the two states. "Kentucky fought the battle, making it somewhat easier for other states," said Tennessee Deputy Conservation Commissioner William Slayden. He was referring to the fight led by Breathitt in the 1966 Legislature for Kentucky's strip mine law, regarded by many conservationists as the most restrictive in the nation. Grover Little, Jr., executive director of the West Virginia Izaak Walton League, a conservation group that led the fight for West Virginia's new law, said the "groundwork laid by Kentucky" was a major factor in getting the bill passed. Both Tennessee and West Virginia are studying the Kentucky law to get ideas for setting up the machinery to administer their laws. Kentucky Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlock expressed to the visitors the wish that "the three states work together" in a tri-state compact arrangement.

REPAIR JOB TO BE DONE

On Area Damaged By Timber Work; To Seed Gullies

Reminded by The Times recently that timbering operations in the upper Dewey Lake area are resulting in heavy erosion, damaging both the mountainsides and the lake, personnel of the Division of Forestry have agreed the appraisal of the situation is correct, and they're going to do something about it.

Price Moore, acting district supervisor for the Division of Forestry, and Forrest Burchett, forest ranger, last week inspected the timbering operations. Burchett, they said, has a crew of men ready to prepare for seeding the up-and-downhill haul-roads that have been left to wash into deep gullies. The roads will be planted to fescue this year and later to trees.

Moore said breaks usually are provided in the precipitous haul-roads to divert water off to the sides of the roads and thus prevent torrent-like streams from washing down the slope during rainy weather. Parts of logs left in the lake in the Copperas Creek area are being moved within the next few days, the foresters said. A shortage of personnel has hampered the Division, it was explained. A reforestation program is planned in the area.

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED

The Blooms of Spring

I think I've never seen such a grand display of beautiful blooms as the dogwoods put on this spring. Nature starched the blossoms until they were sheerest white and then hung the glistening garlands on the boughs to glorify our hills. This spring I have seen some dogwoods so white they dazzled the vision. They looked like white seafoam spread over the hills to give them a magic splendor. The pure chaste whiteness of the dogwoods turns our hills into shrines that glow in the bright spring sunshine.

The redbuds bloomed this year with the white dogwoods and the sight of both blooming together were like ripe raspberries ready for the foamy cream of the dogwood blossoms. The splendor of our hills in April cannot be excelled anywhere else in the world. It is a grand display that delights the eye and thrills the soul. And after viewing the beauty of the dogwoods and redbuds on our hills, I feel like saying: If those lazy, over-imaginative big-city reporters would leave their desks and visit our hills when the dogwoods and redbuds have turned them into glorified shrines, and if they would take pictures of them and write the truth about the true beauty of our hills, instead of their garbled reports about rundown mountain shacks and blackened areas of poverty, I'm sure the story would be different. But I suppose most of them are too lazy to come and see the beauty with their own eyes.

As I drove through the hills to see the dogwoods in all their pristine purity, I was amazed at the number of them in bloom. There are literally multiplied thousands of dogwoods in these Kentucky hills—they seem to be the most numerous of all the trees now, and for this there is a reason. People now spare the dogwoods and revere them. But the pioneers and early settlers cut down many of them and made them into hand spikes for rolling logs, and "gluts" for splitting rails. They also used the hard, tough wood for single-trees and wedges. They also peeled the dogwoods to get the bark for medicine—a remedy like quinine was made from the bark. But this wholesale destruction of our dogwoods stopped years ago and they have come back in amazing numbers. I noticed the whitest dogwoods were those standing in old fields and clearings, where they had plenty of sunlight.

The dogwood is a beautiful tree in summer and autumn, too. Its leaves are almost as gorgeous as the white blooms of spring. They turn a deep crimson and the abundant crop of berries turns a bright scarlet. They are a prized food of birds and squirrels. I have seen birds feasting on dogwood berries in mid-winter.

The dogwood is the state tree of Virginia, and also the state flower. It is also the state flower of North Carolina. Some day I'm going to nominate it as the state flower of Kentucky, instead of the goldenrod. It deserves this honor much more than the goldenrod does. It is a beautifier of our mountains, a scenic attraction for tourists, and a fine tree to plant along the highways and in parks. It also helps feed the wildlife of the woods.

The beauty of the dogwood comes from its four white bracts which are in the form of a cross. Now and then one may find a pink dogwood in the wilds but this is rare. I have seen two or three pink ones in the wild state. As for me, the white ones are just as beautiful. Their chaste white beauty lends an almost saintly touch to the hills of spring.

Next to the dogwoods, the trilliums are our most beautiful spring wild flowers. We have two species that are outstanding for beauty: the red, often called, "wake robins," and the great, white trillium. Now and then one may find a rare yellow trillium, which is a thing of delicate beauty.

Nowhere but in the rich ravines and coves of our mountains do the trilliums grow as large and beautiful. The red trilliums grow knee-high in rich ravines and along mountain brooks, where they form dense clumps and sometimes cover several acres. The red ones are usually found blooming with the large white variety.

The name, "trillium," means "three parts," and the plants are unusual in having all their parts arranged in threes. There are three broad, ovate leaves, three petals, three sepals, three pistils, and twice-three stamens. The white trilliums are like glowing white stars lighting up the dusky, brown-leaf hills in early spring. They bloom and thrive in the first warm days of spring as they get the full benefit of the sunshine coming down in power through the leafless trees. Trilliums can be transplanted and make a fine flower for the wild flower garden.

The crested iris is one of our most attractive spring wild flowers. It forms beds in mountain ravines and along the banks of brooks as it puts out running stems and spreads fast. The leaves are long, slender and grasslike. The flowers appear in April and have the delicate beauty of orchids. They are large and showy and of a light lavender-blue. There is a yellow, fringed crest on the sepals, which gives the flower the name of "crested iris." The word, "iris," means rainbow—a fitting name for this lovely wild flower.

Crested iris can be transplanted and will do well in rich, moist soil along brooks or ravines. It will soon form patches by wiry, running stems and will reward one in April with large, showy flowers of a rare, delicate beauty.

State Parks Commissioner Edward Fox announced Tuesday that he has signed a lease with Mountain Parkway Chairlift, Inc., of Prestonsburg, authorizing construction and operation of a chairlift at Natural Bridge State Park which will be similar to the lift operated by the firm at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Mountain Parkway Chairlift is owned by Ed Music and associates. The Jenny Wiley lift was operated last season and will reopen, May 15.

The 53-chair lift at Natural Bridge will be 2,900 feet long. The round-trip ride will take 30 minutes. It will be capable of carrying 300 passengers an hour to the bridge top, where visibility sometimes is 25 miles.

Riblet Tramway Co., Spokane, Wash., will build the lift for Mountain Parkway. Construction will begin immediately and completion is planned by October 15.

The firm will lease the site required for the chairlift and will receive right of entrance and exit from park property for its employees and customers.

In return, the Parks Department will get as rent a percentage of gross receipts, based on a sliding scale and ranging from three to 10 percent.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE BEAR HOLLOW ROAD

EDITOR, The Times:
We live in Bear Hollow, and were born and raised here. We have raised five daughters who have waded mud and snow and left home before daylight in order to catch the school bus. They have all graduated from Prestonsburg high school and our roads are still bad.

There have been two women buried here this winter, with roads so bad that no cars could travel them, so they had to use four-wheel-drive trucks to haul these people to the cemetery. The road is in two counties, Johnson and Floyd. Our Johnson county judge, when running for office, promised us nothing, and has kept his promise. He has done nothing for us. Our Floyd county judge has been in office for 20 some years and all he has done for us is just promise, and this is all. The Floyd county part has been graded once in the last three years and is in the worse shape it has ever been.

No bridge, drain pipe or ditches are here to carry the water. Our governor and road commissioner say there has been money allocated to fix this road, so what has become of it? We don't have any electricity or telephones, and people have had to move from the creek because of bad roads, these people having to work for a living. Our children can't come home without having to walk through all this. It is a shame.

Our officials would not like to live in here. They sent the Happy Pappy bunch in here last summer to cut weeds and bushes, but all they did was lay around in the shade and play poker. One man alone could have cut all of the weeds and bushes they cut in one day.

SPEEDWELL AND FIDELITY

Just today I finished reading SPEEDWELL SKETCHES, a folksy book by Professor Lawrence Edwards of the English Department of the University of Tennessee. It is a series of short stories, essays, and sketches on the life in the mountain county of Claiborne, the Tennessee county that borders our Whitley and Bell counties. Professor Edwards was reared in a little town, actually named Speedwell, away off the beaten path in those days but now on a fairly big road north of Norris Lake that I have driven over. He delights in the quaintness of his boyhood home and the philosophy that he grew up with. His characters are genuine folk characters, none of this tinsel stuff that some so-called folklorists write about to attract people in big cities. There is an honesty about his work that I commend highly, for I wish more people would see folk life steadily and see it whole, as Matthew Arnold said that poets should see life in general. Too often we get Dog Patch ideas about remote people, largely because only those who use the Dog Patch approach to folk life get the attention. Hats off to the honest writer who dares to tell the truth, not a refurbished truth or a degenerate truth.

As I read the little book, I was always back at Fidelity, my little Speedwell. I know that Professor Edwards writes honestly, because you could take most of his essays, transfer them to my Fidelity, and then you would have a hard time finding out whether they were of my little village or his. One of the interesting things about the book is that Edwards is young enough to be my son, as he was born the year I taught my first school; and yet his rearing and mine seemed to have been practically identical. I had no mountains to climb, but our steep low hills around Fidelity could make a fellow pant pretty heavily when he ran up one of them or tried to. This county is always at the other end of things from mine, but the way to bring up youngsters must have been patented long before his father and mine had such boys as we to raise. Hoing in the newground, bringing in chips and logs from the woodpile, cutting endless million of sassafras sprouts, riding bareback to the creek to water the stock, taking a basket of eggs to the store to exchange them for sugar and coffee—what didn't we have in common? And the very country school he attended must have been the one at Fidelity, especially on Friday afternoons, with spelling matches and question boxes and saying pieces. He does not say whether all this distinctive folksy things have passed away in the Tennessee mountains. Probably most of them have, for T.V.A. came into the area some years ago, coal mines caused railroads to penetrate the mountain sections, and now the car and the radio and R.E.A. must have just about squelched the pattern of old-fashioned mountain life. I suspect, from my own driving in that county, that dinner on the ground or a yarn-stocking ball would create the same sort of dry laugh that such things would create at a reasonably sophisticated Fidelity.

Because Professor Edwards is a decade younger than I, the rapid change from the self-sufficient neighborhood to a mere voting precinct must have impressed him even more than me. I did manage to grasp a few things before my Fidelity became modern, the location of a standard high school, a wayside place where fishermen at one of the embayments of Kentucky Lake pause to drink a coke or eat a sandwich, a point on a numbered state highway that anyone who can read could find without asking a dozen fellows along the road. But the change from the small-farmer days to agricultural planning and scientific farming made my little village over in two decades, so that Fidelity, distinctive though it may still be, is strangely like other villages that have survived from horse-and-buggy days. Fidelity or Speedwell— isn't it queer how many of us were brought up at just such picturesque little village or in the neighboring hills?

7 MULTI-PURPOSE DAMS IN INDUSTRIAL PICTURE

Frankfort, Ky. — Seven multi-purpose dams now in various stages of construction in Kentucky will play a large role in future industrialization of the state.

That prediction comes from Col. Joseph L. Tucker, deputy director of the Department of Natural Resources' division of water, who notes that "about the only place left in the country with undeveloped water is south of the Ohio River."

Industry will go where the water is, Tucker said. "If we develop our water, we capture it."

The seven new projects will serve as water-storage and distribution facilities and help capture much of the 45 inches of rain that falls annually on the state. Two-thirds of the rain is now lost through evaporation and transpiration, Tucker said, and 95 percent of the remaining third flows away in rivers.

It has only been in recent years, Tucker said, that emphasis on dam construction in the state has shifted from flood-control only to multi-purpose projects.

The multi-purpose dams not only reduce flood damage, but also provide water for cities, industrial development and recreation and help control water pollution, Tucker said.

Seven such projects have already been completed, at a cost of $308.4 million in federal funds. All but the Dale Hollow Reservoir between Tennessee and Kentucky and the Wolf Creek Dam at Lake Cumberland were completed since 1960. The other five are the Barkley Dam and the Barren River, Buckhorn, Nolichucky and Rough River reservoirs.

The seven other multi-purpose projects now under construction will cost an estimated $204.2 million. They are:

Booneville Reservoir—To cost an estimated $25 million, the project will include a dam on the South Fork of the Kentucky River about five miles south of Booneville in Owsley county. Pre-construction engineering and design studies now are in progress.

Carr Fork Reservoir — Construction began in January, 1966, on this project which includes a dam in Knott county about 8.8 miles above the mouth of Carr Fork. Estimated cost is $21 million.

Cave Run Reservoir—Project includes a dam on the Licking River in Bath and Rowan counties. Construction began in May, 1965, and estimated cost is $28.9 million.

Fishtrap Reservoir—The dam on the Pike county project has been under construction since 1962 on the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River. It is scheduled to be completed next year, at an estimated cost of $55.7 million.

Grayson Reservoir—A dam in Carter county on the Little Sandy River, 51 miles above the mouth, will form this reservoir. The project was begun in 1964 and is scheduled to be completed this year, at an estimated cost of $18.7 million.

Green River Reservoir—Under construction since April, 1964, the reservoir will be backed up by a dam in Taylor county about 26 miles upstream from Greensburg. Estimated cost is $30.4 million.

Laurel River Reservoir — A dam near Corbin is expected to create a reservoir 19.2 miles long and inundate 6,060 acres in Laurel and Whitley counties. Construction began in 1964 and is scheduled for completion for beneficial use in 1972. Estimated cost is $24.5 million.

You're missing a lot when you own a Volkswagen.

A VW has fewer parts than other cars because it needs fewer parts.

There's no bulky drive shaft to transfer engine power to the rear wheels. Our car's engine is in back to start with (and to maintain traction with). That's why it doesn't need a drive shaft.

And it doesn't need a radiator, or a water pump, or hoses. Because the engine's cooled with air, not water.

(When you drive your first VW, you may miss putting in antifreeze, rust inhibitors, and whatnot. But you'll soon get used to it.)

The stuff a Volkswagen doesn't use, it doesn't have to haul (and waste gas on). Which is one reason it averages 27 miles per gallon of regular.

And the parts you don't buy, you'll never repair.

So you can't waste money on that.

Now you know why you can drive a VW for years and years with a lot of parts missing. And never miss them.

KENTUCKY POWER NAMES BAKER TO NEW POSITION

Kentucky Power Company's board of directors has elected F. M. Baker, the company's vice-president and general manager, to the newly created position of executive vice-president.

F. M. Baker

At the same time, the boards of directors of each of the American Electric Power System's five other operating utility companies elected the vice-president and general managers of those companies to executive vice-president status. Donald C. Cook, president of the AEP System companies, said in announcing the elections that the creation of the new posts was the result of the expanding responsibilities of the system's top management.

A native of Alderson, W. Va., and a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a BS degree in electrical engineering, Baker started his utility career in 1931 in the Pikeville division where he held several positions prior to becoming Pikeville division manager in 1947. He was promoted in 1956 to assistant general manager of Kentucky Power with offices in Ashland and to vice-president and general manager in 1957. He was elected to the AEP Service Corporation Board in 1964.

In civic affairs he has served as a director and past president of the Community Chest, director of King's Daughters' hospital, member of the Board of Visitors of Pikeville College, past president of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce, former regional vice-president of the Associated Industries of Kentucky and vice-president and director of the State Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Rotary Club, Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers and Bellefonte Country Club, of which he is a former director. He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church, where he has served as a deacon.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker, who reside in Bellefonte, are the parents of two daughters.

SOBERING THOUGHT

Hear the one about the fellow who was standing in line to get his unemployment compensation check? He remarked to the fellow behind him, "You know, it frightens me sometimes when I realize that this Administration with all its fiscal irresponsibility is my sole means of support."

Then there's the one about the fellow who had gone to the doctor's office with an acute and rather severe case of the shakes. "You drink a lot, don't you?" the doctor asked. "N-no, not much. You see, I spill most of it."

Judge Stumbo testified that when he asked the sister about the gun she replied, "Yes, my brother told me about it and showed me where he put it and said he had shot those folks out there this evening." The testimony was attacked as "hearsay" evidence.

The brief also claimed the court erred on these points:

1. In permitting the Commonwealth to make frequent and unnecessary references to, and to introduce evidence relating to, the murders of Roy Denney and Thomas S. Combs, for whose deaths the appellant was not on trial.

2. In allowing the introduction of gruesome photographs of the two slain men when such photographs served no useful purpose.

3. In the trial judge's advising the Commonwealth and defendant, in chambers, of evidence exclusively within his knowledge, which was useful to and used by the Commonwealth to its advantage.

4. In the arbitrary summoning and seating by the court of a jury from Pike county whose bias was obvious.

The brief also argued that an instruction should have been given by the court on voluntary manslaughter.

TAX COMMISSIONER
I'm appealing to the people of Floyd county for your vote to elect me for Clive's last two years of office. Neither Clive nor I had anything to do with this new 100% assessment. On June 8, 1965, the Kentucky Court of Appeals ruled that, beginning Jan. 1, 1966, each property owner must list his taxable property at 100% value.
The Tax Commissioner is subject to a fine, if he or she fails or neglects to do his duty in listing properties at their 100% value.

HARRIETTE ARNOW, OTHERS TO STAFF THIRD WORKSHOP FOR WRITERS AT ALICE LLOYD

Pippa Passes, Kentucky — Six nationally recognized authors will comprise the staff of Alice Lloyd College's third annual Appalachian Writer's Workshop, scheduled for July 16 to 29.

The college announced that the two weeks of intensive attention to writers and their work will be guided by Harriette Arnow, author of such novels as Mountain Path, Hunter's Horn and The Dollmaker; Samuel Astrachan, who wrote An End To Dying and The Game of Dostoevsky; Jack Cady, winner of an "Atlantic First" award for his short story, The Burning; Billy C. Clark, Kentucky author of Mooneyed Hound and The Champion of Sourwood Mountain; poet Jack Gilbert, author of the Views of Jeopardy collection; and Jane Mayhall, author of the novel, Cousin To Human.

Under the direction of Alice Lloyd English professor Albert Stewart, the workshop will deal with poetry, the novel, the short story, and the essay. Any with interest may apply for enrollment in the program, which offers two hours of college credit.

Besides her novels, Harriette Arnow has published short stories in numerous magazines and is acclaimed as lecturer and authority on the Appalachians. Samuel Astrachan, returning from France, has been appointed writer-in-res-

It is your day to show all elected officials that you expect them to keep their promises, and show some consideration for the people who pay their salaries.

Yes, it is your day to return the affairs of Kentucky to the taxpayers and stop the additional 10% raises in taxes, and, after that, my goodness, they may REWARD us by doubling them again.

If they deceive you again—shame on you!

BLAIR AWARDED SILVER STAR FOR HEROIC BATTLE ACTION

Sgt. John D. Blair, formerly of Bypro, has been awarded the Silver Star for heroism and the Purple Heart for wounds received in action in Vietnam.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blair, of Bypro. His wife, Pat, and two children reside at 485 Clarendon Ave., Columbus, Ohio. Sgt. Blair is due to return home in June.

The citation accompanying the Silver Star points out that Sgt. Blair assumed command of an armored troop column after its commander had been seriously wounded. His personnel carrier was hit and disabled by enemy fire.

"After directing the wounded from the vehicle," the citation recounts, "he personally covered their withdrawal with suppressive fire. After the wounded were safely evacuated, he attempted to return to his carrier to deny its usage by the insurgents. At this time approximately fifteen Viet Cong were on or near the vehicle and pinned him down with hostile fire each time he attempted to approach it. Sgt. Blair then directed a tank to fire on the carrier and destroy it and the Viet Cong. After accomplishing this, the tank was hit and disabled with Sgt. Blair sustaining multiple wounds."

Despite his wounds, the citation says, Blair boarded another carrier and returned to the battle area.

Alice Lloyd College Honors Western Poet For 'Copperhead Cane'

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Alice Lloyd College has announced that its 1967 Memorial Poetry Award for verse of the Appalachians has been given to Jim Wayne Miller, Western Kentucky State University professor of German.

Miller was granted the award for his Copperhead Cane collection, published in 1964 by Robert Moore Allen, of Nashville.

Recently he has published poems, essays and short stories in Mountain Life & Work, Midwestern University Quarterly, Laurel Review, Appalachian Review, American Weave and South & West. Currently Miller is working on a collection, entitled, "Dialogues With a Dead Man."

The annual award was established as a memorial to Alice Geddes Lloyd, founder of Alice Lloyd College. It was presented to the Bowling Green poet at a special program at 8:30 p.m. last Thursday in Cushing Hall. The presentation included readings by Miller from his prize-winning collection. The award program was part of the College's week-long Fine Arts Festival.

Previous winners of the Alice Lloyd award are James Still, for Hounds on the Mountain, and Ann Cobb, for Kinfolks.

For her performance Miss Boyd played Chopin's "Sonata in B minor op.58," Bach's "Toccatina in D major," Alban Berg's "Sonata No. 1," and "L'isle Joyeuse," by Debussy.

Miss Boyd received her master's degree from the University of Missouri and will begin work this summer on her doctorate from Indiana University.

IN MEMORIAM

Mother, they have taken you away from us. We will never see one another again down here, but I pray that we will meet in Heaven where we will have so many years. You left your family heartbroken, your children all alone. We were unhappy to see you go, but there was nothing we could do. You died, day after your son Richard's birthday. To him you gave your love. That day will be remembered. But now, Mom, you have found a different home in Heaven Eternal. I can't believe it's real; I can't believe you are gone. It won't seem right to us any more, walking into your home, seeing the nice things you used to do, and seeing those nice flowers in your yard. Although, Mother, we didn't come and see you as often as we should, you were always on our minds. So God bless you, Mother. I hope we will all prepare ourselves to meet you when that day comes.

Sadly missed by all the children. Written by the daughter, Julia Kilgore, Olivet, Michigan, in memory of Mollie Ousley who passed away June 13, 1966.

TENNESSEE TECH GETS McDOWELL HIGH STAR

Don Hall, of McDowell high school, who averaged 29 points a game last season, has accepted a basketball scholarship from Tennessee Technological University.

Eagle Coach Kenny Sidwell said that Hall (5-11) was all-district three years, all-region-al two years and was named to the third-team all-state squad.

Hall scored 40 or more points three times during his senior year and had a season high of 51 points. He made 50% of his field goal attempts and 77% of his free throws.

The Kentucky youngster averaged points per game as junior, 10.5 during his sophomore season and had a career total of 2,142 points at McDowell.

Hall is the fourth high school player to sign with Tech this year. The Golden Eagles, a member of the Ohio Valley Conference, won 12 games and lost 11 in 1966-'67.

Social Security Act Violator Prosecuted

“Violations of the Social Security Act will be vigorously prosecuted,” Daryl E. Ratliff, district manager of the Social Security Administration, warns. Mr. Ratliff said he had just learned that Marie Adams, Hamilton, Ohio, formerly of Garrard, Clay county, Ky., was sentenced in federal district court, London, Ky., on April 4 on charges of violating the Social Security Act.

Mrs. Adams entered a plea of guilty to two counts of concealing her remarriage in order to receive Social Security widow's benefits to which she was not entitled. Ratliff pointed out that that all persons receiving Social Security benefits have obligations to report timely and correctly certain events which effect the payment to which they are entitled.

“The conviction of Mrs. Adams should serve as a warning to all persons,” Mr. Ratliff said, “that fraudulently concealing facts so as to cause Social Security payments to be made to persons not entitled to them is a serious matter which can result in a fine or imprisonment, or both.”

WHITE OAK RESIDENTS SPOT UFO'S IN AREA?

UFO's in the White Oak area?

Well, residents of that community located 10 miles east of West Liberty aren't saying what it was they saw, but strange sights in the sky over the area Sunday night created excitement and brought out many sky-gazers.

Some of the comments were:

“They looked like airplane lights, but they weren't.”

“These lights, five or six in some groups or as many as ten would have one light brighter than the others.”

“They looked like stars—only stars don't move that fast.”

“It was a real cloudy night. There was no sound at all with the lights.”

“The lights criss-crossed.”

The whole thing started when persons saw a group of lights come into view from over the crest of a hill. This was at about 9 p.m. At that time the electricity—furnished by Kentucky Power Company—went off. When the first group of lights moved away, the electricity came on. This happened again. “During the Bonanza program on TV.” During this time—9 to 10 p.m. TV disturbance was noted.

“There were stars out—lots of stars, but these were bigger and brighter than stars and kept criss-crossing and passing up the others.”

To add still more mystery to the strange happenings at

Evergreen Bagworms Make Reappearance

Evergreen bagworm infestations are starting up again in Kentucky. Check evergreens around homes for the telltale cigar-shaped spindles that show the evergreen bagworm is here again.

These small, cigar-shaped containers—about 1½ inches long at maturity—house the evergreen bagworm caterpillar, says Gene Ball, area extension agent. The pests can defoliate evergreens in a short time.

Spray with malathion or carbaryl (Sevin). Follow label directions for amounts, safety procedures and techniques.

“While the caterpillars are still small is the best time to use insecticides,” Ball said. “Later in the season, sprays will not be as effective.”

If you have only a few shrubs or a light infestation, hand-pick the bags from the shrubs and burn them.

ART, MUSIC DISCUSSED AT WHEELWRIGHT MEET

A program on art and music was heard last Monday evening by members of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club at the Wheelwright Club House, where they were dinner guests of Mrs. J. C. Wells.

Program leader, Mrs. Eugene Mullins, gave the first part of the program, which was devoted to music. Mrs. Mullins traced the history of music, as well as art, in the schools at both Wayland and Garrett. She mentioned the fact that Wayland not only has a band, but that a number of the students also have formed small bands of their own.

Mrs. Mullins suggested five ways in which "we might walk hand and hand with youth for musical growth." Plant the seed of musical awareness in the very young; develop growth of understanding and appreciation of music in our youth; bring to fulfillment an enriched musical development; support school music teachers and directors and encourage daily programs of singing in schools and listening to good music.

Jennifer Lou, Mrs. Mullins' little daughter, gave two piano solos, "Chimes" and "Swans on the Lake." Ruth Karen Francis also played two piano solos, "Love is a Many-Splendored Thing" and "Theme from the Apartment." Miss Francis is a high school student at Garrett and is Jennifer's piano teacher.

Mrs. T. A. Combs, speaking on art for the second half of the program, stressed that "Art allows a person to become conscious of his surroundings. Too often today when we are being moved at such a fast pace, our senses become sterilized," she continued. "The first ingredient of art is being aware of your senses." She added that people of this region are really blessed in that they are not moving at quite so fast a pace as city dwellers, whose senses seem to have become sterilized. Mrs. Combs further said that outsiders seeking to aid Appalachia could bring only material things, for the region is already blessed in all other respects. The closeness of the family unit and the resulting benefits have in so many instances been lost in the rush of the city, she emphasized.

Drive the cost of living down, without giving up all this.

Chevrolet's room, ride and price. When Automotive News made its annual roominess study, Chevrolet got the most points. It's roomier inside, they reported, than any other American car. The ride is Full Coil suspension smooth. And Chevrolet hardtops and convertibles are still the lowest priced full-size cars of this kind you can buy. Chevelle's quick size. It's quick to climb, quick to turn. Other mid-size cars might be like Chevelle, true. But they're not as low priced. And they're not made by Chevrolet with Body by Fisher, GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column, inner fenders and Full Coil suspension. Camaro's road-hugging stance. At its price, Camaro is the only sportster to give you wide-stance design. It rides steadier, clings to curves better, hugs the road closer. It's the roomiest car you can buy. Plus, you get a bigger standard engine.

NEEDS
HENRY WARD
For GOVERNOR

Henry Ward has always been a great booster and hard-working friend for Floyd county.

What other candidate for Governor can match these accomplishments for Floyd county?

1. JENNY WILEY STATE PARK: Henry Ward as Commissioner of Conservation started Kentucky's modern system of parks. Henry Ward made Jenny Wiley a state park. As a member of the Park Board he worked with Gov. Bert Combs to build and expand Jenny Wiley State Park into Kentucky's second largest park. This has meant much to Floyd county. He also promoted new programs in forestry, flood control and tourism.

2. MOUNTAIN PARKWAY: Serving as Highway Commissioner under Bert Combs as Governor, Henry Ward was the guiding director in the construction of the Mountain Parkway. This Parkway has been the greatest breakthrough into our county and Eastern Kentucky. One candidate opposing Henry Ward said that the Mountain Parkway "started nowhere and went to nowhere." We believe the people of Floyd county will remember this callous remark and vote for Henry Ward for Governor because he stayed with us.

3. RURAL ROADS: Henry Ward, as Highway Commissioner, developed and expanded the Rural Road Program. Henry Ward working with Gov. Bert Combs started the Rural Road Co-Operative plan, whereby county and state units could work together to build more and better Rural Roads. Under this plan Floyd county has built more and better Rural Roads than in any period in our history. As Governor, Henry Ward will continue this program and will fully cooperate with our county government to build the best Rural Roads possible for all our people.

Henry Ward has been Kentucky's greatest road builder. As Governor he will continue to be Floyd county's Road Building Friend.
