

Clark Says Co. Schools Integrated

Expresses Surprise As Floyd Is Listed For Possible Cutoff

Floyd Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark expressed surprise and some indignation this week that the Floyd school system was mentioned in a federal district court order last week directing the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to begin proceedings to cut off federal aid to school systems in 17 states that have failed to comply with desegregation requirements.

In addition to the Floyd system, others in Kentucky listed as having failed to comply with racial desegregation requirements included Jefferson county, Fayette and Hopkins county, Louisville, Richmond, Bowling Green, Hopkinsville-Christian county, Maysville and Owensboro schools.

Supt. Clark pointed out that, a year after receiving notice from HEW of integration requirements, "we were fully integrated. That was in 1965."

Clark said a notice similar to last week's was received about three years ago and that he telephoned Washington about it. "I pointed out that we were already fully integrated, some girl in the office to whom I talked wondered if we hadn't moved too fast. She suggested that there were 12 steps to take."

The superintendent said the new order came as "a distinct shock to me, because, although our school system has only 30 blacks out of a total of 9,100 students enrolled, we have been fully integrated since 1965 when the Palmer-Dunbar school at Wheelwright was closed and the children were enrolled at the newly constructed Osborne elementary school, which was fully integrated."

He said the Tram rural school was not considered segregated for the last two years, because there were more white children than black enrolled there. The black teacher at Tram retired last year and the pupils were then enrolled at Betsy Layne.

Black students attend only five schools in the county—only five, it was explained, because there are no black students in the areas served by the other schools. The enrollment in these five schools was reported by the superintendent, as follows:

Betsy Layne elementary, 6 blacks of a total enrollment of 427; Betsy Layne high, 2 blacks out of an enrollment of 517; W. D. Osborne elementary, 8 blacks of a total enrollment of 451; Weeksbury elementary, 1 black in a total enrollment of 139; Wheelwright high school, 13 blacks in a total enrollment of 342.

Supt. Clark conveyed this and other information Monday to Congressman Carl D. Perkins, chairman of the House Health, Education and Welfare Committee. In this letter Clark wrote:

Meals on Wheels at Work Here

Meals on Wheels, the non-profit organization, funded by the people of Floyd county to deliver a hot lunch and a cold evening meal to those who find it difficult to shop or cook, is rolling.

In operation two weeks, the project has 35 volunteers who help prepare meals and deliver them. Mrs. Parcelia Collins is the cook. She is a native of Floyd county and, according to clients, makes excellent local dishes. The menus change from week to week to provide variety and assure a balanced diet.

A meeting will be held Friday at 7 p.m. at McDowell Regional Hospital to organize the volunteers for the southern part of the county. It is planned to serve meals soon out of the McDowell hospital.

This Town . . . That World

THERE'S STILL HOPE

The United States apparently is on the way to trying to undo with dollars the damage done by other means to Vietnam. This lends hope that after the "war" in Eastern Kentucky between industry and the ecology is over, they'll come in, pick up the pieces and try to put Humpty Dumpty together again.

EARLY BIRD

A cardinal has a habit of greeting the dawn at our house with an outburst of whistles and warbles, and this serves me as an alarm clock. But I fear he'll go to Daylight Saving Time, any day now, and upset my schedule.

THE STRAY

Speaking of our premises, we have two white cats that are accepted in the melange and another, equally white, which is an interloper. This is, as cats go, a pretty decent fellow, and we sometimes feel pretty low about refusing him entrance to the house while the others are faring comfortably. But he gobbles up enough food to be satisfied, and claims the place as home, even if he does have to sleep in a nearby coalbank. And now I'm worried about this white cat having black lung.

Ecologists, Industry Should Make Joint Effort, Carroll Says Here

A gathering which taxed the capacity of the May Lodge dining facilities last Friday evening heard Lieut. Gov. Julian Carroll discuss the need for a joint effort on the part of ecologists and economists to find a solution to the problem presented by the nation's industrial needs and by the need to preserve the environment.

The lieutenant governor was the principal speaker at the annual Industry Appreciation dinner at which the Prestonsburg Area Chamber of Commerce played host to those engaged in various industries in this section. Dr. George P. Archer, mayor of Prestonsburg, expressed the city's appreciation of those who have invested in businesses and in the future of the area and recognized each industry representative.

Estill Lee Carter, a former president of the Chamber, presented to Dr. Archer, on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, a plaque in recognition of his leadership. The inscription read:

"Presented by a Grateful Community to Dr. George P. Archer, Floyd County's No. 1 One-Man Industry."

R. V. May, Jr., new Chamber president, presented to Paul P. Hughes, outgoing president, a plaque in recognition of Mr. Hughes' services as head of the organization the last two years. Mr. May spoke of the need of more industry and said he will soon name committees on tourism, industry and membership growth.

In discussing the need for "a meeting of minds" on the ecology-industry problem, Lieut. Gov. Carroll pointed out that no state has organized for such an effort but that Kentucky has prepared a program intended to find a workable answer. Kentucky, he said, is hoping to be a "pilot state" in this area.

Clerk Says Registration Deadline Presents No Problem in County

Although a daily newspaper story published last Sunday listed Floyd County Court Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson as one of the county clerks in Kentucky in favor of seeking a court order to postpone the Sept. 25 voter re-registration deadline, Mr. Robinson said here this week he can see no reason that the deadline can't be met.

"We already have re-registered about 5,000 voters, and we're going to prove three things this year:

"One, that our voter-registration books have been kept, up-to-date;

"Two, that Floyd county has a population of more than 35,000;

"Three, that we can re-register by Sept. 25 everybody who wants to vote."

County Clerk Robinson said his office now

Senator Opposes OEO Elimination In This County

Sen. Walter Dee Huddleston (D.-Ky.) has voiced his opposition to the planned elimination of the Office of Economic Opportunity, which would close down O. E. O. programs in Martin, Floyd, and Johnson counties.

"I understand and share the concern of literally hundreds of Martin, Floyd and Johnson countians about the disbanding of O. E. O. and the subsequent shuffling, reduction, and elimination of community action agencies," the Senator added.

He said he has received "literally dozens of letters from individual citizens who will be adversely affected if these programs are eliminated."

Sen. Huddleston pointed out that Kentucky received $8.3 million in federal outlays through O. E. O. last year from programs providing legal and health services, family planning, alcoholic counseling, job training, and services for the aged.

"While the administration says some of O. E. O.'s functions will be transferred to other departments, many important services like those provided in Martin, Floyd, and Johnson counties by the Community Action agency will simply go down the drain," Sen. Huddleston said.

He pledged to work for continued funding of effective programs like those being conducted in the three counties.

Marion Hurd, Jr., one of three men arrested recently and charged with a series of breaks into business places and homes in the southern section of the county, was arrested again last week. He was booked by Deputy Sheriff Milt Hunt on a charge of selling stolen property.

Hunt was originally charged in the breaks as having been a confederate of Scottie Garrett and Carl Ed Smith.

Charles McGuire was jailed on six cold check counts by County Detective Sam Hale. Others booked at the jail within the week, charges against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Azzie Tackett, reckless use of a deadly weapon, by Deputy Sheriff Willie Hall; Winfield Moore, drunk driving, by State Trooper E. B. Red Cross Quota For Floyd $6,000

Floyd Chapter, American Red Cross, will be headed in its fund-raising drive this year by W. R. Callihan, of Prestonsburg, it was announced last week by Ella Noel White, the chapter's executive secretary.

Store Employes, Customers Held As Safe Looted

A three-state alert of law-enforcement officers followed the holdup here early last Sunday evening of the Kroger Store and the getaway of three men and a woman with an estimated $1800 in cash.

As of Tuesday morning, none of the four had been arrested and there apparently was no clue as to their identities.

State Trooper Phillip A. Tucker, in charge of the investigation, said he was told that a man and woman entered the store shortly after 7 p.m. and walked to the back of the building, posing as shoppers. Others in the store at the time were Carl Murray, head produce clerk, Phillip Flannery, store clerk, and Miss Rose Pruitt and Clarence Risner, customers. Two other men then came in, looked around, and went back out.

When these same men returned, one approached Miss Pruitt, revolved in hand, and announced that "this is a holdup." The intruders then forced Murray, Flannery, Miss Pruitt and Risner to the back of the store and ordered all but Murray to lie face down on the floor. Their hands were then bound with clothesline obtained from the store and Murray was forced at gunpoint to open the safe and hand over the money. He was then bound.

In addition to the cash taken from the vault, Flannery was robbed of his wallet which contained $46, his watch and ring, and Miss Pruitt's pocketbook containing $3 was taken.

Father and Son Ask Total of $240,000.00 For Wreck Damages

Damages totalling $240,000 are asked in a suit filed in circuit court here last week as the aftermath of a Left Beaver Creek auto wreck last June.

Plaintiffs are Randall Cook, suing by his father and next friend, Travis Cook, and Travis Cook, individually. Defendants are Billy Joe Wade, his mother, Mrs. Donna J. Turner, and his step-father, Jimmy Turner.

Plaintiffs claim the Cooks were injured in a wreck resulting from the alleged negligent operation by Wade, a minor, of a car owned by him or by his mother or step-father and with their consent. The Cooks, father and son, were injured in a collision on the Cow Hollow road, near Drift.

For each of the plaintiffs $120,000 is sought to cover impairment of earning power, physical pain and mental suffering, loss of wages and medical and hospital expenses.

Members of Family On Familiar Ground

Three members of the Smiley family of Prestonsburg chat on the steps of the Morehead State University Administration Building. From left are Dinah, Martha and Dr. James Smiley, who are among 10 brothers and sisters who have attended MSU. Dinah is a sophomore, Martha is a junior and Dr. Smiley recently joined the faculty as an associate professor of business education.

Ten College Grads in One Family

A remarkable Prestonsburg family has produced more college graduates than all of Floyd county had at the turn of the century.

Ten of the 16 living children of Mrs. Otela Smiley and the late Vyron A. Smiley have achieved college degrees, three others have attended college and are continuing with college work, and another is headed for college next year upon graduation from high school here.

It all began with their parents' love of reading and their ability to interest their children in reading. It continued to happy result through native ability, ambition and determination to tough it through college, despite lack of money. Some of the youngsters benefitted from scholarships (they all were at or near the top scholastically in high school here), some negotiated loans, all worked at whatever they could get to do while in college.

"This is perhaps the most unusual family in America," was the opinion expressed here recently.

"We have always been poor, but I am the richest woman God ever let live," says Mrs. Smiley as she looks back over the rough years and reviews the work of her "brood." She insists that at least half the credit for leading and inspiring their children to buck adverse circumstances and go on to college belongs to her late husband.

"We had one room for study—no radio no TV to disturb them," Mrs. Smiley recalls of her children's study while at home. "We all were interested."

Ten of the Smiley children have attended Morehead State University. Two of the girls are students there now. One of the boys, Dr. James Smiley, is at the same time associate professor of business education at MSU.

Eldest of the children, Ronald Smiley, was graduated from Eastern Kentucky University at Richmond. He is now an Army lieutenant-colonel, serving in Germany.

Vyron Allen Smiley, who earned a degree in civil engineering at the University of Kentucky, is associated with Howard K. Bell, Lexington engineering firm.

T-Sgt. Jack Smiley entered the Air Force before graduation from UK and is now stationed at Phoenix, Ariz. after serving in the Philippines and Thailand.

Only one other member of the family began college work at a college other than Morehead State. Mrs. Jessica Lynn Smiley Corley enrolled at Campbellsville College, but left college to get married. She is now doing college work in Michigan.

Don't Open This Pandora's Box

With the tax burden growing increasingly irksome and no substantial relief in sight, the temptation to seek the easy way out grows upon legislators and common citizens alike.

Some states—New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Connecticut—already have legalized state lotteries as a solution. Others are sorely tempted.

But the easy way is not necessarily the better way. Tax experts question whether income from such gambling will solve the big problems of these states or any other state. The "numbers" racket, which is illegal, still flourishes in most of these states which have legalized lotteries and where it was argued, at first, that legalized gambling would cut into the racket.

Soon the initial enthusiasm for the lottery will wane in these states, and something new will likely be tried, now that the gates are open. Gambling casinos, Reno-style, may be next.

And what's wrong with that? They gamble, anyhow—why not legalize it and get the taxes out of it? These are some of the questions many will ask, just as they argue for the legal sale of intoxicants. Anything for the easy buck. But nobody wants to argue for the legalizing of "darker" crimes, simply because they're committed, anyhow.

What's wrong with gambling with government's blessing? It is the official sanctioning of the further deterioration of national morals. It argues against the concept of individual responsibility for the support of government and smacks of the sort of thinking that "anything goes" if it's made less painful. It opens a veritable Pandora's box from which unimagined problems may emerge.

All life is a gamble? But that we share, every one of us, and when we lose it is not at the expense of another. By gambling one usually pits his skill and luck against another, and victory for one is financial defeat for the adversary.

Nobody harmed? We hope Kentucky doesn't try to find out.

To Raise Funds in Cancer Fight

James Carter, II, chairman of the Floyd County Crusade for funds to fight cancer (left), and "Huck" Francis with official basketball to be used during drive.

The Floyd County Unit of the American Cancer Society will use an autographed Joe Hall—UK varsity basketball to raise money for the Cancer Fund during the district basketball tournament which will be played here next week-end. The ball will be awarded at the final tournament session to the lucky purchaser of a ticket.

Contributions will be used for local services to cancer patients, educational programs on the disease and research within the state as well as nationally to find a cure.

Arthur Bradbury, president of the Floyd county unit, said this week that approximately 65 percent of all funds raised in Kentucky during last year's Crusade remained in the state—$262,619 going to the University of Louisville for cancer research grants, plus funds spent locally to provide transportation and dressings for cancer patients.

School Lunch Changes Slated

The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has proposed an amendment to existing income and poverty guidelines and changes in the regulations for child nutrition programs to strengthen local discretion and responsibility for school lunch programs.

William F. Griffeth, Southeast regional director of child nutrition programs for USDA's Food and Nutrition Service, said local administrators would be authorized to consider specified family hardship situations in determining school children's eligibility for free or reduced-price school meals.

A related amendment to the national income poverty guidelines is being proposed to inform schools of the specific hardships that shall be incorporated into eligibility criteria.

Under the proposed change, Griffeth said, schools determining if children are eligible for free or reduced price meals would not count that portion of family income spent for unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of their income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, or disaster and casualty losses.

Griffeth added that the proposed regulations modify the federal prohibitions against "competitive food service." Responsibility for regulation of foods sold in competition with school lunches would be placed with state and local school authorities, as long as the profits from these sales went to the school or school approved student organizations.

Other proposed changes in child nutrition regulations, he said, would provide for: Replacing the state apportionment formula for the lunch and breakfast funds with a performance funding system which provides a payment to the state for each meal served during a fiscal year; advance payment of federal funds for lunch programs, similar to the advance payment procedures for breakfast programs; and uniformity of standards for free and reduced-price breakfasts and lunches.

These regulation changes were proposed to implement Public Law 92-433—signed into law by President Nixon Sept. 26, 1972—which provides numerous amendments to the Child Nutrition Act and the National School Lunch Act. The changes are to be implemented as soon as practicable but no later than July 1.

Comments on the proposed changes are invited from all interested persons. They should be submitted by March 16 to Herbert D. Rorex, Director, Child Nutrition Division, Food and Nutrition Service, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250.

Coal Company Head Doubts Fuel Crisis Really Exists

Paul Patton, president of a major Pike county coal company, in a speech at a management conference at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, last Thursday said there is really no energy crisis such as is claimed by oil and gas company representatives.

"The coal industry," he said, "has the reserves to supply the nation's energy needs for hundreds of years."

Mr. Patton, who is regarded as a moderate spokesman for the industry, told the gathering that the coal industry "has received a great deal of unfavorable publicity, some of which is, in my opinion, undeserved." Then he turned to the coal truck situation:

Patton said that virtually every coal truck in the mountains "is overloaded and there must be thousands of them."

When that many otherwise honest persons are breaking the law and many county officials refusing to enforce the law, he said, there must be something wrong with the law.

"It is unrealistic—the present weight limits were established many years ago and need to be re-evaluated in the light of present day road and vehicle technology."

He said that the legal limit of coal trucks is 44,000 pounds and "some of them weigh this much empty." But, he added, while 44,000 pounds is unrealistic the loaded weight of 120,000 pounds sometimes carried "is sheer madness."

Recalling previous efforts to resolve the problem, Patton said some Pike county operators during the previous Republican administration worked out a program to retire the big trucks and to provide money for repairing the roads.

"This plan, for some reason, was never implemented," he said.

He said the current Democratic administration is trying for a solution with the requirement that coal companies bond the roads that they use to haul coal and "this approach absolutely will not work."

For one thing, Patton said, he doubts the state could legally force anyone to bond a road that other people are using.

Wolfe County's Athey—One of a Kind

George L. Athey, 96, is one of the few remaining veterans of the Spanish-American War. He's one of a kind in many ways.

"There's never been another person like him," said Mrs. Taylor Booth, of Campton, a longtime friend, "and there never will be."

The Wolfe county veteran has been living almost alone since his wife, the former Ruth Evans, died in January. His friends say his aloneness is a matter of heart rather than a matter of company, for at least a dozen people call, visit and otherwise check on his well-being.

Athey's first enlistment was with Co. M, 2d Kentucky Volunteers. He was released from that unit and reenlisted in Co. B, U. S. Infantry at the age of 22. That was in 1898. "I was ready for the third time around" Athey said, "but Cupid got in my way and wouldn't let go." Cupid was his wife Ruth.

The old soldier's war record is an unusual one, but that isn't what sets the man apart in the eyes of Mrs. Booth and other neighbors and friends.

"My dad always called Mr. Athey the Good Samaritan," Mrs. Booth recalled. "Dad usually walked where he went, but not if Mr. Athey was driving by...he always picked Dad up. They were about eight miles from home one day when Mr. Athey discovered an old mule that had been turned out to pasture. From that day on until the mule died of old age, Mr. Athey drove eight miles to feed the animal, often picking my Dad up to ride along."

According to Mrs. Booth, a retired newspaperwoman, Athey feeds every stray animal he finds. One one of his daily trips to the post office he noticed a dog, mangy and unable to walk. Athey took along food for the dog on his visits to the office until four years ago when he entered Veterans Hospital, Lexington, for an operation. His biggest concern was for the dog who huddled beside the post office, unable to stand. His doctors and nurses finally agreed to bring the dog to the hospital grounds where it could be treated and fed.

"But no one was able to locate the dog," Mrs. Booth commented, "and I feel sure that the dog tottered to his feet and went looking for his master, dying on the way."

Athey will be a soldier until he dies, believes Mrs. Booth. "He's straight as an arrow and goes slicked up. He wears brown clothing similar to army khaki which is always polished and creased."

During a battle in the Philippines, Athey was selected to guard an important prisoner, Emilio Aguinaldo "The Terror of the Philippines." Athey recalled that "I made friends with Aggie, as we called him, and within a year he had turned to our side. He became a valuable friend to the U. S. after he got tamed."

At one period in Campton, Athey and his father were the town's only barbers. According to Mrs. Booth, "This was before the era of funeral homes and as soon as George Athey learned that a man had died he didn't wait to be called but went to the man's house to shave him and groom his hair. He's just that kind of man."

Mrs. Booth also had praise for Mrs. Athey. "When she was living she always cooked enough food during holidays so her husband could take to needy families and give to stray dogs and cats."

"I once called on a friend who had cared for her invalid son for many years. Then she became suddenly ill, so I stopped by to help. I found everything in good order and asked her how she had managed so well. Her reply was, 'I reckon you know that God blessed George Athey. He's been going to the store for me every day, brings my mail and helps out.'"

The Wolfe countian is a sports lover and a Campton friend relates "every now and then he likes to send a little bit down to Keeneland to bet on the races." Mrs. Booth added, "One day he told me he wanted to give me the address of a relative for a subscription to The Wolfe County News. He reached in his pocket for the address, handed me a piece of paper and started on his way. I ran after him and called, Mr. Athey, this is not the address, this is a racing form."

Mrs. Booth and her husband remember the story years ago concerning Capt. Bill Hurst, of the Union, and Capt. Sampson Smith, of the Confederacy. "They continued to fight the war every time they met and didn't agree on anything," explained Mrs. Booth. "They didn't see eye to eye on anything until the day both decided they wanted George Athey to shave them when they died."

REPORT SHOWS PROGRESS

The statistics report released by the Census Bureau on the progress of education showed that the typical Kentuckian averages almost two more years of education than he died in 1940. The figures, based on citizens 25 years of age or older, showed Kentuckians have made significant educational advancements over the past 30 years, but that when the figures are compared with the nation as a whole, Kentucky lags behind.

Lands Big "Cat"

No commercial fisherman got this one. The 28-inch, 12-pound catfish was landed at Dewey Lake, Tuesday of last week, by 10-year-old James Douglas Steffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Steffey, of Dwale, who used a rod and reel, with a minnow for bait.

TO RULE ON DESEGREGATION

A Richmond, Va., case is before the Supreme Court which tests the power of the courts to consolidate inner-city school systems with outlying suburbs for the purpose of integration. Meanwhile, a federal appeals court has confirmed a lower court's decision that the Detroit schools are segregated but declined to approve a desegregation plan. The court did say, however, "The only feasible desegregation plan involves the crossing of the boundary lines between the Detroit School District and adjacent or nearby school districts for the limited purpose of providing an effective desegregation plan."

Kentucky Is Prepared To Welcome Veterans

Frankfort, Ky.—"Welcome home—Kentucky is proud of you," says Gov. Wendell Ford to each returning veteran. The message is delivered to every veteran in a booklet providing information about Kentucky's efforts to aid the vet.

There are actions backing up the words, "welcome home".

Ford, realizing the problems that have arisen with the return of more than 13,000 Vietnam veterans a year, organized a job-skill force in January, 1972. Its responsibility is to re-emphasize educational opportunities for veterans and match the skills of the veteran with job opportunities.

To make more jobs available, Ford issued an executive order requiring all employers with state contracts to list job openings with the State Employment Service.

The employment service has geared itself to help the veteran. Every G. I. is given information on job opportunities, training, reemployment rights, unemployment compensation and services available through other agencies in the state. Veterans have priority, particularly the disabled, in all job placement and training.

There are 24 Department of Economic Security offices in the state to aid the returning G. I.

Ford also organized an alliance of over 50 businessmen throughout Kentucky to promote employment of the veteran. This has resulted in an expensive publicity campaign to find jobs for veterans.

In addition, there are people talking to potential employers about hiring veterans. Known as "Jobs for Veterans," it is a separate office working with the employment service to find employers.

From a staff of three in the Capital Annex, Frankfort, "Jobs for Veterans" has expanded to place a job developer in each of the 24 DES offices. These field workers will be visiting employers and aiding the veterans to fit his skills to the job openings in his particular region.

William Hughes, head of the Jobs for Veterans office, says, "There is no such thing as an untrained veteran. His career in the military has taught him to accept direction, promptness, dedication, responsibility—all qualities sought by every employer." Robert Barnes, with State Veterans' Affairs, Department of Labor, goes even further. He says more than one-half of the returning Vietnam era veterans are "job ready." They are in their mid-20's (an excellent age for employment), nearly 80 per cent are high school graduates or even better educated and they have learned skills in the service.

For the remaining 20 per cent, veterans have priority at all educational levels. They still have the G. I. Bill providing financial benefits for education, the state's vocational education program has expanded (just last year they were given a preference status in that area) and finally, Eastern Kentucky University offers an on-campus program for the vet who has not completed high school. This latter program offers a 16-week course leading to a General Equivalency Diploma.

Last year's Emergency Employment Act has also opened new job opportunities for the ex-serviceman. Under this program, federal money is provided to state and local governments to employ people in public service—with the stipulation that 40 per cent of those so employed must be veterans.

During the last six months of 1972 the Kentucky Employment Service placed 5,456 veterans in jobs. Kentucky's record in four of the last five years has earned National recognition from the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

According to Barnes, there remain some 16,000 veterans seeking employment in Kentucky, and with the end of the war in Vietnam, more are on the way. Ten per cent of the returning veterans who have some disability as a result of improved medical services for the battlefield G. I. Men who would have been field casualties in other wars are returning with disabilities. For these disabled vets, Kentucky offers two veterans hospitals as well as rehabilitation and vocational services to aid in return to civilian life.

Arrangements between the State Employment Service and Fort Knox have been made to assist the veteran the minute he is discharged. There are Manpower Development Training Act classes in the Transition Program at both Fort Knox and Fort Campbell. In addition, the Department of Defense is financing two positions to be established at Fort Knox to provide placement and training opportunities to separating veterans.

Officials working with veterans do not foresee any major problems in the labor market as the result of the end of the Vietnamese conflict. They have prepared for this day and can only hope the veteran takes full advantage of all his state offers.

The state Reclamation Commission has approved two strip-mine regulations, significantly changed from the form in which they first were proposed last summer.

Kentucky ambulance service operators must begin obtaining licenses Jan. 1 under a new regulation filed with the Legislative Research Commission by the Kentucky Certificate of Need and Licensure Board.

Our homemakers are already liberated

Our homemakers, we feel, are holding the most important jobs in our community.

They manage the home and they manage the children. And they manage to put up with us, too.

Folks around here seem to be aware that there's a real difference between a woman and a man. And we think it works better that way.

Elsewhere, it seems, women are trying to prove that they are no different than the next fellow.

Mountain Utilities Wins Rate Increase

Frankfort, Ky.—Rural residents of a portion of Johnson county will find an increase on their gas bills, but not as large as sought by Mountain Utilities, Inc., of Prestonsburg. The State Public Service Commission approved an increase for the firm, but only enough gross annual revenue to keep the company solvent.

Minimum bills will go up 25 cents. The previous rate for 2,000 to 28,000 cubic feet was 91 cents per thousand cubic feet. Now the rate for 2,000 to 48,000 cubic feet is $1.08. An 86-cent rate had been charged for usage over 30,000 cubic feet. Now, a rate of 90 cent per thousand cubic feet will be charged for all usage over 50,000 cubic feet.

LINCOLN CABIN—Looking much the same as it did over 150 years ago, the recently renovated Lincoln Heritage House still stands just north of Elizabethtown, Ky. Thomas Lincoln, father of our 16th President, helped in its construction.

Lincoln Heritage House To Open This Spring

Elizabethtown, Ky.—The memory of Abraham Lincoln will endure forever if Hardin county residents have anything to say about it.

Hardin county, famous for several Lincoln landmarks, will soon have another: the Lincoln Heritage House, just north of Elizabethtown.

The log house, more than 150 years old, carries special historic significance because Thomas Lincoln, father of the president, helped in its construction.

cemetery located in the park area and of securing reproductions of a blacksmith shop and a one room schoolhouse in the immediate park area, adding to the tourist interest in the vicinity.

According to Mrs. Wilbur Terry, Kentucky Heritage Commission member, plans for the interior of the cabins include a gift shop and a room strictly for exhibits. Authentic pioneer furniture is being gathered for the interior.

Originally built for a man named Hardin Thomas, the house consists of two separate structures approximately two feet apart. The smaller cabin is believed to have been built around 1789 and the larger structure about 1805. Each cabin is constructed of hand hewn logs, most of which are original as are many of the stones in the chimney. Each cabin has the original stairway leading to the upper story.

Historical records show that Thomas Lincoln was a well-known cabinet maker and carpenter. It is assumed he learned his trade from Rev. Jesse Head, an expert cabinet maker of the day as well as a friend and neighbor of Lincoln. He was the minister who married Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks.

Through the years the structure was covered with white clapboard and virtually forgotten. In the late 1960's, the property was acquired by the city of Elizabethtown for the Valley Creek Watershed Project which provides the city with water storage, flood control and recreation facilities. During the project, the clapboards were removed revealing the forgotten log cabins.

A mantle which Thomas Lincoln built into the fireplace of the Hardin Thomas house was sold to the U. S. Government and is on permanent display at Fort Knox. Unable to regain this Lincoln original, the historical society had it skillfully copied for display in the larger cabin.

The re-discovery generated interest in restoring the dilapidated cabins, but funds were not available.

Although some historians have labeled Tom Lincoln "ignorant, shiftless and worthless," there seems to be no support for these accusations.

The Hardin County Historical Society began a long fund-raising campaign which included everything from flea markets to a country music show. When a federal grant was secured, their efforts were finally rewarded. The restoration was completed last fall and the cabins will officially open this spring.

On the contrary, a granddaughter of Sarah Bush Johnston, second wife of Thomas Lincoln, wrote of him: "He made a good living and I reckon he would have gotten something ahead if he hadn't been so generous. Uncle Abe got his honesty, his clean notions of living and his kind heart from his father."

"There are still a few things yet to be done," says Mrs. Thomas Winstead of the Hardin County Historical Society. "A board has been set up to take care of the finishing details and we're hoping to open around the 15th of April."

To supplement the above statements, Hardin county records indicate Thomas Lincoln was a law-abiding, civic-minded man.

The furnishings and landscaping around the cabins will be representative of the pioneer period. Mrs. Winstead expressed hope of restoring the Hardin Thomas family

Whatever else has been said, Thomas Lincoln found a place in history as the father of Abraham, the 16th president.

Consumer Comments

By ED HANCOCK
(Attorney General of Kentucky)

According to a recent survey published by the U. S. Department of Commerce, the automobile is the consumer's most important purchase and is often a necessity. According to the report, $46.7 billion is spent per year on cars and their parts, and another $23.7 billion on gasoline and oil.

The total cost of owning and operating a standard size car for ten years is approximately $13,553; a compact car is about $10,800. The largest single factor in these costs is the rate of depreciation. Over a ten-year period, a standard size car depreciates some 32 per cent, a compact 24 per cent. The other costs include repairs, maintenance, replacement of tires, accessories, gas and oil, insurance, tools, taxes and fees.

Many consumers, in efforts to avoid these costs, have now turned to an alternative to car buying - car leasing. Major car rental companies and many independent companies are offering long-term leases. As a rule, two types of leases are available - full service leases and net finance leases. Under full service lease your monthly rental charge includes repairs, maintenance, insurance, and replacement of the tires. Under the net finance lease, you pay all these costs as if you owned the car except the initial outlay, registration, and titling.

If you are considering whether to buy or lease a new car, there are several facts you should consider very carefully: First, the size of the car. Operating costs, purchase prices and lease rates vary greatly with different size cars. Second, consider the length of time you plan to keep the car. Depreciation costs, in the first two years of ownership, can amount to as much as 50 per cent of the purchase price of the car. Third, consider whether the lease terms permit you to buy the car at the end of the lease period. By purchasing the car at this time, you can avoid the large initial capital outlay needed to buy the car new. And, finally, take into consideration the personal property taxes levied on cars by some cities and states.

If you have a consumer complaint or problem, you are invited to call the Consumer Hotline, toll free, at 1-800-372-2960.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats dropped two more decisions last week, and they also lost two starters temporarily to flu. Kippy McNally and Harry Burchett, both sophomore starters, were out this week-end, but will be ready for district action slated for the first of March.

Prestonsburg traveled to Ashland last Tuesday and were overpowered, 92-51. The Cats could never really get back in the game after Ashland jumped out to a 24-8 first-quarter lead. Only one Blackcat scored in double figures, that being Jimmy Blackburn with 26 points.

The Cats fell again Friday night to Paintsville, 63-58. The team played well enough, but lacked the ability to get the clutch basket. Jimmy Blackburn had another consistent performance with 19 markers and newcomer David Harrington added 16.

The Allen Central Rebels started off last week by crushing Paintsville, 93-58. The visiting Rebels opened the game atop the Tigers and maintained there for a 16-point bulge at halftime. From there on the Rebels coasted as Darrell Prater poured through 24-points. John Conley added 20 markers and Kent Gibson tallied 16, while Tony Blevins collected 10.

Friday night, Allen Central was travelling again, but was not on the winning road as Russell defeated them, 94-79. The contest was nip and tuck until the fourth quarter. Kent Gibson led the attack for the Rebels with 30 points. John Conley had 16, Bob Caudill 12, and Darrell Prater 13.

Allen Central raised its record to 22-8 by defeating powerful Virgie, 73-70, in overtime. This was the Rebels' second victory over the Pike county team. Allen Central trailed most of the first half, but put on a fine defensive effort the second half to tie the game at 70-all. Allen Central scored three points in the overtime while holding the Eagles scoreless. Kent Gibson was again high point man for the Rebels with 28 points. John Conley tallied 13 points and Darrell Prater and Keith Gearheart added 11 each.

The McDowell Daredevils picked up three wins last week to boost their record to 18-11. McDowell started the week by downing Whitesburg, 59-56. McDowell, playing its best game of the season, placed four men in double figures. Neil Turner led with 20 points, Glenn Heinisch added 12, John Pack had 11 and Ricky Roberts scored 10 points.

McDowell picked up its second win of the week at Johns Creek in overtime, 62-58. McDowell had to make a fourth quarter comeback to tie at 54-54 at the end of regulation time, then proceeded to outscore Johns Creek, 8-4, in overtime for the victory. Only Neil Turner with 16 points and Neil Moore with 13 scored in double figures for the Daredevils.

McDowell closed out the week by swamping Millard by a lopsided, 138-85. This, to date, is the highest scoring effort by a 58th district team this season. Six players had twin digits for the victorious Daredevils. Neil Turner had 31 points, Neil Moore followed with 26 points, Glenn Heinisch added 22, Ricky Roberts tallied 19, John Pack collected 16 and Neil Page had 10.

Betsy Layne notched two fine wins last week over contending clubs in other districts. The Bobcats started off the week by punishing Sheldon-Clark, 91-82. The Bobcats jumped ahead early, but fell behind at the half, 43-38. A fine defensive second half allowed the Bobcats to gain the victory. Greg Roberts led the Bobcats with 21 points. Dan Hall followed with 18, Emmitt Hamilton totaled 17 and Larry Woods 16.

Saturday night, Betsy Layne whipped a regional pre-season favorite, Pikeville, 69-63. Dan Hall responded to the Panthers' challenge by scoring 33 points and blocking several shots along with getting numerous rebounds. Emmitt Hamilton kept pace by scoring 14 points and Larry Woods added 11.

The Wheelwright Trojans dropped a 86-70 decision to Johnson Central Friday night. Wheelwright trailed the Golden Eagles by only two points at intermission, but cold shooting quickly eliminated them from the contest in the third quarter. Tippy Moscript led the Trojans once again with a fine 21-point effort. Bryant followed with 18 points and Johnson collected 16. Wheelwright bounced right back the next night to even, their week's record, downing Johns Creek, 64-56.

The four bandits drove away through Kroger's parking lot and past Joseph's taxi station, at which time Charles and Paul Joseph caught a glimpse of the auto. According to them, the vehicle was a green, 1969 Chevrolet station wagon, and although a license number was not seen, they were able to identify Ohio tags. The getaway car turned north on U. S. 23, they said.

State Police roadblocks were set up at Paintsville, Salyersville, Pikeville and Allen but failure of these to intercept the vehicle points to the probability that the bandits escaped on a secondary road.

One of the male thieves was described as wearing a black leather jacket over a dark blue turtleneck sweater. The neck of the sweater was pulled up over the lower face of the man partially disguising him. No descriptions were available of any of the other three.

A station wagon bearing Ohio plates had been seen driving around town during the afternoon, but it attracted no particular attention. "Bo" Campbell, of Prestonsburg, said he was hailed by the passing car at the Court street traffic light where one of its occupants invited him to join him for a ride.

Prestonsburg police were at the store within less than five minutes after receiving word of the robbery, Police Chief Bill Potter said. They were quickly joined by state troopers in the investigation, and the FBI later was called on for help.

Pike Boy Claims Top 4-H Award

A Boone county girl and a Pike county boy have been named the outstanding 4-H club members in Kentucky by The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times.

Michelle Lee Baute, 19, of Union and Bill Avery Riddle, 14, of Pikeville, were chosen from among the 10 state finalists in the 1972 4-H Club Award of Excellence Program sponsored by the two Louisville newspapers. Each will receive a $500 U. S. Savings Bond.

Miss Baute, a sophomore clothing, textiles and merchandising major at the University of Kentucky, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Baute.

Bill Riddle is a freshman at Virgie high school. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Riddle. Riddle, who ranks in the top tenth of his class, has won three state championships in 4-H demonstrations, and last year was a state 4-H speech champion. He has also won numerous awards at the Morehead Regional Science Fair.

The eight runners-up to Miss Baute and Riddle, who will each receive a $100 U. S. Savings Bond:

22-County Work To Lose $407,000

An immediate reduction of $407,000 in the budget of the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program (EKCEP) is seen by program officials as a result of the cutback of funds by President Nixon for manpower training programs.

Locally, it was said, this will mean that four training classes will not be offered. These afford training in air-conditioning and refrigeration, auto mechanics, mine machine repair and sheet metal work.

The cutback will also mean the end of the program which in the past has trained workers for new industrial plants such as U. S. Shoe Company and KAI.

In the 22 counties in the EKCEP area 86 individuals will not receive skill training as a result of the cutback, it was said. Approximately 40 of these are in training out of the Prestonsburg area.

Wayne, the second of the family to graduate at MSU, is with a state educational program at Frankfort.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smiley Sinor, married after graduation to an Army captain, is teaching in Germany.

Nick did pre-med work at the University of Kentucky after receiving his A. B. from Morehead, later served two years in the Marine Corps and is now in Sacramento, Calif. to study veterinary medicine.

Rick attended Morehead, spent two years with the U. S. armed forces in Vietnam, and is now at the University of Kentucky.

Mrs. Debby Smiley Sewell, married since graduation, now lives with her husband in Meridian, Miss.

Miss Veronica Smiley, also a MSU graduate, is a special education teacher at Cynthiana.

Two other members of the family at Morehead State are Miss Martha Smiley, now a junior, and Miss Dinah Smiley, a sophomore.

And the youngest, Phillip, will be heading for college next fall. He will graduate next May from Prestonsburg high school which all his brothers and sisters attended.

The only one of the children who did not attend college is Donnie Smiley, who is a foreman in a tool and die plant in Chicago. But he is the strongest booster of them all of the need for a college education, and has encouraged his younger brothers and sisters to stay in school.

Floyd Road Aid Allotment Set For Coming Year

Governor Wendell H. Ford and Highway Commissioner Charles Pryor, Jr., last week announced the 1973-74 County Road Aid Program for Floyd county based on an allotment of $137,240 for the coming fiscal year.

The program provides maintenance for 155.1 miles of county roads and five bridges. The mileage listed includes 69 miles of blacktop and 96.1 miles of trafficbound surface.

The maintenance activities authorized will be done by the Kentucky Department of Highways and the Floyd county road department.

The County Road Aid Program began in 1936 when the General Assembly selected this means of helping the various counties of the Commonwealth meet their responsibilities for local roads. It is supported by an annual appropriation from the general road fund.

The appropriation for the fiscal year beginning July 1 is $13 million. This sum is distributed among the 120 counties according to a formula chosen by the General Assembly in 1964.

The program is selected annually after consultation between the Department of Highways and the fiscal court. A formal agreement has been signed by officials acting for the department and the court. It lists the roads to be maintained and the work to be done.

SAYS EDUCATION NOT KEY

An eight-man research team at Harvard University has said the quality of a school has little effect on what a child learns or on his earnings later as an adult. Christopher Jencks, director of the study, said such factors as luck and personality determine the earning power of an individual rather than the skills he develops in school. Jencks said there is a relationship between the variation in incomes and differences in schools, cognitive skills, genes, home background and IQ, but that the relationship is much weaker than has been commonly thought.

GIVE!

This is that time of year. It's when most of us get a little saddle sore as we're solicited over and over again for this good cause or that—the Red Cross, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the Cancer Fund, the Polio Fund, and so on. But please consider what the country would be without such great work. Let's ask ourselves before we rebel: If we refuse to support Scouting with our money, have we any right ever to criticize any boy who has been denied this privilege which should be every boy's?

If we refuse to give to meet human need, who should pity us in our need?

THE BIASED JUROR

And now I hear of the woman who was being questioned as a prospective juror and declared she should be disqualified because she didn't believe in the death penalty. Reminded that the jury was being empaneled for a civil, not a criminal case, she didn't know. Then the judge explained:

"This is not a criminal trial. It's a civil suit in which a woman is suing her ex-husband for $4,000 which, she claims, he took from her personal savings and spent on drinking and gambling and another woman."

The prospective juror perked up, eyes blazing. "I'll serve, Judge," she barked, "if you'll make this an uncivil case. And never mind about capital punishment, either!"

THREATENED ACCIDENT

Yarns keep drifting in from down in the gorge country of Powell and Menifee. This one tells of the concern expressed around homesteads and country stores about the heavy influx of hippie-like individuals into the Red River Gorge area during fair weather. Some fellows who had sported whiskers all their lives were horrified and wanted to do something about it.

The subject was tossed about at a crossroads store, and one day one of the oldsters inquired about when the squirrel season would open. Told it was a certain number of days away, he remarked, "That gives them just so long to clear out. Ef'n they don't, and my eyesight bein' what it is, somebody might just git accidentally sprinkled."

Then there was the brain who answered an ad for a man to retail parrots.

"What experience have you had in this line of work?" the store-owner inquired.

"None," said the dummy. "I just wanted to find out how the parrots lost their tails in the first place."

county last year fell $900 short of attaining its quota.

"I would like to see Floyd county reach its annual quota before I retire," Miss White said.

Mr. Callihan said the appeal for Red Cross funds is based simply on human needs, pointing out that wherever disaster strikes or an emergency arises Red Cross funds are spent and its resources thrown into the task of meeting the needs of people who cannot help themselves.

Operation Santa Is Holiday Success

Through the contributions and cooperation of some 50 area businesses and individuals, Operation Santa Claus was able to make Christmas 1972 a lot brighter for nearly 2,000 of the county's underprivileged children.

From donations ranging from $1 to $500 and totalling $3557.47 between 5-6,000 toys were purchased along with 4,000 apples, 4,000 oranges, 4,000 tangerines, and a large amount of candy. Generous discounts given by several local stores also helped considerably in such large-scale buying.

After gift bags for different age groups and families were made up, volunteers distributed the gifts on December 21 and 22 to families which, it had been previously learned, could not otherwise afford Christmas gifts.

Some idea of the enthusiasm and support that Operation Santa Claus received is evident in the fact that the project was planned, organized, funds raised and toys delivered in only three weeks.

"Each year since 1966 our school system has filed form OS-CR 101 with the proper Washington office and that data should establish the fact that there are no segregated schools in our county. We did not file a 'plan' for integration in 1965 or 1966 because we preferred complete integration to a long-range plan. Now we are forced to conclude that a long-range plan might have saved us the embarrassment of the recent news story. My concern, at this time is, how in the name of all that is right do we convince these people in HEW and the courts that we are completely and fully integrated and how do we get ourselves excluded from Judge Pratt's order?"

CENSUS BUREAU REPORT

The Census Bureau has issued evidence of an educational transformation in the U. S. since 1940. According to the report, the proportion of Americans completing at least four years of high school has more than doubled, and the proportion of Americans completing four years of college has almost tripled in the past 30 years. The Census Bureau's report differs from the Jencks report in that it found a strong relationship between schooling and income.

Vegetable Farming Proposed

As most Floyd counties are aware, the land area available in mountain counties for crop production is limited. Because of this limitation, it is often difficult if not impossible to realize a reasonable return from traditional agricultural enterprises.

The staff of the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Kentucky has long been aware of this problem, and has invested much time and effort seeking viable alternatives.

By CHARLES T. WESSON (County Extension Agent)

Extension agents in the Big Sandy counties have determined that the commercial production of vegetable crops is one enterprise which has very good potential for our area.

With this in mind, the Johnson County Extension Service is sponsoring a Cabbage Production Project this year. A commercial Vegetable Growers Association has been formed to order the plants and take care of the marketing. This group is sponsoring meetings at which horticulture and marketing specialists from the University provide information and instruction in proper cultural practices and marketing.

Several people from Floyd county attended the last meeting and expressed an interest in a similar project for this county. Floyd county residents who are interested in this enterprise has been invited to attend the next meeting, to be held Friday, February 23 at 6 p.m. at the RECC building in Paintsville.

Plants may be ordered through the Johnson county group this year at a cost of $6.00 per 1,000, and it will require 14,900-15,000 plants per acre (3725-3750 per 1/4 acre, etc.) The returns have been projected at around $400 per acre, with good cultural practice (soil preparation, fertilization, weed control, and insect control).

If enough interest is shown, we will make an effort to form a similar group, and carry on a program in Floyd county.

Auxier To Address KEA Delegate Body

(Delayed from Last Week)

Louisville, Ky.—The Kentucky Education Association (KEA) Delegate Assembly will meet here February 9 and 10 to discuss and adopt the organization's 1974 legislative program.

KEA president Micheal Auxier, of Emma, said the sessions will be held at the Ramada Inn's Bluegrass Convention Center. Auxier will speak at the opening session starting at 7 p.m. (EST).

Delegates met here early in December to consider items for possible inclusion in the 1974 legislative program. At that time KEA's Legislative Commission recommended an 11-point program to the delegates, who were asked to discuss it with members and the public.

The recommendations, distilled from a list of 49 items sent in response to a Commission survey of various KEA groups and leaders, have been grouped under three headings: (1) strengthening of the foundation program, (2) extending fringe benefits to retain quality teachers, and (3) streamlining administrative and communications procedures.

Kentucky Afield
By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

There are more than a half-million licensed fishermen in Kentucky. Additional thousands are over 65 and have lifetime licenses, and almost countless youngsters under 16, who are not required to have a license, fish year round.

Both game and rough fish are harvested by the tons each year by sport fisherman using hook and line.

Every year monster-sized game and rough fish are taken by the ardent and-or lucky fishermen of the Bluegrass State. Many are "record" catches. An example: On July 11, 1955, David L. Hayes, Leitchfield, caught a world record smallmouth bass from Kentucky waters in Dale Hollow Lake. This trophy smallmouth tipped the scales at 11 pounds and 15 ounces, and established not only a state record but a world record that today is still standing.

Then on August 21, 1970, Jewell Copeland, Benton, caught a 100-pound blue catfish from the Tennessee River below Kentucky Dam.

Every year in Kentucky there are record fish caught, cleaned and placed on the table often without the fisherman's knowing he has taken a record fish.

If you catch a fish on hook and line that is heavier than the state record listed below and would like to establish a new record do this:

Get a good black and white photograph of the fish and write the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, Capital Plaza, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601, requesting a record fish entry form. Fill out the form and return it, along with the photo, to Fish and Wildlife. You will then be informed whether a new record has been established.

Here are the current Kentucky record breakers, their weights and where they were caught:

Bluegill, 3 lbs., 6 oz., Buchanan Pond, Taylor Co.; blue catfish, 100 lbs., Tennessee River; buffalo, 32 lbs., Kentucky River; bowfin, 3 lbs., 4 oz., Kentucky River; carp, 54 lbs., 14 oz., Licking River; channel catfish, 9 lbs., Lake Ellerslie, Lexington; flathead catfish, 97 lbs., Green River; freshwater drum, 31 lbs., Kentucky Lake; gar, 40 lbs., Ohio River; Kentucky bass, 7 lbs., 10 oz., Nelson county; largemouth bass, 13 lbs., 8 oz., Greenbo Lake, Greenup county; muskellunge, 39 lbs., 14 oz., Green River; rainbow trout, 14 lbs., 6 oz., Cumberland River; rock bass, 1 lb., 7 oz., Brashear's Creek; rockfish, 44 lbs., 4 oz., Herrington Lake; sturgeon, 36 lbs., 8 oz., Lake Cumberland; smallmouth bass (world record), 11 lbs., 15 oz., Dale Hollow; sauger, 6 lbs., 1 oz., Kentucky Lake; shellcracker, 2 lbs., 5 oz., spoonbill, 72 lbs., Lake Cumberland; walleye, 21 lbs., 8 oz., Lake Cumberland; white or black crappie, 4 lbs., Harrods Creek; white bass, 5 lbs., Kentucky Lake, 5 lbs., Herrington Lake.

The records for alligator gar and yellow bass are open.

Program Finds Unsafe Drivers

Frankfort, Ky.—Bobby, a 19-year-old epileptic whose last seizure occurred two years ago, has been offered a job driving a truck.

Cora Mae just celebrated her 58th birthday and insists that she is perfectly capable of driving her own automobile, but her children are afraid for her. She's being treated by her family doctor for high blood pressure and complains of "blackouts".

Sam was driving before the law establishing mandatory license examination was passed. Recently, a trooper stopped him for running a red light and suggested an eye check. Sam's vision turned out to be 20-200.

Lula was involved in a minor accident. After an argument with the other driver, she got back behind the wheel and rammed into his car three more times. She has a history of hospitalization for mental illness.

All four have one thing in common. They want to continue driving but their case histories could cost them their licenses.

Whether or not that happens depends on a little publicized, much misunderstood and frequently maligned program administered by the state's Driver Licensing Division in the Department of Public Safety.

A driver comes to the attention of the program in several ways:

If he indicates to an investigating officer at the scene of an accident that he suffered a "blackout" or seizure; If two or more citizens execute signed and notarized affidavits questioning his driving ability on grounds of physical or mental impairment;

If a member of the medical profession files a report questioning his physical or mental ability to drive safely; If a court, agent of the department, police agency or sheriff's office reports that a driver is considered unsafe because of impairment or; If he is otherwise identified as having a known physical or mental defect which might impede his ability to drive safely.

Once the department learns of a person who has an impairment, a two-part medical form is mailed to him. The first part is a medical history to be filled in by the driver himself. The second is a report of an examination which must be completed by a physician. Both must be returned within 45 days.

When evidence of a handicap is found, the case is sent to the Kentucky State Medical Review Board. It is their decision which determines whether a license suspension order shall be issued by the Department of Public Safety.

During 1972, out of 181 new cases, 43 licenses were suspended and approximately 86 other license applications were denied.

What did the board say about Bobby, Cora Mae, Sam and Lula?

Bobby got the job. The board requires that an epileptic be under a doctor's care, taking medication, and seizure-free for one year. Most cases of epilepsy can be controlled with proper medication. However, periodic exams are required to insure that he remains seizure-free.

If Cora Mae's physician confirms that she is having blackouts, she will not be allowed to drive anymore. Cora Mae would not be barred from driving because of age alone. As long as a driver can prove himself competent, age has nothing to do with his maintaining or acquiring a driver's license.

Sam will lose his license. With vision measuring 20-200, he is considered "legally blind." In less serious cases, a driver with vision problems may be restricted to daytime driving, driving on second-class roads or, as in the case of one old person with very poor vision (but still within the legally-sighted range), allowed to drive only to church and to the doctor.

In Lula's case her medical form said she suffered from an emotional condition that prevented her from driving a car safely. The board will undoubtedly suspend her license, too.

If Lula takes exception to the ruling, she can request a hearing and bring her own medical experts to testify. If still unsatisfied, she can take her case to circuit court.

Environmentally Speaking

THOMAS O. HARRIS
COMMISSIONER
Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection

In response to Gov. Wendell Ford's charge to me, I have accepted the responsibility of carrying out the provisions of Kentucky's laws regarding the protection and management of our natural resources and the environment as it affects us, individually and collectively.

Governor Ford has demonstrated his interest in our resources and environment through previous actions. I will, with the help of all citizens, do everything in my legal power, and with all the vision I can master, to protect and improve the quality of our surroundings and our American way of life.

Our land resources are limited by geographic boundaries. Only by increasing the quality of our management can we improve our total productivity of food, fiber, fuel, and water. These resources are vital to our livelihood, and we are dedicated to their wise use.

Similarly, our water and air must be monitored. Care must be taken that its value is as great after use as it was before.

We know our planet Earth has built-in filtering systems that can clean the water and air of their impurities. Our forests and fields even renew our supply of oxygen in Earth's thin layer of air. The protection of these fields and forests from fire or poor conservation practices is a prime responsibility of this new Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Effluents from our way of life—homes, factories, transportation—need treatment above and beyond natural means. This too becomes our responsibility, and we intend to do all in our power to enforce the laws pertaining to them.

Another area needing our immediate attention is that of our daily refuse. We have a division in the department which will lead the way to the removal of that mountain of cast-offs, which has slowly been engulfing our society. Perhaps a better way of reducing that mountain of society's garbage is in re-cycling—we're going to solve this problem through study, application and regulation.

As your new Commissioner for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, I will use all the facilities of this agency to improve our environment through education, planning, research, and through legal process when necessary.

Our goals can be reached with your cooperation, and we earnestly ask for it. We seek your ideas and suggestions in improving our surroundings—within the framework of our statutes.

FIRST PRESIDENT

This week, on the birthday of the father of our country, we are reminded of our heritage of freedom—freedom to strive to build a better life for ourselves and our loved ones—freedom to dream, to hope, to plan, and freedom to make them come true.

We at First National are truly grateful to live in a land where a man can rise to wealth and knowledge by his own abilities. Where he can even become president of the greatest land in the world.

We at First National also stand ready to help in whatever way possible, to help our people achieve their own personal goals. Our friendly staff cordially invites you to come in and discuss your financial needs.

MAYTOWN COMMUNITY NEWS

Lucian Arnett and Les Arnett, of Magoffin county, have been here due to the serious illness of their father, Sam Arnett, who has been a patient at Our Lady of the Way Hospital but was moved to University Hospital in Lexington, Wednesday. He was accompanied by his sons as Mrs. Arnett is confined to her home, suffering from flu.

Hugh Rowland observed his 73rd birthday Feb. 11. Relatives called at his home to wish him a happy birthday, present gifts and enjoy his birthday dinner. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Spencer, of Eastern; Mr. and Mrs. Cleaties Rowland and daughters, Anna Marie and Melissa Sue, of Prestonsburg; Mrs. Claude Webb, Mrs. Ed Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Rowland, Jr. and son, Allan Douglas, all of Langley.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Henrietta Reffitt whose grandmother, Mrs. Sam Branham, of Martin, passed away Jan. 11 at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, after suffering an apparent heart attack.

Tom Webb is in intensive care at St. Joseph Hospital, Lexington, where he was taken Friday night from Our Lady of the Way Hospital where he had been a patient for more than a week. He was accompanied to Lexington by Mrs. Webb and Mr. and Mrs. Walker Prater. Earl Edward Webb and Ken Webb spent the week-end in Lexington to be near their father, and Mr. and Mrs. Thurmal Click and Mrs. Bob Waddles, also David Webb of Martin, visited him Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Pratt, mother of Ray Prater, has been a patient at Highlands Regional Medical Center for treatment of a chronic condition.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Combs and children spent several days last week visiting friends in Florida. Their son, Paul, remained here with his grandmother, Mrs. Octavia Combs.

Tom Stewart, of Stockdale, Ohio, spent last week-end here, visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurmal Click visited his uncle, Ballard Prater, at Highlands Regional Medical Center last Saturday.

Mrs. Alva Flanery was in Pikeville Monday on business. She was accompanied by Mrs. Herman Halbert.

Mrs. Myrtle Moore is a patient at Our Lady of the Way Hospital for tests and treatment.

Mrs. Eva Robinson has again been a patient at Our Lady of the Way Hospital for treatment of a chronic condition.

Mrs. Roland Burchett, Mrs. George Patton and Mrs. Kenneth Blevins attended the monthly Democratic Woman's Club meeting and dinner Wednesday evening at May Lodge. The speaker was County Clerk "Ollie" Robinson.

Fellow-employees at the Public Assistance office joined Mrs. Trilby May in celebrating her birthday last week. Refreshments were served and she was presented gifts.

Mrs. Jack Sword spent several days last week at the Paintsville hospital with Mrs. Morton Adkins, who underwent major surgery there.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. May received a telephone call last Thursday evening from their youngest son, Sgt. William F. May, who is with the Air Force on Taiwan, a day before his father's birthday. Sgt. May is scheduled to return home, sometime in November.

Due to the limited parking space in front of the post office, Postmaster Edward F. Robinson asks everyone to limit their parking to approximately 15 minutes from 7 to 5 p.m. This will give more customers an opportunity to transact their business at the post office and Hall's Grocery. He also asks that the mail box at the end of the building not be blocked at any time so that customers who wish to deposit mail may do so, and that the driveway at the rear of the post office not be blocked at any time.

Pvt. James E. Robinson, of Fort Knox, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Robinson.

Today, printed pornography alone is a two-billion-dollar-a-year business in the U. S., not to mention other types of filth. Thanks to public apathy, obscenity is no longer limited to movies so rated. TV is piping sewage into millions of homes. Even church members spend hours enjoying it, though they usually lack time to study God's Word. (The body is fed three times daily. The soul that does not get a bone now and then is sure to be weak!)

Some texts and required reading matter of college and high school students nearly everywhere rival the lewd literature flooding the land. If you doubt this, examine some college texts. It is time teachers who claim to be decent do as Pat Boone did. He refused to permit his name to be associated with the vulgar. Sex is sacred. Saturating a nation with it does more harm than good, as is evident now. In some countries restaurants are shared by both sexes in schools. Co-ed dorms for older students are merely forerunners of the former for all age levels—all part of the Satanic trend, a prelude to Christ's return, when times will grow worse.

"But that type reading material is reality. Our children need to sample all kinds, to appreciate the good," some proponent declares. Do you want your offspring to sample poisoned food, so he can recognize the good? Do you dine where culinary skills are average, dreadful, or famous for quality? Physicians say what we eat determines health and the physique, largely. This holds true in plant life as in the animal kingdom. Similarly, the mind becomes what one reads and learns.

"Such reading matter reflects aspects of life all should know," someone points out. The garbage can also reflect a way of life but that is no reason we should eat out of it. When one can safely eat rotten fruit or diseased meat, when one can handle pitch and keep clean, when one can take fire into his bosom and not be burned, then barnyard literature, records, tapes, cartoons, movies, TV and stage shows can be taken into the mind or eye without danger to the individual. A Sunday School quarterly tells of a man who committed eight sex murders. A trunk of pornographic literature was found in his home.

Leading citizens attend or sell tickets to vile movies, make and peddle base tapes, revel in TV smut, books that corrupt. I Tim. 6:10. Some think it cannot harm them, but all are subject to temptation. A defender of trashy literature insists he never lets the birds that fly over his head nest in his hair. The best way to keep out of the pit is to stay as far from it as possible. Few start marijuana expecting to become drug addicts, but thousands do. Few social drinkers plan to become alcoholics, but millions do. Few bingo and bridge players intend to become gamblers, but many professionals began by winning small sums and prizes, only to succumb to the lure. The average murderer never wanted to get behind bars, but little sins do lead to big ones, and men are known by the company they keep. It is not just a matter of right and wrong. It can be a question of what is good, better, or best. Some have safety margins of self-control others lack. But what of the example they set for less disciplined persons and for youths following in their footsteps? Paul has much to say on this.

Scarcely anyone fails to see something is bad wrong in the U. S., as morals escalate downward. A majority deplore the horrible increase in crime, but few have insight to connect social drinks, pornography, mini skirts and nude styles (I Tim. 2:9), with the deterioration, though some non-Christian judges point to these as among primary causes. The bars of decency never drop all at once. They fall at intervals.

Years ago, Communists vowed if they could take America no other way they would destroy our youth. This can be done in a few generations by exploiting pornography, illicit sex, by drugs, liquor, and by downgrading the home and Christianity. Noted philosopher, Edmund Burke said the surest way for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing. If America falls it will not be because of what wicked men do, but because of what good citizens fail to do.

Medical Assistance Program Undertaken
After Training Done

A training session in Prestonsburg late last year prepared local health department nurses for carrying out one of the newest services the Kentucky Medical Assistance Program (KMAP) offers—the early, periodic screening and diagnostic services.

Under Title XIX, Medicaid, the state must make available this series of tests to detect signs of disease and abnormality in eligible children ages 1 through 5. Included are tests for sight and hearing, routine blood counts, and tests to detect urinary problems and signs of lead poisoning. Nurses will also look for obvious physical defects or trouble with ears, nose, mouth, teeth or throat. Tuberculin skin tests and needed immunizations will be given, all upon parental approval. Referral to a physician or specialist will be given for diagnosis and treatment if abnormalities are found.

The Floyd County Health Department is also participating in the Bacteriuria Screening Program. This program provides for the detection of kidney disease in early childhood—First, Second and Third grade school children—and provides an opportunity for treatment before there has been irreversible damage to the kidneys.
The reporting system allows for referral of patients with positive tests to the family physician and provides a mechanism for follow-up reports from the physician and continued monitoring of the child's status by the local health department and the State Health Department.

'Week-End with the Eagles'
Set for Land Between Lakes

By MARIANNE STYLES KOHLER

In a few years the sight of an eagle soaring in Kentucky could be only a memory. Now, though there are two species that are regular visitors to Kentucky's western lands: the large, powerful golden eagles and the national symbol, the bald eagle. Their favorite winter haven is in the Land Between the Lakes, maintained by the TVA.

On February, 23-24, during the peak month for the eagle population in the Land Between the Lakes, the Kentucky Department of Parks and TVA will co-sponsor a "Week-end with the Eagles" at nearby
Kentucky Dam Village State Resort Park.

Workshop week-ends at state resort parks have become a popular activity for many, especially out-of-state visitors who do not have such an opportunity at home. The week-end workshops are designed to appeal to a wide variety of individuals with an interest in natural history. They are recommended for teachers of all education levels, students attempting to supplement their college courses, naturalists and individuals simply wanting to develop a new interest.

The week-ends are filled with seminars, nature hikes, and lectures by professionals in various fields of study. Field leaders for the Eagles Workshop will be Dr. Ray Nail, for the TVA, and Dr. Clell Peterson, of Murray State University. Evening programs will be presented Friday and Saturday at 8:00 p.m., but the highlight of the event will be an all-day field trip on Saturday, February 24, in the Land Between the Lakes. Bus transportation from Kentucky Dam Village will be provided.

The purpose of the workshop is to observe the bald and golden eagles, and gain current information on the status of their populations. Eagles begin arriving in the Land Between the Lakes in October and leave by April. Counts over the past few years indicate a wintering population of 40 to 70 birds. Last year, one group of observers saw 23 bald eagles while another saw 21. There was also a report of a golden eagle sighting.

Registration begins at 6:00 p.m. Friday,
February 23, in the lodge lobby at Kentucky Dam Village. Detailed information may be procured from the TVA Information Center, Golden Pond, Ky. 42231; Kentucky Dam
Village State Resort Park, Gilbertsville, Ky.
42044, or the Kentucky Department of Parks, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

McCown Named
To Head Slate;
Miller, Speaker

A Miners for Democracy slate headed by Forrest McCown, of Wheelwright, as a candidate for president of District 30, United Mine Workers of America, was selected Saturday at a convention held at Millard high school in Pike county.

The convention was attended by Arnold Miller, national UMWA president, who addressed the open convention and stressed his interest in safe working conditions for miners. Mr. Miller pledged that, if he is given the support of miners in electing district leaders, increased benefits will accrue to miners and their dependents or survivors.

Mr. McCown was nominated without opposition, as was Ken Smith, of Grundy, Va., for the office of district secretary-treasurer. Evan Robinson, of the Virginia section of District 30, defeated Bill Roberts, of the Tug River area, for the nomination for executive board member, 63 votes to 24.

The final election by vote of the membership will be held in May under supervision of the U. S. Department of Labor. The election was ordered by the federal government following a lawsuit decided last year.

District 30, which is composed of eight Eastern Kentucky counties, was created in 1920. Miners for Democracy claim that for more than 50 years the membership of this district has been deprived of its right to elect its district officers. A 1963 suit supported by UMW-MFD was finally settled last September. In the decision Federal Judge Waddy ruled that the trusteeship was an illegal infringement of union members to elect their own district officials.

UMW-MFD recently won another court-ordered election that saw Arnold Miller and his reform slate defeat incumbent W. A.
"Tony" Boyle for the Presidency of the International Union. Mr. Miller served as temporary chairman of the Millard District 30 UMW-MFD convention.

INVITATION TO BID

Sealed bids will be received by the Division of Purchasing, Department of vitation No. PKS-SO-25, bid opening date

Glenn T. Mumpous, Director, Division of Purchasing, Department of Parks, Capitol
Plaza Tower 1017, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. 1t.

The state should not charge Shepherds-ville city police cars tolls for using the Kentucky Turnpike on routine patrols or in answering calls within city limits, according to the attorney general's office.

Floyd County Court

Regular meeting of the Floyd county court held in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, in and at the courthouse. Present and presiding: The honorable Henry Stumbo, County Judge.

In Re: Making of new voting precinct consisting of Dwale and New Allen, in Floyd County Kentucky.

"In changing mouth of Beaver Creek voting precinct No. 10 and Jim Banks voting precinct No. 11 and creating a new voting precinct in New Allen, including the town of Dwale, Kentucky".

It appearing to the Court that Mouth of Beaver Creek Voting Precinct No. 10 now includes New Allen and the Jim Banks Voting Precinct No. 11 now includes the town of Dwale, it is therefore ordered by the Court that the voters in the town of Dwale and all of the voters from the Cow Creek precinct boundary line, including all of New Allen and the voters on the north side of the Big Sandy River to the precinct boundary line of Ivel Precinct No. 33, will vote in New Allen and said precinct will be named the Allen-Dwale voting precinct No. 44.

This precinct will include all voters from the boundary line of Cow Creek precinct No.
9 to the boundary line of the voting precinct of Ivel No. 33, including all tributaries on the north side of the Big Sandy River and all tributaries in the town of Dwale Kentucky.

This boundary change of said voting precincts and the establishment of a new voting precinct, known as the Allen-Dwale voting precinct No. 44, is hereby established and the voters will vote at said precinct as outlined above in the boundary lines of the prospective voting precincts in the coming primary to be held on May 29, 1973.

All of which is approved by this Court.
This the 8th day of February, 1973.

HENRY STUMBO
County Judge

Scouting Leaders
Plan Fund-Drive

Floyd county's share of the $25,000 goal set for the four counties in Jenny Wiley District, Lonesome Pine Boy Scout Council, will exceed $10,000, it was said following a meeting of Scouting leaders last Tuesday evening at May Lodge.

The other three counties in the district are Johnson, Martin and Magoffin. Pike county alone has a 1973 Boy Scout fund goal of $35,000, it was said.

Last Tuesday's meeting was attended mainly by 100 Club members as the Special Gifts campaign in this county was being kicked off by Estill Lee Carter, chairman.
The general fund-raising campaign will be undertaken after the close of the Special Gifts drive, late next month.

It was pointed out at Tuesday's meeting that funds raised in the district must increase, in view of the fact that the district was forced to borrow money last year in order to meet its obligations. It also was recalled that national funds have been spent freely in the district, the last few years, but that the amount decreases yearly.

Because of its lack of funds Jenny Wiley District has lost the fulltime services of George Chidester, district Scout executive.
Mr. Chidester, although yet living in Prestonsburg, is Scout executive in a Virginia district and devotes only a part of his time to Jenny Wiley.

Says Span Start Only 1% Away

The Emma bridge is only 1 percent short of actual construction, Rural Highway Commissioner Otto Engram told Ms. Flo Weddington Adams, of Emma, last week.

He added that "paper work" in his office has been completed and that as soon as right-of-way are procured, the entire package will be placed on the desk of Jewell Hawkins, director of contract procurement, who then will advertise for bids on the project. Judge Ingram said the span has "a very good chance of making the April contract letting."

"The Emma community," Mrs. Adams said, "is very appreciative to both state and county officials for their concern in this matter." She said acquisition of rights-of-way from about seven property-owners on both sides of the river will present no problem.

Governor Ford, Libraries Head Critical of Library Fund Cut

The Nixon Administration's cutback of funds for library purposes has raised the ire of both Gov. Wendell Ford and State Librarian Miss Margaret Willis.

Ford, chiding Nixon's public declaration of self-help in his inaugural address, said today, "How can we accept this type of rhetoric when an institution like the public library, open to anyone interested in helping himself, took such a beating from the Nixon budget?"

"All federal funds going to our public libraries through the state library system were taken out of the President's budget," Ford said.

Miss Willis contends the federal slash will cause some Kentuckians to be neglected. "There are about 15 counties in Kentucky with no libraries," she said. "With the cutback in funds, we won't be able to build any libraries in these counties."

Even though next fiscal year will be a complete wipeout for library services, according to the federal budget, even this current year has been difficult. Ford explained, "Kentucky is receiving only $503,544 in federal funds for libraries—about a 43 percent cut from last year."

State allocations to library services are more than four times that amount. "The state has been very helpful in providing us with funds," Miss Willis said.

"but it is a shame we have to get all our money from that source."
Miss Willis pointed out some results of the federal cutback:
The abolishment of the plan to hire an assistant state librarian.
A halt in the construction of new libraries and the replacement of old library branches.
A reduced number of book purchases.
Some salary and personnel cuts.
This year only six bookmobiles rather than the usual 12 are being replaced with new ones.
In many cases, old equipment, including films, cannot be replaced.
"We may also have to cut back book services to institutions, which would be a shame," Miss Willis said.
"A library needs good services, constant development, improvement and must be brought up to date, day by day. A library needs new books to be viable, and we can't buy nearly as many now because of the cut. We will be severely hurt next year when we have no federal money at all," she said.
