

County Escapes Major Flood Loss

The Big Sandy at near-crest during last week's flood. Photo shows old bridge connecting Prestonsburg and West Prestonsburg. Fishtrap Dam held the water level at river towns below the point of heavy damage. Together, Dewey and Fishtrap Reservoirs are credited by the Corps of Engineers of saving $2,080,000 damage in the Big Sandy basin. Soon after a loaded school bus had crossed it, the water-weakened bridge spanning Abbott Creek at Big Branch partially collapsed last week after the water had mostly subsided. County Judge Henry Stumbo estimated the flood damage in the county at $15,000.

Floyd county escaped major damage from floodwaters last week, but two days of steady, sometimes violent, rainfall and the rise of streams beyond their banks gave residents of many lowlying areas hours of anxiety.

Practically all rural schools were closed, and some of the larger schools in the Beaver Creeks and on Mud Creek suspended classes as school buses could not reach pupils.

Here, Archer Park was pretty well inundated, and auto traffic ceased in much of the Abbott Creek section where the water cut the highway in three places.

At Martin, where a $2 million stream improvement and flood control project has been delayed while landowners have been loath to grant easements over their property, Beaver Creek rose into Main street and invaded a few homes in lowlying sections.

County Judge Henry Stumbo said he had received reports of some bridges being washed out on Mud Creek and Little Paint Creek and of rock and earth-slides in various parts of the county. Work on the bridge across the Big Sandy at Emma was interrupted by the high water and was not resumed till this week.

Oft-flooded Salyersville "got only a taste of flood," one resident said, and in Johnson county possibly a dozen families evacuated their homes. A child was reported drowned at Mallie, Knott county.

Dewey and Fishtrap Reservoirs were credited by the U. S. Corps of Engineers' district office in Huntington, W. Va. with reducing the flood damage. Dewey Lake, which had been let down 15 feet from its summer conservation pool of 650 feet above sea level, rose back to summer pool and 8.84 feet above that when its gates were closed to hold back the heavy runoff from Johns Creek and its tributaries. The lake crested at 9 p.m. Thursday, but the dam gates were opened two hours before that to draw the lake down again to 635 elevation so that water line can be laid from Hager Gap to the dam.

Floyd and other downstream counties may have been saved heavier flood damage by the fact that the rainfall was lighter in Pike county and the upper reaches of the Big Sandy.

Dean Murray, Dewey Reservoir manager, said the rainfall in the area ranged from 4 to 5 inches, with the heaviest recorded in Floyd, Magoffin, Johnson, Martin and Lawrence counties.

The Big Sandy crested at Pikeville Wednesday at 25.34 feet; at Prestonsburg Thursday at 33.27 feet, about six feet below flood stage, and at Paintsville the same day at 33.51 feet.

Bond of $7,000 Set for Accused In Rape Charge

Accused of detaining a Prestonsburg woman against her will, assault and battery and the attempted rape of the woman, Tommy Howard Cesco, 25, of Sugar Loaf, near here, was released from jail last week under bonds totalling $7,000 for his answer to possible grand jury action.

County Attorney James R. Allen said there is a possibility the January grand jury will be asked to consider abduction or kidnapping charges against Cesco.

The accused man maintains that he is innocent of the charges.

Three separate warrants were issued for Cesco. He was arrested at the woman's home by State Detective Gary Rose and County Detective Sam Hale.

The attack on the woman allegedly was made as she drove homeward after a visit at the home of a woman-friend last Tuesday night. A car behind her, she said, blinked its lights and she stopped. A masked man approached, and the woman said she suspected a prankster, and she ripped the mask from his face. Then, she said, he seized her, repeatedly struck her on her face and back with his fists, forced his way into the car and drove away. She said she was held captive for possibly an hour and a half, during which time her captor forced her at gunpoint to undress, threatened to kill her, attempted to rape her, and finally was convinced by her that she would submit to anything if he would spare her life.

The woman said she agreed to an affair with the man and apparently convinced him of her sincerity, and a tryst was arranged for 10:15 a.m., the following day. This meeting was postponed, investigators said, when the man called to say he would be delayed because he had to take his wife to lunch and set the new meeting time at 1 p.m. Another phone call was made to the woman at 1:20 p.m., and this time, it was said, detective Rose listened in on the conversation. 2 Prestonsburg Food Facilities To Open in 1974

Construction is scheduled to begin soon on two new food carry-out facilities on US 23 south here, and tentative completion dates were set for sometime next spring.

The restaurants are Long John Silver's Fish & Chips and Dairy Cheer. The former will be located on a lot adjacent to Jerry's Restaurant. Dairy Cheer will be just south of the First Presbyterian Church.

The fish and chips restaurant, part of a Lexington-based franchise which includes some 140 such facilities throughout the country, is being built by the Prestonsburg Restaurant Corporation, owned by Jack Absher and Boyd Thompson. Jerry's Restaurant is also owned by the corporation.

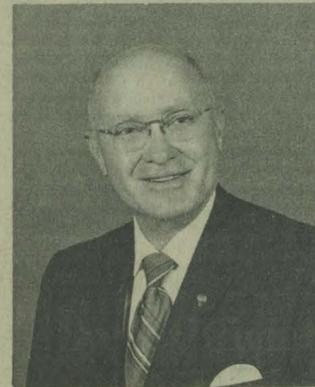

Absher said building plans are still in the making but he estimated the restaurant would seat about 56 people. He said he expects construction to move rapidly, once plans are approved. "We hope to have it in operation by spring," he said. The restaurant will offer a variety of seafoods as well as fried chicken.

Owner of the franchise on the new Dairy Cheer restaurant, Dallas Prater, said site preparation for the facility is all but completed and actual construction on the 40 by 80-foot structure is ready to begin. According to Prater, the restaurant should open in April.

Dairy Cheer is a restaurant chain based in Ashland with facilities located in several Kentucky cities, including Paintsville and Pikeville. In addition to serving several different types of sandwiches and quick service meals, these restaurants specialize in a variety of ice cream and dairy dishes.

Co. Board Acts To Meet Crisis

Kiwanis Club Here To Observe Fiftieth Anniversary, Dec. 6

The Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club will celebrate its 50th anniversary tomorrow (Thursday) with a special golden anniversary meeting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

The club was founded December 8, 1923.

The Golden Anniversary program will feature an address by well-known Kiwanian, A. C. "Andy" Hutson, Jr., of Knoxville, Tennessee.

The club expects representatives from other clubs in this district to join in observance of the anniversary.

Empowers Two To Reduce Fuel Use As Needed

The Floyd County Board of Education at its Saturday meeting here gave Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark and Schools Transportation Director James Salisbury broad powers in effecting gasoline and oil products conservation during the current fuel crisis.

No detailed plan was developed but the two were given authority to meet situations as they arise. Superintendent Clark said possible actions could include a shorter school week and curtailment of the use of buses, trucks and other vehicles. "Certainly the use of school buses to transport pupils to home basketball games will be curtailed, and it may be necessary to reduce or eliminate their transportation to all games," Clark commented.

The board also directed Clark to write all school principals, janitors and other school personnel to cut down on the use of electric energy.

A special meeting of the board was set for 8 p.m. Tuesday when it will confer with fiscal agents in preparing for the sale of bonds to finance the construction of Phase II at Allen Central High School. The fiscal court will meet at 10 a.m. Dec. 12 to take the steps required of it to make the bond sale.

The bonds will total $1,579,501 to cover the bid of Akers & Akers, contractors on the construction project. The Akers bid,

Floyd 84th in State In Pay for Teachers

Of Kentucky's 190 school districts last year, 162 paid their classroom teachers an average salary below the statewide average of $7794.

Floyd county ranked 84th in the state with an average annual salary of $7,315 for all classroom teachers.

A new publication of the Research Unit of the Kentucky Education Association (KEA) Division of Public Relations and Research stresses that point in comparing 1972-'73 average salaries paid by the state's school systems to all classroom teachers and to all certificated personnel (classroom teachers and administrators).

In the "all certificated personnel" category 164 districts paid less than the state salary average of $8258, according to the Research Memo prepared by Mrs. Floye Perkins, KEA assistant director of public relations and research.

Floyd county's certificated personnel were paid $7,725.

Charles Whaley, KEA director of public relations and research, noted in releasing the study that the statewide salary average for classroom teachers has dropped to $7794, now that actual figures for last year are in. Earlier estimates had put the average at $7825, ranking Kentucky 47th in the nation.

Whaley said the average salary paid Kentucky classroom teachers fell considerably below both the estimated $9359 average for the seven states bordering Kentucky and the $10,114 national average.

"The fact is," he said, "that many teacher raises have not kept pace with the increased cost of living, thus putting teachers further behind. A U. S. News and World Report article reprinted in a recent Reader's Digest includes a chart showing changes in 'real pay'—allowing for higher prices and taxes—for 39 occupations. And teachers are fifth highest on the list of 'losers,' preceded only by meat packers, soft coal miners, petroleum refinery workers, and oil and gas field workers."

"Teachers actually were behind by $3.35 a week, according to the magazine chart," said Whaley.

The new KEA study lists the lowest average salary for Kentucky classroom teachers in Science Hill, an independent district in Pulaski county. It paid $6645, which was $1149 less than the state average.

The highest average was in Fort Thomas, an independent district in Campbell county. It paid $9135, which was $1341 more than the state average.

This is a difference of $2490 in classroom teacher average salaries paid by Kentucky school districts.

The study points out that the state's three largest districts—Jefferson county, Louisville, and Fayette county—were among those which paid more than the state average in both categories. Because those districts employ about one-fourth of the total personnel employed in all 190 school districts, the higher salaries paid

Martin Has Housing OK At $412,413 Community Is First In Area To Build Facility for Aged

The Housing Authority of Martin has won its seven-year effort to become the first in the area to construct a housing complex especially for the elderly.

Mrs. Helen Ison, executive secretary of the Housing Authority, announced Friday that a contract for the work was signed the preceding day in Louisville with the successful bidders, Bradley & Powers Construction Co., Paintsville. The contract negotiation was attended by Mayor E. P. Grigsby, Fred Nunemaker, chairman of the Martin Housing Commission, Mrs. Ison and representatives of the Housing & Urban Development office (HUD).

Bradley & Powers will build 28 apartments for the elderly in the Town Center area of Martin for a total of $412,413. The contract also calls for the construction of administrative and maintenance offices and a community room. The apartments will be in two two-story buildings which will be of frame construction with brick veneer. The 28 units of efficiency and one-bedroom apartments will be especially designed to provide conveniences for elderly occupants.

The move for the complex began in July, 1966 and contractors had twice earlier been asked to submit bids on the project. Earlier bids were rejected as too high.

Work on the project will begin next Monday and completion is scheduled for Dec. 4, next year. Its completion will provide 68 low-rent housing units for the community of Martin. The first complex there, Pageant Hills, which has 40 units, was first occupied in March, 1965.

Clinic Slated Monday

The Floyd County Health Department announces that a public health nurse will hold an outpost clinic next Monday in the basement of the Methodist Church at Wayland from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Services available will be TB skin tests, immunizations, diabetes screening and blood pressures. These services are free and open to the public.

SOURCES OF HEAT

We have at hand a sizeable collection of suggestions on how to beat the energy crisis. Most of these run to the why-don't-they or why-didn't-they line of thinking, but a few get down to cases. One of the latter is the idea that Jerry Watson has, suggesting that this great country of ours might now well put to use the hot air produced by politicians and the hot water in which some find themselves. Maybe we could use a few hot arguments, too.

MEET A NEW VISITOR

Koboutek—now isn't it just like this crazy age to come up with a name like that for a comet? Back in the good, old days they named the visitor which swam into our ken from outer space, dragging across the firmament its tail behind it, for a man named Halley, a name most of us could remember and a few of us could spell. But now they have to go and name this newsworthy comet that will be decorating the pre-Christmas skies this year for a foreigner. Wonder what Archie Bunker would say about that?

I have no desire to admit my age, but I clearly recall the days when Halley's comet and some wild astronomers had the pants scared off a lot of people. The papers were full of wild guesses at what might happen. One savant parted his beard long enough to assure one and all that on the day when the tail of the comet came nearest Earth oxygen might be at a premium and we might have difficulty breathing in the hot, airless atmosphere.

Well, that one went the way of other

One Arrested, Second Sought In Looting Here

A Floyd county man's distaste for stolen property may have given detectives the break they needed toward solving the recent burglary here of the Western Auto Store from which an estimated $10,000 worth of merchandise was taken.

The officers' informant said he bought two guns, which he gave to his sons-in-law, and later read The Floyd County Times report of the Prestonsburg store robbery and of the large number of guns taken. So he called County Detective Sam Hale to report his purchases and to determine if the guns were from the store.

Hale and State Police Detective Gary Rose checked the serial numbers of the guns purchased, a .38 calibre revolver and a .357 Magnum, with the list of serial numbers in their possession and found that the weapons had been taken from the store here.

They also were told that the purchase was made from a Frank Newsome, 25.

The trail led to a trailer which Newsome, who has been residing in Dayton, O., and Irving Tidwell, about 24, also of Dayton, had been occupying on Hurricane Creek, Pike county. Tidwell was arrested last Friday by Rose and Hale at the trailer. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Newsome, but he has not been found. Tidwell told the officers he had accompanied Newsome when he sold

Bull Creek Location Sought for School

Condemnation of property on the Lancer-Water Gap road as a site for a future elementary school was authorized by the Floyd County Board of Education at its Saturday meeting.

The action was taken after Byron Nunnery, agent for the board in negotiating for purchase of the site, reported "substantial lack of progress."

The search for a site for a new school complied with recommendations made by a 1970 facilities survey team which said one of the pressing needs of the Floyd school system was additional facilities to relieve overcrowding in the Prestonsburg and Clark elementary schools.

The school location sought is on the farm of the Marvin Marshall heirs. A minimum of 10 acres, plus an acre for every 100 pupils enrolled, would be required.

Supt. Clark said the enrollment in the school could run from 300 to 400. He said all seven classrooms in the basement of the Prestonsburg school should be vacated and that the Bull Creek building should also be large enough to take care of the Clark school congestion.

Clark emphasized that the project is "for the future," that no timetable can now be set for construction.

Curci Is Heart Fund Campaign Chairman

Fran Curci, head football coach at the University of Kentucky, has been named state campaign chairman for the 1974 Heart Fund drive in February.

J. O. Matlick, board chairman of the Kentucky Heart Association, made the announcement recently and added that Gov. Wendell H. Ford will again serve as honorary state chairman.

State advisory co-chairmen for the 1974 drive include former U. S. Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Louisville and former Gov. Edward T. Breathitt of Hopkinsville.

Jesse Stuart, Greenup novelist and poet, is the state campaign vice-chairman and Mrs. S. Garnett Bale, Elizabethtown, is state Heart Sunday chairman.

Matlick said that the presidents of the state's three major women's organizations have accepted appointments to the Heart Sunday Advisory Committee. They are Mrs. Harold Mullins of Louisville, president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Carolyn Key, Hopkinsville, of the Kentucky Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Philip W. Harrison, Cynthiana, president of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers' Clubs.

In 1973, Kentuckians contributed a record high total of $587,535 to the Heart Fund, said Matlick.

Gas Official Warns Of Insulation Dangers

Insulating your home to save on heating fuel is a wise idea, but knowing what you're doing before you insulate could save your life, according to J. B. Bowman, manager for Columbia Gas of Kentucky, Inc. in the Ashland area.

Mr. Bowman noted that heating equipment needs oxygen to burn fuel properly, without creating fumes, and cautioned against sealing furnace room windows and doors with tape or rags or failing to properly vent a furnace.

"A home which is too tightly sealed, rather than properly insulated, won't allow fresh air into the furnace for complete combustion of the heating fuel," Mr. Bowman said. "As a result, lethal carbon monoxide is formed and can spread throughout the entire home."

Mr. Bowman urged homeowners to contact local insulation dealers for information on how to plan an adequate insulation program.

Bill Would Permit State To Seize All Unsafe Dams

The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection could seize control of any dam it deems unsafe under a bill prefiled last week for consideration by the 1974 General Assembly.

House Bill 67, prefiled for the Interim Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources, would set up regular inspections for all dams and other "water barriers" and would compel their owners to maintain the structures at minimum safety levels.

After each inspection, the owner will be provided with a certificate of inspection rating the various safety aspects of the dams and water barriers.

If inspectors found a dam below minimum standards and the owner failed to make the required improvements, the department could ask the governor to declare a state of emergency empowering seizure of the structure.

Under present law, dam owners can only be requested to make repairs or change impoundments levels. A court order forcing compliance can be sought only if there appears to be an immediate threat of a break in the dam and the owner refuses to cooperate, an attorney for the department said.

Structures that impound water in connection with coal mine operations would be among the structures covered by the proposed law, the attorney said.

HB 67 would permit the department to take any necessary action after a declared emergency, including:

—Taking full charge and control of the dam, reservoir, levee, embankment or other water barrier.

—Lowering the water level or emptying the reservoir.

—Performing any necessary remedial or protective work at the site.

—Taking steps necessary to safeguard life and property.

We All Are Guilty

Editor, The Times:

We, the American people, must accept the blame for the wrongs in our government and country. We are guilty—every one of us. Who has elected all government officials? We, the people.

What do we hope to accomplish by using the President as a scapegoat? Will we build a stronger America? He is just one man. What will be achieved if we break his spirit? Only a sad day for America can result—we would only choose someone else for a "patsy."

Can any of us deny that corruption in government begins at home? How about us parents who go to the judge or some other law official to get our children off "easy"? How many law officials go along with us? Too many. What about the elections in our own towns? Are there crooked people whom we have helped elect? For what purpose—if we do not expect favors, are we afraid to stand against evil? If so, why do we expect others higher up to stand? Corruption's forces are much more powerful at higher levels of government than at local levels.

Who can deny that politics has even entered into our educational system. How many teachers knew that if they didn't vote for a particular person they would not have a school for the year, or vice versa? How many have become sick at their stomachs as they swallowed their little bit of dignity and went along in order to have a job? Too many.

What do we look for in a candidate for political office? Someone to do justice and the good thing for the people? I don't think so. It seems we look for someone who promises to do a lot for us—even if he has to pull strings to do it.

How many of us cheat on our income tax? How easy is it for us to lie? Can we pay the fiddler after we've danced?

America is supposedly a Christian nation. Yet, how many of us "Christians" never read the scriptures and instead follow a man, or men, blindly? Lots of us do. How many of us would vote for a "born-again," Bible-believing, and Bible-practicing, man for President? Not many. Most of us want a man who can straddle all streams and tell a tale to fit every situation. No honest man can do this.

Who am I? Just an average, or maybe below average, American. I have more than my share of weaknesses and have committed many of the things mentioned. My biggest failure is in being afraid of what others will think or do—so much so that I am almost sick of myself. It is time to quit being afraid. It is time to admit our guilt and do something about it if we want a better America. If not, let's quit trying to destroy someone else to ease our own guilt.

We, the people, are guilty for the condition of America.

Says County's Credits Exceed the Debits

The Times is a valuable link with home and the good life. I only wish some Floyd countians could serve some time in some of our more "cultured" communities, such as San Antonio. This city has logged over 200 traffic deaths this year and a few more murders.

I don't often meet any fellow-hillbillies from Eastern Kentucky, and those few are usually transplanted persons who call Ohio or Michigan home—poor, misguided souls!

Floyd county has its faults, but so very many things on the credit side. The people, disciplined schools, and a real chance for progress in the near future.

We plan to retire to Floyd County in three years and, hopefully, we'll have a few dedicated, qualified public officials serving the people by then.

Thank you for the Times.

Banner-Prater Creek Area Asks Highway Sign

Editor, The Times:

Recently, a Letter to the Editor appeared in the Floyd County Times concerning the matter of the highway department placing a sign at Dwale to let people know that the community of Dwale still existed, even though the new highway goes through the center of it. I thought it was a great idea... because it shows that even though they live out of state they are still proud of where they were born and reared and the community of Dwale should not be forgotten. Well, maybe, thanks to the letter that the lady wrote, there now is a sign on the new highway saying, Dwale!

So I am writing to you with the hope that the same thing will happen for the people who live at Banner and Prater Creek at present and for all those people who were born here and now live away but are still proud of their home and birthplace.

Come on, Kentucky Department of Highways, and let us see a sign for Banner and Prater Creek!

Four To Study in Jamaica

Three of the four University of Kentucky students who were nominated as participants in InterFuture—a program which enables U.S. students to earn college credit while studying in another country—meet with Roberta Erena, a UK graduate student employed in the Office of International Programs. From left are Mike Wilson, of Lexington, Anna Cordon, of Calvert City, Mrs. Erena, and Mary Newsome, of Martin. Absent when the picture was made is Robert Gordon, of Lexington.

Four University of Kentucky students have been nominated by the Office of International Programs to participate in InterFuture—a national program which provides U. S. college students the opportunity to receive credit for studies in another country.

The four UK students, who have requested study in Jamaica during the summer of 1974 are Mike Wilson and Robert Gordon, both sophomores from Lexington, Anna Cordon, a junior from Calvert City, and Mary Newsome, a senior from Martin.

Craig Howard, a UK pre-medical junior from Elizabethtown, studied the treatment of sickle-cell anemia in Jamaica last summer with Dr. Graham Sergeant, head of the largest sickle-cell research and treatment center in the West Indies.

Since his return to Lexington, Howard has been preparing his findings to share with the campus and community. InterFuture scholars may complete this requirement through senior thesis, talks to community groups, creating or assisting a local project, or leading an accredited seminar for other undergraduates.

UK was one of 16 pilot campuses who initially sent IF scholars abroad. Operating since 1971, InterFuture—which means “intercultural studies of the future”—enables select undergraduates from North American schools to design and carry out overseas investigations of global issues such as “internationalism,” “habitat,” and “individual and society.”

Miss Newsome, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Estill Newsome, will study in the area of embryonic development. She majors in zoology at UK.

Mini-Workshop Slated At Clark Elementary

All teachers, teacher-aides, and parents are invited to participate in a workshop at the Clark Elementary School, Tuesday evening, December 11. Sponsored by the Jenny Wiley Reading Council, an affiliate of the International Reading Association, the mini-workshop is the first of three which have been scheduled for the 1973-'74 school year. Activities will begin at 6 p.m.

Participants will engage in the construction of teacher-made materials and games used to supplement and reinforce classroom work. A registration fee of $2 will be required to defray costs of materials. Participants are requested to bring discarded textbooks and workbooks, and old magazines.

LEGAL DRINKING AGE 18, ACCIDENT RATE UP

Michigan allowed 18-year-olds to drink as of January 1, 1972. Nine months later drinking teenagers had:—increased their number of alcohol related accidents by 120 per cent; increased their fatal accidents by 66 per cent; increased their personal injury accidents by 114 per cent.

In Appreciation

We acknowledge, with sincere thanks, the beautiful floral offerings sent by the people of the Lancer community upon the death of our loved one, Anna Gray.

THE FAMILY

In March 1972, there were 4.2 million women of minority races in the work force, the Women's Bureau reports. Fifty-two percent were single, widowed, divorced or separated from their husbands and 16 percent were wives whose husbands had 1971 incomes of below $5,000.

Center Receives Donations

First National Bank President Burl Wells Spurlock presents $1,000 check to Senior Citizens Center Director Glenda Hall.

Organizational efforts for the George P. Archer Senior Citizens Center received a couple of "shots in the arm" Friday as Center Director Glenda Hall received a $1,000 check from the First National Bank and a large quantity of paint donated by the Thomas Hereford Company.

The facility, which will be located at Archer Park here, will serve an estimated 5,065 citizens 60 years of age and older.

One of 33 such centers in Kentucky, Miss Hall described the facility as a "multi-service" center and commented, "We are concerned for and with the older person as a total person, in all aspects of his life." This concern, according to the director, will be expressed by a wide range of individual and group programs and services provided to cover social opportunity, educational and recreational pursuits and information and referral service. She said the center's motto will be, "We do not grow old; rather, we are continuing to grow up."

Cats Twice in Runnerup Role In Net Tournaments Here

Two pre-season basketball tournaments in the past two weeks have seen a greatly improved Prestonsburg Blackcat team make it in each case to the championship game only to lose by a small margin.

In the Jenny Wiley Invitational Tournament held at the Prestonsburg fieldhouse, Nov. 21-24, the Blackcats made it to the final game by defeating a strong Allen Central team, 63-59, and then falling to Johnson Central in the finals, 64-57. Kippy McNally, with an average of 25 points per game in the tournament, was voted Outstanding Playmaker, and David Harrington with a rebound average of 18 per game was voted Outstanding Rebounder. Both boys are members of the Prestonsburg team.

The Floyd County Invitational Tournament, held at the PHS fieldhouse last Wednesday through Saturday, saw the Blackcats again down Allen Central on Wednesday night, 53-44. Betsy Layne's defeat of McDowell in Thursday night's contest then pitted Prestonsburg against the Bobcats in the tournament finals. In this game, the Blackcats left the floor at half-time with a one point edge on the Bobcats, but the lead couldn't be sustained as Betsy Layne won, 55-44.

Friday night, Prestonsburg will face Boyd County High in the Sandy Valley Conference Tournament at Greenup County. The Blackcats won their first game of regular season play recently, edging Elliott County, 55-52.

VICA Activities

Two members of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) at Garth Vocational School, participated in the recent March of Dimes walkathon, and the two, Lloyd Powers and Jimmy Risner, earned $24.75 for the March of Dimes.

VICA recently sponsored a turkey shoot and Darrell Powers was the winner of a 10-lb. turkey.

Last year, VICA awarded scholarships of over $200.00 each to Robert Prater, Jeff Hall and Glendil Patton.

Almost 15,000 American workers, aged 40 to 65, were the victims of illegal age discrimination during the 1973 fiscal year, the Labor Department reports. Nearly $2 million was found to be owed to more than 1,000 of these workers because of lost working time or other damages resulting from age discrimination.

Average union wage rates for building trades workers in cities of 100,000 persons or more increased 1.7 percent in the third quarter of 1973 and 4.9 percent over the year ending Oct. 1, 1973, the Labor Department reports.

Explanation

The Times is informed that the suit of Arley Boyd, et al vs. Joe David Martin, et al, reported in last week's edition, resulted a difference between the two parties over a building contract but that the matter has since been resolved and the litigation ended.

VISIT PARENTS HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brickley and daughters, Carla, Stacy and Ann, of Newport, Tenn., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Brickley, here last week.

NATION'S SCHOOLS

The nation's fuel shortage could close more schools than did teacher strikes, according to Michigan school superintendent John Porter. In Minnesota 75 percent of the districts surveyed did not expect to have enough fuel for the winter.

Maryland school systems are ready to eliminate after-school activities, including athletics, if faced with wide spread fuel shortages, and New Haven, Connecticut, officials are turning back thermostats to 70 degrees. One problem involved with closing schools is the need to change teacher contracts which specify school closing dates.

First Big US 23 Sign

Stations Close, Drivers Fewer, Accident Rate Drops Sharply

Respecting President Nixon's requests for Sunday gas station shut-downs and reduced highway driving speeds, well over 90 per cent of area service stations closed last Sunday, and a short accident reduction resulted from a lighter and voluntarily slower flow of Sunday traffic. Both Marvin Music, Prestonsburg Gulf distributor, and Carl Martin, Standard Oil distributor at Allen, reported all their stations were closed Sunday, although Martin allowed for the possibility that a few grocery store pumps may have been operating. Jim Queen, bulk plant manager at Ashland Petroleum Products, said he estimates that at least 90 percent of area Ashland stations were closed. "We closed stations that had never locked their doors," Queen said. Predictably, Saturday business at most stations was what was described as one dealer as "hectic." Jim Queen said one Ashland station did 30 per cent more business Friday and Saturday than during any three days the previous week. "They were covered up," Queen commented. Station owners, obviously hurt by the Sunday closing as well as by the overall fuel crisis were, according to Carl Martin, "taking it in stride and trying to stretch their allotment to last through the month." To achieve this, many stations have restricted their operating hours, are now closing on Sunday, and Mr. Music said he has recommended that stations also close on holidays. According to State Police sources, traffic was below normal Sunday and many of those motorists observed the requested 50 m.p.h. speed limit recommended by the President. A spokesman for the Kentucky State Police post at Pikeville said only two traffic accidents were recorded in the 24-hour period between midnight Saturday and midnight Sunday. This is a reduction of about 80 per cent from the usual average of 8-10 mishaps it was said. Reports of a relatively "safe" week-end also came in from McCormick Ambulance Service here, who reported that for the first week-end in four years they received no calls due to a traffic accident. P & B. Ambulance also said they experienced a "quiet" week-end.

two guns but denied having a part in the Western Auto break-in. The detectives found no guns at the trailer but in a waste can they uncovered a map of court street here and of the Western Auto building. Labels from television sets were also found and these bore serial numbers corresponding to the list the officers had been given.

Two more guns found by Detective Rose in Pike county brought to four the weapons recovered. TV sets and sewing machines reported taken remain missing.

Meanwhile, a second Prestonsburg store was hit by thieves who stole four television sets, eight to ten cameras and other items from the Odds and Ends Furniture Store at the corner of Graham and Third here. The break was discovered last Thursday morning by Jim Howard, manager, who said entrance was effected by removing a hasp and padlock from an outside door. Howard said the total loss is not known. Detectives Chester D. Potter, Gary Rose and Sam Hale joined city police in the investigation. There was no trace of fingerprints.

ABC Agent Arvel Nelson and Deputy Sheriff Otto Fannin confiscated 240 cans of beer, 48 half-pints of whiskey and two "fifths" of wine in a raid last week-end on the home of Gordon L. Porter at Dwale. Porter executed bond for his appearance Dec. 12 in Magistrate Bill Wells' court. Paul Osborne was jailed last Wednesday by Policeman Darrel J. Conley and charged with possessing marijuana and with breaking into the high school here.

Others jailed within the week, charges against each and names of arresting officers follow: Dezard Allen, reckless use of a deadly weapon, by State Trooper Phillip Tucker; Ray Hatfield, drunk driving, by State Trooper Leeman Bevins; Phillip Moore, drunk driving, by State Troopers Castle and Estep; Barney Osborne, drunk driving, by Allen Policeman Gene Hall; Carlos Little, no operator's license; Hillard Gayheart, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Constable Gillis Conn and Deputy Sheriff Dexter Hamilton; Thelma R. Frasure, fugitive warrant, by State Trooper Dennie Williamson; Bradley Lewis and Kadus Hall, drunk driving, both arrested by Trooper Williamson; Dennis Conn, drunk driving, by Trooper Tucker; Sterling Hall, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Troopers Bevins and Allen; Gary Darrel Goble, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper E. B. Allen; George Casebolt, Jr., drunk driving, by Troopers Allen and Bevins.

The Executive Department for Finance and Administration and the Department of Revenue have announced that Kentucky's general fund receipts for the first four months of the fiscal year total $248,542,069—an increase of 7.2 per cent over last year's first quarter. Revenue Commissioner John Ross said it appears that the energy crisis has not yet affected the general fund.

Name Reynolds Caucus Leader For '74 Session

Two Eastern Kentucky legislators will occupy the same post in their respective houses of the General Assembly when it convenes in January.

Representative W. J. Reynolds, of Allen, was designated by Democratic legislators in their Kentucky Dam Village caucus this week as House caucus chairman, a post which he has held for two General Assembly sessions, and State Senator Joe Stacy, of West Liberty, was named to the same post in the Senate.

Democratic leadership posts were decided upon without contest but two Republican leadership posts in the House were contested.

Other Democratic leadership posts were filled, as follow:

Senate—Tom Garrett, Paducah, majority leader; William Sullivan, Henderson, president pro tempore; William Gentry, Bradstown, whip.

House—Norbert Blume, Louisville, speaker; Billy Paxton, Central City, speaker pro tem; John Swinford, Cynthia, majority leader; George Harris, Salem, majority whip.

Senate—Gene Stuart, Louisville, minority leader Joe Graves, Lexington, minority caucus chairman; and Denver C. Knuckles, Middlesboro, minority whip.

House—W. Harold DeMarcus, Stanford, minority leader, Larry Hopkins, Lexington, caucus chairman, and Arthur L. Schmidt, Cold Springs, minority whip.

The Democratic leaders all had gubernatorial endorsements and were accepted routinely.

Two Republican contests gave senate offices to freshmen—Stuart as minority leader and Graves as caucus chairman. Norman Farris, Somerset, was renominated for is position as minority leader but said he had served in several leadership positions and then nominated Stuart. The latter defeated Walter Baker, Glasgow, by a vote of 5 to 4.

The Republican House contest for two leadership positions was close, with one vote deciding the caucus chairman and whip designee.

Before the Republic House caucus, DeMarcus, who has served three terms as minority floor leader, told reporters that "the governor and the governor's office was trying to participate in the Republican caucus against me when we have the lowest membership in 20 years."

DeMarcus' opponent for minority leader, Bruce Blythe, Louisville, read a 10-point "leadership plan" to the caucus but remarked later, "it apparently wasn't read enough."

All-Ky. Title Up for Decision

Dan Stewart, chairman of the All-Kentucky City Project Committee of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, announced last week that Prestonsburg and 43 other Kentucky cities will be judged for the title of All-Kentucky City by an out-of-state judging panel, December 4-6. Several representatives of the Prestonsburg Area Chamber of Commerce, including Chamber President Robert V. May, Jr., Prestonsburg All-Kentucky City Committee Chairman Ann Latta, and City Manager Curtis Clark will attend Wednesday's judging session to be held at Hospitality Inn in Lexington.

The Chamber of Commerce has over the past year mounted as "all out" effort to regain the All-Kentucky City honor which was won by Prestonsburg in 1967. A 45-page written report was submitted to judges in early October and a 15-minute oral presentation along with the showing of 70 slides demonstrating progress in community development will be given on Wednesday.

To reach the final judging, a community must have scored excellent in at least four of 11 categories. The categories are Natural Resources, Industrial Development, Community Development, Comprehensive Planning, Residential Development, Local Government, Recreational and Cultural Programs, Public Health and Welfare, Education, Utilities and Services, and Ecological Improvement Programs.

In addition to Prestonsburg, cities reaching the final judging level are Mt. Sterling, Berea, Central City, Ashland, Middlesboro, Paintsville, Owensboro, Elizabethtown, Somerset, Henderson, Providence, Leitchfield, Madisonville, Nicholasville, Winchester, Greensburg, Marion, Pikeville, Eddyville, Hazard, London, Corbin, Hopkinsville, Pineville, Princeton, Morganfield, Campbellsville, Columbus, Lancaster, Shelbyville, Stanford, Harlan, Bowling Green, Clinton, Franklin, Paducah, Carrollton, Glasgow, Cumberland, Cave City, Danville, Radcliff, Harrodsburg.

Winners of the designation, "All-Kentucky City," will be announced January 25 at an Awards Luncheon at the Bluegrass Convention Center, Louisville.

by the three districts have a disproportionate influence on the state average.

The range in average salaries paid to all certificated personnel was from $7028 in Magoffin county ($1230 less than the state average) to $9800 in Louisville ($1542 more than the state average).

In many cases the study shows a considerable difference between rankings of average salaries paid in a particular district in the two categories.

This can be caused by a number of factors, such as the relative numbers of bachelor's degree, master's degree, or beyond the master's degree personnel employed; whether a large percent of personnel are at the bottom or top of the experience scale, and the numbers of and relative rankings of salaries paid to a district's administrative personnel.

Copies of the Research Memo, entitled "A Comparison of Average Salaries Paid All Classroom Teachers and All Certificated Personnel in Kentucky Public-School Districts, 1972-'73," are available from the KEA Division of Public Relations and Research, 101 West Walnut Street, Louisville, Ky. 40202.

The rank of other school systems in Eastern Kentucky and the average paid classroom teachers, according to the KEA report, follow:

Boyd County, 58th, $7,460; Ashland, 18th, $8,092; Catlettsburg, 157th, $7,012; Breathitt County, 160th, $6,998; Jackson, 134th, $7,122; Carter County, 166th, $6,956; Elliott, 102nd, $7,248; Greenup, 114th, $7,193; Raceland, 39th, $7,630; Russell, 25th, $7,859; Johnson, 163rd, $6,992; Paintsville, 93rd, $7,291; Knott, 177th, $6,906; Letcher, 94th, $7,286; Jenkins, 153rd, $7,023; Lawrence, 180th, $6,878; Martin county, 161st, $6,995; Magoffin, 188th, $6,694; Morgan, 118th, $7,178; Perry, 169th, $6,946; Hazard, 107th, $7,219; Pike, 72nd, $7,392; Pikeville, 26th, $7,845; Rowan, 110th, $7,198.

In the 13th century, Kublai Khan, the great Mongol ruler, decreed maximum prices. In 1349, the British Parliament passed the Ordinance of Laborers, the first of a series of laws setting maximum wages, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

it was said, amounted to $24.65 per square foot, a figure which is less than the cost on several recent school construction jobs.

Regulations prepared by elementary school principals to govern elementary teams in tournament and other basketball games were presented the board by Supt. Clark. The principals asked that the spring grade school tournament continue under sponsorship of the PTA Council but asked that expenses of each participating team be paid out of tournament proceeds. Heretofore, the schools have borne this expense.

On recommendation of school principals and the superintendent the first and third Wednesday of each month was designated for faculty meetings, and dismissal of school 30 minutes early was authorized for these meetings.

The board accepted the resignation of Myrtle Reaser, Prestonsburg elementary teacher who is retiring, and transferred Billie B. Little, of Abbott Creek, from the Melvin school to fill the vacancy. Kenneth Eads was employed to take Mrs. Little's place at Melvin.

Meade County Success Helps First-Year Coach

Phillip Haywood, of Prestonsburg, found his first year in the coaching profession more pleasant than many.

He was assistant football coach at Meade County High, Brandenburg, Ky., and his team came through with the district Class AA championship. It was the first time the school ever gained a playoff spot in any sport. Meade County upset highly favored Somerset, 14-8, but later lost in the semi-finals to the state's No. 1-rated Paducah Tilghman, 28-0.

A graduate of Prestonsburg High School and Eastern Kentucky State University, Haywood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haywood, of Prestonsburg.

Computers To Be Used In Reclamation Projects

Frankfort, Ky.—Computers will soon take their place among bulldozers, hydroseeders and other reclamation tools as the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection (NREP) incorporates a computerized system into its Reclamation Division.

The new service will enable reclamation officials to maintain a complete and ongoing status of all strip mine and reclamation activities, said Jim Baker, NREP computer systems coordinator.

The system will be activated in January, he said, and will be used to accumulate information on new mining and reclamation sites. As the operation becomes established, the backlog of date on past and present operations will be fed into the computer bank.

Baker said the computerized information will include all permit applications, inspection reports, non-compliance notices and reclamation suspension data (if any) and bond information of all mining sites in Kentucky.

He estimated the cost of the new system to be $15,000 for the first year of operation—an amount considerably less than the cost of salaries required to hire additional personnel if the computer system were not used.

At the present time, Baker noted, reclamation and mining date is obtained by poring through massive files of general information pertaining to a permit.

He said the computer system will allow area offices to update their files and eliminate the clerical bottleneck in the Frankfort office.

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

With Thanksgiving over, most of us turn our thoughts toward Christmas and the problem of the right gift. If you are buying a present for a hunter or fisherman this problem can be eased considerably, for there are literally hundreds of items in all price ranges that the sportsman will welcome.

The best bet for the person who knows little about hunting and fishing equipment is to seek the advice of a knowledgeable salesperson in a sporting goods store about brand names, styles and sizes.

A safe practice is to stick to the medium-priced article, which is usually of high quality and lacks only the frills or the flash of a more expensive counterpart. The low priced items may not meet the needs of the sportsman, or they may be poorly constructed of low-quality materials.

Anyone contemplating a major gift, such as a boat and motor, should forego the element of surprise and let the recipient choose his own, since he will probably have some definite ideas about what he needs and wants.

For the fisherman, choice gifts are tackle boxes, lures, lines, tools, fish stringers, hooks, sinkers, filleting knives, bait knockers, flashlights, small first-aid kits, reel oil and gear lubricants. Or the fisherman may welcome some of the newer electronic gadgets, such as electric trolling motors, depth finders, electronic thermometers or oxygen meters.

For the hunter, there are rifles, shotguns, bows and arrows or other archery equipment, gun cases, telescopes, binoculars, gun racks, shells, decoys, hunting coats, pants, boots, caps, duck and goose calls, reloading tools, pocket and sheath knives, shooting glasses, cleaning kits or even sharpening stones.

For either the hunter or fisherman, there are tents, sleeping bags, air mattresses, lanterns, thermos jugs, insulated inner and outerwear, rain gear, life saving devices, ice chests, camp cook stoves and heaters or even camp cooking utensils.

Or if the sportsman on your list also likes to read, you might consider giving him a subscription to a hunting and fishing magazine, or making a gift of one of the many books on hunting, fishing, camping, or woodlore which are available at most bookstores.

Another possibility is "Kentucky Happy Hunting Ground," the official publication of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. A one-year subscription (6 issues) costs $1.00 and is available from the Division of Public Relations, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Finally, there is one gift which any sportsman will find an absolute necessity. This gift will be good for an entire year, and the hunter or fisherman will need it each time he goes into the field or to the lake. This gift is a 1974 hunting or fishing license ($5.00 each) or a combination license ($9.00), good for both fishing and hunting. This 1973 licenses expire on Dec. 31, so one for next year can be used almost immediately.

Licenses are available at the offices of all county clerks, and many sporting goods stores also sell them. You don't need to worry about a license being the wrong size or color, and it's a gift no sportsman will return.

So get your shopping done early and avoid the rush.

Pikeville CPA Pleads Not Guilty to Charge

A Pikeville certified public accountant has pleaded not guilty in U. S. district court, Louisville to two charges of failure to file federal income tax returns.

U. S. Judge Charles M. Allen set 1:30 p.m. Jan. 3 for the trial of John S. Petot Jr., 56, who is charged with failure to file his returns from 1970 and 1971.

The Internal Revenue Service alleges that Petot had gross income of $66,179.84 for 1970 and $71,014.49 for 1971.

The charges resulted from an investigation conducted by special agents and revenue agents of the Internal Revenue Service.

Holidays Bring Fire Horrors

Christmas holidays bring cheer to most everyone but horror stories to State Fire Marshal Warren Southworth.

"We're headed into the worst part of the danger season—the Christmas holidays," said Southworth. "Most wrapping paper, electric lights, candles and Christmas trees are extremely flammable. Add to that the winter heating hazards already present and you've got a ripe situation for disaster."

"November, December and January are the most dangerous months because they're the coldest and the holidays pose hazards at a time when many people become more careless," he said.

Last year, during those three months, 46 persons died in 1,164 fires in Kentucky with reported damages of $6½ million. Last December, the most dangerous month, 21 persons died in Kentucky fires, Southworth said.

"Many persons are planning to use flame retardants on their Christmas trees which work on fabrics, paper and even dry grass but which probably will not work on the Christmas trees. Most trees just won't absorb the solution," he added.

"Some chemicals which may be mixed with water are recommended for flameproofing but some of these mixtures don't work," said Southworth.

He pointed out that the only foolproof method involves totally immersing the trees in a chemical solution and then allowing them to drain and dry indoors.

The State Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection plans to sponsor legislation in the 1974 General Assembly to place stricter controls on coal mine roads and on waste piles resulting from underground mines. The proposed law may require mine operations to obtain permits to build mine access roads and would require mine operators to prevent waste piles from catching fire.

"I'm recommending extreme caution and no live Christmas trees unless you're absolutely sure they're flameproof and that's rare," added Southworth. "I suggest flame resistant artificial trees instead."

During the first nine months of fiscal year 1973, more than 1.1 million persons entered manpower work and training programs, the Labor Department reports. Of these, 520,000—or 46 percent—were black; 147,000—or 13 percent—were Hispanics; 29,000 were American Indians, and 39,000 were members of other minority groups.

TVA Expects Enough Power

Knoxville, Tenn.—The Tennessee Valley Authority said Monday it expects to have plenty of power this winter for its regular customers but unlikely will have any to sell to private utilities. Coupled with this optimistic report on the agency's power production potential was a statement by a TVA spokesman that its wholesale electricity rates may be raised this week, effective Jan. 1. Chairman Aubrey J. Wagner and other TVA officials have cited rising costs of production in saying the agency may have to boost its rates. The authority, which produces 80 percent of its power at coal-fired steam plants, said it currently has on hand a 76-day stockpile of fuel at the expected rate of burn. But coal deliveries have not kept pace with consumption of the fuel at TVA's 12 steam plants in recent months. TVA invoked emergency buying procedures to try to get its stockpiles up to the 90-day minimum it likes to maintain, but added that these "to date have not altered the situation." TVA has begun testing the first unit of its Browns Ferry nuclear power plant in North Alabama. If its 1,125,000-kilowatts can be added to the TVA system in the next month or so, the agency said in a statement, "it will help insulate the power system from the shortage of fossil fuels." But TVA cautioned that any large new generating unit, such as Browns Ferry, is subject to unexpected shutdowns during the initial period of operation.

Ford Says Energy Shortage To Affect State's Budget

Gov. Wendell Ford this week warned Kentucky legislators that the energy crisis will cause serious budgeting problems and that his watchword is caution in preparing the budget for the next two years.

The governor said revenue estimates are going to be difficult to make. "And we are going to have to face reality," he said, the prospect of increased unemployment, as a result of the energy shortage, and changes in lifestyles.

Ford, in his talk to Kentucky legislators at the pre session legislative conference at Kentucky Dam Village, was not specific about his legislative budget plans. He spoke in general terms, as expected, for he will deliver a State of the Commonwealth address and a budget message at the legislative session which convenes Jan. 8.

But he re-emphasized the gravity of the energy crisis, which has upset his earlier budget calculations and threatens to overshadow everything else.

In his relatively brief talk, the governor praised the 1972 legislative session, calling it "a distinguished session."

He said the last session provided an example of effective cooperation between the executive legislation branches of government. The 1972 session, he added, "deal with a lot of unfinished business that had been set aside in the past."

"The public today is concerned about the lack of cooperation between Congress and the White House," Ford said. He went on to say that his administration is endeavoring to sustain the spirit of cooperation between the two branches that was a hallmark of the 1972 session.

The governor told the legislators that 75 percent of the administrative legislation to be submitted "is already upstairs (in the legislative research commission offices) and ready for pre-filing. This has never happened before."

The September term of the Pulaski county grand jury has reported that a number of problems at Oakwood, a facility operated in Somerset by the Kentucky Department for Human Resources for the mentally retarded, have been solved. The report praised action by the state and Dr. Dale H. Farabee, commissioner of the Bureau for Health Services, in resolving questions raised by earlier grand juries.

State Internationally Known For Skilled Mine Rescue Teams

By MARVA GAY

Among traditions for which Kentucky is internationally noted is one to which many miners owe their lives.

For almost 20 years, the state has produced many of the top mine rescue and first aid teams in the nation.

"Since Kentucky teams were summoned to the salt mine disaster in Louisiana about 10 years ago," said H. N. Kirkpatrick, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, "the state's teams have often been called to help when disaster strikes in other states or even other countries."

He recalled when a large mine explosion occurred in Mexico in 1969, the Mexican government requested help from Kentucky's mine rescue teams. However, when Kirkpatrick arrived at the mine, the 178 miners had already died and the 10 Kentucky crews on standby were never sent.

Kirkpatrick cites the consistent championship of one of the state's volunteer rescue and first aid teams as the prime example of them all. "The Wisconsin Steel mine rescue group at Benham won the national mine rescue championship throughout the 1960's," said Kirkpatrick.

"In 1971, the old team broke up and a new one was formed. At its first contest, the team finished fifth and this year, with three years experience, they finished second in the nation."

The first aid team from the Pittsburg & Midway, Drake No. 3 mine placed fifth in the national ranking of the federal Bureau of Mines.

"Kentucky's winning teams and the other 33 that were good enough to compete nationally are results of the effort and pride the miners put into these crews," continued Kirkpatrick.

Kirkpatrick believes the winning tradition is the result of pride and frequent contests which spur that pride. "Most other states pay their mine rescue and first aid teams but we don't have to," he said.

"We hold five regional contests plus a state contest every other year when the national contest isn't held. In fact, the past two national contests have been held in Louisville because so many Kentucky people come," he added.

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

Walk quietly into a forest on a still summer night, sit down on an old, mossy log, perk up your ears and just listen.

Save for the throbbing threnody of a distant whippoorwill, or the lovelorn melody of a cricket, no sounds will you hear. The forest is gripped by a deep and solemn stillness. The trees have folded up and quit work—no photosynthesis, no transpiration, no hectic rush to capture sunlight. The machinery for making starches and sugars has been turned off and the trees are abed. So still are they, so deep their sleep, you can almost catch an occasional sibilant sigh. With a little imagination, you can hear the trees snoring softly in their deep sleep.

Trees are very sensitive to either sunlight or shade, also to a sudden drop in temperature. Let a cool, cloudy day come in the spring and you'll see the leaves begin to droop and huddle together as if for warmth. Let there be a dry, sultry day, when trees are praying for rain, and you'll see their leaves turn over as if beseeching the sky for a cooling downpour.

After a quiet night of sleep and rest, if is a marvelous thing to watch the green leaves come alive and get ready for a busy day. Each leaf tries its best to move into the sun for its share of power to run its food factory. Some trees are so sensitive to the touch of human fingers, their leaves literally recoil when touched. On a cool night, the leaves of the mimosa droop down about sixty degrees and the leaflets huddle together like little pigs in bed. This is also the way they sleep. The sensitive peas droop their leaves and go to sleep when nightfall comes. So do most members of the Legumes. Most of the Legumes are called "sensitive trees."

The summer leaves of trees play as well as work. They laugh and dance and sing in every gentle wind that blows. They clap their hands for joy when a brisk wind comes by and cools them down.

Trees are also highly sensitive to drought and heat. In too much heat, the leaves shrivel and wilt down as if dying. But when a cooling shower comes, the leaves revive so quickly it is amazing to see.

The trees know precisely when the sun goes down; they know it is time to knock off from work; when the sun "goes to bed," so do the trees, as it were. They rest from their labors and gently sleep when the sun is away. But when the sun comes back and begins to peek over the eastern rim of the horizon, the trees wake up singing and rejoicing to see the sun. The sun is their god, who blesses them and gives them power to operate their food-making factory. It is a miracle how the leaf uses its green coloring matter and with the energy of the sun makes its own food. No other created thing in all the universe is as self-sufficient as a tree.

If a man had his own built-in food factory like the leaf of a tree, he would never need to depend on any other source for his food. He could make his own food right in his own body and laugh in the face of the profiteering food dealers.

There are yet many mysteries not well understood about trees. I truly believe that Joyce Kilmer, the poet, had a greater spiritual understanding of trees than any other living person. He was inspired to write lines such as:

"A tree that looks to God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray..."

"On whose bosom snow has lain,
Who intimately lives with rain."

GOSSIP

When the gossip starts to travel
And the people move about,
A little tiny whisper
Becomes an ugly shout;
A little word of kindness
Is twisted into scorn,
And a little friendly meeting
Is of all its purpose, shown.
What makes the idle talker
So anxious to be heard?
Why must he be untruthful
In his thoughtless spoken word?
He causes so much heartache,
He causes many tear;
He adds discord to harmony,
And turns content to fears.
The world would be much better
If only age and youth
Wouth turn their backs on gossip
And strive to tell the truth.

RECEIVES AWARD—David Sloan (center), of Pikeville, recently received the Torts II Award for the highest grade in Torts II for the spring semester at Chase College of Law of Northern Kentucky State College, Covington. Sloan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sloan, of Pikeville, formerly of Garrett, is presently a second-year law student at the college. Pictured with Martin J. Huelsmann, assistant dean of the law school (far left), are other Kentucky recipients of awards: Steven C. Laber, Dayton, Ky.; Sloan; Ruth Klette, Park Hills, Ky.; and Russell Walker, Columbus, Ky.

Opinions From Office Of Attorney General

Among opinions released last week from the office of Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock were the following:

Mark E. Gormley, a Versailles attorney, asked would any conflict of interest occur if one was to serve as both county attorney and master commissioner simultaneously. He also questioned one's serving as sheriff and at the same time, chief of the county police department.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Walter C. Herdman replied that since the office of county attorney is a county office and the other an office of the court, there is no statutory or constitutional incompatibility between the two positions.

In response to the second question, Herdman said there was no statute prohibiting one from serving in the two offices but he doubted that it could be done successfully. He also stated that it could be subjected to local law.

Terry A. Sturgill, Neon attorney, stated that the present mayor of the city was elected in 1972 on a write-in vote to finish an unexpired term of the retired mayor. He then was re-elected in the last election on Nov. 6. The mayor lived in the city but did not own any property until Nov. 8 of this year. Sturgill questioned the legality of this individual holding the office of mayor.

According to Asst. Atty. Gen. Walter C. Herdman, the mayor must be a property owner when his term begins. As a result, his purchase of property is suitable for his approaching term.

He added that any question of his serving his present term without owning property is moot, because the term will expire before any proceedings could occur to remove him from office.

Saxophone Quartet Concert, Workshop Slated at College

A performance by the saxophone quartet from the University of Kentucky will be given in the auditorium of the Pike Technology Building on the Prestonsburg Community College campus tomorrow (Thursday) at 11:30 a.m. The concert will be preceded by a saxophone workshop at 10:30, directed by Dr. Lee Patrick, of the University of Kentucky music faculty.

The workshop and concert are open to band directors, music teachers, students of the saxophone or woodwind instruments, and any others who wish to attend.

The program is sponsored by the Community Services Office of Prestonsburg Community College. There is no admission charge.

Rev. Bill Campbell, Pastor

Region 11 ROPES Board Hears Regional Organization Progress

Reo Johns, director of ROPES Region 11, told the board of directors of the regional education organization at their meeting last week at May Lodge that all 17 educational development districts projected for Kentucky will be in operation by the end of 1975.

G. W. Kemper, unit director for supervision, Kentucky Department of Education pointed out that the department has been interested in regionalization since Governor Combs' administration and that the regional concept will become more important with the passing of time.

At the suggestion of Floyd Supt. Charles Clark, who is chairman of the ROPES Region 11 board, Kemper agreed to work closely with this region's staff toward planning a meeting for all instructional supervisors in the area.

Don Burchett, regional guidance supervisor, discussed new developments in career education and introduced his guests, Mabel Lemaster, Billy Jean King, Kay Webb, Debbie Slone and Annette Combs, all of the Paintsville city school system, who explained career education programs carried on in their classrooms.

David Jackson, director of the Office of Juvenile Delinquency Prevention and Rehabilitation, outlined the program carried on by his office and stressed the role played by the school in preventing delinquency. He offered the assistance of his office to Department of Pupil Personnel employees in the local school systems. Phil Bryan, guidance consultant with Mr. Jackson's office, told of programs carried on in schools in other sections of Kentucky to combat the dropout and delinquency problems.

George Logan, consultant, Safety and Driver Education, Department of Education, discussed new certification requirements for teachers of driver education as prescribed by Standard 304 of the Highway Act of 1966. He also told the board that his department can arrange matching funds for implementing a new driver education program in Region 11. Mr. Clark suggested that the ROPES Region 11 staff visit Region 12 to look at the ongoing driver education program there and to explore the possibility of implementing a similar program in this region.

Audrey Pratt, Region 11 special education supervisor, distributed copies of a Special Education Handbook for Region Eleven and praised the work of special education teachers in the region.

Mrs. Virginia Fox, director of education, Kentucky Educational Television, and Michael Clark, son of Board Chairman Clark and a production specialist with Kentucky Educational Television, traced the development of KETV from its inception and gave the board specific information on phases affecting the region. Mr. Clark urged board members to make the staff of KETV aware of their feelings concerning the programs and operations of the facility. He said this "feedback" is very important for the continuation of services to meet educational needs.

Bronelle Skaggs, assistant director, Region 11, pointed out that vocational education is trying to help people find something that they can be successful doing and that will enable them to derive an economic gain.

The Policies and Procedures Manual for the Region 11 office presented by Mr. Johns was approved by the directors. Mr. Johns also discussed the Regional Handbook, which is now being reviewed in Frankfort, and told the superintendents that they will be asked to attend a special meeting in December to make final recommendations for the handbook.

Move Begun To Restore Home Of Sellers, Pioneer in Aviation

By SUE ANNE SALMON

Pigeons will no longer roost on the third floor of the once stately Carter county home of Matthew Sellers, Kentucky's aerodynamics pioneer.

Local citizens, with help from the Kentucky Heritage Commission and Sellers' two sons, plan to restore the now vacant house designed by Sellers and built in 1894, near Grahn, Ky.

At a recent meeting at Carter Caves State Park, citizens met with members of the Kentucky Heritage Commission and aviation historian Edward Peck to discuss the fate of the rapidly dilapidating house.

Peck advised the group of 25 persons about plans of Sellers' sons to give the house and five acres of wooded ground to the community if the residents would restore and maintain the estate.

Peck, who is writing a biography of Sellers, also discussed the scientist's early studies of arched surfaces, wings, propellers, wind tunnels, gyroscopic forces, lateral balance and aerodynamic resistance of solid bodies.

Sellers, born in 1869, in Baltimore, Md., studied aerodynamics in Europe, returned to the United States and earned a law degree from Harvard and took special courses at the Lawrence Scientific School at Harvard and at Drexel Institute in Philadelphia.

He prospected and mined for industrial grade diamonds in Carter county and built several large hydrogen balloons and homemade kites before 1903, when he began to devote all his time to air research.

In a shed now used to store hay, Sellers built a full-sized wind tunnel which Peck describes as the most advanced such laboratory of the time. He also designed and flew a quadroplane glider which he later equipped with a 10-horsepower engine.

Although the Wright brothers were airborne before Sellers, his quadroplane design indicated a completely different approach to flying. Therefore, Peck noted, he used none of the Wright's ideas. In 1908, Sellers constructed and used the first retractable wheel for an airplane.

He also designed his own efficient propellers, using materials from the wooded hillsides surrounding Grahn.

In 1912, President Howard Taft appointed Sellers to the Aerodynamical Laboratory Commission, and in 1915, President Woodrow Wilson appointed him to the Naval Consulting Board as a representative of the Aeronautical Society of America.

Until his death in 1932, Sellers continued with aerodynamics research. He built a completely new airplane in 1925, but three years later, his plane crashed in New York, and he was badly hurt.

Fluoridation of Water Seen For Eastern Kentucky Schools

Hazard, Ky.—Some 6,000 school children in three southeastern Kentucky counties have something to smile about. The water they drink at school is being fluoridated, and that means chances are better that they'll keep their teeth for a lifetime.

The Mountain Comprehensive Health Corporation (MCHC), local school board superintendents, dentists and Dental Health, in the Kentucky Department for Human Resources, are cooperating in plans to install and maintain fluoridation units in 18 area schools.

MCHC, through the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has approved the expenditure of funds to assist the Knott, Letcher and Perry county schools in initiating fluoridation.

Even before funding was approved, the Bureau for Health Services' Dental Health staff surveyed the area to determine which schools could supply the benefits of fluoridation to the greatest number of students.

Now superintendents of local school boards are working with MCHC and Dental Health to see that the school water supplies are regularly sampled and that the proper level of fluoridation is maintained.

Mrs. Lois Baker, MCHC director, says local dentists have endorsed the project. An advisory committee of local dentists, in fact, has aided MCHC in the project since its beginning. "Dr. Lee Moore of Whitesburg deserves credit for this project," Mrs. Baker says. "It was his dream."

Before the end of the year, schoolchildren at Big Creek Elementary, Buckhorn, Chavies, Lost Creek and Robinson schools in Perry county will all be receiving the decay-resisting effects of fluoridation. Knott county school fluoridators funded under the project will be placed in Jones Fork Elementary, Beckham Combs, Emmalena and Beaver Creek schools. Fluoridators have been installed and will be in operation before 1974 in these Letcher county schools: Hemphitt Elementary, Campbell Branch, Martha Jane Potter Elementary, Eolia, Kingdom Come Settlement, Colson and Letcher consolidated.

Two more schools are to be added to this list, says James T. Corum, D.M.D., fluoridation consultant with Dental Health.

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Bill Francis, Knott county agricultural extension agent, was elected president of the Alice Lloyd College Tip-Off Club last week at the club's annual meeting. Dr. Gene T. Watts, Hindman physician, was elected vice-president, and Shirley Hall, assistant in development at ALC, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Consumer Comments

By ATTY. GEN. ED W. HANCOCK

Are you getting proper nutrition each day? Or, are you one of thousands of Kentucky residents eating empty calories, devoid of all, or most, nutrition. Recent regulations of the Federal Food and Drug Administration require that nutritional information appear in standard format to the right of the main label on certain foods.

By 1975, all fortified foods and all foods with a nutritional claim must display nutrition information on the labels.

Until such time as all fortified foods will require this labeling, there are some things you may need to know.

USDA (United States Recommended Daily Allowance) are the amounts of protein, vitamins, and minerals that an adult should eat every day to keep healthy. These allowances are listed on the labels in percentages. These percentages should add up to approximately 100 per cent per day in each category.

All labels must carry the net contents or net weight and the medium, such as water, in which the food is packed. The name and the place of business of the manufacturer, packer or distributor is to be visible on the label along with description of the product listing ingredients in descending order of predominance by weight.

Many foods carry a grade or label. The term "grade" may be misleading, as it is NOT based on nutritional value, but is based on the appearance.

Grade A milk, for example, does not mean the value of the milk nutritionally is above B, but that the sanitary conditions for production and processing of the milk are higher than some other conditions.

A recent series of articles in a leading newspaper showed that different grades of meat are not judged by nutritional value, but by the conditions of cleanliness in which it is prepared.

At this time some companies are already beginning to do nutritional labeling. The new nutritional labels tell how many calories, protein, fat, carbohydrates, etc., are in each serving and the percentage of USRDA of minerals and vitamins present.

For answers or suggestions to aid in consumer problems, Kentucky residents may call the Division of Consumer Protection on the toll-free consumer hotline at 1-800-372-2960 or write the Attorney-General's Consumer Protection Division, 309 Shelby Street, Room 110, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

National Guard Meet Scheduled In Armory Plan

Men of military service age and the general public will be given an opportunity at a meeting here Dec. 19 to become fully acquainted with the National Guard program, it was announced this week.

The meeting, to be held at 7 p.m. in the Pike Technology Building at Prestonsburg Community College, is a part of the drive to enlist guardsmen in numbers which will justify the construction in this vicinity of a National Guard armory costing upwards of $600,000.

Gen. Bunton, of the Adjutant General's office, and others will attend the Dec. 19 meeting here to tell the National Guard story, it was announced by Robert V. May, president of the Prestonsburg Area Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. May said a minimum of 85 enlistees in the National Guard will be required to justify the armory construction. The Chamber has advertised widely in this section seeking enlistments. May said that "altogether, 40 to 50 have indicated an interest."

Adjutant General Richard Frymire was quoted as saying the average annual pay to guardsmen would be $1,200. Guardsmen would attend one week-end session of two days per month and attend summer camp of two weeks.

One official said the armory, if built, would employ perhaps a dozen persons regularly and that the payroll would approximate that of a small manufacturing plant.

During the first nine months of fiscal year 1973, more than 1.1 million persons entered manpower work and training programs, the Labor Department reports. Of these, 520,000—or 46 percent—were black; 147,000—or 13 percent—were Hispanics; 29,000 were American Indians, and 39,000 were members of other minority groups.

Dept. of Labor Okehs $50,000 For Floyd NYC

The U. S. Department of Labor has approved the extension of the in-school Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) for the Floyd County Board of Education, allocating $50,050 of federal funds for the employment of 196 students in trainee positions.

Three other Kentucky in-school projects were approved at the same time, one of which allocated $63,290 to the Pike County Board of Education for 248 NYC positions. Grants were also made to the Knox and Harlan boards of education.

The in-school projects will run for periods up to May 31, next year.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps, established in 1964 under the Economic Opportunity Act, has three main components: an in-school, a summer and an out-of-school program. The in-school and summer programs provide youths from poverty level families with paid jobs and encourage them to continue their school work. The out-of-school program offers remedial education, work experience, and in many instances, skill training.

Gov. Wendell Ford recently opened the last major link of Interstate 64 at dedication ceremonies in Grayson. The 9.7 mile Carter County stretch completes 192 miles of I-64 in Kentucky with only the Ninth Street Interchange in Louisville still under construction.

Two-County Park Proposed in Menifee

West Liberty, Ky.—A proposed inter-county park at Broke Leg Falls on U.S. 460 was the topic of a recent meeting of the Menifee County Forum.

The proposed park facility would serve Menifee and Morgan counties, James D. Templeton, program manager for the Gateway Area Development District told the group.

According to legend, the falls was named after the creek. A timberman's oxen fell into the creek and broke its leg which is reportedly how the creek was named.

Soldiers hid out at the falls during the Civil War and gunpowder was made in a salt-peter cave.

Indian relics have been found beneath overhanging rock ledges and the rugged terrain and rock formations have nurtured tales of a lost silver mine.

Memories recall incidents where grandparents and their children had to hide under the fall to let bears pass by on the way to their den. The falls was used by families to wash clothes.

The falls is a few yards from U.S. 460. Visitors can park nearby and walk the short distance to the ledge that in wet seasons carries rushing water to drop 98 feet into a pool below.

In dry seasons the creek holds little water. This lack of constant flow has been a hindrance to its being a widely known attraction.

Vernon Wells a few years ago provided land for a small state roadside park with about 15 additional acres in the falls tract.

Located in the Daniel Boone National Forest, 10 miles east of Frenchburg, the falls has been hailed a unique and beautiful part of Menifee County.

In the early days there was no guard rail to protect the hikers who crossed on a rock bed near the dropoff.

Many families have toured and picnicked in the cool region beneath the falls and occasionally were stranded when summer storms made the normally shallow creek a torrent thrashing over the ledge.

Federal, state and local governments are expected to add more than 4,000 positions a year during 1973-75 in the field of environmental protection and control, according to a report by the U. S. Department of Labor and the Environmental Protection Agency.

Governor and Hogge Approve Public Involvement in Roads

Driver Licensing Program Slated

A new computerized renewal program will soon affect every licensed driver in Kentucky.

The system, which will eliminate temporary licenses, will begin to operate next month.

The computerized system will send a pre-renewal notice by mail to each Kentucky driver license holder. Sent in the month prior to the person's birth-month, the notice will inform the license holder that his license has been preprinted and will be available at the circuit court clerk's office on the first day of his birthmonth.

The license holder will be instructed to keep the pre-renewal notice and present it to the circuit court clerk for his license. This preprinted license will be the permanent license until it expires. The waiting period and temporary license, parts of the old system, have been eliminated by the computerized system.

Starting in January, 1974, new applicants who successfully pass the written and road tests will receive a preprinted permanent license instead of the temporary license issued in the past.

In March, pre-renewal notices will be mailed out to those license holders who have April as their birthmonth. According to Eugene Hodges, director of the Bureau of Vehicle Regulation's Driver License Division, it will be two years before everyone in Kentucky is under the new program because of Kentucky's two-year renewal policy.

The new license will no longer have the license holder's address. According to Hodges, the addresses listed on the license forms were often incorrect because the license holders—during the two years that the licenses were valid—had moved to different addresses.

Check cashing with drivers licenses will not be affected, officials say, because cashiers are more interested in the license number than the address. The cashier, by calling the Division of Drivers License in Frankfort and giving the license number, will be able to obtain the needed information if a check is bad.

The new license will provide a place for a photograph of the license holder.

Governor Wendell H. Ford and Secretary of Transportation Elijah M. Hogge have signed and approved a plan intended to bring the general public into the planning process for many future highway projects.

Entitled "Sharing the Road, Sharing the Load," the plan outlines the specific processes by which the Kentucky Department of Transportation will increase public involvement in the planning of federal aid highway undertakings.

According to Hogge, the plan is in response to the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1970, an act designed to make sure each state fully considers the impacts of all proposals for federally aided highways. It stresses the importance of incorporating factors of economic, social and environmental significance into highway decisions—and the development of alternatives to minimize the negative effects of transportation projects.

The Federal Highway Administration advises that Kentucky is one of the first states to develop a plan both acceptable and innovative in its response to the original requirements of Congress and subsequent federal directives.

Secretary Hogge said Kentucky's plan provides for seeking the views of citizens early in the process of highway planning. This not only gives citizens the opportunity to actively participate in the planning but also is expected to eliminate some problems incurred in the past due to public reaction to highway projects.

The goal of Kentucky's new plan is to share the advantages of transportation equitably, while minimizing the disadvantages involved.

Hogge said he hopes, "the potential direction offered within 'Sharing the Road, Sharing the Load,'" may prove to be the answer to the dilemma facing highway administrators and engineers. "Filling the nation's need for roads while providing for an environment that is safe, quiet and beautiful."

Hogge stressed that the plan has benefited from views solicited from citizens, regional planning and amenity groups, as well as officials and agencies at the federal, state and local level.

The plan was presented at a statewide public hearing in June of this year and has been published in the Federal Register to give the public increased opportunity to comment.

"Cut-Through" Project Begins

MODEL CITY PROJECT--Commissioner of Highways James E. Gray; Pikeville Mayor W. C. Hembly and Secretary of Transportation Elijah M. Hogge open construction on Pikeville Model City's "Cut-Through" Project. The project will re-route a river, a highway and a railroad as well as providing the city of Pikeville 200 acres of land needed for development.

Pikeville, Ky.—In spite of a steady downpour, groundbreaking ceremonies were held here recently for the largest earthmoving project of its type ever undertaken in Kentucky.

Secretary of Transportation Elijah M. Hogge, Bureau of Highways Commissioner James E. Gray and Pikeville Mayor W. C. Hembly simultaneously depressed the handle of the detonator which triggered the first blast of the Pikeville Model Cities "Cut-Through" Project.

Secretary Hogge told a luncheon crowd of 175 that the project could produce the deepest highway cut anywhere in the world.

The two-phase operation will give Pikeville more than 200 acres of land through landfill.

The project includes the rechanneling of Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River as well as the relocation of roadbeds for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway and U. S. highway 23 through the open cut. This will remove the traffic and trains from the heart of the city and route them through the open cut on the outskirts of Pikeville. The river, which now encloses the city in a horseshoe bend, will be channeled through the mountain cut.

Phase I of the multi-million dollar project is the initial cut through a ridge of the Peach Orchard Mountain. About 13 million cubic yards of dirt and excavated material from the open cut will be used in the hollows of Cedar Creek and Poor Farm Hollow. This will create approximately 166 acres of developable land in these two areas.

In Phase II the river channel and roadbed for U.S. 23 will be completed. The 3.5 million cubic yards of dirt will be used to partially fill the old riverbed and create an additional 36 acres of usable land.

Holloway Construction Company, of Wixom, Mich., was awarded the contract for phase one with a low bid of $17.6 million.

The project was made possible through joint cooperation and planning of federal, state and local agencies.

Kentucky's revenue receipts continue on the rise as the state begins a new fiscal year. The monthly revenue report from Charlie Pryor, Jr., commissioner of the Executive Department for Finance and Administration, shows general fund receipts up 1.2 percent for the month of July. John McD. Ross, commissioner of revenue, reported coal severance tax receipts up 15 percent and road fund receipts up 1.8 percent, but warned that receipts for one month do not establish a trend.

The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection will conduct an inventory of all Kentucky's non-federal dams greater than 25 feet in height or with a water impounding capacity of at least 25 acre feet. The inventory, to be funded by $25,000 from the U. S. Corps of Engineers, comes as a result of disasters in Buffalo Creek, W. Va. and Rapid City, S. D. when dams burst. Of the 600 dams affected in the state, 300 have already been inventoried.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORY OF John Parsons, who passed away November 28, 1971:

A DREAM

I saw my dad last night in a garment of white, without a trace of blood. He wore a crown of gold and a Smile as pretty as his robe.

He told me of his love for me, Our family and friends. Then he told me just what heaven Has meant to him. He took my hand and walked with me And showed me the guiding light, Then left me standing humbly there In my robe so sparkling white.

When I awoke from my dream A chill fell o'er the night. For I knew many a task must be done Before I'd see daddy any my robe Be white.
