

Johnson Grand Jury Clears Tpr. Nickles

Murder Charge Laid to Napier In 2nd Slaying

The Johnson circuit court grand jury has voted a murder indictment against the alleged slayer of one Floyd county man in Johnson county but in that of another the jury made no charge.

Ernest Napier was named in a murder indictment last week in the fatal shooting June 6 at the Concord Speedway, near Paintsville, of Donald Henry Blackburn, 29, of Endicott.

The grand jury investigation asked by Kentucky State Police of the slaying of Chester Calhoun, 48, of Prestonsburg, at Thealka one day after the Blackburn shooting ended in the jury's report that it was the unanimous opinion of all members of the grand jury that State Trooper Phillip Nickles was justified in shooting Calhoun and that the shooting "was necessary to protect himself against death."

The grand jury's ruling that the Calhoun slaying by the trooper was justifiable homicide by reason of self-defense" echoed the verdict of a jury empanelled for the coroner's inquest held soon after the shooting.

In addition to the murder count, the grand jury named Napier in three other indictments—two counts of second degree robbery and one for second degree escape. (Napier fled the Johnson county jail a few days after the shooting of Blackburn but was recaptured.)

The accused man's brother, Ervin Napier, was named in an indictment alleging criminal facilitation, providing the weapon with which Blackburn was killed.

A special grand jury session was held Monday and Tuesday, with one or more representatives of the attorney general's office presenting evidence of alleged misuse of Johnson county funds, but no indictment resulted.

Witnesses heard in the investigation of the Calhoun death were his widow, Ada Frances Calhoun, Johnson Coroner Bill Phelps, State Detective Keith Scott, Deputy Sheriff Guy Dozier, Trooper Nickles, James Bud Castle and Jerry Meade.

Officials Study Status of Road To Housing Site

Fears that any further delays might jeopardize state funds for construction of an access road to serve the federally-subsidized housing project and a proposed industrial park at Cliff brought state, county and city officials together Monday to revise their schedule for completion of the road.

As a result of the meeting, attended by Floyd Judge-Executive Bill Wells, Prestonsburg Mayor Harold Cooley, Big Sandy ADD Executive-Director Joe McCauley, Community Development Director Anna Jean Tackett, Church Housing Association Director Julia May, and Ralph Coldiron, of the Appalachian Regional Commission, efforts will be stepped up in the next few weeks to negotiate rights-of-way with affected property owners.

This Town...That World

Having snapped the Cincinnati Reds out of it by publicly committing them to the cellar, I am now being besought by "Huck" Francis to predict with my usual accuracy that the weather will wax even hotter.

To get back on the right track with my prognostications, I remind myself, all and sundry that another three months and these August days will not seem so unpleasant. Still, I have a feeling that if somebody named the month for Augustus and he learned the name of the culprit, there was a well-fed lion or so out at the Coliseum.

SOMETHING MISSING

The jays have disappeared at our place this week after showing up almost every day all summer. But they'll be back. Probably just taking a week off to help somebody with his harvesting chores.

NEEDED—A JOB DONE RIGHT

"It's an ill wind that brings no good." That train wreck at Muldraugh, Ky., which threatened hundreds with toxic fumes resulted in a request by Governor Brown that the Federal Railroad Administration conduct a safety inspection of all Kentucky railroad tracks over which major carriers transport hazardous materials in the state. The inspection begins this week.

Martin Night Patrol Need To Be Studied

The need for a night patrolman at Martin was recognized at last Saturday evening's special City Council meeting held to sound community sentiment, but an officer will not be employed till it is determined to what degree business firms there will contribute to his salary.

Mayor Larry Hall said it was generally agreed that a night patrolman is needed, but added that the city will need help with his salary. A decision will be made after businesses are canvassed.

Also discussed at the meeting was the city's sewage project, which will include renovation of five sewage lift stations and repair of a flood-damaged line along Beaver Creek and near Main street.

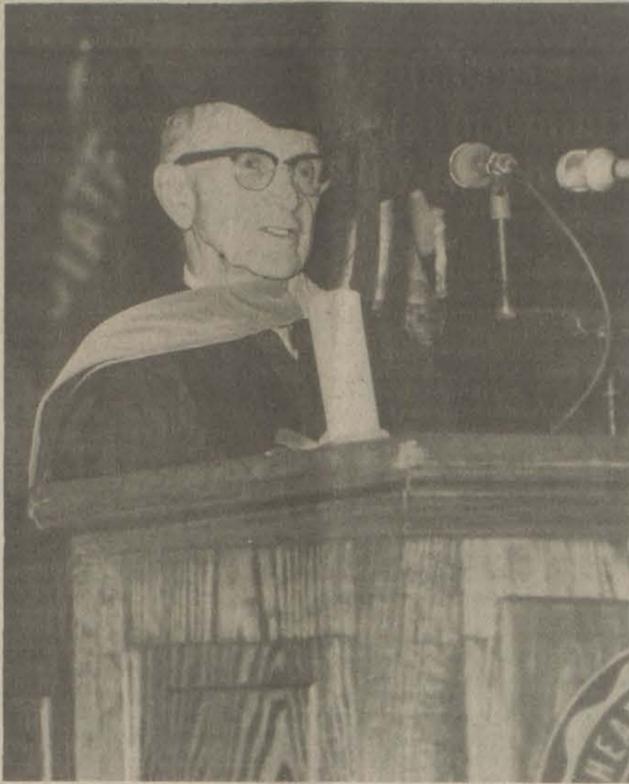

City officials signed an application for the funding which already has been promised. Of the projected $98,000 cost, 75% has been promised from Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection funds. Plans are to be submitted to the department within 45 days.

"I wish I could tell you that the work will be completed this fall, but you never know about possible delays," Mayor Hall said.

A WORTHY DONATION

Blood donated at CKBC's recently-opened station here will assure you or a family member a ready blood supply in time of need.

Open three days a week, hours are: Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Thursdays from noon to 8 p.m., and Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

IN RESPONSE...B.F. Reed, of Drift, responds to Morehead State University's summer commencement audience last Friday after the coal mining executive received an honorary doctoral degree during the morning ceremony. MSU President Morris L. Norfleet characterized the former member of the University's Board of Regents as "one of the greatest individuals in the history of Eastern Kentucky" and "a treasured friend of Morehead State University." The honorary degree was scheduled to be awarded last spring but Mr. Reed was unable to attend because of ill health. He served almost 22 years on the MSU board.

Job Corps Officials Name Operator Here

A decision is said to have been made this week on which company will operate the Job Corps Center to be housed in the former U.S. Shoe Company building in the Goble-Roberts Addition, near Lancer.

The building has been recently renovated to provide living space as well as work and training areas for the anticipated 165 enrollees.

Job Corps officials in Atlanta, Ga., are said to have made their choice Monday of a firm to operate the center here. The decision will be reviewed by the Washington, D.C., Job Corps office and will be announced by Congressman Carl D. Perkins, probably within two weeks.

Representatives of the Singer Company, which operates a similar center at Breckinridge, have shown an interest in the Prestonsburg site and the company is reported to have been among the bidders for the contract here.

Job Corps centers, operated by private firms for the Department of Labor, are designed to teach youths marketable skills and work habits. While some of the youths are referred to the centers by the courts, a Job Corps official told city officials last August that, nationally, only 10 percent of enrollees have had disciplinary problems and that that figure is expected to be lower at the center here.

Some Goble-Roberts residents have expressed fears that the influx of youths will bring racial and other disturbances to their community.

Eligible for the program are boys aged between 16 and 21 who have dropped out of school and are economically disadvantaged. The center staff here is expected to number between 55 and 60, with a payroll of $1,250,000 a year, according to August T. Watkins, a Job Corps deputy administrator.

Draft Register Total in County May Reach 700

Nobody that we know knows how many 19-20-year-olds there are in Floyd county, but there's a feeling there are several more than those who registered for the 19-20-year-old draft.

At 13 of the largest postoffices in the county only 468 persons were registered at the end of last week, second of the two weeks assigned for the nationwide registration.

There are 47 postoffices in the county, most of which could not be reached in the telephone survey made by The Times, but the totals from most larger offices were reported. Most expect the total registration from the county to be no more than 700.

Registration of 20-year-olds was made last week; the week before, it was those who were 19.

Postoffices contacted gave these registration totals for the two weeks:

Allen, 30 (est.); Betsy Layne, 24; Bypro, 11; Harold, 42; Hueysville, 20 (est.); Langley, 10; Prestonsburg, 190; Martin, 49; McDowell, 35; Melvin, 16; Price, 4; Wayland, 15; Wheelwright, 22.

When State Deputy Development Secretary Bruce Lunsford and Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo began a one-day fact-finding trip to the area with a meeting last Friday morning at May Lodge, the 20 or so local officials and civic leaders who were there to meet them had a lot to say concerning the needs, potentials and problems of Prestonsburg and Floyd county.

Accompanying Lunsford and Stumbo at the meet here were State Representative Greg Stumbo, State Senator Benny Ray Bailey and Commissioner for Manpower Services John Wells, all natives of Floyd county.

Sam Blankenship, president of the Prestonsburg-Floyd County Chamber of commerce, first mentioned a major area problem that was repeated by others during the two-hour discussion—that of housing. Blankenship, who called housing, "our No. 1 problem," said a grave shortage of adequate housing in the area continued to hamper industrial development. "A recent study shows that we need 300 to 400 new houses just to meet current needs," he pointed out, "but we have no large contractors or developers here to carry out large-scale housing construction."

Of particular interest to Secretary Lunsford was the fact, as explained by Blankenship, who also heads United Federal Savings & Loan here, that the scarcity of developers in the area had figured strongly in the large amount of 8.8 percent county bond money which remains unused in Floyd county lending institutions. "Out of $15.5 million which we started out with, we've only used $3 million and the money runs out April of next year," Blankenship explained.

"It would be a crime to lose this," Lunsford responded. He asked if a site would be available if the state could encourage a developer to take advantage of the money's availability. Blankenship explained that because of the nature of the area's geography and the corresponding lack of large developable sites, location of new housing would necessarily be "here and there." Lunsford vowed to "follow up on this" and told Blankenship he would discuss the matter in greater detail with him in coming weeks.

In connection with the discussion of housing problems, Paul Hoffman, Martin architect, told the state officials that the "strategic position" which Martin occupies at the forks of the heavily populated Beaver Creeks would provide a logical location for new housing construction and should

Knott Man Dies In Floyd Crash; Area Toll, Four

Four area fatalities, one in this county, were recorded over the past week.

Dead at the scene as the result of a head-on collision on KY 80 at Hueysville last Thursday afternoon was Jay W. Priess, 43, of Mousie. State police reported Priess, driver and sole occupant of a 1973 Plymouth, travelling west on 80, struck a pickup truck in the opposite lane of traffic driven by James Shepherd, 78, of Portsmouth, Ohio.

Priess succumbed to reported head injuries while Shepherd and a passenger, Lona Duff, 66, of Hippo, were taken to Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, for treatment. State Trooper Wendell Scott investigated the accident.

Two Salyersville residents, Jan Pratt, 31, and Neva Pratt, 23, were killed Friday when the car in which they were riding collided with another vehicle on U.S. 460, about five miles west of Paintsville. It was said the Pratt vehicle went out of control after striking a deer that ran onto the roadway.

The crash of his motorized hang glider last Wednesday near the Pikeville Airport claimed the life of Donnie B. Cantrell, of Mouthcard. The mishap was the latest in a series of fatal mishaps at the airstrip within the past few months.

Cantrell had reportedly been flying with his brother, Larry, who also piloted a similar one-man craft when his engine apparently failed, sending the glider plummeting into the Big Sandy river, near the airport. According to Kentucky State Police Sgt. Joe Rowe, the craft was approximately 200 to 300

It's Back to School For Floyd Youngsters

Next Wednesday, some 10,000 pupils and 400 teachers of Floyd county schools will return to the classroom in an early start of the school term that is designed to offset the loss of time to bad weather later in the year.

The "snow days" that render roads, particularly those up the creeks, treacherous, and the possibility of flood are what the County Board of Education had in mind when the decision to open school early was made. Time lost to weather conditions and other emergencies has often pushed the schools to stay open the required number of days and yet close in time for teachers to do summer college work.

The school system operates 57 school buses to transport most of the students to and from classes. These buses travel approximately 500 miles a day, and once some of these roads become deep in snow or ice, the thaw-out is slow and they remain dangerous for days.

Besides the early start, the school calendar has been arranged to save class time. For example, the Christmas vacation that normally continues through Jan. 1 will be broken this year. The vacation will begin Dec. 19 but students will return for three days, Dec. 29, 30 and 31 before being dismissed Jan. 1 and 2 for the New Year holiday. Three in-service days for teachers will be held sometime in February—hopefully, on days when road conditions require schools to be closed but not so bad that teachers cannot travel in private cars.

If plans do not go awry, the school term will end May 6. But Supt. of Schools Pete Grigsby, Jr. isn't betting on that. "We would hope to be out by at least the middle of May," he says. And that would be about two weeks earlier than this year.

Census Report May Not Satisfy When It Arrives

Some sections of Kentucky have received preliminary population figures arrived at by the 1980 Census, but The Times was told Monday afternoon by the Ashland district Census Bureau office that none will be released for Floyd and other counties of the district till later this week, not earlier than Wednesday.

Whenever they are released, the figures aren't expected to satisfy—judging from the reaction of cities and counties which have been told their preliminary population totals.

Fayette county and its major population center, Lexington, have already voiced disappointment with the new census. So has Letcher county whose county judge-executive, Robert Collins, has announced that a recount will be asked. The county's total population as of April 1, according to the new census, is 28,660, and Whitesburg's was reported at 1390, a 10-year population growth for the county-seat of only 253.

"We're getting another bum steer," Judge Collins said. "We find people everywhere they haven't counted."

City and county officials bridle at the suggestion of a low census count, because inaccurate figures would cost them federal funds such as revenue sharing, education, roads, housing and others.

Floyd county residents have been talking since the last census, 10 years ago, of the inaccuracy of the count for the county and Prestonsburg.

The Mountain Eagle at Whitesburg reported last week that the 1970 census came up about 25% short of the actual head count, with some entire sections of the county missed by the census-takers. That 1970 miscount, it added, has cost the county as much as $250 per person in Letcher county—and, the newspaper added, the census people have admitted it.

How To Cope With the Heat

In view of the current heat wave, which is forecast to continue until mid-September, the following list of preventive measures should be used to minimize the ill effects from the heat according to Roger D. Akers, M.D., chairman, Floyd County Board of Health.

1. Remain indoors between the daylight hours of 10 and 6.
2. Wear loose, light colored cotton clothing.
3. Drink extra fluids.
4. Rest more frequently than usual and when possible schedule chores during early morning hours.
5. Eat lightly and plan meals to include items that require little or no cooking.
6. Keep windows, shades and curtains closed on the sunny side of the house.
7. Wear a wide-brimmed hat when going outside.
8. Avoid over-exertion.
9. Be a good neighbor; check on the elderly or disadvantaged who do not have air-conditioning and offer assistance.

The two most common problems experienced by individuals who are subjected to excessive heat or sun are heat exhaustion and heat stroke. It should be noted that while heat exhaustion requires appropriate measures to avoid serious ill effects, heat stroke is a medical emergency and must be treated immediately to avoid fatality.

New Babes In 5,000-Year-Old Toyland

By Lynn Varacalli

What kind of world would this be if there were no toys? Can you imagine an existence without them? Not likely.

The toy industry has not stopped growing since it began, and, it will continue to grow, no doubt, with the trend toward more leisure time and family activities.

There have always been toys. As far back as 3000 B.C., there was a toy factory in India—and the remains still exist. Ancient Greeks and Romans used to enjoy chess and backgammon. Dolls and toy animals have been found in the pyramids of Egypt and in the burial mounds of ancient Persia. Several hundred years ago, children in Asia played with kites, dominoes and tops.

In the early days of America, the settlers from Europe brought with them Elizabethan dolls, ice skating, sledding and tick-tack (similar to backgammon). Soon, the settlers made dolls out of corncobs and the dried kernels were used as tokens in games. Those who could whittle would make tops, balls and whistles out of wood.

The first toy shops appeared in New England in the early 18th century. Craftsmen would make toys of wood, pewter or tin and sell them in these shops.

It wasn't until the late 1830's that the first American toy manufacturing business was started. William S. Tower of Massachusetts started the Tower Shop, which was originally an association of craftsmen from different fields. By pooling their resources, they were able to manufacture a wide range of toy items including doll furniture, toy tools and boats. At about the same time, the Crandall family of Rhode Island began its toymaking business which was to last a century. Two of the Crandall patents were on the spring horse and on interlocking building blocks.

Wooden toys dominated the industry at its beginning, but other materials soon came into play in the mid-19th century. Tin was used in making doll house furniture and pull toys. Teething rings and dominoes were made from ivory. Paper was used widely with cards and board games.

Mechanical toys flourished during the second half of the 19th century. Mechanical banks (now collector's items) were very popular. In 1896, the first electric train rode into view.

Toy production skyrocketed in the early 20th century, but the first World War almost had a disastrous effect on the flourishing toy industry. The Council of National Defense was proposing an embargo on the buying and selling of Christmas presents. In protest to this, the Toy Manufacturers of the U.S.A. (now known as the Toy Manufacturers of America, Inc.) traveled to Washington to convince the Council to preserve the tradition of Christmas gift-giving. There's just no stopping it now.

When automobiles, airplanes and the space program came onto the scene, toys began to take a new turn. Soon, characters from television, movies and comic books were a widely used commodity in the toy industry. Electronic toys began to reach beyond children to include adults.

Today you can get Live Action Football with true-to-life football sounds and a Chew Chew Chew Suzie Chew doll who chews on food with realistic mouth action. We've come a long way!

The year 1980 is the 25th anniversary of Play-Doh, one of America's favorite toys. To help celebrate, they're introducing four new Day-Glo colors, the first new colors since 1958. National Play-Doh Day is September 16.

Kenner, who has produced more than 40 million Star Wars items in the past two years (resulting in a 65 percent share of science fiction toy sales) will also introduce 23 new Star Wars toys to celebrate the movie "Star Wars: The Empire Strikes Back." Milton Bradley is introducing Milton, a talking game that will speak to you as you are playing, saying clever things like "Hey, hey, hey! Pick your play!"

The toy industry will continue to grow as we progress further into the 20th century. Electronics and other technologies will continue to play a large part in toy construction. The toy product is no longer limited to children under 14, but now includes "children" of all ages. Toys and games are being produced as family products.

Experts in the toy industry agree that the introduction of electronics is only the beginning of many changes that will affect the toy industry in the future. Besides walking and talking, toys will probably be able to "listen" and respond. Solar power will, no doubt, be used to operate some toys, using energy cells that never wear out.

Well, it's doubtful our energy cells will ever wear out when it comes to developing new toys. Since toys are, for the most part, a reflection of life in the ever-changing "adult" world, there will always be a new toy idea on the drawing board. And since children's play habits are an important part of their becoming well-rounded individuals, developing a new plaything for them is not something we should toy with.

Former Floyd Woman Leads Group in Venture of Faith

(Excerpted from the Ypsilanti Press) Nancy Snipes, formerly of Floyd county, can tell you that there's more to find in the classified ads than solid bargains—maybe even a new kind of life.

She placed a classified ad in The Ypsilanti (Mich.) Press last December, looking for someone interested in forming a gospel group with her son James and his singing partner, Linda Manhart.

And that ad led directly—within a few days—to the formation of Genesis I, a group of four young people who are fulfilling two dreams at once—singing and preaching the gospel.

Now less than a year after their formation, Genesis I have an album under their collective belts, and have appeared at more than 70 engagements since their first practice session Jan. 7, 1978.

The four group members of the group—James Snipes, 17, of Wayne, Linda Manhart, 21, of New Hudson, Kathy Hill, 16, of Ypsilanti, and Larry Hubbard, 28, from Taylor—have, they will tell you, been saved. They'll also tell you that all they hope to get from their music is the knowledge that they have helped a few others along the same path.

While their album, "Leaving in the Morning," hasn't burned up the charts, and as yet hasn't paid for itself or their constant travel, Nancy says that it's all secondary.

"The important thing is that 34 people, 34 souls, have been saved through their ministry," Nancy says.

The group survives on donations collected at the various churches they perform in, but even then it's not always a payday. "We have sometimes given the money back to a church when we realized that they needed it more than we did," James said.

James plays the piano and sings bass, Larry plays an electric guitar and sings tenor, Kathy is the soprano and Linda serves as alto, tenor and lead, as the situation demands.

Nancy says that although times have been a bit tough from time to time, with her husband stepping in occasionally to foot the bill, they'll make it.

"We've always gotten by on almost no money."
"We'll prosper as the Lords Will," she says.

Today's veteran population accounts for two-thirds of all Americans who ever served in uniform in wartime during our 204-year history.

feet in the air when the engine stalled. Cantrell died at Methodist hospital shortly afterward.

George Edward Horn, 49, driver, his mother, Rosie Horn, 95, his wife, Virginia, 46, and six-year-old daughter, Mary, all of Ypsilanti, Michigan, received minor injuries after their vehicle struck a pickup truck driven by Ershel Huff, 57, of Drift, Monday at the entrance to Prestonsburg Community College on U.S. 23. Prestonsburg Policeman Dick Campbell said Huff attempted to turn into the college and apparently failed to see the oncoming, southbound Horn car. Huff and 14-year-old son, Noah, also received slight injuries. Campbell said it was later reported that the elder Mrs. Horn had sustained a dislocated shoulder.

The rails in recent years have set new records for derailments, if not major wrecks, and some communities of this county have been fortunate in escaping some sort of harrowing experience such as has been Muldraugh's. Residents of towns and countryside along the tracks deserve protection.

We hope that the federal boys in this case do a better job, however, than those aeronautics representatives did when they inspected the Pikeville airport and vicinity and blandly assured one and all that the Kentucky Power Company's static lines of finer, hard-to-see wire strung above the heavier voltage-bearing cable posed no safety problem for flyers.

When rights-of-way are secured, further engineering will be done and submitted for review by state officials. Construction bids are expected to be let by the end of this year at the latest, Mayor Cooley said this week.

The housing development and access road have been opposed by some local residents who mounted an abortive legal challenge to the project last year, claiming that the county lacked the power of eminent domain in this instance and that the Church Housing Association, developer of the housing project, had no legal right to hold the county to the access road contract.

Deaton Says He Will File Suit, Alleging Libel

Commonwealth's Attorney Paul D. Deaton, of Johnson county, last week announced that he will sue three area weekly newspapers and as many firms which print those publications for libel.

Included in his plans for libel action, he was quoted as saying, is a suit against the Kentucky Highlands Publishing Co., of Prestonsburg, which prints The Paintsville Herald, one of the three newspapers named.

In addition to The Herald, The Big Sandy News of Louisa and The Martin Countian of Inez are to be named in suits. Deaton was quoted as saying that news-stories and editorials in the newspapers that were critical of his official conduct were "personally and politically motivated."

In a press interview last week Deaton said information supplied Gene Marvin, editor of The Big Sandy News, about a Louisa arson trial which led to criticism of the prosecutor by Marvin, originated with a Paintsville attorney who intends to run for Deaton's office.

He said criticism by both The Paintsville Herald and The Martin Countian was inspired by his ownership of stock in a newspaper which competes with The Herald and by his friendship with a man whose newspaper was a competitor of The Martin Countian. The Martin county case which drew criticism for Deaton involved the trial of a man on a rape charge. The Paintsville Herald was cited by Deaton for news-stories covering the cases against the King brothers who were accused of the kidnap-murder of James Leonard Wells, Paintsville motel night clerk, and the alleged relationship between Deaton and Ruby Jordan, who was said to have supplied information leading to the arrest of the Kings. Miss Jordan was granted immunity from prosecution, but Deaton claims State Police, not he, granted her immunity. He also denied allegations that he was intoxicated and drew a gun on Johnson District Judge Gardner. His trial on charges of wanton endangerment and public intoxication has been set for August 18.

The defendant newspapers have indicated that they will base their defense on the truth of their statements.

PEN PALS ARE REUNITED

Miss Hughes and Mrs. van Slingerland, who have been pen-pals for more than 10 years, met for the first time two years ago when Miss Hughes visited in Holland. During their 10-day tour of Kentucky, Mrs. van Slingerland and Miss Voorby spent several days with Miss Hughes at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hughes, of Weeksbury. While here, they were guests of honor during an all-day outing at Jenny Wiley State Park which was hosted by Peggy Craft and Bill Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Conn.

Before coming to Kentucky they had spent some time in Canada and several other states including New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Delaware.

Says Increase To Hit Residential Customers

Residential customers of Kentucky Power Company, please note! On June 27, 1980 Kentucky Power Company applied to the Kentucky Energy Regulatory Commission (formerly the Public Service Commission) for a rate increase of approximately 21% to bring in an additional $26,000,000 annually.

As an employee of the Power Company for thirty-four years, recently retired, I know a rate increase is needed—badly needed—but I have never believed in keeping quiet when someone is trying to mislead me!

For the customers who use less than 3000 kilowatt hours of electricity, which is the majority of us, this increase is not 21%. If you use 100 KWH the increase is 55%; 200 KWH, 34%; 300 KWH, 36%; 400 KWH, 38%; 500 KWH, 39%; 1000 KWH, 32%; 1500 29%, and 3000 KWH, 23%.

So you see that the customers who are conserving energy, the ones with the lowest incomes, the ones in our society who most need help are the ones being asked to bear the burden of this so-called 21% requested by Kentucky Power Company. The above percentages were obtained from Power People magazine published by Kentucky Power Company.

We are told that the meek shall inherit the earth. We are not told that the meek will greatly over-pay for that inheritance! Residential customers of Kentucky Power Company, speak out!

Says the "Peons" Pay

Am writing about your article concerning the raise in Floyd county's property taxes. It is my thought that all of the property owners who hold none of their mineral rights should have to pay a hefty tax, since all they own is the ground (dirt). The big mining outfit or the big corporation, should, therefore pay; that for the reason if oil, gas, coal, etc. is found—who benefits from this? Surely not the poor property owner, because he has no mineral claims. If such is found the Biggest get all the profits and he usually tells the property owner where he can go and what he can do.

Mr. Hall is doing his job but the big bureaucrats need their cost of living raise and in order to get such the "peons" must pay, for their luxury cars, wine, parties, etc. Surely they figure we taxpayers can afford it more than they. There are only a few of them and their are thousands and millions of "peons."

Martin-Propps Vows Said in Lexington

Mr. and Mrs. G.R. Martin, Jr., of Lexington, announce the marriage of their daughter, Diane, to Mr. Gerald E. Propps, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Propps, of St. Albans, W. Va., on June 28 at the Southern Hills United Methodist Church in Lexington with the Rev. Robert Moore officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Margaret Lund, of Lexington, matron of honor, and bridesmaids, Karen Mitchell, sister of the bride, and Shirley Flack, both of Lexington, Rhonda Blackburn, of Betsy Layne, Pam Fortney, of Louisville, and Carol Stull, of North Little Rock, Arkansas.

William Bolon, of Lexington, was best man, and ushers were Tom Lund, David Stiebel, Lowell Cruise, and Jack Dingus, Jr., all of Lexington, William Ring, of Sitka, Alaska, and Tom Martin, of Richmond.

Leigh Ann Blackburn, of Betsy Layne, was flower girl, and James Russell Mitchell, of Lexington, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Campbell House Inn in Lexington.

The bride is an honor graduate of LaFayette High School in Lexington and of Eastern Kentucky State University in Richmond, and the groom is a graduate of St. Albans High School, and attended Beckley College in Beckley, West Virginia.

Wedding guests from out-of-town included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G.R. Martin, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin and son, Mickey, also of Drift; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frye, daughter, Kim, and Kent Dingus, all of London; Keith Dingus, of Prestonsburg, and Miss Cheri Dingus, of Martin.

RECENT GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace had as their guests recently, Dr. and Mrs. Gabriel R. Wallace and son Jeff, of Huntsville, Ala. Also visiting during their stay was Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wells, Jr., of Paintsville, Mrs. Jean Wallace and Rusty, of Lackey, and Miss Teresa Lafferty, of Garrett.

RETURN FROM LAKE SHAFER

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Slone, of Allen, daughter, Carmen La Rae, and son, Mark, and Maude Sloan, of Prestonsburg, have returned home after spending a week's vacation at Lake Shafer, Monticello, Indiana, Wabash and other points of interest. Also vacationing with them was Mrs. Opal Lucas, of Wabash, Indiana.

Explanation of D.A.V. Purpose

The membership of the D.A.V., Andy J. Blanton Ch. No. 18, of Auxier, wishes to inform all present members and former members, that we are active and very strong, with a membership of 771 as of 6-30-80, and have no intention of moving from our present address to any other location in Floyd county.

We would also like to inform the general public that we are available to conduct military services for any veteran who has been discharged, other than dishonorably, if requested to do so by member's of the family of the deceased, or by friends of the family in their behalf.

We would like to clear up the misconception that we are paid to conduct these military services. All expense we incur is either paid by the Chapter or each individual.

Our main purpose is devoted to the cause of all veterans, to stimulate a feeling of mutual devotion, helpfulness and comradeship among all veterans.

Thank You

Paul Will Be There

Wayland High School exists now only in the hearts and minds of those who attended that great institution during the many years of existence. If I live to be a hundred (God forbid!), I will always remember my four years there. Looking back from the perspective of the years since, my years at Wayland were perhaps the happiest of my life—plain geometry and algebra notwithstanding.

Now with the permission of my favorite alltime editor and friend, Norman Allen, I'd like to drop in a "plug" for the Wayland High reunion, Aug. 30. I have done everything except lobby Congress to make sure I have time off to attend the reunion. As I recall, there were 22 of us who graduated during that year of 1943 (out of 65 freshmen who started in 1939). Except on rare occasions, I have neither seen nor heard from any of those grads since that joyful night so long ago.

Ergo, you can believe that I am eagerly looking forward to seeing my former classmates and friends on Aug. 30. Those smiling faces may be a tad older, but they are no less lovable to a sentimental slob like you know who!

See you there—the Good Lord willing!

Thanks For Help

The members of the Martin Fire Dept. would like to thank everyone who helped make a success of International Championship Wrestling Friday, July 18, night in Martin, all of whom gave, without cost, their products or services. Thanks also to all other people and firms who helped with donations of cash or discount prices on needed items.

To show our appreciation to wrestling fans of Floyd and Knott counties, we plan a bigger and even better match, Aug. 15.

Wrestling, along with other special events are being planned to help raise funds for a much-needed fire engine for the Martin Fire Dept.

Bike Ride to Near-Tragedy

What began as a routine bicycle ride ended in near-tragedy for two Garrett teenagers last Thursday afternoon.

Bret and Burt Bolen, 17-year-old twin sons of Mrs. Betty (Bolen) Scott, were returning home from visiting friends in Maytown around 2 p.m. Thursday when a passing blacktop spreading machine slid from its trailer and hit the youths. An eyewitness said a chain holding the machine broke as the truck rounded a sharp curve about one mile west of Maytown on Old KY 80.

Both boys were taken to Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin. Bret was later sent to Lexington hospital with a broken pelvis. His brother was held overnight and released Friday. Family members reported Bret to be in satisfactory condition, Friday.

Telephone service in the Martin-Maytown area was out at the time, slowing police and ambulance response. Help wasn't contacted until a passing motorist came on to Martin where off-duty State Trooper Rederick used his two-way radio and called for help.

The driver of the truck declined to give his name at the scene, saying only that he worked for Herman West, owner of Pikeville Paving Co. and was doing patch work on the highway.

Council Employs New Administrator

Myra Annette Walker, 25, was named by the city council Monday to be parks administrator here.

She was one of 14 applicants for the position, which became vacant with the resignation of Susan Johnson earlier this summer. A Lexington man who was the council's first choice to succeed Johnson lasted in the job only four days.

Miss Walker holds a master's degree in recreation and park administration from Eastern Kentucky University and a bachelor's degree in physical education from Lander College, Greenwood, S.C. She has been employed most recently as swimming pool supervisor at Natural Bridge State Park.

RETURN FROM NEW YORK

B.F. Reed, Peltason, Dr. Cartmill Receive Honorary MSU Degrees

"Universities are central to the survival of our free society. Whatever problems we face and will face, the role of the universities in their solution is vital."

Dr. Jack W. Peltason, president of the American Council on Education, told more than 500 degree candidates at Morehead State University's summer commencement Friday that if there is to be a free society, the university must perform its three great missions of transmitting wisdom of mankind, adding to that knowledge and delivering educational services to all the people.

He looked to the future, speculating what MSU will be like in the year 2020, saying "everybody will be going to school all the time" calling it truly a learning society.

"We will have made the discovery that knowledge does not come packaged in semesters or quarters," he added. "What I am most confident about is that the Morehead State University of 2020, despite many changes, will be more like it is today than it will be different. Universities are hardy things. They change very slowly."

The ACE chief executive charged the graduates to see to it that this society and this university remain strong and free and added that "Morehead State University will be here and will be strong, if you work to bring it about."

Peltason and former MSU Board of Regents members, B. F. Reed, of Drift, and Dr. W. H. Cartmill, of Maysville, received honorary doctorates during the ceremony.

Parents Work In fund Drive

A group of Prestonsburg High School band parents at work renovating the band room at PHS. The parents and band members are also currently involved in a fund drive to raise money so the band can travel to Louisville, Aug. 14 for the State Fair marching band competition which is held each year at Camp Crescendo. Although some money has been raised, the band still needs about $1,000 to pay for transportation and other expenses.

THREE KILLINGS IN THIS COUNTY DURING SUNDAY

Aught and Bill Blizzard Slain At Garrett

LACKEY SALISBURY DEAD

Three men were killed in this county as the result of shootings Sunday.

Bill Blizzard was shot and instantly killed near the water tank at West Garrett, this county, early Sunday morning, and his brother, Aught Blizzard, was mortally wounded in the same fray by John Dyer, of Hueysville, two miles below Garrett.

On Turkey Creek, a few miles from Maytown, Lackey Salisbury was shot and fatally wounded by his brother, Tobe Salisbury, while the two were wrestling for possession of a revolver. He died early Tuesday morning in the Beaver Valley Hospital, where he had been taken for an operation in an attempt to save his life.

Two Versions Given.

According to reports of the slaying of Garrett, Dyer was followed down the railroad from the Barney-Goodin mine to a spot near the water tank by the Blizzard brothers, and was attacked by them. It is said that he was struck by a brick or stone and that he fired after one of the brothers seized him. Aught Blizzard was shot through the heart, dying instantly. The other was rushed to the hospital at Martin, where he died Sunday.

Another version of the affair says that Dyer was shooting at Burness Hall before he shot the others, and that Dyer did not shoot in self-defense. A statement made here states, in contrast, that Hall first saw Aught Blizzard holding Dyer from behind.

Aught and Bill Blizzard were sons of Mrs. Frank O'Neil, who survives. Aught Blizzard is also survived by his widow and two children.

Buried In Same Grave

The brothers were taken to Estill, where both bodies were buried in the same grave Tuesday afternoon.

Dyer surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Kendall Moore, and came here Monday morning. He was admitted to bail in the sum of $5,000 on the same day, and after waiving examining trial Wednesday was released under a similar bond for his appearance before the grand jury at the September term of circuit court.

HENRY F. PATTON LEADS INSURANCE AGENCY FORCE

Henry F. Patton, district agent for the Commonwealth Life Insurance Company, is leading the agency force of that company for the first five months of 1927, and will be rewarded for his work with a free trip to Atlantic City in July.

Mr. Patton has consistently proved a leader in his field of work, and his continued success is very gratifying to his many friends.

VETERAN, AGED 84, SUCCUMBS

Thomas Amburgy, one of the oldest citizens of this county, and one of the few veterans of the Civil War in Floyd county, died Wednesday at his home on Johns Creek in his 85th year after a long period of ill health.

Mr. Amburgy was a highly respected citizen of this county, and was well known. During the War Between the States he saw service as a Confederate soldier. For the greater part of his life he was engaged in farming, and had lived about 45 years at the home in which he died. He was a devout member of the Baptist Church.

Surviving him are three daughters and two sons: Mrs. Alice Herald, Mrs. Belle Thompson, T. M. Amburgy, all of Prestonsburg; John Amburgy, at home, and Mrs. Mollie Kendrick, of Pike county. His widow, who is now 87 years old, also survives.

Burial will be made Friday in the family burial ground near the old home.

LEGION PROGRAM ON JULY FOURTH

Beaver Train to Make Afternoon Run Here

The local post of the American Legion plans an interesting program of patriotic speeches, infantry drill, parades, contests, music and the like in celebrating the Fourth of July here.

One of the largest crowds to be here in years is expected for the occasion which, those engaged in preparing for the event say, will be one of exceptional interest.

A company of militia will be brought here from Pikeville for the day.

After connecting with the Big Sandy train at Allen, bound down-river, on the evening of the Fourth, the Beaver train will make the run here, leaving on the return trip at six o'clock. This will enable visitors here from Beaver to return home after staying in town all day. Efforts were made this week to have the Long Fork train wait at Martin for the other train. Whether or not these were successful have not been learned.

Prominent Couple Wed On Saturday

The wedding of Miss Harriet Harper of Frankfort, Ky., and Mr. Ernest R. Reed, of Anderson, Ind., who is stationed here as resident engineer in highway construction, was beautifully solemnized Saturday at the Presbyterian Church, Frankfort.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Reed are members of prominent families, and are welcome additions to Prestonsburg society.

The bride is the attractive and accomplished daughter of Mrs. George Harper, of Frankfort, who is prominently associated with state politics, at present being Republican candidate for nomination as secretary of state. Mrs. Reed is a graduate of Oxford College, Oxford, Ohio, and is quite popular in Frankfort society circles.

Mr. Reed is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reed, of Iowa. He is a graduate of Iowa State College, and is a young man of much talent in his profession. During his stay in Prestonsburg he has won a wide circle of friends by his gentlemanly conduct.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed went to Cincinnati on a wedding trip cut short by the demand of his services here, and, after returning to Frankfort, came here Monday. They are now located at the Hotel Elizabeth and expect to remain in the Big Sandy valley for some time.

AMERICANS MAKE FLIGHT TO HAWAII

Ocean Barriers Now Leveled By U. S. Airmen

Two American airmen, Lieut. Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hegenberger, dropped from the sky Wednesday morning at Honolulu to the strumming of many stringed instruments, after having coursed the uncharted sky between Oakland, California, and Hawaii, 2,000 miles across the Pacific Ocean.

The actual flying time for the trip was, as unofficially reported, 25 hours and 51 minutes. In this time was the first flight made from America to Hawaii.

The fliers missed their landing directions, delaying their arrival somewhat and causing some momentary anxiety among those gathered to greet them.

The giant Fokker made a graceful landing, with Lieut. Maitland at the controls. It taxied to the reviewing stand amid the cheers of thousands—Americans, Hawaiians, and Orientals.

The arrival, despite the delay, took the great welcoming throng completely by surprise.

The ship was fifty feet off ground but the onlookers realized it had arrived.

Before touching the ground, the great ship rose slightly, skipped the field in a semi-circle and taxied to perfect position directly in front of the reviewing stand.

A battalion of troops immediately surrounded it.

As soon as the plane came to a standstill Lieut. Maitland and Hegenberger stepped out. Despite their apparent weariness, they scrambled out without assistance and both turned to glance back to the east toward the new airway they had opened up from North America.

They stepped then to the reviewing stand, where the Governor of Hawaii and the commanding officers of the army post greeted them, and decorated them with floral leis.

RUSH ROAD WORK IN FLOYD COUNTY

Shannon and Ranier, contractors on the road up Big Mud Creek, are moving equipment to push the construction of the road forward as rapidly as possible.

H. Smith, in charge of the road, said in the morning that the road is making headway on the route out of town, and is running day and night shift.

Those connected with road work here are of the belief that the bridges at Cliff and Allen over which the road crosses the Big Sandy will be completed by early November. It is also hoped that the greater part of the road between these places will be opened by that time.

TEACHERS ARE SELECTED FOR GRADE SCHOOL

School Board Considers Smith-Hughes Representative

CURRY, HIGH SCHOOL HEAD

Election of teachers for the Prestonsburg graded school was made Friday night at a meeting of the Prestonsburg board of education, held in the office of H. F. Patton, with the following teachers being named:

D. O. Harmon, Joe Dingus, Mrs. Fanny Collins, Mrs. Fanny Jarrell, Miss Anna Miller, Miss Minnie Grace Harris, Mrs. Victoria Spradlin, Mrs. Pearl Laferty, and Misses Stella Fitzpatrick, Hope Hereford and Eula Hunley.

John Layne was hired as Janitor for the coming school term.

Consideration of a Smith-Hughes teacher for the school here was made at the meeting. H. F. Patton and W. S. Harkins were appointed to attend to the matter.

Duties of Smith-Hughes teachers are to teach agriculture in high schools and to act as athletic coaches. Their salaries are paid in part by the state and in part by the county in which the teacher is employed.

Prof. T. J. Curry, principal of the high school here last year, will head the school again this year, and selection of high school teachers will be left to him.

BOYS' BAND PLAYS HERE

Floyd County Boy In Group; Visit Garrett

Sixteen boys, members of the band from the Odd Fellows' home at Lexington, appeared here at the Baptist Church Friday evening in a musical program which was roundly applauded by the large audience present. Prof. E. C. Kidd was in charge of the boys.

Those who came in contact with the boys here were impressed by their musical accomplishments and manly bearing, and paid a deserved tribute to them and their tutors. Of the sixteen members of the band, none was more than 17 years old.

The band also visited Garrett, spending two nights there.

Markham McCown, a Floyd county boy, was a member of the youthful group of musicians.

Names of those composing the band are: Norvell Schaffer, W. M. Crooks, Clarence Philpot, Fred Schaffer, Ed Frazier, Woodrow Browning, H. E. Hatcher, Ed Miller, Markham McCown, Mike Brewer, W. M. Hatcher, Hubert Poe, Joe Joslin, Parker Keith, Ligett Grayson, and Robert Frazier.

Youth Confesses To Forgery; Held Here

Paul Warix, 18 years old, who was arrested last week as a suspect in the robbery of the postoffice at Martin, this county, confessed to forgery of the name of his father, Elijah Warix, to checks, and is being held here pending sentence to the state reformatory at Greendale.

The youth denied robbery of the postoffice robbery however, and no proof was produced as to his guilt. His father was exonerated of suspicion in the case.

ROAD FROM CLIFF IS MADE PASSABLE

The road from Cliff to Prestonsburg has been worked this week, and it is said that it will be passable for automobiles Sunday, provided the dry weather continues. A number of local motorists plan to take this opportunity of being out of town, given suitable weather conditions.

Mrs. Emma Taylor and Alvin left Thursday morning for Williamsburg, Ohio, where they will be guests of Mrs. Taylor's sister, Mrs. Mary O. Clark. They will also visit in West Virginia and Kentucky before returning here. They expect to be gone about two weeks.

HARRY LEE MOORE ESCAPES WHEN TRAIN STRIKES HORSE

Returning Wednesday from the funeral and burial of Lackey Salisbury near Lee, this county, Harry Lee Moore, well-known Floyd county man, narrowly escaped death when a coal train struck the horse which he was riding, near Eastern. The horse was so badly injured that it was shot after its life was despaired of. Mr. Moore escaped by leaping from the saddle.

BUYS INTERESTS OF IVYTON FIRM

The Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company, which recently purchased the interests in this county of the Ivyton Oil and Gas Company and other holdings, is the latest entrant into the Floyd county gas field, it was announced this week. Amount involved in the purchase was not given out.

The new company has its main office in Ashland, with local headquarters in the Masonic building.

Approximately 15 rigs are in operation on this company's leases at this time, it is said. Product of its holdings will go into the Louisville Gas and Electric Company and the Warfield Natural Gas Company's lines.

TO ERECT LARGE BUSINESS HOUSE

Building Active in Prestonsburg; Business Improved

What will be when completed one of the finest business buildings in Prestonsburg will be let to contract within a few days, it is said, by Will H. Layne for erection on the lot adjoining Francis' store.

This structure will be of brick, two stories high, and will be approximately 70 square feet. It will be divided into two store rooms, with office rooms on the second floor.

The larger of the store rooms, which will have a frontage of 40 feet, has been leased to H. C. Francis for a period of five years. The other, 30 by 70 feet, has not been leased.

Construction work on the proposed building is expected to begin within the next week.

This building is only one of several large business houses and handsome residences being erected. Buildings under process of construction at this time are a brick business house for H. E. Hughes on the lot adjacent to the First National Bank; the large brick school building opposite the Valley Inn, a fine residence for J. M. Morell, and a brick bungalow for John W. Layne.

An urgent demand is being made for dwelling houses here. Prestonsburg is now experiencing a boom, and many persons are unable to find homes here.

Muse's Wedding Gift, 154 Years Old, Owned by Judge B. C. May

June brides and bridegrooms of the present day may be showered with choice wedding gifts and all the happy felicitations of the day, but few are the newlyweds of 1927 to whom come gifts of the Muse.

A gift of graceful poetry was that of Colonel John May on his marriage, February 16, 1773; 154 years ago. A copy of this poem, which was written by a friend back in pre-Revolutionary War days to Colonel May, is now in the possession here of Judge B. C. May. A view in poetry of connubial bliss and the pride of the pioneer bridegroom in the girl of his choice is given in the opening stanzas, with the admonition at the close never to "raise thy happy too high of bliss for things below the sky" as witnesses the poem published below for the first time in its entirety.

Revered the scene, and view the pair
Whom heaven propitious makes its care;
Their hearts are joined in bands of love,
Their bliss resembles joys above;
Discord and passion's endless strife

MAKE 10-CENT CUT FOR COAL FREIGHT RATE

Handicap for This Field Thus Slashed In Half

SECOND CUT ASKED

Announcement that a reduction of 10 cents on the coal freight rate from the southern fields of Kentucky, West Virginia and Tennessee to the Great Lakes would be granted, effective August 16, was made Saturday by the Chesapeake and Ohio, Louisville and Nashville and Norfolk and Western railways.

This means that the increased differential of 20 cents placed by the Interstate Commerce Commission between freight rates for coal from Kentucky and sister states and that of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana coal will be split in half. While this reduction in freight rates will mean a decrease in revenues to these railroads, the loss will not be so great as that which would have resulted, had they made no reduced rates, since the differential of 20 cents imposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission would have ruined the coal industry in this section.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, however, has maintained that the southern railways have no right to nullify the difference in freight rates made by the commission by lowering the rates themselves, and a stiff legal battle will probably be necessary to effect this aid to Kentucky operators.

Coal operators of Eastern Kentucky, Southern West Virginia, Virginia and Tennessee have joined in an expression of disappointment over the action of the carrier roads in this section in limiting the reduction on lake coal to only ten cents per ton. The majority of opinion is that the serving roads should have met the reduction of 20 cents, granted the northern carriers by the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The carriers serving the coal operators of the southern districts were asked by the operators in a joint conference, to make a voluntary reduction of at least twenty cents per ton, which would equal the reduction ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission for the northern districts. But, instead of taking this action the carriers offered a reduction of only ten cents per ton. The operators claimed that the southern lines and especially the Chesapeake and Ohio are in a position to move coal to the lake ports at a lower transportation cost than could be offered by any of the northern carriers, who are granted the reduction of twenty cents per ton. In view of this fact the southern shippers anticipated at least a reduction equal to that granted the northern fields and possibly greater.

Memories of Gettysburg Aroused On Approach of Fourth of July

To at least one Floyd county man the Fourth of July means far more than a day of mere patriotic demonstration, observing that day when America's freedom was declared. On that day memories of the roar of cannon and the carnage of war rise in his mind; for it was on July 4, 1863, that he and his comrades of Lee's gray-clad veterans left Gettysburg, after a three days' struggle in the vise of death.

This man is Uncle Andy Frazier, who says that the following account, taken from that given by J. N. Hubbard, of Boyd county, is a correct version of the battle as a soldier in action could see it:

This vivid description of the Battle of Gettysburg and its consequences has been written by J. N. Hubbard, well-known Boyd county farmer and a resident on rural route No. 1. Mr. Hubbard is known as an able raconteur and has often related his experiences of the Civil War around the fireside at the Hubbard home of an evening to interested groups. He was a member of the Seventh Indiana Infantry.

"The first corps arrived at Emmetsburg, Maryland, on June 30, 1863. Colonel Grover rode along the line and stated that we would be passing General Reynolds' headquarters in a few minutes and that he wanted the regiment to move in good order. We dropped into fours, our guns at right shoulder shift. There were no stragglers—every man up and in place. The General was standing in front of his tent as we passed, our Colonel saluting him.

"We had halted for dinner, and during this period, some of the men who were out from the noise and bustle of the camp came in reporting heavy artillery fire up front. The Colonel came along directing us to hurry up with our meal, saying that we must go on as we might be needed up there. As soon as we had finished eating we began marching and had gone about a mile when we saw a horseman coming toward us on the gallop. Coming abreast of us he reined up and called out: 'Hurry up your regiment, Colonel; General Reynolds has been killed and the first corps is fighting Lee's whole army.'

The Key Position

"The General led us to the summit of Culp's Hill and having surrounded that place, three 'A' and 'B' Companies out as skirmishers. General Wadsworth at this time said to Colonel Glover: 'This hill is the key to our position and must be held at all hands.' The Colonel replied: 'We can't hold it, this will be the final burying ground of the Seventh; Wadsworth and Glover then rope off toward the cemetery.'

Celebrates Birthday

Paul William Hubbard, son of Paul Hubbard, of Dixie Heights, Prestonsburg, and Virginia Hubbard, of Clay City, celebrated his 8th birthday, Monday, August 4.

Meeting Slated Here August 11

The state Department for Human Resources is hosting seven public meetings this month—one in Prestonsburg—to receive comments on plans for a new program to assist low-income Kentuckians with high winter fuel bills.

The meeting for this area has been scheduled for 2 p.m. next Monday (Aug. 11) at Prestonsburg.

Department officials have drafted a plan for the distribution of federal funds through the Home Energy Assistance Program. Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo said Kentucky's allocation for winter fuel assistance is projected to be $28 million, contingent on congressional appropriation.

Stumbo said the public's comments and suggestions will get "full consideration" when the department writes the final state plan for distribution of the funds.

The Home Energy Assistance Program replaces two programs which helped low-income Kentuckians last winter. The state's Energy cost Assistance Program allocated $8 million to help elderly and handicapped people last winter. The Federal Energy Crisis Assistance Program, which aided low-income people facing an energy-related crisis, funded $9.4 million to Kentuckians. Both programs were administered by the Human Resources Department.

The department will solicit public comments at the public meetings and will accept written comments by mail. Copies of the proposed plan can be reviewed at any local office of the department's Bureau for Social Insurance.

The meetings are open to people who are interested in learning more about the Home Energy Assistance Program or want to make recommendations on how the program should be operated in the state. Social Insurance Commissioner William Huffman said the department probably will begin accepting applications for help in December.

ATTEND REUNION

Mrs. Louise Porter had as guests at her home in Auxier, last Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Porter and Tina, Mr. and Mrs. Greg Garman and Susanna; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hall, all of Springfield, O. They all attended the Porter family reunion at Jenny Wiley State Park. Also visiting Mrs. Porter were Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Porter, Gary and Barry, of Johns Creek, Mrs. Porter's sister, Mrs. Lena Mae Snipes, of DeGraff, O., and Mrs. Gaye Shepherd, of the Abbott road.

At the reunion, Mrs. Porter visited with her sister, Mrs. Martha Porter Perry, of West Van Lear, whom she had not seen in 41 years.

CLUB TO MAKE APPLE BUTTER

The East Point Area Development Club met July 3, with Mr. Landon Tackett presiding. The devotional was given by Susie Grady. Thanks had been received from the Johnson county senior citizens for flatware. Tentative date to start making apple butter this year is Aug. 23. Firewood has already been hauled. East Point was represented at the NEKRCDA banquet at Ashland on July 12. Mr. Landon Tackett will head the NEKRCDA during 1980 and 1981.

At 2 p.m. on Aug. 10, the club will make ice cream. Bring your own mixers.

The new Johnson county extension agent will attend the August 7 meeting. Mrs. Elsie Leake will host the August meeting.

METHODIST WOMEN MEET

Mrs. E. E. Glenn, of the Abbott road, was hostess at her home Aug. 4 to the women of the First United Methodist church.

The president, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, presided, and the meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Ted Nicholas. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. George D. Brown, and treasurer's report was given by Mrs. James J. Carter.

After the business session, Mrs. Robert Burchett introduced the program leader, Mrs. Douglas L. Brown, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Moore, Mrs. John F. Brown, and Mrs. Robert Burchett. They presented a program on, "Christian Being and Doing," with scripture read from Romans, 8th chapter.

The hostess served refreshments to Elizabeth Ramey, Pearl Nicholas, Mary Sue Moore, Patsy Brown, Geneva Carter, Roslyn Burchett, Mable Brown, Goldia Baldrige, Mary Jane Brown dismissed with prayer. Next meeting Sept. 8 with Clara Bradbury, Dorothy Stover program leader.

West Van Lear News

Eunice Rice (Shields) Salyer is still in Riverview Manor Nursing Home but is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rice and Kenny, of Bethel, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rice, of Huntsville, Texas, were called home last week on account of the death of their brother-in-law, Ralph Salyer, of Paintsville. They spent a few days with their mother, Mrs. Sarah Rice, of West Van Lear.

OUR APOLOGIES

Through a typographical error, the name of Thurman Booth was inadvertently omitted in the identification of Prestonsburg's Pee Wee League Dodgers team members.

Royal Ambassadors Camp

Enjoying the three-day camp held at Jenny Wiley State Park June 30 through July 2 are these members of the TAK Owe Chapter, Royal Ambassadors, of the First Baptist Church of Allen. They are Randy Watts, Chris Waugh, Jamie Rowe, Lee Boyd, Jason Waugh, Randy Yates, Barry Davis, Dennis Smith, Michael Conn, Herbie Lemaster and Dwayne Thompson. Those attending who are not pictured are Boo Barnette, Johnny Bevins, Richie Rowe, Glenn David May, and Brandon Barnette.

Between 80 and 100 people visited with the boys who attended the camp at the Girl Scout Camp at the park, and participated with them in activities which included baseball, kickball, hiking, crafts, mission and Bible study among others. The movie, "Jesus of Nazareth", was provided by Arnold and Libby Turner.

Monday night was Dad's Night, and a chicken dinner was provided by the Baptist men and enjoyed by all. Special gospel music was provided by Stevie Hall, Ken Leslie, Sam Leslie and Linnville Newsome, and later the group roasted marshmallows at a bonfire.

Mom's Night was Tuesday evening, and supper was provided by the Baptist women. The group enjoyed a puppet show by Jerry Waugh, followed by group singing and a marshmallow roast.

The camp is designed to provide a spiritual and physical learning experience for each boy, teaching them the importance of Christian fellowship involving family, church, and community.

Members of the camp staff were Roger D. Barnette, camp director; Rev. Earl Waugh, camp pastor; Donald Harris, assistant director; Randy Watts, counselor; Chris Waugh and Craig Davis, assistant counselors; Graham Burchett and Lewis Campbell, camp dieticians. Off-camp staff members included Leo Watts and Raymond Childers, Baptist Men's Planning committee; Pearl Watts, Ruby Imes, and Susan Barnett, Baptist Women's Planning Committee; Pearl Watts, director of food planning.

Forrest Sawyer, of Middletown, State Brotherhood Director, Kentucky Baptist Convention, was a special guest during the camp.

The Enterprise Association of Southern Baptist Churches will hold an invitational track meet for all active Royal Ambassador Chapters in mid-September. For additional information, those interested may call Roger Barnette, 265-9886.

Actor Says 'Fiddler on Roof' One of Best Musicals Ever

"Fiddler on the Roof" is one of the best musicals ever written, because it deals with ideas that have been going on since human beings have existed," according to Dr. Robert Bostrom, the actor recreating the role of Tevye for the Jenny Wiley Summer Musical Theatre. "Tevye is every father, and every parent can identify with his views, because all kids acquire different values from their parents and conflicts occur," he points out. This subject comprises the major topic of this musical show.

Dr. Bostrom comes to Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre from the University of Kentucky where he is a professor of communications, teaching theories of communications and research methods. He is also active as a director and actor with Lexington Musical Theatre where he has most recently played—what else—the role of Tevye, acquiring the acquaintance of Matt Orme, Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre director-actor, and Locky Lambert, director and choreographer. They suggested that he come to Jenny Wiley and use his talents in this production.

As for impressions of Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre, Bostrom feels that it is in one of the most beautiful places in the country. He enjoys working with the actors here and feels a good deal of empathy towards them, due to his teaching experience and work with young professionals.

"Fiddler on the Roof" will be presented Wednesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays, and Sundays until August 17. On Fridays, the theatre will present "An Evening of Musical Review," consisting of songs and dances from Broadway hits. Tickets and information may be obtained by calling the theatre at 886-9274 or by writing Box 22, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. All performances begin at 8:30.

Betsy Layne Band Practice Begins

All Betsy Layne Senior Band members are asked to report to the band room on Monday evening, Aug. 11, at 6 p.m. for band practice. Billie Jean Osborne, director, said this week.

Thieves Hit Fire Dept., School

(Photo and story by Ken Peters) What sounded like a story from television's "The Dukes of Hazzard" came to life early last Thursday morning in the Grethel-Branham's Creek section of the county.

Around midnight thieves broke into the Mud Creek Volunteer Fire Dept. at Grethel. While successful in starting the $58,000 fire engine they failed to open the overhead steel door in front of the truck. The door was described by Fireman Delmer Frasure as "very hard to open". But next to the fire engine was a newly purchased 1970 Pontiac ambulance that members were converting into a rescue unit. To date they had raised and invested approximately $1800 in it, but it needed more work before being put into service. The door in front of it was not so hard to open, and away the thieves went!

Next on the agenda was food, so they broke into the lunchroom of the John M. Stumbo school, a few hundred feet down the road. Their haul there was canned ham and turkey. It was the second break-in at the school in the last 10 days.

Then came their idea of fun. With all lights flashing and sirens screaming, they reportedly drove from Grethel to Branham's Creek, making several trips up and down the Branham's Creek road, still with lights and sirens going.

Their bizarre form of fun came to an end around 3:30 a.m. with a flat tire near the home of Tom Hall on Branham's Creek. When the unit could go no more, the thieves removed the battery and carburetor, then set the auto on fire.

The Mud Creek Fire Dept. offers a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those involved. Because the unit wasn't ready for full service no insurance had been purchased. No arrests have been made, and Kentucky State Police are investigating the break-ins. This brings to four the number of breaks in the Grethel vicinity in the last two weeks.

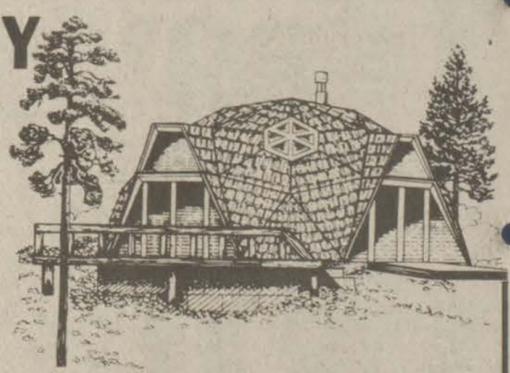

The first labor unions in Kentucky were established in Louisville and Northern Kentucky in the late 1820s.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Homer DeRossett, the loving husband of Belle DeRossett: His vacant chair is still sitting As it was when he was here And those sweet smiles I see so plainly As he sat in that old arm chair. Those wrinkled hands, I see them resting On the arms of that old chair, And that sweet face was always smiling Bringing comfort, hope and cheer. In my heart no one can fill it As he did when he was here, No matter where my footsteps wander I will always cherish that old arm chair. It won't be long until God will call me For all my burdens he does bear, And I hope to see my loving husband As once I did in that old arm chair. May God's presence give me comfort, Help me all my trials bear, And I hope to meet you, my dear husband, Leave behind the old arm chair. 11.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Dee Howell, who passed away Aug. 3, 1977: Gone is a mountain of a man, heart of gold, and a steel laboring hand. Known to all as a coal mining slave, who witnessed the life he lived under the hills each day. To love and raise his children seemed to be his only goal, a hunt now and then, till he got to old. Hard work and honesty was his game, he could buy or borrow from anyone, simply on his name. Altho, he accomplished much while on earth he stayed, still fame nor fortune never came his way; then he found Jesus, and I'm proud to say, grew richer and richer, day by day. Sometime, I like to think that God and his angels gave him a standing ovation as he entered heaven's gate, and laid out the welcome mat to the One thought so great. Thank you, Lord, for taking him into view for I couldn't trust him with anyone but you. Someday, I think, when I find the time, I'll plant on his grave a clematis vine, for that is the flower that I like best, blooming over the one that lies there at rest—my Dad. Miss Meade, Mr. Sammons Wed

The marriage of Miss Sharon Cross Meade to Mr. John Phillip Sammons was solemnized at 7:30 Saturday evening, June 14, at the Paintsville Country Club in a candlelight ceremony performed by Darrell F. Blankenship, pastor of the Paintsville Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Astor Meade, of Hager Hill, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Sammons, of Martin. Preceding the ceremony, the selections, "The Rose" and "Longer" were presented by Frank Holbrook, guitarist and vocalist, accompanied by Rick Damron. The traditional wedding march and "Tara" were played by Johnny Spurlock at the piano.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white sheer silk fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and empire bodice adorned with lace and seed pearls. The camelot sleeves were encrusted with pearls and medallions of the same lace. The softly flared skirt with short train was edged with a border of narrow lace interspersed with picot clusters. The mid-length veil of silk illusion fell from a headpiece of the same lace which also draped the sleeves and bodice. The bride's bouquet was of white roses, gardenias and baby's breath.

Mrs. Bonnie Porter, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Sally Ann Goebel and Miss Judy Ann Hyden, cousins of the bride, and Miss Sharon Ann Branham. Miss Sharon Michelle Porter, the bride's niece, was junior bridesmaid, and Miss Suzanne Day Wiley, the bride's cousin, was flower girl. They wore colonial-style floor-length gowns in lavender with matching picture hats and carried purple iris and stalice encircled by lavender lace and attached to white rattan fans.

Ushers were Mike Turner, Don R. Moore, Jr., and Tommy Hall. Christopher Todd, nephew of the bride, and Jason Henthorne, III, nephew of the groom, were junior ushers, and Jonathon Henthorne, the groom's nephew, was ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Meade chose a floor-length gown of lavender and pink silk, and Mrs. Sammons, mother of the groom, wore a pastel floral print gown of quiana.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held with approximately 300 guests attending. Miss Jennifer Burke assisted in registering the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Sammons' honeymoon included a week's visit in California and two weeks in Hawaii on the island of Oahu.

Among those from out-of-town who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wiley, Tim and Suzanne, Mark K. Reed, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Mark K. Reed, Jr., and Mark, III, Miss Juanita Burchett, Miss Stephanie Hamilton, Mike Turner, Miss Judy Ann Hyden, Mrs. Wayne D. Combs, Mike Vance, Phil Young and Miss Margaret Buchanan, all of Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Jody Vance, of Bluefield, W. Va.; Miss Sheila Gilreath, of Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. Jason Henthorne II, Jason, III, and Jonathan, of Wooster, O.; Mrs. Mary Horne and Dr. and Mrs. Wm. O. Allen, all of Pikeville; Mrs. Barbara Jean Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stumbo, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Staley, Ed Hysinger and Miss Lucy Long, all of Frankfort.

MAYTOWN NEWS

Ina Mae Rowe, of Lexington, spent last Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hicks and Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Hicks while here to attend the Maytown homecoming.

Mr. and Mrs. Chalmer Hicks and daughters have returned from a vacation at Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Mrs. David Webb, Trudi and Maria, of Lexington, and Mrs. Joyce Dermont, of Myrtle Beach, S.C., and Kathy Dermont visited Mrs. Gertrude Webb, Mrs. Lula Webb and Mrs. Thurmal Click, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Borders, of Michigan, were visiting friends here last week. The Borders family formerly resided in Maytown.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Robinson and Larry D. Robinson and son, Sean Keith, of Prestonsburg, spent several days visiting Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Wicker of Loveland, Ohio.

The Maytown Volunteer Fire Department received an insurance rating, effective July 1. This should help reduce the fire insurance premiums for those living within three road miles of the fire station. When your policy is renewed, you should contact your insurance representative. You may also check with the fire department to see whether you qualify for a Level 8 or Level 9 rating. Those living within 1000 feet of a fire hydrant are Level 8 and those living farther away are Level 9.

Mrs. Dortha Allen flew to Cincinnati from her home in Hurst, Tex. to visit relatives in Ohio before coming here to attend the homecoming. Mrs. Allen was a former teacher here.

Melvin May is in a training program with the U.S. Marines at Quantico, Va., for four weeks.

Mrs. Marcella Bailey was a patient at Our Lady of the Way Hospital for several days last week for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Caudill, of Sidney, Ohio, visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Blanton.

IN APPRECIATION

I wish to express my appreciation to the Prestonsburg Police Department for its cooperation and effective handling of the bluegrass festival at Archer Park, July 25-26. Any criticism made of officers was not against regular members of the police force. I appreciate the city's making available Archer Park for the festival each year and the help we received.

I hope to see you all again at the park, Sept. 12-13, and again next July.

Francis, Atterbury Vows Said

Miss Kimberly Francis and Mr. John L. Atterbury, of Lexington, were united in marriage at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, May 10 at Centenary Methodist Church in Lexington, with the Rev. Ed McGregor solemnizing the double-ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truly Francis, of Garrett, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Dorothy West, of Dallas, Texas, and the late John Atterbury.

A program of music was provided by organist Harriett Jenkins and soloist Raydean Wiley. Miss Tammy Francis, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported organza combined with reembroidered alencon lace and seed pearls. A modified Queen Ann neckline and molded camisole bodice were both jeweled with reembroidered lace and seed pearls. Long straight sleeves had a touch of embroidered lace with the traditional bridal point. Lace appliques encircled the cathedral-length train and the complete hemline of the skirt. Her veil was a two-tiered Juliet cap which was chapel-length with matching lace and pearl trim. She carried an old-fashioned colonial cascade bouquet.

Miss Andrea Denton, of Lexington, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Kathy Bryant, a sorority sister of the bride, Mrs. Anita Woods, of Lexington, Miss Lynn Spilman, of Cincinnati, Mrs. Susie Davis, of Martin. They wore identical floor-length gowns of peach polyester knit with matching chiffon cape. They carried identical colonial bouquets of carnations, crystal pom poms, and shonia roses.

Jerry Tischer, of Naples, Fla., served as best man. Groomsmen included Danny Woods, of Lexington, Robert Atterbury, of Dallas, Texas, David Thompson, of Richmond, and Michael Riddell, of Richmond.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Tates Creek Country Club.

After a wedding trip to the Virgin Islands, the couple is residing in Lexington, Ky.

State Funds To Fall Short By $217 Million, Officials Say

Kentucky will fall short of its estimated revenue for the current year by $217 million, Revenue Commissioner Robert Allphin and Finance Secretary George Adkins told the Interim Joint Committee on Appropriations and Revenue.

Allphin said the state's General Fund will be $114 million less than what had been estimated earlier and the Road Fund would be $45 million lower. "It's bleak now," he told the committee. "There are some indications of a leveling off, but the picture probably won't turn around until next year. I feel this is the best we can do this year."

He also told the committee he has tried to "get a clean cut on tax receipts" by depositing receipts promptly and by seeing that income tax refunds were mailed back before June 30.

Allphin also said Kentucky's industrial mix is approaching the national mix. "This indicates that corporate income tax receipts will not be as insulated from vagaries in the national economy as before," he told the committee. He said in making the revised estimates his department used information from corporations' payments on estimated earnings.

Larry Lynch, a University of Kentucky economist who helps the Legislative Research Commission with fiscal projections, gave the committee a somewhat more optimistic report. He indicated the General fund would be $36.7 million more than what Revenue has estimated. A major difference is in the corporate income tax amount, but Lynch said he did not have the data on corporate filings which Revenue has.

"My own belief about the economy is that we'll be on the way up by September," Lynch said. He also estimated the Road Fund would be $18.3 million more than the department had estimated, with the major difference in the figures for the motor vehicle use tax. "Looking at the stock of cars, those on the road and those taken out of use, sales will have to pick up in the fall. This area will recover, but it will not be a strong one. It won't be dramatic," he said.

Allphin said the new rate on motor fuels did not "trigger increases, but the mechanism is in place and it will go into effect when the wholesale price goes over $1 a gallon." He also said he has met with those concerned with the new mineral severance tax, but the Kentucky Crushed Stone Association is questioning the constitutionality of the bill. There is a temporary halt while those questions are resolved, he said. The first two reports under the bill will be quarterly ones, with monthly reports to begin in January.

Atkins repeated the figures on anticipated revenue receipts. "If there were a surplus—and a surplus is really a contingency fund—we could have tightened up and hung on," he said. "We don't have one."

Atkins said the efforts to take slack out of the budget when it was presented to the legislature meant "it's harder to go in now and cut out $217 million." He said Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. has asked cabinet secretaries to find out what they could postpone or cut out to "make it through the next six months."

Atkins said the governor has frozen all capital construction projects except those relating to the Bureau of Corrections. Items relating to health and safety and repairs will not be cut, he said. He also said the governor hopes future reductions in personnel will be accomplished through attrition.

Dr. Grady Stumbo, secretary of the Department for Human Resources, told the committee he is looking at capital construction, new programs and operations in trying to make budget cuts. "I'm looking at programs with two-thirds federal money which needs to be matched, so I'm looking at those programs funded through the General Fund," he said. He will probably need to reduce his budget by about $14 million, he added.

"I am now in the position where I have to cut programs, and there's no easy way to do it at this point," he told the committee. "My department has serious problems."

PCC Program To Aid Displaced Homemakers

Patty McKenzie, of Paintsville, has been named to head the new Displaced Homemakers Program at Prestonsburg Community College. This program is a state-wide project with one of the centers located here. Primary financial support for the program is to be provided by the Eastern Kentucky concentrated Employment Program and training funds from a special governor's grant.

A displaced homemaker is defined as an individual who has not worked in the labor force for a substantial number of years but has, during those years, worked in the home providing unpaid services for family members; and has been dependent on public assistance or on the income of another family member but is no longer supported by that income, or is receiving public assistance on account of dependent children in the home, especially where such assistance will soon be terminated, and is unemployed or underemployed and is experiencing difficulty in obtaining or upgrading employment.

Those persons are often subject to discrimination in employment because of age, sex, and lack of any recent paid work experience. They are, in many instances, not psychologically, physically, or vocationally prepared to locate, secure, and maintain acceptable employment. They are in need of services designed to address their needs.

Skills to be obtained will depend on the aptitude and interest of the individual participants. Programs which will be offered are: (1) Completion of the G.E.D. remedial and developmental education, vocational training in various fields, and programs from the community colleges, and work experience.

For additional information concerning the Program contact Patty McKenzie at Prestonsburg Community college at (606) 886-3863, Extension 255.

Student Takes Part In Advanced Program

Katherine Anne Jeffery, of Falls Mills, Va., participated in the Rising Seniors Program at Berea College this summer.

The four-week program, which offers college credit to outstanding high school students, began June 16 and attracted 108 students from 15 states. Those attending were housed in college dormitories and worked in Berea's on-campus labor program.

Miss Jeffery is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Jerrery, of Falls Mills, and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mays, of Long Beach, N.C., formerly of Floyd county, who attended the closing exercises at Berea College and accompanied her home to Bluefield, Va., where she spent five days before leaving for Emory and Henry College.

Notice To Bidders

The City of Prestonsburg will receive bids until Wednesday August 6 at 4:00 p.m. for the lease-purchase of a 1980 model fire truck. The bids will be opened publicly and read aloud at the Municipal Building, North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. The City of Prestonsburg reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any formality in the bidding. The City of Prestonsburg is an equal opportunity purchaser. 7-30-21.

87 Attend Gardening Demo

Merritt garden draws interest of group attending demonstration.

By JOHN E. SPARKS

County Extension Agent for Agriculture

High grocery prices have created more interest for growing your own vegetables.

The 87 persons who attended the recent gardening demonstration at the Billy Merritt farm on Abbott Creek heard Dr. David Hensley, State Extension horticulture specialist, explain the difference in the tomato varieties planted at the garden site. Two relatively new European varieties Mont Flaut and Nancy were introduced with the latter being good for processing. Flora-America created a lot of interest because of the large tomatoes and being intermediate in height (short growing variety ideal for staking). Rampao and Jettstar held up real good against the blight, with Jettstar winning the taste test.

This season, as a result of use of black plastic and straw mulch, vegetables performed so much better, due to the mulch conserving moisture during dry spells.

Plantings of bush varieties of cantaloupe, cucumber, and watermelon make it possible for the small backyard gardener to raise these vine crops where the vine types usually take up a lot of valuable garden space.

Sweet corn varieties that looked impressive were Silver Queen, white variety; Golden Queen, Illini-Extra Sweet, Illinois variety and Gold Cup.

Frances Pitts, county extension agent for home economics, discussed techniques of canning and food preservation. Publications on home canning and freezing can be picked up at the County Extension office or by calling 886-2668.

Mrs. Wayne Ratliff and Grace Conley made doughnuts and Mrs. Merritt furnished homemade lemonade for the group attending the demonstration.

Merchants who furnished door prizes included Heck's Department Store, F. S. VanHoose Lumber Company, Ratliff Farm Supply, Farm & Home Store and the First Commonwealth Bank. The following won the door prizes: Mrs. Ethel Ratliff, Wayne Ratliff, Patty Robinson, Melinda Justice, Marvin Alley, Polk Hill, John Howard and Ballard Hall.

HEALTH NOTES

By JANET E. HICKS

CLINICS FOR THE WEEK:

On Friday, August 8, a Pap smear clinic at the Floyd County Health Department from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Women should have a Pap test at least once a year in order to have continuing protection against cervical cancer.

Monday, August 11, the regularly scheduled Wayland Outpost Clinic in the basement of the Wayland Methodist Church from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Services available will include immunizations, TB skin tests, urinalyses, and blood pressures.

A glaucoma clinic at the Floyd County Health Department Wednesday, August 13, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Persons age 35 and older are urged to attend to be screened for glaucoma, a serious disease of the eye that can result in blindness.

All these clinics are free.

TO BEAT THE HEAT

In view of the current heat wave, which is forecast to continue until mid-September, the following list of preventive measures should be used to minimize the ill effects from the heat, according to Dr. Roger D. Akers, chairman of the Floyd County Board of Health:

1. Remain indoors between daylight hours of 10 and 6.
2. Wear loose, light-colored clothing in a cotton fabric.
3. Drink extra fluids.
4. Rest more frequently than usual and when possible schedule chores during early morning hours.
5. Eat lightly and plan meals to include items that require little or no cooking.
6. Keep windows, shades and curtains closed on the sunny side of the house.
7. Wear a wide-brimmed hat when going outside.
8. Avoid over exertion.
9. Be a good neighbor; check on the elderly or disadvantaged who do not have air-conditioning and offer assistance.

The two most common problems experienced by individuals who are subjected to excessive heat or sun are heat exhaustion and heat stroke. It should be noted that while heat exhaustion requires appropriate measures to avoid serious ill effects, heat stroke is a medical emergency and must be treated immediately to avoid fatality.

Summer Art Class Flies To Chicago

Several members of an Appalachian Graduate Consortium Art class at Pikeville College took an extensive cultural tour of Chicago for two days on the 20th and 21st of June, visiting the Chicago Art Institute, the Museum of Science and Industry, and the Aquarium. The seven travelers were: Dr. Audrey Barkman, Pikeville College; Roger Wagner, Pikeville; Lonzetta Phillips and Marian Rasnic, both of Mouthcard, Ky.; Jo Ella Watts, Democrat, Ky.; and the group coordinator Mrs. Duna Combs and son Shawn.

While the group was impressed with such wonders as the Sears Tower, world's tallest building, the real emphasis of the trip was on the art institute where they examined early Picasso paintings and stained glass designs by Marc Chagall. They spent considerable time with the post-impressionists, especially Paul Cezanne and Seurat, and finally concentrated on American and contemporary painters including Grant Wood and his famous "American Gothic." Saturday they visited the Museum of Science and Industry and the Shed Aquarium.

Kentucky Has Strong Tie with Movie Industry

Hollywood stars, lights, tinsel, the movies, Kentucky. If Kentucky seems out of place with the rest of these words, better stop and think again.

In the past decade, Kentucky landscapes and its friendly citizens have caught the attention of the world's film makers and more and more films are being "made in Kentucky." But even before that, when movies were in their infancy, Kentucky had strong ties with the film industry.

D.W. (David Wark) Griffith, world-famous director remembered by many as the father of modern film cinematography, was born on a farm not far from LaGrange at Floyds Fork (now Crestwood).

Griffith was the sixth of seven children born to Jacob Wark Griffith and Mary Perkins Griffith. After the death of Griffith's father in 1882, his mother moved the family to Louisville where she operated a boarding house.

It was in Louisville that Griffith was first drawn to the theatre. He joined an amateur theatrical company that toured Kentucky and Indiana.

Between acting assignments Griffith wrote. He turned out plays, stories and poems. Finally, upon the advice of a friend, Griffith started offering his story ideas to motion picture studios.

The Biograph Co. bought several of Griffith's earlier films, and in June 1908 he was offered a trial assignment to direct for Biograph. With a few successes under his belt, Biograph hired him as their principal director.

Griffith turned out films at an unbelievable rate. He directed nearly 500 one- and two-reel films for Biograph, often turning out more than two a week. During his years at Biograph, Griffith's innovative camera techniques became the basic building blocks for all modern cinematographers.

Griffith is credited with the close-ups, long-shots and the "switchback," used to build suspense, and the fade-out and restraint in expression. Griffith's new acting style of using restrained movements instead of large stage gestures made stars of Mary Pickford, Dorothy and Lillian Gish and Lionel Barrymore.

Many of Griffith's films also show his love for the state in which he was born. In his film, "A Romance of Happy Valley," the church bears a strong resemblance to the Mount Tabor Methodist Church in Centerfield, Ky., where he chose to be buried.

"Griffith was so fond of his homeland that whenever he used a postmark, it was always from Kentucky," points out film historian William K. Everson. On hotel registers all over the world, Griffith would sign his name and address as, "David Wark Griffith, LaGrange, Ky.," no matter where he happened to be living at the time.

Griffith made an effort to preserve his Kentucky heritage, and historians at the University of Louisville are now making an effort to preserve Griffith's contributions in Kentucky history. The university's Archives and Records Center has received a $25,802 grant from the national Historical Publications and Records Commission to establish a D. W. Griffith library.

Approximately 20,000 pieces of personal correspondence, diaries, contracts and script outlines will be placed on microfilm at U of L. The papers are presently in the Museum of Modern Art in New York City. The project will begin Oct. 1 and will be funded through Sept. 31, 1981.

Griffith left Biograph in 1913 to become director of production for Reliance Magestic, a producing company for the Mutual Film Corp. It was here Griffith released the longest, most expensive motion picture of the time, "The Birth of a Nation."

The film about the American Civil War went on to become the most famous and controversial film in the first half-century of the screen.

"Intolerance" was Griffith's next major project. It was an historical epic depicting four places, modern United States, 16th century Paris, Palestine in the time of Christ and ancient Babylon. These four were placed together in a movie noted for its lavishly decorated sets which totally dominated the Hollywood landscape.

Though not quite as popular with audiences as "Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance" became a major tool for film makers all over the world who were fascinated with Griffith's never-before-used camera techniques.

After some troubling times, the business-wise Griffith became a studio director at Paramount Pictures. It was during this time he re-established himself in the industry with works like "Broken Blossoms," which introduced for the first time the effectiveness of lighting atmosphere and picture composition.

Other successful films included "Isn't Life Wonderful," "Way Down East," "True Heart Susie" and "Orphans of the Storm."

In 1931, on his own once again, Griffith made a film called "The Struggle" attempting to regain his popularity. The film was a flop and brought Griffith's career to an end. He died in 1948 of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Summer Youth Program Concluded in County

The Summer Youth Employment Program has just completed another successful summer in the Floyd county area according to Gerald Newsome, county coordinator.

The program is a product of the Big Sandy Community Action Manpower Program and is sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky concentrated Employment Program.

The summer program, which ran from June 23 through July 25, employed 28 eligible applicants chosen by a county screening committee. The various job training sites for the 1980 summer were at the courthouse here, the Arnold Day Care Center, the B.M.S. office, the Allen county park, the Martin Housing Authority, Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin, the Wheelwright city pool and the city utilities, the Weeksbury Community Center and the Mud Creek Health Clinic. Applicants either had to be out of school for six months or graduated from high school with the intent to return to school.

"The Summer Youth Employment Program was a success, largely due to the youth themselves," Mr. Newsome said.

DINNER TO BENEFIT ANIMAL SHELTER

A soup bean dinner will be held at the high school cafeteria here from noon until 7 p.m. Saturday. Carry-out orders will be welcomed, a spokesman said, adding, "It's not fancy, but it's good." All proceeds will go to finance the animal shelter on the old Middle Creek Road.

Home, Contents Lost to Fire

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Scarberry, of Arkansas Creek, near Martin, was lost to fire Tuesday morning, last week. The call came to the Martin Fire Dept. about 1:30 a.m., but in spite of a quick response the home was a total loss on arrival of the fire truck.

No one was home when the blaze struck the two-year-old frame structure. Origin of the fire is unknown. The total loss was put at $60,000 by Mr. Scarberry who reported the eight-room home was insured for full value.

Pageant Contestant

Miss Batina Lynn Sword, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest M. Sword, of Allen, has been selected to be a state finalist in the 1980 Miss United Teenager Pageant to be held at the Executive-West in Louisville at 7:30 p.m., Aug. 22, 23, 24.

The winner of the state finals will receive an all-expense paid trip to compete in the national finals, a three-phase pageant in Hollywood, California; Waikiki Beach, Hawaii and Washington, D.C.; where she will compete for $15,000 in cash scholarships, a new automobile for her reigning year, a trip to Europe, $5,000 appearance contract, $2,000 wardrobe and other awards.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic, civic achievements, beauty, poise and personality, and no swimsuit competition is required. Each contestant will write and recite on stage a 100-word essay on the subject, "My Country."

Miss Sword is being sponsored by Thompson's I.G.A., Supermarket and County Judge Executive Bill Wells. She is a student at Prestonsburg High School, and her hobbies include swimming, reading, and dancing.

RETURN TO NORTH CAROLINA

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mays, of Tranquill Harbour, Long Beach, N.C., have returned to their home after a six-weeks camping trip to Kentucky. They visited many friends in Floyd County where they resided for 30 years. While in Kentucky they spent much time visiting their granddaughter, Kathy Anne Jeffery, of Bluefield, Va., who was attending a summer scholarship term at Berea College. Their daughter Mrs. Elizabeth (Mays) Jeffery, of Bluefield, accompanied them to Berea on July 11 and attended commencement exercises, after which they all spent the week-end at Boone Tavern.

Course For Instructors Slated Here, Sept. 26-28

Eastern Kentucky Emergency Medical Services (EKEMS) announces an American Heart Association advanced cardiac life support (ACLS) instructor course will be held September 26-28. The training classes will be held at Jenny Wiley State Park. Reservations or information may be obtained by calling EKEMS at 606-329-9760.

The course is designed for health care personnel who are already ACLS instructors. The course director will be Dr. Anthony J. Suruda, clinical director of EKEMS.

When President Lincoln called upon Kentucky in 1861 to supply soldiers for the Union Army, a beleaguered governor wired him in response: "In answer I will say emphatically that Kentucky will furnish no troops for the wicked purpose of subduing her sister southern states." Gov. Beriah Magoffin also refused to provide forces for the Confederacy and issued his famous proclamation of neutrality.

ATTEND CAMP

Jayne Pitts, field commander for the Prestonsburg High School band, recently attended band camp at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. Attending with her was Ann Everly, also of the Prestonsburg High School band.

EMPLOYMENT WANTED

All phases of remodeling, panelling, ceiling tile, trailer repairs, roofing, interior and exterior painting, electric and plumbing repair or installation. Free estimates. Call 478-2312 after 5 p.m.

TAKING APPLICATIONS

The Prestonsburg Fire Department is accepting applications for the positions of Auxillary firefighters. Interested applicants must be 18 years of age and be willing to attend training sessions twice monthly.

Applications can be obtained at the Prestonsburg fire Department from 8:00 a.m. til 4:30 p.m.

Auxillary Firefighters are trained along with the full-time firefighters and are a major force in the fire-fighting capabilities of the Prestonsburg Fire Department.

First Birthday

Amanda Renae Caudill, daughter of Terry and Wilma Caudill, of Mousie, celebrated her first birthday July 25 at the home of her parents with many friends and relatives.

She is the granddaughter of Vertis and Monnie Slone, of Kite, and the only grandchild of John and Esta Caudill, of McDowell.

Program Aims To Curb Irresponsible Drivers

While some states require licensed drivers to repeat the operator's test every few years, once Kentuckians have passed the test, a license is automatically renewed every two, soon to be four, years.

Suppose you know a licensed driver who really shouldn't be behind the wheel of a car—someone who puts his or her life, and the lives of others using the road, in jeopardy when driving? What then?

The Department of Transportation's driver limitation program encourages Kentuckians to report anyone with a physical or mental impairment which would affect the ability to drive.

The program contains a medical review board composed of physicians who are licensed in Kentucky and representatives from the departments of Transportation and Human Resources. The board was established in 1964 and meets when necessary with six or seven physicians in attendance.

Gary Brucker, program coordinator, said the goal of the program and purpose of the review board is highway safety. "We are trying to ensure that Kentucky drivers are physically and mentally fit to drive," he said.

It is not the intent of the program to eliminate older drivers, Brucker said. "There are young people who have endured some kind of physical or mental trauma who are significantly impaired as to affect their driving," he added.

Brucker said reports about individuals with questionable driving habits are usually submitted to the review board by one of three sources—doctors, police agencies or two or more individuals who sign a notarized affidavit naming the person incapable of properly operating a vehicle.

Drivers who have been involved in three or more reportable car accidents within a 24-month period or who have received three or more convictions for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs within five years are referred to the board by KYDOT's Bureau of Vehicle Regulation.

Upon notification from the vehicle regulation bureau, the driver involved must submit to a physical examination within 45 days. The subject may pay his or her own physician to conduct an examination or the county health officer will conduct the examination at no expense.

Results of the examination must be reported to the medical review board within 30 days on a form furnished by the bureau. The board then convenes as soon as possible to evaluate the case and make its recommendations. The board may recommend suspension of the license, further medical or psychiatric examination, a complete driver's test or a driving restriction, such as not driving at night.

The subject then has 15 days in which to request a hearing with the commissioner of vehicle regulation and at least three physicians. Within 10 days after the hearing is held, the driver is contacted with the decision.

According to statutory requirements, medical review board meetings are conducted in privacy because of the discussion of confidential medical records.

KYDOT has been working for some time to make police agencies aware of the program. "We've stepped up contacts with license examiners, state police, clerical personnel involved in licensing and the latest classes of cadets at the State Police academy to let them know about the program," he said.

Rice's Crispiers . . .

Good Luck, Howard Wallen

By KENNY RICE

The 15th Region basketball picture will be missing a familiar face this coming season. Howard Wallen has left the head coaching job at Allen Central to become the head basketball and golf coach at Garrard County High, located in the central Kentucky town of Lancaster (pop. 3200).

Always respected as a coach and gentleman, Howard will be missed by area sports fans.

Howard came on the regional scene as a member of the 1968 Meade Memorial High regional championship club. He was a two-time All-Stater and a prep All American at Johnson Central High in 1969-'70. He went to Morehead State and became the premiere playmaking guard in the Ohio Valley Conference. During the years at Morehead, he could still be seen around 15th Region games, doing scouting of potential college players for MSU. He came to Allen Central as head coach in the fall of 1975 after serving as graduate assistant at Morehead for a year.

During his five years at Central, his teams won 101 games, three Floyd County Conference titles and the past two seasons at Central were his most impressive. The Rebels went 30-6 and were ranked 11th in the state in the final AP poll. He finished third in the Lexington Herald Coach of the Year poll.

His father, Wendell, retired from coaching last summer after 18 years and four regional championships. With Howard's departure to the 12th Region, the Wallen name will be absent from the 15th Region coaching circle for the first time since the late 1950's.

"It feels funny to be leaving the 15th Region, it is all I have ever known as a player and coach in high school ball," Howard noted. "I'm hoping that I can adjust to the Bluegrass area. It is really beautiful country but I will always remember the mountains."

The three-time Floyd County Conference Coach of the Year decided to make the move from the mountains because of a need to reevaluate his views on coaching.

"I'll be 29 years old this January and I'm still not sure what my goals in coaching are. I felt that I needed a change at this time so that personally I might get some insight into my true feelings on my coaching future," the native Johnson countyian explained.

When leaving one school for another, it is always a time to reflect on the previous job. Howard has many fond thoughts about Allen Central High and Floyd county sports followers.

"My five years at Allen Central have been enjoyable and personally rewarding. I have worked with some exceptional young men who have given me many lifelong memories. There are many good people involved in the Allen Central school and many good people in the Right Beaver area that I will not soon forget. I would like to thank all these people for their support during my five years."

Garrard County competes in the 12th Region against some of the finest teams in the Bluegrass such as Pulaski County, Lincoln county and Somerset. Garrard is in the district with Danville, Boyle County and the Kentucky School for the Deaf. Garrard is also a member of the tough Central Kentucky Conference whose members include Henry Clay at Frankfort. Howard inherits a team that had a losing record last season.

He says of his objectives at Garrard, "Garrard County is not a real big school, about the size of Allen Central enrollment-wise. They have been to the region, I think, three or four times in the last six or seven years. My objectives will be not only to compete but to try to beat these bigger schools, and, of course, try to go to the state tournament. And as always, try to develop good character in the young people I am associated with."

I knew Howard would mention developing character, along with winning. That's part of his style. His teams have given 15th Region fans good basketball. It's hard to say farewell to a friend, but it's easy to thank him for the class he always had on and off the court.

CENTRAL'S NEW COACH

Howard Wallen's replacement at Central is native Floyd Countyian John Martin. John was head basketball coach at Sheldon Clark High for two seasons where his teams fashioned a 43-19 record and reached the regional semi-finals in 1977 and finals in 1978.

John says of his new post, "It feels pretty good, I wanted to come back home and coach. I've been an Allen Central fan except when I coached against them at Sheldon Clark. I've always felt the fans of Right Beaver Creek were the best around. They proved that last year. I hope we have a decent team this season so we can have the same support from the fans."

TOURIST TIP

Several Floyd countyians go to Daytona Beach, Fla. for summer vacation. When I was there a couple of weeks ago I ran into Ray Campbell, French Campbell and Lowell Sammons, who were visiting the Sunshine State with their families.

After a day in the sun, a nice way to spend an evening is to watch the Daytona Beach team in the Class A Florida State League. Everyone who appreciates our minor league club at Paintsville, will enjoy the beautiful setting at City Island Park and the fine brand of baseball played in the Florida State League.

SOFTBALL RESULTS

Ken-Dick Sports won the district softball tourney at Archer Park last week. Petrey's Furniture finished second and Tackett's Variety came in third. All three teams advance to the regional tourney at Archer.

The Softball Report

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

The regional Class A softball tournament for men will get under way at Z.S. Dickerson Field, Archer Park, Friday night with four games scheduled. In the double-elimination tournament Jenkins will battle Tackett's Variety Store in the opening game. In game 2 Economy Drug (Pikeville) will play King's Creek. In game 3 Ken Dick will play Elkhorn city and in game 4 Petrey Furniture will battle Elkhorn City. On Saturday Marlowe's Palace will face McRoberts. In game 6 Western Steer will go against Elkhorn City. In game 7 Blackhawk Mining will play the winner of the Jenkins-Tackett's Variety Store game. National Mines had a bye and in game 10 will play the winners of the Western Steer-Elkhorn City game.

Ken-Dick won the championship game of the Class A District last week. Petrey Furniture was second and Tackett's Variety Store was third. Mike Howard, of Hilltop Mining, was the home run leader with 10. Larry Woods was second with eight for the season. The Sportsmanship Trophy was awarded to J & H Service, of Melvin. To win the Class A District title, Ken-Dick won four straight games.

Final league standings: National Mines, 20-1; Blackhawk Mining, 19-2; Anixter Cable, 18-3; Ken-Dick, 17-4.

The men's Class B district tournament began last night at Z.S. Dickerson Field, Archer Park. The schedule: Elliott Glass playing Village Chevrolet at 6:30; Martin's Dept. Store of Salyersville vs. Tom's Chips, and in game 3 at 8:30 Prestonsburg Business Men vs. Porter's Used Cars. In the final of the first round Elkhorn Mine will meet J & H Service. Four games will be played tonight (Wednesday). The tournament will recess for the men's Class A regional tournament and play will resume Tuesday, August 12, with four games. The Class B regional tournament will be played at Pikeville after August 15.

Babe Ruth Stars Play in State Tourney

The South Floyd 13-year-old Babe Ruth All Stars advanced to the state tournament in Bowling Green recently by beating Johnson County 7-0. The win over the Johnson countyians avenged an 8-6 loss in the second round of the double elimination tourney. Todd Nairn was the winning pitcher in the title game. South Floyd also defeated Carr Fork 20-7 (Jody Hackworth, pitcher), Hazard 5-1 (Todd Nairn, pitcher), Carr Fork 23-2 (Dale Pack, pitcher) North Floyd 12-0 (Nairn, pitcher), and Johnson County 6-2 (Gordie Ratliff, pitcher) en route to the championship.

In the state tournament at Bowling Green, South Floyd had 20 hits in a 13-3 win over Madisonville. Gordie Ratliff allowed only two Madisonville hits to get the win. Hopkinsville sent South Floyd to the losers' bracket 13-3. South Floyd beat Radcliffe 17-6 behind a 22-hit attack and 6-hit pitching from Jody Hackworth. South Floyd was bumped from the tourney by Bowling Green 8-6.

Gasohol or Moonshine?

By DOT RIDINGS

(In the Kentucky Business Ledger)
In the last 18 months 108 Kentuckians have been issued federal permits to produce ethyl alcohol for fuel use.

In today's common usage, it's ethanol for use in gasohol motor fuel. In some circles, it's "high proof vodka" that could be sold as a dangerous beverage.

But even the people who define it in different ways agree that the new enthusiasm over ethanol production has opened the door to new problems of illegal moonshining.

It happened in Ohio, where the state Department of Liquor Control arrested a man who holds a legal gasohol permit for illegally manufacturing and selling whiskey. There have been no such reports in Kentucky, but "it could happen," said Ed Farris, distilled spirits administrator for the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

"There's no question it offers more opportunity than has existed in the past for illegal distilling," Mr. Farris said. "But everybody and his brother is encouraging people to (produce gasohol). Gasohol is a blend of 10 percent ethanol, an alcohol made from corn and other agricultural products, and 90 percent unleaded gasoline.

The 1980 Kentucky legislature passed a law by a 86-1 vote in the House and 29-0 vote in the Senate "to encourage" such production. The law exempts ethanol production facilities from sales, use and corporate license taxes and makes the facilities subject only to state property taxes, at a reduced rate of one-tenth of one percent per $100 valuation. The federal government has removed the four-cent excise tax on gasohol.

The opportunity for abuse of ethanol production "does raise potential problems," said Porter Collier, director of law enforcement for Kentucky's ABC board.

And part of the problem lies in the permitting process. No state permit is required, and Mr. Farris said the federal permit is "minimal and easily obtained." No fee is required, although a bond must be posted if a permit is sought to produce more than 10,000 gallons per year must state whether they have been previously convicted of any violation of federal or state law, other than minor traffic violations.

And because the federal permits are issued under Internal Revenue Service regulations, none of this information can be released to enforcement authorities—not even the names of permit holders.

Bridget Clay Signed MSU Grant-in Aid

Morehead State University women's softball coach Loretta Marlow has announced the signing of three MSU students to grant-in-aids.

Included are:
—Bridget Clay, of Prestonsburg, an outfielder who batted .342 with a team-leading five home runs last year.
—Terry Caristo, catcher, who hit .333 with two home runs for the Lady Eagles last season.
—Jamie Hickle, the starting pitcher for the squad last season.
"Each of these players made a big contribution to our squad last season," stated Marlow. "As seniors this season, we hope they will provide leadership on the field."

MSU will have women's softball as an intercollegiate sport for the second season, but is giving grants for the first time this year.

New TV Services

Construction is under way to provide 12-channel service to our customers in the Printer-Hunter-Maytown area. Within the next 30 to 45 days these subscribers will receive service from our Martin tower. The three Lexington Kentucky stations, Atlanta channel 17 and HBO will be available, in addition to other traditional services.

We also plan to award a construction contract on a 70-mile section of new plant which will offer 40-channel capability. The new facility will serve Prater Creek, Little Mud and a large area south from Banner along U.S. 23 to the Pike-Floyd County line. The area includes Ivel, Tram, Stanville, Betsy Layne and Harold.

Within the next few weeks, we will publish the schedule for our entire construction program.

Atlanta channel 17 will be placed in service for our Martin area customers by Aug. 15, 1980.

One of the most fascinating categories of mistakes in human behavior is called the "capture error." That's when you pass too near a well-formed habit and it captures your attention. An example given in the August Reader's Digest is of the man who went to the bedroom to dress for dinner and instead totally undressed and went to bed.

Archeologists in pursuit of the past have upset quite a few traditional apocryphs. The August Reader's Digest points out that the megalithic tombs, once thought to be crude imitations of Egyptian pyramids, now appear to be 2000 years older. And the first humans to reach America probably arrived 40,000 years ago, rather than 12,000 years ago, as was long believed.

About Kentucky Earthquakes, What To Do When One Comes

The earthquake that shook Kentucky and much of the Eastern United States may have been only a moderate quake of 5.1 on the Richter Scale. But ask residents of Maysville what they thought when the earth shook for several seconds Tuesday afternoon, July 27. To some, it may have seemed like George Orwell's "End of the World."

Earthquakes are rare east of the Mississippi River, but they do happen. One major series of earthquakes that struck the Mississippi River Valley in 1811-12 sent 1,874 separate shocks strong enough to be felt in the Louisville area and created 23,000-acre Reelfoot Lake in Northwestern Tennessee and Southwestern Kentucky.

All of Kentucky is in an earthquake risk zone, ranging from an area in Western Kentucky in the "major damage" zone to the eastern half of the state in the "minor damage" zone. "Most of Central Kentucky is in the "moderate damage" zone. These zones provide a basis for estimating the amount of damage an area struck by an earthquake might receive, based on past records and seismologic studies.

Part of the mystery of earthquakes lies in their unpredictability, both in extent and time of occurrence. But these zone areas provide some indication of Kentucky areas to be especially alert in preparing for this mighty force of nature.

In preparation for any disaster, state Disaster and Energy Services officials advise that homes should be equipped with a basic list of emergency supplies. The most important items to keep on hand are: water (preferably in plastic jugs); canned or sealed-package foods that require no refrigeration or heating; an ample supply of medicines; first aid kit; battery-powered radio and flashlight (keep spare batteries). It's always a good idea to keep a two to three week supply of food and water, just to be safe.

What should you do when an earthquake hits? Remain calm. If indoors, stay indoors. Hide under sturdy furniture near the center of the building and stay away from glass. Don't use candles, matches or other open flames.

If outdoors, move away from buildings or power lines that may fall or collapse.

If in a moving car, stop the vehicle and stay inside.

When the shaking stops, use extreme caution when entering or working in buildings that may have been damaged or weakened.

Check utilities. If water pipes are damaged or electrical wires are shorting, turn off at primary control point. If a gas leakage is detected, shut off at main valve, open windows, then leave the house and do not re-enter until utility officials say it is safe to do so. Turn on the radio for emergency information.

Homemakers Attend Cultural Arts Camp

Sixteen Floyd County Homemakers attended the annual Northeast Area Cultural Arts Camp at the Irish Acres 4-H Center recently.

While there the homemakers participated in learning sessions, in crewel embroidery, tatting, pine cone wreaths, wheat weaving, flower arranging, international foods and making and furnishing doll houses.

Dorothy Harris and Mary Sue Moore were instructors in the crewel embroidery class.

Homemakers attending were Sharon Sparr, Margie Sammons, Marie Vance, Judy Hackworth, Alice Sipple, Armita Snively, Lucy Waddles, Debbie Biliter, Betsy Baldrige, Eleanor Horn, Alda Gibson, Alice Hayes, Phyllis Herrick, Dorthey Harris, Mary Sue Moore and Frances Pitts.

Receives Wings of Flight Officer

First Lieutenant Byron H. Gibbs, USMCR, received his certification as Naval Flight officer, Training Air Wing Six, Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Florida. Brigadier General Joe Foss, (retired) presented the certification and official congratulations. The Wings of Gold were pinned in place by the Lt. Gibbs wife, Grace, daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Furman, of Betsy Layne. Lt. Gibbs, a graduate of the University of Kentucky and a native of Morgantown, is now attending the Electronics Warfare School at Corry Field, Pensacola, prior to duty as Naval Flight Officer aboard the EQ-6B aircraft.

Stumbo To Receive Recognition Award

District Judge Harold J. Stumbo has been notified by Bruce K. Davis, assistant director of the Kentucky Bar Association, that he has 121 CLE credit hours accumulated and that his application for a Continuing Legal Education Recognition Award has been approved.

A certificate attesting to this educational accomplishment will be issued soon, Mr. Davis wrote.

NOTICE

of Blasting Schedule

In accordance with the provisions of 405 KAR 1:090, Branham & Baker Coal Company, North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653 announces the following blasting schedule. The blasting sites are located in Floyd County as follows: South of David at Latitude 37 degrees, 34 min., 40 sec., and Longitude 82 degrees, 53 min., 00 sec., approximately 293 acres.

Blasting will be done Monday through Saturday between the hours of 2 p.m. and 6 p.m., from July 1, 1980 through September 30, 1980.

A minimum of 10 minutes prior to blasting, all access roads will be barricaded and the following signal given: two (2) thirty (30) second soundings of a siren with a thirty (30) second pause between. After blasting, an all-clear signal consisting of one (1) thirty second sounding of a siren will be given.

Blasting may occur at times other than those outlined in the blasting schedule, if in the event that explosives are loaded and rain, lightning, atmospheric conditions, management problems, or safety to the operator or public deem it necessary to blast otherwise. If unscheduled blasting should become necessary, all personnel in the blasting area shall be notified and the siren signals as described above will be sounded before the detonation.

Senior Citizens Get New Van

Senior citizens of Wheelwright were the recipients of a new 15-passenger van presented to them July 15. The van was purchased by the Big Sandy Area Development District Board through use of Area Development funds.

Making the presentation was Wayne T. Rutherford, judge-executive of Pike county and chairman of the Big Sandy ADD Board. Receiving the van on behalf of the senior citizens was Ellen Daniels, director of the Wheelwright Center. Also present at the dedication were Floyd county members of the Aging Advisory Council, Joe Helton, Mrs. Trilby May, Hawley Scott and Claude Swiney. The Big Sandy ADD staff was represented by Joseph L. McCauley, executive director, Mrs. Libby Ratcliff, executive assistant, Mrs. Phyllis Stanley, aging planner, and Harold Reynolds, program developer.

In a short speech following the dedication, Judge Rutherford discussed the enormous value of senior citizens as a natural resource and reaffirmed the ADD Board's commitment to provide them with quality services.

Four From This County To Receive EKU Degrees

Eastern Kentucky University will confer degrees upon about 650 students at its 73rd summer commencement tomorrow (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m., including four students from Floyd county.

The degree candidates this summer from Floyd county are:

Kalman N. Franko, Prestonsburg, associate of science; Elissa F. Seutchfield, Prestonsburg, bachelor of science; Laneva R. Conley, Allen, bachelor of science; Susie C. Hamilton, Betsy Layne, bachelor of science.

David Crafts Center Awarded KAC Grant

The David Crafts program is the recent recipient of a Kentucky Arts Commission grant award for salary assistance. The funded position of director-teacher is held by Mary A. Pineau of David. This is the third year that Kentucky Arts Commission has aided the David Crafts Center with matching funds.

The Kentucky legislature established the Kentucky Arts Commission in 1966 to develop and promote support for the arts in Kentucky. Through grants and staff assistance, the commission focuses on strengthening arts-producing and arts-sponsoring organizations and on helping them reach out and increase public involvement in the arts.

Any nonprofit organization which is committed to providing arts services or programs to the public is eligible for KAC funding.

The growth of the David Crafts program in the past few years is indicated by the numbers of visitors, tourists, school groups, shoppers, and craftspeople who regularly visit the center which is located on the second floor of the David Child Care Center. The display of traditional mountain crafts shows the excellence of workmanship attained by the more than 50 craftspeople who participate in the program.

Other staff members of the program besides Pineau are Joy Ousley, assistant director-bookkeeper, Barbara Griffith, clerk aid, Elizabeth Baranick, sales manager, and Doreen Martin, Drift, manager.

The David Crafts Center is open to the public Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. or by appointment (886-2513).

Best Bets from KET For August Listed

"KENTUCKY ONSTAGE: DANCE" This half-hour edition of the Eastern Kentucky University series examines dance and dancers from Kentucky. Featuring excerpts from Lexington Ballet's spring presentation of "Fantasia" and dance sequences from ECU's production of "Cabaret," the program focuses on dance opportunities in the state and the motivations of several dancers. (Premiering Saturday, August 2 at 6:30.)

"FLYING FORTRESS" This KET production examines the B-52 bombing runs over Kentucky. KET producer Jonas Chaney attends training sessions in Dayton, Ohio, and films the E-19 crew as a practice bombing mission is made over portions of Central Kentucky. (30 minutes, Sunday, August 3 at 10:30.)

"MUSICAL COMEDY TONIGHT" A cast of star entertainers joins Sylvia Fine Kaye in a 90 minute overview of musical theater songs and dances. Stars include Carol Burnett, Richard Chamberlain, John Davidson, Agnes DeMille, Sandy Duncan, Rock Hudson, Ethel Merman, Bernadette Peters and Bobby Van in lavish production numbers from "Good News," "Anything Goes," "Oklahoma!" and "Company." (90 minutes, Monday, August 4 at 9:00.)

"THE NEW REFUGEES" This hour-long documentary profiles a Cuban who rejects communism, crosses the Florida Straits and arrives to a reception of applause, food, clothing, job offers and a future. In a contrasting profile, a Haitian leaves economic and political oppression behind, spends days in an open boat, slips unceremoniously into the U.S. and spends his first night in jail as an illegal alien. Shot in processing centers, shelters, on boats and in the homes of Cuban and Haitian refugees, the program analyzes the public and private response to these newest U.S. immigrants. (Premiering Tuesday, August 5 at 8:00.)

"GREAT PERFORMANCES: THE MARRIAGE OF FIGARO" This production of Mozart's comic opera was designed for television by Jean Pierre Ponelle and features Dietrich-Fischer Dieskau as Count Almaviva, Mirella Freni as Susanna, Kiri Te Kanawa as the Countess and Hermann Prey as Figaro. The three-and-a-half-hour performance also features Karl Bohm conducting the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra. (Wednesday, August 6 at 8:00.)

"BILL MOYER'S JOURNAL: THE BLACK AGENDA" Bill Moyers travels to Richmond, Va., where 2,000 black leaders met to outline social and political goals for the next decade. (One hour, Encoring Thursday, August 7 at 8:00.)

"SHAKERTOWN ROUND TABLE" A panel of Kentucky and Tennessee leaders meet to study Kentucky's population trends. The panel discusses the social and economic impact of Kentucky's lag in population growth as compared to population trends of surrounding states. Included in the panel are historian Dr. Thomas D. Clark, former University of Louisville president Dr. Phillip Davidson, business consultant Dr. Charles Haywood, Vanderbilt University Chancellor Dr. Alexander Heard and Lexington attorney Robert Houlihan. Al Smith of the Appalachian Regional Commission moderates the 30-minute KET public affairs presentation. (Sunday, August 10 at 10:30.)

"WILLIAM FAULKNER: A LIFE ON PAPER" An award-winning special looks at Faulkner's life and career through the eyes of those closest to him. The two-hour chronicle provides accounts of his early, formative years in Oxford, Miss., his professional stints in Europe, New York and Hollywood and his death in 1962. Faulkner's life is described in terms of his eccentricities, his constant financial struggle, his bouts with alcohol, his marriage, love affairs, successes and failures. (Monday, August 11 at 9:00.)

"COUNTRY CAJUNS" Rock and country music star Doug Kershaw headlines an evening of musical entertainment in "Country Cajuns." The well-known fiddle player joins Cajun singer and Grand Ole Opry member Jimmy C. Newman, long-time entertainer Rufus Thibodeaux, singer-songwriter Eddie Raven and Cajun rocker Joel Sonnier for some rollicking entertainment and such well-known tunes as "Louisiana Man" and "Jambalaya." (Sunday, Aug. 17 at 2:30.)

"CMA FAMILY REUNION" Country music fans from all over the country gather to hear old time performers on "CMA FAMILY Reunion LShow." Grandpa Jones, Pee Wee King, Jimmy Davis and the Texas Playboys perform such long time favorite songs as "You

Are My Sunshine," Tennessee Waltz" and "Battle of New Orleans" in the Country Music Association's musical jamboree from Nashville. (Sunday, August 24 at 2:30.)

"FRED ASTAIRE: PUTTIN' ON HIS TOP HAT" This hour-long film demonstrates the fluid grace and extraordinary technique of dancer Fred Astaire as it recaps his rise to dancing fame. The program covers Astaire's career from the early days with his sister Adele through his heyday at RKO Pictures with Ginger Rogers and includes film clips and interviews with many of the people who worked closely with the classic dancer to create the Astaire magic. (Tuesday, August 26 at 8:00.)

"THE SHAKESPEARE PLAYS: TWELFTH NIGHT" The Bard's lyric comedy of misplaced love, mistaken identity and comic revenge features the following cast: Viola, Felicity Kendall; Olivia, Sinead Cusack; Maria, Annette Crosbie; Malvolio, Alec McCowen; Sir Toby Belch, Robert Hardy; Sir Andrew Aguecheek, Ronnie Stevens. (2 1/2 hours, Encoring Wednesday, August 27 at 8:00.)

Protein is not stored by the human body as are carbohydrates and fats. It must be supplied regularly by eating animal or plant foods in which it is contained. In addition to building and repairing tissues, protein is needed to manufacture certain regulating substances which control specific, complex body functions. Excess amounts of protein serve in an additional capacity. They are converted and utilized as a source of energy. Approximately 10 to 15 percent of daily calorie requirements should actually be provided by foods that are rich in either animal or plant protein.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY, INC., 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106, we maintain and up-to-date supply of thousands of pharmacy products to fill your needs . . . when you need them. Remember, as your neighborhood pharmacist, your best interest is our best interest. We've been serving Prestonsburg and the surrounding area for over five and a half years. Martin County Clerk Violates Open Records Law: AG Opinion

Martin County clerk has not complied with the state open records law, according to an opinion from the attorney general.

Miller wrote County Clerk Samuel R. Moore warning him "if a dispute over the inspection of a public record goes to the circuit court and the court finds that the agency willfully withheld the record in violation of the open records law, the court can award cost, including reasonable attorneys' fees to the person requesting the information."

The court can also award a penalty of up to $25 for each day a requestor is denied the right to inspect or copy the public record, Miller said.

According to a study conducted by the Bureau of Training in Richmond, 16.6 percent of Kentucky's police officers have at least a four year degree from a university. Thirty-seven percent have had some college education.

Whether you've been exercising to get in shape or rearranging your living room furniture, sore muscles are a likely problem. An overall soreness appears immediately after the overexertion or within a few hours. This lasts a short time but a delayed localized soreness will often appear 8 to 48 hours later. Despite popular belief, cold is the recommended initial practice for sore muscles. Soothing heat is advised after the cold treatment and for delayed muscle soreness. Remember too, the best defense against sore muscles is a thorough warm-up before exercising and avoiding overly strenuous activities. Consult your Pharmacy Plus pharmacist for advice.

Library Staff Honored By Air Force

Mrs. Alice Sipple and staff of the Floyd County Library were recently honored by the United States Air Force recruiting service. The honor came in the form of a laser-engraved plaque for outstanding public service support. Pictured as he presents the plaque to Mrs. Sipple, TSgt. Jim Brooks expressed thanks for the library's being available for his recruiting activities here.

Job Loss Prompts Psychic Stress

As layoffs and firings increase throughout Kentucky due to the current economic recession, more and more people face feelings of worry, hurt and depression.

To most anyone who likes his or her job, losing that job causes psychological stress. To some, however, it is more than a temporary setback.

So far, the recession apparently has not prompted a large-scale increase in clients at the state's comprehensive care centers. Spokesmen for centers in Louisville, Somerset and Frankfort, areas hard-hit by job losses, say their caseloads have not jumped noticeably in recent weeks. Only the future will tell whether the state's unemployment rate will rise and more people will seek help in coping with the resulting stress.

Regardless of what happens, some workers are beginning to feel the psychological effects of losing their jobs. These workers can perhaps, take solace in knowing what they feel is not unusual, said Dr. Susan Turner, a psychologist in the Department for Human Resources.

"It's natural for anyone who loses a job to feel angry, hurt, 'down-in-the-dumps.' In fact, it would be unusual not to react that way," Turner said in a recent interview.

Getting fired or laid off is a blow to self-esteem, Turner said. Even a worker who knows he has been let go simply because of a company's financial condition, for instance, sometimes cannot shake the nagging feeling he was not doing his job well. Anger and some degree of depression are frequent companions to the loss of a feeling of self worth.

Perhaps most affected by losing a job is the veteran employee, who often feels secure in his or her job and who fears the prospect of finding another one, Turner said.

Turner said some easily detectable symptoms are warning signs of severe depression and indicate professional help is needed.

Most persons suffering severe depression show several of the following types of behavior: a change in eating habits, a change in sleeping habits, a feeling of agitation, a loss of interest in pleasurable activities, lack of energy, a feeling of worthlessness, problems in concentrating, and frequent thoughts about death and suicide.

Anyone who shows at least four of those symptoms for a two-week period, could be suffering from a depression severe enough to require professional help, Turner said.

If left untreated, depression can lead to destructive behavior, Turner said. Conflicts with family and friends, heavy drinking and other problems often accompany depression.

"Recognizing that a problem exists usually isn't difficult for the depressed person or others around him," she said. "Deciding to seek help isn't so easy."

ATTEND CONFERENCE
Two students from Beechwood High School, Bill Daniels and Terri Stevens, are participating in a conference which began Thursday on the campus of Centre College at Danville. The three-day session for yearbook editors and photographers is being sponsored by a national yearbook publishing firm. While at Centre, the students will be taking classes in all elements of yearbook production—from photographer to layout and design of the publications.

School To Sponsor Workshop

Author James Still autographing books at workshop

The Hindman Settlement School will conduct its third annual Appalachian Writers Workshop, August 3-9. The workshop will offer informal sessions on the novel, short story, poem and essay; individual student-staff conferences on manuscripts and lectures and readings in the evenings.

The staff will include fiction writer Harriett Arnow (The Dollmaker; Hunter's Horn); novelist Wilma Dykeman (The Tall Woman; Return the Innocent Earth); critic and novelist Jane Mayhall (Cousin to Human; Ready for the Ha-ha); poet Jim Wayne Miller (Copperhead Cane; Dialogue With a Dead Man; the Mountains Have Come Closer); Mike Mullins, director of the Hindman Settlement School; fiction-writer Gurney Norman (Divine Right's Trip; Kin-folks); non-fiction writer Verna Mae

Slone (In Remembrance; Common Folks; What My Heart Wants To Tell); poet and fiction writer James Still (Hounds on The Mountains; River of Earth; On Troublesome Creek); Shirley Williams, book editor and feature writer for The Courier-Journal.

The public is invited to attend the following evening activities: Monday, August 4, Wilma Dykeman, well-known author-lecturer, in the keynote address; Tuesday, members of the workshop staff reading from their works; Wednesday and Thursday, August 6 and 7, workshop participants reading their works. The evening activities will take place at 8 p.m. in the May Stone building.

For further information about the workshop, call Mike Mullins, coordinator, 785-5475.

Idle Rate Over State Rises; Floyd's at 8.9%

While unemployment increased in all areas of the state in June, the hardest hit was the Louisville metropolitan area, the Kentucky Department for Human Resources announced last week.

The Lexington metro area continues to have the state's lowest unemployment rate but is beginning to feel the effects of the recession, according to Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the department.

Unemployment in the state jumped to 7.5 percent of the labor force in June, an increase of 1.1 percentage points over the May rate and 0.3 percentage points lower than the national rate for the month.

The number of unemployed Kentuckians climbed to 121,100, almost 20,000 more than in May and 37,400 more than in June 1979. Joblessness in the state has exceeded the 120,000 level only once before in the past 10 years. Last February there were 123,500 unemployed persons. During the 1975 recession, unemployment peaked at 119,500.

June unemployment reached 8.6 percent of the labor force in the Louisville area as major manufacturing plants reduced production and laid off large numbers of workers. MacDonald estimated that 36,756 persons are unemployed, 8,543 more than in May. Students looking for summer work also contributed to the increased rate, he said.

In the Lexington area, unemployment rose to 8.181 persons, 4.7 percent of the labor force. The June estimate was 1,715 higher than in May, when the rate was 3.8 percent. Most of the layoffs in the area were in Clark county, where the unemployment rate was 10.5 percent in June. Fayette county continues to have low levels of unemployment, said MacDonald. The county had a 3.9 percent rate in June.

MacDonald attributes 62.3 percent of the unemployment increase statewide to students looking for summer jobs. Of job layoffs caused by the recession, 73.7 percent were in durable goods manufacturing industries, 8.8 percent were in trade industries and 16.7 percent were in service industries.

The June unemployment rate for the construction industry was 11.7 percent; for manufacturing, 9.4 percent; for coal mining, 6.9 percent. All other major industries within the state had unemployment rates of 4.0 percent or less.

There were 1,607,400 persons in the Kentucky labor force during June, 25,800 more than in May.

The eastern area of the state continued to have the highest levels of unemployment, with joblessness rising from 7.8 percent in May to 8.7 percent in June.

According to department statistics, the national recession, plus high unemployment within the coal industry, caused the area's unemployment to increase from 22,976 persons in May to 25,642 by mid-June.

In eastern Kentucky, 15 counties experienced unemployment rates of 10 percent or greater, and 28 counties had rates of 7 percent or higher.

The lack of job opportunities outside the coal industry is responsible for the long-term unemployment in this area, said MacDonald.

Menifee county had the area's highest unemployment rate in June, 15.8 percent, while Martin county had the lowest, 3.7 percent.

Floyd county's rate was 8.9 percent, with 1226 of a labor force of 13,815 unemployed.

August, the Month Summer Begins To Decline

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
UK College of Agriculture

Everywhere in the woods; in the pasturefields; in the meadow are the portents of summer's passing. In the grass chirps the coal black field cricket that will later seek out the warmth of country chimney corners to sing and bring good fortune to households.

Mole crickets begin their lonely autumnal dirge from the damp ditchlines and here and there are blue-flowering clumps of the sentimental ruella, or wild petunia, that Indian maidens once gathered and used for love charms. Here and there, too, flowers the sturdy self-heal, an herb once considered a sovereign remedy for wounds received by haymakers careless enough to be hurt by their sickles and scythes.

In moist places, stately meadow phlox, better known as Sweet William, contributes to the floral splendor of a fleeting season as does the plumes of the purple Joepye Weed that delighted the hearts of flower-loving grandmothers of another generation.

Existing in entente cordiale in the woods are pipsissewa, ground pine, autumn mushrooms, ghostly Indian pipes, and the white flower spikes of rattlesnake plantain which old herbals list as a specific for the bites of poisonous snakes.

All these sounds and floral offerings are now part of the scene because this is dusty August, the month of summer's gradual decline into autumn and a time when the good earth starts winding down for the year.

Although often sultry by day, the nights of August are often cool and otherwise delightful. An August night is that time when that harbinger of frost, the green katydid, begins its strident symphony; when the tiny wide-eyed screech owl begins its lonesome threnody for the passing summer from a pasture fence post; when young fox cubs feeling their importance, yap out defiance to farm dogs while chickens on the henroost huddle closer together and wonder perhaps if the farm wife bolted the henhouse door.

Coming as it does between that frantic period of sowing and hoeing and the equal urgency of the harvest, August offers a brief lull—a short period of relaxation and time to indulge in the restful therapy of angling for bluegill in the farm pond. It is also a fine month for back porch sitting, especially at twilight when the insect orchestra tunes up for its musical prelude to autumn.

By August most of the songbirds that came in on the delightful wings of spring have stopped their singing and with their assigned tasks completed, have departed on their long long journey to winter homes in the South. But as mentioned before, there is still no lack of wild music for where the birds left off, katydids, mole crickets, jarflies, and owls have taken up the musical score.

Besides fishing for bluegills, back porch sitting, and perhaps going on a short vacation trip, there are some other things that can be done with profit in August. It is a fine month to dry beans and apples; make pickles, sow radishes, lettuce, kale, and turnips; fix the fence, work on the compost heap, mow off the family cemetery, and collect flowers to dry for fall and winter arrangements.

But since you have worked hard all spring and summer at whatever task, take some time off and enjoy the fruits of your labors. Whether of the farm or the city, you deserve it and in fact, are commanded to do so for as it says in the Scriptures, "You shall eat and be full and you shall bless your God for the good land he has given you."

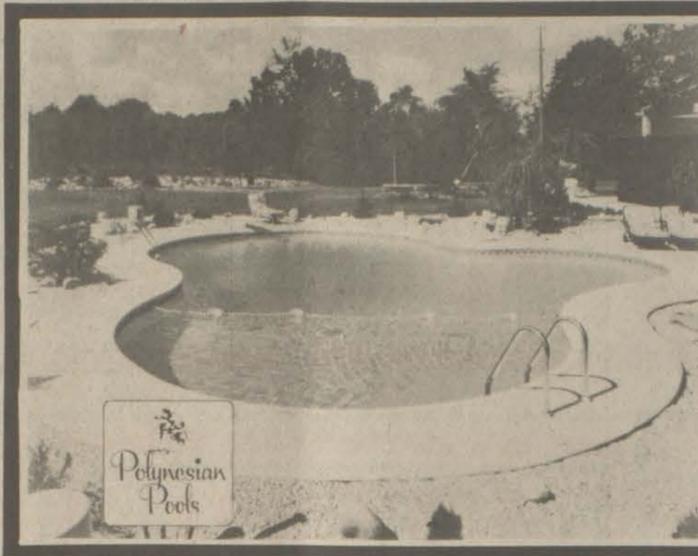

CARD OF THANKS.
The family of Frances Hall wishes to express their appreciation and thanks to all who sent food and flowers during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who helped with the preparation of the grave, nurses and staff of Our Lady of the Way Hospital, and to the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and courteous service.

Graduated with Honors

Miss Taunya Shelton, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Shelton, of McDowell, was graduated with honors at the McDowell High School commencement exercises in May when she was among the top six graduates in academic standing.

She was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students and to the Society of Distinguished American High School Students. Miss Shelton was awarded the school art award and the Drift Woman's Club art award in addition to placing third in the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs art exhibit. A member of the McDowell High School Marching and Concert Band for eight years, she placed first by audition in the All-State and All-County bands for three years, and received the Best Woodwind Award in 1979. She was a majorette and field commander also.

Miss Shelton, who will attend Alice Lloyd College next fall, was presented at commencement exercises the Alice Lloyd Memorial Scholarship and received a two-year scholarship from the Kentucky Farm Bureau for academic excellence.

Brown Ask's Inspection Of Rails Transporting Hazardous Material

Governor John Y. Brown, Jr. announced last week that his office has requested the Federal Railroad Administration to undertake a safety inspection of all railroad tracks in Kentucky over which hazardous materials are transported.

Brown further requested that the FRA implement stricter enforcement of train speed limits where restrictions have been imposed.

Brown said that FRA will undertake an inspection of the rail line on which the derailment by a track geometry car on August 7. That inspection will be followed by an on-ground inspection seven to ten days later.

The FRA responded that the request for stricter enforcement of speeds and the inspection of other tracks in Kentucky over which hazardous materials are transported will be considered promptly.

FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT
C.R. NO. 80-CI
ANNEXATION INTO THE CITY OF MARTIN, KENTUCKY OF TWELVE (12) TRACTS OF LAND, IMMEDIATELY ADJACENT TO THE CITY LIMITS OF MARTIN, KENTUCKY.

PETITION
Petitioner, City of Martin, Kentucky, states for its petition herein, as follows:
1. It is duly incorporated as a city of the fourth class in the State of Kentucky.
2. That on May 22, 1980, at a Special Meeting of the City Council of the City of Martin, Kentucky, notice of which meeting was given to all six (6) members of the City Council, and each of them were present at said meeting.
3. At said meeting aforementioned City Council duly adopted and passed an Ordinance which was published in the Floyd County Times, a weekly newspaper at Prestonsburg, Kentucky, on June 4, June 11 and June 18, 1980, as provided by law, and which ordinance authorized and empowered the City Attorney to institute suit in the Floyd Circuit Court on behalf of the City of Martin, Kentucky, for the entry of Judgment annexing the herein described territory as a part of the City of Martin, Kentucky, which territory is bounded and described as follows:

CITY OF MARTIN, KENTUCKY

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MARTIN, KENTUCKY, ANNEXING INTO THE CITY OF MARTIN, KENTUCKY, SUBJECT TO THE APPROVAL OF THE COURTS AS SET OUT IN SECTION 2 OF THIS ORDINANCE, CERTAIN TERRITORY WHICH IS BOUNDED AND DESCRIBED AS FOLLOWS AND MADE A PART OF THIS ORDINANCE.

BE IT ORDAINED, by the City Council of the City of Martin, Kentucky, as follows:

SECTION ONE: That the territory, hereinafter described, be made a part of the City of Martin, Kentucky, as it is now incorporated, to be annexed and made a part of the City of Martin, Kentucky, subject to the approval of the Courts as set out in Section Two of this Ordinance.

Said territory is bounded and described beginning on Page Two (2) of this Ordinance, and continuing through Page 16.

Are There Treasures in Your Attic?

By Isobel Hellender

The headlines read: "Local woman buys old dish for $1. Sells it for $1200." "Old books in your attic may be worth $$$$." "Your grandfather's gold watch could send your kids to college."

Despite headlines, it takes a genius with time and knowledge to sell your treasures for more than a junk dealer will give you for them.

This is the age of the informed collector, and even he is probably doing it for fun. You are trying to make a profit. That's the big difference. Try to make a buck on some collectible you've found stashed in your attic or on your bookshelves. If you don't know as much about it as those who collect it, it won't be you who makes the "$$$$."

When trying to peddle your first editions, Carnival glass, barbed wire or gold watches, supply and demand will determine how much money you get.

• First Editions A close personal friend is a used book dealer. She is in business to make money—not to increase my standard of living. I showed her a stack of first editions in my attic, all in "mint condition" and she picked out three, offering me $15. Hardly riches! Where did I go wrong?

Yes, they were "first editions" and in "mint condition." My friend picked up three novels of mine by a 20's author whose name was something less than a household word. He might, however, be re-discovered. Those novels still around would soar in price. Her distinct feeling was, however, that she should live so long.

Had one of my "mint condition" first editions happened to have been an Ernest Hemingway, we'd have been in business. Had the Hemingway (which I didn't have) been autographed by Ernest, well then! Better yet, had it been autographed by him with a note written on the fly leaf addressed to Clark Gable or even Adolph Hitler, that would surely have made my day.

If you have some old first editions, check your library for "Standard Old Book Value Guide" or "Used Book Price Guide" before you invest too much shoe leather trying to peddle your books.

• A Solid Gold Pocket Watch This watch was from the 1800s and belonged to my grandfather. It seemed a fitting candidate with which to raise some quick cash, according to local newspaper ads. A dealer whose ads promised "top dollar" rejected it outright.

"Sell it for scrap gold or to someone who collects old watches" he said.

Taking his advice, I acquired a copy of "The Antique Trader" published in Iowa. Each issue runs

How To Cash In On Your Treasures

- To make even a fraction of what the object may be worth, you have to:
1. Be in the right place at the right time.
 2. Know the field and its resources.
 3. Be prepared to spend money to get money.
 4. Be prepared to wait.
 5. And, if you are not any of the above, be prepared to share your bonanza (and perhaps the greater part of it) with a middleman.

I expect many will dispute this. They'll cite fabulous money they got from selling that old $1 plate they dug up in their back yard. Pay no attention. People win Irish Sweepstakes everyday. But not you and me!

more than 100 pages, mostly classified or display ads for those wishing to buy, sell or trade antiques and collectibles. Thumbing through its jumbled pages, I found no one who wanted to buy an antique gold watch. I did find plenty of dealers who wanted to sell old watches. I also found ads offering to sell railroad china, old sheet music, old Christian Science Sentinels, Elvis Presley dolls, duck stamps, beer coasters, filthy pictures and chauffeur badges.

I decided to take an ad. The price was 15 cents a word for subscribers. Nineteen cents a word for non-subscribers. My ad cost me $3.61. Several weeks later I was sent a copy of the newspaper carrying my ad. I received no answers.

Next I consulted my friendly yellow pages for scrap gold dealers, watchmakers and watch repair places. I set aside a day to make the rounds. A pawnshop offered me $75. On my third stop I hit the jackpot. I did not sell my watch, but I got a lot of reliable information which made wasting more time and gas unnecessary.

The proprietor of this tiny shop happened to be the horology curator of a local museum. Wearing his curator's hat, he gave me an impartial appraisal.

No, he did not want the watch. Yes, the watch could be classified as an antique.

The watch was not an "important" piece. The small face crack and the fancy script initials on the back detracted from its value. The gold case was probably the most valuable part of the watch. A collector might buy the case and have movements of his own put in.

Is it worth? This was his formula for computing how much the gold in the watch was worth:

.75 oz x .5833 x $300 = $131.
The portion of gold to alloy in a 14K gold object is .5833, and .75 is the 3/4 ounces of gold he suspected was near the weight of gold in this particular watch. $300 was the price of gold on that particular day. Thus, I could possibly expect about $131 if I sold the watch for gold, minus probably a smelting fee.

As a collectible, he felt, the watch was worth 10 to 20 percent over the value of the gold—around $150—that is if I could find a collector who wanted my piece and if I could deal directly with him and would not have to go through a dealer. A lot of ifs!

With that in mind, I wrote to the National Association of Watch and Clocks Museum in Pennsylvania. I sent a stamped self-addressed envelope asking them for the names of watch collectors in my area. Two weeks later I received a form letter saying that due to the largeness of the Association and the smallness of the staff, they were unable to answer requests from non-members. I could, however, join and advertise in their monthly magazine after being a member in good standing for six months. Membership was $20. To sell one pocket watch? No way!

Finally, a full page ad in the local paper advertised "immediate cash awards" for scrap gold. By now I had so much time and effort invested in this I thought—what the heck! I handed them the watch. They handed me $100. I took it. So much for turning family heirlooms into hard cash.

• The Silver Napkin Ring. As a result of WWII travels, I came up with an initialed silver napkin ring from the home of a Nazi. I know it was authentic because I took it from the home myself, right after taking the first hot bath I'd had in weeks.

Years passed and I came across the souvenir one day while cleaning. After allowing several minutes for a small trip down memory lane, I decided the napkin ring had served its purpose and was now only taking up space. I was directed to a WWII memento shop run by a friendly roly-poly German couple, who kept an old victrola grinding out German beer hall tunes while they sold souvenirs (mostly Nazi), coffee and beer. I showed the proprietor the napkin ring and told him the story, figuring that if he didn't recognize its value, who would? He looked it over carefully and handed it back.

"The market is flooded with this kind of stuff, all claiming to have come from the homes of high ranking Nazis. If you can't authenticate it, it won't be worth much and certainly nothing to me." I still have my napkin ring, only now I use it for what it was originally intended—to hold a napkin.

• Original photographs. My sister had a signed and dated print, in mint condition, by an internationally famous deceased photographer. The photographer's family told her the print was worth about $1500. A midtown New York gallery, where she sallied forth to collect her $1500, offered her $800. The gallery felt it was entitled to that mark-up for time, overhead, advertising contacts and reputation. The print was worth and was eventually sold for $1500—only no one got the whole price. Who is to say, except the IRS perhaps, whether my sister made $800 or lost $700?

• Empty Avons There is an active market in the buying, selling and trading of empty Avon bottles. Numerous people make good livings by putting out publications for these collectors—publications having nothing to do with the giant Avon Company. For a price, either newsletter subscription or club membership, these publications put buyers and sellers in touch.

Also annually printed is at least one "Avon Bible" publication containing 2,000 full color pictures of Avon products, listing what the bottle sells for when bought full and below, in heavy print, what the bottle is worth empty. This country has more than 100,000 bottle collectors.

On page 205, there is a picture of a bottle first marketed in 1966 called the Alpine Flask. Originally it was filled with shaving lotion and sold for $4. According to this book, the empty bottle is worth $55. Why? It is neither exotic nor particularly old. Perhaps that's the answer. Because of its ordinariness, it was bought for its contents, then tossed out when empty—thus creating a collectible scarcity for Avon collectors.

This is not to say that because you find an Alpine Flask in your trash you are automatically $55 richer. You have to find a buyer. One way or another that costs money. Say you find a potential buyer, then you have to negotiate—perhaps by mail or long distance phone. You have to wrap, mail and insure it, then send it off, in good faith, to a stranger. Your $55 is far from clear profit. You are going to have to spend time, effort and money.

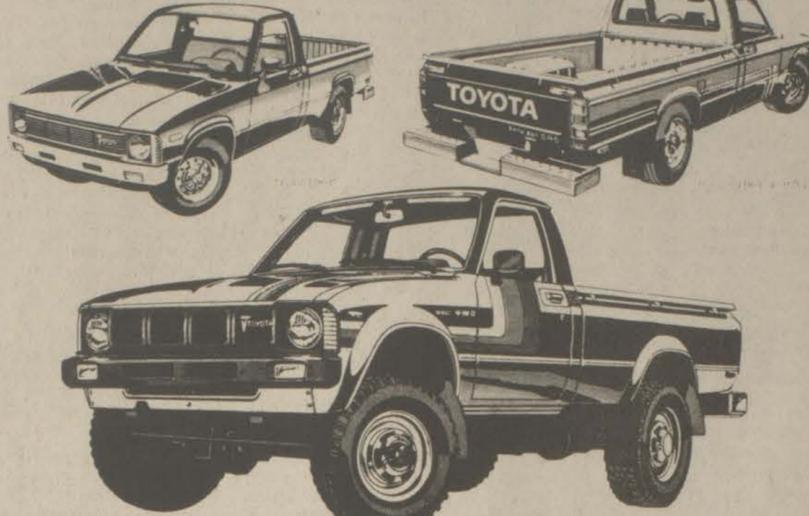

Be skeptical of those glowing articles telling you of untold wealth that lurks in your attic or basement.

100 Years—a Pathway to Education

Hazel Green Academy—"Where we find a path or make one."

One hundred years ago, W. O. Mize, G. B. Swango and J. T. Day each gave $500 to found Hazel Green Academy at Hazel Green (Wolfe county).

Aug. 8-10, the school campus will ring with greetings of former students, faculty and friends who gather to celebrate the school's 100th birthday and the 37th annual homecoming of the Former Students and Friends Association of HGA.

In the beginning, the townspeople were so anxious to have their children attend the school, the first of its kind in a wide area of Eastern Kentucky, that classes opened in the town's old Masonic Hall. Prof. N.B. Hayes was in charge.

A few years after the new building was completed an arrangement was made with the Kentucky members of the Christian Woman's Board of Missions to direct the school. When in about 1889 it seemed the school might join the Morehead Academy, citizens purchased a sloping knoll overlooking the community for a new academy complex.

In 1895 the academy graduated its first class: B. F. Quicksall, J. S. Adams and S. M. Nickell. That year Lula Kash (later Mrs. Noah Cisco) won the first scholarship award and William L. Day the Declamation award for his talk: "Is Death the End?"

For years HGA was the only school of secondary education in the region. The curriculum was extensive with emphasis on Bible literature, debating, music and other arts.

As a result, students came from palatial homes in the Bluegrass and far-away cities to matriculate at HGA. Of great importance was the open door to students from the hills and hollows.

Prof. Cord established normal courses for teachers, in addition to four years of high school. This made it possible for students to start in the first grade and continue through normal school to become teachers, preachers, lawyers, business people.

Succeeding Cord was Prof. Henry J. Derthick. Through Derthick the funds for the Ford Industrial building on the campus were made available. As was the custom established by his predecessors, Derthick spoke in various cities to raise funds for buildings and campus improvement.

In Detroit, Mich., in the early 1900s Derthick spoke in a church. He was impressed by a member of the congregation who could not attend the service due to illness but sent flowers. He decided to call on her. At her home he was informed no one was allowed in to see Mrs. Edsel Ford without appointment. The maid turned him in as an intruder, but Mrs. Ford learned who he was and invited him inside.

Later, she offered him a check for $10,000 to build himself a home, asking if she could call him a son. He refused the money for himself, but accepted it in the name of the academy. Through her "son" Mrs. Ford gave $40,000 to the school.

At Hazel Green, Derthick's son Lawrence was born and became U.S. Commissioner of Education through appointment by President Eisenhower.

No one was ever turned away from the school due to inability to pay expenses. One family sent their son, accompanied by the prize cow to pay his expenses. Some students walked miles to receive a coveted education.

H.A. Stovall, of Jackson, Miss., came to the academy from Transylvania in Lexington, bringing his bride. They remained several decades to serve as director and principal. In 1961 she was chosen Kentucky's Mother of the Year.

George Buchanan has been director at HGA for the past 14 years. "I like to think they have been productive years. The homecoming will be a time of great fellowship and seeing old friends again," he said.

The homecoming weekend starts with registration at 4 p.m. Friday, followed by a homecoming supper and reunions of various classes. Class reunions will continue Saturday with a noon buffet ($3.25 per plate) and a reception in the home economics room at 3 p.m. for all guests. The academy's famous annual fish fry ($4 per person) is at 6 p.m. Dr. A. D. Albright, president of Northern Kentucky University, will speak at the fish fry.

Wayne H. Bell, president of the Lexington Theological Seminary, will speak at the annual Sunday worship service at Hazel Green Christian church.

Gerlad Murphy, retired Ashland businessman, is president of the former students' association and Wayne Thompson, Winchester, is vice president.

An editor of The Jackson Times in Breathitt County wrote that he dreamed he went to heaven and as St. Peter showed him around he noticed a group in a corner in balls and chains.

"Why do you keep these angels in balls and chains," he asked St. Peter. "These are the people from Hazel Green," St. Peter replied, "and if I did not keep them tied, they would all go right back."

New Summer Peak For Electric Power Reached, July 31st

This summer's near 100-degree temperatures and high humidity has had a compelling effect on the use of electricity by Kentucky Power Company customers.

Last Thursday (July 31), when the temperature climbed to 97 degrees, the company reported a new summer peak of 767,000 kilowatts demanded by its nearly 140,000 customers. This is the second record set this summer, the first being two weeks ago during the sweltering heat wave that affected the company's 20-county service area. On July 17, customers demanded 755,000 kilowatts. This summer's peak is nearly four percent higher than last summer's demand of 739,000 kilowatts set on August 9, 1979.

"Despite customers' efforts to conserve energy, when the heat gets to the unbearable stage, they turn on air conditioners," said W. W. Zoellers, division manager. "When that happens, usage is increased and electric bills will reflect the energy consumed to cool down homes and offices."

Although Kentucky Power is a winter-peaking utility, this summer's records topped the winter peak of 752,000 kilowatts just two winters ago.

The company's only generating facility, the Big Sandy plant, has a maximum capacity of 1,060,000 kilowatts. The company's all-time peak was 922,000 kilowatts set February 5, 1980.
