Trials of 4 Set For Fayette Co.

When the four men who have been charged with murder or complicity to murder in the death of Glenda Sharon Marshall go to trial it will not be in Floyd county or any other Eastern Kentucky county, but in the Fayette circuit court at Lexington.

The decision on change of venue was made last Tuesday when the Commonwealth and counsel for Clyde Douglas Marshall, who has been named in a grand jury indictment which accused him of conspiring with others to kill his wife, reached an agreement on the trial site.

Presumably, the Lexington, or Fayette circuit court, choice will apply to all defendants in the case, although attorneys for the other three men must agree on the site before the change of venue for all four becomes final.

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said both state and defense were probably influenced in their agreement because they shunned the hearing that would result if an agreement was not reached.

Joint trial of the defendants will be sought by the Commonwealth. A trial judge, to be named from a county of this area, remains to be appointed.

Held without bond in the death of Mrs. Marshall, who was a teacher at McDowell High School, are her husband, his half-brother, Gene McGuffey, his brother, Harlos Ben Marshall, and Carl Harold McFarland.

McGuffey's return to this county from Tennessee, where he has been in jail since the first arrests in the case were made, is expected soon, although he has refused to waive extradition, it was said.

Only McGuffey stands charged with the murder of Mrs. Marshall, whose battered body was found in a car which had plunged over Sizemore mountain, between McDowell and Wayland, and burned. The others are accused of plotting the murder and as accomplices. A fifth man, Edward Wright, was named by the grand jury in the actual slaying, but he was killed in Tennessee prior to the jury action.

Meanwhile, another accused slayer, Charles Martin, of Estill, has been returned to jail here from a Lexington hospital where he has been treated for an abdominal gunshot wound. He has been named in indictments accusing him of the slayings at Estill of the Lazar brothers, Walter and Reginald.

Kentucky Power Rate Boost Bid Slashed by PSC

The Kentucky Public Service Commission last week granted Kentucky Power Company only $4.2 million of the $33.1 million rate increase it requested.

The rate order will raise the average monthly residential bill of Kentucky Power customers by 81 cents rather than $9.41 as originally sought by the utility company.

Kentucky Power, based in Ashland, serves more than 140,000 customers in 20 eastern Kentucky counties.

When the utility filed for the rate hike at the beginning of April, the main expense cited was for the construction of a new high-voltage transmission line originating near Rockport, Indiana and stretching across 155 miles of northern Kentucky.

Jenny Wiley Festival Set for Week's Run

It's festival time in Jenny Wiley Country—specifically, in Floyd and Johnson counties.

In Prestonsburg the second annual Jenny Wiley Festival will begin Saturday with a schedule of events which will extend, day-to-day, through Saturday, Oct. 8.

At Paintsville the 21st annual Apple Festival is under way and will culminate with Saturday's Loretta Lynn Day, proclaimed by Governor Brown.

The famed singer will return to her native Johnson county to appear in concert at Johnson Central High School at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. She will also attend dedication ceremonies at 3 p.m. Friday of the new Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center in Paintsville.

Former Gov. Bert T. Combs will return to Prestonsburg to serve next Saturday (Oct. 8) as marshal of the parade which will be one of the major events of the Jenny Wiley Festival. Dr. Arville Wheeler is the permanent honorary parade marshal.

Other events of the week-long festival are, according to Maxine S. Bierman, its founder:

Saturday, Sept. 24, tennis tournament at Archer Park; Sunday, Oct. 2, song fest; Monday, free skating at the Archer

Park rink and children's contest from 5 to 7 p.m. with the naming of Tiny Miss and Little Miss at Pike auditorium, Prestonsburg Community College; Tuesday, 7:30 p.m., bingo; Wednesday, the Jenny Wiley chicken-and-dumpling dinner served by the Order of Eastern Star from 4 to 7 p.m., and the barbecue dinner from 6 to 8 p.m. at St. James Episcopal Church; Thursday, the Jenny Wiley Pageant at 8 p.m. at Prestonsburg Community College; Friday, pie supper at 7 p.m. at the Archer Park Senior Citizens Center.

In addition to the parade of floats and marching bands Saturday afternoon, concessions, arts and crafts will be on display, the second annual Jenny Wiley 10-kilometer run will be at 10 a.m. at Jenny Wiley State Park, the costume contest will be staged at the city parking lot at 11 a.m., the Great Terrapin Trot will be held at 1 p.m. on Court street, and a golf tournament will be held at Jenny Wiley State Park.

The festival will end with a street dance at the city parking lot, Saturday night.

For any small bands, other musicians and dancers who may want to share their talents a platform has been provided at the parking lot.

POPULATION REPORT

In response to several inquiries about the number of redbirds at our place, I am pleased to report a sudden increase. Twelve flocked in, the other afternoon, at one time. Their growing interest in our feeder may be the result of the departure of the starlings and other ebon-hued marauders which through sheer numbers dominated the scene.

I also report that there is no truth to the story that the starlings, believed gone for the winter, returned for a brief appearance. This rumor had it that they had got past Hazard and were ready to make a turn onto I-75 South when a passing jay remarked he had heard I had refilled my feeder.

Manis Gray vouches for the truth of this item. ## WPRT Resumes Broadcasts As Trustee Named Prestonsburg radio station WPRT is back on the air, and this time "we're here to stay," a newly-hired station consultant said yesterday (Tuesday).

The station began broadcasting again at 6 a.m. last Wednesday after an 11-day silence which began Sept. 10, when the owners—American Signal Corp., of Kingsport, Tenn.—shut it down in the midst of escalating money problems.

American Signal is now in bankruptcy court and WPRT is up for sale. The station is being operated in the meantime under a trustee, Prestonsburg businessman J.R. McClung.

An owner and director of Worldwide Equipment, Inc., McClung was named Friday as trustee by Judge Joe Lee, of the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, in Pikeville. Hired as consultant in the effort to revitalize the station was John McCann, managing director of the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theater.

McCann, who cited absentee ownership as a source of the station's troubles, said every effort would be made to keep WPRT under local ownership and control.

The abrupt decision by J. Wallace McNew, executive vice-president of American Signal, to "sign off the air" is one that the station's present managers are determined will never happen again, he said.

Apart from the departure of Rick Darby, a partner in American Signal, none of the staff has been lost; an extra salesperson has been hired, and morale at the station is high, McCann said. He is confident the station can regain the confidence of the business community here, he said.

When WPRT was bought by the Tennessee firm in 1980, the new ownership was at first marked by imaginative programming and aggressive marketing, but more recently "things were in a total state of flux," due largely to a lack of local control, McCann said.

Medical Center Gets Approval To Buy Scanner

Highlands Regional Medical Center this week received unanimous approval of the Kentucky Certificate of Need and Licensure Board for the purchase of a whole-body computed tomography (CT) scanner.

The $890,000 unit is a state of the art type of x-ray system that uses a computer to produce a picture of a cross-section, or slice, of any part of the body.

It is especially effective in helping to diagnose tumors, blood clots and other soft tissue abnormalities which until now would have been fuzzy or undetectable on X-ray films. It also is described as a quick and painless procedure that in

New Ruling Being Studied Would Exclude Many, Claim

An insurance company is holding up a damages claim on an elderly widow's cottage... A low-income homeowner faces a utility shutoff in the winter... A disabled miner needs help getting benefits... A landowner with no other assets wants to protest a coal company's application to stripmine his property...

These are typical of the people served by legal services agencies—attorneys supported by public funds to represent poor people in civil suits—and they are typical of those who would be excluded from legal aid by a change in eligibility rules currently under consideration in Washington.

The time for public comment on the proposed changes, which were officially published at the end of August, runs out today (Wednesday). Much of the comment from poverty lawyers and other advocates of low-income groups has ranged from anger to dismay.

Of particular concern, said John Rosenberg, director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund (ARDF), is a rule that would deny free legal services to anyone who owns a home, or has equity in it, worth more than $15,000.

In that category are thousands of pensioners, disabled miners and widows who, while they own part or all of their homes, are living on fixed incomes at subsistence level, he said.

Eligibility requirements for other welfare programs, like food stamps or supplemental security income (SSI), do not preclude home ownership, critics of the proposed rules point out. While welfare recipients are now automatically entitled to a free lawyer, under the rule change they would face a separate and tougher eligibility test for legal assistance.

A 1977 study showed 42 percent of elderly people receiving public benefits had equity in their homes in excess of

High Busing Cost Cited in Report Filed Last Week

"We were not right on everything, but on the major problems we were right."

That was how Kathy Hatfield, a leader of the citizen group that leveled charges at the Floyd County Board of Education and Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. this summer, summed up the findings of a state panel which probed the charges.

Moreover, while he wanted it understood that investigators laid to rest questions that had been raised about his and other school officials' integrity, Supt. Grigsby conceded that serious deficiencies in the school system had been uncovered.

Both were responding last week to a 22-page report written for state Superintendent for Public Instruction Raymond Barber and presented to the state Board of Education. It contained the findings and recommendations of an eight-member team sent here in July to investigate charges of incompetence and willful neglect directed at Grigsby and the Floyd board by the Floyd County Citizens Education Council.

The report was written by Ken Goldsmith, the Education Department's director of federal programs, who coordinated the investigation.

The state board voted to ask Department of Education officials to monitor Floyd schools and to report in November on the district's compliance with Goldsmith's recommendations.

(The state board failed to accredit the Floyd school district but this was apparently unrelated to the Goldsmith report. State officials have not yet had time to review Floyd's plan for remedying deficiencies cited by a state accreditation panel, it was explained.)

In a report that was generally spare in its comments, Goldsmith strongly criticized the operation of the school bus garage at Garth. After random sampling of a dozen buses, the state team concluded that more than half the fleet would be found "inadequate for student transportation," he said.

The report also cited figures showing that Floyd spends about twice as much per bus for fuel, parts, service and insurance as do neighboring school districts.

In the area of financial management, however—where it had been alleged or hinted that the superintendent and an assistant were improperly claiming auto expenses, that school officials had hired family members, and that some firms appeared to enjoy a favored status with the school administration—Goldsmith found no basis for the charges.

The state report also addressed questions about textbook shortages, early dismissals, building maintenance, conduct of meetings, quality of instruction and food services. It made recommendations in each area and noted progress already made by the school district in correcting its problems.

Those problems appeared most serious, both the superintendent and his critics agree, in the district's transportation department, where the state team found "an obvious lack of maintenance management."

Although no details are given, investigators say they found "mechanical deficiencies" as well as damaged floors and seats. "It is our opinion the buses are not maintained in a condition which would insure student safety," the report says.

After comparing costs in 10 surrounding school districts, the state panel found a sharp disparity in the cost of operating Floyd school buses, with per-bus expenditures running about twice as high here.

By tighter management and hiring the

Roy Salisbury Parole Report Received Here

Roy Salisbury, the Drift man who killed three persons near Drift in 1964, has been paroled after serving 19 years of three concurrent sentences in prison.

Frank DeRossett, Jr., parole officer for the area, said he has been notified of the Parole Board action but has not been asked to find satisfactory habitation or employment for the prisoner. Salisbury's release will await a recommended place for him to stay, it was said.

Salisbury was at first sentenced to death after his trial in February, 1965 for the shotgun slayings near his home of Roy Denney, 50, his wife, Mallie Turner

Denney, 50, and Thomas Spencer Combs, 42. The three were members of prominent families.

But after his initial sentencing the case was tried anew and the concurrent life terms resulted.

It was learned here that the prisoner had been transferred from Eddyville prison to LaGrange, where he was in a geriatrics ward.

His parole has been bitterly opposed by relatives of the three victims. Officials here apparently had not heard of the reported Parole Board action until the official notification was received.

Where, Oh Where, Did My Lawn Go?

My lawn, my lawn, what do I do about my lawn? This has been a cry, a scream, for the past few months. Some people watered and hung on. Some watered and lost. Some ignored the problem, hoping it would go away, and now are greeted by a brown expanse each time they pull in the driveway.

Fall is the best time to renovate lawns though we are right at the end of the safe period when seed will have adequate time to germinate and get established before frosts and freezing temperatures occur. Although mid-February through mid-April is another good lawn renovation time, people are often busy with garden planting at that time. A green, rather than a brown lawn, could also be nicer to look at this winter.

If you've decided to renovate your lawn, get it done this week. Although Dr. A.J. Powell Jr., University of Kentucky Turf Specialist, would normally recommend killing perennial weeds before seeding, we're out of time. Both perennial and annual weed control will have to be accomplished with good cultural practices (weeds won't grow in a dense stand of turf) and herbicides.

Give some serious thought to the type of grass you plan to establish. We've certainly seen that bluegrass and drought are extremely incompatible. For those who fear that tall fescue lawns can never look as dense or fine-textured as bluegrass lawns, read on. A dense stand of Rebel tall fescue can easily rival a bluegrass lawn plus fescues are far more drought, disease and insect resistant.

Whichever grass you choose, buy certified seed of a recommended variety for Kentucky (ask your county agent for UK Fact Sheet AGR-52). Read the seed tag to be sure both seed purity and germination percent are high.

Grass seeds need to be in contact with moist soil to germinate. Raking usually doesn't disturb the soil deeply enough, and rototilling is really more than necessary. A good way to work the soil is to remove weeds, thatch and then incorporate the grass seed by using a vertical mower or dethatcher. Run the machine in several directions prior to seeding, rake off the debris, then seed and run the machine over the soil at least one more time.

Be sure to use adequate seed. Tall fescue should be seeded at the rate of six pounds per 1,000 square feet, and a mixture of two or more bluegrass varieties at the rate of two pounds per 1,000 square feet.

Once seeded, keep your lawn well watered (once or twice daily) to get good germination and growth. A light fertilization with three pounds of 33-0-0 per 1,000 square feet once the grass is established will help to foster vigorous growth. Then vow to adopt good cultural practices—soil testing, fertilizing, weed control, disease and insect control, dethatching, mowing, watering—to help maintain a prize lawn.

Timely Tip: As you rake falling leaves, shred them with the lawn mower, and layer with soil to form a compost pile. The soil will provide microorganisms that will decompose the leaves, yielding compost to incorporate into your spring garden.

Should I Consider Anything Less Than A Full-Service Funeral?

Generally, the full-service funeral best meets the needs of the bereaved, as well as providing for the deceased. It is a declaration of death, as well as a testimonial to a life.

The full-service funeral is also a ritual of deeply profound psychological significance in our civilized society.

It was Gladstone, the famous English statesman, who wisely said, "Show me the manner in which a nation or community cares for its dead and I will measure with mathematical exactness the tender sympathies of its people, their respect for the law of the land, and their loyalty to high ideals."

We are living in an age of great change and progress. While many customs are influenced by the times, the full-service funeral has not been much altered. Progress has refined techniques and procedures, but the high ideals to which Gladstone refers have not been minimized or compromised. Man still buries his dead with ceremony and dignity.

Your choice of a full-service funeral demonstrates the tender sympathy and respect for the high ideals of which Gladstone would greatly approve.

Call or stop by for our literature concerning our full-service capabilities and counseling.

Long-Time Employees Honored at HRMC

Honored employees were given awards for long-time service to Highlands Regional Medical Center. They enjoyed good dinner and conversation at the Employee Recognition Banquet.

Honoring 106 employees of Highlands Regional Medical Center was the special occasion for a recent May Lodge banquet. The employees have worked at the Medical Center for five years or longer.

A prime rib dinner preceded the award presentations at the recognition banquet. The honored employees were announced by Ted Nairn, vice-chairman of the HRMC Board of Trustees. Service pins were presented by Clarence Traum, administrator and Chalmer Frazier, secretary/treasurer of the board and former hospital administrator.

Margaret Ackerman, R.N., quality assurance coordinator at the Medical Center, received her 35-year pin.

The evening's speaker was America's Funniest Professor, Dr. Carl Hurley. He spoke profoundly and humorously on "The Nature of Human Nature."

Folks Back Home Resent Flynt Views

When Larry Flynt, the Salyersville native who is publisher of Hustler magazine, placed an ad in his hometown newspaper, the Salyersville Independent, stating his views on the Soviet downing of Korean Air Flight 007 at a cost of 269 lives, it got read.

The controversial Flynt's ad suggested that U.S. Representative Larry McDonald, "with the help of the pilot or CIA operatives," arranged the disaster to make himself a martyr.

McDonald, a conservative Democrat from Georgia, was among the 269 killed when the Korean jumbo jet was shot down by the Soviet Union on Aug. 31.

Tim Bostic, publisher of the weekly Independent and mayor of Salyersville, was out of town when the ad was published in the Sept. 15 edition of his paper. But the reaction was still raging when he returned.

He said several of the Independent's more than 1,800 paid subscribers dropped their subscriptions, and one woman attempted to cancel the subscriptions of all her relatives.

"I've never had such a reaction," he said. "It's unreal."

Bostic wrote an editorial for the next week's paper on his constitutional obligations under the First Amendment. "Ninety percent of the people who live here are very conservative," he said. "They are not used to things like that."

But the paper does not shy away from controversy, Bostic said, so he decided to oblige when "Mr. Flynt evidently decided to put the ad in his hometown paper to let people know he's on the rise again."

Bostic joked that he did have one complaint about the ad.

The Washington Post charged $24,000 for the ad, the Los Angeles Times $20,000 and the New York Post $13,000.

Bostic sent Hustler a bill for $229. "I feel I could sue him for discrimination," Bostic said.

The Non-Political Dream

Both major candidates for governor, Martha Layne Collins and Jim Bunning, favor a constitutional amendment which would make the office of state superintendent of public instruction appointive rather than elective.

This, we think, is a move in the right direction. The current method of choosing a state superintendent by voting for candidates under the old party emblems is difficult to understand when county superintendents are elected by a so-called "non-partisan" board chosen by popular vote.

The proposed amendment will not remove the office from politics any more than the method of selecting county superintendents attains that non-political never-never-land, but it at least will get the office free of the mantle of the Democratic or the Republican party.

The fact is, neither the office of state or county superintendent can ever be simon-pure non-political, since politics embraces more than the activities of recognized parties and bobs up wherever favoritism is played, favors are done, promises made and actions dictated by the desire to win an election or gain and hold a position of power.

That is one of the reasons for our insistence—a naive position, we have been told—that neither office would suffer from politics any more than in the past if the superintendents were elected by direct vote of the people as long as the candidates do not appear under the aegis of any political party.

That apparently being unacceptable to legislative leaders, we would suggest that members of county boards of education be elected by countywide vote rather than by the current election of members by educational divisions. And such an election should be held no oftener than every four years, leaving the employment or re-employment of the superintendent to each new board.

Members of boards of education need to have a sense of responsibility to an entire county and they need to answer every four years to the people of that county. Each educational division might need a board member residing in it, but that member's view of educational needs should be broader than the confines of any one district or division.

$15,000. Under the new rules, they would have to wait until their homes were sold out from under them before they became eligible for free legal representation, critics charge.

"It's unlikely elderly widows will be selling their houses in order to defend themselves against unscrupulous home improvement companies," said John Paul Kemp, director of Lexington's Office of Kentucky Legal Services. "Rather, the elderly will merely be made the prey of the dishonest."

Not only individuals but a variety of community organizations which have enjoyed free legal services in the past would also be shut out under the new rules. Where the present regulation extends legal aid to groups whose primary purpose is to serve poor people, the new rule would limit representation to groups actually composed of poor people.

That would exclude the governing board of a group trying to build low-income housing, for example, or a low-income clinic, or a daycare facility for low-income families, where the board is made up mainly of volunteers who are not themselves in the low-income bracket.

In this county, that would have knockout big league pitchers. Lanky six-footers who could throw a rock like a bullet, even kill squirrels from the tops of the tallest trees. One such story tells of such an unsung Walter Johnson who threw a rock and for one of the few times in his life missed the target. Instead, the stone hit a post, split it and, rebounding, a piece of it took a bystander squarely on the shin. While the injured party hopped about on one foot, howling that he was crippled for life, a friend came to the rescue. He hauled a pint of moonshine whiskey and advised, "Pour some of this on your leg. It'll kill the pain and keep down the swellin'."

The injured one took the bottle, but, never one to waste good liquor, drank the contents instead of applying it to his wound.

The results were amazing, so the story goes. Within five minutes the self-described cripple for life was up and challenging the man with the catapult arm to a rock fight.

Wilferd Peterson in his "Tribute to the Schoolteacher," wrote:

"I like the answer a teacher gave when asked the subjects she taught. She answered that she did not teach subjects—she taught children."

IMPARTIAL JUDGE

And this has just been found on the desk:

When an oldtime judge opened court in a western mining community he announced:

"Gents, I have in hand a check—a bribe, you might call it—from the plaintiff for $10,000, and another from the defendant for $15,000. I now propose to return $5000 to the defendant and decide the case strictly on its merits."

ed out the David Community Development Corporation, a Prestonsburg daycare center, and several black lung organizations—all of which serve low-income clients, have been represented by ARDF attorneys, and could not have afforded private counsel.

The reason for the proposed rule changes appears to be perception on the part of some in Washington that some people are benefiting from the legal aid program who could afford to hire their own lawyers, Rosenberg hypothesized. That perception is without foundation, he insists.

"I know that in the history of legal services in Kentucky, during which thousands upon thousands of clients have been served, the number of complaints...is miniscule," he wrote in opposition to the rule changes.

Poverty lawyers also worry that income and assets tests that would be required of their clients under the new rules would make legal services offices more like welfare agencies. "This could result in potential clients deciding to forego legal services programs altogether, deciding that the hassle of confronting another government bureaucracy outweighs the benefits of pursuing a legal problem," said an analyst at the Washington-based Center on Social Welfare Policy and Law.

For members of the Legal Services Corporation, handpicked by President Reagan to oversee—some would say, scuttle—legal aid programs nationwide, trimming the number of legal aid clients is the point of the exercise.

But, in a written submission to the corporation, Kemp blasted the proposed changes as unnecessary and unfair. "They will exclude large numbers of needy poor...and cause persons to lose all they own before they can be helped," he said.

Changing the eligibility rules, Kemp said, "is like prohibiting a doctor from treating a patient with a disease until the disease becomes terminal."

right people—the maintenance department is said to be "overstaffed with unqualified people"—the Floyd Board of Education could save about $290,000 annually on its bus operations, the report says.

Where the average fuel cost in comparable counties runs at 29.6 cents a mile, the cost here is 44.6 cents, according to a table included in the report. In the other counties, $1061 is spent on parts for each bus; in Floyd, the figure is $2741.

Mechanics' salaries elsewhere work out at an average cost of $970 per bus; here they run at $1768. The average cost of insuring a bus, which is $217 a year in the other counties, is a startling $582 in Floyd.

"McDowell parents talked and talked and talked to Mr. Grigsby about buses all last year," Mrs. Hatfield said bitterly. "If it was that bad, why did nobody care?"

"All I can say is we were not aware of the seriousness of the deficiencies," the superintendent said. "When the garage was under Mr. (Freddie) Turner we never had these problems. We're looking hard for a qualified service manager."

(A veteran garage supervisor, Turner retired about 18 months ago. His successor, Palmer Martin, resigned in the wake of the state inspection tour here this summer.)

State staff members worked with Floyd officials to help get buses ready for school opening, which was held up for several days.

Procedures designed to hold teachers and students more accountable for textbooks have recently been set up here, the Goldsmith report acknowledges. Following an April report by John Shoemaker, of the Education Department's textbook utilization division, Goldsmith cited lack of accountability as a major cause of textbook shortages in one high school and seven grade schools here.

An error made by Shoemaker, concerning textbook funds which had been allowed to revert to the state, is corrected by the later report. The figure was not $12,854—a sum that angered parents, who thought it was accurate, and school officials, who knew it was not—but $1795, Goldsmith noted.

Terming Kentucky Power's financial condition "unsound," the PSC denied any increase for construction costs related to the Rockport generating unit or the associated transmission line.

The commission commented that "it would be unfair, unjust and unreasonable" to require Kentucky Power's customers to pay a current cash return on construction work in progress while allowing Kentucky Power to continue to accrue allowance for funds used during construction.

The commission called for new hearings for a further review of the company's construction program.

Kentucky Power's involvement as part-owner of the Rockport plant has come under fire from various consumer organizations which have questioned the need for this new generating unit in light of the company's access to the power reserves of its parent company, American Electric Power. Eastern Kentucky coal operators have also been critical of the Rockport plant because it will burn coal from western states.

In a separate order, the PSC said it "believes Kentucky Power's investment in Rockport warrants further review because the commission is convinced that the financial soundness of (the utility) is not good, and demands the commission's careful and immediate attention."

The $123 million transmission line associated with the Rockport plant also became the center of controversy during the rate hike proceedings. The transmission line, which will be operated and maintained by Kentucky Power but will supply power to an Ohio utility, is already near completion.

When Kentucky Power received permission from the PSC, in 1974 to build the line, company officials told the commission that 95 percent of its cost would be borne by AEP, since the line was primarily to serve other AEP-owned companies.

Last month, however, company officials told the commission that Kentucky Power was responsible for paying the entire cost of the line, which has doubled during the past decade.

The attorney general's office, which intervened on behalf of customers, called for a review of Kentucky Power's obligation to bear the full construction costs of the line due to "a dramatic and unexplainable change in evidence which formed the basis for issuance of the certificate" by the PSC in 1974.

The discrepancy in the company's testimony concerning the extent of Kentucky Power's investment in the transmission line also drew sharp criticism from the other formal parties involved in challenging the case, which included the Concerned Citizens of Martin County, intervening on behalf of residential customers; Blue Diamond Mining, Inc.; and an organization called Kentucky Industrial Utility Customers, a group of industrial intervenors, including Ashland Oil, Inc.

The PSC, in its 50-page order, said it would investigate "the necessity and usefulness of and the cost responsibility for" the transmission line.

The PSC also granted Kentucky Power a 16.5 percent return on overall investment instead of the 17.5 percent return the company was seeking.

Kentucky Power officials referred to the order as a "major disappointment."

Ordering textbooks not by grade but by individual achievement test scores is also cited by the state panel as a cause of shortages. The policy is designed to give students books that are suited to their reading skills rather than their nominal grade level. The state report does not condemn the practice and Grigsby defended it last week as a "courageous" educational initiative.

According to law, all Floyd schools should provide at least six hours of actual instruction every day and school should be dismissed early only in case of emergency, Goldsmith notes. Claims by the Floyd County Citizens Education Council that some schools were dismissed for basketball games and other activities were generally confirmed by the investigators.

The state team also verified a parent complaint that, when Betsy Layne High School is dismissed early, interlocking bus schedules demand that six grade schools be let go early, as well.

While Goldsmith stopped short of condemning the early dismissals, Grigsby said last week they would cease. Classes will be dismissed early only on his authority and in cases of true emergency; an early dismissal at one school will not affect any other school; and, if some students are absent on a class trip or other activity, students not involved will be required to attend class as usual, the superintendent asserted.

"I am determined that every school will get in six hours of instruction," Grigsby said in an interview. "That has been board policy since 1979. I would consider any principal insubordinate who did not comply with it."

Various complaints about the state of school buildings at Allen Elementary and McDowell were checked out by the investigators, who said they had since received complaints about Wheelwright High School as well. Some of the problems have been addressed already, some have yet to be taken care of, and the school district's performance will need to be monitored, their report said.

Ironically, while the state panel looks to the rebuilding of Allen grade school as a solution to that school's maintenance problems, the Floyd board told state accreditation officials recently it had no plans to rebuild the school because no funds are available.

Floyd Board of Education policies in regard to public participation in board meetings do not appear unreasonable, nor were alleged violations of state "open meetings" law substantiated, the state panel found.

Citizens should be allowed to address the board even if the superintendent thinks he has already given them an adequate hearing and persons seeking copies of public records should not be charged more than the actual cost, the report said.

About 40 percent of the county's seventh and eighth grades are taught by teachers out of their major, minor or specific area of concentration, and 13 classes exceeded the 35-student maximum allowed by law, the panel found.

Supt. Grigsby said the district is committed to remedying both deficiencies but predicted that getting seventh and eighth grade teachers properly placed will prove a statewide problem. Tenured teachers cannot be forced to pick up the extra college credits that might better fit them for the job, he explained.

Individual schools have been lax in submitting monthly financial reports, but it is not for lack of prompting by administrators. Moreover, the annual school audits are even more thorough than the law requires, Goldsmith notes.

The inference that purchase orders are filled out after the fact is erroneous and the accusation that Supt. Grigsby and Asst. Supt. Ron Hager are illegally charging auto mileage is without foundation, state investigators concluded.

An allegation linking the Share Corporation, the school board and the fiscal court, is also called unfounded.

The school board is not required to advertise for bids for the annual audit or for property insurance. The auditor is not in fact a nephew of former Board Chairman John M. Stumbo. And while Julius Martin, co-owner of Big Sandy Insurance, is Supt. Grigsby's brother-in-law, such a relationship does not preclude the school district's doing business with the firm, Goldsmith reported.

The state panel made no allusion to the Floyd citizens' call for the ouster of Grigsby and the board.

many cases can eliminate the need for exploratory surgery.

Clarence C. Traum, administrator of Highlands Regional, commented on the approval: "We prepared and presented a convincing case proving the need and the benefits of a whole body CT scanner at the Medical Center. The Certificate of Need Board's approval again acknowledges our role as the Regional Medical Center serving the area. This is very gratifying to us. The CT scanner is the latest step in our continuing development as a major imaging center east of Lexington."

CT scanning has been heralded in the medical field as a "revolutionary development" that dramatically improves testing capabilities.

Plans call for the scanner to be housed in special facilities that will be a part of the Medical Center's major expansion currently under way.

Golden Anniversary

Charlie and Eliza Johnson, of Weeksbury, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday, Oct. 1, at Marshville, Ohio.

Their children are hosting the celebration. Charlie Johnson and the former Eliza Collins were married Sept. 30, 1933. Mr. Johnson is a retired coal miner and Mrs. Johnson is a retiree from McDowell Hospital. They are members of the Old Regular Baptist Church of Melvin. They are the parents of seven children and 15 grandchildren.

To Attend Conference

Seven educators from the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association will be attending the southern conference to be held in Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 21-23.

The International Childbirth Education Association (ICEA), a national organization of childbirth educators, nurses, certified nurse-midwives, parent educators, and other health care providers, has designed the conference to develop the knowledge and skills needed by those providing support to today's childbearing consumers.

Those attending the conference will be: Mary Creed, Abbott Creek, Cara Hall, Allen; Pat Hites, Prestonsburg; Debbie Luster, Abbott Creek; Vikki McGuire, Emma; Jean Rosenberg, ACCE, Middle Creek; Ann Slone, ACCE, David.

MAYTOWN NEWS

Mrs. Goldia Salyers attended the funeral of her cousin, Stella Martin Hildebrand, in Portsmouth, Ohio last Monday.

The Maytown PTO meeting will be held Oct. 4 in the school library at 7 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend.

Mrs. Shirley Stewart, Miss Rebecca Linn Stewart, of Mt. Washington, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Stewart and children, of Amelia, Ohio, visited Mr. and Mrs. Claude Webb and Mrs. Rebecca Salisbury Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Marie Ambrose, of Swannanoa, N.C., visited her sister, Mrs. Bradas May, for five days last week. Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose are moving to Florida soon.

Miss Beverly May, who has been employed in Seattle, Wash. for the past two years, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy May, and has accepted employment at Somerset, Ky.

Mrs. Sandy Bradley and children, of Louisville, were the weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hicks. They also attended church services at the Maytown First Baptist Church.

Everett Gibson, of Spokane, Wash., and his mother, Mrs. Bessie Gibson, of Wayland, visited Mrs. Sarah Allen, Mrs. Agnes VanHoose, Mrs. Bertha Gibson and Mrs. Earla Gibson last week. Mr. Gibson has been here with his mother while she is recuperating from recent surgery.

Demand For 'Shots' Swamps Health Dept.

Despite a "herculean effort" on the part of his staff, they are being "swamped" by youngsters coming in for immunization shots, Health Department Administrator Earl Compton told Schools Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. this week.

As a result, Tuesday of each week will be set aside for students who need to get their shots up to date and the other days of the week will be reserved for the health department's regular clients, Compton directed.

Floyd school administrators have been under pressure from state accreditation officials to get student health records current within 30 days. The immunization requirement mostly affects kindergarten and first grade students but, apparently because of some laxity in enforcement, a number of students in other grades are also behind on their shots.

Compton said his department wants to help but that it is "physically impossible" to do the job in 30 days. With its patient census now running at around 145 a day, the health department's regular services were being squeezed out to accommodate the influx of school-children, he said.

While immunizations will be offered during the remainder of this week, none will be given next week, since the health department staff will be attending a conference in Lexington. The new immunization schedule will begin Tuesday, October 11, when the clinic will be open from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A Message From Mrs. Jerry Lafferty, Jr.

TO MY FELLOW FLOYD COUNTIANS:

During the past few months, I have traveled throughout Floyd County discussing with you my candidacy for County Judge-Executive on the Independent ticket. Although the response has been favorable, my family and I feel that to run on anything other than the Democratic ticket would be a disservice to Jerry's memory, to my family, and to myself, because I am a Democrat to the core just as Jerry was. Therefore, I have withdrawn my candidacy for County Judge-Executive. I thank each of you who signed my petition, who so actively supported and encouraged me, and who welcomed me into their homes. My family and I appreciate each one of you more than you will ever know. It was good to know that some people still had the integrity to stand up for what was right without being concerned with their own self-interest.

These past few months have been difficult ones for my son, daughter, and I. We were hurt deeply by Jerry's death, and hurt again by the Governor's complete inconsideration to my family and me when he failed to appoint me to succeed Jerry, and again by the Floyd County Executive Committee, who had a chance to right a wrong, but who looked out for their own interest. However, two (or three) wrongs do not make a right, therefore, I urge each of you to go to the polls in November and vote Democratic.

The Republicans are crying "It is time for a change!", but my friends, Floyd County neither needs nor can afford the change they have in mind. Jerry's motto while in office was "Progress through Unity." I urge each of you to unite behind the banner of the Democrat party in order that progress may continue in the county and statewide.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Jerry Lafferty, Jr.

Commended Student In Merit Program

Prestonsburg High School has been notified that one of its students has been designated a Commended Student in the 1984 National Merit Scholarship Program.

An officer of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), which administers the program, stated that "the outstanding test performance of each Commended Student in the highly competitive Merit Program is an attainment deserving of recognition."

Johnson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Johnson, of Prestonsburg.

Mine Operators Must Submit Data by Oct. 3

All coal-mine operators having Priority II transitioning permits must submit sediment pond designs and related compliance data to state Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement regional offices on or before October 3.

Regional offices of the state department are located in Grayson, Jackson, London, Madisonville, Middlesboro, Pikeville and Prestonsburg.

Priority II permits are identified by code numbers which begin with the letter B or end in the letters X, N or P. "This submission date doesn't apply to mining operators who have already submitted the required designs and compliance data," Grimm explained.

"Pond designs and compliance data must be submitted in accordance with those methods approved by the department," Grim cautioned. He advised mine operators to "see the department's Reclamation Advisory Memorandum, Number 13, for a description of approved methods."

"All other information and data required in Priority II transitioning permit applications must also be completed and submitted to the regional offices on or before October 3, if this information has not already been submitted," Grim said.

Failure to submit the required information could result in the cessation of active mining operations or the denial of future comprehensive mining permits, state permitting officials said.

Mine operators who are receiving assistance from the state's Small Operator's Assistance Program must submit geological and water data prepared by approved state contractors as well as pond designs and compliance data within ten working days after approved reports have been provided to operators by the Small Operators Assistance Program.

For information on the October 3 submission date, contact the nearest office of the Kentucky Division of Permits, or the Frankfort offices of the division on the 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, telephone (502) 564-2320.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Roy B. Reid would like to express their special thanks to Roger Nelson, Henry Hale, Ky. State Police, Floyd Funeral Home, Community United Methodist, Rev. Taylor Biggs, and Rev. Walt Staude for their great kindness and consideration during the recent loss of our loved one.

Child Abuse Forum

A forum on child abuse, sponsored by Mountain Comprehensive Care and the state Human Resources Cabinet, has been scheduled for October 5, from 1 to 3 p.m., in the Prestonsburg Municipal Building.

Speakers at the forum, entitled "How To Make the System Work," will include Attorney General Steven Beshear; Sarah Dunlap, of the Human Resources' Ashland office; Bill Wells, Jefferson county commonwealth's attorney; Phillip Tucker, Pikeville state police post; Mike Williams, assistant prosecuting attorney, Campbell county; and Dr. Ellen Joyce, of the Mud Creek Clinic.

Good News Report

By THOMAS W. PAUKEN
Director of ACTION

It began in 1967 when World War II amputee Jim Gardner taught himself to ski, using selfmade outriggers. Bruce Gavitt, director of Haystack Ski School in Wilmington, Vermont, joined with Gardner in an effort to expand on his success. The Boston Globe picked up the story and Fran Rebstad read it. Fran had lost a leg five years previously in a motorcycle accident. For an athlete the loss was particularly devastating, but she had not lost her will to overcome adversity. The Globe article stimulated her husband, Dick, as well, because it showed that skiing might be a sport they could learn to share. At Haystack they met Gardner and Gavitt. That meeting could be termed the beginning of what has become The New England Handicapped Sportsmen's Association (NEHSA). In 1970, Fran and Gardner, along with Ben Allen, an amputee and Tufts University medical student (now a doctor), formed what today is recognized as the most vigorous and active of the 35 chapters of the National Handicapped Association for Sports and Recreation (NHASR). Theirs, in fact, was the first program for handicapped skiers. There were eight members. All were volunteers. All were amputees and Fran was soon to join Ben as a qualified ski instructor.

Since then the story has been as exciting as a giant slalom run. NEHSA, now based at Mt. Sunapee, New Hampshire, has more than 400 dues paying members with 30 authorized volunteer instructors teaching those with disabilities which also include blind, deaf, and nerve damaged skiers. There is no cost for lessons. The necessary financing for specialized skiing equipment, local and national competitions and travel costs, is raised through private contributions. Additionally, through the efforts of members Cale Kenny and Jan Hansberry, a summer sports program has been added.

Kirk Bauer, an executive director of NHASR who lost a leg in Vietnam, has been a prime mover in helping to expand membership and stimulate recognition for the handicapped athletes nationally. Among them are numerous Vietnam veterans like himself. Tony Santilli, a former Marine who skis wearing a T-shirt with the logo—"One Legged Lightning," has his whole family involved. So does Terry Conrad, also a former Marine. He and his wife, Eileen, video tape those taking lessons or in racing competition so that form can be judged and improved on.

Gaining confidence and adapting are the big hurdles, and progress made by one is shared and enjoyed by all, each success considered a victory for the individual and the group.

Nowhere has this victory been better described than by newsman and amputee skier, Larz Nielson. In Winterfest '83, NEHSA's magazine, Nielson reported the exciting story of world competition by disabled skiers. "It was a dream that few athletes over realize," he wrote. "For 21 handicapped athletes, last year's sweep of the World Disabled Ski Championship in Switzerland was a combination of personal and team triumphs. The World Cup Victory was in a field of 900 Handicapped skiers from 30 nations..."

Of the 21 winners, three were NEHSA members. Paul DiBello, a double amputee brought home four gold medals; Diana Golden, Dartmouth student, won her gold medal defeating the reigning Austrian champion in the women's downhill, and Vermonter Mike Murphy captured a bronze medal.

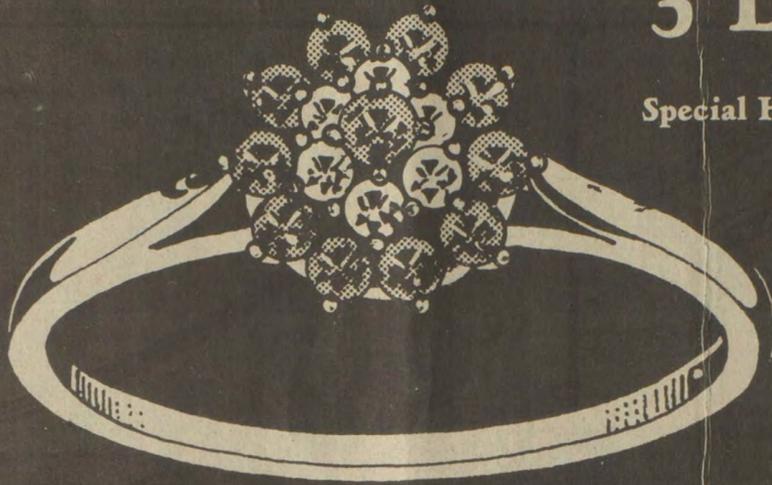

NEHSA's motto is, "If I can do this, I can do anything," and those who have tried can do anything.

Tobacco got its name from the Y-shaped pipe called a tabaca, which Columbus saw Caribbean Indians using.

Students include six CETA program trainees, two VA-sponsored students and four regular enrolled young men and instructor Dwayne Hall referred to the group as "a real bunch of students for the first class."

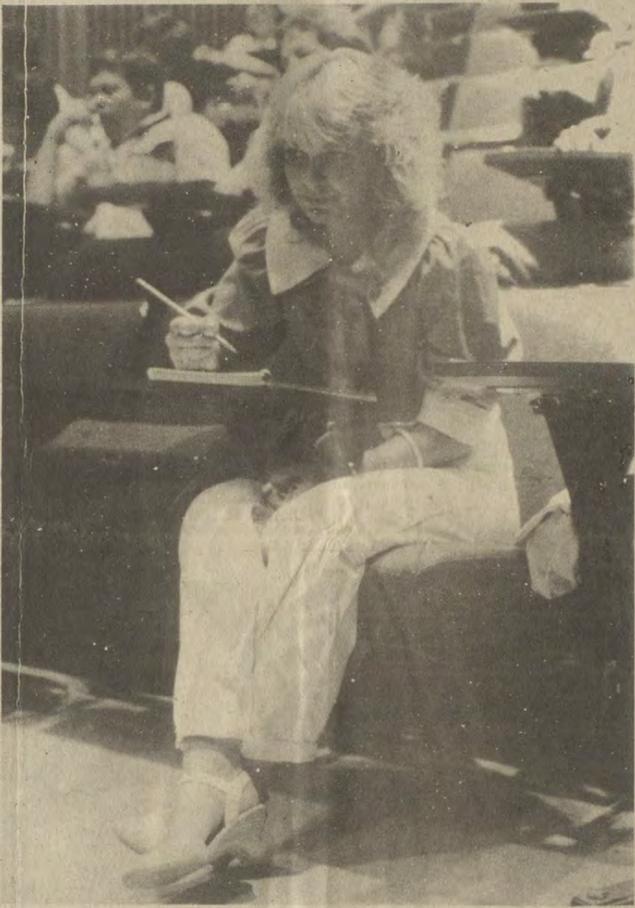

The program offers three 16-week classes per year and acquaints students with the following mine related topics: ventilation, mine gases, electricity and hydraulics, explosives, emergency procedure (fires and explosions), safety laws, first aid, machine operation, coal preparation, roof control, noise and dust control, haulage, and general mining.

Residents of Floyd and four surrounding counties which comprise Voc. Ed. Region 11 are eligible for the training course.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

The family of Jeff Vaughan, of Cliff, honored him on his 79th birthday with a dinner at his home.

Family members attending were his wife, Nell Vaughan, Mrs. Beatrice Childers, Mrs. Elizabeth Patton, Mr. and Mrs. George Vaughan and Kristal, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. Estill Eugene Childers, Mr. and Mrs. Allen McKinney, Jessica and Erica, Mr. and Mrs. Woody Jarrell, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Fields, Chris and Beth, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Baldrige and Jennifer, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Maynard. He received many gifts and cards.

FAYE WILEY, OF WAYLAND, a junior transfer from Alice Lloyd College, joined other students in Chrisman Auditorium, Pikeville College, for placement examinations. Miss Wiley is an elementary education major.

Arraignments Set Thursday Morning

Those indicted by the recent Floyd Circuit Court grand jury will be arraigned in the circuit courtroom at 9 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday), a court clerk has confirmed. Notices customarily sent to those indicted were not sent out on this occasion owing to the large number involved, it was explained.

FIRST MISS AUTUMN PAGEANT SLATED

The first Miss Autumn Time beauty pageant and fashion show will be held at 7 p.m., Saturday, at the Beaver Creek Elementary School at Topmost. There will be five categories for ages from six months to 18 years.

The pageant is being sponsored by the Little Rascals Baseball Boosters.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The South Prestonsburg Homemakers met Sept. 19 at the home of Mrs. Darnell Nunnery, with Mrs. Nunnery, president, in charge of the business session. The devotionals, "A Teacher's Opportunity," were given by Mrs. Joyce Allen. Since this was the first meeting of the new club year, each member was asked to answer the roll-call by relating something she had accomplished during the summer.

The lesson on "Wholesome Quick Meals" was presented by Mrs. Frances Pitts. Refreshments were served by the hostess to Mesdames Frances Pitts, Carlos Haywood, Theckley Short, Joyce Allen, Ora Bussey, Vivian Fraley, and Karen Colvin.

The October meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Arthur Haywood.

Compliance Deadline Asks Pond Design, Other Data

All coal-mine operators having Priority II transitioning permits must submit sediment pond designs and related compliance data to state Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement regional offices on or before October 3, Surface Mining Commissioner Elmore C. Grim announced last week.

Regional offices of the state department are located in Prestonsburg, Pikeville, Grayson, Jackson, London, Madisonville and Middlesboro, Grim said.

Priority II permits are identified by code numbers which begin with the letter B or end in the letters X, N or P. "This submission date doesn't apply to mining operators who have already submitted the required designs and compliance data," Grim explained.

"Pond designs and compliance data must be submitted in accordance with those methods approved by the department," Grim cautioned. He advised mine operators to "see the department's Technical Reclamation Memorandum-Number 13 for a description of approved methods.

"All other information and data required in Priority II transitioning permit applications must also be completed and submitted to the regional offices on or before October 3, if this information has not already been submitted," Grim said.

Failure to submit the required information could result in the cessation of active mining operations or the denial of future comprehensive mining permits, state permitting officials said.

Mine operators who are receiving assistance from the state's Small Operator's Assistance Program must submit geological and water data prepared by approved state contractors as well as pond designs and compliance data within ten working days after approved reports have been provided to operators by the Small Operators Assistance Program.

For information on the October 3 submission date, contact the nearest office of the Kentucky Division of Permits, or the Frankfort offices of the division on the 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, telephone (502) 564-2320.

Entry foyer, long living-dining room with sliders to patio and above-ground pool, equipped kitchen with GE appliances, an abundance of cabinets and counter space and an eat-in area. Family room paneled, with woodburning fireplace, three bedrooms, two full baths, and an attached two-car garage. Storage building to stay. Lovely area of well-kept homes. Old 8 7/8% bond money assumable loan available.

We again have Kentucky Housing money available for new homes in Jenkins. Old-time interest rates for a few lucky buyers. Call for details.

New brick home nearing completion in a lovely area just outside Prestonsburg. Front porch, living room with picture window and fireplace wall, dining room, eat-in kitchen with GE appliances, sliders to patio, master bedroom suite, two other bedrooms, two ceramic tile baths, utility area and two-car garage. Central heat and air, fully insulated for energy efficiency. The fireplace has blowers and the roof is pitched steep with pull-down stairway for extra overhead storage. City water, cable TV. Value priced.

Thelma—Assumable loan with the lowest closing costs in town! Energy efficient brick ranch with attached garage, all freshly painted, on a good level lot. Foyer, living room, large kitchen-dining-family room with abundance of cabinets and counter space and range and dishwasher to stay. Master bedroom suite plus two other bedrooms, two utility rooms, all drapes to stay. Great neighborhood for children in a quiet residential area but off the busy main road. See if this won't fit your budget.

60-acre Johnson county farm with mineral rights. Very livable two-story home with five bedrooms, living room and large kitchen-family room. Detached garage, barn which needs some repair and a garden area. If you long for the country, but like living on a good road, this may be it.

Modified A-frame with wrap-around deck; lots of windows and light, 2 beautiful stone fireplaces, one is two-story height. Foyer, living-dining-kitchen (great room) area, three bedrooms, plus lower level rec room and unfinished basement (utility, storage, workshop area). Central heat and air. Good buy with Floyd County Bond money financing available. Adjoining lot could be added.

One of the largest and most beautifully built and decorated homes it has been our pleasure to offer this year. Built of white stone (brick) from North Carolina, with privacy (10 acres), yet within three miles of Prestonsburg. Approximately 3200-sq. ft. of living space, plus oversize garage of 750-sq. ft. and 100' patio in rear give great spread-out room for family or parties. Space for pool if desired. Old bond 8 7/8% partial assumable mortgage available. Shown by appointment.

On Daniels Creek we have a modular on 260 front feet, wedge shaped to the top of the hill. Extra insulation and double-pane windows and a fireplace in the family room make this three-bedroom, two-bath home with beamed cathedral ceiling in living and dining room a real energy saver. Special General Electric kitchen with side-by-side refrigerator, self-clean range, pot scrubber dishwasher, compactor and disposal, is open to paneled family room. Central heat and air, deck area, utility building to stay.

Close to Prestonsburg we have a 14 x 70 Windsor mobile on a very private lot with garden area and plenty of parking. Living room with skylights, wood-burning stove, dining room with built-in buffet, equipped kitchen with appliances; also, washer-dryer to stay. Two bedrooms and an extra unfinished add-on, carport and a storage building make this a very good buy at $20,000.

Buffalo Creek acreage—approximately one acre of bottom land is included in this twelve-acre tract near Pike Co. line. Located on blacktop road and priced to sell.

Gentleman's Farm—A private steel bridge is the entry to one of the finest homes in the county. A large stone and brick ranch is complemented by a fully equipped and fenced in-ground swimming pool, a large private flagstone patio and a 30' x 30' barn for your horses and/or cattle. The professionally decorated home has three bedrooms, three baths, rec room with fireplace, designer kitchen, living room, dining room, laundry room and an extra large two-car garage. The grounds have been tastefully landscaped and have a concrete driveway and large parking area. Country living with city conveniences.

Abbott Creek location for this brick ranch with nice level yard for these hot summer days. Entry foyer, living room with bay window, kitchen-family room with fireplace and slider doors to back yard. Three bedrooms, pull down stairway for attic storage. City water with outside faucets connected to private well, priced to finance under FLOYD COUNTY BOND MONEY and seller will pay $3,000.00 toward closing costs.

Charming three-bedroom, two-story home with front porch, two baths, kitchen with appliances and a fireplace in the living room. Remodeled, with new carpeting and wallpaper, washer and dryer and window air-conditioner to stay. Outside storage building with utilities. Prestonsburg city water and gas. Located just below Sugarloaf on a tree-shaded lot.

20 acres on Conley Fork of Spurlock. Two-bedroom house with partial basement, Masonite siding, metal roof and drilled well, all surrounded by woods. Good starter home.

Commercial Prestonsburg lot containing approximately one level acre at intersection of Porter and University Drive. Adjoining Highland Plaza Shopping Center. Excellent location in a growing and busy area.

Lot on May's Branch adjoining SOLD Estates and fronting on University Drive. Great potential SOLD affordable price.

Two lots on May's Branch in Village Estates. City utilities; our contractor, your plans.

KET Series To Feature The General Election

Gubernatorial candidates Martha Layne Collins and Jim Bunning will appear in the first program of KET's series that takes a look at the candidates who are running for statewide office in Kentucky's November election. "Campaign '83: The General Election" will air weeknights, beginning Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 7 p.m. (ET). The remaining programs in the series will begin at 7:30 p.m. (ET).

Al Smith will moderate the series which will air live from the KET studios. Also participating will be a panel of journalists to question the candidates. The programs will include two rounds of questions from the panel, a 20-minute debate segment and closing statements. Both candidates will be given the opportunity to respond to all questions.

KET producers and candidates have agreed to certain guidelines for the forum. These provide that candidates will have no prior knowledge of questions to be asked; visual materials will not be allowed on the set; no new material will be introduced in closing statements; a coin toss will determine candidate sequence; and all programs in the KET series will be offered to commercial radio and television for simulcast or rebroadcast purposes.

"KET takes pride in its coverage of candidates for statewide office. From our viewer response, we know that Kentuckians expect this service from their public television network," said Donna Moore, producer of the series.

Other programs of the series: Attorney General: Dave Armstrong (D) and James Weddle (R), Thu., October 13; Comm. of Agriculture: David Boswell (D) and Richard Turner (R), October 17; Secretary of State: Drexell Davis (D) and Ann Ross (R), October 19; Treasurer: Frances Jones Mills (D) and Patricia Schafer (R), October 19; Supt. of Public Instruction: Alice McDonald (D) and Kenneth Bland (R), October 20; State Auditor: Mary Ann Tobin (D) and Ronald Halleck (R), October 24; Lieutenant Governor: Steve Beshear (D), Eugene Stuart (R), October 26.

Any third party candidates will be invited to their equal time on October 27.

Hattie Smith, Warren Blanton Are Wed

Miss Hattie Lanell Smith became the bride of Warren Kevin Blanton in an afternoon ceremony August 20 in a yard wedding at the home of the groom's parents. The Rev. Cohen Campbell read the double ring vows following a program of nuptial selections by Ruth Karen Marcum, of Allen.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elva Smith, of Bevinville, and was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Blanton, of Allen.

Patricia Isaacs, sister of the bride, served as the bride's honor attendant; Warren Blanton, father of the groom, was best man and ushers were Elva Gene Smith, brother of the bride, and Larry Glenn Hall, uncle of the groom. A reception dinner followed.

The bride is a graduate of Wheelwright High School and is employed at First Guaranty Bank. The groom is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and is employed by Eastern Kentucky Mack. Following a wedding trip to Cumberland Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Blanton are residing in Allen.

"Better Board" Seminar To Begin Oct. 18 at PCC

Do you know your legal liabilities when serving on a board?

"The average citizen who accepts a place on the board of directors of a non-profit organization often does so out of the goodness of his or her heart and a concern for community welfare," says Prof. Robert McAninch, coordinator for Prestonsburg Community College's Building a Better Board project. "The problem is that sometimes the individual's knowledge of board management and the responsibilities, both legal and moral, of a good board member, may not be sufficient."

It is with those thoughts foremost that the Building a Better Board seminar will meet for its first of three Tuesday evening sessions, Oct. 18, from 7 to 9 p.m. in Room 102 of the Pike Technology Building on the Prestonsburg Community College campus. Instructor for the first seminar will be County Attorney Arnold Turner. The topic to be covered will be "your legal liability when serving on a non-profit board or association board."

The seminar, which is the first in a series to be offered by the project, is sponsored by the W.K. Kellogg Foundation through the American Association for Community and Junior Colleges. To register, call Continuing Education at 886-3863.

German Auto Registrations

New-car registrations in West Germany fell 31.4% July, to 210,931 vehicles from 307,268 in June, but were up 5% from July 1982, the Federal Automotive Office said.

Pioneers Donor Day Set

The Big Sandy Pioneer Council will sponsor a blood drive at the Prestonsburg Donor Station on Thursday, Oct. 6, from 12 noon to 8 p.m. Employees of the South Central Bell Telephone Company are invited to share in the satisfaction of knowing their blood donation could make a lifesaving difference for patients in some hospital in the next few days.

For more information, contact George Roe or Patsy Akers at 432-2125.

KIWANIANNES MEET

The Prestonsburg Kiwanianes held their regular luncheon meeting last Thursday at May Lodge, with the president, Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, presiding. The President said that a "get-well" card had been sent on behalf of the group, to Mrs. Lillian Rimmer, who has been ill, and that cards would be sent to others as it was learned of the need. She said that the by-laws for this organization would be ready to distribute at the October meeting, and added that dues are payable next month.

The report from the Nominating committee was that, since the officers for the past year had served so well, they were being asked to continue in the same capacities for the club year, 1983-'84. This was unanimously approved by those in attendance. These officers are Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, president; Mrs. Jane Bond, vice-president, and Mrs. Vera Ford, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Fairchild asked that Mrs. Carolyn Ford be responsible for planning the programs for the ensuing year.

Members were reminded of the Jenny Wiley Festival, Oct. 2-8; the bingo games for the needy at St. Theodore's Catholic Church, and the boxes which have been placed in local churches to receive donations for the food pantry being established by the Local Churchwomen's group for the needy of this area.

Present were Mesdames Garnett Fairchild, Vera Ford, Thelma Wallen, Jane Wallace, May K. Roberts, Docia Woods, Margaret Collins, Anna May Mellon, Ortha Meece, Stella Spurlock, Lucy Regan, Mary Lou Layne, Caroline Ford, Margaret Alley, Thelma Music, Dorothy Osborne, and Opal Dingus.

HOSTESSES TO DINNER

Mrs. Edna Carroll Greenwade and Mrs. Joe Buchanan were hostesses to a dinner recently at the home of Mrs. Buchanan. Their guests were the Rev. Ross Figart, Jr., interim, pastor of the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church; the Rev. Ted Nicholas, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, and Mrs. Nicholas; the Rev. Steel Harmon, director of Fellowship for Christian Athletes; Mr. and Mrs. H.C. (Huck) Francis, Mrs. Vera Ford, Kay Hoffman and Sarah Cross and children.

CLUB TO MEET

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club will next meet Thursday, Oct. 6, at 7:30 p.m., at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center. The president, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, asks that members of the club's executive board meet at this same location at 7 p.m.

Roberts Says Claim Voluntarily Reduced

Magistrate Kenneth Roberts complained last week that The Time's story on the fiscal court failed to explain the circumstances under which a $703.08 claim filed by him was reduced. "I made the change, myself," he said. "The fiscal court had approved the full claim but I reduced it, myself, to the correct amount."

Although most people are afraid to eat mushrooms not found on supermarket shelves, white-tailed deer are particularly fond of wild mushrooms, according to the National Wildlife Federation.

In Loving Memory of my dear parents Virgie and Darb Shepherd Sept. 28, 1962

Mother and Daddy, I miss you very much. It had been 21 years since that fatal crash that took your lives, the accident that every one else has probably forgotten. How could I forget? It took the lives of two very wonderful people—the people I love most.

With everlasting love, your daughter,
BILLIE

IN REMEMBRANCE

In loving memory of James W. Gunnell, September 30, 1895 - October 10, 1980.

Softly the leaves of memory fall,
 Gently we gather and treasure them all.
 Unseen, unheard, he is always here.
 Still loved, still missed, still so very dear.

Family of Ray B. Reid To Our Special Friends

Perhaps you sent a lovely card,
 Or sat quietly in a chair;
 Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers,
 If so, we saw them there.
 Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words
 As any friend could say;
 Perhaps you were not there at all
 Just thought of us that day.
 Whatever you did to console the heart,
 We thank you so much, whatever the part

His Loving Wife, Daughters,
 Son-in-law and Grandson

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Alice Crisp Ray wishes to thank all who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers and gifts of love and to give a special thanks to Louis Ferrari, the Wheelwright Freewill Baptist singers, and the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind. All your kindnesses were greatly appreciated.

Alabama

Alabama continues to prove they're no flash in the pan!

On its latest tour, the group has performed songs from its LP, "The Closer You Get," to more than 1.3 million people. The LP has almost reached double-platinum in sales.

"Lady Down on Love," the current single written by the group's Randy Owen, is the third single from the album and will be performed on the CMA Awards Show in October.

Alabama is nominated in four categories this year, including entertainer of the year and vocal group of the year.

Crystal Gayle's current single, "Baby What About You," has nothing to do with her first born, Catherine Claire, but Crystal makes it clear that the child will definitely be a "road-baby."

Crystal says, "I want to be a real mother — so I'm taking her with me when I go out on tour. I don't want to leave her at home with a nurse or a sitter and return from the road to discover that my baby doesn't recognize me."

As of now, it looks like the baby's first stop on tour will be at Harrah's Marine Casino in Atlantic City, where Crystal is booked Thanksgiving weekend.

Carol Chase, a new country artist signed to MCA-Panorama Records, has been in Sound Emporium, recording under the guidance of Jerry Crutchfield. No release date has yet been set.

John Anderson says he has already put more than 80,000 miles on his new tour bus, which was purchased in August. Now he's looking for another bus or tractor-trailer rig to haul some more of the tour baggage necessary for on-the-road concerts.

John says he was averaging four to five nights a week on stage before "Swingin'" made noise on the charts, and now the pace is even more hectic, but he can handle it.

Anderson is nominated in five categories for the upcoming CMA Awards including the Horizon Award, single of the year ("Swingin'"), song of the year (same), album of the year ("Wild and Blue"), and male vocalist of the year.

Hero role suits Bruce Boxleitner well

By Joan Crosby

Bruce Boxleitner

Bruce Boxleitner, who was on TV last season starring as real-life hero Frank Buck in "Bring 'Em Back Alive," is back on TV this season playing another hero. This time, he's "Scarecrow," a man who works for "the Agency" in the CBS series "Scarecrow and Mrs. King." You won't see Bruce playing other than a hero — if he can help it.

"There are no role models for young people to emulate today. It's considered uncool to be upbeat about your country. Our country is in a weak state, our morality is weak and patriotism is put down as a corny word. Even morality is considered corny."

"Well, I'm playing a very patriotic character, a man who busts his butt to keep his country safe from the enemy. We're in an era of wars of terrorism. A passenger can't get on a plane without wondering if it is going to get bombed, blown out of the sky or hijacked."

"We have got to show the strength of America and be proud of our country, and TV is the medium that can do it."

Boxleitner adds that he is not saying "Scarecrow and Mrs. King" is the be-all and end-all, but it is an action-adventure show with a light touch, whose title characters (Kate Jackson is Mrs. King) are out to preserve democracy.

"We're CIA agents, although we don't use those initials. We just call it 'the Agency,' but we are located in the same place as the CIA and we also name the enemy — the KGB."

Boxleitner will also be seen in November in the second of the Kenny Rogers movies about "The Gambler."

"I play the same part I did in the first — his sidekick. It's a twist on the old Westerns when the hero was tall and young and the sidekick was older and more grizzled."

About the demise of "Bring 'Em Back Alive," Boxleitner says, "Early on we knew we were not pulling the numbers. It became tough to go to work on a day-to-day basis. I'd see these sad faces coming at me and think, 'Hell, let's pack up and go home.' But I was also involved in the production end, and that's like being a commander. I had to keep up the spirits of the others and if I was feeling down, I had to keep it to myself."

Floyd Woman Recalls "Devil Anse"

Sadie Hatfield Click is pictured with film and television star Jack Palance at the grave of Anderson "Devil Anse" Hatfield during recent filming of an episode of the television show, "Ripley's Believe It Or Not." Mrs. Click, 81, of Calf Creek, was contacted by the film crew after some preliminary research in the area revealed her close connection with the Hatfield clan, and, in particular, her vivid memory, of famed feud leader "Devil Anse."

Mrs. Click courted and was married to "Devil Anse's" son, Tennis, until his death many years ago, and her memories of those times with the family around Sarah Ann, West Virginia are strong.

Born a Walters in Pike county, her father, a contractor, was frequently engaged in road work in nearby Logan county, W. Va. It was there that she met her future husband and his family.

She remembers long winter nights of sitting in the Hatfield cabin listening to "Uncle Anse," as she called him tell stories. "He chewed tobacco, and he'd set by the fire and chew and tell stories for hours," she recalled. "He loved to tell stories about the Civil War," she said of Hatfield who served as a colonel in the Confederacy.

"One time I rode up the creek to see Uncle Anse, right in the winter, and the horse threw me off into that icy water," she said. "Well, I was soakin' wet and cold, but I went ahead and climbed the mountain up to a bee tree where I knew Uncle Anse was."

Another time she remembers an incident while Hatfield was milking. "He always could milk better than me," she said, but this time the cow started acting up. "Devil Anse" got mad and hit the heifer over the head with the partially-filled milk pail, "and the milk went all over me," she laughed.

Hatfield's wife, Levisy, taught the young Sadie "to smoke an old clay pipe," and, before "Devil Anse" died, she played his favorite song, "Dixie," on the piano.

As a young woman, her contact with the Hatfield clan leader was a family relationship, much like any other. He was just "Uncle Anse." But she's always been proud of her association with the Hatfields and now at 81, her recollections from those years will be shared with a national audience. (Scheduling of the Hatfield-McCoy feud segment which will appear on the ABC-TV program, will be announced later.)

Three sons, who were born to Mrs. Click and her first husband, survive. They are, Jack Anderson and Henry D. Hatfield, both of Sarah Ann, and Bill Grant Hatfield, of Lincoln Park, Michigan.

5-Year Terms Asked After Thomas Plea; Two Lose Appeals

Chester Thomas pleaded guilty in circuit court here last week to two charges of trafficking in marijuana and possession of LSD, and five-year terms on each count were recommended, the terms to run concurrently.

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley will pass sentence on the defendant, probably this week, it was said.

The 21-year prison term imposed on Otis Lee Wallen, charged with murder, was reported confirmed.

A defense motion for a discretionary review of the case of Cisco Neeley, who faces a 10-year term, has been denied by the state Supreme Court. The conviction for which the review was asked is Neeley's third on a manslaughter charge in the auto death of Lolita Howard. The first two sentences, of 8 and 10 years, were reversed and the third trial his term was again set at 10 years.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Floyd County Homemakers' annual meeting and cover-dish luncheon will be held today (Wednesday), in Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church here, with the Harold and Prestonsburg Day Homemakers serving as hostesses.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. Marsha Bradley, who will demonstrate how to make pottery.

Mrs. Frances Pitts, Floyd county home economist, joins the host clubs in urging all members to attend.

Smith Is New Pastor At West Prestonsburg

The Rev. Jerry H. Smith recently assumed the pastorate of the Church of God of Prophecy at West Prestonsburg.

A licensed minister for seven years, he and his wife, Vicki, moved here from the Jenkins area, where he was pastor at McRoberts.

Mrs. Smith has been a lay minister in the church two years, involved in children's ministries, and is Children's Church director for the West Prestonsburg congregation. They invited the public to attend their service.

August Mine Permit Report

The division of permits of the state Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement reports that 125 mining permits were issued during the month of August.

The types of permits issued included 57 original permits, 59 revision permits, 3 transition permits and 6 succession permits.

Of the 125 permits issued, 108 were for surface-mining operations, 11 for underground mining operations, two for haul roads and four for preparation plants and refuse areas.

Permitting activities in August authorized the disturbance of 604.22 new acres of land and resulted in the collection of $116.150 in fees.

Floyd county permits included two to Coal Mac, Inc. for a total of 49.22 acres; one each to Dan Lee Hall, 1.9 acres; Mary Newsome, 1.96 acres; Sandra Hall, 2 acres; Steve Combs, 2 acres. All are surface mining operations.

Johnson county had five surface permits totalling 152 acres; Knott, four permits, 90 acres; Lawrence, four, 92 acres; Martin, two, 629 acres; Pike, 11, approximately 725 acres.

Knott county had one underground permit for 14 acres, and Pike had three for 57 acres.

Median annual earnings for wage and salary workers who usually worked full-time year-round were $17,559 in 1982, up from $16,563 in 1981, according to the annual work experience survey reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Students Excelling Despite Poor Texts

"Science texts are so poor, so diluted, bland, disorganized and sometimes inaccurate" that some experts advocate forsaking them entirely, a panel of teachers says in the National Education Association's 1983-84 annual edition of Today's Education.

Despite the lack of good science textbooks students are doing remarkable work in areas such as genetic engineering, solid state electronics, and laser technologies.

The teacher panel recommends that good science instruction can be obtained through audiovisual materials, particularly from the National Geographic Society and Walt Disney Productions, and from the use of computer software packages and material developed locally. Television also offers some outstanding science programs including Cosmos, 3-2-1 contact, and NOVA.

Ky.-W. Va. Gas Speaker

William P. "Deacon" Headley will speak to the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company Chapter of the National Management Association, Friday, at the Holiday Inn Gateway in Huntington, W. Va. Mr. Headley is a special representative with Columbia Gas located in Columbus, Ohio.

His message, entitled "Put on a Happy Face" will be an inspiration to think positively and face everyday with a smile.

ALLEN HOMEMAKERS

The Allen Homemakers met Wednesday afternoon, September 21, at 1 p.m. at the Allen Park convention center. The meeting was called to order by the president, Belle Conn. The devotional was given by Rosemary Frasure. The annual meeting of Floyd County Homemakers will be held today (Wednesday), at the First United Methodist Church, Prestonsburg. Pearl Watts, Donna Reitz, and Sue Reynolds are to make a centerpiece for the meeting. Frances Pitts, extension agent, told about the cookbook being made by the combined clubs. Each club is to present three recipes to be used. The books will be on sale later in the year. Pearl Watts, Sarah Laven, and Mildred Hall are responsible for getting the recipes ready. The clubs of the county are again ordering pecans for club members. The profit goes to the cancer fund.

There will be a cultural arts exhibit at Pikeville First Baptist Church, October 14. Floyd County Homemaker clubs will have their exhibits ready for judging October 7 at Kentucky Power Company in Prestonsburg. The October lesson on candlewicking will be taught September 22 at the regional library in Prestonsburg. Donna Reitz and Sue Reynolds were selected to attend from the Allen Club. Pearl Watts and Rosemary Frasure taught a lesson on quick and wholesome meals. Those present were Mildred Hall, Sarah Laven, Sue Reynolds, Belle Conn, Goldia Williams, Bonita Porter, Linda Porter, Denise Halbert, Donna Reitz, Minnie Alice Hall, Clara Ratliff, Rosemary Frasure, Pearl Watts, Valerie Hall and new members, La Neva Hall, Lyda Faye Crum, guest, Bernice Porter, and extension agent, Frances Pitts.

Public Notice No. 83KY123, September 28, 1983, NOTICE OF WITHDRAWAL OF PROPOSED REISSUANCE OF NATIONAL POLLUTANT DISCHARGE ELIMINATION SYSTEM PERMIT. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) proposes at this time to withdraw the proposed National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit to the following applicant as described in the Public Notice Number 83KY088, dated July 14, 1983: Left Beaver Coal Company, Post Office Box 47, Drift, Kentucky, for their existing coal preparation plant and associated mining operations (SIC 1211) of their Calora Plant located approximately 0.5 mile south-southeast of Ligon, Kentucky, in Floyd County. The NPDES permit number is KY0022896. The discharges enter Clear Creek and Slone Branch of Clear Creek, receiving waters which are classified for fish and wildlife. The proposed NPDES permit contained limitations on the amounts of pollutants allowed to be discharged and were drafted in accordance with the provisions of the Clean Water Act (33 U.S.C. Section 1251 et seq.) and other lawful standards and regulations. Upon review of public comments and other information it is the intent of EPA at this time to withdraw reissuance of this permit. This permit reissuance is being withdrawn pending further enforcement action that is presently under way. Please bring the foregoing to the attention of persons who you know will be interested in this matter. 11.

Study Shows Coal Miners Not Beseet by Anxiety about Danger

By FANNIE MADDEN-GRIDER
MSU Student Journalist

Does spending their days under tons of earth, facing the possibility of a roof cave-in, a rock fall or a methane gas explosion cause Eastern Kentucky coal miners to have higher death anxiety than the general public?

No, according to a study recently completed by Dr. George Dickinson, head of the Department of Sociology, Social Work and Corrections at Morehead State University.

Seventy-eight miners in Martin and Pike counties in Kentucky and Mingo county, W. Va., were asked 15 questions designed to determine the degree of death anxiety experienced. On a scale of 15 to 30, scores lower than 23 indicated high anxiety and scores higher than 23 indicated low anxiety.

The miners surveyed had a composite score of 22.69, which indicates slightly high death anxiety. Dr. Dickinson compared this with the anxiety level of a random sample of 29 Morehead residents, 30 residents of a similar size town with a university in Minnesota and 184 students in a death and dying class he teaches at MSU.

"What I found was that all these groups have quite similar levels of death anxiety," says Dr. Dickinson. "Morehead residents scored 21.31, the Minnesota sample scored 21.5 and the students scored 21.32. As you can see, they were all near the mid-point on the high side."

This similarity came as a surprise to Dr. Dickinson because of the high incident of injury and death in coal mines.

"It also surprised me that the Morehead and Minnesota samples were so close—you could set one top of the other, they are so similar—because we're in Appalachia and Appalachians are supposed to be different," comments Dr. Dickinson. "The stereotypic, fatalistic attitude that 'what will be, will be,' would decrease the fear of death; but we didn't find fatalism in our sample."

Miners were also asked questions relating to how much they worry about their health, their exposure to death, religion and their opinion of who is responsible for mine accidents.

"The majority of the miners said that miners cause most accidents," says Dr. Dickinson. "This also came as a surprise, again because of the fatalism that is attributed to coal miners. But it just isn't there."

When broken down by age, however, a greater percentage of the older miners blame accidents on a lack of safety rules while a greater percentage of younger miners said accidents in the mines are inevitable.

Dr. Dickson also found that a certain amount of carelessness occurs within the mines through non-work activity. As one respondent said, "There's a lot of horesplay; reduces the tension, I guess...throwing mud or saying you'll throw someone in the machines, laugh, get rowdy..."

Miners interviewed were most frequently foremen, followed by maintenance and electrical workers. Of the seven women included, two were clerks and the other five held traditional male jobs. The number of years worked in the mines ranged from two to 40, with 11.4 being the average length of employment.

Only 36 percent of the miners had high school diplomas, while 17 percent had some college or had completed college and 47 percent had less than four years of high school.

The age range was 20 to 75 years, with 37 years being the average. Eighty-three percent were working at the time of the interview, with the rest unemployed or retired.

Seventy-four percent of the miners were married, with the number of dependents ranging from zero to five. Of those married, 75 percent had a spouse who does not work outside the home; 18 percent had a spouse who works fulltime; and seven percent had a spouse who works parttime.

This survey is a pilot study for a larger study Dr. Dickinson plans. He will interview 200 miners and compare the responses to these questions of male-female, older-younger and union-non-union respondents.

Mary Rado, a former graduate student in nursing at MSU who is now teaching nursing at Pikeville College, and Elizabeth Moore, a former MSU sociology major currently enrolled at Chase Law School, did the interviews for the study.

50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Scalf, of Mooresburg, Tenn., formerly of Floyd county, were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary with a dinner given by their children at the Holiday Inn in Morristown, Tennessee, September 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Scalf, who are both retired teachers, graduated from Betsy Layne High School and from Morris Harvey College in Charleston, W. Va. She is the former Delsie White, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Newberry White, of Haroid.

Present for the occasion were their four children, and their families, Mr. and Mrs. William Ronald Scalf, of Panama City, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Schaut and children, Michael, Michelle, and Vickie, of Monamonee Falls, Wisc., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coates and children, Preston and Noelle, of Matthews, N.C., and Sally Simonsen, of Miami, Florida. Other relatives and friends from Tennessee, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, and Michigan also were present.

WHEELWRIGHT

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Wheelwright Homemakers met September 15 to begin a new year of interesting projects. The meeting was held at the Wheelwright Senior Citizens Center.

The new secretary-treasurer, Doris Osborne, read the minutes of the last meeting, and each member answered roll call with an accomplishment she had made this past summer.

Homemaker Club members will sell bags of shelled pecans this year as a fund-raising project. Ordering will be done at the October meeting.

Lesson for the evening was "Quick and Nutritious Meals." Each member received pamphlets with helpful information and several wholesome recipes. Three club members are to submit a "tried and true" recipe at the next meeting. These recipes will be published in the Northeast Area Homemakers Cookbook.

The door prize was a basket of home grown tomatoes from the organic garden of Katie Newsome. Winner of the fruit was Mrs. Johnson.

Hostess for the evening was Mrs. Myra Salisbury and refreshments were served to Doris Osborne, Parilee Hall, Barbara Johnson, Maxine Osborne, Myra Salisbury, Mary Hall, Sue Johnson, Margaret Jones, Frances Pitts, Linda Holbrook and Katie Newsome.

The October meeting will be Thursday, Oct. 20, at 7 p.m. when the lesson will be "Candlewicking." All members are to bring scissors and embroidery hoops.

TO THANK YOU

Win Over Morgan Co. Cats' Fifth in a Row

By LAURA COOLEY

With a determined defense leading the way, the Prestonsburg Blackcats won their fifth game in a row with an important 21-14 sub-district victory over the Morgan County High School Cougars, Friday night in Morgan County's Sorghum Bowl.

PHS registered the first score of the game with a 31-yard touchdown run by halfback John Anderson. Morgan county, under the direction of their outstanding quarterback Bill Allen, soon countered, however, with their first TD coming after a one-yard plunge and, before the half ended, a second on a four-yard sprint. Halftime score—14-6. Soon after the half, Anderson came through again for the 'Cats, scoring on a four-yard run. With Quarterback Todd Nairn successful in a conversion attempt, the score was tied, 14-14.

The game's deadlock was broken when on the first play of the fourth quarter, Anderson continued his fine performance for the night with a seven yard touchdown run. The extra point was secured by John Goble's kick and so the score remained until the game's end.

Morgan County quarterback Bill Allen and his offensive line proved no match against the powerful Blackcat defense when, on several occasions, Allen found himself pushed back and "sacked" by the P-burg defenders.

Offensively, the Blackcats showed their greatest strength rushing with 202 yards gained on the ground as compared to Morgan County's 18 yards rushing. As expected, however, the Cougars racked up 163 yards passing while PHS went to the air for 43 yards.

John Anderson led the 'Cats rushing with 89 yards in 15 carries. John DeRossett followed with 72 yards in 13 carries, Chris Hooker ran nine times for 36 yards, and Todd Nairn picked up 26 yards in 12 carries. Brad Hughes was the leading receiver with three for 15 yards. Irvin Spears caught one pass for 17 yards and John DeRossett picked up 10 yards for his single reception.

Coach Phillip Haywood praised the defense saying, "We kept playing defense even better as the game went on." He was also pleased with the play of the Blackcats' special teams and while he pointed to several mistakes on the part of the offense, he said, "Not only did we get the necessary points, but we were able to control the ball, use up the clock and keep the ball away from Morgan County."

In a home game this Friday, the Blackcats will take on the Belfry Pirates (1-3).

Basketball Event Set at Paintsville

The Johnson County Girl Scouts have completed plans for the "SHOOT LIKE A WILDCAT" basketball shooting event to be held Friday, Sept. 30, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., and Saturday, Oct. 1, from 9 a.m. until noon at the Paintsville High School Gym.

University of Kentucky basketball star, Jim Master, is serving as the honorary chairman for the event. The local winner will receive an autographed U.K. basketball and an invitation to a reception hosted by Jim Master and a tour of the Wildcat Lodge. Local winners will also have a chance to win two tickets to a U.K. game. The winner will be determined by the number of points scored in the contest. All participants will receive a Bumper Sticker that says they shot like a Wildcat.

The "Shoot Like A Wildcat" event is a basketball competition where participants have 60 seconds to shoot baskets from designated spots on the floor. The spots are worth a various amount of points. The one who earns the most points is the winner.

The event is open to all ages and no pre-registration is necessary, although there is a small entry fee.

Massive Deer Stocking Ahead for Knott County

Except for about a dozen Eastern Kentucky counties, almost all other counties of the state have growing herds of deer.

That has convinced the state Fish & Wildlife Resources Department that the region is ideal for a massive deer-stocking effort, and Knott county will be the first target.

"We're calling it the Eastern Kentucky Deer Experiment," John Phillips, of Williamstown, a state biologist, said. About 500 deer will be transported 400 miles into Knott county over the next two years.

The deer will come from the state's Ballard County Wildlife Management Area, along the Ohio River in Western Kentucky.

Normally, the state stocks 50 to 75 deer in a county, but that doesn't work in Eastern Kentucky, Phillips said. "The soil fertility is lower, so there is less high-quality food. Thus deer productivity is lower."

With few dog-control ordinances, "there is a free-ranging dog problem in Eastern Kentucky, and that is hard on newly released deer that don't know the territory."

With normal, low-density stocking, Phillips said, as many as 80 percent of the deer will be killed by dogs. But if deer are plentiful, their trails cross frequently and the dogs switch from one deer to another.

"Instead of running one deer until the deer becomes exhausted, the dogs become exhausted."

Poaching—shooting does or shooting any deer out of season—is a problem throughout the state, Phillips said. Some studies indicate the number of deer killed illegally may approach the number killed by legal hunters, he said.

"Reports of poaching in Eastern Kentucky are lower. In the forested, hilly terrain, they're harder to catch. And with fewer deer, there are fewer opportunities," he said. "But any poaching is a problem when you've got these other problems."

Wildlife officials hope the 500 deer "will lower the percentage of the loss to dogs, and (that) there will be enough new fawns born to counteract the poaching loss."

The deer will be released about 25 at a time. The process will continue until February, when does are preparing to give birth. It will be repeated next fall, when the fawns are grown and family groups begin to split up.

"If it works, it will tell us, 'Yes, it is possible to have a deer herd in Eastern Kentucky and this is how we do it,'" Phillips said. "If not, it's telling us maybe we can't have a deer population in Eastern Kentucky."

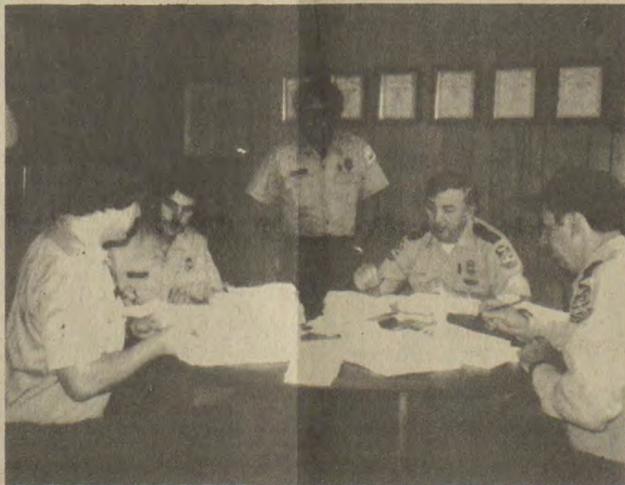

The department will authorize hunting of bucks only in the fall season after completion of the stocking, probably in 1985, Phillips said.

"We will use the bucks-only harvest to monitor how the herd is doing, to try and tell if it looks like they're going to make it," he said. "It will be five years before we know for sure if we've been successful."

Tennessee officials have tried high-density stocking of deer "with moderate success," Phillips said.

"They got a county's harvest up to about 400 a year. When you're harvesting 15, like we did in Knott county, that's pretty good," he said. "They weren't satisfied with it, but we'd be satisfied with it."

Draw Deer Hunters' Names

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife held a deer-hunting permit drawing for Dewey Lake last Friday. The drawing was conducted at the Corps of Engineers' Dewey Lake office. The following personnel were present from both agencies: Tommy Cantrell and Larry Short, of the Department of Fish & Wildlife, and Dean Murray, Jack Nichol and Randall Halbert, of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Names of 250 hunters were drawn at random from several thousand applicants. The individuals selected will be notified by mail. The two-day gun hunt will be on December 10 and 11.

OPENING A HOLE for Prestonsburg fullback John DeRossett are Blackcat linemen including Bill Tom Moore (No. 77), and Kenny Doerr (No. 58).

Deer Bow Season To Open October 1

Kentucky bow hunters who remember all the regulations from last year shouldn't have any trouble when this year's archery deer season opens Oct. 1. But for the rest of us, a quick trip through a current copy of the rules should be a part of our pre-season ritual.

About the only thing that has changed is the placing of certain counties in one of six deer hunting zones. Bow hunters need to check whether they are hunting in a zone four or five county, because in these zones they are limited to bucks only during the entire archery season. Zone six, which is comprised of Lincoln, Knott and Knox counties, is closed to all deer hunting.

A copy of the 1983 Deer Hunting Guide is attached to each deer permit. This guide also contains a list of check stations and their hours of operation. Remember that all deer, whether taken by gun or archery, must be checked at the nearest open check station or by a conservation officer by 9 a.m. the following day.

Bow hunters will be allowed to take two deer by archery in 1983, or one by gun and one by bow. A separate permit is required for each deer. Permits cost $11.50 for residents and non-residents, but out-of-staters must purchase an annual non-resident license. A three-day small game license is not valid for deer hunting.

Hunters may use any draw weight bow, as long as it doesn't have a device or attachment that will hold the arrow at full draw without aid from the archer. Arrows must have barbless broadhead points at least 7/8 inch wide. Chemically treated arrows or attachments containing chemicals may not be used.

The archery season in all open zones will run from Oct. 1 through Nov. 3, then re-open Nov. 16 and continue through Dec. 31. Crossbows may be used only during the Nov. 19-28 portion of the bow season. Crossbows must have a minimum pull weight of 100 pounds, and bolts (that's what crossbow arrows are called) must have a minimum weight of 380 grains and be fitted with barbless broadhead points at least 7/8 inch wide, with no chemicals or chemical attachments.

The hunting hours for bow and gun deer hunting are from one-half hour before sunrise until one half hour after sunset. It is illegal to take deer from boat or any land vehicle or while the deer is swimming. It is also illegal to use dogs or other domestic animals to hunt deer.

And one final reminder: If the woods are as dry on opening day as they have been all summer, be extremely careful with matches or campfires. Unless we get a lot of rain, the threat of forest fires will increase progressively as the leaves begin to fall. By the first of November, the woods could be tinderboxes just waiting for a careless act to ignite them—so watch what you're doing.

First Place Winner In Summer Recital

Kelly Nicole Hicks, daughter of Tim and Donna Hicks, of Morehead, recently participated in the summer recital of Curtain Call Studio. Judged on basic baton requirements and her group routine, she received first place trophies in both twirling and marching. She also received the best attendance trophy in her group.

Kelly is six years old and will be in the first grade this year at Morehead Grade School. Her interests are gymnastics, swimming, baton, dance, and roller skating. She has won several pageants this past year and is the current Little Miss Kentucky State Fair. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hogsed, of Martin.

Eagle Survey Finds Signs of Recovery

The endangered bald eagle is showing strong signs of recovery after years on the decline, according to the results of the National Wildlife Federation's 1983 Bald Eagle Survey.

This year's survey, taken from January 2 to 17, counted 12,098 bald eagles in 46 states, about the same as last year's count. In 1979, the Federation's first survey counted 9,815 bald eagles.

"It's encouraging that bald eagles may be finally recovering from the grave threats of pesticides, habitat loss and illegal killings," said Jay D. Hair, NWF Executive Vice President. Hair noted that there remain major threats to the nation's symbol.

The bald eagle is officially endangered in 43 states and threatened in five others. Only in Alaska is the bald eagle plentiful. (There are none in Hawaii). After a drastic decline in the 1960s due to pesticides and dwindling habitat, bald eagle populations in some areas are beginning to make a comeback, according to the Federation's raptor biologists.

Considered to be the most complete midwinter bald eagle count available, the National Wildlife Federation survey provides eagle experts with data on where the birds live during the winter and the habitat they need to survive.

Brian Millsap, National Wildlife Federation raptor biologist and coordinator of the survey, said that this year's unusually mild weather in the eastern U.S. apparently resulted in many northern states having higher than usual bald eagle counts, and many southern states having lower counts.

"During mild winters, bald eagles seem to overwinter farther north and remain more dispersed than during cold winters," Millsap said.

This year's survey found bald eagle populations in Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota and Wisconsin. It found decreases in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida and Texas. The largest population was in Washington state, with 1,158 birds; next largest was Utah with 1,042, followed by Florida (684) and Idaho (644).

The National Wildlife Federation, whose logo features a bald eagle in flight, has long been associated with eagle protection. The Federation offers $500 for information leading to the conviction of anyone who illegally kills a bald eagle.

The Federation's Raptor Information Center also conducts the annual Chesapeake Bay Bald Eagle Banding Project in which all known nestlings in the Bay area are banded and color-marked. According to this year's project, 114 young eaglets survived to leave the nest, compared to 55 in 1978.

Harvest Fest Date Changed to Nov. 2-6

The Betsy Layne band parents have changed the date of their Harvest Festival because of so many conflicts.

The date has been changed to Nov. 2 through Sunday, Nov. 6.

Wednesday and Thursday will be majorette competition, solos and groups. Friday will be the Harvest Dance. Saturday will be for games, arts and crafts, the canoe race and other events. Saturday night will feature the election of the Harvest Queen and the square dance. Sunday will see the chicken-dumplin' dinner and the gospel sing.

All band parents are invited to help. Call Mrs. Osborne or Mrs. Halbert at the school (478-2343).

PHS Band Participates In Recent Competitions

By LAURA COOLEY
The Prestonsburg Marching Blackcat Band recently competed in two state competitions, winning trophies in each.

In Rowan county's Marching Band Festival, the PHS band received trophies for best percussion, second place band overall, and best field commander, Miki Jones.

Over the past weekend the band competed in the Eastern Kentucky Marching Band Festival at Ashland where they placed third in their class out of seven participating bands.

ELECTRIC OR MANUAL TOOTHBRUSH?

Q. Is there any advantage to using an electric toothbrush rather than a manual one?

A. Not really. Which you use is purely a matter of preference. Most studies have shown that the manual brush, used correctly, removes plaque, food particles and other bits and pieces that move in and around gums and teeth even more effectively than the electric brush. But if you enjoy the electric brush more, you'll probably do a better cleaning job with it. Some people find it more stimulating and refreshing.

If you do choose an electric brush, select one with either an elliptical or a horizontal movement rather than up-and-down action, since that action can push food particles into the sulcus (space between teeth and gums) or into periodontal pockets and cause infection.

For people with poor manual dexterity because of a physical disability, the electric toothbrush has proven to be a boon!

Receives 'Wings'

Second Lt. Paul C. Ackerman, son of Margaret S. Ackerman, of Prestonsburg, has graduated from U.S. Air Force pilot training, and has received silver wings at Reese Air Force Base, Texas.

Ackerman will now serve at Sembach Air Base, West Germany. He is a 1982 graduate of the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Job Corps To Sponsor Arthritis Road Block

The Prestonsburg Job Corps Center, under the direction of Tom Hummer, will sponsor a fund-raising road block for the Arthritis Foundation, Saturday, Oct. 1.

Job Corps Student Government Association President James Frazier, serving as the Chairman for the road block, announced that the fund raising effort will be conducted at the Mountain Parkway intersection and the Jenny Wiley Entrance intersection from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Certificates from Druthers, for free french fries, will be given to the first 100 motorists making a contribution to the Arthritis Foundation.

"The goal is $700. Money received from the road block will go toward the overall Arthritis program of education, treatment, and research", says Burieta Gearheart, Floyd county chairman.

Knott Man's Invention Money-Saver for DOT

(From The Troublesome Creek Times)

A Hindman resident who works for the state Transportation Cabinet, has been recognized for an invention that has saved his department thousands of dollars.

State highway ditch work in the Pikeville district is going a lot faster because of the "Perkbill," according to a recent edition of "Kyote," the Transportation Cabinet's employees newspaper.

Named for its inventor, maintenance engineer Gordon Perkins, the "Perkbill" attaches to the end of a blade on road equipment and allows the operator to grade the shoulder and simultaneously cut a ditch bed at a greater angle.

"It cuts a uniform ditch and lets the operator cut the ditch and shoulder in one pass," Perkins said.

It also allows the operator to keep both grader tires on the pavement, reducing flats caused by running over roadside debris.

Perkins had the first "Perkbill" made from an old grader blade. It's now used in all seven counties in District 12, headquartered at Pikeville.

Perkins' invention also won him $2,500 from the Employee Suggestion System, which rewards state employees for cost-saving ideas.

The "Perkbill" saved the state $162,000 last year, according to the Transportation Department.

Honored at Family Reunion

Mrs. Alice Helton Hackworth is pictured above with her children, who honored her at the Hackworth-Helton reunion, recently. In front row, from left, are Mrs. Dorothy Sue Elrod, Mrs. Hackworth, and Mrs. Delphia Hicks. In middle row, from left, are Robie and Harry Hackworth, and in back, from left, are Rebel, Lloyd, and Charles Hackworth.

The children of Mrs. Alice Helton Hackworth and the late Harry Hackworth, honored their mother with a buffet dinner at Clark Elementary School, Saturday, August 13. All seven of Mrs. Hackworth's children, 23 of her 26 grandchildren, and six of her seven great-grandchildren were present as well as many friends and relatives.

Mrs. Delphia Hicks welcomed guests and read a tribute, written by the children, paying honor to parents who gave their children not only life, but love, and love of life. Those parents taught their children honor, honesty, respect and love for their fellow man. Mrs. Hicks remembered her father who passed away June 20, 1953, and praised him for the legacy he left his children. Mrs. Hackworth was given a white orchid by her children, and was praised for raising her children alone and was said to have the wisdom of Solomon, the patience of a saint, and had served as the "Lighthouse" during the storms of life for her children as well as her grandchildren.

Mrs. Hackworth and her children paid respects to their father by placing a basket of flowers on his grave on Saturday afternoon.

Hosting the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Rebel Hackworth, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hicks, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hackworth, all of Prestonsburg, Ky.; Col. and Mrs. Robie Hackworth, of Madison, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hackworth, of Southampton, Mass.; Lloyd Hackworth, of Granby, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. James Elrod, of Warsaw, Indiana.

Grandchildren and great-grandchildren attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hackworth and Michael, Mrs. Paul Stanley, Paul, Miranda, and Jason, Mr. and Mrs. Derek Hicks and Greta, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stephens and Brian, Linda Carol, Lora, Jill, and Michael Hackworth, all of Prestonsburg; Mrs. Randy Lowe, of Selma, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. John Fogle, of London; Ben and Robin Hackworth, of Madison, Ala.; Lisa, Alison, Brian, Stacy, and Troy Hackworth, of Southampton, Mass.; Paul and Marie Hackworth, of Granby, Mass.; Michelle, Christopher, Alisha, and Derek Elrod, of Warsaw, Indiana.

Other guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Helton, Mrs. Lula Cornett, Mrs. Pearl Nelson, Mrs. Dean Cornett, Alicia, Bryant, and Rhonda, Mrs. Vickie Poe, Larry and Charlotte, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hackworth and Anthony, Mrs. David Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Hackworth, Richard and Donna, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Dotson, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Dotson and Tammy, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hicks, David, Craig, and Jeffrey, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hackworth, Jerry Hackworth, Mrs. Randy Hunsucker and Suzanne, Miss Myrtle Pugsley, Mrs. Roma Barnes, Mrs. Julia Ousley, Mrs. Minerva Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hicks and Joey, Mr. and Mrs. Hobert Helton and children, Marshall Davidson, Miss Kim Walker, all of the Prestonsburg area; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hall, of Portsmouth, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Helton, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Helton, Lori and Lisa, of Wheatfield, Ind.; Mrs. Margaret Helton, of Warsaw, Ind.; Mrs. Susie Bolin, of Mentone, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cornett and Mr. and Mrs. Emzy Cornett and grandsons, Ryan and Aaron Taylor, of Florida; Mr. and Mrs. Evert Hale, of Ashland; Miss Cathy Stolarczyk, of Montgomery, Ala.; Alan Shaw, of Granby, Massachusetts; Mr. and Mrs. Bev Hackworth, of Ada, Ohio; Mrs. Sue Denver, of Westerfield, Ohio.

Thirty-one members of the Hackworth family ended their four-day get-together with a country breakfast, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hicks, on Sunday morning, August 14.

Annual Workshop Held For Retired Teachers

The annual fall workshop for Kentucky Retired teachers of this area was conducted at May Lodge, Sept. 15, with the K.R.T.A. president, M.L. Archer, presiding.

During the morning, a general session was held. The president told the group that K.R.T.A. membership compares well with that of other states, and offered suggestions on how state and local retired teachers' organizations may be strengthened. He told of some of the services provided by the recent merger of K.R.T.A. and the American Association of Retired Persons (A.A.R.P.), and introduced Ted Crosthwait as the director of the latter organization for this state. Mr. Crosthwait spoke briefly, and told the group that Woodrow Taylor, formerly of this county, is presently national chairman of the board for the A.A.R.P.

Dr. Marvin Dodson, executive director of K.R.T.A., spoke on topics of general interest to the group, and distributed packets to be used during the afternoon. Mike Auxier, of Emma, who works with K.R.T.A. officials in Frankfort, discussed the need for increases to be put into effect soon in the AETNA Insurance program, and offered options for bringing this about.

Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, President of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' Association, and Mrs. May K. Roberts, chairman of the luncheon for this event, welcomed members and guests into the dining room, where a buffet was enjoyed.

Two group meetings were held during the afternoon. During the meeting on Legislation, Membership, and Program Planning, conducted by M.L. Archer, Dr. Dodson, and Ted Crosthwait, a list of proposals for the 1984 legislative program was discussed, and at the meeting on insurance Jack Gardner, Alma Gardner, Amy Braden and Robert Hicks explained the benefits to be derived from various insurance policies held by retired teachers.

Attending the workshop and the luncheon, and the counties they represented were: Norma S. Stepp, May K. Roberts, Minnie Grace Sutherland, Opal S. May, Goldia S. Williams, Virginia S. Goble, Eva Hale, Harmison Hale, Wilma Montgomery; Billie Little, Irene Tuttle, Sarah Laven, and Roszella Lewis, Floyd; Lydia Meade, Lenora H. Gullett, Enia L. Ward, Russell Boyd, Ruby Hinkle, Ellen Dutton, Henly Dutton, V.P. ★ Cancer Hopeline

Q. My husband has cancer, and I'm grateful his future looks good. But as he gets better, I'm feeling worse. No one realizes the stress I'm under. I'm angry at good people, even my husband, and then I feel guilty about the anger. Can you help me?

A. According to Marilyn Oberst, Director of Nursing at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York, you have a very common problem. Living with cancer is very hard, but living with the changes someone else's cancer brings to one's lifestyle may be even more difficult.

In the early stages of diagnosis and cancer treatment, the well spouse and all medical staff, relatives, and friends work hard to keep the patient's spirits up. That's good and necessary, but the well spouse also needs support. However, the pattern is set, and all caring is focused on the patient. The well spouse is expected to bear up, somehow. Such expectations by the patient, family, friends, and even the well spouse him/herself adds to the pressure and feeling of isolation. As you've said, as the patient improves, the spouse may even feel worse.

The only way to counteract the situation is to express your needs for support. It is likely that others do not realize how you feel and what they can do about it. Tell them. Sharing any burden, physical or emotional, eases it for all concerned. Good communication, which involves careful listening without judging, is vital to any relationship. It becomes even more important when there is a burden like cancer.

Honestly and lovingly telling your husband of your fears, your worry, your plain weariness may be a great relief to him. Perhaps he has interpreted your strength as a sign of hardness. Share feelings and gain support from each other. If he is unable to be supportive, other family members, friends, or professional counselors are possibilities. There are support groups in some communities which may also be helpful.

Likewise, be open with friends and relatives about dealing with cancer. When they ask what they can do to help, tell them your needs—staying with your husband, mowing the grass, grocery shopping, fixing a meal, mailing a letter. People like to help others, but no one wants to interfere, so it's up to you to convey your needs clearly.

The Hopeline has a fine brochure that deals with communication: "Taking Time: Support for Cancer Patients and Those Who Care for Them." It's free by calling toll free 1-800-4-CANCER from 9-5 weekdays, or write for it at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40503. Counselors are also there to listen and to help. Of course, all calls are confidential.

RR SIGNALS, BELLS TO BE INSTALLED

The state Transportation Cabinet will be installing railroad warning devices in Floyd county.

Flashing light signals and bells will be installed at C&O Railway crossings at the following locations:

KY 7, Topmost-Lackey Road, near the Knott county line, and on KY 1428, Martin-Allen Road, at Martin.

Installing the warning devices will cost an estimated $90,000.

Columbia Manager Claims Gas Costs To Moderate

The cost of natural gas to Columbia Gas of Kentucky customers is beginning to stabilize after steep increases in the past three years, according to Larry E. Cameron, Prestonsburg manager for the company.

"Beginning next year, we expect gas cost increases to be quite moderate, less than 10 percent a year, including inflation," Cameron said. "Without inflation, we project only single-digit increases in actual gas cost. We no longer see annual increases of 20 percent or more."

"This is good news for our current customers and potential customers who are looking for the most economical energy form," Cameron said. "The leveling of gas costs coupled with the availability of high-efficiency natural gas equipment means the best energy value for residential and other types of customers we serve."

Cameron said that steps taken by Columbia over the past two years to reduce gas costs will begin to reflect in customers' bills during the next few months and will continue in coming years. "At the same time, we have been able to assure abundant supplies for both the short-term and long-term needs of all customers."

"We believe that any prospective gas user who looks closely at the facts will become convinced that natural gas is the way to go in the years ahead," Cameron said. "The cost will remain very competitive and there's no question about gas' efficiency and cleanliness."

Among improved gas equipment, Cameron said newly developed residential furnaces provide operating efficiencies up to 97 percent, even at sub-freezing temperatures.

Apple Fest To Have Bluegrass Festival

The Kentucky Apple Festival announced this week that several top names in Bluegrass music had signed to appear during the Kentucky Apple Festival, to be held in Paintsville, Friday, Sept. 30, and Saturday, Oct. 1. Headlining the talent scheduled to appear are the Osborne Brothers, stars of the Grand Ole Opry, Ralph Stanley and the Clinch Mountain Boys, Doyle Lawson and Quicksilver, the Johnson Mountain Boys, the Goins Brothers, the Outdoor Plumbing Company, and Redwing.

The festival will be held in Mayo Bottom, beside Mayo Plaza Shopping Center and adjacent to the U.S. 23 bypass. In addition to musical entertainment, free camping is offered to those attending the Kentucky Apple Festival. The festival and camp grounds are within easy walking distance of all Apple Festival events.

Also featured for the first time this year will be a Bluegrass Band contest, with the first place band receiving a $300 cash prize and the privilege of playing on Saturday night's show. The Band contest will be held Friday evening.

Another new feature will be an open stage, each day of the festival, so that other musicians who are so inclined will have the opportunity to perform at the festival.

The "S" in Harry S Truman is not an abbreviation—it is Truman's complete middle name.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 436-0111

(1) In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Industrial Fuels Corporation, P.O. Box 2687, Pikeville, Ky., has filed an application for a permit for a surface coal mining and reclamation operation of approximately 200 acres located 3/4 mile southwest in Floyd county.

(2) The proposed operation is approximately 2 miles southwest from State Rt. 1426 junction with U.S. 23 and located on Stratton Branch of Big Sandy River. The latitude is 37° 34' 34". The longitude is 82° 09' 53". The surface area is owned by Ray Campbell, John M. Stumbo, Cecil B. Hall, John Burchett, Hazie Boyd, Jerry Hall, heirs, Ellis Hall, Benny Akers, Junior Conn, Sandra and Jay Budziszewski.

(3) The proposed operation is located on the Harold, Ky. U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The operation will use the mountain top removal method of mining.

The application also includes a proposed land use change from the forestland pre-mining land use to a combination forestland and pastureland post-mining land use.

(4) The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 421 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. 9-28-83.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Over-the-counter drugs are probably called into play more often in treating the common cold than with any other diseases. The public is asked to buy any number of treatments, all of which, are usually a combination of remedies. With these "shotgun" mixtures, it is hoped that enough cold symptoms can be dealt with so as to make life bearable again. The primary component of such cold remedies is usually an analgesic, such as aspirin, to relieve aches and pains. Secondly, an antihistamine will often be included in an attempt to relieve mucous congestion. A belladonna may be included to help reduce the dripping from mucous tissue. A decongestant can be present as well as vitamin C. None amounts to a cure for the cold but they do offer symptomatic relief.

There is no magical cure for the common cold, but there are many different medications on the market that can help relieve your symptoms. Ask us here at COOLEY APOTHECARY to suggest something for you, and chances are you'll feel better. We don't play doctor, but we do render assistance and offer alternatives to a problem. We also carry convalescent items. VISA and Mastercard welcome. Located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., where we're open Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30; Sat., 9-4. 886-8106.

LOG HOME FOR SALE

Beautiful log home of hand-hewn yellow poplar, located in a head-of-hollow setting offering privacy and solitude while only 10 minutes from Prestonsburg or Paintsville. On 20 acres, more or less (it's more), this 2,800 sq. ft. house is hand-crafted throughout with many unique features. House has three bedrooms, one-and-a-half baths, large living room and dining room, screened-in porch at rear, full-length front porch, city water, fine t.v. cable service, well, central heat and air-conditioning. (Large wood stove and hand-cut stone fireplace provide adequate heat during much of the winter months.) Large, rough lumber outbuilding. Land offers plenty of timber for the woodcutter and more than enough garden space.

The house and setting are a rare combination in one of the cleanest and most scenic areas of Floyd county. (House was subject of a recent feature story which appeared on both Huntington and Lexington television.)

For appointment to see call 886-8834. (Keep trying—someone's bound to answer sooner or later.) Please, no curiosity calls.

A wild rabbit's first line of defense against a predator is to lie flat on the ground and remain absolutely still, says International Wildlife magazine. If that doesn't work, a wild rabbit can jump a distance of at least eight feet, clear obstacles five feet high, and reach speeds of more than 40 miles an hour.
