

US 23 Lives Up to Its Reputation

US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville has long had the "death-trap" reputation because of frequent rockslides from high, unterraced cliffs onto the highway. Photo shows what may have been its worst slide which occurred around noon Saturday, with a portion of the cliff opposite American Standard, near Paintsville, collapsing and sending tons of rock across both lanes of the road. The fact that the heavy morning traffic had thinned down by mid-day may have prevented loss of life or injury. Before a highway crew could clear the road, traffic was backed up a distance of two miles, it was said.

One motorist, Mrs. Marcella Bailey, of Langley, who passed the spot only minutes before the slide occurred, was so shaken that she immediately planned petitions to be sent to Governor Collins urging prompt state action to remove the years-long threat to life and property.

This slide was followed by another, near Auxier, late Monday. The second slide was described as heavy but "nothing to compare with the first."

Hyden Named After Lafferty Quits Trial Post

Prestonsburg used-auto dealer Jack Hyden was sworn in Dec. 26 as Floyd District Court trial commissioner, following the resignation a week earlier of Thomas D. Lafferty, Sr.

In a Dec. 19 letter to District Judge Harold J. Stumbo, Lafferty said he was resigning from the position he has held since August, 1983, on account of his recent indictment by a circuit court grand jury on five counts of theft by deception.

The former county official said he was confident he would be cleared of the charges but felt his continuing to serve as trial commissioner in the meantime "might be questioned."

Hyden, a lifelong Prestonsburg resident and well-known Republican, said Judge Stumbo's choosing him for the post complimented both him and the judge himself. "It shows he wants to run the best office he can, regardless of politics," he explained.

Akers, Others Ask U.S. Court For Mine Delay

A Martin landowner is among five eastern Kentucky residents who have asked a federal judge to stop the state from issuing stripmine permits in cases involving disputes over broadform deeds.

Everett Akers, of Finance Hollow, and others from Knott, Letcher and Leslie counties argue in a suit filed Dec. 20 in U.S. District Court in Frankfort that the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet has no business issuing permits before state courts have resolved outstanding property disputes.

It is the second time a Floyd property owner has gone to court to test the state's administration of a broadform deed law enacted by the 1984 General Assembly and effective since July 13. Maggie Taylor, of Martin, and her son Marion filed suit in Franklin Circuit Court in August after Natural Resources issued Triple Elkhorn Mining Co. a permit to strip two Stumbo Hollow tracts on which the coal rights are in dispute.

The controversy between the property owners and the Cabinet stems from (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Former Manager Of MCCC Office Wants Job Back

The former office manager at the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center here went to court last week in an effort to get her old job back.

In a suit filed in Floyd Circuit Court, Patsy Lester said she worked in the mental health agency's Prestonsburg office from March, 1971 to September, 1983, when M.C.C.C. Executive Director David E. Bell, Jr. gave her two weeks' notice.

After she appealed the firing to a grievance panel, which ordered her reinstated, Bell transferred her to the agency's Salyersville office as a senior secretary at the same $11,000 annual salary.

The transfer was actually a demotion and was in retaliation for her having taken her case before the grievance panel, Mrs. Lester claims in her suit. In being transferred, she was denied a raise that would have come to her as office manager here, and she also has to pay more in travel expenses, she said.

Plaintiff seeks reinstatement to her old position and $39,060 in compensatory damages. She claims she is also entitled to $250,000 in punitive damages and asks for a further $276,515 in the event the agency "retaliates" as a result of her present suit.

(Claims made in filing suit give only one side of the issue in dispute.)

First Guaranty Bank Gets National Charter

The First Guaranty Bank at Martin has a new name with the receipt Dec. 17 of its national charter.

The bank, which has operated since May, 1946 as a state bank, is now the First Guaranty National Bank. It is the only national banking institution in Floyd county, the First National here having earlier changed its status and name to the First Commonwealth Bank.

First Guaranty National will continue to operate with the same officers and directors.

Grand Jury Names Pike Man On Murder Bills after Wreck

Eighteen indictments considered by the Floyd Circuit Court grand jury in its November session were handed down shortly before Christmas. One of the true bills names a Pike county man on two counts of murder, resulting from an auto accident at Harold.

Consideration of the indictments was interrupted in November when one of the jurors was excused to have a baby. The session was reconvened Dec. 18 to conclude its business.

Charged with murder in the deaths of a Dayton, Ohio couple was Elmer Ratliff, 35, of Shelbiana. The true bill alleges he was drunk when he ran, head-on, into a car occupied by Steven E. Perkins and Brenda Faye Perkins on U.S. 23 on Oct. 6.

Named on an arson charge was Randall Jerry Burke, who is said to have burned the home of Aileen Spears on

'Nice Christmas Gift'...

Split Vote Cuts Road Crew by 17

"Nice Christmas gift," a bystander remarked bitterly, as the fiscal court voted Dec. 20 to lay off more than half the county's road workers.

While the magistrates grumbled about being asked to play Scrooge—and Magistrates Kenneth Roberts and Gerald DeRossett voted against the layoffs—Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said the end-of-year staff cuts resulted from a decision they had all earlier agreed to.

In April, when the 1984-'85 budget was being prepared, the judge reminded his colleagues, they voted to employ a full road crew for six months rather than a reduced crew for 12 months. (In fact, even the workers laid off Jan. 1 seem likely to work 9½ months this fiscal year.)

Magistrate Ed Caudill acknowledged the earlier choice, though he vowed he would "never vote to do it again." And Magistrate Lowell Samons conceded, "If we don't have the money, we don't have any choice." Judge Stumbo joined them to carry the motion, which called on each magistrate to name two workers—a heavy equipment operator and a truck driver—to be kept on the payroll, the rest to be let go.

Districts 1 and 2 each normally employ six road workers, with the third and fourth districts employing five each. Seven more make up the usual staff at the county garage. The cuts which became effective yesterday (Tuesday) and will remain in effect until March 15 reduced the normal staff from 29 to 12.

Those retained are: Bill E. Morgan and Gary Blackburn, District 1; Phillip Hagans and Martin L. Vanderpool, District 2; Ray Hill and Ronald Mullins, District 3; Troy Jarrell and Linzie Conn, Jr., District 4; and Sam Fitzpatrick, Shelly Woods, Mike McCormick and Bernard Martin, county garage.

Nov. 8. Greg Ward was indicted for assault, the grand jury alleging he injured John Tracy Stumbo when he intentionally threw a rock at a school bus on Nov. 1.

Burglary charges were voted against Chester Dale Cobb for allegedly stealing property worth $3000 or more from Joel Stumbo's residence and cash and a holster from the Cosmic Cowboy, a Betsy Layne nightclub, and for allegedly breaking into the Parker, Inc. store at Betsy Layne, in September.

Also facing burglary charges are Randy Crisp and James Mullins, said to have stolen a stereo cassette player from Highland Mobile Homes on Oct. 7; James Curry, Jr., for allegedly stealing a rifle from the home of Geneva Martin on May 1; and Randy Hall, of Tackett Fork of Mud Creek, accused of stealing (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

This Town...That World

A happy New Year!

The picture this first day of a new year:

The New Year 1985 in the form of a young child, lightly clad, dewy-fresh, coming onto the scene as the Old Year fades into the shadows where waits Father Time to claim them both.

If supply and demand govern prices, wouldn't be surprised if the cost of bromo hasn't risen overnight.

CONGRATULATIONS TO EVERYBODY

Let me not forget to congratulate the youngsters, the Police Department, all concerned on the quiet that pervaded this town at Christmas. I've been around here for quite a spell, and this was the first Christmas I can recall when the community and countryside did not have a battlefield atmosphere, with giant firecrackers and the like making the holiday unholy. What say?—let's be civilized again, next Christmas, too.

MAKING THE ROUNDS

Neighbor George Brown has this to say about useless gifts at Christmas:

"I can remember when one such gift, called Monkey-on-a-String, made the rounds for as long as four years, the first youngster receiving it giving it the next Christmas to someone else, and its travels continuing each Christmas till it (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Judge Weighs Admission Of Mock Murder Evidence

If an expert witness can convince him the test is valid, he will probably allow a jury to see a videotaped experiment in which shots were fired at a mock human skull, Floyd Circuit Judge Hollie Conley told attorneys Monday during a hearing held in preparation for next week's trial of Randall Frasure and Linda Wilson on murder charges.

Frasure is charged with shooting Larry Wilson on May 29, 1983 at the Buck's Branch home of Linda Wilson, the victim's former wife. Mrs. Wilson has been charged as an accomplice. Their trial is scheduled to begin next Monday.

At issue in a pre-trial hearing was the admissibility of a videotape recording of an experiment designed by the prosecution to support its own version of events the day of the alleged murder. The test purported to show how blood and tissue would be distributed if the victim was shot from a particular angle.

While the Commonwealth contends that Wilson was deliberately shot at point-blank range while he was disabled, the defense is expected to argue that Frasure was attempting to ward off an attack by Wilson when the gun in his (Frasure's) hand accidentally discharged. The angle from which the gun was fired is a key element in each side's argument.

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said showing the movie was necessary "in order to show the jury what happened." But Paul F. Burchett, representing Frasure, said it "can only prejudice and inflame the jury." And Michael Fleet Johnson, who is Mrs. Wilson's attorney, called the reenactment "gruesome, terrible."

Johnson, a Pikeville lawyer, said the fact that a different gun and shells were used in the experiment than were used in the actual shooting—together with the differences between the dummy skull and a real human head—made the experiment of no value as evidence.

Dr. David Wolfe, the forensic anthropologist who advised prosecutors on the experiment and interpreted its results, is scheduled to attend a further pre-trial hearing Friday. If Wolfe can convince him the test is valid, he will probably allow the videotape to be admitted into evidence, Judge Conley said.

Nine Arrested In Disturbance At Center Here

Rumors of a "riot" early Monday morning at the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center here may have been a bit of an exaggeration, but, nonetheless, a disturbance there resulted in the arrest of nine students after the entire Prestonsburg police force and several fire department members showed up at the scene.

Although there was reportedly no physical contact made between police and students and no property damage, a tense situation apparently developed at the center following a dispute among a group of students around 1 a.m. Monday.

According to a statement by center director Kermit Berry, four students who had purchased firecrackers locally began discharging them inside the building disturbing other students trying to sleep. Tempers flared and the ensuing disturbance prompted center personnel to call police officers.

Police Sergeants Greg Hall and Gerald Clark, and Patrolman Paul Auxier responded to the call but, according to a press release from the Prestonsburg Police Department, "police and staff personnel were unable to control the students, who were shooting fireworks inside the building and becoming more and more disorderly." The officers then left the building after contacting Center Director Berry and Police Chief Stan Fletcher.

Chief Fletcher then activated 25 police officers "to contain the outside perimeter of the Job Corps building until the center director could arrive from his home in Paintsville," according to the police report.

Berry and a number of police officers entered the building and Berry said he "rounded up the students (some 50 who have remained at the (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Officials, Citizens Plan To Improve Schools

School board members, other officials and planners of the "town forum" held here last November as part of a statewide discussion of the schools were photographed together shortly before Christmas.

While the Nov. 15 meeting drew a crowd that surprised many observers and pleased organizers, a follow-up meeting scheduled this month will be the "real test of commitment," said Mrs. Jean Rosenberg, a member of the group which sponsored the forums in almost all the state's school districts.

In preparation for the Jan. 15 meeting at Martin Elementary School, a planning meeting is being held tomorrow (Thursday), at the Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg, starting at 7 p.m. Other planning sessions are being scheduled in the Left and Right Beaver, Allen and Betsy Layne sections.

Season's Greetings

Dec. 18, 1984

"Old Homestead"
By Frankie Sue Best

Greetings to all in the name of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ whose birthday we celebrate! Peace on earth and good will to men—happiness fills the air! Wouldn't it be wonderful if this spirit of the season could prevail all year long? Yes, the Christmas spirit every day!

This day, eight years ago, my only son, Stephen, went to be with the Lord. It seems like yesterday, but as time has gone by, and I have had so much time to think and pray, I more than ever realize it is God's plan—we are born, we live, and we go on to live through eternity. All that really matters is our relationship to our Lord. If we have put our trust in Him, we can rejoice when we go to meet Him.

During the past year, I have spent many hours painting landscapes from "snapshots," as I cannot get out of the apartment much. I use "acrylics" as my medium for painting, whereas my son Stephen "painted with words". As in Christmas past, I have shared one of Steve's poems with you in remembrance of him. This year's poem, you will agree, is truly a "painting in words". It was written while on a visit with a very dear friend in Wisconsin. Now sit back in your easy chair and enjoy his "Portrait".

PORTRAIT

An empty cup was filled beyond emptying
By the presence of one who passed
Through the hills of my being, and went away.

Two rooms and a piece of another;
A couch and a chair and a bed and a bookcase.
The last well filled and well loved;
An old wire-spool for a table; and
Windows open to the cold North air.

A cobbled-up phonograph and the sounds of Kristoffersen,
And of the Stanley Brothers singing Hillbilly Hymns;
Little gifts, innately worthless,
That riches can't buy; and
Windows open to the cold North air.

A cat in the process of becoming a family of cats
(Damn, what a bitchy cat);
A folk guitar and a classical viola; two radios,
One perpetually tuned to Station WSM in Nashville;
Coconut oil and peppermint soap on the sink; and
Windows open to the cold North air.

An old car that runs somewhat when not broken down;
A Bible, and a Young Lords poster on the wall;
Long flannel nightgowns and very mini-skirts, and
A thick Navy pea-coat to banish the wind;
A sleeping bag and a pack in the closet; and
Windows open to the cold North air.

Homemade jewelry and homemade soap,
(that, I have doubts about, having seen the ingredients);
Good wine, cold beer, a bottle of vodka;
Candles and incense and feather pillows; and
Windows open to the cold North air.

Simple foods of smallish portions, diet dressings
And white chocolate candy; Sparkling glasses
And proper goblets, soap on the bottom of a pan (guess why!)
An old pair of boots and no tranquilizers; and
Windows open to the cold North air.

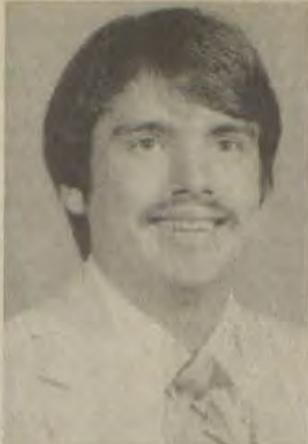

What is done?
What is said at the loss of living's leaven,
When a bit of one's surroundings goes away?

I hope 1984 was a good year for each of you and that in 1985 all your aspirations will become a reality.

He will be working at Southwestern till May, when he will be married.

Drunk Driving Increasing, Report After Survey

On the eve of Christmas and New Year's celebrations, a time when people generally imbibe more alcohol than usual, comes sobering news: the latest Reader's Digest-Gallup Survey finds that the number of Americans who drink and drive is on the rise.

Despite recent intense efforts to discourage drinking and driving, including stiffer penalties, more people report they have driven under the influence (20 percent) today than when Gallup posed the question in 1982 (16 percent). Equally disturbing: in followup interviews with survey respondents, a surprising number of people insisted they are better drivers "after they've had a few." Reader's Digest reports in its January issue.

In addition to those who admit to drinking and driving, another 15 percent of respondents report drunk driving by someone else in their family.

The survey, based on a self-administered questionnaire completed by 979 drinkers out of a sample of 1,516 adult Americans, was conducted for Reader's Digest by The Gallup Organization during the period June 29-July 2, 1984.

Other survey findings:
—The same percentage of Americans (65 percent) drink alcoholic beverages as did last year. That figure is the lowest recorded at any time since 1969.

—While a majority of Americans (55 percent) say their consumption of alcohol hasn't changed much during the past five years, a sizeable portion of the public (29 percent) say they have cut back, and only 11 percent say they drink more today than five years ago. In the 18-to-29 age group, 21 percent have increased their consumption during this period.

—Nine percent of families interviewed report that at least one family member has sought professional or medical help to overcome a drinking problem. However, only 45 percent of persons whose drinking has caused serious trouble in their lives have sought such assistance.

Small Business Firms Ripped Off, Says GSA

Firms using questionable tactics are taking advantage of many unsuspecting small businesses by charging up to $36 for bidder's mailing list applications and other publications which can be obtained free of charge from the General Services Administration and other federal agencies. These questionable tactics include use of reproduced U.S. government forms and printing a name and logo on their letter-head that gives the appearance the firm is somehow associated with the federal government.

This same service, offered in much greater detail by the General Services Administration (GSA), Business Service Center, 75 Spring Street, S.W., Atlanta, GA 30303, telephone 404/221-5103. Trained counselors, familiar with government purchasing requirements, are available to assist business people and steer them in the right direction so they can take advantage of contracting opportunities available in the federal government. Similar Business Service Centers are located in 11 other regional offices across the country. The idea is to provide a place where the business representative can get professional assistance with one phone call or visit.

Donald F. Layfield, GSA regional administrator in Atlanta, said GSA buys more than 600,000 different items each year and spends approximately $5 billion doing it. This means there are business opportunities for all types of firms. Competition is the "name of the game."

"Interesting" and "different" were the words the new trial commissioner used to describe his first few days in office. "I've always been a salesman," he said. "This is a new ballgame for me."

Nor does he see it as an interim appointment. "But if I find I don't have the ability for it," he said, "I'll be the first one to tell the judge."

An attorney representing Lafferty and his son, Thomas D. Lafferty, Jr., who was indicted on six counts of theft by deception, filed motions on Dec. 19 seeking dismissal of the charges. The two men were among 16, including three fiscal court magistrates, indicted Dec. 18 by a grand jury which considered a state police report on financial practices under the 1982 Floyd county administration. The 16 are scheduled for arraignment at 1 p.m. on Jan. 11.

PARTY HAT

My hat went without me to a party, New Year's Eve. It was part of the costume Dickie Jarvis put together, complete with zoot-suit, cigar in the best Edward G. Robinson fashion, and so on, all to appear as a gangster, circa 1920.

When I first got this lid, it struck me as maybe a bit too much, or something. Even I suspected that the brim might be too wide, but the old noggin with its lack of natural protection had to have some cover, and so I wore it—to work, to church, on trips, everywhere but fishing.

And now comes this youngster to pick from all the hundreds of hats in this town this one headpiece to make of himself a reasonable replica of a gun-totin', cigar-chompin' mobster... see?

So that's why horses shy and dogs cringe and growl when I and the hat approach with the best intentions in the world.

ON THE DOWNGRADE

The following, of anonymous origin, comes from The Farmers' Almanac: You know you're growing old when... Everything hurts and what doesn't hurt doesn't work.

The gleam in your eyes is from the sun hitting your bifocals.

You feel like the night before and you haven't been anywhere.

Your little black book contains only names ending in M.D.

You get winded playing chess.

Your children begin to look middle aged.

You join a health club and don't go. You begin to outlive enthusiasm.

Your mind makes contracts your body can't meet.

You know all the answers, but nobody asks the questions.

You look forward to a dull evening.

Your favorite part of the newspaper is "25 years ago today."

You sit in a rocking chair and can't get it going.

Your knees buckle and your belt won't.

You're 17 around the neck and 42 around the waist.

You stop looking forward to your next birthday.

Dialing long distance wears you out.

Your back goes out more than you do.

The fortune teller offers to read your face.

You turn out the light for economic reasons rather than romantic ones.

You remember today, that yesterday was your wedding anniversary.

You are startled the first time you are addressed as "old timer".

You burn the midnight oil after 9 p.m.

You sink your teeth into a steak and they stay there.

Your pacemaker makes the garage door go up when you see a pretty girl walk by.

You get your exercise acting as a pallbearer for your friends who exercise.

You get too much room in the house and not enough room in the medicine cabinet.

The best part of your day is over when your alarm goes off.

a new law restricting the mining methods that can be used to extract coal leased under turn-of-the-century broadform deeds. Under the new law, unless the deeds explicitly allow modern mining methods, coal operators must get permission from the surface owners before stripping, augering or removing a mountaintop.

Even where disputes over broadform deeds remain unresolved, however, Gov. Martha Layne Collins and the Natural Resources Cabinet have declined to withhold stripmining permits, arguing that it is not the state's responsibility to adjudicate property disputes.

Akers and the other plaintiffs contend that, while the Cabinet should not decide property disputes, neither should it issue permits until such disputes have been decided by state courts.

The 1977 federal surface-mining law "is explicit in requiring that the determination of the right to mine in such situations be made before the permit issuance by the agency," they say in their suit, which accuses the state of "a flagrant and systematic violation" of federal law.

Named as defendants in the suit are Natural Resources Secretary Charlotte Baldwin and Robert Knarr, commissioner of the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement. Plaintiffs, beside Akers, are Joe Begley, of Blackey in Letcher county; Chalmer and Rose Marie Hicks, of Emmalena (Knott county); and Joe Whitaker, of Avawam (Leslie county). All five plaintiffs have objected to stripmining of their land under broadform deeds, their suit says.

The suit seeks an injunction requiring the state to review its permits to make sure coal operators have provided proof they have a legal right to mine. The court should require the state to stop any mining of land under permits that involve an ongoing dispute over property rights, the suit adds.

Akers, Begley and Whitaker are represented in the action by Frankfort attorney Joe F. Childers. The Hickses are represented by Thomas J. Fitzgerald, of Frankfort, and David Rubenstein, director of the Prestonsburg office of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky, Inc.

Reason for Juror Change Explained

A rumor repeated in the Dec. 19 issue regarding the replacement of Dewey Martin on the Floyd Circuit Court grand jury before its Dec. 18 session is without foundation. Martin has informed The Times. The reason he asked to be excused before the grand jury considered a state police report on alleged irregularities in Floyd county government in 1982, he said, was because he had a "preconceived opinion that would make it difficult for (him) to be impartial" and not because he had worked in the political campaign of anyone under investigation.

Martin is a state Dept. of Mines inspector. As a state worker, he is prohibited by law from working in any political campaign and has never done so, he said.

Homes In Darkness, As Auto Downs Pole

Sections of the city and parts of Middle Creek were plunged into darkness for several hours Christmas Day, after an 18-year-old Pike county motorist struck a utility pole and brought down power lines.

Daniel Boone Boyd was charged with drunk driving and having neither license nor insurance. He was lodged that night in the Floyd county jail, ordered to perform a day of public service, and to pay $257.50 in fine and court costs.

Boyd's car was said to have struck a fire hydrant before careening into the utility pole at the corner of Arnold Avenue and Patton Street, around 7 p.m., Dec. 25.

center through the Christmas holidays) and told them to go to bed," which, he said, they did. In the meantime police arrested the nine students believed to be the instigators of the disturbance, charging them with disorderly conduct.

Some objections were voiced concerning an alleged overreaction in the show of police force, the presence of the fire truck and the fact that some officers were armed with riot shotguns, but Chief Fletcher maintained that his responsibility was "to protect property and avoid injury to all parties involved."

"There are many ways to handle a situation," he stated, "but in Prestonsburg we do it our way."

Fire Chief Tom Blackburn said the fire truck was dispatched in case fire had resulted from the shooting of the firecrackers.

Center Director Berry commented: "Chief Fletcher and I have an outstanding working relationship, which I'm sure will continue. I appreciate his concerns and caring attitude about the center although there may be times we disagree on methodology."

The nine students remained in the Floyd county jail Monday.

U. of K. Seminars Here Said First Outside Bluegrass

A three-day seminar, sponsored by the University of Kentucky College of Business and scheduled next month at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, will represent the first such session to be held outside the Central Kentucky area and is seen as an initial step in a new UK program which seeks to expand educational services throughout the Commonwealth.

The seminar, set for February 7, 8, and 9, and entitled "Management Skills for Productivity," was announced this week by Jon Shepard, associate dean for services and development at UK's College of Business and Economics.

"The idea," said Shepard, "is transporting services of UK and the business college throughout the state." Shepard said "these services shouldn't be limited to just the Central Kentucky area," explaining that similar seminars have previously been conducted only in the Lexington-Louisville area.

That the initial "kick-off" for the new educational program will be in Prestonsburg was not a result of chance, Shepard explained. He said considerable enthusiasm for the idea had been expressed in the Prestonsburg area and Shepard has been working closely with Rob Schissler, Prestonsburg-Floyd County Area Chamber of Commerce, as well as Terry Dotson, of Worldwide Equipment in contacting local businesses and explaining the program.

Two additional seminars will be held March 14, 15 and 16, and May 16, 17, and 18, at Jenny Wiley, it was said.

"In conjunction with these seminars we'd like to take our placement services out and contact employers throughout the state," Shepard pointed out. "In this way we would hope to arrange such things as internships and other employer-employee relationships."

LETTERS To the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writer, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

Test of Commitment

On the night of November 15th, Floyd County made history. Its citizens showed, to the surprise of some and to the delight of many, that they care about the quality of education in their county. They also showed that they care about more than just sports and extra-curricular events. Considering the size of our county, we had one of the best turn-outs for the Prichard Town Meeting in the state. We can be proud of that.

Over a month has passed since the Town Forum was held at Allen Central High School.

Now begins the real test of that commitment. We are in the process of organizing the follow-up meeting to the Town Forum. This meeting is to be held on January 15th at the Martin Elementary School at 7:00 p.m. The meeting is open to anyone who is interested in improving education in Floyd county.

There are no "quick cures" for our problems. If we are willing to work consistently and patiently for quality education, we will bring about changes and improve education in a positive way. Join us on the 15th of January. Help us make Floyd County schools the best in the state. This ambition is not unrealistic. It can happen if enough of us—teachers, parents, and citizens—care enough to devote part of our time to helping the educational system become better.

The schools of Floyd County belong to the people of Floyd County. They do not stop being our schools because our children graduate, or because we never had any children. If we do not educate our children well, can we escape the consequences? Do we need better schools? Come help us answer these questions. Help us and help the children of Floyd County. We can make a difference with your help.

Planning Committee

18 Are Jailed Here On New Year's Eve

End-of-year revelers exercised local police officers, who arrested 18 on New Year's eve and in the early hours of the new year. The charges included four for drunk driving, seven for disorderly conduct, and seven for public intoxication.

Booked at the Floyd county jail over the 24-hour period were:

Edmund Collins, 27, charged by Prestonsburg police officer Paul Auxier with drunk driving and driving without a license; Johnny M. Burchett, 26, charged by State Trooper C.T. Henson with drunk driving, driving on a suspended license, and speeding; Eugene Tackett, 18, accused of drunk driving, reckless driving, auto theft, attempting to elude police, and driving without a license; and William Beverly Scaif, 49, charged with drunk driving, leaving the scene of an accident, and failure to register a motor vehicle.

Charged with disorderly conduct were Charles Massaro, 25, arrested by Deputy Sheriff John Blackburn; and Henry Ranger, 18, Larry Ford, 18, Calvin Morton, 19, Eddie Lanier, 20, Robert Evans, 20, and Ricky Fields, 19, all arrested by city police following a disturbance at the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center.

Facing charges of public intoxication are: William Skeens, 43, Jeffrey Cowan, 24, Dewey Duff, 32, Jerry Combs, 28, James Case, 37, Arnold Adkins, 49, and Clay Smith, Jr., 19. Smith was also charged by city police with resisting arrest.

Firm Attaches Auto Of Former Builder

A former Prestonsburg builder, whom creditors accused of leaving large debts unpaid when he moved to Florida more than a year ago, came back for the holidays last week—and promptly had his car seized by one of them.

Acting on a circuit court order, sheriff's deputies last Thursday impounded a 1982 Jaguar belonging to David Bruce Spradlin, formerly of Mays Branch and operator of Bruney Enterprises, Inc.

In an affidavit filed in support of his request for the order of attachment, Greg Crum, who operates Lloyd's Hardware with his father, Lloyd Crum, said Spradlin owes the store $26,173. Confiscation of the automobile was imperative, Crum argued, since Spradlin has no other assets in this county that could be sold to settle the alleged debt.

Suit of Arizona Woman Attacks Shepherd Will

A will that cuts her out of her late uncle's legacy is phony, an Arizona woman claims in a suit filed last Wednesday in Floyd Circuit Court.

Virginia K. Butler, who now lives in Tucson, is niece to the late Abe Shepherd, who died on Feb. 14 last year at the age of 89. He was a brother to Dewey Shepherd, of David.

As executor of his brother's estate, Dewey Shepherd had what purported to be the dead man's will probated in March. Mrs. Butler says the will is a forgery and is designed to disinherit her. She asks for a court order removing Dewey Shepherd as executor and finding that Abe Shepherd died intestate. (Claims made in filing suit give only one side of the dispute.)

In this picture, the Calvin Coolidges and their son John are not the happy family of their first year in the White House. Missing from the family portrait is Calvin, Jr., John's happy-go-lucky younger brother, who died at 16 of blood poisoning in the summer of 1924.

The Kennedy family gathered in the White House nursery to help John, Jr. celebrate his birthday in November of 1962. Caroline and John were international celebrities but loved the same things all children do.

Young David Eisenhower had a birthday party in 1956 that every child in America would have loved to attend. Here, helping him celebrate are his grandfather "Ike," his grandmother Mamie, his parents John and Barbara Eisenhower, his great-grandmother Doud and his friends-including those famous stars of rodeo, screen and radio, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans.

Home, Sweet White House

By INK MENDELSON
Smithsonian News Service

A sad little girl arrived in November of 1800 at the door of her new home, Susanna Adams, granddaughter of President John and Abigail Adams, was the first child to reside in the building known today as the White House. Abigail's son Charles lay near death. The sorrowing first lady decided to bring his 4-year-old daughter to live in the "President's House" in the new capital at Washington.

The "first home" has sound sandstone walls that have withstood British enemy fire and the ravages of time, but they have not been thick enough to insulate its occupants, even the youngest, from the pain felt by ordinary mortals. Over the years, first families have harbored familiar heartaches and known familiar joys. But a White House child's birth, growing pains, peccadillos, grief, romances, marriage and death are shared with the multitude. The stone White House might just as well be made of glass.

Young Nelly and George Washington Parke Custis, grandchildren of Martha Washington "adopted to rear as my own" by the general, arrived in 1789 at the executive mansion in New York, the nation's first capital. The first "first children" were, according to Martha, "very little of being sick" from all the parades and public attention en route.

G. W. Parke, known as Little Wash and called "Tub" by his grandma, was an 8-year-old free spirit and a bit spoiled. But his 10-year-old sister Nelly kept a rigid schedule of painting, language and music lessons. She frequently sang at state dinners and for "Congressmen who...know not one note from another." Nelly was rewarded, though, by a doting grandpa who took the children for rides around Manhattan in the elegant presidential carriage, to the theater, the circus and an occasional balloon ascension.

Nonetheless, Nelly was delighted to return to Mount Vernon. "I can hardly believe grandpa is no longer in office...If it is a dream I hope never to awaken from it," she wrote to a friend. In later years, she would feel differently. "Many first children later found their time in the White House to have been the high spot in their lives," the Smithsonian's Margaret Klapthor observes. Klapthor, curator emeritus of political history at the National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C., points out that "life after the years spent in the President's House with their illustrious grandparents never again had quite the same glow for Nelly and Little Wash."

George Washington was not the only Founding Father who was a doting grandfather. Social chronicler of the day Margaret Bayard Smith described Thomas Jefferson's way with his grandchildren, who had come to spend the winter of 1805 in the President's House. "While I sat looking at him, playing with these infants, one standing on the sofa with its arms around his neck, the other two youngest on his knees, playing with him, I could scarcely realize he was one of the most celebrated men now living, both as a Politician and Philosopher."

A widower, Jefferson entertained his grandchildren with poems and stories and sent his friend Dolley Madison out to buy them the latest clothes and toys. Abraham and Mary Lincoln, the indulgent and adoring parents of 17-year-old Robert, 10-year-old Willie and 7-year-old Tad, came to the White House at a harsh time in America's history. Lincoln, commanding a disastrous Civil War, and his wife, a Southerner and therefore suspect, were attacked by a viciously critical press. Sweet Willie and wildly exuberant Tad were a solace in troubled times—in spite of Tad's constant pranks. "Taddy" would pile chairs on a sofa and when his unsuspecting father entered the room—heave ho!

"Let him romp," Lincoln said, thinking of serious-minded Robert, "he will get 'pokey' soon enough." Tad, dressed in his colonel's uniform and spectacles purloined from his father, and Willie, wearing his mother's lavender silk dress, put on shows in the attic.

But after only a year in the White House, Willie fell ill with a fever and died. Mary was inconsolable. The press called her grief excessive. Lincoln, having lost the son most like himself, bore that burden, too, and went on struggling to hold a nation together. Then came the fateful night of April 14, 1865, when Tad rushed to his friend, doorkeeper Thomas Pendel, crying, "O Tom Pen! They have killed papa dead."

The happy family life of the Grant, Hayes and Garfield families seemed to reflect a healing national life. Grant, the great Civil Warrior, walked around with tears in his eyes for days before his darling Nellie—the belle of the nation—was wed in a lavish and widely publicized ceremony. The Hayes' White House was always full. Son Ruddy reported that the president had to go into the bathroom to work on state papers.

First lady Caroline Harrison had a large family—four generations under one White House roof—and had to share her home with politicians and favor seekers: "I've been a show, the whole family's been a show since Mr. Harrison was elected..." The most famous household member—at least the most photographed—was Benjamin Harrison's grandson, "Baby" McKee. Amateur and professional photographers armed with the new easy-to-operate Kodak box camera, chased Baby, driving his own goat cart, around the White House grounds.

The only president to wed in the White House, 49-year-old bachelor Grover Cleveland married 21-year-old Frances Folsom in 1886. It was largely owing to false stories of Cleveland's brutality toward the popular first lady—which she decried publicly—that he was defeated in 1888. "Frank," as her husband called her, told the staff to take good care of the White House, "for we are coming back just four years from today."

And so they did—this time with little "Baby Ruth," who became the nation's sweetheart. Just the same, when her mother, alarmed by smothering public attention to the tiny tot, had the gates to the wide-open White House grounds closed, ugly rumors circulated that the child was deformed. The Cleveland's rose above rumor, and in 1893, their second daughter, Esther, became the only president's child to be born in the White House.

Both press and public loved the youthful Theodore Roosevelt family, which set off what Ike Hoover, then chief usher, later called, "the wildest scramble in the history of the White House." Alice, 17; Theodore Jr., 14; Kermit, 12; Ethel, 10; Archibald, 7, and Quentin, 3, came to the mansion on short notice in September of 1901, when Vice President Roosevelt became president upon McKinley's assassination. Still, they brought along horses, dogs, cats, parrots, frogs, white mice, guinea pigs, a kangaroo rat and a blue macaw named Eli Yale. Alice went visiting with Emily Spinach, a green snake named for a thin aunt. Algonquin, the calico pony, traveled upstairs in the elevator to cheer an ailing Archie.

All manner of locomotive was employed as transportation through T.R.'s White House—stilts for the halls, large cookie tins for tobogganing down the stairs and the obvious roller skates, tricycles, bicycles and little red wagon for every place else. The president joined in the pillow fights and the wrestling. Mama Edith was terrific at sports.

Naughty "Princess Alice" sped around in automobiles. Her parents forbade her to smoke under their roof, so she smoked on the roof. "I can do one of two things," the president said, "I can be President of the United States or I can control Alice." Alice wed Ohio congressman Nicholas Longworth in a spectacular White House wedding. The nation rejoiced.

In the summer of 1924, the nation mourned. Calvin Coolidge Jr. died at 16 of blood poisoning. "The power and glory of the Presidency went with him," his father wrote. Older son John tried to fill the void. "The unrelenting glare of the spotlight creates a great need for White House families to draw close together," Margaret Klapthor says.

The White House staff affectionately called one close family the "Three Musketeers." Harry Truman didn't care what anybody said about him, but he got rather excited at occasional criticism of wife Bess, "the boss," and daughter Margaret, "the boss's boss."

"A grandchild has all of the pleasure and none of the pressure," Eleanor Seagraves, the first grandchild of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt, commented recently. Seagraves and her brother Curtis sometimes lived in the White House. "Sistie" and "Buzzie" were adored by the public but didn't have to campaign. "We were decorative pieces, like Fala the dog."

The White House was a second home for young David Eisenhower and his three sisters. Grandparents Ike and "Mimi" provided them with toys and gave them birthday parties starring folks like Roy Rogers and Dale Evans. Camp David was named for the well-loved grandson. The most important thing that happened to David in the White House, however, was meeting Julie Nixon. Both were eight. Married in 1968, they now have three children of their own.

The Kennedy family "set a new and dizzying high in First Family newsmaking," veteran newswoman Helen Thomas has written. Caroline Kennedy was barely three when she arrived at the White House in January of 1961. Her brother, John Jr., was two months old.

Everything they did or said was news. Caroline announced to reporters in the press room that her daddy was "sitting upstairs with his shoes and socks off not doing anything." From her mother, Caroline learned to say, "No photographers."

Yet, the Kennedys wanted a normal life for their children. Two small hobgoblins went trick or treating with mother—disguised as a demon. Jack Kennedy regaled the children with stories about the White Shark who died on dirty socks. When Caroline was five, her father began to read poetry to her. Her favorite was this Edna St. Vincent Millay couplet:
Safe upon the solid rock the ugly houses stand.
Come and see my shining palace built upon the sand!

Four generations of the Benjamin Harrison family lived under one White House roof. Here, Mrs. R.B. McKee, the Harrisons' daughter, poses with the first lady, cuddling "Baby" McKee and Caroline Harrison's father, Dr. Scott, holding a contented Mary McKee.

Theodore Roosevelt posed with his wife Edith and their large and active family at the Sagamore Hill "summer White House" in 1903. Their brood included Quentin (leaning on his father), Theodore Jr. (in glasses), Archie, "Princess Alice," Kermit and Ethel, the tomboy. This group and assorted pets set off what a former chief usher of the executive mansion called "the wildest scramble in the history of the White House."

This portrait was identified by Grover Cleveland's late daughter, Marion, as picturing her mother Frances and her sister Esther, the only child of a president to have been born in the White House.

Housing Program Aim To Help the Elderly

Lynn Luallen, executive director of Kentucky Housing Corporation (KHC), has appointed Beccy Roach director of KHC's new, statewide Elderly and Handicapped Programs.

"Eighty percent of Kentucky homeowners are 62 years of age or older," stated Luallen. "The Elderly and Handicapped Programs will help identify the special needs of this segment of our population and will initiate new concepts in housing that will aid Elderly and Handicapped Kentuckians."

Ms. Roach, who has been an employee at KHC for seven years, said she would be working with other state housing agencies, various departments in federal and state government, and would encourage involvement on the community level.

"It's shocking to realize there are more elderly in Kentucky than there are teenagers. During the next few months, I plan to begin identifying areas with a high concentration of elderly and to coordinate the Elderly and Handicapped Programs with other KHC departments," said Roach.

"If possible, we at KHC would like to help the elderly and the handicapped remain in their present homes. Our goal is to provide safe, decent, and sanitary housing for the elderly and the handicapped by utilizing all available resources," she continued.

ALCOHOL IN DRUGS

A child's first sip of alcohol may come from an unexpected source, the family medicine chest. Many teething preparations, cough syrups, decongestants and pain and fever reducers contain from three tenths to 68 percent alcohol. The American Academy of Pediatrics indicates that anything over 5 percent may be harmful. If kids take an alcohol-containing medicine along with another drug, such as taking certain antibiotics along with antibacterial drugs, negative side effects like nausea and flushing could develop. This does not mean that kids should not take any medications that contain alcohol. Consult your physician if the medication has more than 5% alcohol or, if your child is under age six. Carefully read the labels on all medications and choose one with the least amount of alcohol.

There is no magical cure for the common cold, but there are many different medications on the market that can relieve your symptoms, Ask us here at COOLEY APOTHECARY to suggest something for you, and chances are you will feel more comfortable. We never play doctor, but we will be happy to answer any of your questions about over the counter remedies or about any of the prescription medications your physician may prescribe. Patient profiles are maintained for your convenience at income tax time and for insurance purposes. You'll find us located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:
Alcohol in a child's medication could possibly counteract another medication.

Church Here Makes Offering To Help Victims of Famine

Ethiopian famine victims benefited from a special appeal and offering Dec. 22 at the Prestonsburg Seventh-day Adventist church.

"The specter of millions dying of starvation is a challenge to Christians everywhere to take immediate action to help," says Pastor Paul Hoover.

Seventh-day Adventists, working through Adventist Development and Relief Agency International, sponsor projects in some 60 Third World countries. Aid to Ethiopia, totaling over $1 million, during the current famine has included 37,000 pounds of medicines, 111,000 pounds of blankets and clothing, 50 tons of protein biscuits, and five trucks and two trailers to deliver supplies to remote villages.

"Unfortunately, this crisis won't subside for some time," says Pastor Hoover. Those in the community who wish to make a tax-deductible gift for the Ethiopian famine victims may send their donation, marked "Ethiopia", to P.O. Box 776, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.

Lackey Man Killed In New Year's Wreck

A 19-year-old Lackey man died in the early hours of the new year when he lost control of his truck on KY 550, about five miles east of Mousie.

A spokesman at the Hazard state police post said David L. Nelson died around 2:40 a.m. Tuesday after his vehicle plunged over an embankment, overturned, and came to rest in about four feet of water. The driver was not wearing a seat belt, the police officer noted.

The victim is reported to be the son of Wanda Nelson and the late Glen Nelson.

$25,000 Reward Offered After Substation Blast

What was described as "a deliberate act of sabotage" disrupted electric service to about 3,000 residents and several coal mines in Pike county's John's Creek and Kimper areas early last Friday morning.

A dynamite blast blew apart the control cabinet of a major transformer at Kentucky Power Company's John's Creek substation. By switching customers to other circuits and making other arrangements, Kentucky Power was able to restore service to about 2,000 of the customers before 11 a.m.

Meantime, Kentucky Power is offering a $25,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those who "committed this criminal act", according to G. Richard Lovegrove, public affairs director of Kentucky Power.

"We have notified local and state law enforcement officials as well as the FBI of this felonious act, and a full investigation is under way. Bur right now, the main concern is to get the remainder of our customers back on," he added.

In addition to transferring customers to other electric circuits, the company has moved mobile transformers from Ashland and Huntington into the John's

"There is no excuse for such felonious acts as this," Lovegrove said. "Many innocent people suffer, and many people of the area have been put out of work, including those who work at several local mines. One has to wonder if the perpetrators really intended for this to happen."

Lovegrove said permanent repairs are likely to take weeks, and the cost could well run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars in damaged equipment and the time and equipment it takes to restore and repair service. This does not include what is lost by those businesses which have been affected by the outage.

"This is the kind of violence we read about in other countries, and it has no place in our society," Lovegrove said. "Such acts are costly, but, more importantly, they endanger those who depend on electricity for health, safety and comfort."

Lovegrove said the offer of the $25,000 reward is made with the company's right to determine the person or persons entitled to such compensation. The offer is made with the understanding that those responsible for the vandalism will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

State aid federal agencies have joined Pike county officers in the investigation of the blast.

Glaucoma is the second leading cause of blindness in adults in the United States. This disease rarely has any symptoms, and it is for this reason that persons over age 40 are urged to be screened regularly for glaucoma.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a glaucoma screening clinic on Monday Jan. 7. This clinic is a free service of the Health Department and is open to persons of all ages, but those age 40 and over are especially urged to take advantage of it.

Cervical cancer is one of the most curable of all cancers, yet it kills approximately 11,000 women each year. The Pap test is a simple painless, test which can detect cervical cancer in its earliest and most curable stages.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a Pap clinic on Wednesday Jan. 9 from 8:30 until 11:30 a.m., and from 1 until 2 p.m. This clinic is a free service of the Health Department and is open to women of all ages, and women age 45 and over are especially urged to attend.

Underground Water Pollution Like A Ticking Time Bomb

America has done a good job cleaning up the surface water in its rivers, lakes and streams. But the other half of the water used in this country—water from underground reserves, or aquifers—is being polluted by deadly contaminants.

Many experts say the problem is so bad that unless immediate action is taken this ticking time bomb may explode into the next great crisis of the 1980s. Reader's Digest reports in its January issue.

Among the danger signals:
—More than 63 percent of rural household-water supplies in the United States—supplying some 39 million people—are considered unsafe, according to a Cornell University study. Nearly 29 percent were found to contain enough bacteria to raise fears about hepatitis and typhoid; 25 percent had unacceptable levels of mercury and lead.

—The General Accounting Office reports that 20 percent of the nation's 65,000 community systems are unable to meet minimum standards set by the Safe Drinking Water Act.

—The Environmental Protection Agency has found that about one-fifth of all public water supply systems drawn from ground water contain man-made pollution and approximately one-third of the larger systems that serve more than 10,000 people are contaminated by chemicals.

Much of this problem, according to The Digest, has come about because "we've let our aquifers become a dumping ground for leaching landfills, runoffs of fertilizers and pesticides and leaking gasoline storage tanks and the like."

Also, 59 percent of all industrial toxic wastes are injected into the ground, supposedly beneath water tables. "But water tables change and can become vulnerable to buried wastes."

What can be done? Experts say a multi-pronged attack is needed, combining the efforts of federal, state and local governments, industry, farmers, engineers, and the average citizen. This includes:

—Better Land Use Planning. The best way to control ground water is to control land use above it. That means restricting landfills, fertilizers, pesticides, de-icing salts for roads, and other sources of contamination in any areas near aquifers.

—Industry Cleanup. Manufacturers who use chemical processes in their plants and factories must step up their efforts to reduce waste that is discharged into water sources or buried beneath the ground.

—Local Government Involvement. Local governments are discovering how to dispose commercial waste in ways that are safe and profitable. Many have installed systems that convert the waste into other useable products. Westchester County, New York, for one, burns the refuse of almost a million people in a modern recovery plant. The residue consists of metal, which is sold for scrap, and glassy aggregate, used in road-building.

There are other investments, but First Commonwealth's Tax Tamer IRA makes more sense to me.

There are many investment opportunities available today. I've considered several, but I settled on First Commonwealth Bank's Tax Tamer IRA.

The Tax Tamer IRA lets me invest $2,000 a year into a tax deferred savings plan. (With a non-working spouse you could invest $2,250. A working couple can invest $4,000) Not only do I save for the future, but I also get a $2,000 tax break. And that in itself means a lot to me.

I invested in the Tax Tamer IRA because it is a good, sound investment. But I also invested in the Tax Tamer IRA because the people at First Commonwealth Bank believe in the people and the area it serves.

Committee To Begin Work on Developing Kindergarten Plans

Guidelines for a statewide kindergarten program to begin in the 1985-86 school year are being developed by an advisory committee named by Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald.

The Kindergarten Advisory Committee will start formulating guidelines in such areas as kindergarten philosophy, competencies, teachers and aides, the learning environment, parental involvement and exceptional children at a two-day meeting in Frankfort next week.

The committee, which was named as the result of legislation approved by the 1984 General Assembly, will meet at 9 a.m. Jan. 4 and at 8:30 a.m. Jan. 5. Both sessions will be in the state board room of the Kentucky Department of Education in the Capital Plaza Tower in Frankfort.

The legislation, Senate Bill 26, calls for the Department of Education to implement a statewide kindergarten program beginning in 1985-'86 and makes completion of kindergarten a prerequisite to enrollment in the first grade, beginning in the 1986-'87 school year.

"This committee will play an important role in expanding the guidelines for kindergarten and making sure that the children of Kentucky derive the maximum benefit from the kindergarten experience," McDonald said.

The First Church of God on Little Paint will be having a mortgage burning service on Sunday, January 6, at 2:30 p.m. The pastor, Rev. Roy L. Tincher, reports that the church has completely liquidated its indebtedness on its new building. Total cost of the project was $355,000. The congregation has been worshipping in the new building for two-and-a-half years.

In conjunction with this special occasion the church is having revival services beginning Wednesday, January 2, and going through the afternoon service at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, January 6. The revival services will be at 7:00 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, 6:00 p.m. on Saturday, and on Sunday at 10 a.m. (Sunday School) 10:45 a.m. (morning worship), and 2:30 p.m. Dr. O.L. Johnson from Springfield, Ohio will be the evangelist for these services. Dr. Johnson preached the dedication service for the new building in October, 1982.

Crowned Homecoming Queen

Homestead Exemption For Elderly, Disabled Taxpayers Increased

Revenue Secretary Gary Gillis announced recently that the Homestead Exemption on real estate owned by qualified persons who are over 65 years of age or are totally disabled has been increased to $16,100 for tax periods 1985 and 1986. This represents the maximum amount of value exempted from property tax on real property owned and resided in by qualified persons.

The amount of the Homestead Exemption is adjusted every two years to account for changes in the purchasing power of the dollar. It has increased from $6,500 in 1972 to the current $16,100 as a result of changes in the consumer price index. The exemption was $15,000 in 1983 and 1984. Taxpayers who are qualified for this exemption because of age must file an application with the Property Valuation Administrator in their county of residence on forms prescribed by the Revenue Cabinet. Taxpayers who qualify for the total and permanent disability exemption under a program authorized or administered by an agency of the U.S. Government or by the Railroad Retirement System must file annually by December 31 and report changes in the disability classification authorized by the exemption to the PVA.

Only an exemption will be allowed per residence. Therefore, regardless of the number of qualified owners of a home, totally disabled or over 65 years of age, $16,100 is the maximum value which can be exempted from property tax.

Because their eyes are on the sides of their heads, most birds have excellent fields of vision.

Weatherization Aid For Area, $113,200

An unusually mild winter has been kind to the elderly or disabled and those with low incomes who are plagued by high fuel bills, but the state Cabinet for Human Resources expects to spend $3 million for weatherization improvements to their homes over the state.

For the Big Sandy Community Action area—Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties—$113,200 has been earmarked for such help.

"Last year more than $3.6 million was spent to serve 7,389 people in 2,556 homes at an average cost per home of $1,363. Of the people we served, 1,282 were elderly, 880 were handicapped and 170 were homebound," James Daniels, Employment services commissioner, said. "Eighty-seven percent of the families had incomes below $8,000 a year. About half of those had incomes below $4,000 a year."

Work that may be performed on a home includes caulking, weatherstripping windows and doors, reglazing windows, repairing walls, insulating ceilings, pipes, ducts, walls and under floors, wrapping water heaters and placing skirting around foundations. "The type and amount of work performed is based on the condition of the home," Daniels said. "There is a $1,500 limit on assistance to any home, but we are able to make these homes more comfortable and reduce energy costs."

NOTICE AS TO HEARING BEFORE THE FISCAL COURT OF FLOYD COUNTY, KENTUCKY, ON A PETITION TO RATIFY, CONFIRM, AND APPROVE THE CREATION OF, AND TO PRESENTLY FORM THE PRATER CREEK WATER DISTRICT.

Notice is hereby given by the County Clerk of Floyd County, Kentucky, acting as Fiscal Court Clerk, that pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 74 and Section 65.810 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes, a Hearing will be held by the Fiscal Court of said County at 10:00 a.m., E.S.T., on Jan. 18, 1985, on a Petition to ratify, confirm, and approve the creation of, and to presently form the Prater Creek Water District.

Said Petition is signed by more than 20% of an average of the voters living in the proposed service area of the proposed District, and voting in the last four (4) general elections, is accompanied by (1) a copy of an Order of the Public Service Commission of Kentucky granting preliminary approval for the creating of the District, (2) a Plan of Service, as required by KRS 65.810(1) (a) through (f), and (3) a map of the proposed boundaries of the District, and such Petition states that at the present time there is no recognized water system serving the residents of the proposed District and that the convenience, comfort, health, and safety of the public, because of lack of adequate fire protection, are endangered.

No incorporated City or part of an incorporated City is located within the boundaries of said District. An accurate map of the area intended to be included in the District is being published with this Notice.

At said public Hearing, the Fiscal Court will take testimony of interested parties and solicit the recommendations of all planning Commissions and area development districts within whose jurisdiction the proposed service area is located, and any state agencies required by law to be notified of the proposal for the creation of the Water District. (Signed) Carla R. Boyd, County Clerk, Floyd County, Kentucky.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to take this opportunity to thank every one that gave so much support and love to us when we really needed it. I know there will be some I miss speaking to personally or sending a card to but I do thank each one of you. If anything could have eased the hurt in anyway or made the grief less real, it was seeing that so many people cared for and loved James. My deepest thanks to everyone at Floyd Funeral Home for all their kindness and help. They did much more than was required and I know they did it out of love and respect for James. Thanks from each of us to Brother Gordon Fitch and Brother Doug Lewis for their words of encouragement and love. Thanks to Brother Earl Waugh for his help the night we really needed someone. To the Rescue Squad and the men that searched so hard, we will never forget what you did. To family members who helped so much, the men who opened and closed the grave, to those who sent flowers and food, to those who were there to just pray with us and to others that helped in any way, thank you. It's in times like this that one really sees what friendship means and how many friends one has. I'm very honored to have been James' wife, and seeing the friends he had makes me very proud to have been a part of his life for twenty years. May God bless each of you that helped in any way.

THE RIVER. (PG-13-Universal Pictures) Starring Mel Gibson, Sissy Spacek and Scott Glenn. ★ ★ 1/2

By J.T. YURKO

"Pay the rent" may be a phrase from a turn-of-the-century melodrama, but it seems to have been reborn. "The River" comprises one part of what was 1984's fall-film trilogy. It joins "Places in the Heart" and "Country" as films about the hardships and joys of people who live off the land — and want desperately to continue doing so.

In each of these films, land-owners are fighting off foreclosure. It appears that farming is not the way to Easy Street, but still no one wants to leave the land. Often it has been in a family for generations, and the people who own it are more than willing to put up with droughts, floods, fires and unfriendly bankers.

Here, Mel Gibson and Sissy Spacek are the young couple who live on the banks of a river. Their farm is not large, consisting of only a few hundred acres, but their parents and grandparents are buried on it and they don't want to leave, although each year they go deeper into debt, with little hope of ever turning the pattern around.

Their life, like this movie, is unmitigatingly depressing. Hard work is followed by more hard work, with a dessert of big bills. The wolf around the corner is played by Scott Glenn, who is the head of an unscrupulous agribusiness firm that wants to buy farms by the river in order to build a dam and store water for a larger farm farther from the river.

Without a doubt, the story about the lives of modern-day small farmers needs to be told. There are more foreclosures of small farms today than in any time since the Depression. "The River" tells its tale eloquently and elegantly, but ceaseless morbidness is counterproductive.

Moreover, it remains unclear whether the major problem is political (as in "Country") or personal, due to Mel Gibson's stubbornness.

All the performances are first-rate, and the opening and closing scenes of the flooding river are superbly shot and edited. "The River" has considerable inherent force, but it should have much more

"The Door Is Always Open," a two-hour TV special taped in Nashville and scheduled for 1985 viewing, is a musical tribute to the late Sue Brewer, who played an important part in the lives of each of the stars on the show.

Hosted and co-produced by Waylon Jennings, the guest list is a who's who of Nashville songwriters and performers: Willie Nelson, Richie Albright, Hank Cochran, Jessi Colter, Little Jimmy Dickens, Narlan Howard, George Jones, Merle Kilgore, Kris Kristofferson, Red Lane, Basil MacDavid, Roger Miller, Mickey Newbury, Webb Pierce, Buck Trent, Mack Vickery, Hank Williams Jr., Mac Wiseman and Faron Young.

The concert portion of the show, performed at the Grand Ole Opry before a sold-out audience, features Jennings, Colter, Nelson, Kristofferson, Jones, Williams, Miller and Kilgore. The money raised from the sale of tickets has helped to set up the Sue Brewer Fund, a non-profit organization established to assist Nashville's struggling songwriters.

RCA Records has released a special audio self-portrait album of rare Elvis Presley interviews as a programming aid to radio stations. The disc is intended for promotional use only and will not be made available to the public. The album, titled the "Elvis Presley Interview Record," is designed to complement RCA's current extensive campaign to celebrate the 50th birthday of the king of rock 'n' roll.

The album features Presley discussing a wide variety of topics, including his hobbies, religion and philosophy as well as his mother, fans, private life and music. Also included on the interview record are conversations with Presley's parents, Vernon and Gladys Presley.

Michael Martin Murphey's music video, "Disenchanted," was recently presented with the Silver Reel Award at the Second Annual New Mexico Film and Video Award ceremony at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque. During the ceremony, Silver Reel trophies and cash prizes were awarded in various categories, with "Disenchanted" winning in the music video category. "Disenchanted," the top 10 single from "The Heart Never Lies" album, is Murphey's first video.

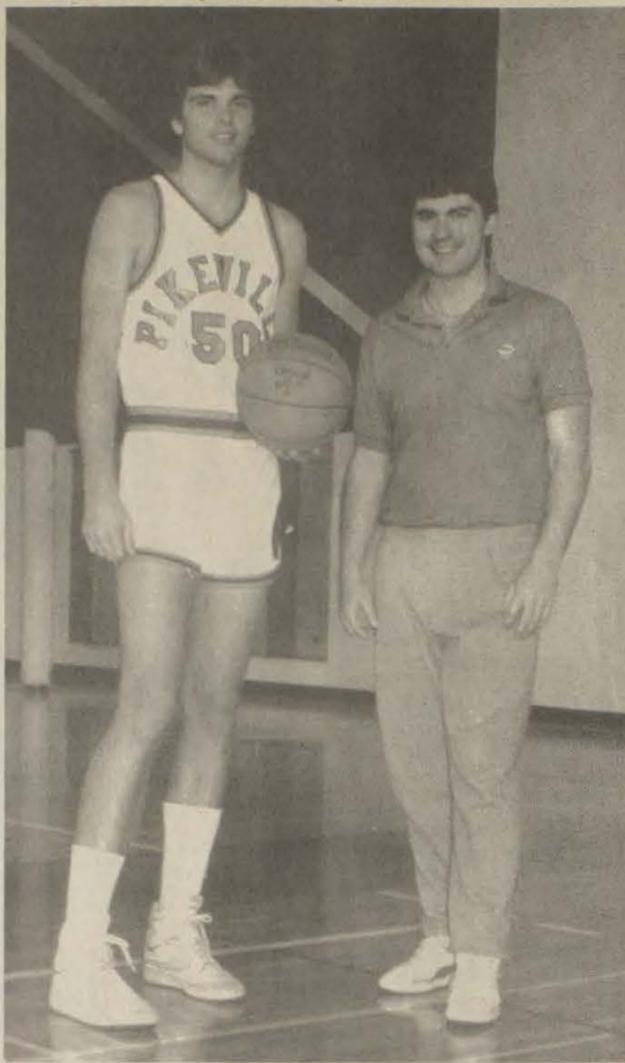

National Geographic Special, 'Land of the Tiger', on KET

Powerful, elusive, and deadly, the tiger has long fired the imagination of man. Now, a new "National Geographic Special" gives television viewers an unparalleled look into the tiger's hidden world, revealing the great cat in situations never before filmed, or even observed.

"Land of the Tiger," to be aired on KET at 8:00 p.m. (ET), 7:00 p.m. (CT), on Wednesday, January 16, premieres the Tenth Anniversary season for the National Geographic Specials on public television.

Husband and wife team, producers Stanley Breeden and Belinda Wright, are presenting several film firsts for "Land of the Tiger": a natural kill by a tiger in the wild; wild tiger cubs suckling, and wild tigers mating. In fact, no film has ever provided such a close-up look at the tiger's private life in its natural habitat.

Todd May To Play Nearer Home

If you were the youngest head basketball coach of a four-year college in the nation and in your first year... if your team was winless for the 1984-85 basketball season (0-9)... and, if during the past season the team had lost 25 of its last 26 games, what would you ask Santa Claus to bring you? It isn't known what Greg White of Pikeville College wanted for holidays, but what the 25-year-old coach got was perhaps the answer to the problems of his basketball team when a blue-chip prospect, a former "Mr. Basketball" in the state of Kentucky (1982), a former member of two Division I basketball programs (University of Kentucky and Wake Forest University) formally committed himself to play basketball at Pikeville College for the coming year.

Todd May, of Virgie, signed to play with the Pikeville College Bears. May signed at his home on the evening of December 7, in the presence of Coach White and his parents, Leon and Janie May, of Robinson Creek. In announcing the signing Coach White said, "I'm very happy that Todd has chosen Pikeville College. Our program is down now and we're in the rebuilding stages. Todd is without question a major league player. He could play for any basketball program in the nation. With Todd we can challenge for the KMAC championship and a trip to Kansas City. From there anything can happen. Todd is not only an outstanding athlete but an outstanding person who comes from a great family. Our recruiting year could not have started off any better. Now, all I want to do is build around him. This is the push we've needed."

The 6-8 May holds numerous records for high school play during his career at Virgie High School under veteran coach Bobby Osborne.

Bobcats Beat Greenup County

(Stats by Malletta Campbell)
The Betsy Layne Bobcats won the championship of the Shawnee State Invitational Tournament over the past weekend by defeating Greenup County, a team which has ranked consistently in the top five in the state, 53-50.

The tournament, held by Shawnee State College, of Portsmouth, O., saw the Floyd countians defeat East Carter, 64 to 52, Friday night.

Scorers for Betsy Layne included Brett Meade 24, Jeff Campbell 13, Duran Hall 8, Jimmy Parsons 7, Davie Mitchell 6, Mike Conn 4, and Dwayne Kidd and Terry Boyd, 1 each.

Recording points for East Carter were Scott Dyer 18, Vernon Evans and Joey Thomas with 11 each, George Adams 5, Micah Hicks 3, Joe Sergeant and Karrick Dyer 2 each.

The final game with powerful Greenup County saw a nip-and-tuck battle most of the way as Betsy Layne led 13-9 at the end of the first quarter and Greenup wound up on top, 24-23 at the half. Containing Greenup County's big (6'6") Mike Scott, the Bobcats led by 39-28 at the end of the third quarter and held on, despite a fourth quarter Greenup surge to win 53-50.

High scorer for Betsy Layne was Duran Hall with 14 while Jeff Campbell and Brett Meade also registered double figures with 12 and 11, respectively. Davy Mitchell contributed 9, Jimmy Parsons 5, and Dwayne Kidd 2.

For Greenup County, Mike Scott hit for 15, Jay Bates 14, Tim Veach 12, Todd Morton 6, Dave Beech 2, and Jay Wright 1.

Betsy Layne's Brett Meade was voted the tourney's Most Valuable Player and teammates Duran Hall and Jeff Campbell were named to the all-tournament team along with Greenup's Scott and Bates.

Over the Christmas holidays, Betsy Layne suffered its only defeat of the year losing to 68-52 to Prestonsburg, a team which it had defeated in an earlier meeting. Later, the Bobcats downed Sheldon Clark, 83-69 bringing its record to an impressive 7-1.

Betsy Layne travels to Pikeville Wednesday night for the opening round of the Pikeville Invitational Tournament.

HERE FROM VIRGINIA

E.E. Clark, his daughter, Mrs. Howard Leming, and his son, Lt. Col. William E. Clark, formerly of Prestonsburg, now of Virginia, were luncheon guests of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Peg Hewlett, at her home here Monday. They were called home due to the death of Mr. Clark's brother, Victor Clark, of Pikeville.

Blackcats Hold Out To Overcome Virgie In Four Overtimes

With three seconds remaining in a gruelling four-overtime battle, Prestonsburg's Jody Hackworth hit two free throws to cinch the victory, 78-76, against the Eagles of Virgie, Saturday night.

The win represented something of a tribute to the staying power of Coach Jack Stanford's Blackcats as Prestonsburg fought an uphill battle all the way. Virgie led 17-12 at the end of the first quarter and stayed in front 38-34 at intermission. The Eagles' lead increased to seven, 55-48, at the conclusion of the third quarter but then PHS came back in the fourth quarter to tie the game at the final buzzer, 70-70.

While neither team scored in the first overtime, both Prestonsburg and Virgie added two points in both the second and third overtime periods. In the fourth overtime, with the score 74-all, Hackworth was fouled as he tried to make a last second shot, and his "clinch" foul shots iced the win, 78-76.

High scorer for the Cats was Marty Minix with 17 points. Gordie Ratliff hit for 16 and Doug Greene 12. Greg Shepherd and Rodney McKinney scored eight each, John Goble seven, Jody Hackworth six, and Jon Hale with four points.

The Blackcats face the Wheelwright Trojans tonight (Wednesday) at the gymnasium here.

ROLE OF THE CLERGY AT TIME OF DEATH.

The minister, priest, or rabbi can help greatly in properly consoling and assisting the bereaved—if he is contacted early after the death of the loved one. He can define the differences between the physical (body of the deceased) and the soul (spirit of the deceased). He can further ease the family through the first steps of the grief process.

It is far healthier, emotionally, to allow the minister to help the family work through their grief openly than to permit their sadness to be repressed or concealed.

Clergymen have been trained to assist in times of stress. Their experiences through study and from real life-and-death situations make them invaluable to you—and us. Their many sources of comfort and aid, especially in grief-counseling, can be very beneficial. They are especially anxious to serve their congregations at such times. They would also like to be contacted early so they can be of assistance as soon as it is possible for them to do so.

We welcome your questions—in private or publicly through this column.

To Register Auto, Motorists Must Have Proof of Insurance

Starting January 1, county clerks throughout the Commonwealth will need proof of insurance before renewing car registrations...

Insurance Commissioner Gil McCarty explains that a wallet-size "proof of insurance" card, issued in duplicate, must be distributed by insurers to all policyholders...

The new law, passed by the 1984 General Assembly, means that the proof of insurance sticker which motorists have been required to attach to a rear window will be null and void at the end of the year.

"It simply won't be possible to renew a license plate for a car without first showing the county clerk that it is insured," says McCarty.

After the first of the year, a state computer will keep track of motorists who cancel or fail to renew their policies. The motorists will be promptly notified that failure to buy new insurance could result in prosecution...

Bill Coleman, director of the Property and Casualty Division of the state Insurance Department, said the minimum liability policy will be required for acceptance by county clerks for vehicle licensing purposes.

Sgt. Jackie Ray Howell, who will have served eight years in military service in March, is presently stationed in Augsburg, Germany...

His father and stepmother are Troy and Mary Howell, of McDowell.

Pikeville IRS Office Offers Taxpayer Aid

The following schedule for taxpayer assistance at the Pikeville IRS office will be observed for the 1985 tax filing period:

Dec. 31-January 18, 8-4:45, Monday through Wednesday; Jan. 21-March 1, 8-4:45, Monday through Friday...

Taxpayers who come to the local office in the Post Office Building at Main and Huffman Streets can receive answers to their tax questions...

Raymond L. Rizzo, district director for Kentucky, suggested that taxpayers who come to the local IRS office for assistance should bring the tax package they received in the mail...

Rizzo also suggested that taxpayers may want to use the IRS toll free telephone service to get answers to their tax questions or to order tax forms.

Dr. Williams will return to MSU June 24-29, to serve as scholar-in-residence for the annual Appalachian celebration.

Book on Vaughan In Second Printing

Morehead State University's edition of Dr. Cratis Williams' "William H. Vaughan: A Better Man Than I Ever Wanted To Be" has gone into a second printing.

Published by MSU's Appalachian Development Center in June, 1984, the Williams memoir of the man who was president of Morehead State Teachers College from 1940 to 1946 has proven to be of interest to MSU historians and followers of Cratis D. Williams.

Dr. Williams, a Lawrence county native, is now special assistant to the chancellor of Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C. The author of "The Southern Mountaineer in Fact and Fiction," Dr. Williams is regarded as a pioneer in the area of Appalachian Studies Conference in Berea...

Dr. Gifford, assistant director for Appalachian Studies in MSU's Appalachian Development Center, also wrote the introduction to the Williams memoir.

(To order "William H. Vaughan: A Better Man Than I Ever Wanted To Be," write to the Appalachian Development Center, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351.)

$10,000 property damage for each accident.

"State Insurance Department officials and other state officials who oversee the safety of our drivers and riders hope that the new law will encourage motorists to protect themselves by taking all safety precautions, including the required insurance," McCarty added.

For more information on the new card insurance law, contact the Kentucky Department of Insurance, P.O. Box 517, Frankfort, 40602, (502) 564-6046, or get in touch with your local insurance agent or the county clerk's office.

Floyd High School Seniors Eligible to Prep Workshop

Sixty-five high school seniors who live in certain Kentucky counties and who want to become doctors or dentists will get an early start toward their goal next summer at the University of Kentucky, the University of Louisville or Kentucky State University.

Students will be chosen to attend a five-, six- or seven-week college preparatory workshop at one of the universities from applicants who live in Kentucky counties or areas of some counties that the federal government says have too few doctors or dentists.

Graduating high school seniors who live in Floyd county are among those eligible to apply.

The workshops are part of the state's Professional Education Preparation Program, which was designed to help increase the number of students in medical or dental school from Kentucky counties experiencing a shortage of physicians or dentists.

Students attending the workshops will meet and work with medical and dental students and professionals and get instruction in reading, writing, study-skills, and problem solving.

They will also have classes in biology, chemistry, and other sciences to improve their chances of doing well in their premedical or pre-dental college studies.

Room and board and all workshop instruction will be provided without charge to the participant. Each student will also be given an expense allowance.

The workshops will be only the first in a series of activities that will be provided the participants. Additional programs and services designed to help them succeed in becoming doctors or dentists will be provided throughout their undergraduate and medical or dental school studies.

Interested high school seniors can get further information and application forms from their high school counselor or principal, or by contacting the Professional Education Preparation Program, Kentucky Council on Higher Education, West Frankfort Office Complex, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Protect the Songbirds!

To the people of the best state on earth, Kentucky. No place on earth was ever won by so brave a people, men and women who came through Cumberland Gap on wagons and oxcarts, and down the Ohio River on rafts. I have been over most of the world; there's no place so beautiful as Kentucky.

One thing is wrong, however. Many of our beautiful songbirds are near extinction.

When I was a young lad, there were hollow fence posts fence rails, etc. for many hole nesters. There were a hundred birds then, for every one today. That's why we now must use all kinds of poison sprays to grow our food. We only back at that time used a little Paris green on potatoes and occasionally some wood ashes on cabbage. Every boy had a birdhouse especially purple martins that eat only flying insects, especially mosquitoes and flies. People's milk cows didn't have to use a lot of energy fighting flies.

The worst enemy of our beautiful hole-nesting birds are the filthy starlings. They gang up when they find the nest of the redhead pileated woodpecker and the flicker, throw out the young birds or eggs, take the nest, and raise more filthy starlings.

The starling was brought here from England in 1886. By the mid-thirties, they had reached Kentucky. They are now sold from the Atlantic to the Pacific. They are carriers of hysoplasmosis, fatal to human beings. It causes hardening of the lungs.

I am 77 years old. I work every day making all kinds of birdhouses and feeders which I sell very near cost. Most purple martin houses have each compartment near air tight. The young get very hot, one-third fall and push each other out. Mine are vented and this loss never happens. Anyone wishing to make their own or to sell, come by and I will show you how. The inside is one-eighth inch masonite and so made you need no nailing.

About 8 or 9 years ago, I sent a similar letter to every editor in Kentucky. I believe every one except Danville printed it. These two counties now have more starlings than the other counties combined. I beg of you, please help save mother nature's beautiful and valuable birds.

I have near perfected a trap to catch them. It can be made for about $7.00. I will have plans made and give for free to all who will make a trap if a few people are interested.

'Painting With Elke Sommer'
Premieres On KET, Jan. 13

Elke Sommer, internationally recognized movie star, would rather be known as an "artist who acts, instead of an actress who paints." A new series, "Painting with Elke Sommer," will premiere on KET Sunday, Jan. 13, at 5 p.m. (ET).

A warm and candid woman, Sommer now brings her passion for painting to television. With skill and contagious enthusiasm, with humor and immense charm, she shares her creative ideas and artistic techniques in the series.

How would the paintings that Sommer has created especially for the series be described? First of all, every "Elke" painting tells a story. And, in the 13 original acrylic paintings that Elke shows viewers how to paint, the stories come from her own experiences—from childhood memories of down-to-earth farmers and colorful gypsies, to more recent European visits to Spanish weddings and holiday beaches.

Elke Sommer is serious about her art. At her first painting exhibit, she removed the signature from her paintings so she would know they were not being bought as high-priced autographs. The gallery was sold out within four days.

"Painting with Elke Sommer" is produced by KOCE-TV, Huntington Beach, California.

A Warning and A Protest

This sign was erected recently at the Mouth of Corn Fork of Brandy Keg as a warning, but, perhaps more as a protest to certain road conditions along the lengthy and thickly-populated hollow. According to Roger Rowe, a hollow resident and leader of efforts to have the road improved, response from the county has been too long in coming and he believes lives are being threatened by road problems.

"The county has helped with potholes, and blacktop patching," Rowe said, "and I certainly appreciate that." He added, however, that a length of the roadway near his home which was seriously undermined by erosion from last spring's flooding has left a section of pavement literally hanging over a hole which drops straight to the creek below.

"School buses that go through here every day are in constant danger of breaking through the pavement," he said, "and that could result in a really serious accident." He said the county has examined the problem and "keeps promising help," which has never come, according to Rowe.

Rowe said he has offered to give the county a section of land where his driveway is presently located so that the road could be diverted to avoid the eroded section of creek bank. "All I ask is that they replace my driveway in another location," he commented, "but they don't seem interested."

It may be, Rowe figures, that the county would like to take advantage of federal money which has been allotted for repair of road damage due to flooding in the area, but in the meantime, he says, "the danger still exists and they (the county) haven't even put up a warning sign to mark the area of the slip."

An Associated Press article on road conditions on Corn Fork a year ago brought immediate response from the county, Rowe said, and an AP reporter examined current problems only last week for a possible follow-up article.

Claims Tax Package Limits Counties' Financing Ability

"Two major provisions in the Treasury Department's proposal for tax reform will seriously limit the ability of local government to finance services that must be provided to our citizens," said National Ass'n of Counties President Phil Elfstrom, in response to the tax simplification plan announced by Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan.

"Local governments will be hard hit by the elimination of deductions for state and local taxes, and especially the property tax. The loss of tax exemption for many state and local bonds will further restrict our ability to finance local government," he continued.

"We cannot continue to be given more responsibilities for increased services and not the ability to pay for them. We need the flexibility to give our citizens the services they require," he said.

The loss of the ability to deduct property taxes will, in effect, mean an automatic tax increase in local taxes paid by the individual taxpayer. "The increase," Elfstrom said, "will amount to taxation without representation at the local level, since it will have been imposed without the consent of the local governing boards or the local voters."

This increase in turn will restrict the flexibility for counties to raise local taxes when absolutely necessary to provide needed or mandated services.

"Without the ability to generate necessary revenues, counties run the risk of either delaying or simply reducing services to citizens," said Matthew B. Coffey, NACo executive director.

"As a county official, it concerns me to think that this plan may inhibit local taxpayers in their support for local efforts to raise revenue for needed services," said Elfstrom, who also is a Kane County, Ill., board member.

"Raising local revenue is already very difficult," he said.

Counties rely on property taxes alone for over 30 percent of their revenues, with another 35 percent coming from revenues collected by the state.

Counties also use tax exempt bonds to finance most major public facilities, many of which are privately owned. This includes many airports, pollution control facilities, and wastewater treatment plants or utilities. The tax exemption in this area is vital to local government since it lowers the cost of financing these projects which in turn lowers costs to each taxpayer. But the Treasury Department proposal would eliminate exemptions for interest on these investments unless the facility is owned and operated by the government.

"While the National Association of Counties supports comprehensive tax reform, we are concerned about the implications to local government," Coffey said. "We will be reviewing this proposal in detail during the coming weeks and meeting with county officials from around the country to study that issue."

Women In Business

A study by the Small Business Administration showed that more and more women are choosing to be entrepreneurs; the number of woman-owned businesses in the U.S. rose from 1.9 million in 1977 to 2.5 million by 1980, accounting for 26 percent of all nonfarm sole proprietorships, according to "20 Facts on Women Workers," published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.
