

THE PRESTONSBURG AREA'S newest shopping center, Glynview Plaza, has started attracting sizeable crowds now that most of the stores in the complex have opened. Work continues on the nearby Prestonsburg Village mall project.

Compton Freed, Signs Own Bond

A 32-year-old Harold man was released on an unsecured bond last week following a charge that he molested a five-year-old Prestonsburg girl. His attorney said the charge was "trumped up" and grew out of a longtime family feud.

When he appeared in Floyd district court for a preliminary hearing Thursday, Garrell Duane Compton had been held a week in the county jail on a charge of sexual abuse brought by his aunt, Karen Ely, of the Cliffside housing project, on behalf of the child.

Ely also charged that Compton had physically abused her aged mother—Compton's grandmother—by "knocking her around and making her go to bed like a child."

Public Defender Gary Johnson produced court records indicating that Ely had filed various charges against her nephew several times since 1980 but had later dropped the charges. Also, assault and trespass warrants sworn out against Compton last week by Ely's mother were instigated by Ely, the attorney said.

Absentee Count Fails To Affect Primary Results

Unless the recounts sought by eight unsuccessful candidates turn up any errors, final figures are in on last Tuesday's primary election. (See precinct tallies elsewhere in this issue.) And, although Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen is among those asking to have the figures added again, the recount appears unlikely to do much to close the 800-vote gap that separated him from incumbent John M. Stumbo, the winner in the hard-fought race for judge-executive.

Allen carried 21 of Floyd's 48 precincts, mostly in the lower end of the county, with overwhelming margins in the Middle Creek and Jack Allen (David) precincts. On Beaver Creek and its right arm, communities were generally more evenly divided between the two candidates, although Wayland went decisively for Stumbo.

Results were mixed on Mud Creek, with Stumbo winning handily at the mouth and head of the stream but losing several communities—Branhams Creek and Antioch (Teaberry), among them—in-between. On Clear Creek—where the judge-executive promised but failed to extend the Mud Creek water system—the voters turned to the challenger, 287 to 212.

Up the Big Sandy, however, and on Left Beaver Creek, Stumbo won nearly all precincts, many of them by substantial margins. At Betsy Layne and Ivel, the vote was better than 2-to-1 for the incumbent; on Prater Creek, it was nearly 4-to-1. Stumbo recorded similarly lopsided wins at John Ant (McDowell), Jack's Creek, Lee Hall (Wheelwright), Melvin and Weeksbury.

Following Tuesday's balloting, Republicans were quick to try to woo disgruntled Democrats, noting that the GOP intends to field Dr. Larry Leslie for judge-executive in November.

In other countywide races, David Barber easily outdistanced Danny Caudill, 7925 to 5760, for county attorney. Cassie Allen, who came in third with 2310 votes, has filed for a recount. In the sheriff's race, Prestonsburg grocer Paul Hunt Thompson has also asked for a recount of the tally, which puts him 704 votes behind the incumbent, Henry C. Hale. (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

This Town...That World

If you think this weather is hot, remember that summer doesn't begin till June 21. It might be helpful, we might add, to recall the snows of last winter—about which we also griped.

SALT RIVER BOUND

The mythical voyage to Salt River for defeated candidates may be fun for some folks but not for those who make it. The only election loser I can recall who viewed the trip with blithe spirit was the late "Uncle" Mart Crabtree in District 2 of this county to a Republican.

"Anybody seen little Johnny Risner?" Uncle Mart inquired in his soft, Tennessee drawl as he left the courthouse. Asked what he wanted of Risner, he explained: "He's got a young jack (a donkey of the male persuasion) that I need for a few days. No boat for me to Salt River. I aim to ride that jack, and I'm gonna make him bray every jump, there and back."

Television-watching and bird-watching will mix, but the results are on the dismaying side. For example, there is the sad case of the man who decided to call the robin the Smith-Barney bird, because, he said, "it gets its food the old-fashioned way—it works for it."

IGNORANCE IS BLISS?

The less I know, the happier I am. Now I learn that a bird is a feathered animal.

A creature whose song uplifts the heart at all seasons and in all weathers, whose flight bespeaks a freedom that is the envy of us earthbound humans—and they call that an animal! With feathers, yet.

But of one thing we can be assured: nobody can ever call a bird a dumb brute.

To Stop Garbage Dumping...

East Point-to-Auxier Road Closing Voted

There are people on Branham's Creek who bag their trash, drive out a short distance, and throw the bags in the creek.

There are plenty of residents all over the county, and merchants, too, who are happy to let the county collect their garbage but who won't pay for the service unless the money is dragged out of them.

Picket Line Protests Spewing Camp Dust; Corn Fk. Asks Water

On Spewing Camp the issue was dust. On Corn Fork it was water.

Residents of the Left Beaver community took again to the picket line Friday, stopping the trucks that haul coal from the five mines operating there.

They want the truck drivers to cover their loads. But, mostly, they want the mine operators—identified as Edgar Jones, Carson Akers, Mike Vance, and Wheelwright Mining—to honor a commitment to keep road dust down by spreading oil or water, said Terry Rivera, an organizer of the protest.

"They said they'd do their part but when it comes down to it the promises go out the window," Mrs. Rivera said.

People on the upper end of Corn Fork want to know why recent extensions to the city water system went only halfway up that hollow. They got up a petition and had a delegation lined up to attend last week's meeting of the Floyd fiscal court but got the days mixed up.

Mrs. Avery Lowe wasn't sure she had not been deliberately misinformed about the time of the meeting and wondered whether she would have the patience to wait another month. "I might get too mad to last that long," she warned. (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

And there are still those who simply throw their refuse over the nearest hillside.

Such were the charges made at a meeting of the Floyd fiscal court last Thursday. But, while most seemed in agreement on the problem, there appeared to be no simple solution to it.

Discussion of the perennial solid waste issue was prompted by a request by E. L. Bierman, who lives at the East Point end of a road that could be among the most picturesque in the county—it snakes around the hillside between Auxier and East Point, more or less parallel to U.S. 23—except that it has been for years a handy dumping ground for anyone with an old appliance or mattress, an animal carcass or a few bags of household scraps to get rid of.

"All the dead dogs and cats end up on the Auxier road. They even threw a cow over there," said Bierman, who estimated that 80 percent of the refuse came from Johnson county.

On a motion of Magistrate Gerald DeRossett, the court voted to close the road, which is already impassable to ordinary traffic, blocking it with a gate at each end. The proposal will have to be advertised, and any opponents given a hearing before it becomes final.

Magistrate Lowell Samons argued that Branham's Creek—where he won only 26 of the 306 votes cast for magistrate last week—is the worst dumping ground in District 4 and called for stiff enforcement of existing anti-litter laws, which theoretically carry a $500 penalty. "They're not just throwing garbage in the creek. They're putting it in bags, driving three miles from the head of the creek and then throwing it in," Samons charged, adding, "There's no excuse for this when we've got trucks running every week."

WHEN THE TREES are bare you can see it from U.S. 23—if you look south across the Combs airport—as a two-mile ribbon of refuse garlanding the distant hills. Now that the forest is in leaf you need to draw closer to appreciate fully one of the county's most notorious illegal dumps. It is on the back road linking Auxier and East Point, and, after years of periodically ruing and condemning it, the fiscal court decided last week that the only way to solve the problem is to bar across to the road at both ends.

Mt. Comp Care Troubles Aired During, After Meet

An agency that many Big Sandy residents have learned to lean on in stressful times in itself in trouble.

About 35 supporters, staff members and former staffers of the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center here filled the room where that agency's board of directors was meeting Monday night and lingered later in angry clusters outside the Front Street building that once housed the Prestonsburg General Hospital and now provides the only publicly-funded mental health care in a five-county area.

A stormy month of firings, transfers and demotions, the group charged, has left the MCCC staff demoralized and divided and has compromised patient services.

Abrupt and arbitrary decisions, they say, have jeopardized the careers of valued and sometimes long-experienced employees, including a psychiatrist, therapists and clerical workers; have exposed the agency to half a dozen lawsuits as a result, and have prompted an investigation by the state Cabinet for Human Resources.

Client services—including a highly-regarded alcohol treatment program, the agency's outpatient clinic, the Aux-ier road greenhouse that employs mentally-handicapped adults, and a program for retarded preschoolers—have suffered, the dissidents allege.

And the blame, they appear to agree, rests squarely with agency director David Bell.

In the eyes of his detractors, Bell—who was promoted to his present position from the ranks about seven years ago—is capricious, inaccessible and lacking in management skills. For his own part, the embattled director says he is only trying to deploy agency resources as efficiently as possible in the face of shrinking government funds.

Some of the 10 board members who heard the group's catalog of complaints Monday encouraged the disgruntled staffers and former staffers to pursue them through the agency's established grievance procedure. But one employee called the grievance machinery "a farce" and others complained that the "authoritarian" manner of Executive Director Bell has left agency workers intimidated and disorganized.

Discontent that has simmered for years has come to the boil, critics allege, as the result of a stunning barrage of firings and layoffs that began with the termination of Shirley Hughes at the end of April. A veteran therapist in the outpatient clinic, Mrs. Hughes was let go, colleagues said, one day after receiving an "excellent" evaluation by her supervisor.

The next to go was Lois Baldrige, a medical records specialist who had been with the agency for nearly 16 of its 21 years in existence.

There followed, in quick order, Robin Moore, a receptionist described by co-workers as "very professional" and another longtime employee; outpatient therapist Colleen Risner; Mike Ferguson, a counselor in the alcohol treatment program; Brenda Gullett, a driver; and Dr. Ted Sanders, the agency's only fulltime psychiatrist and its medical director.

Colleagues said that Risner, whose next-to-last evaluation characterized her as an "excellent" therapist and "strongly recommended," was then assigned to a new supervisor for eight days and summarily discharged.

Janie Hall, a registered nurse who has built a reputation as an expert witness in spouse-, sexual-, and child-abuse cases in court here, said she was informed (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Fawn Becomes Shelter Resident

Authorized by the Kentucky Department of Fish & Wildlife to take in orphaned or injured wildlife, the Eastern Kentucky Wildlife Federation's animal shelter near here received its first wild critter this week, a five-day-old whitetail fawn whose mother had been killed by a mowing machine in Lawrence county. Still shaky on its spindly legs, the little doe nonetheless was accepting bottles of baby formula with considerable enthusiasm (as shown in photo) and is expected to survive.

Such wildlife, if nursed back to adequate health, will be released on the Federation's wildlife refuge near Martin, although Federation President Curtis Hughes said the fawn might become the shelter mascot since she may not be able to adapt to the wild.

The Federation shelter is funded by membership dues, individual donations and the Floyd County Fiscal Court. Primarily a repository for stray or unwanted dogs and cats, the shelter maintains a pet adoption program and visitors are welcome to stop by or call 886-3189.

Pleas of Guilty Made by Three

Three defendants cut a deal with the court Tuesday, pleading guilty to amended charges and accepting sentences recommended by the prosecutor.

Curtis Blackburn, of Prestonsburg, pleaded guilty in Floyd Circuit Court to a charge of criminal possession of a forged instrument. He was sentenced to a year in jail, to be probated on condition that he pay back to the state the $815 that he received illegally in unemployment benefits.

Blackburn was originally charged on a felony count of making a fraudulent claim, the prosecution claiming he collected jobless benefits for seven weeks last April and May while he was working for the juvenile detention center here. The charge to which he pleaded guilty is a misdemeanor.

Anthony R. Potter received concurrent one-year sentences on two counts of receiving stolen property. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley agreed to consider probation after Potter has served two months of his sentence, on condition the young offender go back to live in Ohio. Prestonsburg police said Potter tried to sell a pair of radio speakers which had been stolen from a car belonging to Sam Hicks, Jr., of Allen.

Shannon Lee Blakey pleaded guilty to six counts of forgery and one of cultivating marijuana for sale. The forgery charges, for which the Commonwealth has recommended a four-year sentence, stem from Blakey's forging a signature on a $157 social security check belonging to Brian K. Wireman last October, using it to open a bank account, and then drawing on the account to make various purchases.

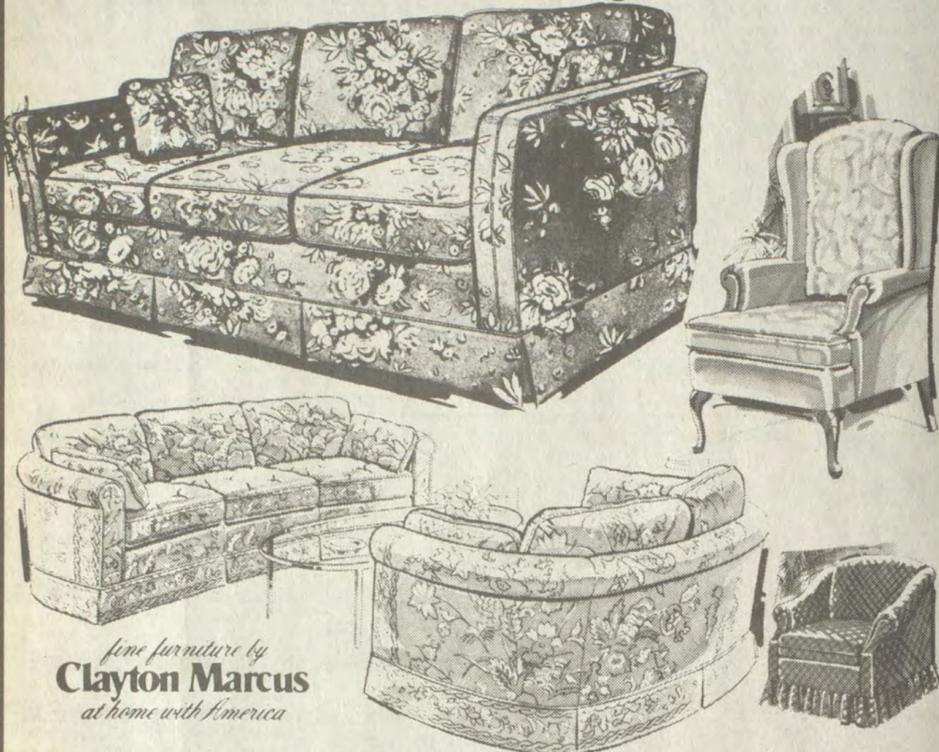

He was also accused of growing 51 small marijuana plants in the apartment on University Drive which he shared with Ronald Roth, who faces an identical charge. The prosecutor recommended a year on that count, to be served concurrently with the earlier sentence. Sentencing on both the forgery and cultivation convictions awaits a presentence report from the probation and parole officer, however.

Unjustifiable Murder

The conflict stemming from men's thinking on the individual's right to work burst into gunfire in Pike county last week.

A man was killed. He had a wife, two children and a third child was expected. He was supporting his family by driving a coal truck that moved non-union coal from mine to tipples. As an American citizen, it can be argued, he had a right to do honest labor to house, feed and clothe the wife and children who were dependent upon him and his earnings.

On the other hand, there are others—including, no doubt, the unknown man whose bullet ended the driver's life—who contend that this man's exercise of the right to work impinged upon their rights. They, too, have wives and children to support, and only the labor union to which they belong stands between them and the "starvation" wages of other years.

So goes the struggle for men's minds. The arguments, pro and con, are heard all the way from mountain firesides to workers' meeting places to the nation's capital. We make no effort to explore in depth the reasoning employed by the opposing sides. But the tragic result of the Pike county conflict is clear—it was murder, a crime that cannot be justified by any concept of economics or individual needs.

As one friend of the slain man said, "There are a dozen better ways to stop a coal truck than by killing somebody."

Cabinet, reported that the five-year-old named Compton when she was asked if anyone had touched her intimately. Bond was initially set at $30,000, pending a grand jury decision in September on whether to issue an indictment against Compton, and Assistant County Attorney Eric Hall opposed a move by Johnson to reduce it.

But the defense attorney argued successfully that the bond should be lowered to $10,000 and that Compton should be allowed to sign it himself. The prosecution has "little evidence" and even that must be seen in the context of "a history of family dispute," the lawyer contended.

According to court records, Ely swore out a warrant in June, 1980, charging Compton with unlawful transaction with a minor. She filed the charge when she learned that, 18 months earlier, Compton had driven her 14-year-old daughter and the daughter's boyfriend to Clintwood, Virginia, to get married, Ely said.

A December, 1984 charge named Compton on five counts of possessing a forged instrument. Ely said the charges involved social security and teacher's retirement checks belonging to her mother—Compton's grandmother—Mrs. Margaret Compton, of Harold, Compton, who was raised by his grandmother and still sometimes stayed with her, presented her checks at grocery and liquor stores, Ely said.

Mrs. Compton herself signed warrants twice accusing her grandson of trespass and, most recently, of assault. But defense attorney Johnson said that Mrs. Compton, 82, and senile, "does whatever Karen Ely tells her to do."

For District 3 Magistrate Ed Caudill, the solution is to beef up the county's one-man enforcement staff. "We have one ecology officer. The only way to stop it is to have one in each magisterial district," he said.

But Ecology Officer Cleveland Tackett warned that putting more resources into enforcement would achieve nothing as long as people who see others dumping are not willing to testify against them in court. Asked why people are often unwilling to appear as witnesses, Tackett replied, "They're afraid to. It's rougher out there than it looks."

The problem is made worse, he added, by the standards of proof demanded in district court here. "We had a witness who got a license number. We traced the owner of the vehicle and issued a citation. The witness was willing to testify. But (District Judge) Harold (Stumbo) told us no jury would convict unless the witness had seen the (defendant) face to face," he said. "People are scared enough getting a license number without going up and looking the guy in the face," he added.

Sheriff's deputies could help, Tackett said, explaining, "They travel the county a lot. If they stopped people whenever they saw a cup thrown out..."

Magistrate Gerald DeRossett was not hopeful. "Some people would throw it in the creek if you came out every day to pick it up," he said. "But a solution needs to be found. Samons insisted. "Otherwise," he said, "our children and grandchildren are going to be killed in their own filth."

academic excellence. We congratulate them and also all others who have decided that schools are for learning—whether the learner can kick or pass a football or dunk a basketball, notwithstanding.

That is not to condemn athletics. But one thing is pretty certain: the things learned in school will last a long time after athletic skills are lost and are attested to only by age-yellowed newspaper clippings.

Correction

Contrary to a report in last week's issue that the Big Sandy Health Care, Inc. board had asked for the resignation of Ellis Buchanan, the agency's executive-director, Board President Walter W. Turner has informed The Times that Buchanan voluntarily tendered his resignation prior to the board meeting in question. Also, rather than being "fired outright," comptroller Lois Trusty was asked by the board to submit her resignation and was suspended in the meantime, Turner said, adding that the longtime employee has since requested a hearing on the decision to let her go. The Times regrets the errors.

ed by Bell at 4:30 one afternoon that she was to report thereafter to "give shots" at the agency's Pikeville office. The abrupt transfer, which Hall called "punitive," prompted one supporter, Hardin C. Short, to remark, "They got an expert out and got her frying eggs."

Don Lafferty, a counselor who customarily saw clients one day a week at the Mud Creek Clinic, was suddenly assigned there five days a week—puzzling staffers in both agencies.

Dr. Sanders said he was fired after declining an invitation by Bell to submit his resignation. In explanation of his reluctance to go voluntarily, the psychiatrist said, "It didn't seem the ethical thing, without knowing what was going to happen to my patients."

Employees spoke of a climate of fear in the workplace, several charging that Bell once distributed a memo warning them that they would be "fired on the spot" if they approached board members without going through him. On the other hand, attempts to go through channels provided in the agency's personnel policies often fall foul of frustrating roadblocks and detours, some charge. "We're snagged," said Janie Hall, noting that a letter she sent to her supervisor complaining of her recent transfer and demotion—a letter which personnel policy dictates should be answered in five days—has gone unanswered for two weeks.

Much of the concern, especially among citizen supporters of MCCC programs, is directed at what they see as the steady deterioration in patient services during Bell's tenure.

An immediate effect of the recent staff upheavals, one pointed out, can be gauged from a May 13 letter to patients of the agency's outpatient program. The form letter advised patients that the clinic "will temporarily be offering emergency services and regularly scheduled doctor visits only."

"For the time being," it went on, "all regularly scheduled visits with your therapist are cancelled."

Wes Howard worries about the future of the Layne House, the agency's 28-day alcoholic treatment center, which he described as "one of the most successful" of MCCC's programs. And Mary Lou Layne, widow of Frank Layne, for whom the treatment center is named, wondered aloud, "Is it going down the drain or not?"

To a fear expressed by Howard that the Auxier road greenhouse "seems to be slackening down," Board Chairman Gary Sward replied that, while construction is causing short-term disruption of the program there, the remodeling "will make it better in the future." And Executive-Director Bell said that $18,000 had been shifted from the greenhouse program to support a program for emotionally-handicapped children at Pikeville.

But others see things differently. The real cause of disruption at the greenhouse, some said, was a recent decision to transfer responsibility for the program from the trained and experienced employees who have long managed it successfully to a new manager without experience either in horticulture or in sheltered-workshop training programs.

And Carolyn Ford noted that MCCC now offers fewer services for handicapped pre-schoolers that it did 14 years ago. "I feel we're going backward, not growing," she said.

Bell replied that, 14 years ago, the federal government contributed $1 million toward MCCC's annual budget, adding that the federal subsidy now amounts to only $60,000. "If we kept the $1 million we could probably still have an array of services," he said. And even his critics acknowledge that the agency has suffered over the years from federal budget-cutting.

But Janie Hall insists that "funding cutbacks are not what is happening to this agency." What is happening, she said, it that "David Bell is angry. He wants revenge."

Bell was unavailable for comment Tuesday, his secretary explaining that he had left for a planned, two-week vacation.

Johns Cr. Man Ambush Victim In Pike County

The body of 35-year-old Hayes West, who was killed by sniper fire from a Pike county mountainside last Wednesday morning, was buried Sunday in the Hayes Phillips cemetery at Kimber, on upper Johns Creek.

His funeral was held earlier in the day from the Primitive Baptist Church on Raccoon, the victim's home community, and a caravan of more than 100 coal trucks followed the hearse bearing the body from the church to the cemetery.

The slaying of West came after repeated outbreaks of violence connected with a mine strike and the transportation of coal from non-union mines. With the victim buried, further hostilities were reported this week after shots had been fired into an upstairs bedroom of UMWA local union president Bill G. Davis in West Williamson.

West was hauling coal for the Samoyed Energy Co. when he was shot at or near the top of Coeburn Mountain. His brother, Phillip West, who first reached the wounded man, led the two-mile procession of trucks following the body to the church.

In the race for county clerk, the final tally is remarkable only for the number of absentee ballots recorded—497, of which 307 went to County Clerk Carla Boyd. The incumbent defeated Herschel Hamilton, a Mud Creek preacher and former magistrate, by 4521 votes.

The fiscal court will see two new members in January, Kenneth Roberts, a long-powerful figure in Right Beaver politics, was able to come in only fourth in the contest for District 2, which went to Jackie Edford Owens, who made a campaign issue of the charges Roberts is facing in Circuit Court here, R.D. (Doc) Marshall, the Allen dentist who came in 39 votes behind Owens, has requested a recount.

The other magistrate unseated Tuesday was Lowell Samons, who might also have been hurt by the single indictment received as a result of a state police investigation of county finances in 1982. Samons generally won on his native Prater Creek, lost on Mud Creek, and split the Big Sandy vote with Ermal Tackett, who ended up beating him by 1740 votes to 1309.

District 1 Magistrate Gerald DeRossett (1491) managed to ward off a challenge by E. "Shag" Branham (1175). Arvel "Mush" Nelson (700), who came in fourth after Bill Ray Collins (893), is among those who have filed for a recount. In District 3, veteran Magistrate Ed Caudill beat back Grover Samons to win, 1808 votes to 1296.

Absentee ballots cost Ed Kuss the right to challenge Ann Latta for mayor of Prestonsburg in November, although Kuss has asked for a recount. Mrs. Latta easily outstripped her two rivals, winning 873 votes, compared to 202 for Kuss and 200 for Harry Short, before absentees were counted. While Kuss received six absentee votes, however, Short received 35, which pushed him into second place and apparently assured him a place on the ballot at the general election.

David School Receiving Videotapes, Equipment

KET and the David School have formed a summer partnership. As part of an ongoing drop-out prevention effort, KET has placed video equipment and videotapes in the school which emphasize basic math and reading skills.

This video equipment was purchased as part of KET's "GED Study-At-Home/Drop-Out Prevention" program, which began with a pilot project last fall in 18 eastern Kentucky counties. The program was funded by a major grant from the Ashland Oil Foundation.

According to Brenda Griffin, director of Adult Learning Services at KET, "the equipment and videotapes will, hopefully, allow the small teaching staff at David School to give more individualized instruction to their students. "This cooperative effort is intended to reinforce basic skills by using KET's series as a learning resource," she added.

David School was one of the drop-out prevention models highlighted in the "Dropping Out, What's It Worth?" documentary, which aired last November 12, on KET. According to Dan Green, director of the David School, enrollment at the school has doubled since the program aired. Enrollment at the private alternative school for students in grades 7 through 12 is now at 100. The program seeks to help a student obtain either job placement, a high school diploma, or a GED certificate.

Says Green, "We are most grateful to KET for sharing our story with the general public, and we hope other counties would consider setting up a similar program."

The equipment was installed at the school last Wednesday, when Griffin and J.C. Blevins, utilization specialist at KET, conducted a teacher training session on effective utilization of KET's programming.

'A Light Unto the Mountains'

I feel that it is my obligation to inform the public of a most unusual college that exists in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky. This small college is Alice Lloyd College, located in Pippa Passes.

I chose to attend this small school after graduating from high school with a 3.97 grade point average. My dream had always been to attend college and prepare myself for law school. However, at that time this was just a dream. I was given an academic scholarship which covered tuition, room and board. The only obligation that I had to meet was maintain a 3.0 grade point average while attending. It seemed too good to be true.

Alice Lloyd College is a four-year college offering degrees in the liberal arts. It has many unique qualities that separate it from other schools. Some of these unique characteristics are required work study, strict academic standards and the teaching of Christian and moral values. Although these are an important part of the college, Alice Lloyd College is much more. For students who want to further their education beyond a bachelor's degree, Alice Lloyd College is more than willing to help.

During my sophomore year, I had written a thank-you letter to a supporter of the school. In this letter I included my dream of going to law school. This lady was impressed and she called Dr. Jerry C. Davis, president of the college, to inform him of her interest in contributing to the Caney Scholarship Fund with a scholarship in my behalf. Dr. Davis told me of the incident and I was shocked with excitement. This caused me to become even more bound and determined to continue my college success. I was beginning to believe that my dream could become reality.

When I started back to college this past fall to complete my senior year, I told Dr. Davis that I wanted to take the Law School Admission Test (LSAT). Since I had not had a full-time summer job, I did not have the funds necessary to pay for the test. Alice Lloyd College was so interested in my dream that the school paid for me to take the test. I took the test and applied for admission at the three law schools in Kentucky. Presently, I have been accepted at the University of Louisville School of Law and the Salmon P. Chase College of Law of Northern Kentucky University. Since being accepted, Alice Lloyd is granting me a Caney Scholarship which will cover tuition at either school I choose to attend. If I am accepted at the University of Kentucky, the Caney Scholarship will provide for a room already paid for, since Alice Lloyd College owns its own housing near the campus of the University. As anyone can see, this college has made my dream become reality.

If I had gone to another institution, I know that I would have never had such an opportunity. If students are willing to work for their education, this college will give anyone an education at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Presently, the college has several students attending graduate and professional schools. These young people were given the same opportunity as I.

I believe that there is not another college on this earth that is any more interested in educating Appalachian youth. Today, Alice Lloyd College's main goal is educating Appalachian youth for service in the mountains. Mrs. Lloyd's motto was, "The Leaders Are Here." Alice Lloyd College still teaches that philosophy. I should know that this is true because I see what this college has done for me.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the professors who have helped and encouraged me. I would also like to thank Dr. Jerry C. Davis, president, Dr. Wallace Campbell, dean of Alice Lloyd College, for their encouragement and guidance. They truly believed in my abilities and I can never thank them enough.

On May 11 I graduated from Alice Lloyd College with a degree in Elementary Education. I am going to miss this small college in the mountains which has made such a big impression on my life. I know beyond a shadow of a doubt, that this college is truly a light unto the mountains.

Election Aftermath

What an awful sight greeted me when I took my son to school last Wednesday morning! Campaign literature covered the school grounds and several children were out dodging buses and cars to pick it up.

I understand this was the case at some other schools used for voting, too. I'm sure that this has been going on for years and it is a shame. Our children go to school to learn, not to pick up trash. Since the candidates pay people to hand their literature out, why don't they pay to have it cleaned up? Each candidate could contribute an equal amount to a fund specifically for cleaning up after the election. The fund could be divided equally among the precincts.

I don't know why schools are used for voting, anyway. There are other places that could be used. Although the day is made up, it seems odd that our children go to school on Memorial Day and are out on election day. Is the day we vote more important than the day we're supposed to honor the men who died to give us freedom and the right to vote in the first place?

A Plea For Help

Behind stretches out a long lifetime of helping others. Now, I'm all alone except for the Lord. The Lord is my only friend.

I am 62 years old now and on a small monthly Social Security check. I am a veteran of World War II; saw active service with a Navy hospital during 1944-45. My V.A. pension has been cut off, so I find myself alone and I don't have enough money to live on.

Last winter I was snowbound here, and my faithful old dog became the mother of nine pups. They are 11 weeks old. If I killed all my dogs, I could save myself by taking a bus out of the hills of Kentucky and never looking back.

But I can't kill my dogs. Some one on P. T. L. said, "There is always some one else in worse shape than you are. Look around you. By helping others, sometimes we can help each other."

Now, who is in worse shape than I am? And who can I be a blessing to?

The fact is, I have a good education—not the best, but to be sure, but I did go three years to Malone College, in Canton, O. Malone is a Christian college. I studied to be an elementary school teacher, but I didn't quite make it. Like St. Paul would say, I missed my mark—education.

Now, what gives me hope is what I learned at Malone about the Holy Bible. And I am looking to the Lord to provide a way where there is no way. I feel that somewhere out there is someone who can help me.

I need a home for my nine dogs. What I want is a place to live. And I could in the right place be even a blessing to some one. Who? I have training in practical nursing. I am in good health, am a good housekeeper, can bake and cook and know how to can, and I have helped freeze vegetables.

I am a Christian and I refuse to work seven days a week. I go to church on the Sabbath Day; however, if I have a sick person to care for, my duty is to the sick. If there is no one else, my duty holds me to the sick. They have to be cared for.

I want to be accepted in a home as a member of the family. I can help a child with a learning problem. I did do well teaching children. I got two certificates from the state of Ohio to teach. I was hired twice without a degree. All I had to offer was what I learned in the Holy Bible at Malone and what I learned in nursing, and the fact that I love children and I love all people.

I'm 62, white and a Christian, and now I need a Christian or maybe just a good sinner to help me.

Commends Effort

On Friday, May 17, Governor Martha Layne Collins and Superintendent Alice McDonald spoke to a "full house" at a meeting held at Jenny Wiley State Park. The topic was education and how it affects Floyd county and Kentucky.

I would like to applaud the concerned citizenry who are rallying to the support of public education. Education and jobs go hand-in-hand. By working together towards a better public school system we afford our children the opportunity to achieve a standard of living that will enable them to live and prosper in the county of their birth.

Travel Costs Up Slightly In '85

Lower automobile costs and higher lodging costs will make traveling this summer only slightly more expensive than last year. The average American family of four can expect to spend about $164 a day on this year's driving vacation, an increase of only about 3% over last year's figure, according to the Bluegrass Automobile Club (AAA).

These projected costs include:
—$21 a day for 300 miles of driving in a car that averages 23 miles to a gallon.
—$76 a day for food (25% for breakfast, 30% for lunch, and 45% for dinner).
—$67 a day for lodging for two adults and two children. This is based on the average rate charged for approved accommodations listed in AAA TourBooks and includes $5 extra per night for every child.

AAA travel experts emphasize this total represents averages and will vary according to each family's preferences and means as well as the area to which they are traveling.

Insurance Coverage Now More Available

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Insurance coverage will now be available for areas of Kentucky that have been rated "higher risks," according to state Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet Secretary Melvin H. Wilson.

Wilson said that the expanded coverage resulted from a recommendation from the State Insurance Department which was approved by the committee that oversees the state insurance FAIR Plan. The FAIR Plan extensions, as the expanded coverage is called, include:

* Effective June 1, 1985, each FAIR Plan insured will have an option to pay his premium on either a three or six month basis as well as annually.

* Effective June 1, 1985, the amount of personal property coverage available will be increased from the current $100,000 to $150,000.

* Effective June 1, 1985, commercial risk businesses located in classes 9 and 10 will be eligible for coverage. (Up to now, the Plan offered insurance for classes one through eight.) The coverage includes a $250,000 maximum.

* Effective August 1, 1985, farm property will be eligible for extended coverage. Again, the cap will be $250,000.

These changes translate into available insurance coverage for parts of the Commonwealth that had been considered uninsurable or tremendously expensive to insure, Wilson said.

"The extensions open doors for much-needed coverage across the State, for the farmer in West Kentucky to the miner in East Kentucky," he continued. "As a former insurance adjuster and resident of Pike county, I know just how hard it can be to find affordable coverage in the mountains. And, this (FAIR Plan) coverage is available through licensed agents when other coverage may not be available."

"State Insurance Commissioner Gil McCarty and I, after meeting with East Kentuckians and with the FAIR PLAN Committee, feel confident that this insurance coverage expansion is a strong start to ease some of those problems. But this is only a beginning to our efforts to assure our neighbors all over the State that they have access to fair insurance coverage."

Wilson pointed out that the extended insurance coverage could even help banks in communities that had higher risk areas. For example, if high risk properties can be insured, the local bank may be more willing to make a loan on the now-covered property. Such transactions can generate additional community-wide business.

McCarty added that the federal and State FAIR Plans originated during the middle and late 1960's as a solution to insuring areas that had been the scene of riots and looting.

A seven-person committee oversees and administers the funds for the state FAIR Plan. Since its inception in 1968, only one assessment has been levied against the property and casualty companies. That was levied by former Insurance Commissioner Daniel D. Briscoe in the early 1980's.

For more information on the FAIR Plan extended coverage, contact Kirtley Hockensmith, Jr., Kentucky Department of Insurance, P.O. Box 517, Frankfort, Kentucky, or call (502) 564-6076 and ask for Mr. Hockensmith.

The U.S. Department of Labor's Division of Cooperative Labor-Management Programs was created in June 1982 to encourage and assist employers, unions and others to undertake efforts to improve productivity and increase the well-being of workers through cooperative labor-management programs.

Speaks at Martin

Most of us have heard of Bret Bearup the UK basketball player, but many do not know of Bret Bearup, member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Sunday, April 28, Bearup was guest speaker at The District Conference of The LDS Church in Martin. Before a crowd of approximately 330 people, Bearup spoke of his love for Jesus Christ and his desire to succeed as a witness of the Gospel to those he is in contact with.

He spoke of the importance of setting a good example for our youth today. "Being in the limelight has helped me to set an example and prove that you can have good clean fun," stated Bearup.

After going to a family reunion in Idaho last summer he said he noticed the closeness of his relatives and their families and wondered how they could have so much happiness and love while enjoying each other so much. He soon realized that it was the love of Jesus Christ in the home. He says, "The family is the most important unit in our church, and the happiness that is found when we have Heavenly Father in the home is a great blessing that we are all offered if we are willing to work to take advantage of it."

After his graduation from UK, Bret plans to reside in Lexington until September. He then plans to travel to Europe to pursue a career in professional basketball.

Miss Zemo Is Named Academic All-American

The National Secondary Education Council announced today that Michelle Zemo has been named an Academic All-American.

The NSEC has established the Academic All-American Scholar Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the Academic disciplines. The Academic All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or better grade point average. Only Scholars selected by a secondary school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the NSEC. These are awards few students can ever hope to attain.

Miss Zemo, who attends Johnson Central High School, was nominated for this national award by Mrs. Spencer, teacher at the school. Rhonda Zemo will appear in the Academic All-American Scholar Directory, which is published nationally.

Rhonda Zemo is the daughter of Diana Stephens and the step-daughter of Jack Stephens, of Auxier, and the daughter of Allen Zemo, of Allen. The grandparents are Ann and Marvin Alley, of Prestonsburg, and Elizabeth Alley, of Auxier, and the late Ruth S. Alley.

Modern Path To The Altar
Strewn With Ancient Customs

According to the Census Bureau, some 2.5 million couples tied the knot in 1984, and more than 300,000 of them did so in June, America's favorite month for traditional weddings. Today's June bride, however, might be surprised to learn just how far back the roots of our traditions reach. Her counterpart in ancient Rome wore a veil and flowers, shared a wedding cake with guests, was given a ring, was showered with rice and carried over the threshold.

Bernard Jacoupy, owner of Bernard's restaurant in Los Angeles and founder of Les Amis de Grand Marnier, an organization that devotes itself to the theory and practice of romance and romantic customs, points out that "many of the wedding customs we practice today date back to the ancient Egyptians, Greeks and Romans."

"Interestingly enough, some of our favorite wedding traditions—such as carrying the bride over the threshold—have decidedly unromantic origins" he explains. This custom began with the birth of Rome when Romulus, the city's founder, sought brides for his bachelor warriors. When the neighboring people, the Sabines, refused to give up their daughters, Romulus invited the families to a feast. On cue, the Romans rushed into the crowd and abducted the young women. And, from "The Rape of the Sabine Women" comes the symbolic abduction the groom practices today.

Some customs that are more romantic in origin include:

- The wedding ring, which has always been a symbol of unity and of the contract of marriage, was used in ancient Egypt and was probably made of iron. Rings were also held to have magical properties, provided they were perfectly round and unadorned.

- The fourth finger of the hand was chosen as the "ring finger" because it was believed that a vein in that digit was in direct communication with the heart.

- Wedding cakes before the time of Elizabeth I were dry, brittle biscuits that were thrown over the heads of the bride and groom because wheat was a symbol of fertility. During the reign of Elizabeth, the bland biscuits were replaced by sweet buns, and later by large cakes which were also (rather messily) thrown over the couple's heads.

- The ancient Greeks threw rice and dried fruit over the bride and groom to encourage fertility. Another symbol of fertility is that of the child bearing flowers—the flower girl.

- Brides did not wear white until the 16th century—in fact, they usually just wore their best dress, purely for economic reasons.

- In early Christian ceremonies, the priest placed a wreath of flowers upon the head of both bride and groom to signal the start of the ceremony. Usually, the wreath was made of orange blossoms. Since ancient times orange blossoms have been considered the flower of romance and the orange the fruit of love. Today, products made from oranges such as Grand Marnier, the aromatic and romantic liqueur, continue to symbolize this celebration of love.

- The "something blue" of the traditional bride's rhyme dates back to the ancient Israelites, who dressed the new bride in a blue ribbon as a symbol of purity, love and fidelity. The "sixpence in her shoe" stems from ancient Rome when the bride bought three coins, one for the husband, one for household gods and one for prosperity. The "something borrowed" was for good luck. Something old and borrowed was considered even better, hence a bit of lace from grand-mother's veil, or mother's wedding dress is sometimes worn.

Mr. Jacoupy points out that, "It is ultimately important to remember that most of these ancient rituals symbolize the purpose, both physical and spiritual, that we still hold dear today: commitment and partnership, love, continuation of the family, affirmation of religious beliefs and the strengthening of the community."

NUMB ARMS, LEGS
Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble.

- (1) Paresthesias (see above)
- (2) Headaches
- (3) Painful joints
- (4) Numbness in the arms or hands
- (5) Loss of sleep
- (6) Stiffness in the neck
- (7) Pain between the shoulders
- (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back
- (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals... call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Billboard Blight: Worse Than Ever

This is what happens when Congress doesn't read the fine print before voting to enact a law. Thinking to improve the appearance of the countryside, they voted the Highway Beautification Act in 1965. The purpose was to limit billboards on the federal highway system, restricting the placement of new signs in scenic areas and compensating sign owners for the removal of old billboards.

But the act had a lot of fine print which directly contradicted the intent of the act. According to the June Reader's Digest, the fine print actually "threw out 50 years of billboard-control decisions by the courts." It forbade customary amortization and declared all signs removed had to be paid for by taxpayers. "Since estimates of the value of signs that legally must still be removed range up to a couple of billion dollars," the article continues, "it would take 1000 years to finish the job."

Nor did the fine print end there. There was no provision for reducing the size or height of billboards; this was to be worked out between federal and state officials. The dimensions proposed in a model agreement issued by the Federal Highway Administration had in fact been designed by the Outdoor Advertising Association of America, Inc. (OAAA), and quadrupled the size limits and placed no limitation on height. This is why you see the gigantic monoliths that loom over our nation's highways, visible for miles.

The abuses do not end here. But in 1981 a group of citizens established the Coalition for Scenic Beauty to lobby for reform of the Beautification Act. "A long, tough fight awaits them," the article comments. "The OAAA is widely known for the influence it exerts both on key Congressional committee members... and on the bureaucrats at the Federal Highway Administration."

The Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works, which oversees the act and could conduct an investigation on OAAA lobbying, is chaired by Sen. Robert Stafford (R., Vt.), who has fought the OAAA quite hard. Any investigation he might conduct would be thorough and hard-hitting.

At Optometrists' Meet

Jerald Combs, O.D., whose office is located on KY 122, recently attended the 1985 spring congress of the Kentucky Optometric Association held at the Hyatt Regency in Louisville. At the conference Dr. Combs also participated in educational programs on radial keratotomy, vascular causes of visual disorders, contact lenses and other topics.

Dr. Combs has practiced in the Martin area since 1982.

Ky. Christian College New Council Member

Kentucky Christian College, Grayson, Ky., was elected to membership in the Council of Independent Kentucky Colleges and Universities at the spring meeting of the Council in Danville.

Membership in the Council is limited to Kentucky's not-for-profit colleges and universities which are accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. Kentucky Christian joins Alice Lloyd, Asbury, Bellarmine, Berea, Brescia, Campbellsville, Centre, Cumberland, Georgetown, Kentucky Wesleyan, Lees, Lindsey, Wilson, Midway, Pikeville, St. Catharine, Spalding, Sue Bennett, Thomas Moore, Transylvania, and Union in Council activities which include research, cooperative programs, public relations, and government relations.

John W. Frazier, executive director of CIKCU, called special attention to the substantial progress which Kentucky Christian has made during Dr. L. Palmer Young's tenure as president. Frazier noted with genuine appreciation the action of the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools which moved Kentucky Christian to full accreditation as a baccalaureate-granting institution.

Low Milk Prices Expected To Last

National retail milk prices fell in 1984 for the first time in almost 20 years. Prices in Kentucky have followed suit, and are expected to remain steady to slightly higher through 1985.

Dr. Gary T. Lane, Extension dairy specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, said national prices for milk declined from 1983 to 1984 and are only two cents a gallon higher than they were in 1981.

Kentucky retail milk prices have declined over the last year partly in conjunction with national trends, and partly due to recent court rulings overturning laws which prevented grocers from selling milk at below wholesale prices.

These declines came in the face of sizeable reductions in dairy production in the state. Kentucky, which produces only 1.6 percent of the national milk supply, reduced its production by 12.8 percent between 1983 and 1984. Nebraska, which produces only half what Kentucky produces, was the only state to post a greater reduction in production.

Home Grown Popcorn

If popcorn is a favorite snack—not just a “when you go to the movies” treat—you might consider growing your own. Popcorn should mature on the plant, so planting by the end of June is necessary to allow the 85 to 120 days it takes from seed to harvest.

Popcorn will grow anywhere that sweet or field corn will grow, preferably a sunny, well-drained location. Several short rows rather than one long row are desirable to assure adequate pollination. It will not harm popcorn if it cross pollinates with other corn, but if sweet corn is also desired, the two should be separated because pollination of sweet corn by popcorn will result in tough, unchewable kernels on the sweet corn. Popcorn is slower to germinate than sweet corn due to its hard seed coat, so allow 10 to 12 days before you digging.

Popcorn should be fertilized at planting time (with approximately two pounds actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet, i.e., 2 pounds 10-10-10) and sidedressed at the same rate when the popcorn is about one foot tall. Adequate water is necessary, especially at silking and as the kernels develop. Weeds should be controlled to eliminate competition for fertilizer and to remove a sanctuary for insects and diseases. The same pest problems (bacterial wilt, smut, corn earworms, corn borers, etc.) that attack sweet corn can attack popcorn, and the same control measures should be used.

The growing season for popcorn is slightly longer than for sweet corn because popcorn should fully mature and dry on the stalk before harvest (stalks brown and dry, husks, dry, kernels hard). Ears should be picked prior to heavy frosts, especially if the weather is cool and damp, often promoting mold growth in the ears.

At harvest, the moisture level in the kernels will be approximately 16 percent. For good popping the level should be down to about 13.5 percent. This is accomplished by letting the ears, with husks pulled back or removed, cure for two or three weeks in a warm, dry, well-ventilated area. Place them in an old stocking, mesh bag or basket, or string them into bunches so that air freely flows around them.

To test for proper cured moisture level, shell and pop a small sample each week. When about 100 percent of the kernels pop, the popcorn is cured. Rub the ears together to shell them, then store the kernels in containers that can be sealed tightly to keep out excess moisture or insects. (Glass jars with metal lids are best.) Refrigeration or even freezing is a good storage method and can keep the popcorn fresh for three to four years. If popcorn over dries (many kernels don't pop or only partially pop), shake a quart jar of kernels with one tablespoon of water for a couple of days.

Popcorn, a truly American food dating back to at least 3000 B.C., has undergone considerable breeding work and many improved hybrids with better yields and popping expansion have resulted. There are also novelties with colored kernels, small ears, no hulls and dwarf plants.

Because most varieties sold today are hybrids, buy new seed each year, don't save your own or a range of less-than-desirable popcorn may result. There are two non-hybrid types of popcorn: yellow popcorn that pops into large, yellowish colored balls, and white popcorn that is smaller, slightly sweeter and generally hull-less.

Timely Tip: An easy way to remove silks from sweet corn is by brushing ears with an old toothbrush. And according to an ancient Chinese technique, sweet corn will ripen sooner and be sweeter with acupuncture. While the silks are still green, drive a round toothpick through the base of the ear stem and into the main stalk just above the stem joint. The wound forces healing sugars to the punctured stem.

These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the NSEC.

Tanya Nickles, who attends Knott Co. Central, was nominated for this national award by Miss Jacobs, English teacher. Miss Nickles name will appear in the Academic All-American Scholar Directory, which is published nationally.

She is the daughter of Jimmy and Rita Nickles, and her grandparents are Stewart and Molly Banks, of Hueysville, and Dina Nickles, of Dema, and the late Bee Nickles.

Tour Includes Humana Visit

A group of Mountain Christian Academy students who had the opportunity recently to participate in a three-day tour of historical landmarks and meet history-making personalities is shown with State Representative and House Majority Floor Leader Greg Stumbo at Frankfort. The tour, April 17-21, took the youngsters to the state capitol where they met Lt. Governor Steve Brashear and Gov. Martha Layne Collins as well as visiting with Rep. Stumbo. Highlight of the trip was a tour of the Louisville Humana Hospital's Heart Wing where the children were fortunate enough to meet Dr. DeVries, the surgeon most closely identified with artificial heart implantation procedures. In addition, the group visited My Old Kentucky Home at Bardstow, the Abraham Lincoln birthplace near Hodgenville, Fort Harrod, Harrodsburg, and Mammoth Cave. Their day in Louisville included a number of cultural and recreational activities as well as the visit to Humana. The tour was arranged through Rep. Stumbo's office, particularly through the efforts of his secretary, Charlotte Ellis.

Roadside Theater, Unique Ensemble

Roadside Theater is an ensemble theater group based in the mountains of eastern Kentucky and southwest Virginia. All of Roadside's actors and musicians were born and raised in the area, and by drawing on the Appalachian region's traditions of oral history, storytelling, music, and church services the company has created it's theatrical style and original plays.

By minimizing the use of sets, props, costumes, and lighting effects the theater has been able to take this original work to the people throughout the region. Roadside's current repertory includes four original plays, RED FOX/SECOND HANGIN', BROTHER JACK, SOUTH OF THE MOUNTAIN, MOUNTAIN TALES AND MUSIC. The hope is that through these regional performances, Roadside's audiences can see the strength of their own culture and how to use it as a resource in their daily lives.

Many of Roadside's average of 200 performances a year are done outside of the region for audiences who have little or no familiarity with Appalachia except what they have seen on T.V. or read in magazines. While performing in these communities, some as geographically distant as Zuni, New Mexico or as culturally distant as New York City, Roadside members try to do more than give their audiences a professional theater performance.

When performing in a community Roadside hosts workshops and discussions designed to provide those people in attendance with information about where Roadside is from, what Roadside does, and why. Much of the Theater's time at a location is spent in an effort to give at least a part of that community some new ideas about Appalachia.

Roadside Theater is a part of Appalshop, Inc., a non-profit media arts organization. Roadside is funded in part by the Virginia Commission for the Arts, the Kentucky Arts Council, the Ford Foundation, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Administrative actions to bring farm labor employers into compliance with the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act may include penalties of up to $1,000 per violation and, in the case of farm labor contractors, revocation of existing certificates and denial of certificates in the future.

Failure to comply with the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act may result in either civil or criminal prosecution, and courts may assess fines of up to $10,000 and levy prison sentences of up to three years, according to a U.S. Department fact sheet.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., May 28—Blue skies and warm summer temperatures brought many pleasure boaters to Kentucky's lakes over the long Memorial Day weekend, resulting in mixed fishing activity for the May 25-27 period covered by this report. The lake-by-lake rundown:

KENTUCKY: No report available.
BARKLEY: Creel Clerk Norman Brantley reported that crappie were best on minnows and jigs over drop offs and bass fishermen were casting spinner baits and flipping worms; catfish fishing was good around rip-rap and rocky points on cut bait; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 72°.

BARREN: Officer Donald Depp reported moderate fishing activity, with bass being taken on surface lures early and late, and on jigs during the day; bluegill were best off steep banks; clear to murky, rising, 11½ feet below summer pool and 74°.

ROUGH RIVER: Officer Harold Belt reported that heavy boating activity discouraged most fishermen, but that some nice catches of bluegill and only a few crappie were taken; murky, rising, four feet below summer pool and 73°.

TAYLORSVILLE: Officer John Morgan reported moderate activity, with most bass taken off points and in timber on crankbaits, jigs or spinners; bluegill were best over old creek channels and around fish attractors; clear, stable at summer pool and 76°.

HERRINGTON: Creel Clerk Bill Pinkston reported light to moderate activity, with plastic worms the best for bass, both day and night. White bass are taking plunker and fly combinations in the jumps and bluegill fishing along steep banks is getting better; clear to murky to muddy, rising slowly, two feet below summer pool and 74°.

GREEN RIVER: Officer Buddy Loy says activity was moderate to heavy, with nice catches of bluegill in the heads of coves and white bass over old roadbeds and in the jumps; clear, falling slowly, one foot above summer pool and 76°.

CUMBERLAND: Officers Randy Wilson and Fred York reported heavy activity for white bass at night in 20-30 feet of water; bluegill are picking up along shallow gravel banks. Some walleyes were caught trolling worm rigs and black bass are just now coming off the nest. There is moderate activity for trout in the tailwaters; clear, rising, five feet below summer pool and 73°.

DALE HOLLOW: No report available.
LAUREL: Officer Bob Delph reported light activity for trout under lights at night and for bass and bluegill during the day; clear, stable at one foot below summer pool and 71°.

CAVE RUN: Officer Mike Gilliam reported moderate activity, with bass hitting plastic worms and spinner baits off points and along shoreline cover. A few muskie fell for jerk baits in timbered coves and tailwater activity was light, with crappie the most common catch; clear to murky, rising, one foot above summer pool and 69°.

BUCKHORN: Officer Billy Joe Napier reported moderate activity, particularly for white bass at night off steep banks; crappie were found around submerged cover and tailwater activity was light for a variety of species; clear to muddy, stable at summer pool and 74°.

GRAYSON: Officer Jeff Adams reported light activity. Black bass were hitting spinner baits along shoreline cover and crappie were located over submerged cover around six feet deep; murky, rising, three feet below summer pool and 72°.

DEWEY: Officer Dalton Conley reported moderate activity, with most anglers fishing for crappie in 6-8 feet of water; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 72°.

FISHTRAP: Officer Don Blevins reported light activity, with crappie located 5-10 feet deep and only a few trout showing up in the tailwaters; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 74°.

Don't always trust the price tag, the June Reader's Digest cautions. More prices are negotiable than you think. So make an offer—what's to lose?

Mobile Staff To Help Those Idled After Mass Layoffs

The Department for Employment Services has created a mobile staff unit to work with people anywhere in Kentucky who lose their jobs because of mass layoffs, department commissioner James Daniels announced today.

"We are seeing a lot of plant closures and cutbacks because of technological change and foreign competition," Daniels said. "So we have established the Quick Response Team to go to any Kentucky community on short notice to work with dislocated workers and their employers."

Job Training Partnership Act funds totaling $63,866 are being used to support the team activities. The team will work with staff in dislocated worker centers across the state.

The mobile team will try to preserve jobs when a business closure or reduction is threatened and assist workers and their communities when job losses are unavoidable.

"As soon as we learn about a scheduled mass layoff or plant closure, this team can meet with the employer and the labor union, if there is one, to see if there is any way of avoiding the job losses," Daniels said. "First we want to see if management can work out some alternative to a shutdown or a reduction in the number of employees. If that's not possible, then the team can plan a program to meet the needs of that particular group of dislocated workers."

Currently, when a mass layoff or plant closure occurs, the workers are served by Employment Services staff at the local office within the affected area. "In these cases, our staff is deluged with hundreds of job applications, in addition to the normal workload," Daniels said. "So the needs of the laid-off workers are not adequately served. The Quick Response Team, which can work with them at the plant site, is trained to deal with their unique needs."

State JTPA Director Charles Furr said, "Many of these people have been working for 10 or 15, maybe 20 years, and discover there are few jobs that approach the pay scale or skill level at which they have been working. We don't want them to suffer long-term unemployment. We don't want them to vainly await being recalled to their old jobs. Often in today's job market, their skills are obsolete. Many of these workers need retraining."

The department's goal is to shorten their period of unemployment and lessen their hardship. "In working with them, it is important to stress the reality of their situation so they don't waste too much time waiting for recall if it is unlikely," Furr said. "On unemployment insurance benefits which run out, the workers will have a much more difficult time affording a retraining period."

The mobile team will work at a Louisville dislocated worker center when it is not on the field.

Our forefathers were thinner than we are, but they ate much more, the May Reader's Digest observes. How come? They were more active, worked harder and didn't use as many labor-saving machines. The sensible path to slimmness is not to diet strenuously, but to combine regular exercise with robust eating.

As computers get more sophisticated, weather prediction gets more accurate, thanks to the rapid evolution of global computer forecasts. While you still can't be sure it won't rain on your picnic, the May Reader's Digest says global forecasts have an accuracy at five and six days into the future that matches the best of the two-day forecasts of 15 years.

KEA Parley To Eye Teacher Evaluation

"Teacher Evaluation: Practices and Potential" will be the topic of a Kentucky Education Association (KEA) conference June 14 and 15 at Frankfort's Capital Plaza Hotel.

"This conference is an indication of KEA's strong commitment to fair and effective evaluation of teachers," said KEA President Jon Henrikson.

Henrikson said teams of members and staff from each KEA district will hear presentations on career ladder proposals, internships for new teachers, evaluation and fair treatment of teachers, and training of evaluators. About 75 persons are expected to attend.

A Necessity, Not A Luxury

The Age of Child Care has arrived, but we're not quite ready for it. "Waiting lists for child-care programs are enormous," writes Carl Rowan in the June Reader's Digest. "By one count there are only about seven million day-care slots available in the United States. That means as many as seven million children 13 and under remain, left alone without supervision for part of the day."

Without a nearby grandmother, working parents of small children are basically faced with two options: family day homes, in which a few children are cared for by a woman in her own home, and day care centers.

More than two-thirds of day-care youngsters are in family day homes; the Children's Defense Fund estimates there are over five million such slots. They are especially desirable for babies and toddlers, because the care provider is often a mother of young children herself, and the children enjoy the benefit of a substitute mother in a family setting. Day-care centers offer a more structured environment and may put more emphasis on educational activities.

Two of the most serious problems that day-care professionals confront are quality of staffing and inadequacy of regulations. Salaries are low, and most states do not run thorough background checks on employees or check the facilities frequently. The Digest article reports. Further, federal funding to subsidize licensed care for children of low- and middle-income families has been greatly cut, as has aid from the states.

Rowan calls for a four-pronged plan to meet the growing need for quality child care:

The commitment of private business with either on-site child-care facilities or reserved slots for employees at established centers.

The cooperation of community organizations. Churches are already deeply involved; civic groups, labor unions and service clubs are helping to provide "scholarships" or volunteer help.

The restoration of government aid and food programs that were cut in 1981. Without them, says the House Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families, "the supply of day care accessible to lower-income families will not keep pace with the increase in demand." State and local governments can also play key roles in promoting child care and a number are doing so.

The involvement of parents in terms of letting their elected officials, employers and community organizations know what their needs are. It is essential that they become knowledgeable consumers of quality care for their children.

"Good child care is a necessity, not a luxury," Rowan concludes. "It should be a vital concern of everyone, not just the parents of young children, because it touches so many aspects of our lives—productivity, poverty, education, women's rights, health. It is not meant to replace the family, but to strengthen and support it."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Donald H. Blackburn who departed our lives June 7, 1980.

There's an open gate at the end of the road,
Through which each one must go alone,
And there is a light we cannot see
Our Father claims His own;
Beyond the gate, your loved one
Finds happiness and rest,
And there is comfort in the thought
That a loving God knows best.

A memorial service will be held June 9 at 2 p.m. in memory of Donald and his grandfather, who passed away May 9, 1962. Dinner will be served prior to the service at the home of Isaac and Lillian Blackburn. Everyone is cordially invited.

Better start turning out the lights. According to the Worldwatch Institute, global energy use is expected to grow by 225 percent in the next 40 years, reports National Wildlife magazine. It will take the equivalent of two additional oil producing Saudi Arabias and a tripling of world coal production to meet the world's projected energy needs.

Wreck Claims Father and Son

Two Paintsville residents, a father and son, were almost instantly killed Tuesday noon when their car crashed head-on into a flat-bed, tractor-trailer rig on U.S. 23 near the Combs Airport.

The victims were Johnny Baldrige, 49, and Oliver Baldrige, 16.

According to reports, a car had stopped in the southbound lane of U.S. 23 to make a turn into Barker's Mobile Home Sales and the Baldrige vehicle, apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, approached the car and another vehicle behind it and was unable to stop.

Attempting to avoid a rear-end collision, the Baldrige car swerved into the northbound lane where it smashed into the tractor-trailer. The car, which was wedged beneath the front of the truck was reportedly dragged about 125 yards before the vehicles came to rest along the roadside.

Driver of the truck, Herb Rhymer, of Bristol, Tenn. escaped injury.

The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad aided Johnson county rescue workers in extracting the bodies, a task which was said to have taken more than an hour.

The wreck is under investigation by the Johnson County Sheriff's Department and the Kentucky State Police.

Hearing Problems Widespread, But Help Is Available

Nearly 90 percent of Americans who suffer hearing loss could be helped by a hearing aid, yet only a small number of those who could benefit from wearing one actually do, Reader's Digest reports in its June issue.

While some people elect not to wear a hearing aid because they're afraid of what others might think, a number of people don't seek treatment because they aren't aware that they have a hearing problem.

According to Dr. John House of the Otolologic Medical Group in Los Angeles, "Hearing loss affects more Americans than most other diseases combined." Yet because it is an invisible handicap, it remains a largely unheard of disability, the Digest notes.

The fact is some 18 million Americans—roughly one out of 13 citizens—suffer from some degree of hearing loss. An estimated 16 million of these people could be helped by a hearing aid, but only 3 million people wear them.

It's essential that anyone with a hearing impairment—or who suspects a problem—seek professional help and then follow through on a doctor's recommendation, whether it be hearing aids, surgery or medication.

Specifically, he or she should go see an otolaryngologist, a physician who specializes in diseases of the ear, nose and throat, diagnoses the cause of the hearing loss, and treats the patient.

For people unsure of the kind of help available, or even those who've been treated and who have questions about their treatment, there are a number of organizations throughout the country that can help. One such group is the national toll-free Hearing Aid Helpline (1-800-521-5247).

The Daughters of the American Revolution stress the importance of visiting historic sites to remind its citizens that our country has many points of interest. The Statue of Liberty in New York harbor was a gift to America from the people of France to celebrate a common devotion to freedom. The statue is now under a $29,000,000 refurbishment to preserve it for future generations of freedom-loving Americans.

During February, the Daughters of the American Revolution recall the famous leader of Washington's cavalry whose sobriquet was "Light Horse Harry." Henry Lee served with distinction under Washington. He served in the Virginia House of Delegates and was later elected governor of that state. He delivered the address on the death of Washington which contained the famous phrase: "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

Insurance Coverage Extended To More Kentucky Residents

Insurance coverage will now be available for Eastern Kentucky and other areas of the state that have been rated "higher risks," according to state Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet Secretary Melvin H. Wilson.

Wilson said that the expanded coverage resulted from a recommendation from the State Insurance Department which was approved by the committee that oversees the state insurance Fair Plan. The Fair Plan extensions, as the expanded coverage is called, includes:

—Effective June 1, each Fair Plan insured will have an option to pay his premium on either a three or six-month basis as well as annually.

—Effective June 1, the amount of personal property coverage available will be increased from the current $100,000 to $150,000.

—Effective June 1, commercial risk businesses located in classes 9 and 10 will be eligible for coverage. (Previously, the Plan offered insurance for only classes one through eight.) The coverage includes a $250,000 maximum.

—Effective August 1, farm property will be eligible for extended coverage. Again, the cap will be $250,000.

These changes translate into available insurance coverages for parts of the Commonwealth that had been considered uninsurable or tremendously expensive to insure, Wilson said.

"The extensions open doors for much-needed coverage across the state, for the farmer in West Kentucky to the miner in East Kentucky," he continued. "As a former insurance adjuster and resident of Pike county, I know just how hard it can be to find affordable coverage in the mountains. And, this (Fair Plan) coverage is available through licensed agents when other coverage may not be available."

"State Insurance Commissioner Gil McCarty and I, after meeting with East Kentuckians and with the Fair Plan Committee, feel confident that this insurance coverage expansion is a strong start to ease some of those problems. But this is only a beginning to our efforts to assure our neighbors all over the state that they have access to fair insurance coverage."

Wilson pointed out that the extended insurance coverage could even help banks in communities that had higher risk areas. For example, if high risk properties can be insured, the local bank may be more willing to make a loan on the now-covered property. Such transactions can generate additional community-wide business.

McCarty added that the federal and state Fair Plans originated during the middle and late 1960s as a solution to insuring areas that had been the scene of riots and looting.

A seven-person committee oversees and administers the funds for the state Fair Plan. Since its inception in 1968, only one assessment has been levied against the property and casualty companies. That was levied by former Insurance Commissioner Daniel Briscoe in the early 1980s.

'Kentucky Afield' Coming Soon To KET

Here's good news for the outdoorsman in Kentucky. Beginning Tuesday, July 2, at 7:30 p.m. (ET), KET will air "Kentucky Afield."

Although new to KET, "Kentucky Afield" is not new to Kentucky. The program has aired on commercial television since February, 1954. According to Jeremy Drier, host for the program, "The Department of Fish and Wildlife looks forward to the move to KET because the program will have a permanent time slot. In the past, the program has aired on different stations at various times of day, making it difficult for the viewer to know when to watch."

The new "Kentucky Afield" will have a diversified format, mixing news and features. Drier explained that the program's main purpose is to keep people abreast of what is happening with Kentucky's fish and wildlife resources. The program strives to promote conservation of our natural resources, warns of habitat losses due to encroachment by man, and tries to further the ethical behavior among all sportsmen and women in the legal pursuit of fish and game, Drier added.

"Kentucky Afield" will travel throughout the state featuring different kinds of wildlife in their natural habitat. On the first episode, Drier will introduce viewers to "Kentucky Afield" by showing excerpts of some of the most popular programs of the past.

Drier has been hosting "Kentucky Afield" for four and a half years. He has a degree in Wildlife Management, and is currently working toward a Masters Degree in biology at Murray State University.

"Kentucky Afield" is a co-production of the Department of Fish and Wildlife and Kentucky Educational Television.

FAME

MORE AND MORE — ABC's "North and South" miniseries has been growing in geometric proportions.

Elizabeth Taylor

It was originally planned as a 10-hour miniseries, then was expanded an extra two hours when it was decided that 10 hours simply wouldn't do justice to the John Jakes' novel. (It also wouldn't have given guest stars like Johnny Cash, Gene Kelly, Jean Simmons and Elizabeth Taylor enough screen time to justify their salaries).

Now, ABC has decided to film a 12-hour sequel as well and plans to broadcast both miniseries during the 1985-86 television season.

This will save ABC the cost of shutting down and starting up production, but it could turn into a disastrous decision if the original is a flop.

NEW NEWS — In the past several years, NBC has made a number of attempts to launch a "news magazine," like "60 Minutes" or "20/20," but none of its efforts have made so much as a dent in the ratings.

FLETCH (PG-Universal) Starring Chevy Chase, Tim Matheson, Richard Libertini. ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Chevy Chase was the first star created by "Saturday Night Live." Theoretically, he should have gone on to even greater stardom on the big screen, but something went wrong along the way. Chase scored an initial success in "Foul Play," with Goldie Hawn, but he went on to do a number of decidedly mediocre films, including "Under the Rainbow," "Caddyshack" and "Modern Problems."

His problem: the freewheeling comedy of blackout skits on live TV is sometimes very different from the rigid, sustained 90-minute characterization of a feature film.

In "Fletch," however, Chase may finally have found the right character. Chase plays a reporter for a major Los Angeles newspaper who goes undercover to try to crack a drug ring. The role calls for Chase to don disguises and get caught in embarrassing situations, and it is well-suited to Chase's bumbling bravado.

In the course of his investigations, Chase gets to play a varied assortment of characters and turns the film into a series of character sketches loosely connected by a plot having to do with drugs, murder, and — you guessed it — a beautiful woman.

The film is based on an enormously successful series of books by Gregory McDonald. In the books, Vietnam vet I.M. Fletcher is a suave, worldly character who can be hard-boiled if the situation calls for it — a sort of cross between "Magnum P.I." and Mickey Spillane. Chase plays Fletcher a cross between Mickey Spillane and Inspector Clouseau.

Michael Ritchie directs with a sure hand, and Andrew Bergman's script gives Chase plenty of solid dialogue.

It's not a perfect film. There's a silly, unnecessary dream sequence in which Chase envisions himself as a black basketball star, and the story is nothing more than "Beverly Hills Cop" sideways, but Chase has never been better.

Look out for the sequels.

Salute to 'Heidi Abromowitz'

By Amanda Bruce

Joan Rivers

You think Joan Rivers has problems? Wait till you meet Heidi Abromowitz!

"Joan Rivers (and Friends) Salute Heidi Abromowitz!" premieres June 14 on Showtime. It stars veteran comic Miss Rivers in a special surrounding her fictional creation, the none-too-chaste Heidi Abromowitz.

Tony Randall and Father Guido Sarducci (Don Novello) help Miss Rivers dump insults on Heidi, whom Miss Rivers immortalized in her book, "The Life and Hard Times of Heidi Abromowitz."

HBO takes a serious look at sex this week in "Sex and the American Teenager," on Monday, June 10. This is the latest documentary in the "American Undercover" series.

The documentary, based on a survey by Robert Coles and Geoffrey Stokes, displays some eye-opening facts. Of all teenagers under 18 years of age, half have had sexual intercourse. Of the girls who had had sexual intercourse, however, only half had used birth control. Nine out of 10 teenagers approved of sex in a "serious" relationship, but only 6 percent felt their parents would approve as well.

One interesting tidbit in regard to parents was that the teenagers who were able to discuss sex with their parents were least likely to have had it.

"Sex and the American Teenager" repeats June 18, 20, 26, and 30.

Spring is in full swing, and that means the golfers are digging up the grass.

ESPN will record some of the action from the U.S. Open in Birmingham, Mich., on June 13 and 14. USGA play will air at 12 noon and 4 p.m. (EST) each day. The U.S. Open is one of the final three events in golf's grand slam.

And today, June 9, you can catch final action from the senior PGA tour of the Champions Classic in Sparks, Nev.

Similar Names Cause Confusion

The similarity of names has once again caused some consternation among those whose names are the same as those listed on various charges in district court. We are informed that the Mike Shepherd listed in the May 29 issue of The Times under District Court is not the Charles Michael Shepherd, of Arkansas Creek near Martin, and that the Tony Hunter also listed in the May 29 issue is not the Tony Hunter, who resides at Ivel.

Annual Boone Day Observance Slated

The Kentucky Historical Society will host the annual Boone Day celebration, Friday (June 7) in Frankfort. Featured speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Margaret Ripley Wolfe, professor of American history at East Tennessee State University and specialist in women's studies. Wolfe will speak on "Reflections of an Appalachian Historian." Her talk begins at 11:00 a.m. (EDT) on the steps of the Old Capitol. Entertainment will be provided by the cast of the "Stephen Foster Story" from Bardstown. Luncheon will follow on the grounds of the historic Old Capitol.

An afternoon session, beginning at 1:30, will focus on the theme of Kentucky history as revealed in biography. Topics to be discussed are "Mad Anthony Wayne and the Kentuckians of the 1790s," "General Henry H. Denhardt," and "Jesse Stuart."

Boone Day, June 7, is an annual celebration to commemorate the day in 1769 when pioneer Daniel Boone first sighted what he described as "the beautiful level of Kentucky."

The festivities (with the exception of the lunch) are free and open to the public.

Elephants on the island of Sumatra are mad and they're not going to take it anymore, reports International Wildlife magazine. About a year after the government of Indonesia herded a group of elephants off to a preserve—making room for human settlers and agricultural expansion—herds of 50 or 60 elephants have begun daily rampages through their old grounds, terrorizing villagers, smashing homes and destroying crops. Traditional methods of dispersing the animals have failed. Authorities now admit they may eventually have to concede the turf to the persistent elephants.

85 Years Old

Elza Neeley, of the Goble-Roberts Addition, was honored on his 85th birthday with the traditional dinner given by his children at the home of Lloyd and Amanda Hall, Sunday, May 5. Dinner was served to Mr. Neeley and his wife, Susie Neeley, John and Rose Neeley, Lon Neeley, Russell and Gertie Pack, James M. and Margie Osborne, Lloyd G., Amanda, Lloyd Keith and Debbie Hall, Sharon and Amber Spradlin, Petty and Avonelle Thompson, Phyllis and Alta Hall.

Following dinner, a decorated birthday cake was served and gifts were presented to Mr. Neeley.

Field Day Scheduled At Reclamation Site

Nearly three years ago, on a surface-mined reclaimed mountaintop nine miles southeast of Inez, the Martiki-Morehead State University Mountaintop Complex project was announced.

The project was conceived as a model for reclaiming surface-mined land for agricultural production. It is a joint effort of MSU, Martiki Coal Corporation and Pocahontas Development Corporation, a subsidiary of Norfolk-Southern Corporation.

Thursday, June 13, MSU will host a field day at the complex. Federal, state and local agriculture officials, mining industry officials and community leaders from a 28-county area have been invited. The program includes a tour of the facility, lunch, an explanation of the project's significance and a brief news conference.

Spring Fire Season Now Past Leaves Loss of Life, Property

The Spring fire season is over and the law prohibiting outdoor burning from midnight till 4:30 p.m. will not be in effect again until October 1, the Natural Resources Cabinet announced recently.

This spring, 1,578 fires burned 39,875 acres of Kentucky woodland resulting in the fourth largest number of acres burned during the spring season since 1975. Also this season, the Cabinet's Division of Forestry issued 638 citations to violators of the burning laws. Felony charges are pending against four individuals thought to have deliberately started fires in Floyd, Pike, Perry and Whitley counties. Two juveniles were found guilty of woods arson in Knox county in March.

Natural Resources Commissioner Boyce Wells commended news media coverage of the Burning Law and publicity on the severity of Kentucky's fire problems. Commissioner Wells also cited the first-ever usage of Kentucky national Guard helicopters to perform water drops on fires as contributing greatly to the number of wooded acres saved this season.

Losses resulting from spring fires include two persons trapped and killed in fires; two firefighters seriously injured; nearly $80 million lost in potential timber production; several homes and outbuildings destroyed, and fire fighting costs of over $114,000.

REBEKAHS MEET

The regular meeting of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 was held May 21, with the noble grand, Mrs. Nancy Duff, presiding. The noble grand reminded members that the next meeting will be the time for a memorial for all deceased members. She also reminded them of the District 4 meeting, to be held June 15 at Inez, and of the annual homecoming and picnic, scheduled for June 9, at Nolen Lake, near Elizabethtown.

Present for the meeting were Nancy Duff, Sue Moore, Doris Miller, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Virginia Goble, Norma Stepp, Maman Leslie, Wanda Justice, Nola Stepp, Mary Zemo, Lorena Wallen, and Paulena Owens.

The next regular meeting will be June 4, at 7:30 p.m.

$5 Million Loss Claimed by IRS As Keller Named

Louis DeFalaise, U.S. attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, announced last Friday the filing of a one-county felony information in the District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky at Lexington, charging John E. Keller with participating in a federal tax fraud conspiracy during 1978 to the present.

The information charges that Keller was a principal in eight coal mining limited partnerships which filed fraudulent partnership income tax returns resulting in the Internal Revenue Service being deprived of the benefit of approximately $5 million in income taxes due by individual investors in the partnerships. It also alleges that the defendant filed fraudulent personal income tax returns for the years 1978-1983, in part by excluding from his reported income certain monies which were concealed in Cayman Island bank accounts.

Under a plea agreement filed in federal court Friday, the defendant agreed to enter a guilty plea charge filed in the information. The conspiracy charge against Keller carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

WHAT ABOUT MONUMENTS AND MARKERS?
Today granite stones or bronze plaques are the most common grave markers used. In times past, monuments have been made of marble, slate, or sandstone; but they proved unable to withstand weathering and are rarely used any more.
Granite comes in a variety of colors including black, gray, white, soft reds and shades in between. The beauty of the finest granite can be identified by the absence of discoloration and seams. Fine granite will have a uniformity of texture and color throughout.
The flat stone marker is the least expensive marker one can buy. Many cemeteries today allow only the bronze plaque set in granite or concrete, so it is important to know the regulations of the cemetery you have chosen.
All stones and plaques are considered a handcrafted product and the cost is dependent upon size, number of words, special borders or designs, type of floral vase and extras you may want. Installation of monuments and plaques is generally an additional charge.

Jessica Lange Stars In KET Presentation

The highly acclaimed play, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," written by Tennessee Williams, airs on KET Thursday, June 27, at 8:00 p.m. (ET), 7:00 p.m. (CT). This presentation concludes the fourth season of "American Playhouse."

Jessica Lange, Academy Award-winning actress, stars in the title role of Maggie, the cat of the title, in the drama dealing with the fears and frustrations of a rural southern family. The head of the family, Big Daddy (Rip Torn), is stricken with cancer, and the clan gathers together to celebrate what will likely be his last birthday.

All have their own fears and frustrations to deal with during the course of this tense family occasion. Brick, the son (Tommy Lee Jones), questions his sexuality when life with his hot-blooded wife Maggie turns sour. Maggie is struggling to prevent Brick's brother and sister-in-law from inheriting the family plantation, and the shrill but well-meaning Big Mama (Kim Stanley) is unable to cope with her husband's approaching death.

The 1954 production of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" won Williams the Pulitzer Prize and the Drama Critics' Best Play Award. The "American Playhouse" production is based on Williams' revision of his original script completed just 10 years ago.

"American Playhouse" is presented by KCET/Los Angeles; South Carolina ETV; WGBH/Boston; and WNET/New York.

Poison Ivy And Mosquitoes

Summertime is the season outdoorsmen look forward to the most because there's so much to do—fishing, camping, boating, and observing nature while hiking or horseback riding.

But it's no secret that summer is also the time when itchy problems can arise. The culprits are poison ivy, mosquitoes and other insect pests such as no-seems, ticks, biting flies, chiggers, and bees that are just as likely to play havoc on an afternoon backyard cookout or midnight frog giggin' expedition, as an early morning fishing trip.

Campers, stream fishermen and backpackers who routinely walk through high weeds, overgrown woods, and creekbottom thickets, probably come in contact with poison ivy more than any other group of summer outdoor enthusiasts. This climbing shrub has glossy, trifoliate leaves which carry a powerful, blistering poison. Poison ivy, Rhus toxicodendron, has greenish flowers with whitish berries.

Based on findings from U.S. Army research, each summer more than two million persons suffer from exposure to poison ivy. The nuisance plant is found in every state except Nevada and California, although remarkably, it doesn't grow wild in Europe. The research further found that approximately 60 percent of all persons are susceptible to poison ivy, and that dogs and cats don't break out when exposed to poison ivy, but can spread the oily sap to those who pet them.

The actual irritant in poison ivy is called urushiol or toxicodendrol. Several attempts have been made to develop a vaccine to protect particularly susceptible people, and the U.S. Army has had some success with an intramuscular immunization.

There is no sure-fire remedy for poison ivy once a bad case has developed, although a good scrubbing with oldtime yellow "naphtha" soap immediately after exposure is said to lessen the rash. Likewise, applications of diluted laundry bleach, calamine lotions and other "store-bought" preparations that contain benzocaine, may help to ease the pain and itching of poison ivy. One home remedy that is said to neutralize the effects of the oily sap is repeated applications of the sap from the stems of jewel weeds, touch-me-nots or snap weeds, all common names from genus Impatiens.

Mosquitoes are quite remarkable insects, albeit pesky little critters, that provide an interesting lesson in the principles of evolution and ecology. These 1/4 inch-long blood-thirsty insects are able to adapt to a wide range of water conditions and thrive in most climates and latitudes, from alpine meadows and tundra to salt marshes and hardwood forests. They're found wherever there's standing water—in irrigation ditches, ponds, lakes, stagnant pools, piles of discarded automobile tires, trash heaps, and even where droplets of water have become trapped in vegetation.

The main predators of mosquitoes are dragonflies, damselflies, swallows, swifts, flycatchers, bats and fish such as the blackstripe topminnow and mosquitofish, which live in the sloughs, slow moving rivers and bayous along the lower Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. One reason why mosquitoes are so numerous is that they are small in size yet able to produce large numbers of offspring in a small area. Their food supplies are abundant and there's no rigorous competition for food, which is characteristic among higher animal forms. And since they can fly, mosquitoes are able to escape predators easily.

During the aquatic larval and pupal stages, mosquitoes use surface tension to suspend themselves so they can breathe oxygen through a tube although they are submerged. Mature female mosquitoes need fresh supplies of blood from warm-blooded animals to produce eggs. Males, on the other hand, do not need blood. They survive on plant nectar. In spreading disease to man, the female mosquito acts as a carrier, or vector, of the microorganisms that cause the sickness such as malaria or yellow fever.

Host Families Sought For European Students

ASSE International Exchange Student Programs is seeking homes for 10 exchange students hoping to come to the U.S. for the 1985-86 academic year. The students come from varied backgrounds and walks of life, and need equally varied host families to accommodate them with housing as well as compatible companionship.

The 16-and 17-year-old students are fluent in English and are carefully selected for the program on the basis of their high school performance, good character, and interest in the American culture. All of them are covered by comprehensive medical and liability insurance and have adequate money for personal needs. The host family provides room and board, and a measure of guidance.

Families interested in serving as hosts for the school year should contact ASSE's local area representatives, Jean and John Allen, at 606-586-5627.

Drunk Driving On Waterways

By ELIZABETH HANFORD DOLE, Secretary of Transportation

Last year, an estimated half of all recreational boating accidents occurred because someone had too much to drink and got careless. More than 1,200 people died on our nation's waterways, many of them from alcohol-related incidents. Boating is supposed to be fun, but recreation can quickly turn into tragedy if alcohol is involved.

Drinking even small amounts of alcohol while operating a boat is more dangerous than most people realize. Even without drinking, the effects of wind, noise, glare, and motion can cause fatigue and slowed reaction time after just a few hours on a boat. And if a boat operator has been drinking as well, these effects are compounded.

Drunk boaters not only endanger themselves; frequently they put other waterway users at risk. That is why the U.S. Coast Guard and state boating authorities are cracking down on alcohol abuse; they want to save lives and make boating more pleasurable for everyone.

You should be aware that the federal government and many states have recently toughened laws against drinking and boating. For example, boating accident reports must now state whether alcohol contributed to any casualties, and anyone convicted of operating a vessel while intoxicated in waters under federal jurisdiction faces a maximum penalty of a $5,000 fine and a year in prison.

The U.S. Department of Transportation, of which the Coast Guard is an important part, is working closely with the states to strengthen laws against drunken boat operation. All but one of the states now have laws against operating a boat while intoxicated. In addition, a growing number of states are setting limits on blood-alcohol content levels and requiring mandatory breathalyzer tests for those suspected of drunk boating. I hope and expect to see more of these laws enacted during 1985.

The Coast Guard is also coordinating an ambitious public awareness program to educate boaters about the hazards of mixing alcohol while operating a boat. This includes a number of "safe boating" courses that are available all over the country. The courses are offered as a public service by groups such as the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squadrons, the Red Cross, and individual states. If you are a boater who has never taken one of these courses, I urge you to do so. The overwhelming majority of boaters who have fatal accidents have never had any safe boating education.

No one wants to stand in the way of a good time, but boaters cannot truly enjoy themselves unless they can be assured the waterways are safe. You owe it to yourself, your family and your fellow boaters to operate a boat responsibly.

To Wed June 8

Supervisors of Conservation Effort

Supervisors of the Floyd County Conservation District area, from above, Ruby Akers, Billy Merritt, Jim Carter, Anna Sue Stumbo, John Ross, Hobert Younce. Seated is Lloyd Wells.

Floyd county depends on its natural resources for the livelihood of many residents. Coal, forests, soil, and water are the most obvious natural resources here. Who takes care of these resources? Most of the land in Floyd county is privately owned and the people living on the individual properties do the caretaking.

The supervisors of the Floyd County Conservation District realize that conservation is everybody's business. They work toward getting that idea to every resident of the county. Since 1952 the Conservation District has strived to improve the environment of all Floyd County citizens by the conservation and development of all renewable natural resources within district boundaries. The Floyd County Conservation District is governed by seven elected landowners and is a subdivision of Kentucky State Government. The Floyd County Conservation District supervisors are: Lloyd Wells, Prestonsburg; Ruby Akers, Drift; Anna Sue Stumbo, McDowell; Billy Merritt, Prestonsburg; Hobert Younce, West Prestonsburg; and Jim Carter and John Ross, both of Prestonsburg.

The supervisors normally meet once a month on the fourth Tuesday at 2:15 p.m. in the Soil Conservation Office at 105 Court Street, Prestonsburg. These meetings are open to the public and all interested persons are invited to attend. Last fall a supervisor attended the state meeting of conservation districts at Owensboro, and this spring three supervisors attended the 9th Area Meeting held in Inez. Supervisors do not receive a salary and they contribute their time on a voluntary basis.

The Conservation District's work involves all facets of conservation. Major emphasis is placed on conservation education, community development and technical assistance through their cooperative program. Among other duties the Conservation District co-sponsors the Annual Essay and Poster Contest, promotes Soil Stewardship Week, prints and distributes a quarterly newsletter, plans and carries out a critical area seeding, gives conservation scholarships, sends students to forestry camp and environmental workshops, offers free farm maps and planning through the Soil Conservation Service, and sponsors an Annual Awards Banquet where Floyd county students are recognized for their conservation related achievements.

To accomplish its goals, the Conservation District enters into cooperative work agreements with units of government, government agencies, and private citizens. A major association is that between the Conservation District and the Soil Conservation Service, which provides personnel to give technical assistance in carrying out conservation measures. Examples of these measures are pond construction, tile drainage, diversion ditch and water way construction. The District Conservationist for Floyd county is Clark Allison.

Limited money is available to fund the district's program of work. State funds are available through the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources, Division of Conservation. Local funds are provided by the Floyd county fiscal court. The Conservation District does what it can to promote conservation, but natural resources are much too important to be left in the supervisor's hands alone. Each landowner has a legal right to certain uses of his land and water, a moral obligation to society to use those resources wisely, and a duty to God to be a good steward of his creation.

Conservation is everybody's business.

Mine Safety Training Scheduled at PCC

IT'S NICE WEATHER FOR WINTERIZING.

Now that last winter is only a memory, it's a perfect time to save on next winter's energy bills.

Look around for places where a little attention can make your home more winter-tight. Make sure you have proper insulation. Check the caulking around windows and doors... and weatherstrip them. Consider installing storm windows and doors. And have your heating system checked for efficiency. Remember that installation of a new gas-saving model can cut your gas usage by up to 30%.

There are also things you can do that will start saving you energy right now. Like putting an insulation blanket around your water heater; adding flow restrictors to shower heads; or installing a night set-back thermostat.

Columbia has hundreds of other ideas on ways you can save on energy bills. Ask at your Columbia office for a free copy of our "Everyday Energy Saver's Guide".

By making your home more energy tight now, you'll save next winter... and for winters to come.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

A SPOONFUL

It is not a good idea to use a teaspoon from your regular service to measure out medicine for a child. Although it is common practice, the bowls on teaspoons vary so widely that you run the risk of seriously over or under-medicating the child. Instead, use the medicine spoon provided with the medication or one which can be provided by the pharmacist. It consists of a spill-proof tube, with a spoon at one end, calibrated in teaspoons and milliliters. If the child has not yet graduated to using a spoon, ask the pharmacist for an oral syringe.

COOLEY APOTHECARY looks forward to meeting the complete pharmaceutical needs of every member of your family...from the newborn baby to grandma and grandpa. Our pharmacists are pledged to further and maintain the highest ethical standards of the pharmaceutical industry. For accurate, sound and safe advice you will find us located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

DENTAL TIPS

Dr. H.G. Salisbury
RICHMOND PLAZA,
PRESTONSBURG
PHONE 886-2676

USE OF CROWNS

- Q. Under what circumstances does a dentist recommend a crown for a tooth?
- A. Your dentist will probably suggest a crown if it would offer functional support to a tooth which is badly decayed and shows extensive damage on several of its surfaces, or if it would have cosmetic value and improve personal appearance, or if the crown will act as support or anchor for a fixed bridge. All of these circumstances may co-exist; any one might be reason enough for the procedure.

The tooth must be specially prepared to receive the crown (also called a "cap" or "jacket"). Occasionally, damage is too severe to permit use of a crown.

A program of regular dental care, started at an early age, is the best way to prevent the need for extensive work, such as crowns, in later years.

Clean Water, Topic For Essay Contest

"Clean Water In My Community" will be the subject of the 1985 Conservation Essay Contest and the 1985 Jim Claypool Conservation Poster Contest sponsored by The Courier-Journal and Louisville Times.

The annual competitions, open to all Kentucky elementary and high school students, may be the largest conservation-oriented contests for school children in the United States. In 1984 more than 39,000 essays were written on "Trees In My Community." Almost 55,000 posters were made on the subject.

The essay contest is in its 42nd year. This will be the 13th year for the poster contest which is open to students in grades one through six. In it, students are asked to make original posters with the subject of the competition as the theme of the posters. Awards of $175 in U.S. Savings Bonds will be awarded to three state winners by the two Louisville daily newspapers. Winners in 121 Conservation Districts will receive plaques.

In the essay contest, students in grades 7 through 12 are asked to write essays of no more than 1,000 words. The top award winners—121 district winners and three state winners—will receive $6,850 in savings bonds from the Louisville newspapers.

Co-sponsors of the contests, along with The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, are the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts and the Kentucky Department of Education. The 1985 competition will begin in September. Detailed information and reference material for the two contests will be sent to principals of all schools in Kentucky at that time.

Part of National Peace Ribbon

For the craftswomen of David Appalachian Crafts Center, the "peace of our hills" is a piece of our hills.

An 18-inch-by-36 inch muslin panel, which they appliqued, embroidered and quilted, proclaimed peace as they know it in Frankfort on Saturday, May 25. On August 4 their stitchery will make the same point at the Pentagon as part of the National Peace Ribbon.

According to ribbon organizers, the National Peace Ribbon is an artistic attempt to express "what we cannot bear to think of as lost forever in a nuclear war." The craftswomen sewed a serene setting which included hills, home, church, garden, flowers, trees, dog and whip-poor-will. Across the bottom they embroidered the names of their homeplace: David, Drift, Langley, and England.

Beth Siegel, Co-director of David Appalachian Crafts, took the panel to Frankfort where it joined 747 other Kentucky Peace Ribbon panels for a state celebration.

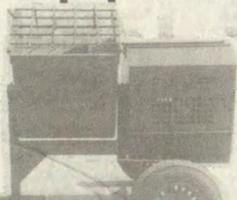

A noon prayer service planned by Kentucky's Church Women United began the Frankfort celebration at The Church of the Ascension, 311 Washington Street. Afterwards the group gathered a half-block away at the Old Capitol and paraded the panels to the "new" Capitol. There Kentucky's ribbon was displayed in three huge circles on the lawn between the Capitol and Capitol Annex. Governor Collins issued a proclamation declaring May 25 to be "World Peace Day" in Kentucky in honor of the ribbon.

The Craft Center's panel has been temporarily entrusted to Dr. Maureen Flannery of Hindman and Catherine Rubin, a Prestonsburg weaver, who hope to display it with other Eastern Kentucky Peace Ribbon segments in area libraries.

On August 4, the 40th anniversary of the bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the Crafts Center's panel will join some 17,000 segments of the Peace Ribbon in Washington, D.C. The peace panels will be walked in a slow circle around the Pentagon, White House and Capitol. At a designated time, all the pieces will be tied together into one ribbon expected to stretch some eight to ten miles. The oneness of that moment is meant as an affirmation that bombings like those of Hiroshima and Nagasaki must never happen again.
