Among the clusters of bystanders who gathered Sunday to peer into the chasm now slicing across four lanes of new KY 80 at Martin, the talk was of what might have been.

"It's lucky no one was killed."
"What if it had happened Monday, with the trucks and buses on it?"
"Why has it gone so long with no work done on it?"

The answer to the last question, a Highways Department spokeswoman said recently, is that it was not easy for engineers to come up with a solution to the problem that first appeared even before construction was completed and came to a head seven months ago, when the wide, corrugated iron culvert that carries the new highway over a Bucks Branch railroad track began to sag under the weight.

Traffic was reduced to two lanes in March and tons of fill were scraped off to lighten the load. Engineers finally worked out a way to brace the structure, bids were advertised October 16, and a contract for the work was scheduled to be let on November 14.

The repair job will not be necessary. Shortly before 2 a.m. Sunday morning, the steel tunnel collapsed, the roof folding in along almost its entire length until it came to rest on two laden railroad gondolas on the track below. When the rock, dirt and asphalt settled, a depression—20 feet deep, 30 feet wide, and clear across the highway—lay in wait for any motorist who happened to be passing.

Patricia Stepp, a 32-year-old nurse from Prestonsburg, was the first. Traveling north, her new sports car suddenly dropped into the void. She scrambled out of the wrecked car with bruises, over the gravel-filled coal gon on which she had landed, and up the embankment in time to wave a frantic warning to 20-year-old Terry Boyd as he headed toward her.

Boyd braked, but not in time to prevent his car from skidding into the pit, where it landed on top of Mrs. Stepp's vehicle. Both cars were destroyed, but Boyd, too, was surprisingly little injured, sustaining only a broken foot.

Driving south, Deputy Sheriff Anthony Castle approached warily, on the lookout for Halloween hazards at a site where traffic markers have sometimes been moved about by pranksters during the night. He hit the brakes when he saw what appeared to be smoke coming from the middle of the road—it was steam from a punctured radiator on one of the wrecked vehicles—and came to a halt within feet of the fissure.

Castle summoned by radio police and rescue workers, who transported the injured drivers to nearby Our Lady of the Way Hospital. Both were treated and released within a few hours. After a tow truck tried in vain to lift the wrecked vehicles from the rift, a Highways Department crane on the site was used to recover them.

The fact that both drivers were wearing seat belts is "what saved their lives," Castle surmised. It might also have saved the highways department a costly liability suit, he said. Referring to reports that officials of Armo Steel, manufacturers of the culvert, had warned it would "all go at once" if the pipe failed, Castle said, "If that was the case, I don't see how they could (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

FLOYD'S NEWEST highway was split by this ragged trench early Sunday morning, when a corrugated iron tunnel, built to accommodate a railroad track up Bucks Branch, suddenly collapsed. Two cars plunged into the rift but both drivers escaped serious injury. The $600,000 culvert, which has had a tendency to sag almost since the highway was constructed six years ago, was previously braced once and was scheduled to be shored up again next month. Now it is to be replaced by a bridge.

Water, Gas Cost Less In P'burg

For those who are dreading the high cost of staying warm this winter, citizens within the city limits of Prestonsburg may find some slight satisfaction in knowing that it could be worse and, in at least two cases, is.

According to the Prestonsburg City Utilities Commission, the combined gas, water and sewage bill based on 5,000 gallons water and 20,000 cubic feet of gas, considered average usage for residential customers, will be $111.22 in Prestonsburg. In Paintsville, the same usage will cost $130.61, and in Pikeville, it gets even worse at $157.05.

Prestonsburg comes up looking even better if the comparison is made on water and sewage bill only, again based on 5,000 gallons. In Prestonsburg, the cost is $15.39, while to our north in Paintsville, the cost is $33.65, and to the south in Pikeville, $31.91.

In addition to these cost estimates, the City Utilities Commission has some tips on getting ready for winter. To prevent frozen meters and pipes, keep meter pits covered, basement windows closed, pipes well insulated, and outside vents closed. Frozen meters cannot be thawed with fire. This damages the meter

Long Test Drive Ends in Lawsuit

The last time anyone saw H. C. Prater's pickup was when someone drove it off an auto dealer's lot, ostensibly to test drive it, last December—and never brought it back.

Prater is suing Marlow Tackett, operator of Mare Creek Auto Sales, for the value of the vehicle, which he puts at $4,500. He brought the truck, a 1979 Chevrolet with four-wheel drive, to Tackett's lot to be sold at auction; an employee allowed it to be driven off by an unknown person, he said.

GOVERNOR MARTHA LAYNE COLLINS spoke before a meeting of Grass Roots Democrats at the high school cafeteria, here, last Tuesday evening where she addressed reasons for the appointment of the Superintendent of Instruction rather than the present election to the office. Seated to her left, above, is Edward M. Coleman, chairman of the Democratic party in Kentucky.

Views on Water Invited At May Lodge, Saturday

Water. If you don't have enough of it... If what you have is not clean... If you're bothered by the things that pollute it... If you have any ideas for conserving it... you are invited to say your piece this Saturday, when six hearings on the subject will be held simultaneously across the state.

They will begin at 10 a.m. and one of them will be at May Lodge.

The public hearings are a step toward development of a plan to manage the state's water resources by the Division of Water in the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet. The plan was first ordered two years ago by Gov. Martha Layne Collins and received legislative mandate earlier this year.

Among the issues the state plan will have to address: How will rural communities be able to build public water systems and sewage treatment plants, given sharp cutbacks in federal funding? What is to be done about brine pollution from oil and gas wells? What of acid mine runoff or the disruption of water tables by blasting? Do we even

Annexation, School Board Stir Some Voter Interest

One of the few issues on which all Floyd countians will have a chance to vote next Tuesday is the proposal to have the state schools superintendent hired by the state Board of Education instead of being elected, as is now the case.

Beyond that, the only issues to appear on ballots in all precincts here are the lopsided races for U.S. Senate (where Sen. Wendell Ford faces a weak challenge by Louisville attorney Jackson M. Andrews) and for the Seventh Congressional District seat (between Cong. Carl C. Perkins and Pike businessman James T. Polley), and a Constitutional amendment that would allow mayors in large cities to serve up to three successive terms.

Voters in two Floyd educational divisions will have a choice of school board candidates. In the First Division—including Courthouse, Trimble Branch, Depot, Richmond, Cliff, Porter, Auxier, Rough and Tough and Abbott precincts—incumbent James D. "Doc" Adams is being challenged by retired Army sergeant-major Maryland "Burl" Joseph.

In the Second Division—Maytown, Cow Creek, Mouth of Beaver, Martin, Halbert, Drift, Prater Creek, Arkansas, Allen-Dwale (Allen voters only), and Buffalo—the choice will be between incumbent Ray "Shag" Campbell and Allen businesswoman Dolores Smith.

Supt. Issue Gets Mixed Public Review

Two state representatives—Gregory D. Stumbo in the 95th District and Sidney Adams in the 92nd—will be on the ballot, but without opposition.

Voters in the Auxier and Cliff No.5 precincts will be asked if they are in favor of being annexed to the city of Prestonsburg.

And in Wheelwright, which has seen several mayors come and go in recent months, no one has filed for that position so any candidates will be write-ins.

Against that generally lackluster field, the question of appointing the state superintendent has probably aroused as much interest as any and proponents of the measure argue that it has important implications for the future of the public school system.

Under the proposed change, the Superintendent of Public Instruction would no longer be an elective office.

Instead, the superintendent would be appointed by the state Board of Education.

The governor would still appoint the state board but appointees would have to be confirmed by the state senate and they would serve for six years—provisions designed to make the state board more independent of the governor's office.

While some remain skeptical of the claim, advocates of the amendment say it will help remove the politics from the state superintendent's office. Moreover, the process of searching for and hiring the superintendent would mean a candidate would be chosen on the basis of professional qualifications—which are not required under existing law—say proponents, including the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, the Kentucky School Boards Association, and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

On the other side, leaders of the Kentucky Education Association and the state PTA have called for defeat of the amendment, saying it would mean Kentucky voters have less of a voice in public education.

Polling places in some Floyd precincts have been changed, although sometimes only from one section of a building to another. A complete list appears elsewhere in this edition and voters in the Richmond, Depot, Middle Creek, Maytown, Garrett, Halbert, Toler, Ivel, Jack Allen, and Frasures Creek precincts will notice some differences.

Board Hopes To Save Money On Maintenance, Textbooks

The cost of running Floyd schools, put this year at $20.3 million, is up by 10 percent. But then, income is expected to rise by 11 percent. The net result, school authorities hope, is that last year's $403,278 deficit will be absorbed and the schools will end this year in the black.

According to the working budget presented Monday night to the Floyd Board of Education, which met in special session, administrative costs will be up $53,196 over last year—the bulk of the increase apparently stemming from the addition to the central office staff this year of another assistant to the superintendent.

Recent raises for principals will add $153,064 to instructional costs; teacher salaries will rise by $955,394; the cost of teacher aides will be up by $71,720.

The cost of providing contract bus runs is expected to rise from $68,316 last year to $113,667; bus replacement costs are put at $198,551, up $21,143 over last year.

In response to state school authorities, who last month admonished Floyd officials to budget realistically for electricity, $487,150 has been allocated in that category. The figure is slightly higher than last year's power bill, which ran $55,000 over budget.

Areas where school administrators hope to be cutting costs this year include building maintenance, the cost of which was said to have been unusually high last year, when wiring and fire protection systems had to be upgraded and asbestos removed in order to conform with state building and fire codes.

For hiring contractors, who charged Floyd schools $257,425 last year, $150,000 has been budgeted this year, a projected saving of $107,425. Another $63,155 is to be saved in maintenance, on which $213,155 was spent last year but for which only $150,000 is set aside in the current budget.

Some $22,122 is expected to be saved on janitorial supplies, which cost $77,122 last year and for which $55,000 is now budgeted.

Textbook purchases are also expected to cost less, with $80,000 set aside for that purpose this year, compared with last year's $103,466 textbook bill.

Another $50,000 will be saved. Superintendent Ray Brackett told the board, by leasing rather than buying outright six relocatable classrooms for overcrowded grade schools at Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne, and Melvin.

In arguing for the necessary emergency order, Brackett pointed out that as many as 20 portable classrooms now in use at Clark, Garrett, Allen and Prestonsburg grade schools will be freed up with the construction of three new schools this year.

The income side of the ledger reflects a recent hike in local taxes, which are expected to yield an additional $633,040 this year.

Mountains In Crisis...

Planners Must Take Into Account Both Environmental and Economic Purposes

By P.P. KARAN (P.P. Karan is a geographer and a Distinguished Professor in the University of Kentucky College of Arts and Sciences.)

There has been a growing awareness that all is not well in the mountain regions of the world. The beauty and magnificence of the Rockies and the Appalachians in the United States, the Alps in Europe, the Himalaya-Karakoram in South Asia, the Andes in South America, and the Japanese Alps are threatened by environmental degradation.

The environmental problems in high mountain areas have been created by mankind.

About 10 percent of the world's population depends directly on the use of mountain resources for its well-being, and upwards of 40 percent indirectly depends on mountain resources for water, hydroelectricity, timber, mineral resources and recreation. Thus, half of the world's population, whether living within or adjacent to mountain areas, depends on mountain resources or is influenced by processes occurring within the mountains.

In the mountains of the industrialized countries, the immediate cause of environmental degradation is the demand for mountain resources and the increase in the affluence of the people living outside the mountains.

In the United States, Western Europe and Japan this has led to rapidly increasing demands for the development of mountain resources: minerals such as coal in the Appalachian Mountains; water power and recreational development—with an overwhelming emphasis on both winter and summer tourism—in the European and Japanese Alps.

Tourism has led to a redistribution of the population within the mountains and to the disruption of traditional cultures. Local depopulation has occurred in the mountain areas of the United States, Europe and Japan which are not competitive in the development of two-season tourism (or not competitive agriculturally, for a variety of reasons), resulting in the collapse of mountain agro-ecosystems.

Depopulation and land abandonment are usually followed by a significant increase in soil erosion and environmental disruption. Those areas which have developed two-season tourism are experiencing rapid growth, resulting in a severe impact on fragile mountain environments.

A quite different situation prevails in the mountain regions of the developing countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America. Here overwhelmingly rural and subsistence populations are experiencing rapid growth, forcing an increasingly heavier use of marginal lands despite considerable out-migration in many areas. The superimposition of population growth and overuse of natural resources had led to serious ecological problems in the mountain areas of the Third World.

Southern and Eastern Asia will soon contain more than half of the world's population. The economy of this area depends on the major rivers flowing south and east from the Himalaya and Karakoram mountains and from Tibet.

Environmental disruption in the mountains causes changes in the erosion rates in the mountains, fluctuations in the hydrologic regimes, silt accumulation rates, and flooding in the lowlands.

Deforestation, soil erosion and environmental degradation in the Himalaya are affecting the lives and property of several hundred million people in Gangetic India and Bangladesh as destabilized mountain slopes cause increased flooding. Environmental degradation in the mountains is the cause of recurring disasters on the plains, and there is a definite linkage between the Himalaya mountains and the Ganges plain, which form one of the world's largest highland-lowland interactive systems.

Similar problems can be observed in the Andes. The hydrological regime of the Upper Amazon is being influenced by progressive deforestation. The danger of higher flood levels along the entire length of the Amazon is considerable.

In response to expressions of concern about mountain regions in the 1960s, several initiatives were taken by international, national and local organizations. In practice, however, little or nothing has changed in terms of the ongoing trend in environmental instability and the proliferation and acceleration of the destructive processes in the mountains.

What can be done to preserve the environment of the mountains and at the same time encourage development?

It is essential to incorporate environmental maintenance programs into the development projects of the mountain regions. Development projects, particularly those financed by the World Bank and the United Nations in the Third World countries, have thus far ignored environmental concerns. The implementation of a coordinated development plan which stresses both environmental and economic goals is clearly needed to promote development and at the same time protect the environment.

In the developing countries carefully selected development strategies that generate off-land employment will reduce the population pressure on land resources in the mountain areas.

Projects for environmental protection, which are currently spread throughout numerous government agencies, should be integrated.

Finally, land use and land capability surveys are essential to put land to its best use in the mountain regions. Without attention to these strategies, our mountains may face a bleak environmental future.

Development of hybrid tobaccos which are resistant to root rot, Fusarium yellows, mosaic, wildfire and black shank emerged from the University of Kentucky in breeding disease-resistant tobacco is recognized throughout the world.

The discovery in 1915 of a vaccine for immunizing mares against the Salmonella type of abortion, which once ran as high as 80 percent on some farms, is still in use and has saved horse breeders several million dollars annually.

W'wright Objects To Minnie Site For New School

Now it is Left Beaver Creek that is embroiled in controversy over a proposed school site. Even as Wayland and Garrett residents found a compromise site on Right Beaver Creek and patched up their differences recently, the scene was being set for a similar dispute between residents of Wheelwright and McDowell. Word that the Board of Education is considering a site at Minnie for a new consolidated school brought out a large crowd Monday to a meeting called by the Wheelwright High School Academic Boosters' Club in the school auditorium. Wilma McKay summed up the consensus: "Minnie is too far for kids from Wheelwright to have to go to school. The new school is supposed to serve both communities, but Minnie is 20 miles from Wheelwright. Why they chose that site is beyond me." Wheelwright residents can understand McDowell parents' not wanting to have their children bused over Meade Hill to Wheelwright and Wheelwright parents are only asking the same consideration, Mrs. McKay said. "We're willing to settle for a happy medium—any place between here and McDowell," she said. Several sites were suggested at the meeting, generally in the Price area, and the crowd was determined to see that they are considered. Petitions to that effect have already garnered over a thousand signatures, a committee was formed to come up with suitable sites, letters are to be sent to influential politicians, and Wheelwright residents plan to "invade" the Floyd Board of Education meeting scheduled for Nov. 12 and present alternative proposals, Mrs. McKay said.

Prater Creek Water Work Set Next Week

Construction is expected to begin as early as next week on a 1.05 million dollar public water system to serve Prater Creek. Contract documents were signed Tuesday, paving the way for work crews to begin laying pipelines and installing two water storage tanks to serve the fledgling water district's 323 customers. "The pipes should be on site tomorrow (Wednesday) and we expect they'll start laying them next Monday or Tuesday," said Ervin Akers, chairman of the water district commission. The construction phase comes at the end of a four-year application process, during which time the quality of drinking water on Prater Creek has steadily deteriorated, Akers said.

Board Meet Rescheduled
The November 5 meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education has been rescheduled for November 12. The meeting will be held at Prestonsburg High School and will begin at 7 p.m.

CATTLE BLOATING

COPYRIGHT 1986 KVMA
Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association
Summer grazing sometimes causes one of the more common problems for cattle farmers—bloating. While other causes can sometimes be involved, overeating of pasture—especially lush clover and legumes—is a common culprit. And can become a serious, occasionally fatal problem if untreated. While bloat can occur in all ruminants, it is most often seen in cattle and occurs when an abnormal amount of gas forms in the first two compartments of the ruminant stomach which the animal is not able to expel by belching. The gas is usually formed in numerous small bubbles, hence the name "frothy" or "foamy" bloat and also the difficulty in belching it out of the body. As the gas continues to form, the animal swells, will stagger, develops respiratory trouble and pants, and finally collapses. If caught early, a defoaming agent may be all that is needed. Corn oil, peanut oil, soybean and safflower oil are all effective. Your veterinarian can advise you regarding amounts. In an emergency, much of the gas can be released by use of a trochar, an instrument which pierces the body and allows the gas to escape. This is best used by a veterinarian, however. Sometimes a cow will overeat dry feeds and bloat. In this instance, the gas forms in large pockets and may be released with a stomach tube. Several factors contribute to bloating, and the above information is general. A large body of information has been acquired regarding both bloating and its prevention. Sometimes pastures can be sprayed with oils to prevent foaming. Other times the animals can be given oil mixed with hay or mixed with water. Sometimes it can be included in the salt block available to the cattle. Carefully controlled feed management practices help, but are not infallible.

The Waiting Game

If you wait long enough, something's bound to happen. Well, the highway department waited, and something happened. The road fell in just the way everyone knew it would.

By a near miracle, no one was killed or even seriously injured—no thanks to the powers that be in our state highway department.

This situation is not new. It has been in the making for several months, and highway officials were well aware of it.

Last March I was told, and state highway officials had been told earlier, exactly what would happen unless steps were taken promptly. The state's remedy was to close two lanes of traffic. It took them seven months to come up with whatever solution was slowly evolved. Bids, we understand, were asked October 16—a little late by any measure.

Poor engineering in the first place, followed by slow or no engineering in the second instance doesn't do much to inspire confidence in some departments, now does it?

And just how is your tax dollar being spent?

Blackburn Named To Council Seat

Members of Prestonsburg City Council received an explanation Monday of how the general fund ended the last fiscal year with a $219,854 deficit, selected a new member to fill the seat formerly held by Bobby Ranier, and made recommendations to the state highway department for improving traffic flow here.

In the year ending June 30, the city's income turned out to be $92,320 less than the council had anticipated in its annual budget, an auditor explained, while expenditures—which ran to $1,605,538—went $44,138 over budget.

Moreover, cuts will need to be made in the current budget, auditor Jerry Hensley noted, if the city is not again to end the year with an illegal deficit.

For Margie Osborne, the only council member to question the audit report in any detail, two items of concern were the fiscal independence of the city utilities commission—a circumstance Hensley conceded was "not in accordance with accepted accounting principles"—and $313,500 in long-term debts incurred by the previous council.

The debts—$50,000 for constructing a parking lot, $139,500 toward the purchase of a fire truck, $50,000 for a garbage truck, and $74,000 for street surfacing—left her "very unhappy," Osborne said, adding, "They are all violations of state law, are they not?"

The legality of the borrowing was a matter for lawyers to decide, the auditor said.

With the council evenly split over the appointment of a successor to Ranier, whose seat was declared vacant after he moved unexpectedly to Florida, Mayor Ann Latta broke the tie with a vote for Adrian "Abo" Blackburn. Blackburn, a postal employee, also received support from council members Gary Brown, William O. Goebel III, and Thomas Tackett. Three other council members—Bill Callihan, Mrs. Osborne, and Harry Ray Porter—favored former councilwoman Caroline Ford for the position. Frank Adams abstained, saying he could not choose between two friends.

Although highway authorities have previously rejected the proposal, the council decided to again recommend that traffic lights be installed at the intersection of Arnold Avenue and U.S. 23. A traffic turning circle was also proposed for an area behind the kitchen at Prestonsburg Elementary School.

Mayor Latta acknowledged receipt of petitions in support of retaining Stan Fletcher as chief of police but indicated she has no intention of asking him to stay on. Fletcher earlier submitted his resignation as chief but indicated later that he wished to withdraw it.

go ahead and let people travel it all these months."

Mrs. Stepp also said the accident "should never have happened."

"Everybody knew something was going to happen. We figured when somebody got killed, they'd do something about it," she said.

Richard Sutherland, of the state highway maintenance division, said the site had been closely observed since the two lanes were closed. Inspectors had seen no signs of impending collapse, he said.

In a prepared statement, transportation spokeswoman Mary Mulloy said Monday that state highway employees would begin work Tuesday to reopen two lanes of the highway. Allen contractors Bush and Burchett Inc. have been awarded an emergency contract to build a permanent bridge to carry highway traffic over the Bucks Branch rail line, she said.

The emergency bridge contract was signed Monday by acting state Transportation Secretary C. Leslie Dawson, who was quoted by Mulloy as saying, "We're currently investigating to determine why the steel arch, which was constructed six years ago over the railroad, failed."

Mulloy said no cost estimates had yet been made, but design for the new bridge would begin Tuesday. Construction is scheduled to begin within two weeks, and the project will take about 4½ months to complete, she said.

Until the main highway is reopened, light traffic is being detoured through Martin. Heavy trucks are being rerouted via the Mountain Parkway and the Hippo hill.

know what toxics are polluting our water supplies? Can industrial development be promoted without further degrading precious water resources?"

Lou Martin, public relations officer for the Cabinet, said last week that the decision to develop the 1988-90 Kentucky Water Management Plan was prompted by the growing demands on the state's 40,000 miles of streams and rivers. Some areas of the state are actually short of water; drinking water supplies have become contaminated in some places; and industrial expansion always puts added burdens on water resources, Martin said.

"The state's water resources have not always been managed well," she conceded. "Policy has been very general."

The Natural Resources Cabinet has traditionally been required to come up with regulations bearing on the "purity, use and distribution of water," Martin said. "But what does that mean? There has been no specific plan."

At the six meetings being held Saturday—the others will be in Owensboro, Jamestown, Kentucky Dam Village, Bowling Green, and Frankfort—citizens will be asked to develop a plan that will "insure adequate, safe water for everyone's personal use and for recreation, tourism and industry," said Division of Water director Donald F. Harker, Jr.

While the public will be asked to help define the major issues to be addressed in the state's water management plan, the Division of Water itself has proposed two areas of concern. It will be the Division's job to enforce recent amendments to the federal Safe Water Drinking Act—and to try to find money to replace vanishing federal funds. As a result of Gramm-Rudman cuts in the federal budget, the states will now have to come up with funding to repair and replace sewage treatment plants and to control water pollution.

"Over the past 10 years, Kentucky has come a long way in managing its natural resources, insuring a balance in economic growth and environmental protection," wrote Leslie Cole, executive director of the Environmental Quality Commission, in the current issue of Water Watch, the Division newsletter. "But we still have a long way to go," he added.

Bits and Pieces

HALLOWE'EN PRESENT

Cats and bats, witches and warlocks—all will soon be abroad to weave their unholy spells, for Hallowe'en is nigh. When the sun goes down behind the hills and darkness gathers, leaves rustle mysteriously, and the wind seems to whisper slyly through the trees—trees that cast strange and menacing shadows before and after the lone traveller. The household cat takes on an evil, knowing mein, and the old dog whimpers uneasily and slinks away.

Oh, yes, it's foolishness, of course, and you and I know better. Still, some nights it's best not to walk alone, just to be on the safe side.

HALLOWE'EN PAST

Does it seem that everything has become too structured, too organized, too regimented—including Hallowe'en? The fun, or perhaps, it's the freedom, has been regulated out. Or is that the same thing?

There is, no doubt, a lot on the plus side for Trick or Treat, for getting the youngsters off the streets early, for age limits, the whole bit.

But wasn't it fun when there were no treats, just fairly harmless pranks; when you left home with a chunk of soap and your pockets full of corn; when you were sort of expected—within limits—to be a somewhat rotten kid?

The more daring, or was it delinquent, let air out of tires (it was an unwritten rule that anyone silly enough to leave their car downtown deserved a flat tire) and zeroed in on flower pots left on porch bannisters. But I don't remember any major damage being done—a lot of aggravation, of course.

Hallowe'en was mostly a time for a bunch of children to pelt each other and even their unsuspecting elders with corn, and then RUN LIKE MAD! Most of the fun was in thinking we might be caught—and not being.

I think the police were always around just to be sure there wasn't a really bad actor abroad. But on Hallowe'en, rules were relaxed. It was wonderful, innocent, and we thought, wicked fun.

Then there was tic tac when the big boys went into action, sometimes with surprising results.

By the way, does anyone under 40 even know about tic tac? It was, I believe, the night after Hallowe'en, and was definitely not for women or children. Months of planning could go into this night's work.

Once a full-sized wagon was somehow transported to the very tip top of a large barn, here. This engineering feat was never laid to any particular genius, but theory was that said wagon was hoisted piece by piece, then re-assembled atop the barn.

That gave everyone in town a laugh except the owner of the wagon.

No, I'm not advocating a return to a more innocent age. That's impossible. For instance, we didn't even know about egging. Paint jobs were safe. Neither did we need to check apples for razor blades, candy for poison. Nor am I opposed to supervision. It seems the children need protection now.

A letter to my dad from Mrs. Ray Howard sums it up for me. She asked, "Where is the spontaneity, the plain good fun people used to have. Or is it me?"

Well, Josephine, if it's you, then it's me, too.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Vester Little wishes to thank the many friends and neighbors and relatives for their kindness shown. We appreciate the flowers, food and support. A special thanks to the United Baptist preachers for their wonderful preaching and the Hall Funeral Home for its efficient service. Also, thanks to the United Mine Workers for their part in the services.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Voyné Cannon extends their appreciation to those friends, neighbors and loved ones who sent food, flowers and helped comfort them in their time of sorrow. A special thanks to Rev. Darrell Jones, Rev. Carr, of the Church of God, and the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and courteous service.

What Price Freedom—What Is Freedom Worth?

There are so many people arguing around against the cost of trying to preserve it. They seem to have had it so long they just don't appreciate it. Most are politicians that are trying for their own self-interest ahead of the security of our country, taking a gamble that our freedom might slip away, due to unpreparedness. They would rather have the money to buy food stamps and other gimmicks to buy their votes with, so they could perpetuate themselves in office. Oh! no, they don't want to buy a system that would save our people from being blown off the face of the earth, our wonderful, beautiful country being charged black and our precious freedom being gone forever. What would you call this loss? Can you set a price on it?

I say whatever it takes to protect us and preserve our way of life, let's do it. The sooner the better. If the Russians have designs on taking us down, let's take them down with us. Let them know, as President John F. Kennedy once said, "We'll go anywhere, pay any price, face any challenge to preserve our freedom". At the same time he made a commitment to put a man on the moon in the next decade, and he did it.

Mr. Reagan's concept, The Strategic Defense Initiative (Star Wars) is one that has become of age. It is one that is a must if we are to have a deterrent or shield against the enemies barrage of destruction against us with their thousands of deadly nuclear missiles raining down upon us. It is awful to hear these weak-kneed people of high places say it won't work, it costs too much. Well, the Russians certainly think it will work, or they wouldn't be so concerned about it. They know we can blow up everything they have made for the past thirty years. We can wipe out or nullify all they have accomplished and put them back to ground zero. So why not a deterrent or a shield? What are we to do, sit back and do nothing and tell them to come on in and take over? We have some pussyfooters of just about that calibre. The complacent you-know-whats need to be water boys in Siberia, and let them learn the hard way, the true value of FREEDOM, and then ask them WHAT PRICE FREEDOM.

Their designs are against us, their eye is upon us, their master plan is to take us. We must do whatever is necessary to stop them. The price or cost doesn't matter. We must do what we must do and that is protect ourselves. Freedom is a grand possession. Can you price it? It must be protected and preserved at all cost, no matter what. Let's keep the ones in office that think FREEDOM first.

Hope you agree.
CHARLES M. MCCOY
Prestonsburg, Ky.

Court Attaches Pay For Company's Debts

Payment due two Prestonsburg operators for coal sold to a St. Louis firm was attached by court order last week, after an equipment company claimed the operators had never paid them for bulldozer and end-loader parts.

An attorney for Kanawha Steel and Equipment Co. said James Cline and Taylor Price, doing business as P&C Enterprises, Abco, Double R and Taylor Mining, owed the firm $12,115 for the equipment parts.

That was about the same amount Cline and Taylor were due to receive from Nerco Coal Sales Co., to whom they shipped 512 tons of coal, according to the equipment firm, which asked the court to intercept the check.

District Judge Harold Stumbo issued a writ of attachment, which requires Nerco Distribution Group, Inc.—the firm has an office on Stephens Branch, near Martin—to list any of Cline's or Taylor's assets that Nerco has in its possession and turn them over to the court.

(Accounts of suits filed in court report only the plaintiff's claims).

Pike Chamber Seeks Completion of Roads

The official stationery of the Pike Chamber of Commerce proclaims that county the "world's largest underground coal producer." But the economic future of eastern Kentucky depends on its ability to attract other industries besides coal, the Chamber president said last week. And that means pushing for more highways here, he said.

A proposal the business group intends to put before Gov. Martha Layne Collins and Transportation Secretary C. Leslie Dawson calls for completion of six eastern Kentucky highways—U.S. 23, U.S. 119, U.S. 460, KY 80, U.S. 25E, and both legs of the Ashland to Alexandria highway—which "connect eastern Kentucky with the rest of the state and with the nation."

Construction of the highways should be financed by a $500 million bond issue, according to the Chamber, which notes that Mountain Parkway bonds were recently retired and that bonds on the Western Kentucky Parkway are nearing maturity. Measures can be taken, including restoration to the state road fund of the $47 million coal severance tax, which would enable a bond issue to be floated without placing an undue burden on taxpayers or the road fund, the group said.

The proposed bond issue would be separate from the Transportation Cabinet's current six-year highway construction plan, "which must remain intact," the Chamber said.

"We also propose that both legs of the Mountain Parkway—from Campton to Prestonsburg and from Campton to Hazard—be upgraded to four-lane. This could be accomplished by use of Kentucky Turnpike Authority bonds to be paid with toll revenue," the Chamber statement said.

"We have presented this proposal to other eastern Kentucky Chambers of Commerce and have asked them to join us in vigorously promoting road improvement for eastern Kentucky," said Frank M. Moriss, president of the Pike Chamber. "We believe a collective effort will be effective," he said.

Community Activities
Keep HRMC Staff Busy

The month of October has been a busy month for community programs at Highlands Regional Medical Center, according to Carol Blevins, Public Information Officer and co-ordinator of community activities.

On October 1 Patsy Sword, technical director of the cardio-diagnostics program at HRMC, spoke with 7th and 8th graders at Allen Elementary about the workings of the cardio-vascular system. While at the school she also taught the students how to take their pulse and blood pressure.

Dr. Brad C. Roberg, plastic surgeon at HRMC, was the guest speaker at the Prestonsburg Woman's Club on October 2. Dr. Roberg discussed the various types of plastic and cosmetic surgeries and showed several "before and after" slides.

During the Paintsville/Johnson County Apple Festival, Highlands Regional had an information booth set up demonstrating the AT & T Medical Alert system and giving away free emergency phone stickers and free First Aid posters.

On October 16 HRMC personnel attended the Prestonsburg Rotary meeting and taught all members the Heimlich maneuver. This instruction was especially relevant to the Rotary, because one of their members choked at one of their earlier meetings.

October has also been a busy month for tours of the hospital. Tours have been arranged for schools in Johnson and Floyd counties this month and the ages range from 3 and 4 year olds to college students.

"We are really pleased that people in the community are taking advantage of the programs we offer", said Blevins. "We feel we have many resources to provide to teachers and civic organizations and we enjoy getting out into community to help."

If you would like more information about the community services offered by the Highlands Regional, please call Carol Blevins at 789-6548 or 886-8511.

Regional Meet Held
By Delta Kappa Gamma

The Professional Affairs Committee, of the Kentucky Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma held a regional meeting and luncheon at the Holiday Inn, here, last Saturday, with Mrs. Delphia Hicks, first vice president of the Kentucky State Chapter, presiding. Mrs. Zella Wallace Wells, president, of TAU Chapter, welcomed the group and speakers for the occasion were Mrs. Donna Bentley and Mrs. Joan Branham, representatives of H. and R. Block, who gave informative discussions on the new income tax revisions, Mrs. Thomas Miller, of Russell, a member of the Kentucky Teachers' Retirement Board, who explained retirement benefits and what teachers can expect to receive upon retirement. Congressman Chris Perkins caused a little excitement when his helicopter landed at the Inn. He was scheduled to speak earlier in the day, but was delayed by fog. He talked with the group regarding current and future legislation concerning education.

The group enjoyed lunch, with the following members of TAU Chapter acting as hostesses: Mesdames Audrey Pratt, Anna Sue Stumbo, Zella Wells, Lillian Wheeler, Delphia Hicks, Nadine Hicks, Charlotte Gillum, June Rice, Eileen Ramey and Ruby Akers. Other members and guests present were Mesdames June Elswick, Susie Keene, Rebecca Charles, Ann Carty, Golda Benedict, Nina Gray, Ketharine Ratliff, and Bernice Hackney, of Pike county; Colleta Grindstaff and Patricia A. Watts, of Morehead; Mary Ellen Henson, of Olive Hill; Frances Miller, of Russell; Dorothy Wheeler, of West Liberty; Dorothy Murphy, of Wellington; Ometa Caudill, of Viper, and Margaret Jones, of Wheelwright.

The New Tax Reform Act
Planning Suggestions

By LANNY R. HAMILTON, Accountant For Individuals

• It will be advantageous for most taxpayers to defer income from 1986 to 1987 and later where possible (e.g., bonuses, commissions, dividends, etc.)

• Deductions should be accelerated into 1986 as much as possible. Some suggestions:

1. Make planned major purchases in 1986 to get the benefit of the sales tax deduction which ends after 1986.
2. Pay your state and local income and property taxes before year-end to get your deductions under higher federal tax rates.
3. Consider increasing charitable contributions in 1986; they're fully deductible this year whether you itemize or not.

4. Consumer interest deductions will be phased out beginning in 1987. You may want to restructure your personal debt so you do not lose deductions for interest paid.

• Don't overlook your IRA contribution for 1986; the new rules making certain contributions non-deductible do not go into effect until 1987.

For Investors

- The preferential treatment of long-term capital gains ends after 1986. Review your investment portfolio to see whether selling appreciated assets before year-end is advisable in your situation.

- If you sell capital gains property on the installment method in 1986, consider electing out of installment sale treatment on your tax return. Otherwise, gains that you report in future years will be taxed as ordinary income.

- If you have investments in tax shelters and are going to be restricted on deducting losses they produce, consider your options. Perhaps you should invest in an income-producing shelter that will give you "passive" income against which you could deduct your passive losses.

For Businesses

- Since the amount you can expense for new equipment purchases increases from $5,000 in 1986 to $10,000 in 1987, you may want to defer some business equipment purchases until next year. However, weigh this benefit against larger 1986 depreciation deductions under the old law compared with somewhat smaller deductions for equipment purchased in 1987.

- If you are a regular C corporation, perhaps S corporation status will save you tax dollars now that the top individual tax rate is 28% compared with the top corporate rate of 34%. Long-range Planning is Important

We have had a new tax bill on the average of every eighteen months since the income tax was established. It is unrealistic to expect anything different in the future. No matter what the tax rules are, planning can save you money.

Plaintiffs Ask
Sale of Motel

The Plantation Motel should go on the block, with proceeds from its sale to go toward paying off the owner's debt, an Atlanta insurance firm argues in a suit filed last week in Floyd Circuit Court.

The motel has changed hands at least three times since two Louisiana physicians, Joseph E. Carter, Jr. and Paul T. Brizendine, purchased it in October, 1983 with a $300,000 loan from Coastal States Life Insurance Company. It is now owned by Paintsville physicians J. S. and S. J. Parikh, $184,836 is still owing on the debt, and the Parikhs are in default, the insurance firm claims.

Plaintiffs seek a court-ordered sale of the property and a judgment against the owners individually if the sale does not bring in enough money to pay off the debt.

The motel, on the Auxier road north of here, was sold to Carter and Brizendine by Howard D. Blackburn, Lena Blackburn, Carol Holland and Clayton Holland for $310,000 on October 1, 1973, according to court records. It was later owned by Robert and Rubenstein Hall, who sold it in August, 1976 to Thomas Lafferty, Sr., president of Kentucky Motel, Inc. Lafferty sold it to the Parikhs in August, 1983.

(Reports of suits filed in court given only the plaintiff's version of the issues in dispute.)

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Hazel Lester Kirk, October 22, 1977.

She is just away. I cannot say and I will not say that she is dead, she is just away with a cheery smile. In a wave of the hand she has wandered into an unknown land and left us dreaming. How very fair it needs must be, since she lingers there. So think of her faring on as dear in the love of there. As the love of here, think of her still as the same. I say she is not dead, she is just away.

Sadly missed by children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Series Addresses
Smoking Dilemma

"The Smoking Dilemma" addresses the social policy questions which arise when government determines a particular substance generates a health risk. This smoking controversy will be explored when "Managing Our Miracles: Health Care in America" airs Thursday, November 13, at 7 p.m. on KET.

"The Smoking Dilemma" addresses issues surrounding cigarettes and advertising; government restriction of the sale of cigarettes; and the merits of individual smokers suing tobacco companies for damages claimed as a result of smoking.

Defending the tobacco industry is attorney John L. Strauch, counsel to the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. "Millions and millions of dollars were put into experimental research trying to induce cancers in laboratory animals through the introduction of whole smoke. Those experiments failed," said Strauch.

Surgeon General C. Everett Koop counters, "The great majority of people who have lung cancer have been smokers. And those that have it earlier in life tend to be those who smoked more than two packs of cigarettes a day. And I don't think there is any doubt about the relationship."

On the issue of cigarette advertising, industry executive Leo Greenland said, "I don't believe that advertising creates smokers. And I believe that very strongly. I think smokers are created by following society and following adults. Advertising does switch people from one brand to another. But it doesn't create smokers."

Fred W. Friendly, former president of CBS News, is the originator and commentator of "Managing Our Miracles: Health Care in America." The series is produced by Columbia University Seminars on Media and Society.

Job Corps Members Aid Arthritis Drive

Miss Burieta Gearhart, 1986 Floyd county Arthritis Fund Drive chairwoman, has announced that students of the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center recently sponsored the most successful road block ever held for the Arthritis Foundation. The 1986 goal for Prestonsburg was $700. The Job Corps Center worked hard and collected a grand total of $1,347.19, and all-time high for the town. The goal for Floyd county is $1,500.00. Miss Gearhart reported that campaigns are now taking place in all towns in the county to help reach or exceed the goal.

Mrs. Blanch Finney served as the arthritis road block chairperson. Proceeds from the road block will go toward the overall arthritis program of education, treatment and research.

Over 50 Are Checked At AARP Health Fair

Over 50 people from around the area attended the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) Health Fair at Highlands Regional Medical Center. Volunteers from the Jenny Wiley Chapter of the AARP, Highlands Regional Medical Center, Big Sandy Health Care, Big Sandy Area Development District, and the Floyd County Chapter of the American Cancer Society helped to make the fair a success.

"This is the second year we've been the host of the AARP Health Fair", said Carol Blevins, Public Information Officer at HRMC; "I was very pleased with the response of the community and the willingness of the volunteers and would like to thank all the volunteers for their help."

Services offered at the Health Fair were blood pressure tests, blood sugar tests, complete blood counts, blood oxygen levels, and a visit with a dentist, an optometrist, and an M.D.

Physicians providing services to the health fair were Dr. John Furcolow, internal medicine, and Dr. Rodney Handshoe, cardiology from Highlands Regional; Dr. Cindy Koelker, family practice, and Dr. Beth Laine, general practice, from Big Sandy Health Care, Inc. Dr. Eddie Clark from Martin provided dental advice and Dr. Gerald Combs from Inez was the optometrist at the fair.

Highlands Regional personnel who helped with the Fair were Don Hicks, lab director; Dr. John Boswell, pathologist; Larry Daniels, lab technician; Rick Roberts, director of respiratory therapy and Pat Willis, marketing representative.

Taunya Shelton, health planner, of the Big Sandy ADD was instrumental in planning the fair.

The Hindman Settlement School and the Knott County Public Library will be co-sponsoring a photo exhibit of the photographs of Earl Palmer, October 27 through November 21. The exhibit will be in the Children's Room of the Knott County Public Library, and a reception for Mr. Palmer will be held Monday, October 27, from 3-5 p.m. in the library.

Earl Palmer has been taking photographs of the Appalachian region for over 50 years. He calls himself the "Blue Ridge Mountain's Roamin' Camera Man." His photographs have appeared in several national publications including Life, National Geographic and The Virginian. He is especially interested in taking photographs of the material culture of this region. Many of the photographs in this exhibit will show scenes from the early work of the Hindman Settlement School and of other Knott county scenes.

TO THE VOTERS OF EDUCATIONAL DIVISION NO. 1:

THE PROGRAM AND PLATFORM OF JAMES D. "DOC" ADAMS DATED OCTOBER, 1970.

- NO. 1. To remove political pressure from all school employees. January 1971-1986—I HAVE DONE THIS.
- NO. 2. To consider teachers as professionals and treat them accordingly. January 1971-1986—I HAVE DONE THIS.
- NO. 3. To re-district educational divisions to allow citizens to vote for a board member representing the division where their children attend school. October 1970—I DID THIS by litigation with the assistance of my friend, the deceased attorney, Mr. Joe Hobson, which enabled citizens of Lancer/Porter precinct and Spurlock to vote in the educational division where their children attend school.
- NO. 4. To employ teachers based upon merit rather than the number of votes in their family. January 1971-1986—I HAVE DONE THIS. All professional staff members who are currently teaching in the Floyd County School System are properly certified to teach by the Kentucky Department of Education.
- NO. 5. To maintain the neighborhood school concept. January 1971-1986—I HAVE DONE THIS. No schools in Educational Division Number One have been consolidated or closed during my tenure as your board member. Auxier, Bonanza, Clark and Prestonsburg schools are still in existence.
- NO. 6. To stress curriculum in our schools and the academic preparation of our youth. January 1971-1986—I HAVE DONE THIS. Since the implementation of the statewide, mandated testing program, students' test scores in Educational Division Number One have consistently been above the state and regional averages. Last year, Prestonsburg High School's academic team placed second in the Governor's Cup Competition in which over 7200 students participated statewide. Advanced placement classes have been added to the curriculum enabling students to receive high school and college credit while attending high school. Over 75 percent of last year's graduating class chose to further their education by attending college or vocational schools.
- NO. 7. To construct a middle school to relieve overcrowding at Prestonsburg and Clark Elementaries. October 1981—During my tenure as your board member, I have strived to have this become a reality. On October 12, 1981, the local Board of Education and the Kentucky Department of Education chose this project as the number one priority to be the next school facility constructed in Floyd County. August 1983—The Mayo Bottom, located in the south end of our community, was approved by the Kentucky Department of Education as the school site and the property was then purchased by the local board. October 1986—At the present time, the school architect and construction manager have been employed by the local board. Excavation of the property will begin this fall and construction will begin during the spring of 1987.

THESE THING I PROMISED IN 1970— THESE THINGS I HAVE DONE.

As your board member I pledge to continue working to improve the academic program and structural facilities as well as maintain the neighborhood school concept so that our youth will have the best opportunities available for a quality education.

YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT WILL BE APPRECIATED.

RODNEY HANDSHOE, M.D.
CARDIOLOGY

Dr. Rodney Handshoe received his medical degree from the University of Kentucky and remained at U.K. for his training in cardiology. After completing two Fellowships in Cardiology, Dr. Handshoe returned to his native Eastern Kentucky and was the first physician to open a practice in the Medical Offices.

While at U.K., Dr. Handshoe was involved in numerous research studies and his work has been widely published in recognized medical journals. Supported by the latest in Echocardiography equipment and backed by the technical expertise of Sharon Handshoe, Registered Diagnostic Sonographer, Dr. Handshoe's research continues at Highlands.

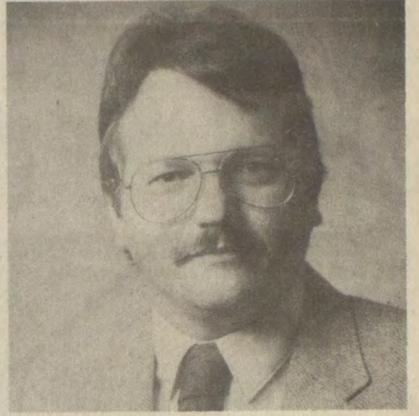

Dr. Handshoe is an Affiliate Member of the American College of Cardiology and is certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine in the sub-specialty of cardiovascular disease.

JOHN FURCOLOW, M.D.
INTERNAL MEDICINE

Internal Medicine as defined by Dr. Furcolow is the diagnosis and treatment of more serious adult illnesses. An internist receives specialized training in cardiology, pulmonology, nephrology, gastroenterology, dermatology, rheumatology, hematology, oncology, endocrinology, and critical care medicine.

Dr. Furcolow graduated from the University of Kentucky's School of Medicine and completed his internal medicine training there as well. While at U. K. he received the Dean's Award for Outstanding Contributions to the Medical School as was named Outstanding Intern and Resident.

One could literally say that Dr. Furcolow wrote the book on nutrition at U. K. His textbook on nutrition is still being used in the medical school course on the subject.

ONCOLOGY

Dr. Kentro and his partner, Dr. Bruce Stapleton (photo not available), specialize in oncology and hematology. Oncology is the treatment of cancer through the use of drugs and radiation to control the disease. Hematology is the treatment of blood disorders. These two fields are compatible because blood clotting problems are sometimes experienced by patients with cancer.

Dr. Kentro is a graduate of George Washington University School of Medicine in Washington, D. C. He did his internship and residency at the University of Hawaii School of Medicine. He was a Fellow of Medical Oncology at the University of Maryland Cancer Center in Baltimore and a Fellow of Hematology/Oncology at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Dr. Stapleton is a graduate of the University of Kentucky School of Medicine. He did his internship and residency at the University of Cincinnati School of Medicine. He is certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine.

OTOLARYNGOLOGY

Otolaryngology is the treatment of diseases of the Ear, Nose, and Throat. Dr. Behnke and his partner, Dr. Charles Watson (photo not available), treat adult and pediatric diseases of the ear, nose, and throat, as well as pediatric and adult allergies and head and neck reconstructive surgery.

Dr. Behnke received his medical degree from the University of Florida. He completed an internship in surgery at the University of Kentucky, a residency in surgery at the University of Florida, and a residency in otolaryngology at Emory University in Atlanta. He is certified by the American Board of Otolaryngology.

Dr. Charles Watson received his medical degree from the Medical College of Alabama in Birmingham. He completed an internship at St. Vincent Hospital in Birmingham, a residency in surgery at Caraway Methodist Medical Center and a residency in otolaryngology at University of Alabama Hospitals in Birmingham.

BRAD C. ROBERG, M.D.
PLASTIC SURGERY

Plastic Surgery is a medical specialty that seeks to heal and restore patients with injury, disfigurement or scarring which has resulted from accidents, disease or birth defects. The practice of plastic surgery is usually associated with urban areas and large hospitals, but now is available at Highlands Regional.

Dr. Roberg is a graduate of Rush Medical College in Chicago. He completed his internship at the University of California and his residency in plastic surgery at the University of Texas. He was an instructor in general surgery at Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago. He was also an instructor in plastic surgery at the University of Texas.

Mine Subsidence Coverage Available to Homeowners

One of the risks in building over old or active deepmine workings is that a collapse in the mine can easily cause cracks to appear in the foundations and walls of the home above. Until now, getting insurance against that risk has been virtually impossible in Kentucky. That is about to change.

Beginning November 1, any Kentuckians living in one of 46 qualifying counties—Floyd is one of them—who are able to purchase fire insurance on their homes or buildings will also be able to buy mine subsidence insurance.

On that date, the Kentucky Mine Subsidence Fund will be activated, its initial deposit coming in the form of a $3 million federal grant. The fund results from a state law enacted by the 1984 state legislature.

Before implementation of the new law, said state Insurance Commissioner Gil McCarty, only one company to his knowledge offered mine subsidence insurance on a voluntary basis. Now all licensed property companies are required to offer that protection to all residences in the qualified counties.

Rates have been set as low as possible while still permitting the new fund to become self-sustaining by 1990, McCarty said. Until then, claim payments will be made out of the federal grant. Property owners will be given the opportunity to accept or reject the new coverage in writing, McCarty said.

Coverage will be available under the plan up to a maximum of $50,000 on any building. It will not include losses due to earthquake, landslide, volcanic eruption, or collapse of storm and sewer drains. Nor will it cover the cost of contents.

Mobile and modular homes will not be covered. Moreover, an underwriter may refuse coverage on any building which has already suffered subsidence damage until necessary repairs are made.

Among other counties in the Big Sandy Area Development District, Knott and Martin fiscal courts have voted to join the program. Pike and Magoffin counties have not.

FINANCIAL PLANNING

MISTAKES ON LOAN APPLICATIONS

Most of us would like our banker to be as enthusiastic about our projects as we are. Unfortunately (and sometimes fortunately), the banker will look at your loan request from a whole different perspective. Banks are not in the business of lending "risk capital," and they're not interested in being anyone's long-term partner on what is intended to be a short-term loan.

There are several mistakes people make when submitting a loan application to banks. The first and most common mistake is not giving the banker enough information to make a decision about your loan. If this is the first time you have asked the bank for a loan, get a list of what is needed with your application.

Second, understand your own financial information. If your accountant will be of assistance in interpreting the financial information, take him or her with you to the bank. Many bank loan problems can be eliminated if there is good three-way communication between the banker, the customer, and the accountant. Each should know what's expected of the other.

The third mistake is expecting an instant response. It's usually an indication of poor planning to request your bank loan a day or two before the money is needed. It's natural for the banker to question your other judgments if you are late anticipating your cash needs.

Another common mistake is asking for too little money. The bank customer often feels if he requests a smaller amount, the bank is more likely to approve the loan. If you know exactly what the money is to be used for, you should have a good indication of how much is needed. Your loan request should indicate to the bank that you've analyzed your cash needs and are requesting the appropriate amount.

A good banker does not necessarily approve all of your loan requests. By reviewing your financial information to determine your ability to repay, the banker can assist you in having a new look at your own cash flow problems. A bank loan could aggravate an already serious business problem.

Baptist Circles Gather Items For Pineville School

A Mission Action project, sponsored by the Annie Allen and Lucy Ransdell Circles, Baptist Women, of the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial), and all members there gathered clothing and toys for the Clear Creek Baptist School near Pineville, recently. Last Saturday, the following persons went by church bus to present these donations: Mesdames Patsy Evans, Lucy Regan, Myrtle Allen, Rebecca Rasnick, Lillia Mae Price, Goldia Williams, Dolly Pettrey, Maman Leslie, and Docia Woods. Accompanying them were Mrs. Joan Conn and baby daughter, of the Lancer Baptist Church. Mrs. Patsy Evans, president, of the Annie Allen Circle, says that Mission Action projects will be continued each month of the coming year. Mrs. Lucy Regan is the chairman of the church's Mission Action program.

Thomas Jefferson, the nation's third president, was one of the most accomplished and versatile of the nation's founders. He spoke six languages, was a surveyor, scientist, lawyer, musician, politician and architect, just to name a few.

Executive Mansion Open For Inspection

Visitors to the state capital this autumn may want to plan their trip to Frankfort around a visit to the official residences of Gov. Martha Layne Collins and Lt. Gov. Steven L. Beshear. The Kentucky Historical Society provides guided tours of the executive mansions three days a week, unless the buildings are being used for an official function. There is no charge for the tours.

The Governor's Mansion, adjacent to the Capitol, is an elegant Beaux Arts residence completed in 1914. "The building was styled after the Petit Trianon, Marie Antoinette's villa near the Palace of Versailles in France," commented Carol McGurk, who directs the guide staff. "One can see in the structure the same interest in classical and European architecture that one finds in the Capitol," she continued. Visiting hours are Tuesday and Thursday, 9:00-11:00 a.m., and Wednesday, 1:30-3:30 p.m., weather permitting.

The Old Governor's Mansion, located at 420 High Street, has served as the home of Kentucky's lieutenant governor since 1955. Built in the Georgian style and completed in 1798, the mansion was home to 33 governors and their families until 1914. Visitors are welcome to tour the Old Governor's Mansion on Tuesday and Thursday, 1:30-3:30 p.m., and on Wednesday, 9-11:00 a.m.

Reservations for individuals and small groups are not required. Large groups are asked to notify the staff in advance. For more information, contact the Capitol Information Desk at (502) 564-3449.

THESE TWO GOOD HUNTERS are among the dogs available for adoption at the animal shelter. In addition, there was a full-stock white German Shepherd, and a Lhasa Apso, both of whom found homes, recently. If you need, or just want a good companion, visit the shelter, or call 886-3189.

MSU To Charter Floyd Alumni Chapter, Thu.

Morehead State University will formally charter the Floyd County Chapter of the MSU Alumni Association at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20, at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn.

The event, which is free and open to all MSU alumni in Floyd county, is part of the university's observance of National Higher Education Week.

"As National Higher Education week is designed to honor the contributions of colleges and universities to our people, perhaps one of the best ways is by recognizing our alumni and creating a vehicle for their closer involvement with their alma mater," said MSU President A.D. Albright.

Alumni Association President William Phelps of Versailles will present the new group's charter to Gary Frazier, who will serve as the first president. Frazier is principal of McDowell High School.

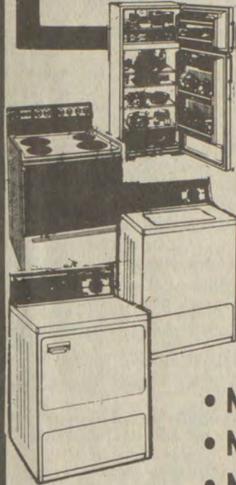

"We want to encourage all MSU alumni in Floyd county to join us for this very special occasion," said Frazier. "Our University needs and deserves our support."

City Employees Sued in Case Of Rabid Fox

Two Prestonsburg firefighters and a police officer are named as defendants in a lawsuit filed last week in Floyd Circuit Court by an East Point woman and her three-year-old daughter. The mother and child had to undergo preventive rabies treatment in August after being exposed to a gray fox infected with the disease.

In the suit filed on behalf of herself and daughter Gladys, Devona Nickles said Fire Chief Tom Blackburn, firefighter Bob Carpenter, and police officer Mike Meade were negligent in releasing to her the sick fox, which had been recovered late Sunday night, August 10, from the Indian Hills subdivision.

The city officials had earlier been warned by a veterinarian that the fox was probably rabid and should be isolated from human contact, plaintiffs alleged.

The suit, which was filed on the Nickles' behalf by Inez attorney Paul D. Deaton, asks for unspecified damages to compensate for their "physical injury and great mental pain and anguish."

Chemical analysis of soils which lead to the first soil surveys in 1912 were pioneered at the University of Kentucky. These early surveys laid the groundwork for the more detailed soil analyses universally used today.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Mae Sturgill Allen would like to take this opportunity to express to all our friends sincere gratitude for all the kindness shown to us during our time of sorrow. We deeply appreciate all the lovely flowers, food and kind expressions of sympathy shown to our family. We would like to extend a personal thanks to all the people who visited our mother during her sickness. A special thanks to the ministers of the Old Regular Baptist Church, Garrett Baptist Church and to the Hall Funeral Home for its comforting service.

Rebekahs Install
New Officers For Year

Members of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 met in regular session, Tuesday evening, October 21, with Noble Grand Mrs. Sue Moore, presiding. Several members were listed as being sick, and cards to be mailed to them were signed by those present.

Mrs. Hope Whitten, lodge deputy, served as deputy for the purpose of installing officers for the forthcoming year. She was assisted by Mesdames Sue Moore, Nancy Duff, Norma S. Stepp, and Miss Kelly Sue Moore. The following officers were installed into their respective stations: Mabel Jean LeMaster, noble grand; Teresa Maynard, vice grand; Beverly Hackworth, secretary; Pauline Crisp, treasurer; Paulena Owens, conductor; Lorena Wallen, warden; Venelia Rinehart, musician; Norma Stepp, chaplain; Emma Lou Horn, right supporter to the noble grand; Mollie Hyden, color bearer; Jewel Bays, assistant chaplain; Maman Leslie, inside guardian; Dotty Lafferty, outside guardian; Violetta Wright, right supporter to the vice grand, and Sue Moore, past noble grand.

Prior to the installation, Mrs. Sue Moore, retiring noble grand, presented each of her officers with a gift and thanked them for their support during her year. She presented a Kentucky Colony certificate to Mesdames Venelia Rinehart, Hope Whitten, and Mabel Jean LeMaster for special assistance to her during past year. The birthday greetings were extended to Mesdames Effie Hopkins, Hope Whitten and Violetta Wright. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Moore served refreshments to Teresa Maynard, Beverly Hackworth, Pauline Crisp, Venelia Rinehart, Hope Whitten, Effie Hopkins, Paulena Owens, Lorena Wallen, Mollie Hyden, Norma Stepp, Jewel Bays, Violetta Wright, Maman Leslie, Dotty Lafferty, Kelly Sue Moore, Belle Conn, Nancy Duff, Emma Lou Horn, Mabel Jean LeMaster, and Sue Moore.

The next regular meeting will be November 4, at 7 p.m.

UNDERGOES HEART SURGERY

Mrs. Irene Campbell returned to her home, October 20, after undergoing open heart surgery. Though she is not allowed visitors yet, she is improving and is with her husband, Lewis Campbell, and grandsons, David and John. Mr. Campbell is also improved from a stroke suffered some months earlier.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell's many friends may write to them at 1865 Normandy Road, Lexington, Ky.

The internationally acclaimed Sloan program of applied economics developed at the University of Kentucky is given credit for raising the living standards of numerous families in rural Kentucky.

ACT/CSS Workshop Will Be Held November 5, 6

BSF&CEA Meet Held At PCC, October 18

The Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association held their annual meeting, October 18 at Prestonsburg Community College. Welcomed by BSF & CEA President Mary Neeley, those present participated in a short business meeting. Three vacancies on the Board of Directors were filled by Susan Chafin, Cynthia Manuel, and Teresa Boswell.

The 23 families present divided into small groups to discuss and prioritize possible family-centered maternity care goals for this area. The primary concern of an overwhelming majority was the need for a practicing certified nurse-midwife in the locality. Secondary concerns included consistent access to the operating room for a support person during a cesarean birth and a thorough explanation of labor and delivery standing orders and medications by the doctor or care provider. The group also discussed the need for obstetrical staff to be more knowledgeable and more supportive of breastfeeding.

These responses will furnish a focal point for the efforts of the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association in the coming year, and will enable them to better serve the needs and concerns of the community.

If you have any questions, or would like to volunteer your time and talent, contact Jean Rosenberg at 886-3863, extension 213.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT ON ELECTION DAY

- Why has our school board purchased property to build schools in the flood areas?
- Why are we paying $717,000 for construction managers for our four new schools?
- Why, after years of investigation, are we still $403,000 in debt and rank 178 out of 180 school districts?
- A covered cement walkway was completed at Auxier—just in time for the November Board Election.
- The huge hole in front of Prestonsburg Elementary has just been filled—just in time for the November Election.
- The rest of the textbooks have just been distributed 10 weeks after the start of the school year—just in time for the November Election.
- School Board ordered District change in December 1968 Effective November 4, 1986—just in time for the November Election. Now parents cannot vote for school board member in the district where their children attend school.
- Don't be misled by the improvements and promises made at election time. We cannot wait four more years for additional improvements. Vote your conscience on November 4.

TOUGH RUN: Sheldon Clark's Eric Marcum finds little running room against the Bobcat defense.

Bobcat Slide Continues As Sheldon Clark Hands Out Loss

Head football coach Jack Hall and his Betsy Layne Bobcats must feel as if they have already played two seasons in one during the past nine weeks.

After winning six of their first seven games, Betsy Layne has suffered a tailspin of sorts, losing their last two contests.

The Bobcats opened this season with a loss to Paintsville, but turned their football program around to win their following six games. In that stretch, Betsy Layne earned a whopping victory over Virgie, defeated a strong Knott County Central power, and then proceeded to play what could have been the best Bobcat football game ever in upending Whitesburg, but since then Coach Hall's club has fallen on some tough times.

Seven days after Betsy Layne impressed their competition by upsetting the Yellow Jackets, they were surprised by a prepared Wheelwright team and this past Friday night Sheldon Clark handed the Bobcats their third loss of the season.

Talented backs such as Ralph Endicott, Eric Marcum, Larry Goble, and Jerry Bowen combined to lead a balanced Sheldon Clark attack which turned back Betsy Layne 14-8 at Mile High Field.

Endicott rushed for almost 50 yards while throwing an option pass 43 yards to Mark Evans for Sheldon Clark's first touchdown.

Endicott's scoring toss capped off a 61 yard Cardinal drive which took only five plays and two minutes and a half.

Sheldon Clark scored their second and final touchdown with 7:53 remaining in the contest when quarterback Jerry Bowen hit end Jimmy Christian with a 17-yard scoring strike.

Trailing 8-0 Betsy Layne had driven from the Cardinal 31 to the 15-yard line but on a fourth down and six, the Bobcats lost control of the snap and possession of the pigskin.

Eight Sheldon Clark plays and four minutes later, Bowen threw in the direction of Christian who took advantage of a fallen Bobcat defender with a diving catch.

Betsy Layne, in an effort to deny the Cardinals their seventh win, roared back with a touchdown drive of their own.

Claiming possession on their own 36, Bud Newsome directed an impressive Bobcat drive which included three Newsome pass completions, one to Jamie Smith and two to John Bush.

After marching to the Sheldon Clark for Betsy Layne once again called on Todd Sturgill to add the final touches on a successful drive and the shifty tailback responded with a touchdown run with 4:05 remaining in the contest.

Unfortunately for the Bobcats time and Dwayne Marcum were against them. Betsy Layne's defense stopped Sheldon Clark and turned the football over to their offense but Newsome and company had only 2:59 left.

Forced to pass Betsy Layne found the going tough against a suspecting Cardinal defense and on fourth and 12 from their 44 Betsy Layne's pass was picked off by Marcum and Sheldon Clark proceeded to run out the clock and the Bobcats' comeback attempt.

Betsy Layne will try to find their earlier season winning chemistry when they invade Pikeville this Friday to tangle with the powerful Panthers.

Already being eliminated from any possible playoff action the Bobcats will be playing only for pride but more than that could be in store for Paintsville or Wheelright if Betsy Layne can upset the Panthers.

Both Paintsville and Wheelright are 1-1 in sub-district action and with a Bobcat victory over Pikeville, either the Tigers or Trojans will end in a first place tie with the Panthers.

Betsy Layne will no doubt be ready to play and they have the talent to contend with the Panthers but Coach Hall's team won't be playing for anyone but Betsy Layne. They want to prove what some people may have forgotten, this version of Bobcat football is the best ever and as good as most teams in Eastern Kentucky.

Blackcats Record Season Offensive High But Fall At Home To Powerful Pikeville

Even though the Prestonsburg Blackcats recorded their season offensive high of 21 points they came up on the losing end to Pikeville Friday night.

After Cliff Miller broke the Prestonsburg scoring ice with a one yard touchdown run in the first half Derrick Johnson, on a 16 yard pass from Steve Hyden, and Jimmy Joe Crace, on a 89 yard kickoff return, added second half scores but unfortunately for the Blackcats, Pikeville had already rolled up 42 points before the final two quarters kicked off.

The Panthers rode a high powered passing attack, which produced three scores to their large halftime advantage and went on to defeat Prestonsburg before the home folks 58-21.

Playing without their top defensive back, Johnny Ray Harris, and with two freshman and a junior, the Blackcat secondary felt the sting of a talented offense which has given the Pikeville Panthers a first place position in their sub-district.

Coming off last week's win over district foe Paintsville, the Panthers were on an emotional high while Prestonsburg continued to struggle in a rebuilding season and Coach Chuke Williams thinks these factors played a big part in the Blackcats seventh loss of the season.

"They were on a high and we were on a low," Coach Williams said of the Pikeville encounter.

"They came out throwing the ball and hurt us early and we couldn't seem to get anything going in the first half," Williams continued.

Until the second half Prestonsburg failed to move the pigskin effectively but after falling behind by the considerable margin the Blackcats couldn't overcome a huge Pikeville lead.

With their own playoff, chances over Prestonsburg personnel opted to give their returning players an opportunity to play in an effort to get a head start on next season.

"We played a lot of young kids," Williams revealed. "We had two freshman and a junior in the defensive backfield. We used our sophomore line and our junior linebackers most of the game."

"My philosophy is to go with your seniors until the playoff chances are over then you give your younger kids a chance to gain some experience and I think we have done that."

Coach Chuke Williams and his Prestonsburg Blackcats will wrap up this 1986 football season this Friday night when Morgan County comes calling on the Blackcats.

"We have identical records and they have had some injuries and things that has prevented them from winning but it ought to be an interesting game and it ought to be a good game," Williams said.

With a victory over the Cougars, Prestonsburg could up their season record to 2-7 but that record could very easily have been more impressive says Williams.

"We have had some things happen that kept us from winning and we have lost in overtime and by three and four points so our record could very easily be 4-5 or 5-4 instead of one and seven."

Although Prestonsburg hasn't won many games they do have the talent returning to field a solid football squad even as early as next season.

Coach Williams says that with some hard work and dedication next year will bring about a different version of Blackcat football and next season for Prestonsburg has already began.

THE SPORTING TIMES

The favorite question which surrounded the Chicago Bears several weeks ago has been reborn in Boston.

Can they repeat? One question that is asked repeatedly when a new sports season begins but until the final horn sounds in the final game an answer won't be found. However, it is fun to question and speculate.

In the case of Chicago they appear as tough as they were last season, at least when Jim McMahon is healthy, but teams such as the Jets and Denver may have improved themselves to the point where the Super Bowl Champion Bears were a year ago.

If this is the case, then Chicago would have to improve their team in order to stay a yard ahead of the competition but the Bears may not have accomplished this during the off season.

The same can be said about NBA champions the Boston Celtics. As was Chicago in football, Boston was professional basketball's most dominant team but due to smart drafting and key trades other squads have lifted their talents up to what Boston was blessed with in 1985-86.

Boston, however, failed to make any deals and lost drastically when Len Bias passed away but with the Celtics vast abilities they may not need any help.

The rap on Boston is that they are getting along in years but Larry Bird and Kevin McHale are near 30 and Danny Ainge isn't exactly over the hill. Oh yea, DJ and The Chief have spent much of their energy but the same has been said about Kareem for the past several years but the old man can still get his work done.

And so can Parish and so can Bill Walton and so can the Boston Celtics, especially if they can survive the east, no easy task because Milwaukee is much improved and so is Washington.

The consensus feeling among the so called basketball experts is that Jack Sikma is Milwaukee's answer to their question of why they can't beat Boston on a regular basis. Sikma brings to the Bucks a big man who can pass, play defense and score 15 to 20 points a game.

Milwaukee has always played the Celtics tough and with the newly acquired big man the Bucks may now have enough fire power underneath to combat Boston's talented inside game.

Sikma, however, can't do it by himself but if Sidney Moncrief and company can play above par, the Bucks could in fact have a better team than Boston.

Washington will be another team shooting for the Celtics' title and in 1986-87 the Bullets have bigger and better guns than they have had in recent years.

Philadelphia made the mistake of trading Moses Malone to an eastern counterpart and the veteran center is out to make his former team pay dearly. The story around the Bullets camp was that Malone worked harder than he ever had in preparing for the upcoming season and with Manute Bol, the Bullets have two big men with the ability to wear down any opposing center.

The East has year after year put out much more powerful teams than the west and this season is no different. With Boston returning in tact and Milwaukee and Washington much improved the east could totally dominate western competition.

Now, you can talk east all you want and Boston, Milwaukee, and Washington will no doubt enter the conversation but if New York isn't involved your talks aren't complete.

New York had as much talent as anyone last season but the King missed much of the season and without his talents the Boys of the Big Apple struggled.

Now New York has another forward who will be as good as anyone in the NBA in a few years but Kenny Walker has the ability to help the Knicks this season.

With Walker and King, New York has possibly the most talented forward duo in the NBA and things look even better for New York when one looks inside. This is the domain of Patrick Ewing and with another year of professional experience Ewing may be ready to play the way he did at Georgetown.

Can the Celtics repeat? Sure they can but will they? Nobody knows but one thing we all can be sure of, it will be much tougher for Boston this time around.

The east will make for a much more interesting battle but out west things appear to be falling apart for the better teams.

Los Angeles has desperately been searching for a guard to team with Magic, enough so that they drafted three guards but neither seem to fit the bill.

Houston also needed a back court player but they wasted their first round pick on a forward, a power forward at that. 7-4 Ralph Simpson tries to play guard and likes to beat up on people a foot shorter than himself but he does a bad job at both.

The Rockets should be the best team in the west but they can't seem to get the most from their tremendous talents which could be the only excuse Dallas needs to earn a championship birth.

Dallas has always had the talent and now their youngsters, Perkins, Aguirre, and crew, could be set as the west's best team.

The Denver Nuggets is in reverse to most teams west of the Mississippi because they play good basketball without a lot of talent.

The west could be tough but it isn't. The west could compete with eastern teams but they won't. A western team could win a championship but don't count on it.

Playing injury free look for two new teams to visit the final series, Milwaukee and Dallas. I didn't want to say that because nobody will beat Boston but I'm tired of saying that the NBA lacks balance and with this in mind I will say that Sikma and the Bucks will earn a championship but I hope not because the only professional team I enjoy is Boston.

They find a way to keep on winning even though they lack natural ability, something like the Red Sox, hard work and dedication is their major assets.

Jackson's Score Proves Enough As Trojan Defense Pitches Shutout

With just over eight minutes remaining in the fourth quarter Wheelwright halfback Handy Jackson broke through the Jenkins defense for a ten-yard touchdown run to give the Trojans their only score of the night.

However, Jackson's touchdown proved to be enough as Wheelwright shut out homestanding Jenkins 6-0 Friday night.

With the victory the Trojans claim their third consecutive win while improving to 5-4 on the season, but head coach Roger Johnson says his team didn't play great football against winless Jenkins.

"We were flat," Coach Johnson admitted then added, "But when you win its alright." "It seemed like we couldn't get anything going and luckily they couldn't either."

Although Coach Johnson's Trojans may not have played up to par, Wheelwright did muster enough effort to record a shutout but Johnson wasn't exactly pleased with his defense, at least in the first half.

"I wasn't pleased with our defense, especially in the first half," the Wheelwright mentor said. "When you play good defense you take teams back for a loss and we didn't do that in the first half."

"We played great defense in the second half," Johnson praised. "Our defense was sacking the quarterback and came up with two of three interceptions."

Maybe Wheelwright didn't play their best game of the season and maybe Coach Johnson isn't ready to make a victory speech on City Hall's steps but the coach is happy to have another notch in his win column and the latest assures the Trojans of at least a .500 season.

With one game remaining Wheelwright has an opportunity to finish with one of their most successful records of this decade but a tough time could be ahead.

Come Friday night Coach Johnson's youthful Trojans will welcome the Paintsville Tigers into Brackett Field and although Paintsville hasn't had one of their better seasons Johnson knows that with the Tigers' coming also comes a tough contest.

"Paintsville isn't playing well right now but they do have the tradition and sometimes that means a lot."

With a victory over the Tigers and some help from Betsy Layne, Wheelwright could finish the season atop their sub-district, in a 2-1 tie with Pikeville, but no playoff position awaits the Trojans.

In the tie breaking system each team will be instructed to choose four non sub-district games and the record those opponents have is the deciding factor of post season play and according to Coach Johnson this favors Pikeville.

"The only winning team that we have beaten is Betsy Layne but they're in our sub-district and Pikeville beat Elkhorn City and they have won five or six games," Johnson explained. "That one game is enough to knock us out."

Although Wheelwright will apparently be playing their final game Friday night, Coach Johnson wants his team to understand that 1986 has been a successful season, doubly so if they earn a share of the sub-district title.

"I told my boys that if we do beat Paintsville and Betsy Layne beats Pikeville then we can consider ourselves co-sub-district champions and that's something they can be proud of."

SHORT SPORTS

The University of Kentucky basketball Wildcats were delivered a serious blow Saturday when the announcement came saying forward Winston Bennett would not be available for the 1986-87 basketball season.

After suffering an injury to his right knee in practice Wednesday, Bennett underwent the knife to have the knee surgically repaired which will keep the 6-7 forward out of action until next season.

Coming into the new basketball year Bennett was expected to give the Wildcats an experienced leader while improving his 13 points and seven rebounds average in 85-86 but now Kentucky will have to rely heavily on young talent.

Kentucky has been ranked in the top ten by most of the major polls but without Bennett that ranking could be jeopardy but not all is lost for Bennett and the "Cats."

The 6-7 senior forward will get another season of eligibility and with the maturity of such players as Rex Chapman and Cedrick Jenkins, Kentucky could benefit more from Bennett's talents next season than they could have this one.

Buffalo Bills quarterback Jim Kelly has announced that he will challenge the 800 dollar fine levied against the first year NFL passer by the league.

Kelly was fined by the commissioner's office after he and New York Jets' defensive lineman Marty Lyons took part in a brawl during their recent contest.

Kelly and Lyons were both charged a like amount for their part in the week five brawl but all told the NFL handed out over 15,000 dollars in fines.

The Sugar Ray Leonard, Marvin Hagler fight continues to be in its organizational form but now the final stages are in the champion's corner or so says the Leonard camp.

According to reports to Leonard's people the challenger has agreed to terms presented to them and now it is up to Hagler as to where the battle will become a reality or just a promoter's dream.

After losing their first game of the season the Morehead State University Eagles return home to Jayne Stadium this Saturday.

Morehead State, with their six wins to open the campaign, set many national and team records but the Akron Zips wasn't impressed. The Zips ended MSU's dream of an unbeaten season with a 30-7 victory over the Eagles.

With the loss MSU drops to 6-1 and 2-1 in the Ohio Valley Conference but still owns a share of the conference's top spot.

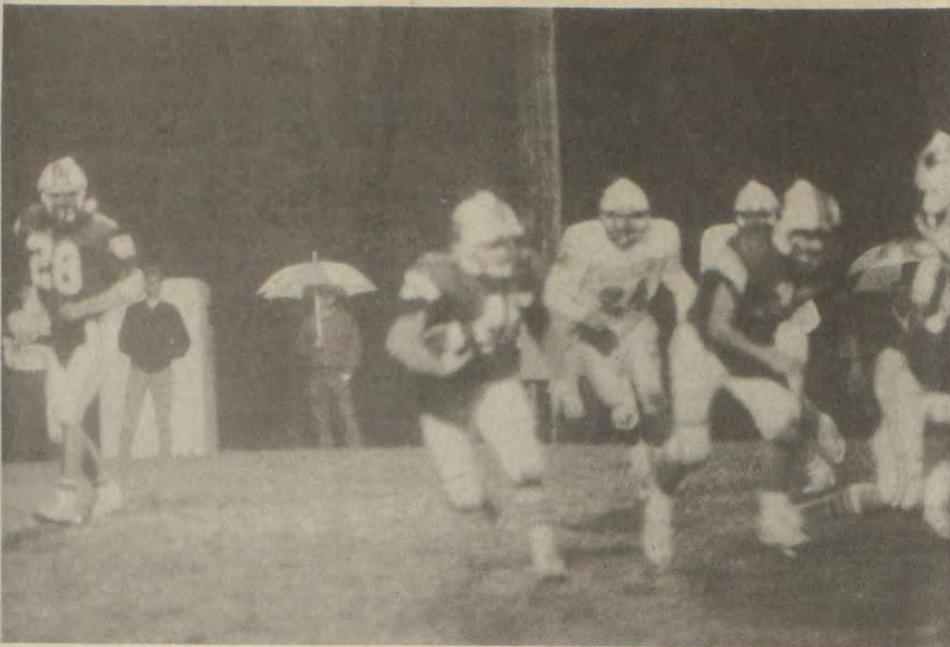

The Eagles will be out to retain their high ranking this Saturday when Murray State invades Morehead.

The Racers lead this series 33-13 with one tie including a 35-9 whipping of the

News And Notes From The NFL

This young 1986 professional football campaign has rapidly grown into a middle-aged season and with half of the games behind us and half in front of us, lets take a look at various divisional races and those other teams that are making a legitimate challenge for a playoff spot.

Many NFL teams continue to entertain definite playoff hopes but sometimes the lower half of NFL talent plays a more important role than do those atop the heap.

At least the Cincinnati Bengals would agree with this. The Bengals went into Pittsburgh Sunday confident they would retain their one game lead over Cleveland and possibly more but the Steelers proved that anybody can beat anybody else on any given day.

During the same time Pittsburgh was thumping Cincinnati the Browns came from behind to defeat Minnesota while regaining their first place tie with the Bengals.

In the season's second half, the Bengals have four winning teams on their schedule while Cleveland has only one, except when they play Cincinnati at home.

In the AFC East, the New York Jets appear to have put their total game together and it seems as if New England's best playoff chance will come as a wildcard selection.

In the west, Denver looked as if they would run away and hide with a divisional championship but Seattle and Los Angeles have proved tough.

The Broncos helped themselves greatly with Sunday's victory over Seattle but they have to go into LA this week and sooner or later that tough schedule is going to wear Denver down, probably this week.

Los Angeles is a city going for two divisional champions this season with the Raiders coming on and the Rams alone atop the NFC West but the Rams have a tough row to hoe.

This week they have to play Chicago then after a weak week LA has to take on New England but the Rams aren't by themselves as both San Francisco and Atlanta have tough encounters ahead.

Chicago probably won't be challenged now, especially after the Vikings lost a game they should have won.

The Bears have one of the easiest schedules in the NFL while Minnesota seldom experiences a week when they play a lesser team.

Back in the West, San Francisco is wishing for Chicago's competition. The 49ers, in their final six games, play teams either leading a division or currently in the second position.

The only losing team the Rams have outside their division is Miami so the 9er Ram matchup in week 16 could decide the divisional champion.

Over in the East, everybody wants a shot at the top and most of them are getting it. Dallas Washington, and New York all have an opportunity to make the playoffs but whoever plays the best football within their own division will be the final factor in deciding who goes as a champion and who goes as wildcard teams.

Three games remain between the leading three teams so divisional play becomes even more important than it usually is.

Injuries play a part as does your competition but most champions will evolve from beating teams they're supposed to. If Cincinnati had accomplished this then they would have been comfortable. San Francisco is no different, losing to Minnesota but Dallas lost to Atlanta and Atlanta lost to Philadelphia so don't feel bad 49ers.

Eagles last season. Murray State returns 15 starters, eight on offense, from last years 7-3-1 squad.

An arbitrator in the NFL-Players Association argument concerning the legality of random drug testing has decided Commissioner Pete Rozelle doesn't have the power to invoke his random testing proposal.

Two weeks after Cleveland defensive back Don Rogers died as a result of using cocaine, Rozelle brought about the drug testing proposal but Monday received word that his efforts were all for nothing.

The NFL already has mandatory testing which is conducted at the start of each season but both the Players Association and the arbitrator agreed that random testing would be an infraction of existing contracts.

Bottom of the tenth inning, two out and nobody on, Boston leads 5-3 but somehow the New York Mets found new life and forced a seventh game.

Boston jumps out to a 3-0 lead but Bruce Hurst can't hold New York down and the Mets win their first World Series since 1969.

That year they were called the Miracle Mets because of the feats they accomplished without a great deal of talent.

1986 brought much to talent to New York but this team will long be remembered after the dream they made a reality this October.

Kentucky Afield...

DON'T WAIT FOR AN ACCIDENT; MAKE HUNTING SAFELY A HABIT

Although the ratio of hunters in the field versus the number of hunting accidents is minimal, the overwhelming majority of even these few accidents probably could have been avoided by practicing fundamental, elementary safety.

During the next several weeks, the number of hunters in the woods will reach its peak as the opening of gun season for deer approaches. The seasons for rabbit, quail, grouse, waterfowl, dove, squirrel, woodcock and snipe will also either be opening or reopening shortly after the gun deer season is complete. More hunters afield will increase the possibility of hunting accidents, so hunters should review their safety habits while enjoying the sport during the height of the season.

The information in the hunting accident reports filed this year reveals some typical factors commonly found when hunting accidents occur. Hunters aware of the pitfalls and possible dangers associated with hunting will greatly reduce the chance of a preventable accident happening.

One notable item from the reports is that hunting accidents occurred with all types of shooting weapons, except muzzleloaders. However, this weapon also has shown up on past accident reports. Accidents occurred while hunting a variety of game from deer to groundhog.

This illustrates no particular type of hunting is exempt from the possibility of serious injury, and every type of weapon is exactly that, a weapon, and should be treated as such.

Another interesting item is that eight of the nine reported accidents reported happened within a fifty yard range, with only one happening at over 200 yards. This does not necessarily mean weapons are less dangerous at greater distances, but could indicate ignorance of cardinal safety habits of handling weapons or negligence in basic judgement when hunting.

Carrying loaded firearms over fences, running with a firearm in hand, pointing a gun toward the body to check whether it's loaded and swinging on game with a shotgun while unaware of the positions of other hunters caused four of the accidents this year.

Each one is a violation of simple safety, and more than likely could have been avoided. Hunting is an active process of being constantly alert of both your own actions and the actions of those hunting with or near you.

Two other accidents, one which included a fatal shooting of a man with a

Rebels Denied Win In Fourth Quarter

Playing without three big guns on offense the Allen Central Rebels failed to dent the endzone as they were shut out in their final football contest of 1986.

After playing to a scoreless tie through three quarters the Rebels saw Lynn Camp score three times in the final stanza to turn back Allen Central 15-0 Saturday.

With the loss Allen Central makes their first varsity season a winless one but Coach Donnie Daniels was pleased with his team's efforts.

"I don't think we could have played any better under the circumstances," Daniels said. "We were without four starters but I'm proud of my kids. This is the first time they played the way we're capable of playing."

Allen Central did have an opportunity to get on the scoreboard first but on third and goal from the three the Rebels were pushed back with a penalty and never recovered with a score.

Offensively Allen Central failed to move the football consistently but on the other side of the ball Daniels was impressed with his first year varsity squad.

"It was probably one of the best defensive games we've had all season," Daniels said. "We came back after the Frankfort game and played like we're capable of."

Coach Daniels said his offense moved the ball in spurts but couldn't seem to maintain a drive but Daniels may have seen more to build his program on than he had all season.

Allen Central loses only one player from a skilled position, tailback Greg Ison, but Ison was unable to play Saturday.

Parsons thus enters freshman Mickey Parsons.

The youthful tailback rushed for close to 70 yards and Daniels say that Parsons is an important prospect who had a solid junior varsity season and proved he could play on the varsity level.

Parsons is only one of several talented athletes Allen Central owns bragging rights to and Donnie Daniels thinks that next season will tell a different tale in Rebel football.

"We lose only six players so I think we will be alright next year," Daniels predicted. "With the talent coming back I think we will surprise some people."

"We've got our first year of football

Another thing which should help the Allen Central building process could be their new football field expected to be completed before the 1987 season kicks off.

With the re-districting taking effect next season, Allen Central will take part in the single A district in Eastern Kentucky but if key elements fall in place the Rebels, under the capable direction of Donnie Daniels, could make this district even tougher and more talented.

under our belts and we learned a lot of football and if the good Lord is willing we will surprise some people."

In the Lynn Camp game Allen Central traveled with a slim 25 man roster but next season Daniels hopes not to have the same problem.

"We've got a lot of players back for next year and I'm counting on about 12 players who are eighth graders this year so we should field about a 40 man squad," Daniels said.

Books For Your Fishing Library

By TREY FOERSTER

If you are serious about your fishing—and most bass sportsmen are—then your library provides you with a constant resource for learning and fine tuning your skills. As much as you think you might learn about bass fishing in Bass: A Handbook of Strategies by Bobby Murray, Al Linder, Chet Meyers, Ron Linder and Billy Murray, other generalized books may provide you with more insight on the general nature and behavior of fish—which, after all, a bass is.

I don't care if you've been fishing 50 years and won so many tournaments that your biggest worry is how to invest the interest you're making off the purses, you will have to return to the printed page for refresher courses. There isn't a pro on the circuit that knows everything, and in this column two of them share their thoughts on some essential books for avid angler's library.

"I don't think anybody can say they have a fishing library unless they have McClain's Standard Fishing Encyclopedia. I find it amazing as to how many times I refer to that book," states Ken Cook, Evinrude Pro Staff member.

"The book that I've seen lately that I think everyone ought to read is Paul Johnson's The Scientific Angler. I was pretty impressed by some of his stuff; I thought it was pretty well documented."

"The book that I find has a tremendous amount of information," Cook continues, "is a bass symposium book of the Black Bass Symposium in 1975 called Black Bass Biology and Management by Ray Clepper and it's available from the American Fishery Society. It has a tremendous amount of life history information on all the species of the black bass and the management to some degree. Of course, there's a lot of update information available now because of a more recent symposium."

"The type of information I like is scientifically-based. I think the best thing a guy can have in his library to learn about fishing and fisheries is to be a member of the American Fishery Society and subscribe to the Journal of Fisheries Management which has some real hard information in it about food habits and predator relationships that I think are important. I think it's more important to learn about the biology of the bass than it is to learn about what type of crank baits Bill Dane likes, for instance. I think knowledge about bass is more important than where to fish to catch a big one."

For Randy Fite, Johnson Pro Staff member, Buck Perry's Success to Spoon Plugging is the book to base one's library around.

"I credit Buck Perry with everything in the world," Fite states. The key to this book is interpreting what Perry says about spoon plugging and adapt it to the type of bass fishing you do.

"He used a spoon plug to find depth and locate fish by trolling those spoon plugs and, in my opinion, modern day equipment will accomplish these two feats," Fite continues. "But if you interpret his theory about bass migration and bass habits, that's where the educational part comes in. Now we can utilize his theories and at the same time utilize computer technology and equipment to help us speed up that process of learning depth, the structures, and eventually locating bass."

If you respect the bass, you have to know him. Just as in any other sport, knowledge of the opponent's strengths and weaknesses can lead you to success. Today, moreso than in the past, professional bassmen are willing to share their knowledge, and most of this is imparted through the printed word in books and magazines.

OMC Parts & Accessories has announced the introduction of the OMC Tracker 2000XR* fist locator, an updated version of the original OMC Tracker 2000*. The new unit features attractive black styling, new soft rubber controls and a larger, more sturdy mounting bracket. The OMC Tracker 2000XR uses sonar detection to locate the fish and has an adjustable keel alarm and four depth ranges. It will be available in January at most Johnson and Evinrude outboard dealers.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Editor's note: This is the final fishing report for 1986. The report will resume in mid-March of 1987.

Frankfort, Ky., October 27—Fishing activity for the October 25-26 weekend was reported moderate statewide. Both activity and angler success continues to increase as the height of the fall season should occur within the next two to four weeks. The lake-by-lake rundown, as reported by conservation officers or creel clerks at each lake:

KENTUCKY: Crappie were hitting jigs over submerged cover 8-12 feet deep; catfish were taking chicken livers along river channels about 22 feet deep; clear to murky, stable at 3-1/2 feet below summer pool and 64 degrees.

BARKLEY: Crappie were taking minnows and jigs over stump rows 5-12 feet deep; white bass were hitting spoons and spinners in the mouths of tributaries 5-15 feet deep; clear, stable at four feet below summer pool and 66 degrees.

BARREN: Crappie were hitting jig-and-minnow combinations over submerged creek channels 3-8 feet deep; black bass were hitting spinners over stump rows about the same depths; clear, falling, 29 feet below summer pool and 61 degrees.

NOLIN: Black bass were hitting buzz baits and crank baits off points and along stump rows 2-6 feet deep; crappie were taking minnows from submerged cover 5-10 feet deep; due to water level, only Briar Creek and Moutardier ramps are suitable for launching; clear to murky, falling, 29 feet below summer pool and 67 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Crappie were active on minnows over submerged cover 4-8 feet deep; black bass were taking crank baits off rocky banks 4-10 feet deep; clear, falling, six feet below summer pool and 67 degrees.

TAYLORSVILLE: Black bass were striking jigs, crank baits and plastic worms anywhere in the lake at variable depths; crappie were taking crickets and worms around stick-ups about six feet deep; murky, stable at 1-1/2 feet below summer pool and 65 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Black bass were hitting plastic worms and crank baits off rocky points and over drop-offs 15-20 feet deep; bluegill were taking crickets and worms off steep banks with submerged cover 8-10 feet deep; clear, falling, 17 feet below summer pool and 68 degrees.

GREEN RIVER: Crappie were hitting minnows over mud flats and submerged tree tops 12-15 feet deep; bluegill were taking crickets and worms off rocky banks 3-5 feet deep; muskie were hitting large spinner baits trolled over a variety of cover at different depths; murky, rising, at summer pool and 67 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Black bass were striking jig-and-rind combinations off rocky points 10-15 feet deep; white bass were hitting small jigs and spinners trolled over submerged creek channels 12-18 feet deep; clear, falling, 27 feet below summer pool and 66 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Black bass were active on spinners and topwater lures over brush piles 3-10 feet deep; crappie were hitting minnows over submerged cover 10-15 feet deep; clear, stable at three feet below summer pool and 67 degrees.

LAUREL: Trout were hitting worms and minnows in open water at night 10-30 feet deep; black bass were hitting spinners and jigs along rocky banks and coves at different depths; clear, stable at 13 feet below summer pool and 64 degrees.

CAVE RUN: Muskie were hitting crank baits along shorelines over standing timber 5-10 feet deep; black bass were taking plastic worms over submerged creek channels 10-20 feet deep; murky, falling, two feet below summer pool and 66 degrees.

PAINTSVILLE: Black bass were hitting crank baits in brushy hollows from the surface to about three feet deep; bluegill were taking wax worms off rocky banks in four feet of water; clear, stable at 3-1/2 feet below summer pool and 68 degrees.

BUCKHORN: Black bass were hitting surface lures over weed beds; muskie were hitting large to medium runners trolled 10-20 feet deep over old river channels; clear, falling, eight feet below summer pool and 67 degrees.

GRAYSON: Black bass were hitting surface lures along mud flats and off points about three feet deep; crappie were active on minnows over brush piles in about four feet of water; clear, falling, 3-1/2 feet below summer pool and 66 degrees.

DEWEY: Black bass were hitting surface lures and crank baits over grass

Wood Heat Safety Tips

*Gain some experience in operating your wood stove.

*For overnight burning, fill the fire box with large chunks of wood and reduce the draft so that the fire burns at a slow rate.

*Never burn trash in your wood stove and never over-fire it. Both can lead to chimney fires.

*When discarding ashes, use a metal bucket with a metal cover. Many fires start when ashes are put into paper bags, plastic pails, or other combustible materials. Ashes appearing to be dead may contain live coals.

*Chimney fires usually occur when a creosote buildup is ignited and a very hot fire or a piece of burning ember is carried into the flue. Call the fire department immediately and get everyone out of the house. While waiting for help, you can try to control the fire by closing all drafts and dampers. This reduces the amount of oxygen to the fire.

Gary Akers Winner Ky. Artist Award

Gary Akers, of Union, has been awarded the "Kentucky Artist Award" for his painting, "Sashe," from the Kentucky Watercolor Society. This painting of his two-year-old daughter, Ashley, was painted at the Borders Farm in Boone county.

There will be 149 paintings on exhibit at The Old State Capital in Frankfort, October 27-November 23. Art gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday-Saturday, and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday.

The normal business encountered by members of the Floyd County Board of Education involves the budgeting and expenditure of approximately $19,000,000.00 of taxpayer's money annually. This expenditure of taxpayer's money is strictly for the purpose of providing the proper environment which is conducive to the educational process of 9500 pupils enrolled in the Floyd County public school system.

The many tasks of a board member involve making decisions such as curriculum, staffing the schools with over 500 certified teachers and 200 non-certified personnel, managing a fleet of over 75 buses transporting over 7000 students daily, the implementation of job descriptions delineating responsibilities and the maintenance of a multi-million dollar complex of old and new school facilities. The management of the total school system by board members is no joking matter. I, as your present board member, have attempted to serve you in a businesslike fashion.

I, James D. "Doc" Adams, based upon my past record representing you as your school board member, feel that I am qualified to continue.

Ask Toni

Listing 'Charlie's Angels'

By Toni Reinhold

Could you tell me the real and character names of all the female stars of "Charlie's Angels"? — M.S., Eau Claire, Wis.

Kate Jackson

It reads like a who's who of beautiful women on TV. The original cast included Kate Jackson as Sabrina Duncan (1976-1979), Farrah Fawcett as Jill Munroe (1976-77) and Jaclyn Smith as Kelly Garrett (for the duration). When Fawcett left the show, Cheryl Ladd was added as Kris Munroe (1977-81); when Jackson left, Shelley Hack (of the new series "Jack and Mike") joined the cast as Tiffany Welles (1979-80). She lasted only one year, and Tanya Roberts was the last addition as Julie Rogers (1980-81).

I say Bo Derek appeared in the movie "10," but my sister says she didn't. Who's right? — D.D., Flint, Mich.

Bo made a big splash in this 1979 film, which was directed by Blake Edwards.

What are the real names of the actors who play A.J. and Rick on "Simon and Simon"? — L.A.B., Peoria, Ill.

A.J. Simon is played by Jameson Parker, and Rick Simon is portrayed by Gerald McRaney.

Is Polly Bergen from southern Illinois? What is her given name, and how old is she? — I.G., Peoria, Ill.

This actress and businesswoman was born Nellie Paulina Burgin on July 14, 1930 in Knoxville, Tenn. She's 56 years old.

Where can I get a picture of Zasu Pitts? My husband is always talking about her, and my children don't know who she is. — A.M.S., Lakehurst, N.J.

Pity the young people! But they can be exposed to great stars such as Zasu Pitts through reruns of old films. From "The Little Princess" (1917) through "The Thrill of It All" (1963), Pitts brought joy and entertainment to film fans. Try some of the movie memorabilia stores. You might also want to check out the movie books, many of which are lavishly illustrated, at your local bookstore.

ABC announces additions to its sports schedule

By Marty Linehan

Now that the United States Football League isn't around to fill the viewers' time on wintery Sunday afternoons, ABC has another idea of how to fill the viewers' time. The network will televise college basketball.

ABC will offer 10 national telecasts on eight dates, starting Sunday, Jan. 18, and concluding Sunday, March 8, 1987. The defending national champion Louisville Cardinals will be honored with two dates — the opener against Purdue, and a Feb. 22 engagement with Memphis State. All games are scheduled to start at 2 p.m.

ABC favorite Keith Jackson will be describing the action, and his expert analyst will be Dick Vitale. Jackson is most famous as a college football broadcaster, but he served a recent stint announcing the National League championship games, and he's no stranger to basketball. When ABC televised the NBA games back in the early 1970s, Jackson did the play by play, while Bill Russell handled the expertise.

Vitale is a former high school and college basketball coach (Detroit and Rutgers) who coached the professional Detroit Pistons. For six years, he added his roundball knowledge to games broadcast by the ESPN network.

Once the basketball season is over, ABC won't just go back to "the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat" show. Besides showing people diving off cliffs in Mexico or dashing through the snow in Alaska, the network has a few "more meaningful" sports planned.

For auto-racing fans, there's a new series of five "Indy Car" specials, featuring Championship Auto Racing Teams Inc. competition. Live coverage of the Phoenix "200" from the Phoenix International Raceway kicks off the specials on April 12. The next two CART specials are the Cleveland Grand Prix from Burke Lakefront Airport on July 5, and the Michigan "500" from the Michigan International Raceway on Aug. 2.

Same-day coverage of two more CART races will be televised next fall. A 200-miler will come from a new oval speedway in Nazareth, Pa., on Sept. 20, and the Miami Grand Prix will be televised from Tamiami Park in Florida on Nov. 1.

And next fall, ABC will once again cover the Ryder Cup matches from Muirfield Village Golf Club in Dublin, Ohio. The Ryder Cup is a biennial match played between a team of America's top pros and European professionals. ABC televised the matches in 1975, 1979 and 1983.

It looks like ABC is going after more than just the "Wide World of Sports."

MOONLIGHTING

Cybill Shepherd continues her adventures as private investigator and ex-model Maddie Hayes, on "Moonlighting." It airs TUESDAY, NOV. 4, on ABC.

Mrs. Sturgill resides at Middle Creek with her husband Roy, who is Captain of the Pikeville Post, Kentucky State Police, and their three children.

Seminar Slated On Funeral Laws At May Lodge

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division will conduct seminars throughout Kentucky for funeral homes directors and their office managers and bookkeepers about Kentucky's Pre-Need Funeral Laws. "These meetings are being provided as a service for funeral home directors and will ensure that they fully understand the laws so that they may comply with them," said Attorney General David Armstrong.

The topics to be addressed at each seminar include how the pre-need law affects funeral home directors, their pre-need license requirements, how to collect and remit fees and receipts, the proper preparation and purpose of the annual report, record-keeping suggestions and how to prepare for an audit by the Consumer Protection Division.

One of the seminars, is scheduled at May Lodge, Nov. 10 at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park and will begin at 4 p.m.

For more information about the seminars, contact Jerri Heltzel with the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair St., Frankfort 40601 or call (502) 564-2200.

D.A.R. MEETS

The regular monthly meeting of the John Graham Chapter, NSDAR, was held Tuesday, October 14, at 3:30 p.m., at the Floyd County Library, with the regent, Mrs. Carl Horn, presiding.

Following routine business, Mrs. Virginia Goble, KSDAR Organizing Secretary, reported on a reception honoring Mrs. Martin F. Thompson, State Regent of Kentucky, given by St. Assaph Chapter in Danville. Mrs. Goble was accompanied to the reception by her daughter, a junior member, Miss Rhondetta Goble, of Lexington.

Mrs. Margaret D. Collins, Constitution chairman, reported on Constitution Week. Mrs. Collins was DAR representative and guest of the VFW and Mayor Ann Latta at a flag-raising ceremony held recently in Prestonsburg.

NSDAR application papers of Mrs. Dorothy Osborne, joining under North Carolina private, Mark Whitaker, were accepted. Mrs. Osborne was sponsored by Mrs. Mae S. Kendrick and Mrs. Opal S. May.

Mrs. Eleanor Horn, regent, announced that October 24-25 would be the annual DAR homecoming, to be held at Duncan Tavern.

A get-well card, signed by all members and guests present, was mailed to Mrs. Edith F. James, a charter member, who has been in ill health for several months.

Members present were Miss Maurine Mayo, Mesdames Olga A. Preston, Norma S. Stepp, Eleanor Horn, Mae S. Kendrick, Opal S. May, Margaret D. Collins, Frances P. Brackett, and a guest, Mrs. Dorothy Osborne, Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Goble served as hostesses.

The next meeting will be held November 11 at 7 p.m. at the Floyd County Library, with the Mrs. Norma S. Stepp presenting the program, "With this Memorial, Our Love," honoring the late Mrs. Margaret Porter Alley and the late Miss Jane Ann Kendrick. Relatives and friends are cordially invited to attend this memorial.

D.A.V. Representative Will Be Here Saturday

The Disabled American Veterans state service officer, Eugene Akers, will be at the Prestonsburg courthouse district courtroom, November 1, from 10-2.

Veterans must bring a certified copy of their discharge, marriage certificate, and birth certificate of children. Widows also need to present a certified death certificate.

For more information contact Eugene Akers 478-9674.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Allen Damron would like to express appreciation to the many people who helped us in our time of need. Those who sent flowers, brought food, or helped in any way, we will never forget you. Our many thanks to the Old Regular Baptist ministers and a special thanks to the R.S. Jones & Son Funeral Home, of Virgie, for its kindness and help. May God bless each and every one.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Arvid Lynch wishes to express their appreciation and thanks to all who sent food and flowers during this time of sorrow. We deeply appreciate you all. Thanks to the minister, Tracy Patton, the Betsy Layne Freewill Baptist Church, the ones who prepared the grave and the Hall Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

THE FAMILY 1t.

KIWANIANNES MEET

The Prestonsburg Kiwanians held their regular luncheon-meeting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Thursday, October 23. Due to the absence of the president, Mrs. Jane Bond, Mrs. Barbara Dawson presided. She also read the secretary-treasurer's reports. Mrs. Jane Wallace, chairman of the nominating committee, announced that last year's officers would continue in their same offices for the forthcoming year. Mrs. Myrtle Allen said that she and Mrs. Lucy Regan served food on behalf of the club during the recent heart clinic held at the Floyd County Health Department. The donation recently made to the Breast Cancer Room at the Highlands Regional Medical Center was discussed.

It was decided that due to the Thanksgiving holidays, the next luncheon-meeting would be held Thursday, November 20, at noon, and that due to the Christmas holidays, the meeting that month will be Thursday, December 18.

Present for Thursday's event were Mesdames Barbara Dawson, Jane Wallace, Margaret Collins, Ada Meade, Zella Archer, Rebecca Rasnick, Mary Margaret Webb, Myrtle Allen, Dolly Pettrey, Garnett Fairchild, Thelma Wallen, and Docia Woods.

Literacy Will Be Topic Of Mrs. Beshear's Talk

Jane Beshear, chair of the Kentucky Literacy Commission, will address the Prestonsburg Area Kiwanis Club tomorrow (Thursday) at 6 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn. Mrs. Beshear, wife of Lieutenant Governor Steve Beshear, will be discussing the work of the commission and the importance of volunteers in community literacy programs.

First Birthday

Questions and Answers

James Stephen Morrison, son of James and Tammy Morrison, of Martin, celebrated his first birthday at his home with a Smurf party, August 16.

Friends and relatives who attended were Doug and Cindy Shepherd, Danny, Mary and Chris Smith, Sherri and Josh Kinzer, Jennifer Crisp, Phyllis Haywood, and Lochie, Barbara and Tressie Morrison.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Lochie Morrison, of Endicott, and Mrs. Phyllis Haywood, of Blue River, and the great-grandson of Mary H. Shepherd, of Martin.

Summer Seminar Offered At ECU

Fifteen middle-school and high-school English, reading, and history teachers and elementary school teachers will be selected next year to participate in a Kentucky Humanities Council summer seminar at Eastern Kentucky University, June 15 through July 26.

Participants will receive up to $750 for seminar expenses, University spokesmen said.

The seminar, "Great American Poets in Prose," will discuss letters, essays, and autobiographical materials of Walt Whitman, Emily Dickinson, Robert Frost, William Carlos Williams, and e.e. cummings as a fresh approach to understanding their poetry.

The seminar will be directed by professors Harry Brown and Isabelle White of the ECU Department of English.

In addition to regular seminar meetings, an historian will lecture on Civil War hospitals, an artist will discuss Cubist influence on W.C. Williams' poetry, a theatre professor will direct a readers' theatre production of Frost's "Death of the Hired Man," and two poets will discuss the relation of their prose writing to their poetry.

Interested teachers should write professors Brown or White, Wallace 217, Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Ky. 40475-0959, for more information and application materials.

Another seminar, also funded by the Kentucky Humanities Council, will be held at Centre College, June 21-July 3. Its subject will be, "Race Relations in Comparative Perspective: The United States, South Africa and Great Britain."

Hope To Start Own Business?

Thinking about starting your own business? You can turn your ideas into reality. The Small Business Development Center will be conducting a Pre-Business Orientation Seminar from 7:00-9:00 p.m., October 20, in Room F-203, Armington Science Learning Center, Pikeville College. The seminar is sponsored by the Pikeville Small Business Development Center, Morehead State University, U.S. Small Business Administration, Pike County Chamber of Commerce, and Pikeville College. If you have any questions call 432-5848.

Head Injury Group To Hold First Meet

The Kentucky Head Injury Foundation will hold its first annual conference, "Planning For The Future," Saturday, November 1, from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in downtown Lexington. Featured speaker will be Marilyn Price Spivack, founder and executive director of the National Head Injury Foundation. The agenda also includes presentations by a number of renowned neuropsychologists, psychologist, neurosurgeons, and vocational rehabilitation counselors.

This day long conference will provide information about the medical management of head injury, recent legislative advancements on the state and national levels, and how you may play a role in forming a more active Kentucky Head Injury Foundation. Registration fee includes a luncheon and several breaks. If you are interested in attending, please contact Kentucky Head Injury Foundation—(606) 281-6143 or Janette Wolak (606) 254-5701 X228.

COLD FACTS

Last year, over 20 million sports-related injuries were reported in the U.S. Most sports injuries are strains, sprains, or bruises. A good rule of thumb for treating these types of injuries is to apply ice to the injured area as soon as possible. Next, wrap the injured area with an elastic bandage. Keep the injured area elevated. Today, there is a wide variety of ice bags from which to choose. The most familiar kind is one to which ice cubes are added. Another type has a gel in it. It is placed in the freezer until it is needed. The chemical ice pack is a package with two separate chemicals in it. To use, simply puncture the inner package and the two chemicals mix together to produce a cold pack.

You will always find the staff at COOLEY APOTHECARY friendly, courteous and very knowledgeable about our vast inventory of merchandise including many first aid supplies. We are a full service pharmacy offering you everything you would expect to find in a well-inventoried drug store. You'll find us located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106 and open Mon.-Fri. 9:5-30, Sat. 9-4. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome third party payments.

HANDY HINT:
An elastic bandage is not meant to be stretched tight around an injured area. Compression should be minimal.

Fertility Gains Probed In "High Tech Babies"

There's more than one way to make a baby. Babies can be conceived in laboratory dishes, frozen indefinitely as embryos or implanted in paid surrogates.

"NOVA" explores these new reproductive techniques plus the moral, legal and political questions surrounding these options in "High Tech Babies," airing Sunday, November 9, at 9:00 p.m. on KET.

"High Tech Babies" presents three revolutionary procedures used to help infertile couples conceive. The first and perhaps most commonly known technique is "in vitro" or "test tube" fertilization. In the IVF method, the mother's eggs are surgically removed from the ovaries, fertilized with sperm in a laboratory dish and replanted into the woman's uterus.

If the woman has eggs but no uterus, the second method explored allows an egg with the couple's genetic elements to be implanted into the uterus of a surrogate with no genetic link to the embryo. The surrogate gives birth to the child who is returned to the genetic parents. The obvious question raised by this method: Who is the natural mother? The genetic mother who donated the egg or the carrier mother who gave birth to the child?

The third procedure examined in "High Tech Babies" is as controversial as the above technique because it too involves a paid surrogate. The fertilized embryo of a paid donor is transferred to the uterus of an infertile recipient who carries and gives birth to the baby.

Due to a lack of government funding, private investors are financing these techniques as well as patenting and marketing the procedures.

"The technologies have developed in an environment without any guidance, regulation or policy. Lack of government funding has resulted in a lack of oversight, leaving the field to be guided by commercial interests," said "NOVA" producer Nancy Porter.

"NOVA," the award-winning weekly science documentary series, is produced by WGBH/Boston.

Pikeville College Given Pepsi Grant

Pikeville College will receive a $1,000 gift from Pepsi-Cola Company thanks to the award-winning efforts of East Kentucky Beverage (EKB), in the area of community service.

EKB earned this grant, known as the John Reese Award, because of its contribution of time, services and financial support to the community. "We consider community involvement to be one of the most important aspects of our business" said John B. DuPuy, President. "We are a local business. Our success comes from loyal support from eastern Kentucky consumers. Community action is the best way to say thank you and tell our customers that we care."

The John Reese Awards Program was developed to recognize the public service initiatives of Pepsi-Cola bottlers around the country. Grants of $1,000 are awarded to non-profit organizations through the local bottler. Qualifying organizations included charities, the arts, civic affairs, educational programs, or assistance programs to which the local bottler has committed both volunteer time and financial resources.

The program is dedicated to the late John Reese, a Pennsylvania Pepsi-Cola bottler and industry leader, who distinguished himself as a businessman, community leader and humanitarian.

We've engineered dependability into every furnace we make.

When you buy a furnace, you want more than just hot air. You want dependability and freedom from worry. You want a furnace that's tough enough to stand up to anything old man winter can dish out.

To insure that our furnaces give you the dependability you're looking for, we engineer it into them. And, before any Heil product goes to market, we put it through one of the toughest product testing labs in the country—our own. If it doesn't measure up, it doesn't go to market.

Hazardous Waste, Fact of Life, Warrants Safe, Legal Disposal

By Attorney General DAVID L. ARMSTRONG

As we frequently read and hear more about the potential dangers of hazardous waste in the 1980s, growing numbers of Kentuckians are becoming concerned that such materials be properly disposed of without harm to the general public.

Hazardous wastes are any materials having the potential to harm the public health or the environment. These wastes can include many types of substances with different physical and chemical make-ups and with potential dangers that vary in the type and degree of severity. These wastes may be ignitable, corrosive, reactive or toxic.

Kentucky's hazardous waste management is regulated by the Division of Waste Management in the Natural Resources Cabinet, which monitors and measures the area of hazardous waste management. For example, the Cabinet reported that more than eight million tons of hazardous waste were generated in the state in 1982, and the amount is expected to continue to increase. About 90 percent of Kentucky's hazardous waste is wastewater which is treated in wastewater treatment facilities and then discharged into surface waters.

No one may operate or maintain a waste site or facility without first obtaining a state permit to do so. No permit may be issued until notice of the permit application is publicly advertised giving a description of the activity to be conducted and a description of its location. This requirement allows persons who may be adversely affected by the issuance of a permit to object and to demand to be heard by the Cabinet of Natural Resources.

It is a felony in Kentucky to intentionally produce, store, transport or dispose of hazardous waste contrary to permit or law. This is punishable by up to five years in prison or fines of up to $25,000 for each day of violation.

The generation of hazardous waste is a fact of life today in the industrial age. Nevertheless, we owe it to this and future generations to be sure that it is done safely and in accordance with the laws designed to protect us all.

Engagement Announced

Dean and Ruth Chitwood, of Ferguson, Ky., announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Beth, to Clemit Alan Damron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clemit Damron, of McDowell.

Miss Chitwood is a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University where she received a bachelor's degree of music in piano, and where she received the Dean's Award from the department of music and was the winner of the 1985 Concerto Competition. She performed in New York during the summer of 1985, and is a member of Lambda Sigma Honor Society.

Mr. Damron attended Eastern Kentucky University where he majored in computer information systems. He also attended Pikeville College and Prestonsburg Community College. He is the general manager of Wright Lumber Company at Martin.

The custom of an open wedding will be observed at 3:30 p.m., November 29 at the First Baptist Church, Somerset. A reception will be held at the church fellowship hall.

Consumer Alert...

"Airplane" Pyramid Sales Scheme An Illegal, Losing Proposition

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division alerts consumers to be wary of one of the latest pyramid schemes which has surfaced in numerous Kentucky counties. The scheme, known as People Helping People or, more commonly, "Airplane", requires participants to pay in amounts ranging from $20 up to $1,500.

The Pyramid Sales Act, effective July 15, 1986, makes it unlawful for any person to establish, promote, operate or participate in any plan in which a person gives money for the opportunity to receive money or things for recruiting others into the plan.

The structure of the Airplane scheme is fairly uniform across Kentucky. An initial crew of "Airplane" is formed consisting of a pilot, two co-pilots and four crew members. These seven people go out and recruit eight passengers. When a total of eight passengers has been recruited, the airplane is split into two new airplanes. The original pilot steps aside for the time being and the two co-pilots become the pilots of the two new airplanes. The eight newly recruited passengers are divided into two crews of four for each of the two new planes.

There are now two planes with seven people each who will go out and recruit eight passengers for each plane, and the process continues. Upon becoming a crew member, each of the eight newly recruited passengers pays his or her money to the two new pilots who turn the money over to the pilot who stepped aside. The former pilot, using a $1,500 entry fee (for example) receives a total of $12,000. In order to receive additional money, a pilot must re-enter the airplane at the passenger level, pay additional money, and move up to the top spot once again.

The obvious objective of the Airplane scheme is to move up through the levels from passenger to crew member to co-pilot and eventually to pilot, where you will hopefully receive eight times your investment (the money given by the eight passengers). In order to move up, however, people must continuously be recruited to fill the lower levels of passenger, crew member and co-pilot. For everyone to become pilots and reach the promised goal, in this example $12,000, there must be a never-ending supply of potential and willing participants who fill the lower levels and push money and people up to the pilot's position. Realistically, however, the supply of participants in any given area is limited because an area can be saturated, causing each new level to have less of a chance to recruit the necessary people. If new people cannot be recruited or those already on the "Airplane" quit, the scheme breaks down, money and people are not pushed to the top, and everyone loses what they have paid in.

"This need for constant, uninterrupted recruitment of participants with enough money to become involved is a common factor of all pyramid schemes and the reason such large numbers of consumers fall victim to such schemes," said Attorney General David L. Armstrong. "Based upon the information obtained during our preliminary investigation, it is our position that the Airplane scheme is such a plan and that it is an illegal pyramid prohibited by the Pyramid Sales Act," he said. Consumers should be aware that not only is it possible to lose what they have invested in a pyramid, but that criminal and civil prosecution is also possible. The Commonwealth's Attorney has the authority under the Act to charge participants in pyramid sales schemes with a Class C felony, which carries a penalty of five to 10 years in prison. The Attorney General also has the authority under the Act to file a civil action against participants in pyramid sales schemes.

For more information, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call the toll-free Consumer Hotline 1-800-432-9257.

Transylvania Host To Science Students

High school students from across the state are invited to Transylvania University's Science Day on November 6 at the university's campus in Lexington.

Science Day is for students, particularly juniors and seniors, interested in science careers such as medicine, dentistry, computer science, biology, chemistry, engineering, physics, and mathematics. Participants will attend presentations and will take part in laboratory experiments and demonstrations. Transylvania faculty members will be available for discussion of individual interests.

The guest speaker will be Dr. Clyde Roper, curator of the department of invertebrate zoology-mollusks at the National Museum of Natural History of the Smithsonian Institution. Roper, a 1959 Transylvania graduate, holds M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Miami Institute of Marine Sciences. His research has centered on deep sea cephalopods, particularly the giant squid.

For more information, contact the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, 606/233-8228.

Earnest Hall's confidence brought him 500 miles home for surgery...

"They were going to operate on me that night in Georgia. I said, 'No way, I'm goin' back home.'"

Earnest Hall's most memorable hunting trip began outside of Macon, Georgia. It ended after a painful 500 mile ride back to Highlands Regional Medical Center for surgery that was needed to treat a serious abscess. Why would someone in such pain travel that far to be treated at Highlands? Earnest came home because he had confidence in our surgical services. He had been here before. And he knew that the quality of surgery right here in Prestonsburg is as good as Lexington — or anywhere else. In some cases, even better.

And that means a lot to people like Earnest.

"When they said they'd have to operate on me that night in Georgia, I said, 'No way, I'm goin' back home.' I've been in plenty of hospitals, and I got the best service here I've ever gotten anywhere I've been."

Highlands now has 15 full-time surgeons on staff, covering specialties from internal to cosmetic and reconstructive surgery. And our performance has earned accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals* based on strict national standards.

Experienced, skilled surgeons are only part of the story. Highly trained medical support teams in anesthesiology, nursing, diagnostic services and post operative care, combined with state-of-the-art equipment and facilities, make Highlands one of the safest, most professional surgical centers for inpatient and outpatient surgery around.

Maybe that's why some people would rather come a long way home to Highlands for something as important as surgery. So if you're already here, why go anywhere else?

For more information on inpatient and outpatient surgery, ask your family physician, or call Highlands at 886-8511.

Volunteers Needed To Help Others File Tax Returns

If you like working with people and have some ability with arithmetic and filling out forms, you could become a VITA volunteer. VITA, the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service, uses volunteers to provide free tax assistance to people who cannot afford to pay for tax help.

VITA volunteers assist the low income, elderly, handicapped or non-English speaking individuals by explaining the special credits and deductions for which they may qualify, and by preparing their tax returns.

There is a need for additional volunteers to work in the VITA program. Many of our current volunteers are college accounting students, or members of church groups, civic clubs or business and professional organizations, or just individuals who wish to perform some community service.

Volunteers receive a special training course, in basic income tax preparation with VITA instructors and training materials provided by the IRS. Training is generally conducted in December and January and at locations convenient for volunteers and instructors. The actual taxpayer assistance is provided at neighborhood locations such as schools, churches, libraries, shopping malls, etc.

If you are interested in becoming a VITA volunteer and participating in this community work, please call the IRS VITA Coordinator for Kentucky at 582-6259 in Louisville, or toll free 1-800-424-1040 if calling from outside Louisville.

TIP Participant

Garrick Tackett has been selected to participate in the 1986 Talent Identification Program (TIP) conducted by Duke University, Durham, North Carolina.

Students were selected on the basis of standardized achievement scores which ranked them in the 97th, 98th or 99th percentiles on the Kentucky Essential Skills Test. He will take the College Boards Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) with college-bound juniors and seniors. Their scores will then be compared with seventh graders in a sixteen state area. The higher scoring students will be invited to a ceremony at Duke University in May where they will receive awards and scholarships.

He is the son of Larry and Linda Tackett, of Sturgis, and the grandson of Paul and Cathern Tackett, of Beaver, and Edith Riggs, of Uniontown.

State Grant Means Heavy-Duty Truck For Rescue Squad

Response to automobile accidents by the Floyd County Rescue Squad has been improved as the result of a state grant announced recently by Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

A $20,425 grant from the Area Development Fund was awarded to the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad for purchase of a heavy-duty truck. The truck is used in all auto accidents and carries "Jaws of Life" victim rescue equipment.

The Big Sandy Area Development District Board of Directors recommended the project for funding. The Area Development Fund is a capital projects program administered by the Department of Local Government in the Office of the Governor.

The state's 15 area development districts make recommendations to the department on the basis of state law and policy for project funding.

Here's How To Banish Bats From The Belfry

Few Kentucky homes have belfries anymore, but many do have bats where their belfries would be.

Every fall most Kentucky bats head south for the winter. The two species most commonly found cohabiting with humans—the little brown bat and the big brown bat—will be among those heading south.

"Waiting until the bats have left, and then sealing their entrance to the attic is far and away the most effective, safe and economical way of dealing with the problem. You've got from now until late March to take care of the situation. That's when the bats will be back, and they're likely to try to return to the same spot," said Craig Huegel, University of Kentucky Extension wildlife specialist.

Bats can be bothersome, although they are not generally regarded by wildlife experts as disease carriers or as a health threat to humans, even those whose homes they share. The primary objection to their presence is a result of their messy housekeeping.

"Bats roost by hanging from beams or branches, the area below where they roost can become very messy," Huegel said. "That's the logical reason for not wanting them nesting in your attic. And many people have a host of less-then-logical reasons for not wanting them in the house."

There is no reason to worry that the bats will gnaw or chew their way back into a favorite attic. Unlike rodents—rats, squirrels, chipmunks etc.—with which bats are often mistakenly associated, bats lack the teeth necessary to chew through wood and plaster.

"Once you seal an opening, with a thin layer of wood or even just some caulking material, the bats won't be able to get back in. But you must be careful to seal every opening. The little brown bat can crawl through an opening no bigger around than a dime," Huegel said.

Attempts to drive bats away with mothballs or bright lights in the attic are likely to be unsuccessful. Many bats roost in trees where they are exposed to sunlight, and as for the mothballs, "have you ever smelled a bat cave? If bats can stand that the smell of a few mothballs isn't going to bother them," Huegel said.

Sonic devices advertised as producing a shrill noise that humans can't hear but which is objectionable to animals have not been shown to have any effect on bats.

Poisoning bats is the worst option of all.

"To begin with, without a permit it's against the law. Bats are beneficial animals and conservation laws exist to protect them. Secondly, the poisons pest control operators use on bats are dangerous to humans. And thirdly, the result is that you have an attic full of dead bats. That's hardly a solution to the problem you were trying to correct," Huegel said.

The best solution to an unwanted family of bats in the attic is to allow them to leave of their own accord, and then prevent their return.

Kentuckians who suspect that they, or someone they know, have bats in their belfry may get assistance from their county Extension office.

Through Cooperative Program Students Get Jump On Careers

Some 100 engineering and computer science students at the University of Kentucky are taking the opportunity to advance their careers before graduation...

This program differs from other experiential education experiences in the depth and quality of professional exposure which it offers students...

Students spend a semester on the job during each of three "work" rotations beginning in the sophomore year.

Among the 84 corporations and government agencies hosting UK co-op students are IBM, General Electric, Martin-Marietta, AT&T and NASA.

The National Security Agency, a firm whose duties include monitoring international communications, is one of the most unusual co-op participants.

Most co-op students will graduate a year later than those who follow the standard academic path, says Hewett. But students gain a world of experience from that investment of extra time. "It's really gratifying to see how students develop confidence, maturity and skill in human relations during the program," she says.

"By alternating classroom with workplace, cooperative education gives students a link between theory and practice," says Hewett. "And these positions pay better and offer more challenging work than most summer jobs."

A minimum grade point average of 3.0 is preferred for consideration in the co-op program. The grade point average for students in the program this past year was 3.3, says Hewett.

Most work assignments are located out of Kentucky. During those semesters, co-op students maintain full-time student status by enrolling in a one credit co-op course.

"Corporate recruiters say students with cooperative education experience have higher priority for employment," she says.

"Everyone 'wins' in the co-op experience—students, companies and UK," says Hewett. "Students gain experience and greater career marketability, companies get first pick of the brightest student recruits and UK gains visibility with corporations."

The average woman worker 16 years of age in 1979-80 could expect to spend 29.3 years of her life in the labor force, this compared with 39.1 years for a 16-year-old man, according to a fact sheet on women workers published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

RABIES

COPYRIGHT 1986 KVMA

Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association If your local veterinary association or humane organization sponsors a rabies clinic this fall, think about what they may be trying to do for you!

Incidence of rabies in wildlife is twice what it was during 1985, and seems to be especially present in skunks. Two horses have died this year from rabies. It seems to be most prevalent in central, south-central, south-eastern and south-western Kentucky counties.

And contrary to what may be thought, it is not a summertime disease: it can be contracted at any time of the year.

While the incidence of rabies has not reached epidemic proportions, there is concern that the increased incidence in wildlife could develop into an increased incidence in domestic animals, and then to humans. Prevention of this is simple: vaccinate domestic animals and avoid contact with wild animals.

Rabies is a viral disease which is spread by bites. The virus is present in high concentration in the saliva of infected animals. While it can enter the body through mucous membranes or open abrasions, this is rare. It is almost always introduced into the body through bites, where it invades the nerves and then makes its way to the Central Nervous System. Once rabies symptoms appear, the disease is incurable in both humans and animals. The only certain ways to avoid the disease are vaccination and avoiding exposure to the virus.

In animals, rabies is seen in two forms—"dumb" and "furious." Most people recognize the "furious" form, the typical "mad dog" syndrome in which the animal salivates copiously and runs around attacking both people and other animals. "Dumb" rabies may be more difficult to detect. The animal's disposition will change, and most affected animals have a peculiar look in their eyes and seem confused. Often the jaw will hang open, and the animal may or may not drool saliva. It may attempt to withdraw and hide, it may growl and attempt to bite if you disturb it.

Cold weather may affect the movement of wild animals to some degree, but it does not affect the virus itself: it can be transmitted during cold weather. The only effective barrier between humans and wild animals is vaccination of pets and awareness on the part of humans.

Various vaccines are now available and generally are highly effective when properly used. There is one for dogs, another for cats, still others for farm animals and exotic animals.

Your veterinarian is qualified to prescribe and administer the proper dose of the proper vaccine for your animal. He is also kept informed of the rabies cases reported in your community, and can give you the best advice on whether to vaccinate your farm animals. Rabies prevention is one of several contributions he makes to the field of human health.

Meantime, remember that a vaccination given in the fall is not wasted—rabies simply does not go away during the winter.

Would Restore MBA Program

The Appalachian Graduate Consortium at Pikeville College is striving to restore the Masters of Business Administration program from Morehead State University. The M.B.A. has traditionally provided trained professionals for businesses, government, and non-profit institutions.

The M.B.A. program provides these opportunities for business majors as well as those with an undergraduate emphasis in education, social sciences, engineering or liberal arts. Students with a business degree can expect to complete the program with a minimum of 30 semester hours. Additional hours will be required for all non-business degree persons.

Anyone interested in advancing themselves professionally by getting the M.B.A. or persons interested in other Morehead programs should contact Charles R. Francis, Director of the Appalachian Graduate Consortium at Pikeville College at 432-9320.

This effort is being initiated by Morehead State University to provide the students in Eastern Kentucky with a program to meet area needs.

Cost-Sharing Plan Deadline, Friday

Floyd County farmers will have until October 31 to apply for cost-sharing for forestry type practices under the Agricultural Conservation Program. Through ACP, ASCS will pay producers up to 75 percent of the cost (not to exceed an amount determined by the county committee) on the planting of tree (not to include ornamentals) or the improvement of a stand of existing forest trees. A needs determination must be made prior to approval and practices must be approved before starting work to be eligible.

The ASCS Office is open in Prestonsburg on Wednesdays or in Hindman on a full-time basis. The phone numbers are 886-3128 or 785-5402. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Kentucky Division of Forestry at 886-8562.

For Halloween, Highlands Has Safety Aids, Advice

Highlands Regional Medical Center will be x-raying trick-or-treat candy again this year. The free x-ray of trick-or-treat bags will be offered from 6:00 p.m. to 9:00 on Trick-or-Treat Night, which is October 30 in most towns.

In addition to x-raying treats, Highlands is offering free, reflective dots, which will stick onto children's costumes. These reflective dots make children more visible to oncoming cars.

HRMC Public Information Officer, Carol Blevins, offers these suggestions to parents for a happy, safe Halloween.

The best time for trick-or-treating is before dark, especially for very young children. Children should always be accompanied by an adult.

Children should only call on people they know and trust. Skip houses with no outside lights and never go into the home of someone they don't know.

Each child should wear a bright colored costume and carry a flashlight. No candles, please! Reflective tape or dots are a good idea for costume decoration, because it will help children be more visible to drivers.

Alert your children to watch for tricks in their treats. Before they go out make sure they know not to eat anything until they get home and you have checked it out.

Check treats carefully. Bring them to Highlands Regional Medical Center to be x-rayed to reveal metal objects like pins or needles. Check wrappers for small holes to be sure that nothing has been injected through them. Throw away anything that is unwrapped or has been re-wrapped.

Following these tips can help insure a happy and safe Halloween for parents and children. If you would like more information on the free reflective dots or the Trick-or-Treat X-ray, please contact Carol Blevins at Highlands Regional Medical Center, 886-8511 or 789-6548.

"Continent" Examines N. American Geography

"The Making of a Continent" explores how natural disasters have formed our country's most beautiful regions and how they eventually may destroy them when it airs Tuesdays at 9:00 p.m., beginning November 18, on KET.

This fascinating and informative six part series, which focuses on the shifting movements of the North American continent, is based on Rod Rodfern's book by the same title. Marty Robinson narrates the series.

"Collision Course," the premiere episode, looks at the history of soil accumulation around the central core, also known as the "Canadian Shield." A visit to the heartland of America examines the geology of Middle America and how it was formed on November 25 in "The Rich, High Desert."

The "legend of Atlantis" is again told as we watch New Orleans sink slowly in to the Mississippi River during "The Great River." The history of our planet's development is documented in the episode "The Corridors of Time." Our geological destiny also is being decided through the country's technological progress.

Will our continent destroy us? This unanswered question surrounds the continual, violent earthquakes and volcanic eruptions that occur, even today. "The Land of Sleeping Mountains" addresses this issue.

The expression, "Nothing in life is free" rings true in the final episode featuring California. In "The Price of Gold" thousands of Americans immigrated to California in hopes of "striking it rich" but the price is still being paid through earthquakes and precious land lost to the sea.

"The Making of a Continent" is a production of WTTW/Chicago and the British Broadcasting Corp.

Urges Passage of Amendment...

Education Needs Professional Leadership, Appointed Supt.

By WADE MOUNTZ, Chairman
Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence

Kentuckians are often astonished when they hear there are no qualifications for the Kentucky State Superintendent of Public Instruction. I was, too, before the Prichard Committee started looking into Kentucky's educational establishment seven years ago. Certainly it helps us understand one reason why the collective quality of our educational system in Kentucky leaves so much to be desired.

This is the state official who is supposed to provide even-handed leadership to an enterprise which spends over $2-billion each year and employs over 68,000 people across Kentucky. (That's more employees than General Electric, Ford, Ashland Oil, IBM and the planned Toyota plant put together.) For this massive and complex job our 1891 Kentucky Constitution doesn't even require that we hire an educator—it only says that the office-holder be 30 years of age, have lived in Kentucky for two years, and have never fought a duel. Are these appropriate qualifications to lead a $2-billion enterprise? We say certainly not!

The next step for improved Kentucky schools is the passage of Amendment #1 by Kentucky voters on Election Day, November 4, 1986.

Amendment #1 provides that the State Board of Education hire a State Superintendent of Public Instruction who is qualified by professional skills, credentials and experience—not his/her ability to raise campaign funds and get elected. The Amendment provides that Governors will appoint (which they do now) a geographically balanced 13-member State Board of Education with the Kentucky Senate's confirmation (which is not now required). Board members will serve six-year terms so no future Governor care ever control the entire Board.

That Board will search for and hire the State Superintendent with a process similar to those used for other jobs—in fact, the way most of us are employed—on our qualifications. (Electing a politician to this demanding professional job instead of hiring an experienced professional is simply not in the best interest of Kentucky's children, teachers, and other school employees. It hasn't improved our schools enough in the past and won't work in the future as Kentucky tries to compete with other states for new jobs.)

As Kentucky moves from a smoke-stack and agricultural state to a service and information society, nothing is more important than the education of our citizens. No single thing is more important to industrial development than the education of our youngsters as they prepare to face the 21st century.

Let's look at the statistics. Kentucky still leads the nation in adults who haven't finished high school, and we still lead in illiteracy. Kentucky is very near the bottom of states in college attendance and college graduates. These facts and many other distressing figures about Kentucky education are the responsibility of our state school leadership. To attack these problems and to be more competitive, we need the best leadership possible.

If Kentucky hires the best leadership available, our students will get:

- Qualified professional leadership
- Continued education improvement
- Public accountability based on results, not vote-getting
- More time for the superintendent to plan and carry out policies (rather than "What can I get elected to at the end of this four-year term?")
- Reduced partisan political influence by vested interests
- Fair and even-handed enforcement of state regulations for local school districts
- Department of Education staff hired on merit rather than political payoff
- Lower Department of Education staff turnover
- Improved image for Kentucky education

When our universities and colleges hire basketball coaches, they search the country for competent, experienced coaches that can bring us winning seasons and lead to national championships. Don't our children and youth deserve the same for their academic programs?

When our businesses, banks, manufacturing or assembly plants, stores, universities, schools or other places where Kentuckians work need leadership, president, managers, principals, and so forth, they try to hire the best talent they can find.

Our state school system deserves no less. Please join us in voting for Amendment #1 on Tuesday, November 4, 1986.

★ Cancer Hopeline

QUESTION: I recently found out that my neighbor's little boy has cancer. The family is being drained financially from the cost of his treatments. A group of us thought it would be nice for him and his parents to get away from everything for awhile while he is still feeling well, but even the cost of a short trip would be too much. We were wondering if there are any organizations which help fulfill the wishes of children who are seriously ill, and if so, how would we go about contacting them?

ANSWER: There are many organizations which grant "wishes" to chronically, seriously or terminally ill children. These organizations do not provide financial aid for family household needs, but they do provide experiences to the child and their family which the family is not able to afford. Some organizations have granted wishes including having the child meet with professional sport figures and television celebrities; going on vacations to Disneyland and Disney World, national parks and resorts; and spending a day with a firefighter or policeman.

Each one of the organizations has its own rules for eligibility. If you are interested in finding out how to contact individual organizations in your area; you can call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER for more information. Or write to the Cancer Information Service, McDowell Cancer Network, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536. The Cancer Information Service is a program of the Kentucky Community Cancer Program.

Miss Terry-Mr. Martin Wed

The marriage of Miss Paula Rancee Terry to Mr. John C. Martin was solemnized July 19 at 4 p.m. at the Maytown First Baptist Church at Langley by the Rev. George Kestel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Terry, of Langley, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Charlene Johnson, of Langley, and the late Donald R. Martin.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length white satin gown adorned with pearls and chantilly lace. She carried a cascade of pink and white roses.

The matron of honor was Pamela Hayes, twin sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Sonya Compton, Elizabeth Taylor and Margaret Click, cousins of the bride. All wore matching pink tea-length dresses and carried pink roses with silver streamers.

The best man was Ray Martin, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Ritchie Terry, brother of the bride, Christopher Blevins, and Kevin Blevins, cousins of the bride.

Flowergirl was Velinda Turner and ringbearer was Jeremy Hayes. Music was provided by Jeanie Hicks, of Langley, and Miss Tammy Reffett presided at the guest register.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the chapel dining hall where a buffet supper was served.

The couple now reside in Hagerstown, Maryland, where Mr. Martin is employed with Pine Glen Construction Company and Mrs. Martin is employed with Jeter Paving Company.

Buckhorn Lake Park Offers Special Rate

A winter retreat has just been made more appealing with special rates being offered by Buckhorn Lake State Resort Park in eastern Kentucky, near Hazard, Tourism Secretary Wendell Combs has announced.

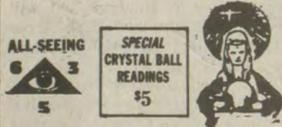

Visitors to this park from Nov. 1 through Dec. 21 and from March 1 through April 15, 1987 will enjoy two special rates packages. Any Sunday through Thursday, two can stay in the lodge for the price of one. Also, a weekend for two, which includes two nights' lodging and six meals, has been priced at only $90. Checkout time is 2 p.m. Sunday.

No other offer or discount can be honored with these special packages. To make reservations, call Buckhorn toll free, 1-800-633-9945 (in state) or 1-800-325-0058 (out of state).

Buckhorn Lake is situated on the northern edge of the Redbird Purchase unit of the Daniel Boone National Forest. Along with scenic countryside and a beautiful mountain lake, Buckhorn offers fishing, a game room, gift shop, hiking trails, dining, shuffleboard and tennis for wintertime recreation.

"Sesame Street" In 18th Season

"Sesame Street" begins its 18th season with a party to celebrate baby Miles' adoption one year ago on Monday, November 17, at 4:00 p.m. (ET), 3:00 p.m. (CT), on KET.

The premiere show of this season begins with a quick look back in newsreel style at Miles' eating, playing, sleeping and dancing in his first year on "Sesame Street."

There's a big cake with one candle on top and everyone in the neighborhood has prepared something to entertain Miles at this special party. Susan and the Extremes (Susan with Gordon, Bob, Luis and Linda as a backup group) sing "I'm so proud"; Oscar the Grouch's pet worm, Slimey, dives off a diving board into a trash can of mud; Telly plays "the Happy Farmer" on his tuba; and Snuffleupagus, dressed in a Susan wig, overcomes a bout of shyness to perform in a play.

Some new Muppets have joined the Sesame Street family this year. Flo Bear is one new resident of the street. She writes the continuing television soap opera "All My Letters." Between watching episodes of her show, Flo Bear talks about the importance of good writing skills and what it is to be a writer.

Also look to see jazz-playing Hoots the Owl, opera-singing Placido Flamingo, tiny Baby Natasha, playful cats Chip and Dip, and that inquisitive red monster Elmo who forever is asking "Why, why, why?"

Guest celebrities to appear on "Sesame Street" this season include: recording artists The Four Tops, actor/Comedian John Candy, singer Whitney Houston and actress/singer Bernadette Peters.

"Sesame Street" is a Children's Television Workshop (CTW) production.

Police Urge Halloween Safety

Halloween is an exciting holiday for children, but the Kentucky State Police also remind parents that caution and an understanding of some basic rules can prevent Halloween from turning into a nightmare.

Since the time will change back to Eastern Standard Time on Oct. 26 (clocks will be set back one hour), it will be darker at an earlier time. Most cities will set hours for Halloween trick-or-treating, however, children and parents should be aware of safety precautions since most Halloween activities will be during hours of darkness.

Parents and children should follow these rules for a safe Halloween:

*A parent or guardian should accompany children trick-or-treating.

*Children should go only to the homes of friends or relatives—and only if the lights are on.

*Stay on the porch or front step. Never go inside a house without the permission of parents.

*If possible, children should wear face paint or makeup, instead of a mask. Children can see more clearly this way.

*If children wear a mask, make sure there are big holes for the eyes for good side vision.

*Masks should be removed when a child crosses the street or is walking on a dark sidewalk.

*Children should use a flashlight when walking at night. Never carry a torch or candle.

*Dress children in reflective clothing or place some reflective tape on clothing that is dark in color.

Wee Miss Harvest Moon

Cari Leigh Moore, three-year-old daughter of Betty Moore, of Hindman, and Marvin C. Moore, of Garrett, was crowned Wee Miss Harvest Moon, Oct. 10, at the Mountain Christian Academy. She also won the sportswear competition, and on Oct. 11, Cari won sportswear competition in Little Miss America held at Hazard.

How Tax Reform Will Affect Your Finances

A three-hour seminar will be presented at Prestonsburg Community College on Wednesday, November 5 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. by Homer Forster of Forster and Associates of Huntington, West Virginia. The seminar will be for those who are interested in knowing how to make their financial plans for the future.

The new Federal Tax Reform Bill is making significant changes in the way that each of us must conduct our personal financial affairs. This brief seminar will give you clues on what your attitude should be toward tax shelters, investments, banking, securities and annuities, insurance and retirement. Learn from a well-known financial counselor what investment and savings options are at your disposal.

Store Opens Here

A clown, played by Judy Lawson, announced the opening on Court Street recently of Dove House, Inc., sellers of religious goods. The firm was formerly located on South Lake Drive. Grand prize winners announced at the store opening were: Glen Dusina, Adria Deyarmond, Dolly Cox, Winston Lowe, Annie Hall, Jason Saylor, Bill Griffith, Taylor Bailey, Norma Lee Conley, Lynn Garrett, and Sherrie Miller.

Clark Students Join Model Assembly Meet

On October 30, over 600 students in grades 6-9—including 13 from Clark Elementary School—will be on hand as the opening gavel sounds at the Ramada Inn on Hurstbourne Lane in Louisville and the Capitol in Frankfort to participate in the 27th Junior Kentucky Youth Assembly. For three days, delegates from all parts of the Commonwealth will debate self-authored pieces of legislation on the actual House and Senate floors, run for elected office, argue court cases, and represent their schools in various government-related capacities.

After initial check-in and registration at 2:00 p.m. on Thursday, students begin debating legislation in committees, campaigning for office, and serving in the roles of lobbyists, press, and cabinet members.

On October 31, delegates arrive at the Capitol at 8:45 a.m. EST to debate bills favored by committees in House and Senate sessions. The Model Supreme Court in the Capitol Annex and Capitol will begin at the same time. Model Supreme Court is being offered to junior high students for the first time this year after being a successful part of the senior high assembly since 1980.

Following Frankfort's activities, students return to the Ramada Inn in Louisville where the Governor's Banquet will be held at 6:00 p.m. The banquet will take place in Belle Hall of the Ramada Convention Center.

The conference concludes Saturday morning, November 1, with the announcement of next year's conference officers, and the presentation of the William G. Kenton Memorial Leadership Award.

Presiding over this year's conference are: Governor Keeta Martin of Morton Junior High School in Lexington; Lieutenant Governor James Crumlin of Stuart Middle School in Louisville; Speaker of the House Missy Brownson of Owensboro Junior High School; and Amy Walker of McNabb Middle School in Mt. Sterling.

Don't start Halloween early, Aries!

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 21) If you have been suffering from a loss of energy, try consulting a nutritionist. Get out and work for your club or political candidate now. Your big chance could come this week so don't start "trick or treating" too early. An innocuous invitation may turn into the most exciting event of your life.

TAURUS (Apr 22-May 21) You will be looking around for something to improve your love life. If you know what's good for you, you'll look around home. Don't get greedy when someone brings you a get-rich-quick-scheme and lose your common sense. Attend a Halloween party this weekend, a new relationship could get started.

GEMINI (May 23-Jun 21) Don't do anything underhanded this week you'll get caught. Fights with the loved one are inevitable and you will probably be the blame. Perfect your romantic techniques if you want to stay "healthy." Have you ever thought about concentrating on your career instead of fun 'n games on a weekend?

CANCER (Jun 22-Jul 20) You will be dissatisfied with your career goals this week but you won't know why. A romance can be revived from old ashes if you'll work on it. Your creative talents can wind up your work-week on a high plane. It should put you in a good mood and get your "trick or treating" off to a good start.

LEO (Jul 21-Aug 20) Don't play leader this week, everyone else is too aggressive. A Halloween party could turn into an extremely exciting event. You will be "raising the devil" with the children - remember when you were young? You'll accomplish more stimulating their individuality rather than trying to make them fit a mold.

VIRGO (Aug 21-Sep 22) This is not a good time for dealing with inheritance or partnership funds. You are not only your usual hard-working self, you are extremely creative to boot. The chance for a true understanding of your love life is coming soon - are you ready? Plan a special Halloween party for the children.

LIBRA (Sep 23-Oct 23) If you're in school you are probably having great difficulty even though your mental abilities are increasing daily and there's no end in sight. A major change in the priorities of your life is coming soon. Romance is in the air for Halloween, if you can afford it.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 23) You could be sitting on top of the world if you use a tiny part of your ability. Whatever you try will be successful so make your choice. Expect an expensive weekend if you are not most discriminating. You're going to be looking for things you don't need and can't afford.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24-Dec 21) You should be very hard working now but it will end soon. A Halloween love affair won't last long enough to get any "treat." And if anyone finds out, you'll have to wear a mask permanently. Be certain to attend religious services with the family this weekend.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 17) A good week to sit down and take a look to see if what you're doing is worth while. Get in touch with old neighbors or relatives, one has a great idea. Some event this weekend could change your priorities and make them more human. You will be unusually socially minded and could be a regular bon vivant.

AQUARIUS (Jan 18-Feb 16) Your football team could pull a stunning upset this week - or vice-versa. Get into the Halloween spirit and throw a party. Your mental processes are going to mature and you'll be able to get down to business. You will meet someone over the weekend who will play a major role in your life.

PISCES (Feb 17-Mar 20) You are rather insecure now and others will walk all over you if you don't watch it. This is an excellent time to renew your love life. (That is unless it's one that has to remain masked.) Also a good time to get your philosophy straightened out and begin living it.

PTA Suggests Ways To Prepare For Parent-Teacher Conference

The school-year is underway and many parents are already wondering how their children are doing in the classroom. The National PTA suggests that parents stop wondering and ask the teacher.

"Parents and teachers must work together as a team to solve problems and to develop strategies to help children in school," says National PTA president Ann Kahn. "One of the best ways to accomplish this is at an effective parent-teacher meeting," she added.

According to educators Lisbeth Brown and Mary Renck Jalongo, parent-teacher conferences are rated by parents as one of the most effective ways to communicate. Writing in the October issue of PTA Today, the National PTA's magazine, the authors offer ideas for how parents and teachers can have a successful parent-teacher conference.

Even though teachers have the major responsibility for planning and conducting a parent-teacher conference, parents' preparation and attitude toward the meeting can help to add to its success. Brown and Jalongo's article in PTA Today suggests the following ways parents can have a productive conference.

*Ask your child questions to determine what he or she likes or dislikes about school this year.

*Prepare a list of questions or concerns, such as "What special talents does my child have?" "What does my child need help with the most?" or "How does my child get along with others?"

*Listen to what the teacher has to say. If the teacher uses unfamiliar terms, ask questions. If you don't understand what the teacher has said repeat it in your own words.

*Use a team approach. If you feel your child's skills, abilities or personal characteristics are being criticized, ask for specific suggestions on how to correct any behavior problems or improve academic progress.

While some parents eagerly await conferences, others may be reluctant to attend. Therefore the authors suggest that teachers find ways to encourage attendance by:

*Using a direct personal contact with the parent such as written notes or telephone conversations to praise the child's academic achievement, special talents, behavior etc.

*Inviting parents to visit the school to have lunch with the children, attend a play or to review an art display, prior to conferences.

*Arranging the seating so the teacher and the parent are face to face on the same side of a table. This creates an open, warm atmosphere and a feeling of cooperative decision making.

The October issue entitled "Celebrating Our Public Schools" features comments by education authority Ernest Boyer, ways to use TV to improve children's reading skills, how to celebrate American Education Week, and a profile of the 1986 National PTA Outstanding Educator of the Year.

Copies of the October issue of PTA Today are available for $1.00 each by sending a check or money order made payable to the National PTA, 700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Subscriptions to the magazine (seven issues a year) are $7.00.

Stretch your energy dollars with electric thermal storage.

The dollars you spend on heating your home stretch the farthest with Electric Thermal Storage (ETS).

The ETS system uses lower "off-peak" electric rates that save you money.

ETS works like a thermostat. It stores heat at night when electric rates are at their lowest. Then it uses this stored heat to keep your home warm.

Find out more about your latest choice in home heating — ETS.

Better Timber Management Sought For Ky. Mountains

As the demand for timber and wood products increases even while traditional forest lands diminish, more thought will need to be given to good management techniques for inaccessible mountain timber.

In fact, Kentucky mountains have been harvested for years, but until recently, little sampling of the mountain soils has been done. Now, a team of researchers from the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture has completed an extensive sampling of 116 sites on Black Mountain in southeastern Kentucky to study the differences in soil formations.

Results of the research by Robert Blevins, S.J. Blanford and J.D. Childress will be presented at the annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomists in New Orleans in November.

After the research is published along with a soil classification survey map, Blevins believes the information will be significantly useful to lumber companies, the forest service and private landowners in making land management decisions.

"It will allow us to select which soils and which tree varieties are best suited for each other," Blevins said. "For example, the cooler slopes on the north and northeast are better for tree production—especially yellow poplar and mixed oaks."

Trees grow faster on these slopes because of cooler climate and because more water is available. Blevins said the southern exposure gets more solar radiation which dries out the soil more.

What this means in practical terms is that for a given number of dollars to spend on land management, the research clearly shows the money would be better spent by concentrating on developing the north and northeast slopes.

In Kentucky, replanting harvested mountain forests is not required, Blevins said. The trees grow back from seedlings naturally. The point of land management is to get rid of the undesirable trees to encourage more rapid production of commercial varieties.

Can AIDS Be Stopped?

AIDS cases in the United States have doubled every year since 1981, bringing the total known cases to 35,000. Only 300 AIDS cases existed five years ago. Half of those who have contracted AIDS have died, and researchers estimate that another 1 million Americans have the disease, but have not yet shown any symptoms.

These alarming statistics of one of the most lethal and perplexing epidemics ever to challenge modern medicine will be explored in "Can AIDS Be Stopped?" on "NOVA," Sunday, November 16, 9:00 p.m. on KET.

The strange and deadly virus works by attacking a key group of cells instrumental in mounting the body's immune response. A successful attack on AIDS likely would involve altering a critical component in the AIDS virus, or in the cells it attacks, to interrupt the virus' life cycle, according to AIDS researchers.

"Can AIDS Be Stopped?" tracks three strategies in the war on AIDS. It looks at possibilities for drug treatment, investigates the race to find a vaccine and explores the possibilities for preventing AIDS by changing behavior.

"NOVA" travels to the National Cancer Institute near Washington, D.C. where scientists are screening hundreds of drugs in an attempt to find substances that will kill the AIDS virus, inhibit its growth or boost the body's defenses against it.

Two full width steel belts resist impacts and provide stability. Radial body plies provide a more comfortable ride under off-road abuse. Nylon belt stabilizers help prevent belt squirm. Heavy lug cleats are self cleaning for maximum traction in sloppy weather. Wide cross section for soft terrain handling. Raised outline white letters.

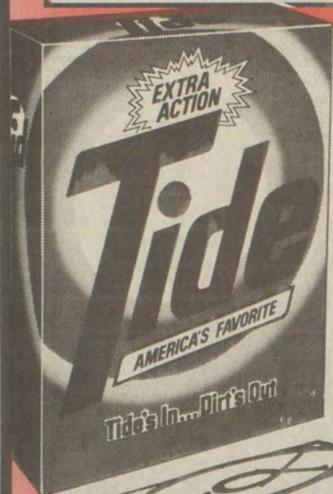

Poverty in families headed by women is a source of increasing public concern. In 1984, the number of these families with incomes below poverty level exceeded the number of married-couple families in poverty, according to a fact sheet on working women published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.
